SEVENTEEN INJURED

A Train Derailed While Going Around a Curve.

TRYING TO MAKE UP LOST TIME.

Two Cars Overturned and Dragged Some Distance by the Engine.

There Were Ninety Passengers on the Train—When the Cars Swayed They Made a Rush for the Door—Men, Women and Children Thrown Into a Ditch—Only One Fatally Injured.

BELLAIRE, O., Aug. 1.—At about noon passenger train No. 4 on the Bellaire, Zanesville & Cincinnati Narrow Guage Railroad jumped the track near this place. Two well-filled coaches were thrown on their side and dragged some distance before they could be stopped.

There were ninety passengers on the train, and the two coaches that were overturned were crowded with many well known people of this neighborhood.

The train was running at a rapid rate of speed in an effort to make up lost time, and as it reached a curve the cars were noticed to jar violently. Somebody shouted to the passengers to keep their seats, but instead the frightened passengers at once became panic stricken, many of them reached the platform when the cars jumped the rails and then they turned over. The people were thrown into the ditch in an indiscriminate mass of men, women and children.

The shock was something frightful. Assistance was soon at hand, and when all were taken out it was found that 17 persons had been badly injured, at least five of them seriously, and one has since died. The most seriously injured are:

John Morris, baggage-master, hurt internally; badly bruised about the head; will die.

Charles McElroy, leg broken and otherwise injured.

Wm. McElroy, head hurt and back badly sprained.

John Irwin of Bethel, O., head and arms crushed.

G. P. Wilcox of York, Pa., head badly injured.

Physicians were summoned from Wheeling and Bellaire and attended to the injured.

POLITICAL SURPRISES.

Appraiser Cooper Talks About a Reported Appointment.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The resignation of Collector Erhardt seems likely to be followed by a series of political surprises. Close upon the heels of Erhardt's resignation comes the report that Special Treasury Agent Wilbur is likely to be appointed Assistant Appraiser for the Port of New York.

Appraiser Cooper said to-day: "I have not been officially notified of the appointment of Mr. Wilbur, and have certainly not been consulted on the matter. While I was in Washington, however, I heard the matter seriously talked of, and would not be surprised if the appointment was made. If such a step should be taken I should regard it as a personal menace to myself. To appoint a man for my assistant who has waged a personal fight with me for the past eighteen months could be regarded in no other light, and would, if the threat was carried out, be equivalent to demanding my resignation, which I have failed thus far to place in the hands of the President.

"As to the motive which would lead to Mr. Wilbur's appointment, I can safely say that it is not at the request of either business men or politicians, but rather emanates from a body of gentlemen who are now filling positions and deciding upon questions of which they have, to say the least, no practical knowledge. As to the motive which impels the President to consider the recommendation of the Board of General Appraisers, who would like, doubtless, to have one of their friends in my department, I can say that it is not unusual for a person with aspirations for the position of Chief Magistrate of this country, in the effort to strengthen his cause, to commit the very act which will be fatal to his hopes.

"John Sherman once interfered in politics in the State of New York by removing the Collector and Surveyor. By so doing he lost the Presidency. History has a habit of repeating itself."

Would Not Accept the Position.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—A dispatch from Milwaukee says that Henry C. Payne, who has been chosen by the newspapers as treasurer of the National Republican Committee, said that under no circumstances would he accept the position, although he was not sure it would be tendered him. Mr. Payne is in favor of Chicago as the place for the next National Convention.

Another Man Wants to Fight Dixon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A dispatch from Norfolk, Va., says that Mike Haley will back Tommy Warren with $1,000 to fight George Dixon, the champion bantam weight of the world, before any club that would offer the largest purse. The money will be ready when Dixon or Tom O'Rourke signifies a willingness to accept.

New Field for Pugilists.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—It has just been discovered that there is no provision in the Iowa statutes punishing even the principals in a prize fight if no disturbance or riot occurs; also that the severest penalty which can be inflicted is a fine of $100 for fighting, and even this can only be assessed if the men are fighting in an angry manner.

Coaching in the Black Forest.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 1.—Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison have been enjoying a coaching tour of the Black Forest as the guests of Mrs. Joseph McCandless, of Philadelphia. The party included Mr. and Mrs. McCandless and Mr. E. H. Terrell, the American Minister at Brussels.

GRAY REJECTS PARNELL.

The Dublin Freeman's Journal Will Oppose His Leadership.

DUBLIN, Aug. 1.—Parnell's followers are discouraged over the present outlook. Mr. E. Dwyer Gray publishes a letter in the Freeman's Journal saying that in view of the revelations of the Campbell lawsuit and the course taken by Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, he will henceforth reject the leadership of Mr. Parnell.

The Freeman's Journal has been one of the most stalwart members of the Parnellite press.

Mr. E. Dwyer Gray, became, on the death of his father, the late editor of the Freeman's Journal, possessor of the latter's interest in that paper, consisting of one-half of the stock of the concern.

Mr. John Dillon will, it is stated, take active leadership at once, even though his formal announcement as leader may be deferred for some time. He will be a formidable antagonist for Parnell, as he is strong with the extremists, who form the bulk of Parnell's followers.

As for Parnell, his steadfast friends say that he is as far from yielding as ever, and that he will deliver one of his most earnest speeches at Thurles to-morrow.

Will Not Prepare the Resolutions.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—The Republican State Committee have received letters of resignation from Hon. Joseph H. Walker, Gen. William Cogswell and Hon. F. W. Rockwell, the three gentlemen designated to prepare the resolutions to be presented at the State convention. As nearly as can be learned, the three named gentlemen have written letters which raise a question as to whether or not present or recent occupancy of office made it proper that they should be less conspicuous in the convention.

Vice-President Morton's Party.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 1.—Vice-President Morton arrived here last evening as the guest of Le Grand B. Cannon. Accompanying him were Dr. and Mrs. Webb, Miss Sherman, daughter of General Sherman, and Dr. McLean, of New York. At Colonel Cannon's house the party was joined by ex-Minister Phelps and his wife. After dinner the Vice-President and party returned to Shelburne Farms, where he is stopping with Dr. Webb.

The Chilian Warship at Lisbon.

LISBON, Aug. 1.—The Portuguese authorities are keeping a close watch upon the movements of the Chilian warship anchored off shore.

HIGH-LIFE SCANDAL

Society Receives a Shock in Providence, R. I.

A SENSATIONAL DIVORCE CASE.

Merchant Prince Forrest P. Tebbetts Leads a Double Life.

His Wife Links His Name With a Dashing Belle, Her Old Schoolmate—The Charge of Infidelity Backed by Plenty of Evidence—Mrs Tebbetts Will Undoubtedly Secure Her Divorce.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 1.—Two of the most beautiful women in Providence figure prominently in a sensational divorce case which was held with closed doors by Judge Wilbur. Mrs. Ella Augusta Tebbetts is the libelant and Miss Belle Shaw the co-respondent. Forest P. Tebbetts, the libelee, is one of the merchant princes of Providence. All the parties concerned move in the highest social circles, and Miss Shaw has been conceded to be the queen of society. The revelations made when the suit was announced was a great shock to the local "400."

Mr. Tebbetts left his wife about a year ago, and according to her charges, which were not denied in court, has been living since then with Miss Shaw in palatial quarters. His wife was provided with equally expensive surroundings, but the husband spent all his time in Miss Shaw's company. Miss Shaw is more youthful than Miss Tebbetts, but the latter is a remarkably handsome woman. Divorce cases seldom produce two such singularly beautiful women. Each has been known in Providence for a long time. Their womanly grace and charms are no less remarkable than were the girlish features of the years of their teens. They were playmates and schoolmates, and each attended the school upon the aristocratic side of Providence, the East End.

It was more than a year ago that the merchant left the mansion on Pine street, probably never again to make that place his home. Mrs. Tebbetts is still there, and as usual, she has her carriage, and drives a handsome bay horse. The merchant was served with a notification some time ago from Lawyer West urging him to do the proper thing in the way of maintaining his wife or become the respondent in the courts on the question of alimony and allowance, pending the hearing of the crucial allegation of perfidy and unfaithfulness.

Merchant Tebbetts acceded to the demands for an allowance, and his wife is in receipt of the requisite amount for her genteel support. In the meantime further negotiation has been in progress, and the different stages of its advancement has revealed some peculiar and interesting matters. Tebbetts made no defense, and his wife will undoubtedly secure her divorce, inasmuch as her charge of infidelity was backed by plenty of evidence.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

Programme of the Visit to Vermont and Northern New York.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 1.—The President will leave here on August 18, go through Jersey City to Albany, N. Y., and from there to Bennington, arriving the next morning, where he will attend the unveiling of the Bennington monument. The following morning he goes to Mt. McGregor, where he will be given a dinner in honor of his 58th birthday. On Friday he will go to Saratoga and remain till the following Tuesday morning, when he will leave for St. Albans and be the guest of Governor Smith.

On Wednesday he will go to St. Johnsburg, and be the guest of Gen. Fairbanks. On the following day he goes to Proctor to be the guest of the Secretary of War. On Saturday, the 29th, he will return to Cape May and remain there till the 1st of October, during which time several Cabinet officers will visit him.

Winding Up an Investment Company.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—In the Supreme Court Judge Lathrop issued an order of notice requiring the Columbian Bond Investment Company to show cause why an injunction should not issue to prevent the company from further continuing its business. The company has issued 1,200 bonds of $1,000 each, for which the holders pay a monthly assessment of $1.50. The unsoundness of the company is the reason alleged why its affairs should be wound up.

Bankers Held for Embezzlement.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., Aug. 1.—The grand jury of Susquehanna County, sitting at Montrose, found eight true bills against Daniel Summers and Tracey Hayden, of the defunct bank of Summers & Hayden of New Milford. Charges of embezzlement were made against them by eight depositors.

The Buffalo Battery Released.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Callihan and McKeough, the newly signed battery of the Buffalo Baseball Club, have been released by Manager Powers. The two men will go to Syracuse by agreement to help that city out of its recent trouble.

NO HOPE FOR SAWTELLE.

All the Objections of His Counsel Overruled by the Supreme Court.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug 1.—Judge Carpenter, at the session of the full bench of the Supreme Court, delivered an exhaustive opinion upon the exceptions taken by the defense during the trial of Isaac Sawtelle for the murder of his brother Hiram.

All the objections are overruled. The court holds that the objection to certain jurors is not well taken, as the jurors were allowed to sit by the presiding judges who had the right to pass upon their competency.

This was the principal objection upon which Sawtelle's counsel relied for a new trial.

THE CHISEL FIEND.

Little Gertie White's Assailant Arrested and Held for Trial.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 1.—William Fielding, aged 19, was arrested in Cranston for stabbing little Gertie White with a chisel in Johnstown, Wednesday.

He was fully identified, and confessed and was held for trial.

The little girl White is expected to die.

Bought 5,000 Acres.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Mr. Frank H. Goodyear, of this city, has added to his already large possessions in the Simemahoning Valley, in Northwestern Pennsylvania, by the purchase of a block of 5,000 acres. The price paid was about $150,000. The property will be developed for lumber purposes. The former owner was A. E. Canfield of Williamsport, Pa.

Children Killed by Lightning.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—Last night during a thunder storm at Dry Run, this county, four children, Harvey, Denny and Annie Skinner and a colored boy took refuge in a barn belonging to the father of the Skinner children. The barn was struck by lightning, killing Harvey and Annie Skinner and stunning the other two children. The building caught fire and was destroyed.

Brutal Assault by a Liquor Dealer.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 1.—A short time ago John Ware testified against Henry Thorndike in a liquor case, with the results that Thorndike was sent to jail. Thorndike declared he would have revenge, and last night made a brutal assault upon Ware, cutting his head, breaking his wrist and injuring him internally. Thorndike was arrested as he was about leaving town.

Horsewhipped the Pastor.

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 1.—Rev. W. Q. Jason, pastor of St. John's (colored) M.E. Church, was publicly horsewhipped by Miss Adaline Brown, one of his parishioners, during the day. The alleged cause of the affair is the pastor's coldness toward Miss Brown, who has made no secret of her love for him.

The Malone Deadlock.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The Judicial convention at Malone is still in deadlock. Gen. Curtis made a motion to adjourn until Tuesday, at Saratoga, but was defeated by a vote of 8 to 6. The 75th ballot resulted: Badger, 7; Stover, 7; Kellogg, 6; Westfall, 6; Tappan, 1; Potter, 1.

Something for Depositors.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—The first account of Lawyer William M. Smith, assignee of the Bank of America, has been filed in the Prothonotary's office, and possesses the unique incident of showing a yield of 10 per cent. to the depositors out of a concern which, when it suspended, was believed to be a total wreck.

West Point Cadets to Act as Escort.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—An order will be sent to West Point soon for the corps of cadets at the U. S. Military Academy to participate in the ceremonies attending the approaching dedication of the new battle monument at Bennington, Vt. The cadets are to act as an escort for the President.

Stabbed Her Husband.

BOSTON, Aug 1.—As the result of a quarrel at the dinner table between George Katchner and his wife, Barbara, the latter stabbed her husband in the back with a carving knife, inflicting a probably fatal wound. The woman is under arrest. She is 51 years old.

The Injunction Made Permanent.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 1.—The injunction of the Boston & Maine Railroad against the Concord & Montreal Railroad Company, to restrain the latter from extending its line to Henpike from North Weare, has been made permanent by the Supreme Court, full bench.

Democratic State Committee Called.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Chairman Murphy has sent out a notice calling a meeting of the Democratic State Committee at the Hoffman House, New York, for Wednesday August 12.

To Go Into Insolvency.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 1.—At a special meeting of the stockholders of the embarrassed Bayley Hat Company it was voted to allow the directors to put the company into insolvency if they thought best.

Turkey's Sultan Sick.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Sultan of Turkey is suffering seriously with an abscess on the thigh. While his life is not believed to be in danger, much apprehension is felt.

The New York Governorship.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—It was stated at the City Hall to-day that if Kings County presents the name of Mayor Chapin to the Democratic State convention that Tammany Hall will name Mayor Grant and throw Roswell P. Flower overboard. It was said that Tammany Hall could control votes enough to place Grant in nomination.

A Feast of Good Things.

One Pound of Cleveland's Baking Powder will make everything in the following list:

20 tea biscuit,	1 strawberry shortcake,
1 chocolate cake,	15 egg rolls,
20 batter cakes,	1 Boston pudding,
1 orange cake,	1 chicken pie, or
1 ice-cream cake,	Yankee potpie,
30 cookies,	1 spice cake,
1 coffee cake,	1 Dutch apple pudding,
1 cocoanut cake,	12 corn muffins,
1 loaf ginger bread,	6 baked apple
1 Minnehaha cake,	dumplings,
1 apple pudding,	1 fig cake,
6 snowballs,	1 roll jelly cake,
1 cottage pudding,	20 Scotch scones,
12 apple fritters,	1 pound cake,
6 crumpets,	12 waffles,
1 suet pudding,	1 lemon cream cake,

WASHINGTON TOPICS

Many Rumors About Secretary Noble's Resignation.

HE MAY SERVE OUT HIS TERM.

No Foundation for the Report that Mr. Wanamaker Will Resign.

His Friends Assert that Nothing is Further from His Mind—The President's Proclamation About the Treaty With Spain—Circular from Comptroller Lacey—Supt. Porter Contradicts a Rumor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Secretary Noble's friends as well as Private Secretary Halford say that Mr. Noble has not resigned his place in the President's Cabinet.

High officials, however, state that the letter of resignation has been in President Harrison's hands for the past four months.

Secretary Noble's resignation has not been accepted, and he probably feels that until it has been he may conscientiously deny all reports concerning it. It is even probable that he may serve out his term. It all depends upon his health. If he thinks he can safely perform the duties of the office without injury to himself he will remain. His personal relations with the President are of the most cordial nature, and he had no purpose in tendering his resignation but to escape from the huge volume of work with which the Secretary of the Interior is daily confronted.

There is apparently no foundation for the report that Postmaster-General Wanamaker also proposes retiring. Mr. Wanamaker left at noon to-day for Philadelphia and will very likely go on to Cape May for his weekly conference with President Harrison. Two weeks ago he characterized the report that he had resigned or intended to resign as the "ravings of an irresponsible mind."

When his private secretary was asked as to the truth of the story published in the morning he went one better than the Postmaster-General and called it the "drivel of an idiot." Mr. Wanamaker's friends all assert most stoutly that nothing is further from his mind than leaving the Cabinet at this time.

CALL ON NATIONAL BANKS.

The Comptroller of the Currency Sends Out a Circular To-day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Comptroller of the Currency Lacey sent out to-day a circular to all national banks suggesting prompt action on the part of those banks that have circulation secured by 4 1-2 per cent. bonds either to secure the continuance of the bonds or deposit other bonds in their place.

The Comptroller in his circular says: "Your attention is respectfully called to the circular of July 2, 1891, issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, authorizing holders of 4 1-2 per cent. bonds to present them for continuance at 2 per cent. This option will expire on the 2d day of September, 1891, after which day any of said bonds outstanding, and not continued by request of the holder, will cease to bear interest by virtue of the call for their redemption issued June 1, 1891, rendering them unavailable as security for circulation after that date.

"Banks desiring to continue their bonds should execute the papers which have already been sent them from the Department, and forward them, accompanied by the Treasurer's duplicate receipts representing the bonds, to the office of the Secretary of the Treasury. Banks desiring to substitute other bonds or retire their circulating notes should apply to the Comptroller of the Currency for the necessary blanks.

"Your attention is also called to the fact that under the act of July 14, 1870, the last bond issued thereunder must be first called, and that there is, therefore, an advantage to be obtained by the early application for the continuance of these bonds, as the new bonds will be issued in the order of receipt of perfected papers."

No Enthusiasm in Paris Over the Fete.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—A dispatch from Paris says the reception of the Chicago World's Fair Committee was little more than polite. The feeling there is very lukewarm toward the American Fair, owing partly to the interest of the European political situation, and partly also to the fact that the American display at the late Paris Exposition was considered [illegible] as compared with exposition

Russia's Edict Against the Jews.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Acting Secretary of State Wharton asserts positively that the Department had no information respecting the alleged suspension of the edict against the Jews by the Russian government. Nothing has been heard from Consul-General Crawford at St. Petersburg for some time past. This is regarded by the Department as convincing proof that no such action has been taken.

The President's Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The President has issued the proclamation announcing reciprocity with the Spanish islands of Cuba and Porto Rico under the tariff act of last October, which, with a view to securing reciprocal trade, exempted from duty sugar, molasses, coffee and hides upon their importation into the United States.

Will be Court-Martialed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Court of Inquiry appointed to meet at the Norfolk Navy Yard to investigate the alleged theft of goods by Paymaster's Clerk Van Vracken, has recommended that he be court-martialed, and a court will be appointed to meet at the Norfolk Yard on Tuesday next to try him.

The New Commissioner of Patents.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Mr. William E. Simonds of Connecticut, who was some time ago appointed Commissioner of Patents entered upon his duties to-day.

Death of Professor Dye.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Professor Nathan Dye, one of the pioneer teachers of music in this city, died of pneumonia last night, aged 83 years. Several of his pupils among them Lillian Russell have made reputations on the lyric stage. Professor Dye became noted for his abolition principals, and for twenty years before the war took a prominent part in advocating freedom for the slaves of the South.

New Line of Steamers.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 1.—A company with a capital of $3,500,00 has been organized in England to operate a line of steamers direct from Toledo and other Lake Erie ports to Liverpool.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Surplus in the Treasury $57,018,504.

It is reported that Dwyer's celebrated racer Potomac, has broken down completely and will probably never again be seen on the track.

British authorities are seriously alarmed by the information that socialistic literature is being widely distributed among the enlisted men.

Foster, who robbed the New York Produce Gratuity Fund three years ago, is in Spain, and may make restitution in consequence of inheriting $200,000.

The operatic artist, Emma Eames, was married during the morning at the Registrar's office in London to the son of the well-known American sculptor, W. W. Story.

The Newfoundland Association of Boston claim that if the matter were left to the popular vote in Newfoundland to-day fully two-thirds of the population would be in favor of annexation.

A London dispatch says that news has been received of a fatal collision in the English Channel off Dover. The steamer Godmunding collided with and sank the Norwegian schooner Lorna. Eight persons were drowned.

John Eckhart, a young real estate dealer of Buffalo, N. Y., has disappeared, leaving his accounts in a badly unsettled shape. He is thought to be in Canada. Speculation in real estate caused his embarrassment. His debts aggregate about $10,000.

It is reported that Hon. J. H. Manley, of Augusta, Me., will be a candidate to represent his district in Congress. Governor Burleigh is already in the field and Hon. Seth L. Milliken, the present incumbent, wants renomination. It is said Mr. Blaine favors Manley's candidacy.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Step in and get your goods at Peck's.

—Mayor Gilbert this morning fined Jas. McDonald $5 for drunkenness.

—A praise service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms at 7:45 to-night.

—The Holy Cross church choir start to-morrow night for Merwin's Point, Conn., on their annual summer outing.

—Cut prices and big bargains will be the rule at the store of Rogers Bros. again next week.

—Some smart young fellow turned off the gas at the Salvation Army meeting in Reform Hall last night.

—If you don't find what you want in shoes at Doane & VanArsdale's, the chances are you won't find them anywhere.

—This is the last day of those big special bargains in the Tea and Coffee Growers' Association store. The house will deliver goods till 9 o'clock to-night.

—District Deputy Grand Master Chas. E. Reed, of Rahway, will visit Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., Monday night, and install its new officers. A collation will follow.

—A dangerous hole in the roadway has been left by the Water Supply Company at the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Seventh street. It ought to be filled up immediately.

—The best seat in the house for 75 cents, is one of the features introduced by the new management of Music Hall that are to make it so popular during the coming season.

—Deceptive Lyons, burlesquer, whose voice is said to be like Patti's, and whose gowns were made by Worth, will be seen with Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels at Music Hall, next Monday evening.

—Edsall claims in his new advertisement to-day that his Y. S. F. fast-black hosiery is the cheapest and best of any ever sold anywhere. He says that they will wear better and keep their color longer than any other.

—Manager Pucci, of the local Postal Telegraph office, has been given charge of the Elizabeth and New Brunswick offices besides, and will divide his attention among the three. The service will of course continue to be prompt and reliable.

—The Evening News of Plainfield on Saturday had its usual assortment of non-credited news items from THE CHRONICLE. The News, however, would do well to secure stereotype plates from THE CHRONICLE and thus avoid errors in copying.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

—The only singing donkeys on earth are owned by Girard Leon, the famous clown, who exhibits them with Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels. The duet between Leon and one of these animals is said to be far superior to Italian opera. This attraction will appear at Music Hall, next Monday evening.

—The Bound Brook Chronicle says: "Plainfield has been insulted. An editorial writer of the New York Recorder, last Sunday, in referring to a recent outrageous proceeding on the floor of a Plainfield ball-room, spoke of the queenly city as a country village. It is possible that this editor had heard of the kind of base-ball they play in Plainfield and judged of the size of the place accordingly.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A. B. Dunlap has returned from his fishing tour.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, jr., of Myrtle avenue, has returned from Mt. Pocono.

The Rev. W. H. Shermer, of Elizabeth, will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church to-morrow.

Emily B. Teller, of 36 Harmony street, has gone to "Maplewood", Orange, to spend two weeks with friends.

Mrs. D. Snediker, Lou Snediker, and George Snediker, are registered at the Gramercy House, Asbury Park.

A baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Staats, West Second street, last night. This is their second son.

Mrs. J. M. Shepherd and son, of 23 Emily street, and Miss Maggie Allis, sister of Mrs. Shepherd, will spend the month of August at Annandale, in the hills of Hunterdon.

A Somerville paper says that Mrs. Harry Brokaw, of Plainfield, who has been in ill health for some time, is staying with her parents in Somerville, in hopes of recovering her health.

It was expected that Mr. Lipenhoof, the Russian missionary, would give a lecture in Warren chapel next Tuesday evening, but the lecture has been postponed until Tuesday evening, Aug. 11.

Joseph Sattels, Andrew Carpenter, Frank Jones, and Harvey Thorn, left town to-day to spend two weeks at Newfoundland, N. J. They will camp out on Bucksbar Lake. They took four trunks and a box that required eight men to lift.

The Rev. C. H. Pool, Secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed Church of America, who is to occupy the pulpit of the Rev. Cornelius Schenck to-morrow, is the divine who delivered the address at the tenth anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the Trinity church, May 10. He is an able speaker and all who attend his services are sure to be spiritually refreshed.

HORSEWHIPPED HER PASTOR.

A Colored Damsel Uses a Rawhide on Plainfield's Emancipation Orator.

The Rev. William C. Jason, pastor of St. John's Methodist Episcopal church, at Orange, and who is to deliver the chief oration at Plainfield's Emancipation Day celebration next week, was assailed yesterday by Miss Adelaide Brown, a member of his church, who was armed with a horsewhip. The story was circulated that Miss Brown showed him attentions and sent him presents. He wrote her a letter, saying that he was not in love with her, and she then asked to have her name taken from the church roll. While Mr. Jason was in his study yesterday morning Miss Brown knocked at the door and entered the room. She called him a villian, drew a cowhide, and struck the minister a number of blows. He wrenched the whip from her hand, put her out of the room, and swore out a warrant. Detective Conroy arrested her, and, when arraigned before Judge Davis, she refused to give bail, saying that she wanted to go to jail. She was thereupon committed to the county jail.

Mr. Jason went to Orange nearly a year ago. He is a graduate of the Bloomfield Theological Seminary, and a man of pleasing address and much intelligence. When he first took charge of the church Miss Brown was a regular attendant, but not a member. Shortly after Mr. Jason's arrival, Miss Brown joined the church, and at once a change was noticed in her manner toward the pastor. It is alleged that on all possible occasions she forced her presence upon her pastor, and told her friends that the clergyman was in love with her.

She finally wrote to him that she loved him, and when he replied that he did not care for her, threatened his life. She says that the pastor is a deceiver. Jason thinks she is demented.

The Crescent Team's Connecticut Trip.

The crack Crescent League team of Plainfield, N. J., are to make a tour of Connecticut next week, playing at Norwich on Aug. 4 and 6 and at Willimantic on Aug. 5. The team will be accompanied by a large delegation of the members of the league.—New York Sun.

All those who are going on this enjoyable trip and have not yet signified their intention, are requested to see Mr. Keller at the Crescent League club-house this evening before nine o'clock. It is necessary that he should know just how many are going that he may secure special rates for all on the boat and cars and at the hotels.

J. H. Doane will take a lot of his fine homing pigeons along and send back the results of the games, which will be posted at THE PRESS office. Fred Jones will take the birds from his loft on the club-house and send them home also with the news.

The Full Moons Defeated.

The members of the Ivy Leaf Association with the assistance of James Day and Young Burke of the Titian Athletic Club of New York, defeated the Full Moons (colored champions of the State), yesterday afternoon, before a large crowd of people, on the grounds at the corner of Fourth street and Plainfield avenue. The features of the game were the general playing of Burke and Day of the Ivy Leaf nine, and of Wm. Kline and the Martin brothers of the Full Moons. J. Deady was substituted in the second inning by the Full Moons as pitcher. The score by innings:

Ivy Leaf	0	2	1	3	3	1	2—12
Full Moons	0	3	1	3	3	0	0—10

Umpire—T. J. Dowd. Scorer—John McCann.

Ten Years for Tramp Lee.

Judge Rice, at the New Brunswick court house, yesterday, sentenced Michael Lee to ten years imprisonment at hard labor, for the assault on W. J. Wingee, of Dunellen.

The prisoner was very obstinate and refused to answer certain questions put to him by the court. His lawyer pleaded insanity in behalf of his client, but the judge would not accept such a plea as the brute had already shown his soundness of mind in trying to evade those answers which would bear on the malicious assault. Judge Rice imposed on Lee the full penalty of the law. Lee received the sentence without emotion.

The Plainfield Club.

At a meeting held last evening in the Sons of Temperance rooms, what is to be known as the Plainfield Club was organized. The following officers were elected:

Chairman—M. Powers.
Secretary—I. Bloom.
Treasurer—Thomas Osment.

The club will meet every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

—Where to get choice patterns in embroideries? Pecks!

—Ouda, "the man bird", late reigning sensation in London and Paris, has been secured by W. S. Cleveland as a special feature for "The Big City Show", which will appear at Music Hall, Monday evening.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

POOR AL. MACK!

Satan Reproving Sin Is n't In It With Him.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Well, well, well! Did you see Al. Mack's effusion in the Democrat? You did n't? Well you ought to buy the paper at any price. "Whom the Gods would destroy they first make mad"! Poor Al. he can't stand success and it is much to be feared that the Morris Plains "Hotel" will soon number him among its permanent guests. Talk about "Satan reproving Sin"—why he simply isn't in it with Al! Just think of it! Al says: "Our John, gentle, courteous John, who never in his life behaved in any other than a gentlemanly manner, was roundly hissed by the gang of Plainfield loafers in the grand stand." Think of that and then call to mind the scene last Saturday which called forth the hisses. Big, burly John Harkins, finding himself touched out between bases, caught napping ten feet from the home plate, angered by the laughter of the spectators, with a grin of rage that showed every tooth in his head, springing, with both fists clinched, upon Hammill, and throwing him violently to the ground for having dared to touch out that same gentle, courteous John!

Who is there, having a particle of decency in his composition, that would not hiss such conduct? Who, claiming to be a gentleman, and sane, that will attempt to uphold it? Poor Al, Morris Plains must receive him!

If any doubt as to his mental balance remains just read what he says about noise on the ball field. "Why can't the Crescent management preserve order as we do in Somerville." Shades of the great Tecumseh!

Al. Mack asking that order be preserved! Have his lungs failed him? Can he no longer split the ears of the spectators with the horrible yells and cat-calls, with which it has been his habit to entertain (?) Somerville's base-ball cranks? Is it possible that Piggy Crater's only rival has suddenly awakened to the enormity of the offense he has been to decent people all these years? Ah, no, I fear not. Poor Al. will never see himself as others see him. Like every other lunatic he thinks the rest of the world is crazy. It's a pity, too, for in his lucid moments Al. is a nice fellow and a gentleman. Deal gently with him keepers, never let him hear or see anything pertaining to base-ball and perchance in time he may recover, but I fear his mind will always be a little weak! A PAST SOMERVILLIAN.

Improvements at St. Joseph's.

Great improvements have just been completed on the interior of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield. Carpenters, painters and decorators have been working on it for the last six months, and have so changed it as to make it difficult to recognize it as the same church. The Sanctuary has been enlarged, and a magnificent railing replaces the old one. The ceiling and walls have been painted in oil cornices, and fancy panel work has been set up and richly decorated. The wall and carved ceiling behind the high altar are covered by a grand Scripture scene in oil colors on the plaster, from "Dore's Bible Gallery," representing our Lord's prayer and agony in the garden, with the three Apostles sleeping in the background. New side altars, new carpet, a new organ, and many other things now make St. Joseph's one of the most beautiful churches in the diocese.—New Jersey Catholic Journal.

The Peace Street Project Moving On.

Another step towards the extension of North Broadway (Peace street) into the borough was taken last night, when a meeting of enthusiastic indorsers of the project was held, and petitions were opened for signatures. These petitions are that the extension be made. They must be signed by one-half of the number of property-owners whose land has a frontage on the proposed street. When these signatures are secured the Plainfield Common Council and North Plainfield Township Committee will be asked to appoint commissioners to assess damages and benefits along the line of the new thoroughfare. Then the commissioners will get to work to push the opening through.

Now Get Ready Decorations, Along the Line.

The line of march for the Emancipation Day parade next Thursday will be as follows:

Front street to Water, to Manning avenue, to Somerset, to Park place, to Grove, to Rockview avenue, to Mercer, to Willow, to Washington, to Prospect, to Grove, to Front, to Park avenue, to Fifth, to Central avenue, to Eighth, to Crescent avenue, to Broadway, to Carlton, to Putnam, to Franklin, to Fifth, to Broadway, to the Crescent Rink.

—Rogers Bros. have another interesting advertisement in THE PRESS to-day that will repay reading.

—Reto is a short name, but its owner is said to be great out of all proportion to the size of his name. His feats of equilibrism with Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels are said to be astounding in the extreme. He will exhibit himself at Music Hall, Monday evening next.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

SEIZED IN BEHRING SEA.

Excitement is Still High Over the Recent Sealing Edict.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—News has just been received here from Ounalaska that the Rush warned four sealing vessels and seized a British schooner.

The steamer Bertha has just arrived at this port from Kodiak, Alaska. She reports that the schooners La Nymphe and Mollie Adams have been seized by United States vessels in Behring Sea for seal fishing.

The steamship St. Paul, just arrived from Ounalaska, reports intense excitement over the recent sealing edict. Only two sealing schooners had been seized up to July 20, the British schooner F. B. Marvin and the American schooner La Nymphe. The North American Commercial Company had taken 7,500 sealskins before the news of the close season reached them.

STILL PLAYING THAT GAME.

And Still Holding Up John Harkins as a Model Gentleman.

[From The Somerville Democrat.]

I told you so—11-2, 10-2, 9-2—but hold on, we are anticipating. Now, honestly, laying all jokes aside, was n't it great? The idea of going down to Plainfield and literally wiping up the diamond with their pets—it is almost too good to be true. THE DEMOCRAT is beginning to think about the advisability of starting a popular fund to erect monuments for each and every individual member of the West End team, so that future generations can point them out with pride to their children and say: "Look, boys and girls, those are the men that beat the much-lauded Plainfield Crescent League!"

It is a positive outrage that the management of the Crescents should allow such disgraceful actions as took place on the field last Saturday. Harkins, who has never acted in any other than a gentlemanly manner, was jeered and hissed at by a gang of loafers which comprised the Plainfield crowd. These are strong terms, but your reporter was on the grounds and saw the whole affair. He also noticed a number of Plainfield's society people, who, had they felt so inclined, could have stopped this disgraceful conduct: but no—if anything, they tried to out-do their neighbors. Not being an active member of the West End Athletic Association, I can not say why it is that they can always preserve order on their own grounds, but it is true nevertheless that they do, and if the "Colorado of the East" would get a few points from our boys I think there would be no more trouble on this score. But, as Mark Twain has it, "Nuff ced" on this point.

It was a grand game, even if a little one sided, although from the time Carby got his base on balls in the first inning, to when Holly struck out in the last, there was always something for the West End backers to yell about. How we did hit the ball!—twelve hits, one of them being for two bases. Every man on the team played ball as if for his life, with a vim and a snap. You could see no easy stooping to pick up a grounder, then a smile and then, over-confident, a throw about ten feet over the first baseman's head. No: it was run in for the ball, an incalculable part of a second to steady himself, and then the ball was lined over like a shot, straight and true into our midget's hands on first base.

It is too bad that Plainfield people are compelled to eat crow whenever the Crescents play the West Ends—that they must go and see a game when they know they will be beaten, and all on account of, as they think, bad management; but no: it is not bad management; it is lack of team work. The Crescents do not play together; it is every man for himself and the devil for them all, and for that reason and no other they are always ingloriously defeated whenever they play against us.

As the crowd wended its way slowly homeward, many of them were heard to say: "Well, I'll never bet on the Crescents again. They can't beat the West Ends, its no use for them to try." But on August 8 they will come to Somerville just as confident of winning as ever, and just as willing to put up their dust. They will get the same chance they always have, and will go home broke again. Well, it is pleasing to see pluck even in the Plainfielders, but there they say pluck wins, and perhaps sometime in the next century, when their children have learned something about base-ball, and we have all passed to that far unknown, the residents of the Crescent city will come to Somerville and go home victorious.

DID CORY SELL THE GAME?

The Harkinstown Democrat Seems to Think He Did.

There is a story afloat in Plainfield—says the Somerville Democrat—to the effect that last Saturday's game was sold out by shortstop Cory; that he had wagered twenty-five dollars on the West Ends, and therefore did everything in his power to lose the game. Can it be possible that the Pond Tool Works men have taken this method of getting square with the Crescents because they lost so much money on them last year? If so, it's a good way. Although Cory did not lose the game he helped materially not only in doing that but also in rattling the other players. It is understood that Cory received a blue envelope right after the game, with the valuable advice never to attempt to play ball again.

Somerville's Little Giants Against Plainfield's Full Moons.

This is the way that the Somerville Democrat looks at an interesting event set for this afternoon: "At the game on our grounds this week Saturday between the Plainfield and Somerville Coons there will be great fun. The colored gentry in Plainfield are extremely angry over the notice to the effect that they are requested to leave their razors at home. One Coon in particular said: 'What do dose fellars think we are, buckwheats? We'll show how we gemmen play ball.' The Gorham-Cuban-Giant game would be no circumstance to this, and there will be no end of sport. It will be worth anyone's time and fifteen cents to hear them coach. Let everyone go who can; he will not regret it."

Is it not to some extent your own fault that your children seek recreation outside of the family circle? Why not furnish them amusement at home? Why not treat them at home to a safe, delightful and wholesome beverage, such as you can easily have made from Hires's Root Beer Packages?

THE TALE OF A LOST BREAKFAST.

An Incident in Local Club Life That Prominent People Are Involved in.

The story of a recent society occurrence in this city is being retailed with a great deal of relish among the members of the Union County Country Club.

Some days ago one of the married men of the club whose families are out of town for the summer and who take their meals at the club-house brought out a New York partner of his to spend the night. They had dinner in New York, and spent a pleasant evening with a few kindred friends at the club man's home. In the morning the club man left on an early train, and informed his partner, who was still resting on his couch, that he had ordered that his breakfast should be ready at the club-house at 8 o'clock.

In due time the visitor sauntered down West Seventh street and entered the house that he was sure had been pointed out to him as the club-house. He seated himself at a table in the dining room, and rang the bell. There was no response. He rang again. Still no one came. At length, after repeated ringings, a waitress entered. The New Yorker was irritated at the delay, and said sharply: "I want my breakfast."

"But, sir,"—said the maid—"it is n't ready yet."

"It was ordered"—he retorted—"for 8 o'clock. Bring it in."

The girl vanished in confusion.

Presently in came a man. "Ah!"—thought the New Yorker—"the butler."

"What can I do for you, sir?"—blandly asked that individual.

"I want my breakfast"—was the response.—"Here 'tis half-past 8, and Mr. Blank ordered it for me for 8."

"Are you a friend of Mr. Blank's?"

"Of course I am."

"Well, I'm sorry that breakfast is n't ready yet. But Mr. Blank's friends are always welcome here, and since you are one of them I'll try to hurry things up. I'll go see my wife at once."

"Your wife!" ejaculated the visitor—"What has she to do with it?"

"Everything"—was the calm response. "She attends to the entire management of the household."

"Why?"—in great astonishment—"Is n't this the home of the Union County Country Club?"

"Oh no, sir. The club-house is farther down the street. This is the private home of Mr. Dash, and I am Mr. Dash!"

The New York visitor bolted from the room, grabbed his hat, and, breakfastless, ran for the train. He is by nature a very modest man, and he is so overwhelmed with the way he put his foot in it that he has n't had the courage to meet a Plainfield man since.

A Blind Boy Deserving of Patronage.

Percy W. Cannon, a blind boy of Dunellen, and a brother of the one who was killed on the Prospect avenue crossing some time ago, is deserving of favorable mention. While an inmate of the blind asylum he became an expert piano tuner and has given good satisfaction to his patrons so far. Not having sufficient work in this line to keep him busy and wishing to make an honest living, he has added to his other accomplishments that of caning chairs, which he does very neatly.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

Two free stages leave the railway station on North avenue, every Sunday morning at 10:30, for the church. The route of one is up Broadway, the route of the other up Putnam avenue. The stages return to Plainfield at the conclusion of the services.

Fought Eight Rounds.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 1.—John Sullivan, a California heavyweight and Frank Gallagher of this place fought a prize fight at 5 a. m. at Messers Crossing, N. H., just far enough across the State line to evade the Massachusetts law. They fought with four-ounce gloves and Gallagher was knocked out in the eighth round.

Strikers Apply for Work.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—Many applications for work were made at the Pennsylvania Steel Works, most of the strikers believing that the strike was over. The names of the applicants were taken, but no work will be given until it is seen if there is anything against them. The company will not make steel rails at Steelton hereafter, but will transfer that industry to Sparrows Point, Maryland.

Two Bodies Picked Up.

SODUS POINT, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The bodies of two men were picked up in the bay yesterday. A small sailboat was also found capsized on the bay, which was doubtless occupied by the two men, as such a craft was seen on the bay Sunday night and the parties sailing it had been drinking. One of the men is Thomas Rood, recently from Canandaigua. The other man's name is unknown.

Honored With a Reception.

RONDOUT, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Samuel T. Hull, grand chancellor elect of the Knights of Pythias, was honored with a reception on his return from the Cortland convention last night. He was met at the depot by the uniformed lodges of the city, with bands of music, and escorted to his hotel, where he was serenaded.

Not a Candidate for Governor.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Lieut.-Gov. Hailes says that in no event will he permit himself to be either actively or passively a candidate for Governor. Mr. Hailes has twice before announced this determination but as there seemed to be a feeling among the Republicans that he would accept, if nominated, he has issued the above ultimatum.

MRS. SEARLES' WILL.

What One of the Executors Says About the Adopted Son.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—One of the Searles' executors, when questioned about the clause in the will relating to the lady's adopted son, Timothy Hopkins, said that Mrs. Hopkins-Searles transferred a very considerable amount of property to her adopted son during her life-time, and that he was so well provided for then that there was no occasion for making any provision for him in her will.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Russell Wilson, attorney for Timothy Hopkins, the adopted son of the late Mrs. Mark Hopkins-Searles, who is now in Japan, said that he would most certainly contest the will.

Louisville's Richest Man Dying.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 1.—Theodore Harris, President of the Louisville Banking Company, possibly the richest man in this city, is almost at the point of death. He has been sick for a long time and the doctors have abandoned hope. Up to a year ago Mr. Harris was active in business matters and is still President of the Louisville Southern railroad and at the head of other important enterprises.

A Business Brain.

Young Lady—I called to make some inquiries regarding your terms for divorces. Does getting a divorce take long?

Divorce Lawyer—Not very.

"Is the consent of the husband necessary?"

"Not at all."

"Can you get alimony?"

"Depends on the circumstances."

"I mean if the husband is very rich?"

"Oh, yes, usually. Do you think of separating from your husband?"

"I haven't any yet, but my folks are bound and determined I shall marry old Bullion, and I thought I'd better consult you first."—N. Y. Weekly.

Not the Most Profitable System.

Owner—Let me see; it's about a year since we stopped publishing scandals and other trashy news, and receiving false advertisements, isn't it?

Editor—Just a year.

Owner—What was our circulation before we stopped?

Editor—Twenty-two thousand

Owner—What is it now?

Editor—Six thousand three hundred and seventy-eight to-day.—Judge.

A Center Shot.

"Now, Johnny, if six men can do a piece of work in one day, how long will it take one man to do it?" asked a New York teacher of a sharp little boy.

"The school-teacher is a blamed fool if he thinks I can answer that question," whispered Johnny in a low voice to the next boy.

"Speak out, Johnny; I dare say you are right," replied the pedagogue.—Texas Siftings.

Giving Him Fair Play.

Judge Lynch—Have you anything to say, prisoner, why sentence of death should not be carried out on you?

Prisoner—Merely this—that I am not guilty.

Judge Lynch—Well, we can't accept that plea, but you'll have a chance to offer it in a higher court in about five minutes. Let him swing, Bill!—Munsey's Weekly.

Bottom Facts.

Inquiring Advertiser—I see, sir, that you state that your paper has the largest circulation in the United States. Now, can you swear to that?

Newspaper Manager—Certainly, sir; its circulation outside of the United States is very much smaller than it is inside the United States!—Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.

THE MUSTACHE DROPPED.

Funny Experience of a Clergyman at a Colored Couple's Wedding.

That poverty is no bar to the marriage relation is evidenced by the number of impecunious persons who seem desirous of sharing each other's misery. Among colored people especially, it seems to be held that two can fight the wolf better than one, even when they do not possess a dollar or the security even of steady employment. All they have is spent in preparation for the nuptials. Sometimes it happens that they have not enough remaining to fee the minister. When Rev. Charles Coleman, now a popular Baptist clergyman of Philadelphia, was pastor at East New York, L. I., a young colored man called on him one wet and dismal day, and standing upon his doorstep while the rain dripped from his clothing and ran in tiny rivulets down the seams made by smiles and grins in his otherwise smooth and ebony face, told him he wanted to be married. But "de young lady" was not feeling very well and did not wish to risk her delicate health by going out in such a storm. Could Mr. Coleman oblige by calling at a designated hour that afternoon? At the appointed time the clergyman presented himself at the one-story frame shanty to which he had been directed. It appeared to contain only two rooms. The first one—a combination of parlor and kitchen—was filled by a dusky group of men and maidens, who, from a perfect Babel, lapsed into the dumbness of curiosity when the minister entered—the silence being broken only by the occasional explosive giggle of some young miss, followed by the sudden sympathetic titter of the assembly. Meanwhile all eyes were steadily fixed on the clergyman, who was thus compelled to endure certain of the sensations of the pillory while the bride's belated preparations were going forward. After considerable delay the door of room number two opened, and in flaming red dress, wearing enormous plated ear-pendants, the dusky Diana made her appearance on the arm of the bridegroom, whose time had evidently been most lately occupied in drying out his wardrobe and adjusting a brilliant scarf to a very large shirt collar. As they took their places in the center of the room the company snickered immoderately, the bride hung her head, and the bridegroom carefully stroked his mustache with his forefinger and thumb. The service was impressively conducted, as was the clergyman's wont, until he came to that portion of it wherein he asked:

HIS MUSTACHE FELL TO THE FLOOR.

"Do you —— —— solemnly promise, etc., to take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife?"

"Ya-yas!" said the bridegroom. But as he uttered the word, alack, his mustache became detached from his lip and fell on the floor at his feet! The guests burst into roars of laughter. The men held their sides and squirmed in contortions of risibility, and the girls choked themselves with aprons and pocket-handkerchiefs. Stooping, hastily, the bridegroom picked up the mustache and put it in his vest pocket, and the surprised (not to say perplexed) clergyman, with the best grace he could command, went on with the ceremony.

At its conclusion the bridegroom took him aside and explained that the bride had insisted on his wearing a mustache to overcome his youthful appearance. "But de paste wah mean; 'twouldn't stick," he added, ruefully. Continuing, in a pathetic undertone, he said: "I'se very much 'bliged fo' yo' a marryin' me, dominie; but I'se sorry I'se got no money. Hows'ever ef yo' want a job o' kalsominin' yo' sen' fo' me. I'se a boss hand on de kalsomine."

Wheels Within Wheels.

McGinnis — Your overcoat is awful dirty.

Gilhooly—Yes, I dropped it into the mud last night when I was coming home from the lodge.

"How did you happen to let go of it?"

"I didn't let go of it. I was inside of it when it fell in the mud."—Texas Siftings.

A Case in Point.

Clara—It's possible to dress very nicely without spending much, if one only has a little taste.

Laura—I suppose you speak from your own experience, for I know you don't spend very much, and I'm sure you only have a very little taste.—Munsey's Weekly.

Confidences of Dear Friends.

Irene (in a whisper)—See that handsome young man across the aisle, Laura? I can bring him to my feet any day I want to.

Laura—Indeed, dear! He doesn't look the least bit in the world like a chiropodist!—Chicago Tribune.

Alas!

She—You lack energy and push. Every man is the architect of his own fortune.

He—Yes, but the girl's father is the contractor.—Life.

Would Not Suit.

Horse Dealer—Here's the horse for you if you want to drive a bargain.

Customer—But I don't want to drive. I want one to ride.—Munsey's Weekly.

Sure to Turn Up.

Slimpurse—What are you doing in this outlandish neighborhood?

Shortpurse—Waiting for something to turn up.

"Huh! There won't anything turn up here."

"Yes, there will. My landlord threatens to put me out to-morrow, so I've been hunting for another place. I've just got the refusal of this miserable shanty, and have sent for my wife to come and look at it. The something I expect to see turn up is her nose when she sees it."—N. Y. Weekly.

Not a Teaser.

Aunt Fanny—Don't you believe, Emmy, that God answers little girls' prayers?

Emmy (S. S. Scholar, aged seven)—Yes, I know it.

Aunt Fanny—And do you say your prayers every night?

Emmy—No, Aunt Fanny. I hate people who, the more they get, the more they want.—Life.

Too Much Autograph.

First Stone-Cutter—Too bad about Mike, ain't it? They took him to the 'sylum this morning.

Second Stone-Cutter—What! is he crazy?

First Stone-Cutter—Crazy as a loon. His boss took the contract for Gen. Spinner's monument and wanted Mike to cut the general's autograph on it.—Judge.

AN INFANT PHENOMENON.

"Great Scott — that's the biggest baby—

—I ever came across."—Puck.

Astronomical Danger.

First Astronomer—I think that long straight line we see in the moon, and which is usually called the "railroad," should be given another name. Let's call it the "highway," or the "aqueduct," or something of that sort.

Second Astronomer—But why not continue to call it the "railroad?"

First Astronomer (whispering)—I'm afraid Jay Gould will grab it.—N. Y. Weekly.

Graduated Rates.

Hotel Clerk—This guest has been here over two weeks. Nothing was said about rates. Shall we charge him by the week or by the day?

Proprietor—What's in that package he left in the safe?

"Bonds."

"Charge him by the day."—Good News.

Some Consolation.

Wife (pettishly)—If I cannot have a village cart this summer, what can I have?

Husband (diplomatically)—You can have the satisfaction of knowing that Mrs. Puff next door can't have one either.—Munsey's Weekly.

Good Water.

"What sort of drinking water do you have in Texas?" asked a New Yorker of a newly-arrived Texan.

"First rate. If you put in whisky enough, it will make as good toddy as any water I ever drank," was the candid reply.—Texas Siftings.

The Honest Agent.

New Clerk—That house you rented to Mr. and Mrs. Suburb has nothing but a cistern, and that is fifty feet from the door. You told them there was water in the house.

Suburban Agent—There is. Cellar's half full.—Good News.

O Tempora!

"What an age of extravagance this is!"

"Do you think so?"

"Yes, leaving men and women out of consideration, even the windows have to be well dressed!"—Light.

An Ignoramus.

Brown—Miss Summit is a remarkably well informed girl, don't you think?

Miss Tattle—Why, no! She can talk about books and all that sort of thing, but she never knows the latest gossip.—Munsey's Weekly.

Anomalous.

Student—What's the most peculiar thing about your profession?

Doctor—When I have to charge ten dollars a day for treating a man whose life isn't worth two cents.—Life.

A Different Kind.

Miss Summergirl—I am so afraid of snakes!

Mr. Cittiboy—What! Do you have 'em, too?—Jury.

THE VETERANS MEET

Annual Encampment of the Grand Army at Detroit.

PROGRAMME FOR THE WEEK.

The Parade To-morrow to Eclipse All Former Gatherings.

Wednesday Evening There Will be a Grand Naval and Pyrotechnic Display—Reunion of the Famous Third Light Brigade—The Contest for Commander-in-Chief and Next Meeting Place.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 3.—The parade of the veterans to-morrow promises to be the grandest display ever made by the Grand Army. In numbers and equipments it is expected to go beyond any that have been held in other years. The Illinois veterans have been assigned the right of the line, and will follow the commander-in-chief and staff. The programme of the encampment is as follows:

Reception of guests to-day.

Tuesday—Parades of G. A. R. naval veterans and Sons of Veterans at 10:30 a. m.; at 8 p. m., reception and greeting to Commander-in-Chief Veazey and members of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Women's Relief Corps at the Detroit Rink; 9 p. m., reception at Camp Sherman to the commander-in-chief and veterans of the G. A. R.

Wednesday—10:30 a. m. twenty-fifth annual session of the National Encampment, G. A. R., at Beecher's Hall; ninth annual convention of the Women's Relief Corps at the Church of Our Father. In the evening there will be a grand naval and pyrotechnic display. There will also be camp fires at the rink, at the exposition building and at the Central Methodist Episcopal Church.

Thursday.—10 a. m., adjourned session of the twenty-fifth annual encampment at the rink. In the evening there will be a banquet at the rink to the officers and delegates to the National Encampment. There will be camp fires at Camp Sherman and at the churches.

Friday.—Riding about the city, excursions to various river and lake resorts, etc., at will.

The survivors of the famous Third Light Brigade of the First Division of the Fifth Army Corps will hold a reunion on Wednesday with the Sixteenth Michigan volunteers. This was Gen. Butterfield's brigade, which had the honor to be detailed to receive the surrender of Gen. Lee's army at Appomattox. The national convention of the ex-prisoners of war will be held on Aug. 5 in the common council chamber, and the National Association of Naval Veterans will hold their convention in the court-house on Wednesday. On the same day there will be a reunion of army and navy musicians who served during the war. All who were in brigade or regimental bands and those who served as buglers, fifers or drummers, whether they have made music a profession since the war or not, are invited to attend.

Two Interesting Contests.

The features of this and every other encampment are the election of a commander-in-chief and the selection of a place for the next meeting. The latter is, however, settled beyond much doubt, the boys from the Potomac Department at Washington having ridden rough shod over all opposition and conquered for the national city. The choice of commander-in-chief is not so surely settled. Weissert, of Wisconsin, and Hedges, the New Yorker, are running a close race.

A PRINCELY GIFT.

A Newport Protestant Endows a Roman Catholic School.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 3.—At the dedication of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic school Bishop Harkins made public the fact that Mr. George Babcock Hazard of Newport had generously paid the entire cost, giving the magnificent sum of $60,000. The Bishop christened the new building the Hazard Memorial School.

The affair has caused a profound sensation, Mr. Hazard being a Protestant. He comes of one of the oldest Newport families.

Covered With Burning Oil.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 3.—Edward Secor, of Jersey City, a fireman on the steamer Joanna, was asleep on the boat early this morning when a lantern hanging over his head fell and exploded. He was covered with burning oil and ran shrieking about the deck. The hands on the steamer Newark heard his cries and extinguished the flames by throwing him overboard. Secor was taken to the City Hospital. He is badly injured.

Gored to Pieces.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 3.—A report reached here from the Cherokee country that near the Neosho River four people were gored to death by Texan cattle. A woman and two little children were first attacked and torn to pieces. A cowboy who attempted to rescue them was thrown from his horse and instantly killed.

Workmen Driven Out by a Mob.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 3.—A mob has attacked the Omaha and Grant Smelting Works and is driving out the workmen. The police are powerless. Great damage will result, as the fires are unprotected. The mob is several hundred strong and under the influence of liquor.

Killed in Rescuing a Child.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Miss Lena Billing while attempting to rescue the child of her sister from in front of a train at Crestline was herself run over and killed.

Think He Committed Suicide.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 3.—George Gregory, an insurance agent of this city, has disappeared, and his family think he has committed suicide.

CAMERON AND QUAY.

The Pennsylvania Senators Meet and Discuss the Political Situation.

MOUNT JOY, Pa., Aug. 3.—Senators Cameron and Quay spent Saturday night and Sunday very quietly at Donegal, where Senator Cameron owns 800 acres of as productive land as can be found. It is the same old farm house made famous by the many important conferences held there when old Simon Cameron took such a prominent part in Pennsylvania politics.

The distinguished gentlemen had a number of calls during the day from political and business acquaintances, but with all, they were able to enjoy a quiet and restful time. Both, while exceedingly pleasant, refused to tell just what they were doing, but Quay admitted that they had been talking of Pennsylvania politics. He was asked in reference to the report that Thomas Dolan was to succeed Dudley as treasurer. "As to what the members of the committee intend to do" replied the Senator, "I have not the slightest idea. I do not know of any such arrangement, but nevertheless it may be true."

Mr. Quay was also asked regarding the proposed resignation of Chairman Andrews and the selection of his successor, but he claimed to know nothing of the organization of the committee.

Every one who called at the house asked the Senator about that Washington dream, of which he talked in Philadelphia last week. He then said that he dreamed that "Blaine was coming." This remark, taken in connection with the now well known preference of the Senator for the Maine man, was a theme on which every one took occasion to speak. The Senator smiled pleasantly as he simply remarked: "Funny dream, wasn't it?"

Senator Cameron refused so talk of his conference with Quay, but from one of the Lancaster politicians, who dropped in and out during the day, it was learned that the two men are in perfect accord in regard to a Presidential candidate, that they are both for the same man. It was also learned that Quay and Cameron have arranged for another conference in Washington some time about Sept. 1.

DREW TWO PENSIONS.

She Was a Widow of an 1812 Veteran and Also a Dependent Mother.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Mary Hastenstine, an aged widow of a vetefan of the war of 1812, and mother of a soldier for the Union, has become involved in a novel legal tangle through drawing two different pensions from the government at the same time. For over half a century she has been receiving a liberal pension as the widow of John Hastenstine, who served in the war of 1812, and in addition, since 1879, she has been steadily drawing a second pension as the dependent mother of Eli Hastenstine, who fought in the suppression of the rebellion.

United States pension officials have been here looking up the facts in the case. Mrs. Hastenstine herself admits them. She claims, in defense, that persons whom she trusted informed her prior to 1879 that she was entitled to two pensions, and that she followed their suggestions. The pension officials, wishing to deal leniently, have requested that she refund to the Treasury about $2,000 surplusage within three weeks, otherwise the case will be placed in the hands of a United States marshal for prosecution.

A Girl Arrested as a Hotel Thief.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Guests at nearly all the principal summer hotels at Niagara Falls have been missing valuables lately. Yesterday Chief of Police Denan, of the Falls, arrested Jennie McElroy, a handsome and stylishly dressed young lady, on the charge of being the thief. Articles were found that she had taken from the International Hotel, Porter and Hotel Atlantique. She acknowledged her guilt, and was sent to jail here for two months.

The McLaughlin Murder.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The police think they have a further clue to the murder of William McLaughlin, who was shot in front of 416 East Eighty-ninth street Saturday night, and are now looking for George Hallisey, son of William Hallisey, who is now under arrest. It is alleged that McLaughlin while in Hallisey's house offended the latter's youngest daughter and was taken to task for it by George Hallisey, whose disappearance leads to the suspicion that he did the shooting.

Drowned in Chautauqua Lake.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 3.—A special from Jamestown says: James Gormerly, agent for the High Explosive Company, of Bradford, was drowned in Chautauqua Lake between Lakewood and Greenhurst. Gormerly was out boatriding with a lady. The boat overturned. While the lady clung to the boat, Gormerly endeavored to swim ashore for assistance, but went down. The lady was rescued.

A Prominent Baltimorean Dead.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 3.—Jacob Sanhaulier, a director of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and also of several banks, died at the Deer Park Hotel, in Western Maryland, last night.

MURDERED BY A MOB

A Family of Seven Persons Killed by Italians.

BUTCHERED AND THEN BURNED.

All the Victims Had Their Throats Cut and Were Repeatedly Stabbed.

It Is Believed That Enemies of the Family Instigated the Crime—Tragedy at a Ball—A Desperado Causes Murder and Panic—Three Persons Killed and the Murderer Escapes.

CATTLETTSBURG, Ky., Aug. 3.—Wayne County, W. Va., was the scene of a series of murders last night. Mr. Brumfield, his wife and five children were murdered in a most horrible manner and their bodies consumed by fire.

About midnight 50 Italian railroad laborers became drunk and started on a tour of devastation. The Brumfield family were thought to have considerable money.

The Italians went to Brumfield's residence and were refused admission. Doors and windows were then forced open. Mr. Brumfield with his two half grown sons fought with desperation, but were finally murdered, their throats being cut from ear to ear and the bodies repeatedly stabbed. Mrs. Brumfield and her three little children were next killed by the drunken Italians, who then searched the house for money and set it on fire.

As soon as Sheriff Spurlock heard of the murder he summoned a posse of the most brave and determined men in Wayne County and started upon a search for the murderers.

Every Italian camp on the Norfolk & Western Railroad has been searched thoroughly, and should they be fortunate enough to discover the murderers a repetition of the New Orleans affair will be the result, with no time for jury-bribing. The people are thoroughly aroused and determined that blood shall be the only atonement.

Mr. Brumfield was influential and wealthy. Two or three years ago, while county commissioner, he opposed the building of a new court house and thus made many enemies. The court house was built, and it is thought that the murderous work was the result of the old feud, and that Brumfield's enemies supplied the Italians with liquor and then pointed out the path to the residence.

TRAGEDY AT A BALL.

Three Deaths Caused by a Tough Character Who Insisted on Dancing.

DURANGO, Col., Aug. 3.—News has just been received here of a terrible tragedy which occurred at a ball in the Blue Mountains Saturday night.

While the dancing was going on a tough character by the name of Tom Roach insisted on dancing. He was drunk and armed with a knife and pistol. He was not allowed to dance and raised a row.

Frank Hyde tried to quell the disturbance, and was stabbed by Roach in several places and soon after died. A cowboy by the name of William McCord tried to pacify Roach. This seemed to enrage Roach more than ever, and drawing his revolver he killed McCord on the spot.

A boy slipped away to a house near by, and, securing a Winchester, returned to the ball room and took aim and fired at Roach, killing Mrs. Walton, an estimable lady, living in the community.

In the excitement Roach escaped and is still at large.

MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING.

A New York Man Attacked While Writing a Letter.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A mysterious shooting case occurred early last night in the apartment house No. 230 West Forty-second street.

While Charles C. Goodwin was engaged in writing a letter in his room, Bertram Webster, an acquaintance, opened the door and stood upon the threshold with a revolver in his hand. Without uttering a word Webster fired at Goodwin, who fell to the floor with a bullet in his abdomen.

Webster coolly walked down stairs and told the janitor that Goodwin was sick and needed a doctor, after which he disappeared and has not since been seen.

Goodwin was taken to the hospital and will probably die. He is a bachelor, aged 55, and Webster is a married man 30 years of age. The police profess to believe that Mrs. Webster, who is young and pretty, is the cause of the shooting.

Largest Steel Plant in the World.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 3.—The first Bessemer steel produced in Maryland was blown at Sparrow's Point, Saturday, by the Maryland Steel Company, whose new works are said to be the largest and most complete steel rail plants in the world. The mills will not be in full blast for a fortnight more, but when in complete operation they will have a capacity equal to one-third of the total production of the Bessemer steel works of Great Britain.

WORLD'S FAIR ATTRACTION.

An Exact Reproduction of the Old Convent Where Columbus Stopped.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Committee on Foreign Exhibits of the World's Columbian Exposition have recommended the erection at Jackson Park, Chicago, of an exact reproduction of the old Convent of La Rabida, Palos, Spain.

It will be remembered that this convent is more closely associated with the life of Columbus than any other building in the world. It was here that he applied for bread and water for his child, and it was here that he was furnished shelter for two years while he was developing his theory of a western passage to the Indies, and it was here that he lived while preparing for the voyage, and in the little chapel attached to the convent he attended mass on the morning he sailed. Here, too, he sought refuge again upon his return from the discovery, and here he always found a comfortable and hospitable refuge in the days of his trouble and anxiety.

It is proposed to make the reproduction exact. It will be of the same dimensions, of similar material, and wherever there is a blemish or a broken tile in the original they will be reproduced. The work will be done under the direction of Mr. Franklin W. Smith, a wealthy and enthusiastic amateur architect, who lives in the Moorish villa "Zorayda," at St. Augustine, Fla., during the winter, and in the Pompeiian villa at Saratoga during the summer.

Mr. Smith has had more experience in the reproduction of ancient architecture than any other man, and tenders his services without cost to the Exposition.

WILL WED HIS HALF-SISTER.

A Young Man From Danbury Finds His Father's Other Wife.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 3.—Thirteen years ago Erastus Beckett came to Danbury and soon built a prosperous business as a hatter. He left in England a wife and four children. Indifference finally led to complete obliteration of them, and six years ago Beckett married a Danbury girl. Last year his oldest son, John Beckett, went to England on a pleasure trip and met the oldest daughter of Erastus Beckett and his deserted wife.

The young man, unconscious of their relationship to Erastus, fell desperately in love with the girl and secured her promise to marry him. He came back to Danbury and continued the correspondence without any hint of the matter reaching Erastus. A month ago the young man sent for Emily and her mother to cross the ocean and join him in Danbury. The bride-elect arrived in New York yesterday, accompanied by her mother, the discarded wife of Erastus. The news has spread throughout the town and everybody is waiting in great curiosity for the moment when Erastus meets his deserted wife. The young man proposes to wed Emily whether her father likes it or not.

Agreed to the Glass Workers' Scale.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Aug. 3.—An official of the American Flint Glass Workers Union in this city to-day received a telegram from President Smith of Pittsburg containing the information that the Manufacturers' and Blowers' Committee had agreed to the entire wage scale adopted at Steubenville, Ohio, in July, with the exception of the demand for a Saturday half holiday in the prescription branch. Another conference on the question will be held between the Manufacturers' and Workers' Wage Committee in August.

Disappointed by the Prince.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Disappointment reigns in Carlsbad to-day over the announcement that the Prince of Wales will not go there about the middle of August, as announced, but will take his pleasure at Homburg. The statement that he would go to Carlsbad has already caused a rise of fifty per cent. in prices there, and half of the upper aristocracy of London, intending a continental vacation, had engaged rooms there. Now they lose the Prince after all.

Mr. Blaine's Niece Injured.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Miss Maggie Blaine, a niece of Secretary Blaine, was seriously injured last evening by jumping from a carriage while the horse attached to it was beyond the control of the driver. Miss Blaine in her fall struck head foremost on the pavement, causing concussion of the brain. The young lady was badly cut about the head, but the physicians think the injuries will not prove fatal.

From the Seaside Capital.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 3.—President Harrison and Postmaster-General Wanamaker attended services yesterday at the old Brick Church, Cold Spring, where the Rev. W. E. Stewart, of Allegheny City, preached. Bishop Scarborough, diocese of New Jersey, took supper with President Harrison. Russel B. Harrison and George W. Boyd dined with Congressman Reyburn.

Arrested for Drowning a Boy.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 3.—Paul Latuski, a little boy of 8 years, was drowned in the Mississippi River in this city last night. It is claimed that Frank Ratinsky, aged 13, pulled the boy into the river and held him under water until he was drowned, and Ratinsky has been arrested. He declares that the Latuski boy was intoxicated, and claims that he was trying to teach the little fellow how to swim.

Three Children Poisoned.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Joseph, Annie and Fred Willard, aged respectively 13, 12 and 11 years, living at No. 397 Federal street, were poisoned yesterday by eating canned salmon. They were taken to the hospital, where their condition is pronounced serious.

Sea Serpent Ahead of Mermaid.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The little American boat Sea Serpent, which is racing across the Atlantic against the Mermaid, from from Boston, was passed yesterday about 50 miles from the Scilly Isles.

HIS FIGHT FOR LIFE

Details of the Tragedy at Croton Landing.

BAKER IS LIABLE TO DIE.

Anderson is at Present in the Village Lock-Up.

Both Men Say that Each Other Pulled His Pistol First—The Trouble All Grew Out of a Family Quarrel—Mrs. Baker Caused the Shooting by Claiming She Was Insulted by Anderson.

SING SING, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Isaac Newton Baker, Col. Robert G. Ingersoll's private secretary, who was shot Saturday evening by Orville Anderson at Croton Landing, is still lingering between life and death with four bullet holes in his body.

Anderson is at present in the village lock-up, where he gave to-day his reason for the shooting. He said that he was going to the postoffice about 4 o'clock, as he usually does, and met Baker soon after he got off the train. Baker stopped him and proposed that they talk over their differences and see if there was not some way of settling their troubles, which were about the apartments of the house they each occupied. While they were talking Mrs. Baker appeared on the scene, and, pointing to Anderson, said that he had insulted her that morning in the hallway. Baker then took up what she said and made a motion as if to get his pistol. Anderson says that he noticed him and that he quickly drew his revolver to defend himself. Mrs. Baker then jumped between them.

Both men said that each other pulled his pistol first, but Anderson was the only one that fired, as Baker's right arm was shattered before he could shoot and his pistol was not discharged.

Charles C. Fisher, Jr., a brakeman, said he was passing after the shooting occurred, when Anderson called out to him to take the pistol from Mrs. Baker, who was trying to get possession of it. Anderson handed his pistol to Fisher, while he said he had to struggle to get possession of Baker's, who exclaimed:

"My darling, I stood to my flag like a man."

His wife answered: "Yes, my dear, this rebel has done you this time."

Anderson said that on Thursday last they both met in the depot and that Baker spoke in a snarling way and made a motion as if to get his pistol. He said he carried a pistol ever since.

The Bakers had lived in New York until last April, when they advertised in the newspapers for rooms in the country, and received an answer from Mr. Anderson, who had leased the mansion called the Moody house. Arrangements were made by which Baker occupied up stairs. Everything went on smoothly until recently, when the families began to quarrel about little things, and sneered at each other in the hall. The dividing of the fruit in the orchard was the most recent disturbance.

PARNELL AT THURLES.

Received Enthusiastically by a Multitude of People.

DUBLIN, Aug. 3.—Notwithstanding the threats and intimations of the anti-Parnellites, the reception of Parnell at Thurles, yesterday, was most enthusiastic.

A multitude of people attended the meeting, most of them from the country, and nearly all ardent in favor of Parnell. The streets were adorned with Irish flags and arched with evergreens. The people took the horses from Parnell's carriage and dragged the carriage, with Parnell in it, to the market square.

There Parnell delivered an address in his usual language. He affirmed that his policy was unchanged, that he distrusted the Liberal party, and would keep his hands unfettered until he had seen clear evidence of an honest purpose to fulfill Liberal pledges.

He warned O'Brien and Dillon to be careful not to be drawn into a dangerous course by blind confidence in Mr. Gladstone.

A $20,000 Bicycle Race.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—B. W. Cason, Jr., the 19-year-old local champion, and Charles B. Guillotte, the ex-champion, rode a five-mile race for the State championship. The prize was a diamond medal, but fully $20,000 was wagered by friends on the outside. Cason spurted away in the last quarter after a slow race and won easily in 19m. 8 4-5s.

Bitter Feeling Between Indian Factions.

CHAMBERLIN, S. D., Aug. 3.—The Sioux Commission now at the lower Brule agency has done nothing definite yet. One faction of the Indians want the agency moved north of the Missouri River, while another insists that it be moved north of the White River to the Rosebud Reservation. The feeling between the two factions is bitter.

Fatal Forgetfulness.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 3.—August Pfeil, a kettleman at the National Brewery, directed young Hugo Giving to clean out the machine. While the boy was at work Pfeil signalled to the engineer to start the machinery. The boy was fatally hurt. The coroner's jury committed Pfeil for causing his death.

Foul Play Suspected.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Aug. 3.—The whereabouts of James A. Cox, who left his home in Brooklyn July 11 to come here are still unknown. Friends of the missing man in this place, where he was well known, are convinced he has met with foul play.

He or She Must Die.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 3.—Adaline Brown, who cowhided the Rev. W. C. Jason, of St. John's Church, was released on $500 bail. Henry Ballard was her bondsman. She declares that she will kill Pastor Jason and that either he or she must die.

THE HOLY COAT OF TREVES.

Considerable Excitement Over the Approaching Exhibition.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The approaching exhibition of the Holy Coat of Treves is causing considerable excitement not only in that city, but throughout Germany. The garment is said to be a veritable seamless mantle that was worn by Jesus Christ, and it has been an object of veneration for centuries.

The coming exhibition will be the first in this generation, and only the fourth time the garment will have been shown within the past three centuries, and the event is naturally awaited with great interest by Catholics in all parts of the world.

In the year 1810 the first Napoleon assented to the garment being shown publicly for the second time, but in giving his sanction he added that the working of miracles was to be forbidden on that occasion. The last exhibition was in 1884, and the mantle is said to have been the medium of numerous miracles at that time.

The German authorities will not permit any utterances reflecting on the relic, and the assistant editor of a newspaper published in Silesia has been sentenced to imprisonment for two weeks for remarks that were published, alleged to be disrespectful, in regard to the Holy Coat.

The people of Treves are making immense preparations for the influx of pilgrims. The railway authorities have already had three new temporary stations erected, with spacious waiting and refreshment rooms. Extra rails have been laid by the tramway companies, and about 1,300 citizens have applied for licenses to start temporary beer saloons and public houses. The police of Treves have requested the police of leading cities in Europe to send experts down to assist in the detection of thieves and purloiners. Many pilgrims are expected from America.

FIVE DAYS IN A TRANCE.

A Curious Case of Suspended Animation in Pennsylvania.

PHŒNIXVILLE, Pa., Aug. 3.—Mary Bradley, a pretty 16-year-old daughter of Farmer Bradley, of Falls of French Creek, recently lay in a state of suspended animation for five days. At first she was pronounced dead, but her family hoped otherwise and resolved to watch over her until they were sure. In the course of time a life-like tint overspread the girl's face and then relays of watchers were supplied at the bedside night and day without cessation.

Finally, on the afternoon of the fifth day, the watchers noticed her bosom heave slightly and her lips tremble. Next she breathed a long-drawn sigh and then tossed her arms about and slowly opened her eyes. At first she was dazed, but gradually her senses returned to her. She seemed to have awakened from a refreshing sleep.

"I've had such a wonderful dream," she said. "I dreamed that I had died and had gone to Heaven. Oh, it was such a beautiful sight! Sweet music, angel voices and happiness there. All seemed so liliaful. It was like sitting in a great cathedral and listening to divine music with one's eyes shut. Angels caressed me and floated about me. I thought I swam in the air. The lights were not bright and dazzling, but soft and low. Oh, I wish I could have remained there always."

Miss Bradley has now fully recovered. The doctors ascribe her catalepsy to physical conditions favorable to suspended animation.

Death from Hydrophobia.

SAGINAW, Mich., Aug. 3.—Morris Godfrey, the 17-year-old boy afflicted with hydrophobia as the result of a dog bite on July 4, died yesterday in great agony. He was conscious between fits of raving until an early hour yesterday morning, when the spasms increased in length and violence, finally producing death. From the first he called frequently for water, but no sooner was it brought than he was seized with convulsions and he was unable to take a drop. A dog bitten by the same animal that attacked Godfrey is now sick, and, with the offending brute, has been shut up and will be used by physicians to experiment on.

Letter Carriers' Convention.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The second annual convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers will be held in Detroit Aug. 5, 6 and 7. There are 285 branches attached to the association, representing a membership of 8,000. Each branch is entitled to at least one delegate. The larger branches are entitled to one delegate for every 50 members.

An Entire Fire Department Resigns.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 3.—Every member of the Fire Department here has resigned. A petition was circulated and was signed by all the members. This action was brought about by the action of the retrenchment committee of the council in reporting a cut of $15 a month all around. All engineers are cut $20. The reduction to take effect Aug 15.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Minstrels to-night.

—Trinity excursion to Asbury Park to-morrow.

—Corsets that keep their shape, and also keep his custom, are what Peck sells.

—A party of 74 guests of The Netherwood have reserved seats for Music Hall to-night.

—A man arrested for drunkenness spent Sunday in a police station cell. Mayor Gilbert fined him $5 this morning.

—The excursion of the union of local Sunday-schools to Asbury Park, this week Friday, will be a most enjoyable event.

—The North Side Gun club will have a shoot and an old fashioned clam bake on Mountain avenue, Saturday, at one o'clock.

—Two runaway accidents occurred in town Saturday afternoon. No one was injured, but a buggy and a bottler's wagon were smashed.

—An opportunity for a fine day at the seashore will be afforded to-morrow, the date of the Trinity excursion. All who go will have a splended time.

—The reduction in the price of the best seats in Music Hall to-night to 75 cents, is according to the policy of the new management and not because of any reduction in the merits of Mr. Cleveland's company.

—Again appears, to-day, a new and interesting advertisement from that enterprising house, the United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association. The business this company has built up in such a short time is truly remarkable.

—The Water Supply Company will turn the water into its pipes in a day or two. A few hydrants are being erected at far distant points especially for the Company's own use. Through them the air is blown out of the pipes and the water can then enter.

—Two excursions arrived here yesterday. One, with ten cars, came in from Westfield, and the other, with eight coaches, from Fanwood. The day was pleasantly spent along the beach, and a majority of the excursionists took advantage of the fine bathing.—Asbury Park Daily Spray.

—THE PRESS has arranged for a special news service from Merwin's Point, Conn., where the Holy Cross church choir will spend the week at Camp Dupee. Parents and friends of the choristers who want to know just what is being done at the camp and who is doing it will read THE PRESS each night.

—W. E. Johnson, President of the Emancipation celebration committee, is now confined to his home under the doctor's care, with pleurisy. All of the committee who wish to see him are requested to call at 54 Manning avenue. All persons who have not paid their subscriptions can send them to that address.

—The Merits of the Pond Machine Tool Works went to Scotch Plains Saturday afternoon and beat the Twilights of that place in a game of base-ball by the score of 14 to 13. The battery for the Twilights was Johnson and Marte; for the Merits, Mack and Leboe. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning on account of rain.

—Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels are all new in every sense of the word, this season—new comedians, new vocalists, new dances and terpsichorean artists, new electrical and mechanical devices, and in fact, everything comprising the magnificent array of minstrel talent composing this season's company, is entirely new. There are no "old favorites". Don't miss it to-night.

—These many and severe showers of late have cost contractors Doud & Rice considerable money. Whether there was probable danger or not along any of the streets which they have crossed or through which they laid water pipes, special watchmen have been engaged day and night, lights have been kept burning and an extra force of men employed to at once repair any washouts.

It Takes the Colored Folks to Beat Somerville.

The colored "Stars" of this city went to Somerville, Saturday, to play the first of a series of games against the "Little Giants" of that town. The Plainfield team won in seven innings by the score of 10 to 8. The batteries for the "Stars" were: C. Kline and Peterson, and W. Kline and Milford. The second game will be played on the Crescent League's grounds next Saturday.

Better Behind the Bars Than Bound Brook.

WON IN SEVEN INNINGS.

The Crack Corinthians Defeated by the Gilt-Edged Crescents.

Delay on the railway kept the base-ball team of the Corinthian Athletic club from reaching the Crescent League grounds in North Plainfield on time, and it was not till half-past four o'clock that the game of last Saturday afternoon was begun. Twice playing had to be stopped for several minutes, and everybody had to huddle under shelter, on account of the drenching showers, and finally, at 6 o'clock, the rain settled down to such steady work that the game had to be called with only seven innings played. The score then stood 8 to 3 in the Crescents' favor.

Five of the runs credited to the Crescents were won through no merit of theirs, but were gained through spasms of clumsiness on the part of their opponents. The Corinthians played splendidly during most of the game, and at times did superb work in the field, making some very difficult running catches of fouls and flies, and spoiling, by their activity and sharpness, the Crescents' runners' chances for base stealing. But in the first inning the centre fielder and the catcher both lost their heads, and by two wretched throws spoiled their chance of shutting out the side without a run. In the third inning the short stop muffed a liner from Hammill's bat and stood fumbling with the ball in a dazed sort of way when he ought to have been putting out a base runner and spoiling a run. The Corinthians' other error was a combination of the catcher's muff of Lufbery's third strike in the third inning and his throw, when he did recover the ball, far out of the first baseman's reach. But as Lufbery was subsequently shut out at the plate this error was not costly.

Pitcher O'Neil—the same O'Neil who but a short time ago was Westfield's pet, and who is now being sought after by New York's League team—was in the box. He said at the beginning of the game that he would keep the Crescents down to eight hits. In the seven innings that were played the Plainfield boys got seven of these, and were fortunate in bunching them together so that they counted, combined with plays made on the Corinthians' errors, for runs. The Corinthians made eight hits off Hammill, who played in fine form, but the hits were so scattered as to be almost valueless. Two of their runs, however, were earned—and hard earned, too. Their first run resulted from Cantlon's two-bagger, immediately followed by Collins's single. In the next inning the three successive singles of Foster, Westbrook and Cantlon earned a run, and a passed ball by Bonner let in the third. It began to look in this inning as though Hammill were weakening, for all of the six men at the bat banged the ball, except Vroom, and he got his base on balls with only one strike. Turner, the last man declared out, was considered safe on first by a great many, but umpire Berriman insisted that the ball, which was thrown to first by Lee, beat him there, and the reviving hope of the Corinthians was squelched.

Earned runs—Corinthians, 2. Two-base hits—Keeler, Holly, Turner, Cantlon. Double play—Keeler to Lufbery to Holly. Base on balls—Crescents, 1; Corinthians, 2. First base on hit by ball—Keeler. First base on errors—Lufbery, Hammill, Abel. Passed ball—Bonner. Flies caught—By Crescents, 3; by Corinthians, 2. Foul flies caught—By Crescents, 2; by Corinthians, 3. Umpire—Mr. Berriman. Time of game—1:30.

The Crescents' runs were made in this way: In the first inning Jones's little bunt counted for a hit. Lufbery's hit advanced him to second. McIndoe blocked the ball just inside the diamond and got to second on Smith's erratic throw, while Jones and Lufbery scored. There was abundant chance for a double and perhaps a triple play, had Smith had his wits about him, as both Jones and Lufbery were away off bases. O'Neil was visibly disheartened at such wretched support, and it was thought that his cunning would desert him. After Hammill knocked a little one to second and was thrown out at first, Keeler hit him for two bases and brought McIndoe in, and Holly batted a single but was caught while being coached to second. Then Lee struck out. In the third inning Lufbery got to first on catcher's error. McIndoe hit safely. Turner's error permitted Hammill to reach first. Lufbery was shut off at the plate while trying to steal home. Keeler hit the ball to short-stop and reached first before Abel could recover and throw. McIndoe and Hammill scored on the hit. Holly made a two-bagger, and Keeler scored. A wild pitch gave Holly third, and he scored on Lee's sacrifice hit to second. Bonner tipped the ball for a fly foul and was out.

A creditable individual record was that of Keeler, the new shortstop. He was twice at the bat and made two hits and two runs. He had only two fielding chances, but he accepted and played them ably. In the fifth inning O'Neil hit him with the first ball he pitched. An eighth inning was begun just as the steady rain began, and Keeler again made a safe hit. This, however, was not counted, as the game was called back to the end of the seventh inning.

The reason McIndoe was put in the field was because Holly could not play anywhere except at first; and McIndoe was a sure fielder in any position.

Hammill struck out five men. O'Neil struck out seven.

WASHINGTON ROCK.

Here on this giant rock, backed by this wood,
He viewed the hostile red coats of the foe,
Led by Cornwallis on the plains below,
Noting their movements, while concealed he stood.

What a vast prospect was before his eyes,
Where now fair plains and pleasant towns abound!
Yonder's the gray of Staten Island Sound,
And here the Raritan low winding lies.

And Plainfield's but a dozen jumps, you'd think,
O'er there the towers of Brooklyn Bridge so tall;
Yonder stands Liberty enlightening all;
And there's the gusty ridge of Navesink.

How varied are the scenes which spread below,
Where Washington once stood and watched the foe.

EDWARD S. CREAMER.

WESTFIELD NOT IN IT.

Her Past Victories Proven to be the Result of Something Besides Ball Playing.

After last Saturday's game there can be no doubt about the respective merits of the representative ball-players of Somerville and Westfield. The former are a team, the latter are nine ordinary fielders and spasmodic batters. The Westfield nine are beyond question outclassed by such teams as those of Somerville and Plainfield. The two victories that Westfield boasts of over Somerville, were won because of an ignorant and incompetent umpire and because of two chance hits by McLaughlin who on Saturday struck out every time he came to the bat.

It seemed as if blood would be shed at the very opening of Saturday's game. McManus stepped to the plate first, and Faas, the Somerville's umpire, gave him his base on balls. Harkins then demanded that the distance from the home plate to the pitcher's box be measured. Upon this being done the discovery was made that Harkins had been set six feet too far back. After a new box was marked off, Somerville insisted that McManus be sent back from first base to strike over again. He was given the base on what was supposed to be the pitcher's error, and as the error was proved not to be the pitcher's, the penalty must be taken away. But Captain Divin of the Westfields wouldn't agree to the demand until the Somervilles packed up their bats and started from the field. McManus went to the plate again and lined out a safe hit. He was forced out at second by Lever who was permitted to take first on the play after three strikes. McCabe followed with a little grounder to Farrell and the inning wound up with a double. The following innings for Westfield were of about the same nature. Harkins pitched another great game and struck out any of the batters he pleased.

The work of the Westfield battery also deserves praise. McManus proved himself a good one at the bat, Lever in the field showed he has not lost any of his ability. Divin covered first well, but of the rest there is not much to be said. They gathered the balls like boys and threw them over their shoulders like girls.

The Somerville players put up a perfect game with the exception of an unfortunate throw by Roberts, and twice that Kennedy dropped that terrible third strike of Harkins's. Farrell, Moorehead and Heiser accepted 14 chances without a slip. It was one of the most interesting and exciting games that was ever seen.

The majority of the large crowd present was from Plainfield. The grand stand was overflowed by those who arrived from this city on train and bicycle, and numbers of them had to stand around in the grass with the Westfield patrons. That it is these local games (which THE PRESS has insisted on) that pay, was proven again at Westfield Saturday. Even the Netherwood hotel guests went to that town in their carriages to see the local rivalry. Nobody cares any more to see games against teams that are only organized to get the guarantee, with no honor or glory at stake. The score Saturday was:

SOMERVILLE.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH.

A Lightning Rod Falls from a Roof and Cuts Open a Workman's Head.

H. M. Clark, of 60 Grandview avenue, foreman for Jeremiah Manning & Son., met with quite a painful accident, and had a narrow escape from sudden death, at about 3 p. m. Saturday. He was assisting workmen for A. M. Griffen in raising a 40-foot ladder to the roof of the residence of Louis Myers, on Front street. As the top of the ladder reached the eaves of the building, it struck a loose section of lightning rod that was projecting, causing it to fall. Mr. Clark in trying to dodge it struck his head against the side of the building, knocking his hat off, and sending his head forward as the rod struck him. The blow was a glancing one, but the scalp was torn open, and Mr. Clark was knocked senseless for a moment. He received prompt and kind attention from Mr. and Mrs. Myers, and was subsequently taken to Dr. Carman's, where the wound was dressed. Had the point of the rod struck a square blow penetration of the skull and instant death must have resulted.

Saturday Matinees Resumed.

Notwithstanding the intense heat and general humidity of the midsummer season, large audiences and incessant laughter still characterize the performances of "Wang" at the Broadway theatre, New York city, and which stamps the success of the merry burletta as an established fact. The many excellent features of the libretto and score, the grotesque comicalities and unctuous humor of DeWolf Hopper, the delightful personality and graceful acting of dainty Delia Fox, the splendid singing of Jeannette St. Henry and Marion Singer, the clever work of principals and chorus, while the jingling music and sparkling lines, the brilliant costumes and elaborate scenery, are as complete as may be possible in a comic opera production. Besides these points of excellence, the Broadway theatre, with its luxurious rattan chairs, pure, cool temperature and complete appointments, maintains its well earned reputation as the most delightful amusement resort in the city.

The 100th performance of "Wang" will occur on Friday evening, the 14th inst., and the occasion will be commemorated by the presentation of handsome and appropriate souvenirs. The regular Saturday matinees have been resumed, and will continue until the close of the Hopper engagement in October.

A Lineman's Terrible Fall.

A lineman of the New York and New Jersey Telephone company fell yesterday from the top of a pole sixty feet high on East Jersey street, Elizabeth. He was hauling on a wire, when it suddenly parted, sending him backward to the pavement below. In his descent his body just grazed a fellow-workman who was on a crossbrace a few feet below. The unfortunate man had his ribs driven into one of his lungs, his spine fractured, and sustained a concussion of the brain.

He was picked up unconscious, the blood gushing from his mouth and ears, and was removed to the City Hospital, where the doctors said he would die. His name is William Keegan, and he resides on Eightieth street, New York. He is twenty-seven years old and unmarried. Keegan is one of the workmen who put up the big telephone cables in Plainfield, and he has done considerable other telephone work in this city.

Bicycle Ride to Plainfield.

A very delightful bicycle run to Plainfield was made by a jolly party of ladies and gentlemen from Elizabeth and Rahway Friday. The meet was at Roselle. The following were among the riders: Miss Demarest, Mrs. Gentle, Miss Nellie Meeker, Miss Ridley, Miss Stacey, Miss Stout, Miss Simpson, Miss Blanche Tucker, Miss Williamson, Mr. Gentle, Mr. Fink, Dr. F. W. Oliver, Will Chamberlain, Dr. C. B. Holmes, Henry Carmen, Bayard Craig, Lew Martin and Mr. Williamson.

Plainfield was reached at 5:30, and after partaking of cream and refreshments, the line was formed, and before starting for home a short parade was made through the principal resident streets.—Elizabeth Herald.

The Crack of the Rifle in Fanwood.

Fanwood has a rifle range. It is situated on Forrest street in a big open lot. Messrs. Beekin, Hamlin, Gibbs and Stevens were the chief promoters of the enterprise, and the crack of their rifles may be heard every pleasant afternoon as they try to perforate the bull's-eye. And they perforate it, to. Beekin and Hamlin were members of the crack rifle team of Brooklyn's Twenty-third Regiment.

A Question for "Our Bishop".

(From The New York Sun.)

Bishop Vincent is the author and founder of the Chautauqua educational movement, and a literary impropriety committed by him is more shocking than if it came from some ordinary ignoramus. On Friday, at Chautauqua, in urging the assembled farmers to study American history and literature, the Bishop spoke of "a lot of foreign rascals in our midst", and it would be interesting to know what he means by it. What is our midst, and how do the rascals get into it?

We trust that the Bishop's instructions in other respects are more consistent with correct principles and with logic.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

OFF FOR A WEEK OF PLEASURE.

Holy Cross Choir Start for Their Annual Summer Camp.

Nearly all the members of the Holy Cross church choir left on the 7:01 train last night for Merwin's Point, Conn., where the week will be spent in the very best sort of a good time. Neither pains nor expense has been spared to make their trip a grand success, and "Camp Dupee" will be one of the best appointed and most thoroughly equipped camps on the Sound this summer. The party expected to reach the Point this afternoon and to be firmly established in their new quarters to-night. Merwin's Point is situated on the shore of Long Island Sound, about seven miles southwest from New Haven, and two miles from Woodmont, the nearest post-office. The whole affair is under the management of choir-master William H. Miner, who will be assisted in the ordering of things in camp by sexton Israel Jones. The choristers who started on the trip were William Hardy, George Westervelt, Charles Mackey, Bertram Tallamy, Edward Smith, William Holmes, William Tallamy, Herbert Schutt, Edward Waring, Frank Perry, Arthur Smith, Arthur Murphy, Arthur Ford, Orville Waring, Louis Tallamy, Robert Turrill, Bertie Lloyd and Charlie Turrill.

CARRIES THE MARSHAL'S BULLET.

John Reedy Clubbed and Shot for Going to an Officer's Aid.

John Reedy, of Bound Brook, is a patient at the Muhlenberg Hospital in this city, suffering from an ugly wound in the head and another in the knee. The one in the head was caused by a Bound Brook borough marshal's club; that in the knee was caused by the marshal's pistol.

The injuries were received at Rudolph's beer-bottling establishment, on the tow-path of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, near Bound Brook, Saturday evening, and were the result of a row caused by marshal Whitehead's trying to serve a warrant on Timothy Dorn, one of the villagers, who was drinking beer.

Dorn resisted arrest, and tried to choke the officer, who called for assistance. Reedy tried to part the men, but was felled to the ground by a blow from Whitehead's club, which cut open his scalp. Several shots were then fired by the marshal, and Dorn ran away with a bullet wound in his hand. Another bullet lodged in Reedy's knee. Whitehead then arrested Reedy, and caused him to give $200 bail on the charge of helping a prisoner to escape. Last evening at the hospital Reedy was still in such a dazed condition that he could not remember how the row occurred. He will always carry the bullet in his leg, as it cannot be removed without danger to the limb.

THE BEES KICKED.

Yesterday the five-year-old son of John Conkling, while playing in the yard near a bees' nest was severely stung by yellow jackets. His mother ran to his assistance and was also stung.

Everybody ought to read the article on "Dunellen's Opportunity" in last Friday's PRESS. Those who have n't it may obtain it from the newsboy.

The temperance people were obliged to hold their meeting in the Sunday-school room of the Presbyterian church yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Kinsey led the meeting.

THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS.

Last evening, at the M. E. church, the first of the series of sermons on the "Pilgrim's Progress" was given. Three pictures were exhibited. The second of this series will not take place until Sunday evening, August 23, as the Rev. Mr. Kinsey will take two weeks' vacation in the interim.

A SUMMER NIGHT'S RALLY.

THE PRESS is in receipt of a very interesting programme of literary and musical features to be given to-morrow evening on the M. E. parsonage lawn. The occasion is a summer night's rally, under the auspices of the Epworth League. All are invited.

WILL FINISH THE GAME THIS WEEK.

The ball game at Dunellen Saturday afternoon, was twice interrupted by rain, and as a consequence the boys played only seven innings, which resulted in the score of 29 to 19 in favor of the Athletics. In the seventh inning the young men made 11 runs, gaining largely on their opponents, and had they been permitted to play the other two innings it would have been a close game. Much dissatisfaction arose on this account, and the boys purpose playing the game off next Saturday. During the game a little boy standing behind the catcher was hit in the face by a passed ball, and was quite badly hurt.

—W. S. Cleveland carries a ten-thousand-dollar insurance policy on his jewelled first part and the costumes of his minstrel opening. He had a lot of valuable costumes burned on his recent Coast tour, and he says he wants to be on the safe side.

No Elopement.

Since the publication of sensational stories in unreliable sheets of the alleged elopement of nursemaid Josie Loring and hackman Michael Kennedy, of this city, a reporter interviewed Josie's mother at her home on Jefferson avenue, Elizabeth. Mrs. Loring said: "Josie is decently and honorably married, and with our full knowledge and consent. There is no truth in the cruel stories published. She did not run away from home."

Death in a Brakeman's Life.

A railway brakeman was horribly mangled by the cars at Bound Brook this forenoon. He was brought to the Muhlenberg Hospital in a dying condition.

The brakeman's name is Lovell. His home is at Elizabethport.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

—Arthur Rigby, an exceedingly droll and original comedian, is one of Manager W. S. Cleveland's recent discoveries. Mr. Cleveland says that he is the greatest living eccentric black face comedian. He is now with Cleveland's "Big City Show," which will be seen at Music Hall to-night.

The gormandizer likes it because it is fine. The workman likes it because it quenches his thirst, enriches his blood, and strengthens his muscle. It is cheap. The mother likes it. It keeps her boys at home. The women of America like it, because it takes the place of intoxication. This Hires's Root Beer.

President Clark May Go.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 3.—The rumor is being persistently circulated that President Clark, of the New York & New Haven Railroad, will resign on his return from Europe. The story is that a large number of the more conservative stockholders are not satisfied with Mr. Clark's financial management, or the dividends of 10 per cent. which they are receiving under his regime.

No Trace of Murderer Almy.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—It is now more than two weeks since the murder of Christie Warden at Hanover, N. H., and the assiduous labor of the most skillful detectives has been altogether in vain. Had Frank C. Almy, the murderer, flown from the scene on wings he could not have baffled his pursuers more effectually.

Died Suddenly at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—James Harvey Ransom, a retired New York drygoods merchant, died suddenly at his summer cottage here last night of apoplexy, aged 65. He made his home at the Gilsey House while in New York.

Secretary Blaine Gaining Strength.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 3.—Secretary Blaine is showing much improvement in health. He takes long walks and drives and is rapidly gaining strength. He seldom visits the village.

Gov. Hill Starts for Albany.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 3.—Gov. Hill left Normandie-by-the-Sea for Albany early this morning.

Infatuated With the Salvation Army.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 3.—Captain Goodrich, of the Salvation Army is accused of being responsible for the disappearance of Mrs. Fagan, who signed a deed of separation Saturday from her husband. It is thought Mrs. Fagan has gone to Chicago with a letter to Captain Goodrich's sister, but this the captain denies.

Caused by a Drunken Husband.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—To escape the fury of a drunken husband Mrs. Bowmeyer, occupying the second floor flat of No. 632 East Thirteenth street, threw herself out of a window of her apartments last evening, receiving internal injuries from the effects of which she may die.

Encke's Comet Is on Time.

MOUNT HAMILTON, Cal., Aug. 3.—The well-kown periodical comet of Encke was rediscovered this morning at Lick Observatory by E. E. Barnard. It is very faint and is following closely the path predicted for it by Dr. Barklund.

Conway Sentenced to Death.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—John Conway, the steamship fireman, who has been found guilty of murdering the fifteen-year-old boy, whose body was found floating in Harndon Dock, Liverpool, on May 19 last, was sentenced to death in that city.

Judge Hamilton Staples Dead.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 3.—Judge Hamilton Staples, of the Superiour Court, died here last night in his 63d year. He had suffered for several weeks from a tumor on his Kidney, the cause of his death.

A Little Girl Killed by the Cars.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Barbara Kell, aged 8 years, was killed at Olis, a suburban station of this city, by a Central train during the morning. The child was trying to escape from one train and ran in front of another, which cut her in two.

Farmer Burned to Death.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Aug. 3.—A barn on the city farm was burned during the morning and Frank Miller, head farmer, was burned to death while trying to save the horses and cattle.

Deserving of Sympathy.

Mrs. Cumso—They say Mr. Snooper has gone to the dogs. I'm so sorry.

Cumso—So am I—for the dogs.—Jury.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

In the Wrong Office.

Peddler—My dear sir, do you know how much time you lose dipping a pen into ink? Ten dips a minute means 600 dips an hour or 6,000 dips in ten hours and each dip consums—

Business Man—Yes, I know; I have figured it all out.

Peddler—And yet I find you still writing in the old way.

Business Man—Yes, I am using the fountain pen you sold me about a month ago—using it in the old way because it won't write any other way.

Peddler—Beg pardon; I'm in the wrong office. Good day.—Good News.

A Flagrant Crime.

Mike (to the master of the house)—May it plaze yer honor, the coal man just druv into the yard and run over a little boy, sor.

Mr. Highlaw—Poor little fellow! You must take him to the hospital and have him well cared for.

Mike—And he run one of his wheels on the lawn, sor.

Mr. Highlaw—The wretch! Send for an officer. Such culpable carelessness must be punished.—Judge.

A VAGUE LONGING.

Old Mr. Baldston (on his wedding journey)—If my little peach-blossom has any wish ungratified, she has only to express it.

Mrs. Baldston—You are so good, Telemachus. If you would only give me a real good spanking and send me home, the way dear old grandpa used to do, it would seem so-o-o natural.—Once a Week.

Unreasonable Curiosity.

Before a young man marries he should learn not to ask foolish questions.

"What, my angel," exclaimed a youthful husband, bursting into the kitchen, "doing the cooking yourself? What is it?"

"Why, Edgar, how foolish of you! How in the world can I tell till I see what it turns out?"—Youth's Companion.

Art and Nature.

Husband—What was that you were playing, my dear?

Wife—Did you like it?

"It was lovely!—the melody divine, the harmony exquisite!"

"It was the very thing I played last evening, and you said it was horrid."

"Well, the steak was burnt last evening."—N. Y. Weekly.

Coming Trouble.

"This seems like one of the old fashioned one-ring performances, dearest, doesn't it?" he whispered, as he slipped the golden circlet on her finger.

"I don't know, Harry," she answered dubiously, "but I am afraid there will be something of a circus when you speak to papa."—Chicago Tribune.

Cheap Doctoring.

Anxious Mamma—Little Dick is upstairs, crying with the toothache.

Practical Papa—Take him around to the dentist's.

"I haven't any money."

"You won't need any money. The toothache will stop before you get there."—Good News.

A Little Too Much.

Mr. Snaggles—You must not think that I am rich. I have no money to give my daughter.

Sniffs (cheerfully)—Oh, I will be satisfied to have you give up the house to us; and you might have your life insured in my favor.—Once a Week.

Taking Him at His Word.

"What ought I to give you?" asked the diner, as he put his hand in his pocket for a tip.

"I leave it with you, sir," said the waiter, politely.

"Thanks; I can make good use of it." And the waiter was tipless.—Puck.

A Great Event.

"Boston is noted for many great events in the history of the country," said Bagley, proudly, to a newly-arrived Englishman.

"Ya-as; I was reading only yesterday that a man was arrested there for kissing his wife."—Judge.

Science Versus Nature.

"Do you go in for scientific farming?"

"No," returned the farmer. "I can't afford to pay $7 a pod for pease and $3 apiece for potatoes. I farm by the natural method, and come out ahead."—Harper's Bazar.

His Mother-in-Law.

Mrs. Newwed—My mother writes that she is coming here to stay three months.

Mr. Newwed—Thank Heaven for that! She knows how to cook.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Comforting Thought.

"I have one big advantage over Gould and Sage and the other billionaires."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. No one will ever attempt to forge my name on a check."—Munsey's Weekly.

Compensation.

Grocer—The berries are cheaper today; the bottom has fallen out of the market.

Mrs. Fraiser—I suppose that is the reason you have raised it in the box.—Puck.

The Reason.

Hyde—Why does Jackson call his statements "open letters?"

Parker—Because they are open to much criticism.—Munsey's Weekly.

If you require Whiskey for Family or Medicinal use buy the best. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is not made by any "peculiar," "secret" or fairy process. It is made in the good old way in which all pure whiskey is distilled. It is sold only in bottles bearing the label and trade mark of A. R. NEWPORT'S MIGHTY RACE

Mrs. Whitney Will Distance the Whole Crowd.

Newport Before and After 11 A. M.—The Casino With Its Brave Men and Fair Women—The Fashionable Do Not Bathe in Public.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

He who has not seen Newport at early dawn has never seen the beautiful town in its perfection. When the gray fog lifts from an emerald bay and the faint flush of sunrise touches its limpid waters; when the hush of silence broods over the luxuriantly shaded streets of the old town and the cool, salt breeze goes stealing through the thick, dusky foliage about its beautiful homes, then does one realize what a gem is set by nature and polished by art on this rock-bound shore.

It is not until eleven o'clock that fashionable Newport wakens. Before that hour the streets are given over to the ordinary population of a country town—tradespeople, business men, farmers rattling along in their wagons laden with supplies. But about eleven everything changes. In place of the heavy wagons jolting along the narrow streets, suddenly smart drags, coaches, buckboards and dogcarts appear as by magic. Well-groomed athletic men in flannels are seen lounging about the Casino entrance. Here, too, appear the youth with his tennis racquet and the swell with his monocle. Carriages roll up, and from them step bewildering visions in airy, fluttering summer raiment. Women in gossamer robes of palest hue smile on the waiting cavaliers and give them the genuine Newport greeting, consisting of an "Ah! how d'yaw daw?" and the pump handle shake. Entrancing strains of music and silvery laughter float out from the Casino. From a beautiful and humdrum country town, Newport is suddenly transformed into a brilliant watering place.

Newport is no longer a hotel resort. The people who used to stop at the hotels now have their cottages and live in a world all their own, and the frequenters of summer resorts can see no fun in coming here to watch the Four Hundred drive around and realize with the fullest significance of the phrase that they are not in it. Far more difficult to swing open than the gates of the New Jerusalem are the social portals of Newport. It requires more than money, and yet influence and social standing cannot always effectually force an entrance if money be lacking. Here are illustrations of both truths: Mr. and Mrs. Brooks of New York though possessing enormous wealth and by all odds the most beautiful place in Newport, have not as yet penetrated the charmed circle. On the other hand, the niece of the social autocrat, Ward McAllister, has been snubbed by some of the smartest Newport girls. Miss McAllister is pretty, well-bred and stylish, but she has no money. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish gave a luncheon for her and she was so snubbed and ignored by the young ladies present that the hostess was furious.

So it's not a question either of money or social backing. What is it that makes one succeed at Newport? Possibly there is no one more qualified to answer than this fine looking woman, driving alone in one of the most irreproachable turnouts in all Newport. Her hair is gray, her skin sun-kissed. She wears an exquisite costume of fawn with white trimmings and a bonnet of soft pink roses. This woman of perfect breeding, whose bow is declared intoxicating, who receives with the manners of a duchess, whose tact is proverbial, who never harshly criticises or listens to criticism, who studies and entertains, who is manipulating the Four Hundred like dough, who is pushing her husband toward the white house or the court of St. James, is Mrs. Whitney, wife of the ex-secretary of the navy. It is said that the Vanderbilt ladies are crowding the Astor ladies closely. Mrs. Whitney will distance the whole crowd unless something breaks.

Apropos of the Vanderbilts and Astors, everyone knows of the ambition of Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt. Where the Astors grow this lady longs to be, and right straight between the Astor cottages she has plunked down a huge marble palace or temple or sarcophagus. Everybody goes to look at this stupendous pile whose lofty head, clear cut against the turquoise sky, looms up from the surrounding foliage with a truly Pantheon or Coliseum effect. Around the Vanderbilt estate or burial lot, as you like, is built a marble wall, topped off with objects that look like funeral urns, surmounted by pineapple cheeses—a truly rich and chaste design. "There is nothing I so love as building," Mrs. Vanderbilt is reported as saying. "Next to building I love furnishing, and least of all living in the place when it's finished." The only idea which this marble edifice suggests is the Vanderbilt millions.

Mrs. Fred Vanderbilt drives up Bellevue avenue, dark, stunning, aggressive, in a black foulard splashed over with pale indigo blue flowers as big as your hand, and wearing a very smart indigo hat.

Mrs. Kidd, of New York, she who fought a burglar and rolled downstairs with him, is also pointed out on the drive.

Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, fine, solid, dark-eyed and intelligent-faced, rolls by. Mrs. Elliott is the only literary woman, save Mrs. Cruger and Mrs. Harrison, whom the four hundred tolerate. She is giving a series of readings on early and recent English and American literature and is invited everywhere. Mrs. Elliott is devoted to hideous greenery, gallery gowns, short-waisted and huge-sleeved, which, however, cannot make a fright of this charming woman.

Mrs. Henry Clews, tall, distinguished, in elegant half-mourning, is always pointed out, and beautiful Mrs. DeForest, oval-faced, glorious-eyed and superbly formed in an exquisite dove-gray costume, is admired by all the gaping on-lookers. Mrs. DeForest is the sister of Miss Hargous, and one of her many accomplishments is marvelously graceful dancing, especially of French and Spanish measures. Miss Hargous, all in white, driving with her fiance, Mr. Duncan Elliott, flashes by, the embodiment of youth, beauty and happiness. Miss Spriggy Post, over whose engagement to Mr. Hamilton Fish Webster Newport is now gossiping, is also pointed out. It is rumored that the proposed marriage suits nobody; that the families on both sides are not pleased. Miss Post, although an exceedingly pretty girl, is not so popular as Miss Hargous, being somewhat defiant, careless of the feelings of others and more aggressive than is becoming a young woman. Miss Post often forgets to bow to her superiors in years, and it is said is fond of snubbing, while Miss Hargous is always approachable and affable.

Mr. Frank Barrington Foote, the English singer, who is a great pet of Newport exclusives just now, is tall, dark and dashing. Mr. Foote has sung at most of the prominent houses here and has been seen driving with Ward McAllister, so his future is assured.

Society too is petting two pretty Japanese girls, exquisitely graceful, who having had the honor of dancing before Lord Salisbury have been taken up here. They are quite comme il faut, their father always traveling with them. They are in demand to dance in Japanese costume at garden parties and afterward to pour tea.

The Baldwins have the distinction of possessing the most bizarre cottage at Newport. It is a curious conglomeration of stone, brick, wood, hay and stubble, otherwise matting, piazza portieres, —the whole intensified and embellished by scarlet awnings. Everybody draws a long breath when this mass of inartistic rubbish comes in sight and asks: "What is it?"

The Van Allen cottage is a very good specimen of the extraordinary freaks which architecture takes at the seashore. It was at this cottage that Lillian Russell came to sing last season. A high stone wall has now been built around it to shut away its sacred beauties from the eyes of the vulgar.

Newport driving is all done up on week days. Nobody drives on Sunday. To do this would mean social ostracism. Not that it is wicked. Oh no! only not the correct thing. On Sunday afternoons all the world, the fashionable world, may be met on the Cliff walk, which runs for four miles along the high cliffs against which the surf pounds ceaselessly. The Vanderbilt arch, built by Mr. Fred Vanderbilt, is one of the features of this beautiful path.

Newport is nothing if not respectable. This famous resort is polished beyond description. Those in the whirl here live in the same glare of publicity which surrounds them in cities. Everybody is on a continual dress-parade. No relaxation, no laying off, no sloughing around in loose, easy, comfortable fashion, hobnobbing with nature and chumming with earth and sea. One wonders if the smart girl in yellow crape gown, yellow hat and parasol on top of the drag yonder, doesn't ever weary of the endless dressing, going, dancing and eating, and long to get away somewhere to rest, "anywhere out of the world," or if the man with the impassive face and tired, blase eyes behind that matchless four-in-hand, wouldn't like to don bagging trousers, flannel shirt and rugged shooting-jacket, pack up a pipe and a gun and take to woods?

EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

"What is the cause of Dumley's sudden popularity at the club?"

"Sh! Don't let it go any further. He was caught cheating at cards."—Judge.

GLENDALE'S VICTIM

The Murdered Girl Identified by Her Uncle.

SAID TO BE MATILDA HABER.

She Took Over $700 With Her—The Money is Missing—It is Supposed She Was Robbed Before Being Killed—A Search for the Missing Lover Now Being Made by the Police.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The body of the girl who was found murdered at Glendale, L. I., Sunday, has been identified by Charles R. Weber of New York as his niece, Matilda Haber, of North Haven, Conn., who left that place Saturday morning in company with a man named John Habe.

The girl, who was infatuated with Habe, inherited several thousand dollars from her mother and had still $5,000 to her credit in the First National Bank of this city.

When she left North Haven she had $750 on her person, and Weber believes she was murdered for the money.

The New York and Brooklyn Police are looking for Habe.

According to Weber's description Habe is a stout, dark complexioned man, aged 35, about five feet ten inches tall, with heavy eyebrows, eyes close together, black mustache and goatee. He was dressed in a light gray suit, standing collar, striped necktie, a light colored flat top derby hat, and wore a heavy watch and chain.

The description of Habe tallies very closely with that given by William H. Lake, of Glendale, of the man whom he saw with a woman resembling the dead girl, near the scene of the ghastly discovery of last Sunday.

All attempts to locate the actual scene of the murder have proven fruitless. There is no sign of a struggle anywhere in the vicinity. The woman was undoubtedly killed at a distance and carried to the spot where her corpse was discovered.

KENTUCKY'S ELECTION.

The New Constitution Adopted by a Large Majority.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 4.—Yesterday's was the last election by viva voce vote that will ever be held in Kentucky. The new constitution, despite its powerful opposition of railroads, banks and corporations generally, has been carried by an overwhelming majority, and the last State constitution that still recognized slavery is a thing of the past.

The new constitution will tax railroads, banks and stock companies, abolish the office of Public Printer, provide for a secret ballot system and municipal reforms, and also carries an anti-lottery clause which will wipe out the half dozen lottery charters now being operated, with semi-daily drawings at Covington and Louisville, in the interests of "policy" games throughout the United States generally.

Reports from the cities and towns throughout the State indicate that the Democrats have about the usual majority, probably 20,000. Indications are that the Alliance, or People's Party, vote is very small, despite the fact that every effort was made for two months preceding the election to organize the Alliance men in the State, all the leaders of that movement of national reputation, including Senator Peffer and Jerry Simpson of Kansas, Taubeneck of Illinois, and Davis of Texas, having stumped the State thoroughly. The greater part of the Alliance vote seems to have been drawn from the Republican party. The vote for and against the Constitution was without partisan significance.

Later returns indicate that the vote for the constitution is fully five times as great as that against it.

Murderer Webster Not Yet Captured.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—No trace of Webster who shot Charles E. Goodwin, has yet been found. Goodwin died at the Roosevelt Hospital during the morning. He made the following statement to Dr. Schultze, the house surgeon of the hospital: "I was sitting in my room when a man named Webster knocked me off my chair and shot me." Mrs. Webster has been arrested. She says her husband went to Goodwin's apartments to demand an apology for insulting her. Goodwin threw a cuspidore at him and he then shot him.

The Baker-Anderson Tragedy.

CROTON LANDING, Aug. 4.—Isaac Newton Baker, who was shot by Orville Anderson in the duel here, was alive at noon. Anderson was arraigned during the morning for an examination before Coroner Sutton. The Coroner, after listening to the testimony of the witnesses, who told substantially the same story of the tragedy as that which has already been printed, committed Anderson to jail to await the result of Baker's injuries.

Smallpox Raging in Lima.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Reports from Lima, Peru, state that smallpox is spreading there and the authorities have not the slightest idea how to check its spread. Not only is it seen in children, but even elderly persons are subject to it and yet very little activity is employed by the Sanitary Board against infection. In fact the doctors seem to say they cannot get vaccine matter at any price for their patients.

Will Contest Her Father's Will.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The will of Lawyer Richard S. Newcombe, will not be admitted to probate just yet. His daughter, Ida Florine Newcombe, who eloped with Theatrical Manager George W. Lederer, has decided to contest the legality of the document.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PATTISON TAKES HOLD.

He Calls for a Further Investigation of the Keystone Bank.

HARRISBURG, PA., Aug. 4.—Gov. Pattison has written a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Foster concerning the State's interest in the affairs of the Keystone Bank.

He declares that the published reports of Mayor Stuart's investigation of John Bardsley's defalcation show that a large portion of the missing money belonging to the Commonwealth, amounting apparently to $15,000,000, went into the Keystone Bank.

Hence he asks that the receiver of the bank be authorized to allow a committee of five citizens to be appointed by the Governor to have access to the books, papers and accounts of the bank in order, if possible, to determine what became of the money belonging to the State.

DEATH BEFORE DISGRACE.

Manager Cassell Raised $4,000 Fraudulently and Commits Suicide.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—It is asserted here and admitted, it is said, by one of the firm of Wilson, Cassells & Co., that W. E. Cassells, who committed suicide in the Preble House, Portland, Me., was a forger. So far as is known the amount of his forgeries is between $3,000 and $4,000.

Cassells was considered one of the brightest salesmen of safes in the country. His connection with the Hall Safe and Lock Company, of which the firm has the Boston agency, dates back some twenty years. He was the business manager. His partners account for the suicide on the ground that he was unable to face the discovery of his forgeries.

RESULT OF AN OLD FEUD.

Terrible Shooting Affray in Which Six Men Were Killed.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—A special from Lake Charles says: Yesterday at Lock, Moore & Co.'s steam road an altercation between the men at work took place, in which ten men were shot, six of whom were killed at once and one mortally wounded, the remaining three are seriously injured, but they may recover.

The difficulty took place about 20 miles from here and, as the means of communication are very poor, we have not been able to learn full particulars, but it is known to be the result of an old feud.

Denied by Cooper, Hewitt & Co.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Mr. Cooper, of the firm of Cooper, Hewitt & Co., speaking of the report that his firm were endeavoring to launch a syndicate to purchase their plant, said: "We have had nothing do with getting up any syndicate, foreign or American, to buy our iron works. Some time since a responsible American gentleman asked us if we would sell them, and we named a price which we would be willing to take, but no contract of any kind has been entered into.

Ex-Senator Ingalls' Plan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Ex-Senator Ingalls is in town, but will not talk politics. He says he has just made a contract to publish his book on American politics and talks willing about it, telling how it is to be bound, how many pages he has written, and what it will cost. Mr. Ingalls starts for Europe the last of this month on the Netherlands steamer Veendam. He will land at Amsterdam and spend the winter in the Holy Land and on the Nile.

Struck With a Loaded Cane.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Gotlieb Goetz, a shoemaker, aged 25, unmarried, beat Herman Erb, a stonecutter, aged 42, married, fracturing his skull and producing injuries from which he is not expected to recover. Goetz was on a spree and endeavored to induce a nephew of Erb's to drink with him. Goetz returned with his nephew to Erb's house, and the latter severely criticized Goetz's conduct, whereupon he struck him on the head with a loaded cane. Goetz was arrested.

Shot for Playing Craps.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 4.—Detectives Witsel and McVey discovered a crowd of negroes playing craps in the morning on one of the Christiania marshes. The negroes ran. They were called upon to halt, and, not doing so, McVey fired, wounding a negro named Henry Pryor mortally.

A Distillery in Trouble.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—The Old Colony Distillery Company, which was attached by the United Grocers' Association of New York for $150,000, has applied to United States Internal Revenue Collector Hutchinson for permission to suspend temporarily.

Republican Clubs to Meet.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The convention of the State League of Republican Clubs will meet at the Grand Opera House to-morrow. Secretary Hedges figures out that fully 800 delegates will be present, and that there will be as many more attendant club men.

OLD HEROES IN LINE

Forty Thousand Boys in Blue Parading To-Day.

AN IMMENSE CROWD IN DETROIT.

The Silver Encampment Worthy to be Called a Perfect Success.

Forty Little Girls Pelt the Grizzled Veterans With Flowers—One Company Carry the Old Springfield Muskets They Used in the War—The Colored Line a Perplexing Question This Year.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 4.—The veterans are here and we are theirs is a sentiment that is echoed throughout this city.

The principal streets are not only blazing with the national colors in every conceivable design and degree of profuseness on either side, but immense flags and shields almost obscure the sight in gazing up the centre, owing to "cross-stringing."

Not only are business places universally decorated, but private residences on the main streets are literally hid from view under the mass of flags and bunting.

There are four handsome triumphal arches spanning important streets, which are models of taste and elegance. One, spanning Fort street, near Griswold, is surmounted by an elaborate Florida display of tropical plants, and during the parade to-day 44 beautiful girls filled it and pelted the vets with roses.

The Great Parade.

The parade opened this morning with 40,000 men in line—all old veterans, not a single military company turning out.

Every street within three blocks of the line of march was closed by the proclamation of the mayor, and intrusion was further guarded against by the roping off of the section and the stationing of a strong armed guard at each street intersection. One company, that from Union City, Mich., appeared in heavy marching arms, with the old Springfield muskets and the same accoutrements as they wore when they marched out of Detroit in the stormy days when men were needed and Michigan did its duty.

Music Everywhere.

With its streets full of marching men, with every house quartering a veteran, with the strains of music floating on every breath of the wind and with the sound of the drum and the shrill note of the fife in the air, Detroit is experiencing a time the like of which it has never seen before and will never see again. Thanks for the perfect arrangements there is room for all with plenty to eat and nothing lacking to make the silver encampment worthy of the name of perfect success.

The "Color" Question.

Everybody is so busy here that the question of drawing the color line in the G. A. R. is practically receiving no attention. Not only are the newspapers so occupied with other matters that the subject is dwarfed, but until the posts all get in and settled and the parade is over, they have little thought for the matter that the fight is a coming issue.

The Southern men seen nearly all believe that the negro has got to go into a department by himself, but to what extent they are organized cannot at present be determined.

RIOTS IN ROME.

Socialists Burn a Portion of the Town Hall—Many Wounded.

ROME, Aug. 4.—The municipal election in Rome has been attended by terrible riots.

A socialist named Cariffe led the rioters, who looted and burned a portion of the town hall, destroying valuable archives.

In the suppression of the riot one person was killed and many wounded.

E. W. Scripps for Governor.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—E. W. Scripps, proprietor of the Cincinnati Post, is talked about as a suitable candidate for Governor of the People's Party ticket. A committee will wait on Mr. Scripps at his residence in Westchester for consultation in reference to the use of his name before the convention at Springfield to-morrow. This will be in the nature of a surprise for that gentleman, who has had no intimation that he has been considered as a possible candidate for gubernatorial honors.

Mrs. Slocum's Remains Arrive.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The North German Lloyd steamship Ems, which just arrived here from Southampton and Bremen, has on board the remains of Mrs. Elliott T. Slocum of Detroit, who left to visit her sister in Dresden on February last and died there June 6th. The coffin was received at the dock by ex-Postmaster-General Dickinson, and Bishop Wilmington of Nebraska. The remains will be taken to Detroit on President Ladyard's private car. Mrs. Slocum was the daughter of the late Ransom Wood.

OPPOSED TO SHERMAN.

The Alliance Leaders Will Try to Prevent the Senator's Re-election.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—In an interview with the Hon Jerry Simpson he says all the Alliance leaders will stump Ohio for the purpose of retiring Senator Sherman. "The boys are after his scalp," said Mr. Simpson, "and they are as certain of getting it as they were in the case of Ingalls or Hampton. We are not caring very much about the Gubernatorial contest; let that go as it will, with either McKinley or Campbell victor. What we are after is the Senatorship. Sherman is marked for retirement, and out he goes. I doubt even whether his name will go before the legislature."

"What's the matter with Sherman?"

"Why, his financial policy of course. He clings to the old ideas in finance and will learn nothing new. He does not recognize that conditions have changed, and that what was a good system half a century ago is not adapted to the needs of the present."

"Have you any idea who his successor will be?" was asked.

"No; that has not been given much thought. The keynote of the struggle will be to defeat Sherman. Any man who has been mentioned in connection with the place will be preferable to the present incumbent."

A MILLION DOLLARS LOST.

One of Chicago's Big Dry Goods Stores Gutted by Fire.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Fire, involving a loss of at least $1,000,000, broke out at 7:30 a. m. in the large retail dry goods and notions store of Siegel, Cooper & Co., a seven story building covering a quarter of a block at the corner of State and Adams streets.

The fire originated in the engine room in the basement, but in what manner is not known.

When the fire was discovered there were only twenty-five people in the building, mostly floor walkers and male employes. Had the fire broken out a half hour later all the employes of the store, numbering a thousand men, women and children, would have been on duty and a serious panic would probably have occurred.

The flames communicated to "The Leader," another department store on the opposite side of the street and did damage there to the extent of $100,000. J. H. Walker & Co's dry goods store adjoining was damaged $30,000, and the Emerich furniture Company sustained a loss of $75,000. Various other small losses aggregate $50,000.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Bishop Flasch died at Lacrosse, Wis., yesterday.

Calumet and Hecla has declared a dividend of $5 per share payable September 10.

The arrest of an anti-Parnellite M. P. for bigamy is said to be expected in London.

All the bricklayers in Omaha have struck for seven hours' work on Saturday with eight hours' pay.

A despatch from Paris says: The German Government has interdicted the sale of Le Ganlois in Alsace, Lorraine.

The election of the Rev. Isaac Lea Nicholson as Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Milwaukee has been approved by 27 dioceses—a majority.

The French Consul at Chicago denies that representatives of his government in this country are keeping a watch upon unnaturalized Frenchmen.

The National Union of Textile Workers opened their second semi-annual convention at Fall River, yesterday, President Sullivan in the chair. Over thirty delegates were present.

The statue of Pope Leo XIII., presented to the Catholic University of Washington, by Joseph de Loubat of New York has arrived at the Georgetown Custom House from Rome.

Samuel Hans, a well-known real estate dealer at Allston, Mass., has made an assignment to his father, Louis Hans. His liabilities are $500,000, while his gross assets are $1,000,000. Inability to obtain ready cash is given as the cause. The Samuel Hans Company, to which Mr. Hans sold out about a year ago, are in no way involved, having no liabilities.

The American Glucose Company, which has factories in Buffalo, N. Y., and in other cities throughout the United States, announces a general reduction of 10 per cent. in salaries and wages, taking effect at once. The cut is made necessary by the high price of corn, excessive competition since the breaking up of the glucose combination last fall and the cheapness of sugar. The cut affects about 500 employes in this city.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—For New England: Increasing cloudiness and occasional showers; winds generally easterly; nearly stationary temperature.

For Eastern New York: Increasing cloudiness and occasional showers; winds generally easterly; no decided change in temperature.

For New Jersey: Cloudiness and frequent showers; variable winds; slight changes in temperature.

For Western New York: Continued cool northerly winds; occasional showers.

Almost Cooked Alive.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Aug. 4.—While John Wagoner, an employe of the Cerealine Mills at this place, was inside of one of the boilers cleaning it, another employe, not knowing that Wagoner was there, turned a stream of hot water in on him, almost cooking him alive.

Electric Light Building Burned.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Fire started about 9 o'clock last night in the large brick building of the Richmond Electric Light Company at St. George, Staten Island, and within an hour destroyed the entire structure with its contents. Loss $200,000.

Death of a Welch Preacher.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Rev. Dr. Owen Thomas, the celebrated Welsh Presbyterian minister, is dead.

FOR FOUR MILLIONS

Abraham Backer of New York Makes an Assignment.

DUE TO THE MONEY MARKET.

He Was a Dealer in Commercial Paper and Dry Goods.

The Assets Chiefly in Southern Railroad Securities—He Owned a Large Mill in Connecticut—A Belief That Creditors Will be Paid in Full—The Assignment a Surprise in Financial Circles.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Abraham Backer, dealer in commercial paper at No. 285 Broadway, has made an assignment without preference, to Benjamin F. Einstein, of Townsend, Dyett & Einstein, lawers, at No. 287 Broadway. The announcement of the assignment created a sensation.

Mr. Backer was a heavy dealer in commercial paper and also the capitalist of the firm of Becker & Co., drygoods commission merchants at No. 285 Broadway. He also manufactured goods at Glastonbury, Conn., where he had a large mill. These goods were principally for the Southern trade, Mr. Backer having been a Southern merchant for many years, coming to New York about 27 years ago.

His original business in the South was principally in groceries and liquors. He then got into the cotton business, later into cotton goods and then into commercial goods in Philadelphia, but sold out five years ago and went to Glastonbury, Conn., where he purchased a mill. He sold the goods which he manufactured there through his own firm of A. Backer & Co. His assignment, it is said, does not affect this firm, although he was the principal partner and capitalist, his son N. C. Backer, being the "Co."

Mr. Backer could not be found at his office during the day. The clerks said he did not come down to business on account of the assignment, and that it was a complete surprise to them. His liabilities are said to be about $4,000,000, of which $2,500,000 are direct and $1,500,000 contingent. The latter, it is said, are all right, and he does not expect to lose anything thereby. The contingent liabilities are endorsements on commercial paper discounted by the banks. The liabilities are principally to banks in this city and elsewhere, and there is also some to individuals.

A friend of Mr. Backer said to-day that although the liabilities were about $4,000,000, Mr. Backer would not be called upon to pay the entire amount, as over one-third are notes of other parties which Mr. Backer indorsed, but which will be taken care of by the makers. These are considered good, and Mr. Backer does not anticipate any loss on that account.

His assets, if they are properly taken care of, and pan out as expected, will more than cover his liabilities, and he was very hopeful that all his creditors would be eventually paid in full. The assets, the gentleman continued, include about $1,500,000 of the bonds of the Georgia, Southern & Florida Railroad and the Macon & Birmingham Railroad, about $750,000 Alabama State bonds and a large amount of other securities. His mill and plant at Glastonbury, Conn., is very valuable, and he owns real estate in New York city worth from $150,000 to $200,000.

THE SUMMER CAPITAL.

President and Mrs. Harrison Attend a Concert at Chalfonte.

CAPE MAY, N J., Aug. 4.—Last evening the President, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Eaton attended the concert at Chalfonte, given for the benefit of St. Margaret's House.

A number of children from the Seaside Home called on the Summer Capital children and entertained them with songs and recitations.

Private Secretary Halford and Miss Sanger are working hard to catch up with the big official correspondence of President Harrison.

The President took a walk over to the Cape during the day, returning by the Delaware Bay road.

A Clergyman Burned to Death.

PALMER, Mass., Aug. 4.—At 2 a. m. the Week's House on South Main street was burned to the ground and the thirty-five guests in the house had barely time to escape in their night clothes. The Rev. Mr. Williams, a retired Congregational minister who preached last year in Holland and who had been boarding at the house for about a month, was burned to death. His body was found about 6 o'clock in the front entrance burned beyond recognition, nothing but the charred trunk remaining.

Will Start With Non-Union Men.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 4.—It has been decided to start up the 23-inch mill of the Pottsville Iron and Steel Company with a number of men who have left the army of 800 strikers. A number of men from out of town will also be engaged as soon as wanted. The Amalgamated Association have promised aid to the strikers and the majority of them are still out.

King Alexander Visits the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 4.—King Alexander, the youthful ruler of Servia, is a guest of the Czar, and Queen Natalie is making things very disagreeable. She begs the Czar, as her son's god-father, to order him to see his mother. The Czar, of course, is powerless to interfere, even by suggestion, as King Alexander is in the care and custody of the Chief Regent, M. Bistlich, who accompanies him.

Editor George Jones Seriously Ill.

LEWISTON, Me., Aug. 4.—Mr. George Jones, editor of the New York Times, is ill at Poland Springs. His physician said that he had had a severe attack of dysentery, but to-day he is much better than he has been for two weeks.

Plum Roll

BY MRS. S. T. RORER,

Principal Philadelphia Cooking School.

Add one teaspoonful of Cleveland's baking powder and a half teaspoonful of salt to one pint of sifted flour. Sift again. Rub in one tablespoonful of butter, add sufficient milk to make a soft dough. Roll out, sprinkle with one cup of chopped raisins and a half cup of chopped citron. Dust with cinnamon, roll up and steam for thirty minutes. Serve warm with hard sauce.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

The most healthful leaven is carbonic acid gas from pure cream of tartar and soda. It is the only leavening power of Cleveland's Baking Powder. That is why Cleveland's is perfectly wholesome, leavens most and leavens best.

Try it, Cleveland's.

FLOGGED BY WHITE CAPS.

A Wife Beater Roughly Handled by Indignant Neighbors.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—For some time past James Beach, of Rosendale, Ulster County, has been reported to have beaten his wife and children while under the influence of liquor.

His conduct so exasperated his neighbors that a dozen or more of them resorted to "White Cap" measures, and finding Beach on the highway, intoxicated, flogged him until he begged for mercy and promised reformation.

Beach has now brought suits in the Supreme Court claiming $15,000 damages, and summonses have been issued against several persons suspected of having taken part in the whipping.

Stopped by a Deputy Sheriff.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 4.—A meeting of the directors of the Pennsylvania, Lehigh & Eastern Railroad was to have been held here during the morning for the purpose of electing a president and six directors of that road. A deputy sheriff, however, appeared just before the meeting was to assemble and served an injunction on behalf of Jacob Newburger, of New York, and the meeting was abandoned. Mr. Newburger, who owns a majority of the stock of the road, claims that the meeting was an attempt to secure fraudulent action, and that he would not be able to vote his stock, as it was tied up in the New York courts, the case now pending on appeal. Defendants claim that the stock held by Newburger is illegal, having been secured by fraud.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—They don't feel the heat: those ladies who wear cool dresses bought at Peck's.

—The City Common Council will meet August 18 to fix the tax rate for the coming year.

—Nine cars filled with people constituted the Trinity excursion to Asbury Park to-day.

—The excavating for the Methodist chapel on Park place, near Somerset street, was begun yesterday.

—George Rogers, of Peace and Second streets, had a finger crushed yesterday. He may have to lose it altogether.

—All of the councilmen were present at last night's meeting of the City Common Council. The session lasted from 8:40 till 10:45.

—The Emancipation Day committee will to-night select a new orator of the day for Thursday's celebration. They do not want a horsewhipped minister for orator.

—During the past month, bills against the city accumulated faster than the money poured into the treasury. The aggregate ordered paid last night was about $6,700. As there was only $3,400 in the treasury, $3,500 had to be borrowed in anticipation of taxes.

—Someone stole a horse and carriage from hackman Smalley's barn at Fanwood last evening and after driving the horse till it was nearly used up left it standing unsheltered in the road near Scotch Plains, where its owner found it this morning.

—That troublesome old amount of $500 that has lain so long in the municipal treasury, being the New street sewer assessment, which some contended was illegally collected, is at last to be put where the city may use it. Last evening it was transferred to the general fund.

—The St. Mary's church people and the residents of the neighborhood are striving to have restored a street lamp that used to shed light along Liberty street between Fifth and Sixth. The lamp was for some reason taken away some time ago, and cannot very well be replaced now because the appropriation is exhausted.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh will sail to-morrow for Europe.

Dr. and Mrs. Dudley S. Miller are at the St. Cloud, Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Seely Edsall will spend the present month at Henderson Harbor, N. Y.

Prof. E. H. Lewis has been chosen editor of the Alfred Centre University paper.

John W. Murray and family are at the Marion House, Lake George, for the month of August.

Mrs. Wm. M. Runyon and T. Albert Runyon are registered at the Grand Central, Asbury Park.

Stacy Raynolds, of Jackson avenue, returned last night from a pleasant vacation at Westerly, R. I.

Miss Jennie VanWinkle of Madison avenue, is visiting friends at Round Lake, Saratoga, and Lake George, for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cloyd and family, of Duer street, left town to-day for Cornwall, N. Y. They will stop at the Glen Ridge House.

Hattie Trow Weston, formerly of this city and a sister of the wife of Counselor Nelson Runyon, died at her home, 284 Adelphi street, Brooklyn, yesterday.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh contemplates taking a trip across the water, this month, for a much needed rest. He will be back about Sept. 1.

Because of the illness of Mrs. Miller, the musicale that was being arranged under her supervision for Thursday evening at the Hotel Netherwood, is postponed.

The family of Joseph E. Morse, Engineer of the Tide Water Oil company, left their home on Franklin place, to-day, for a vacation at Oriskany Falls, Oneida county, N. Y.

The leading article in the July number of the Engineering Magazine is an intensely interesting story, vividly told and artistically illustrated, from the pen of William L. Saunders, M. A. S. C. E., of North Plainfield. The title is: "A survey in a diving suit."

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has recently been making an especial study of the influence of Greek, Roman and Asiatic thought upon Christianity. Some results of this study he has published in a paper recently read before the American Society of Church History. Dr. Lewis is now engaged in the preparation of a book on the same general subject.

Thomas B. H. Curtis, whose family are away for the Summer, spent last night with John M. Crane, another lonely grass-bachelor. Mr. Curtis is building a handsome home on West Eighth street next to Mr. Runkle's. He is Treasurer of the Colorado Coal and Iron Company, and Vice President and Secretary of the Colorado and Aspen railroad.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

A SEWER FRANCHISE FOR LOW.

In Spite of Determined Opposition, Much Progress Made.

The project of granting to J. M. Low and his associates a franchise to construct and operate sewers in Plainfield was very materially assisted towards a successful culmination by the City Common Council last night.

Before taking any new steps in the matter, the Council wiped out all former legislation, and at the request of Mr. Low rescinded the action they had taken on his old application to build sewers. The Council had on June 5 accepted a contract, but that contract had never yet been signed. The councilmen were unanimous in voting to kill that contract.

Then Mr. Hetfield presented a new proposition, in which all the good features of the old one were retained, but which was even more favorable to the city than the old one. Among the improvements was a material reduction of rates to patrons.

When the contract and specifications embodying Mr. Low's plans had been read, Mr. Hetfield moved that they be accepted and the Mayor and Clerk be instructed to execute the contract. The motion was carried.

Ayes—Councilmen Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith, Spangenberg —6.

Noes—Councilmen Ackerman, Ginna, Johnston, Rushmore, See—5.

Before voting, Mr. Ackerman read a carefully-prepared speech opposing the project and counseling his fellow-councilmen not to fly in the face of the Mayor's advice by voting in favor of the scheme. He held that the execution of the work would result in injury to the city, and he asked why the interests of the city should be voted away. He proposed a system of sewers of the city's ownership, to be built gradually, rather than a wholesale private construction. The whole matter ought—he considered—to be submitted to an election by the people. The proposed contract had many defects; among them was that it did not provide for supervision of the work of construction by an engineer employed to look after the city's interests.

Mr. Rushmore protested that the action being taken was too hasty. He insisted that the contract needed cautions examinations and careful inspection before adoption.

No further argument was made.

Mr. Hetfield presented an ordinance granting to J. M. Low and his associates (to be known as the Plainfield Sewerage company) a franchise for the construction and operation of the proposed works. Mr. Ackerman tried to get the ordinance referred to the law and ordinance committee, but was unsuccessful. The ordinance was then adopted on its first and second readings and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to third reading and final passage. The vote was:

Ayes — Councilmen Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith, Spangenberg—6.

Noes—Councilmen Ackerman, Ginna, Johnston, Rushmore, See—5.

AFTER SUNDAY LIQUOR SELLERS.

Mayor Gilbert Has a Plan for Stopping Illicit Sales.

Mayor Gilbert has entered on a crusade against violators of the liquor-license-ordinances. In a message to the Council last night he said that he had excellent reason to believe that several licensed liquor dealers in town were in the habit of violating the law and selling drinks Sundays. Inasmuch as it was difficult to obtain evidence sufficient to convict, he recommended that the Council compel all licensees to keep their blinds and screens open from 12 p. m. Saturday to 6 a. m. Monday so that all people on the street might have a full and unobstructed view of the interior of all bar rooms during those hours. This—he thought—would be the most effectual way of keeping bar rooms closed, and no one—he argued—could possibly object except anti-Sunday-selling violators of the law. He recommended forfeiture of license as the penalty for not keeping one's bar room open to public view Sundays.

The matter was referred to the law and ordinance committee, with the unanimous instruction to incorporate the suggestions into an ordinance.

No License for James Day.

The license committee of the Plainfield Common Council last evening reported that the application of James J. Day to keep a liquor saloon at 97 West Third street was made in conformity to the requirements of the ordinance. The application was refused by the following vote:

In favor—Councilmen Hetfield, Moffett, Smith—3.

Against—Councilmen Ackerman, Gallup, Ginna, Johnston, Roberts, Rushmore, See, Spangenberg—8.

The City to Swap Horses.

For some time the "near" horse of Gazelle Engine company's gray team has been doing unsatisfactory fire service. Last night the City Council authorized a trade. For a better horse the gray horse will be given and cash not exceeding $75, to boot.

The Councilmen Will Dine.

The survivors of the 28th Regt., N. J. Vols., will hold a reunion in this city August 27. A feature of the event will be a dinner in the Crescent rink at 2 p. m. The Common Council have been invited, and have accepted the invitation.

GOSSIP ABOUT THE GUESTS.

Pencil Portraits of Some of the People Who Make the Season Attractive at Hotel Netherwood.

The universally acknowledged belle of The Netherwood, this season, is Miss Claire Fairchild of New York; and it is a question yet whether in past summers a young woman handsomer in face and figure, or more charming in her moods and ways, has graced the hotel.

Mrs. Oliver Bridgman still holds undisputed—as for years past—the position of the most popular young woman at Hotel Netherwood. No grand fete or simple social gathering is complete without her vivacious presence and witty tongue. She was up at daylight Sunday—but thereby hangs another story.

Mr. Bridgman is the son of the ex-Baptist minister who used to wear a gown in the Madison avenue church, and resigned his pulpit when he resigned his belief in a future place of torment. However, the old gentleman is in Switzerland now, and the young man went off with the boys to Washington three weeks ago. Sunday morning's Royal Blue Line express that arrived in Plainfield at 6:15 o'clock, contained Lieut. Bridgman and some more of Troop A, New York's swell cavalry company. Mrs. Bridgman, being the only one who could recognize him, was wired to board the train at the Plainfield station and pick Mr. Bridgman out so as the rest could go home. She did so.

Mrs. W. E. McCredy's horses, Mrs. W. E. McCredy's toilets and Mrs. W. E. McCredy's guest, have always been beyond parallel. This season in that respect has been no exception. Miss Foster, who has been visiting Mrs. McCredy, is a beautiful and fascinating woman. There are few women in the world who dare, as does Mrs. McCredy, to appear in the company of such handsome women and challenge comparison without danger to themselves.

Among the young matrons of the Hotel, Mrs. W. J. Eaton is beyond compare. So universally is she admired for her grace of mind and manner, and gentle courtesy, and delightfulness to look upon, that the regret is general that she should gratify the eyes and ears of the guests so little by her companionship. But Mr. and Mrs. Eaton are wedded to whist each evening, and Messrs. Tobey and Kirk, the others of the set, are envied by all because of the many hours they enjoy of Mrs. Eaton's presence.

Mrs. Fred Martin, Jr., is far and away the choicest of the young brides at The Netherwood this season. As Miss Florence Swain in past Summers she was loved by all, but with her gain of another name she seems to have gained additional loveliness, and is admired even more, if possible, than ever. Mr. Martin—the ladies all say—is the pink of perfection. Certainly there are few men so handsome, and none who came from better blood. There is not a finer woman in the wide, wide world than his mother, Mrs. Col. Martin; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Lewis, are the salt of the earth.

Last evening a large party of the Hotel people attended the minstrels at Music Hall. They had a jolly stage ride, lots of entertainment at the show, displayed their fine feathers to the Plainfield folks, and came home thoroughly satisfied with the evening's diversion. Those who went were: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ogden and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Macy and daughter, W. B. Ogden, Jr., and Miss Claire Fairchild. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Donald, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Tobey and Miss Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Martin, Jr., Mrs. Col. Martin, Harry C. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Crossman and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Heine and children, Mr. A. E. Benary and Mrs. Benary, Mr. and Mrs. VanZandt, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. Balch, Mr. and Mrs. Fellman and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Laidlaw, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Brewster and children, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Adams, and G. E. Thornton.

The Return of the People's Patronage to Music Hall.

The audience at Music Hall, last evening, exceeded in quality and quantity any audience that has gathered there in three seasons at least. The dress circle and orchestra was filled with the best people of the city and in the gallery a large number were obliged to stand.

Cleveland's new company gave a remarkably enjoyable performance that pleased everybody. Mr. Cleveland himself was more than satisfied. He said he had never before made any money in Plainfield. His receipts were fully 25 per cent. more than in Elizabeth last Friday. The boom of Music Hall under its new management has begun even before the house is reconstructed.

Now the Crescents Can Win.

A rumor reaches THE PRESS that Harkins has deserted Somerville. If this is so, the town will probably close up and the people will move away. Anyway, it gives the Crescents a chance to beat the West Ends this year.

The story is that a new base-ball team, to be known as the New Brunswicks, was organized in that city yesterday, with John Harkins, Harry Francis and Charles Grunewald as managers. Harry Francis and John Harkins will be the pitchers, Chas. Bowman, third base; George Francis, first base; J. Creamor, second base; Kennedy, of the West Ends, will be the catcher. The club expects to take the field next week.

NO EXPERT INVESTIGATION.

The Finance Committee Fail to Get the City Accounts Examined.

Councilman Ackerman tried to get the City Council, last night, to employ an expert to go over the City Treasurer's books, but he was unsuccessful. The appropriation asked for was $200. Mr. Ackerman explained that he had no suspicion whatever that the books were not all right, but he considered it a wise precaution to have all municipal accounts investigated from time to time. The City Treasurer's books had not been examined by an expert in five years.

President Smith inquired if it was n't customary for the finance committee to examine all accounts monthly. Mr. Ackerman said that speaking for that committee this year he could say that everything was scrutinized as carefully as possible, but that nevertheless the committee desired the expert examination of years ago brought down to date. He was sure that the citizens would approve of the expenditure.

Mr. Hetfield held that the examination was unnecessary and that no proper and competent accountant would go over the books for so long a time for such little money.

The motion was killed.

Ayes—Councilmen Ackerman, Ginna, Johnston, Rushmore, See—5.

Noes—Councilmen Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith, Spangenberg—6.

AFTER THE WATER COMPANY.

The Big Six Determined that the Streets Shall Not Be Ruined.

An ordinance to compel all parties who tear up the city streets for the laying of pipes or for other purposes, to restore the streets to a condition as good as they were in originally, was adopted by the City Council on its first and second readings, last night, and was ordered engrossed and advertised. The law and ordinance committee wanted a chance to talk with Counselor Marsh about the ordinance, but the "Big Six" did n't want any further delay, and voted to adopt the ordinance so as to have legal backing in chasing up the Water Supply company and compelling it to repair the defaced and torn-up streets. It was explained that the ordinance had been drawn by Mr. Marsh himself, but as Councilmen Ackerman, Ginna, Johnston, Rushmore and See could n't have their way and hold it over till the next meeting they voted against it.

Thank You, Says the Council.

At last night's meeting the City Council unanimously adopted a vote of thanks to the Central New Jersey railway company for its generous donation of $1,000 and to the Central New Jersey Land Improvement company for its liberal contribution of $1,500, towards the permanent improvement of North avenue at Netherwood. A vote of thanks was unanimously extended also to Councilman Spangenberg, for his zeal and public spirit in securing the contributions for the city. Mr. Spangenberg said that he was grateful for the Council's appreciation, but he felt that he had merely done his duty in the matter.

NO MUSIC WITH DRINKS.

Nor Any Dancing, Boxing, Wrestling, or Other Amusement, in Bar Rooms.

Councilman Hetfield presented to the City Common Council last evening an ordinance prohibiting music, dancing, boxing, wrestling, and other exhibitions or amusements, from being given in rooms where liquor is sold, or in rooms adjoining. The ordinance was referred to the committee on laws and ordinances, with the instruction to get the opinion of the Corporation Counsel as to its legality.

Now the Alerts Will Have a Dandy.

Alert Hose company is not to be afflicted any longer with a horse too light to draw its new wagon or one so chronically weary that it lies down in its tracks to rest while on the way to a fire. On motion of Mr. Ackerman last night the City Council authorized the discarding of the hired horse and the immediate purchase of a horse by the city itself, at a cost not to exceed $250.

What About Those Hydrants?

Councilman Hetfield is bound to find out by what right the Plainfield Water Supply company is erecting fire hydrants along the public streets. At last night's meeting of the City Council he moved that the Corporation Counsel be instructed to submit to the Council at its next meeting a written opinion whether the company has a legal right to erect the hydrants.

Get the Lowest Bargain Figure.

The result of the city's shopping tour for safes is that the Street Commissioner is to have one to cost $180 and the Tax Assessor one to cost $110. Mr. Spangenberg, of the special committee appointed to look for bargains, reports that these are bed-rock figures, and that the safes are worth considerably more.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

A CHAMPION FOR THE REV. DILL.

Counselor Vreeland Tells Another Side of the Stirling Trouble.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It is not very often that I regard newspaper correspondence of sufficient importance to require anything more than passing notice, but the false and scurrilous articles of your correspondent "Spar", in your issue of July 14, contains such falsehoods that I cannot refrain from expressing my indignation and protest. The Rev. Mr. Dill having gone to Stirling and built up the church so that instead of being a charge on the Presbytery it became self-supporting, having labored for and accomplished a remarkable increase in the numbers and strength of the congregation, and having won the regard of most of the people, merited at least that your correspondent should learn the truth and not villify him. I want simply to correct and stamp as false a few of the statements about which I happen to know.

Mr. Dill did have two of the Moffetts arrested, and one of them in return did complain against him for perjury, probably under the advice of a keen, criminal lawyer, who thereby saw, perhaps, that the old method of a counter-charge might induce the grand jury to ignore both sides. Certainly there was no valid ground for the counter-complaint. Mr. Dill did not spend the night in Morristown because of his arrest—as your correspondent intimates. He was not in the justice's office twenty minutes (just long enough to sign the bail bond); and after giving bail he left Morristown by the next train, and Mrs. King did not become his surety. I know this of my own personal knowledge, having been present.

It is absolutely untrue that Mr. Dill "worked on an old lady so that she has given her property to him" in the sense that "Spar" intimates. If she has done so she certainly did so voluntarily and not through any fraud or deceit.

It is also absolutely false that the Presbytery have threatened "that unless he does differently they will strip him of his ministerial authority". The chairman of the committee of the Presbytery having Mr. Dill's case in hand tells me that after a thorough examination and hearing of all the parties concerned, in which the fullest opportunity was given to every one to be heard, pro and con, it was concluded without the slightest doubt or dissent that there was nothing whatever in the conduct or character of Mr. Dill that could be called into question by them. The opponents of Mr. Dill were called on by the committee to state their grievances, and not one of them was able to make a single distinct charge against him, and the Presbytery passed resolutions declaring their entire faith and confidence in his integrity and Christian character.

The tone of your correspondent's letter shows his prejudiced feeling, and his misstatement of facts shows how far his prejudices can carry him.

I simply ask you to set the matter right in your paper, and as you have heard one side to hear the other also.

JOHN B. VREELAND.

PICNIC ETHICS.

No Sunday Dancing on Mr. Lewis's Excursion Boats.

About 2,700 persons, including a number from this city, came to New York last Sunday evening on the last trip of the steamboat Grand Republic from Rockaway. Louis Conterno's Fourteenth Regiment band was placed well aft on the lower deck.

Before the boat had left the outer channels of Jamaica Bay the band struck up a lively medley of airs. Among them was a waltz which brought four couples to their feet.

When Capt. Pease saw eight persons dancing he rushed to Conductor Conterno, whispered something to him excitedly, and the music was abrupted stopped.

"Why was that, Captain?" asked a reporter.

"No dancing allowed on these boats on Sunday," was the reply.

A young official of the boat said:

"Our company is controlled by influential Brooklyn church members. You can bet that Sabbath breaking on these boats will never be permitted. It was only three weeks ago that one of our best directors heard that dancing was permitted on the Grand Republic and the Gen. Slocum on Sundays. He stopped it pretty quick, and it will be stopped for all summer."

The Rockaway line of steamboats is controlled by the leading members of the Brooklyn City Railroad company. Daniel F. Lewis, formerly of Eighth street and Madison avenue, this city, is the President of both horse car and steamboat companies. Mrs. John H. Evans, a sister of Mr. Lewis and the widow of Plainfield's ex-Mayor, is a large stockholder, and F. A. Barnaby, a summer resident here, is Secretary of the steamboat company. Very few of the stockholders of these corporations believe in Sunday outing for themselves or their families.

Their two boats, the Grand Republic and the General Slocum, carry about 7,000 persoms to and from Rockaway Beach every fine Sunday.

All the Way on Their Wheels From Brooklyn.

A party of Long Island wheelmen, consisting of F. S. Bogert, F. J. Moulin, A. P. Topping, E. F. Beecher, H. W. Pierce, C. F. Lipman, W. W. Mesiter, E. M. Taylor, and F. E. Pearce, rode out from Brooklyn, one day last week, and were guests at the Hotel Netherwood.

An Adventurous Pleasure Trip.

Edward S. Warren and Arthur W. Leonard, of this city, have engaged in an undertaking which will stamp them as not only young men of pluck and push but successful perseverance—the kind of material that makes successful men.

They spent their leisure time during the early spring, after the hours of study, in building a boat in which to take a summer trip. They laid the keel and built the entire boat. It does not contain a nail or screw that was not driven home by their own hands. Even the painting and launching was done by them. Then they stocked it with a tent, a supply of provisions, cooking utensils, and blankets for their comfort on the trip, which they began July 25. They launched the craft at Bound Brook, in the Raritan, which they descended till they reached Raritan bay. Then they crossed to Staten Island, where they went into camp for two or three days, after which they rowed across Newark bay to Newark. They entered the Passaic river Saturday night, and are now on their way up the Passaic to the Rockaway river, by which they will proceed to Pine Brook, where they will go into camp and settle down to fishing.

The trip of these daring young men is not without peril. The water courses they are to traverse are new to them, and they have the Passaic and Little Falls to get around. Their feat is deserving of commendation, and is one of which professional and accomplished athletes might well be proud.

Suburban Visitors.

Following are those registered at The Netherwood since the list was last published in THE PRESS:

From Sydney, N. S. W.—E. C. Whitney.

From Reading, Pa.—C. B. Froment.

A Great Game in the Country.

The best game of ball ever played in Passaic Valley or vicinity, was played Saturday afternoon at New Providence between the New Providence and the Stirling nines. The battery work of Rogers and Horner of the New Providence club was the feature of the game, Rogers striking out fifteen of the opposing team, often in one-two-three order. Several bats were broken during the progress of the game. The score by innings:

New Providence....0 0 0 1 1 2 0 1 1—6
Stirling..........2 0 1 0 1 0 0 1 0—5

Batteries—R. Rogers and Horner; Habuer and Goodwin. Habuer struck out 9; Rogers struck out 15. Umpire—J. Smith. Scorer—J. Kelly.

Sustaining the Emancipation Day Orator.

The congregation of St. John's Colored M. E. church, Orange, whose pastor, the Rev. W. C. Jason, chosen orator for Plainfield's Emancipation Day celebration, was horsewhipped by Miss Adeline Brown last Friday morning, passed the following resolutions Sunday:

Resolved, That we, the members of St. John's M. E. church, hereby sustain and express our entire confidence in the integrity of Mr. Jason in what he has done.

Resolved, That we, the members of the church, stand by him and uphold him as a Christian minister.

Mr. Jason is said to feel uncomfortable because the woman has threatened to kill him.

The Third Railway Death in the Family.

Wesley Levers, the Elizabethport brakeman who was mangled by the cars at Bound Brook, yesterday morning, died at Muhlenberg Hospital in the afternoon. He was the third member of his family to meet with death by a railway accident. A fourth had both legs cut off below the knees, but survived the injury, and is now working as a flagman at the Elizabethport station.

An Unfortunate Elizabeth Lad Falls Into Kind Hands Here.

Two men and a boy were thrown out of a wagon from the plumbing shop of James H. Faulks of Elizabeth, to-day. In trying to turn around in Church street the wagon was upset. The men jumped clear of the vehicle, but the boy was caught under it and terribly bruised, besides being kicked by the horse. Dr. Tomlinson was summoned and he found no bones broken. He bound up the victim's leg and left him in the care of some kind women who rushed out of Mrs. West's boarding house on East Second street, and insisted that the lad should be brought in their premises and entrusted to them.

The gormandizer likes it because it is fine. The workman likes it because it quenches his thirst, enriches his blood, and strengthens his muscle. It is cheap. The mother likes it. It keeps her boys at home. The women of America like it, because it takes the place of intoxication. This Hires's Root Beer.

You can make it in five minutes; that's the beauty of Root Beer made from Knapp's Root Beer Extract.

Game Seasons.

The woodcock season closed July 31. The birds have been very scarce on account of the dry season. Sportsmen predict fine fall shooting. The upland plover shooting opened August 1. These birds are also scarce this season. The open season for squirrels commences Sept. 15.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

—A farm of about sixty acres between Houtenville and Iselin has been sold to a Hebrew syndicate in New York. About 100 men will be put to work clearing the land prior to laying and grading streets. The intention is to start a Hebrew settlement.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

New England Kickers Going Abroad.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 4.—On Thursday four football players from this city, four from Pawtucket and six from Canada will sail for Great Britain and Ireland, to be gone about five months. They will participate in exhibition games to be played in all the principal cities of the Kingdom, and also in a series of international games to determine the relative merits of Englishmen and Americans as footballists.

Became Suddenly Insane.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—Charles W. Lockwood of this city, a messenger between New Haven and New York, wandered away on Saturday and was found on the Derby road in a demented condition. On removal to his home he became a raving maniac and will probably be sent to the asylum.

The Mole St. Nicholas.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Advices from Port-au-Prince say that President Hippolyte claims that no promise was ever made to cede Mole St. Nicholas to the United States, as the Constitution of Hayti most positively forbids the cession of territory to any foreign country.

Jack McAuliffe in Training.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Jack McAuliffe is now in training at Mrs. O'Brien's road house, Coney Island, and is getting down into form for his coming go with Gibbons. McAuliffe weighs 145 pounds today and must lose ten pounds before Sept. 11.

Another Rolling Mill Resumes Work.

READING, Pa., Aug. 4.—The large rolling mills at Seyferts Station, this county, owned by S. R. Seyfert & Brother, resumed work to-day after an idleness of four months. The mill employs 235 hands and they are non-union men.

Nominated by Prohibitionists.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 4.—The Prohibitionists last night nominated Theodore C. Beardsley of the eigthth ward for mayor.

Italy Has Begun Retrenching.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—From Italy comes the news that the government has begun retrenching at the foot by deciding to dismiss 3,000 workingmen from the government dockyards this month. The decision has aroused widespread discontent among the workmen, and the large number to be thus thrown upon their own resources are said to be ripe for mischief.

The Uprising in Barcelona.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Senor Zorilla, in an interview, denies all complicity with the uprising in Barcelona. As for himself, he said, he would attempt nothing without a certainty of success. The latest advices from Barcelona justified the belief that it was a genuine Republican uprising.

Rubber Works Resuming.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 4.—The Para Rubber Shoe Works, which on May 29 closed for an indefinite period, has resumed work in the mixing rooms, and by Thursday all the departments will be in operation.

Father of Twenty-seven Children.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 4.—Mr. George W. Bush, aged 96, died in this city last evening. He was the father of twenty-seven children, thirteen of whom survive him. Bush was born in Baltimore County.

A Prosperous Farmer Commits Suicide.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 4.—Enoch Tindall, aged 60, a well-to-do farmer of Hamilton Township, committed suicide by drowning in a small creek near his home. His body was found tied to the bridge with a rope, by two boys. It is thought Tindall was deranged and tied his body to the bridge to prevent its washing away.

A Depot Safe Blown Open.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—The depot of the New York & New Haven Railroad at North Haven was broken into during the night, the safe blown open and robbed of $100 and 1,500 tickets.

The Queen of the Belgians Dying.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Queen of the Belgians has been taken suddenly ill. She is dying and has received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Husband and Wife Murdered.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 4.—Great excitement was caused here by the discovery of the murdered bodies of Jackson Donnelly, a wealthy farmer living five miles east of this city, and his wife. The supposed motive was robbery.

Brooklyn Defeats Fall River.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 4.—The Brooklyn Cricket Club defeated the Fall River Club, by a score of 88 to 75.

On a Long Journey.

Tramp—Please, mum, I can't git work at me trade now anywhere around here, and wud you be so kind as ter help me along on me journey to a place where I can find work?

Lady—Poor man! I didn't know business was so dull. Where do you expect to find work?

"Considerin' the time o' year, mum, I'm afraid I'll have to go a long ways north of here."

"Indeed! What is your trade?"

"I'm a snow shoveler, mum."—Good News.

Force of Habit.

Mr. Squidds—That pretty Mrs. De Broker used to be Mr. De Broker's typewriter before she married him, didn't she?

Mrs. Squidds—Um—what was it you said?

Mr. S.—I asked if Mrs. De Broker wasn't formerly Mr. De B——'s typewriter.

Mrs. S.—I'm sure I don't know. Why do you think so?

Mr. S.—She has a habit of listening to him when he speaks.—N. Y. Weekly.

Her Grandma's Diversion.

"What picture is that, aunty?" asked a Detroit little one.

"That is Mary, queen of Scots."

"And did you see her when you were in Scotland?"

"O, no; she died three hundred years ago."

"And did grandma go to her funeral?"

"O, no; grandma wasn't born then."

"She must be very sorry, for she likes to 'tend funerals."—Detroit Free Press.

A BATTLE-SCARRED VETERAN.

Mr. Madison Squeer—So you haven't honed that razor of mine yet, eh? Didn't I tell you I must have it, because I was going to a party to-night?

Prof. Bearsgrease—'Scuse me, sah; but I clean forgot hit. Jes' let me loan yo' dis one, sah; hit's de one I usually tak's to pahties.—Puck.

Good Enough for a Starter.

"What kind of a dinner did you say that was, John?" inquired Uncle Rufe, from Harkers' Corners, as the two went out of the restaurant with the gilded front.

"That was a table d'hote dinner," replied his city nephew.

"Well, John," said the old gentleman, "let's go now and get something to eat." —Chicago Tribune.

His Latest Acquisition.

Stillman—Jay Gould is altogether too grasping. He seems to be trying to get possession of the whole country. He owns all the railroads and telegraph lines—

Dewitt—And the actors.

Stillman—The actors?

Dewitt—Yes; they are almost all Jay's.—Life.

After the Circus.

"Is everything reversed in the looking glass, papa?" asked Jimmieboy.

"Yes—everything," said papa.

"Then I'm glad I'm not a looking-glass boy," observed Jimmieboy. "I don't think I'd like to have an elephant ride around a circus ring on my shoulders."—Harper's Bazar.

Culminating Evidence.

At a social gathering, the conversation being on Baalam's ass, Gus De Smith remarked:

"I believe that animals can talk. I am sure that even nowadays asses talk, just like Baalam's ass did."

"So I hear," said old Judge Peterby. —Texas Siftings.

Preparing for the Seashore.

Cholly Cholmondelay—Now we're all pwepared for our trip. But I seem to forget something.

Valet—Have you ordered the engagement rings?

Cholly C.—Aw, that's it. Go to Timpany's and awder a dozen.—Jewelers' Circular.

Valuables Gone.

"You must have suffered terribly in the big cyclone."

"Yes; everything valuable was totally wrecked."

"Didn't you save anything?"

"Nothin' but my wife and the mortgage on the house."—Judge.

Surrender Necessary.

Farmer Firkin (to small boy)—If ye don't come right down out o' that tree I'll let go o' the dog's collar.

Small Boy—Huh! A dog can't climb a tree!

Farmer Firkin—No; but I kin, an' he kin squat under it!—Puck.

Incompatible.

"I've got a new job," remarked Georgie Gazzam to his Sunday-school teacher. "It's in a real-estate office."

"Is your employer a Christian, Georgie?"

"He's a real-estate agent, sir. I said that at first."—Judge.

The Actor's Lot.

Fakir—Out of a job, Footlights? Why, I thought you were engaged with De Bust's traveling company as walking gentleman?

Footlights—So I was; but I had to walk all the way home!—Judge.

A Matter of Privilege.

Rapp—I look upon you, sir, as a rascal.

Parter—You are privileged to look upon me in any character you desire to assume, sir.—Texas Siftings.

Ought to Be Very Thankful.

Of the late Bishop Ames the following anecdote is told: While presiding over a certain conference in the west a member began a tirade against universities and education, thanking God that he had never been corrupted by contact with a college. After proceeding thus for a few minutes the bishop interrupted with the question: "Do I understand that the brother thanks God for his ignorance?" "Well, yes," was the answer; "you can put it that why if you want to." "Well, all I have to say," said the bishop, in his sweetest musical tone—"all I have to say is that the brother has a good deal to thank God for."—Boston Post.

The Long and Short of It.

Mr. Bingo (impatiently)—Clara, I should like to know just for curiosity's sake how long it has taken you to dress for the ball?

Clara (sweetly)—Fifteen minutes, father.

Mr. Bingo—Fifteen minutes! I'll bet a hundred I have been waiting here a good hour.

Clara—True, dear father; but you forgot that I had to undress first.—Judge.

Offended Majesty.

Referee (to the disgusted spectator)—What did I understand you to say, sir—that you're "sick of these big fights that always end in a draw?"

Disgusted Spectator—That's what I said.

Referee—Very well, sir; if you will kindly step this way, it will give me pleasure to demonstrate to you how much sicker you can feel of a fight that will be to a finish.—Puck.

A Competent Witness.

Miss Snowball—Mister Johnsing, I seen your wife dis aft'noon. She wus shakin' a tableclof on de front po'ch.

Mr. Johnsing—Dat wuzn't a tableclof. It was my duster.

Miss Snowball—How did you know dat?

Mr. Johnsing—I wus in it.—Judge.

The Filthy Weed.

Puffer—I've heard it said that tobacco is one of the substances that are entirely free from the presence of microbes.

Robert Reed—I shouldn't wonder. Even microbes have sense enough to recognize that it's unhealthy for them. —Munsey's Weekly.

He Was Willing.

Miss Scadds (to the minister)—Mr. Hunker and I are going on a ramble. Will you join us?

Rev. Dr. Thirdly (who caught only the last sentence)—With pleasure. Do you wish the ceremony performed in the church?—Judge.

A Great Girl.

"That horsey Miss Wilkins is a monstrously clever girl."

"Is she?"

"Yes, indeed. She's invented a new kind of blinders."

"For carriage horses?"

"No; for chaperones."—Life.

CONSCIENTIOUS.

Mrs. Nuclos—Why do you always appear in your worst gown when going out with me, Bridget?

Bridget—Sure, I'm always afraid the people moight mistake me fer th' mistress if I wore me foine driss.—Puck.

A Safe Plan.

Tenderfoot—I notice you call everybody colonel.

Western Resident—When a man looks like a gentleman, call him colonel. That's the style out here.

"Suppose he looks like a tough and blackleg."

"Call him general."—Good News.

A Suspicious Circumstance.

Judge (of a murder case in Missouri) —Did you notice anything suspicious about the prisoner?

Witness—Yes, sirree! He'd just washed his hands, so I knowed at wunst he must hev had blood on 'em or sun'thin' extraor'nary.—Munsey's Weekly.

An Old Hotel.

Traveler (trying to write his name on a hotel register)—This is a historic hostelry, I believe?

Host (proudly)—Yes, sir, one of the oldest hotels in this section, sir.

"So I supposed—from the pens."—Good News.

There It Is Reversed.

Gildersleeve—"Every dog has its day" is a proverb which doesn't go in Algiers.

Winedibble—Why?

Gildersleeve—Because there every dey has his dog.—Judge.

An Emphatic Yes.

Young Croesus—May I marry your daughter, sir?

Her Father (with emotion)—Young man, you have saved me from bankruptcy!—Munsey's Weekly.

Accounted For.

"Bridget, this chair is covered with dust."

"Yessum. Nobody 's sat in it lately." —Puck.

A Hard Question to Answer.

"Say, papa."

"Well, Willie?"

"If there's two lions, which gets the lion's share?"—Harper's Young People.

IT IS NOT

A LIE.

A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:

HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. TUDOR Co. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. TUDOR Co.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. Government stamps on the barrels thereof have, "in no instance, borne date later than the year 1881.

bows were the trimmings. A large flat hat in tan-colored chiffon was worn by the guest who had red hair. It was partially veiled with cream-colored lace, and had lace falling over the edge in a frill. Two bunches of roses were laid flat on the brim with some tan-colored velvet bows.

A black felt hat, which was not a breakfast hat but which came sailing jauntily up the bay on a yacht one day this week, had its crown tied up with knotted handkerchiefs, from which were thrust out in one direction and another, as if making inquiry of the four winds of heaven, yellow, heliotrope and black wings. A white crinoline straw, which again was not a yachting hat but figured one day on Broad way, was trimmed entirely with blue succory flowers, forming a wreath about the crown with taller ones like sentinels in front and rear.

Wonderful embroideries are used this summer for the corselet bodices and for the linings of the high Medici collars. The smartest high collars stand out broad at the sides, but these, like the high collar bands, have seen their best days, for the turn-down frills, finishing dresses low at the throat, are every day gaining ground. Skirts are seen often cut the long way of the stuff and with one seam; when they are lifted, they show the short silk under petticoat, for now that dresses are so long as to be everywhere and always lifted it naturally follows that one skirt is enough to be responsible to, and so the foundation skirt disappears. This of course is to the advantage of the petticoat, which shows itself boldly in pink, amber, blue or mauve with flounces of black Chantilly or Valenciennes.

The cotton dresses one sees every day are interesting, and the evening dresses that appear in their glory at summer hops are interesting also. A gingham shot with blue and spotted with white is as characteristic of summer modes as any I have seen in a number of days. The skirt has three deep flounces with very little fullness in them; while the Zouave oddly plaited about the armholes is lined with thin white silk, for in these curious days we consider silk none too good to line gingham. The tucked chemisette and the long sleeves are of silk also. For the trousseau of Miss Sallie Hargous, who is to be married at Newport shortly, there was ordered this week so simple a thing as a white foulard sprigged with fuchsias. It makes an extremely pretty summer frock, gathered at the waist with a white silk gimp, frilling at the hips and frilled and gimp-edged at bottom.

Another foulard has also a white ground, but is spotted with black and sprigged with pink-tipped daisies. The bodice is drawn to the waist in plaits, but the ordinal feature of the dress is its festooned heading of pink and white ribbons about the hem.

And now for one or two casino gowns. The feature that is most interesting about evening dress at Newport this summer is the largeness and the boldness of the leaf and flower de cades. Dame Fashion and Fl ra are usually on very good terms with one another, but this year the are inseparable, and so one sees or example a heavy ivory colored sa f upon which of blue succory, reat ragged stalks brocade with a or a greenish white chestnut brac ches in flowers. White point d'espr will be used as a trimming for s ch a dress, festooned often with bla k velvet ribbon.

A str ped silk in black and pale coral colo strikes me among those I remem being perhaps worth description. It whirled by me in the waltz perhaps a half hundred times, so that I ought to be able to be quite accurate about the black lace which draped the front of the skirt and sleeves, and about the bodice with its tuck ruff of pink silk edged with lace at the hips and its full, turned back collar of silk covered with lace and tapering to below the waist in most unusual fashion. Pink roses in knots of black lace were worn in the hair.

I had an idea of saying something to you about summer wraps, but it is so warm that peach-tinted bengalines trimmed with nothing heavier than Cluny lace threaded with gold seem more appropriate; or I might finish with a silver gray crepe de chine embroidered with flag lilies.

Frocks for Wear in the Reign of the Dog Star.

A Little Study in Colors—How Hues Change as the Light Changes—Dress at Summer Luncheons and Dances —August Millinery.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

It seems to me often when I look about on any assemblage of women that it might not be a bad thing for the woman who goes shopping to take in her pocketbook, along with her buttonhook and her memorandum and her extra hairpin, a table of colors, so arranged as to show her at a glance how any hue will vary according to the light in which she may wear it.

One sees blue everywhere this season. Now the woman who wishes to buy and to wear blue to advantage should never forget that if she chooses the shade that most becomes her in any ordinarily lighted apartment she must count on its appearing more of a violet blue in a room with less light, and tending toward turquoise if she wears it out of doors. The question for her to settle is, can she wear violet blue or turquoise, or is the fabric she is buying intended for such use that she can count upon its being seen in an average light always?

It was only yesterday morning that I happened to see a bright, vivacious looking girl buying what over the shop counter looked like a parasol of scarlet chiffon. She opened it and held it above her head for her companion's approval, and against her clear brown skin the effect was charming. So her companion told her, I think, for she blushed and he was a young man. It never occurred to her, and the young man fortunately might never have eyes to see it, that what was scarlet indoors would become out of doors more of a reddish brown. Now reddish brown would not in the least suit the vivacious young woman. To get the effect she wanted, that of scarlet in the sunlight, she needed to buy, if only she had known it, something that was a good red indoors.

These changes of hue, according to changes of light, are things that very few women study. You won't find one in twenty who knows, for example, that if you buy orange in an average light you must wear it as brown in twilight and as yellow in sunshine; or that if you set your heart on a frock of yellow green, you must ask yourself is it to be for a walking dress, in which case it won't be yellow green at all but almost yellow, or is it for wear in a dim parlor, in which case it will have very little yellow in it, but will appear quite green.

These things add to the difficulties of successful dressing. The red gown that is so pretty on the piazza all the afternoon sometimes quite spoils its wearer as the shadows begin to fall and it turns a reddish purple. If she can't wear reddish purple she is wise to have a pretty wrap to hide till it is quite dark the obnoxious hues. So with yellow. There is many a girl who can wear yellow in a parlor, or the paler yellow it becomes out of doors, who is made to look most uncomfortably wan and sickly if she is out until twilight and her yellow shades into olive green. There is a great deal to know about colors but this is enough for one lesson.

Very pretty toilets are seen at the summer luncheon of sheer black chiffon draped over silks of bright hues. A breakfast was served at twelve yesterday in honor of a young married woman just starting with her husband for a tour about the world. The husband was not invited to the "ladies' breakfast," however. The table decorations were the pink, bell-like wood orchids which are the commonest and among the prettiest of the sorts that grow wild. They were thrust deep in a cream-colored vase in the middle of the table, and the vase itself was half buried in ferns.

The hostess wore orchid-pink silk, over which hung black chantilly net, the white skin showing through the misty shading at neck and arms. A pale gray-blue muslin was one of the toilets that graced the occasion; it had running through it a line of deeper blue. About the bottom was a deep flounce with a blue beading and at the waist a blue velvet corsage, through which was thrust a bunch of blue succory flowers. The grayish blue hat was trimmed with the same blossoms. A third costume was a most successful combination of old rose and black, the skirt in flounces of black mousseline de soie over old rose silk edged with very narrow black ribbon; the waist in striped embroidery of the two colors, with a wide black sash drawn through a large jet buckle.

At a bright little breakfast party the other day at which Mrs. Potter Palmer, just home from her trip across the Atlantic, was the guest of honor, there was a fine opportunity to study hats, which continue to be, as the summer progresses, well worth studying. Mrs. Palmer herself wore a white chip with gold insertion, raised off the head by a bandeau. Pink roses in front and gold

May 7, 1890.
F. E. C. Medicine Co., Rochester, N. Y.:
For seven or eight years my wife has been troubled with some kind of kidney trouble. She tried many different remedies but all in vain. She continued to grow worse. Last fall I induced her to try the F. E. C. Remedy, and before using one bottle she began to improve, and now, after using six bottles, she is entirely cured. I have recommended it to so many and it has benefitted in every case heard from.

STILL A MYSTERY

The Dead Girl at Glendale Was Not Matilda Haber.

WEBER SUDDENLY DISAPPEARS.

The Alleged Uncle's Statements to the Coroner Were False.

Another Identifier Says He Danced With the Girl in a Connecticut Town—He Also Disappears When Wanted—Detectives Still in the Dark—The Inquest to be Held on Friday Evening.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The body of the young girl found choked to death in a clearing half a mile north of Ridgewood still lies in the little morgue off Wyckoff avenue in that village unidentified.

Charles R. Weber, an alleged florist of North Haven, Conn., who said he recognized the murdered girl as his niece, was romancing. The dramatic story he related of wealth, love and mystery was the product, possibly, of bad liquor and a disordered imagination.

The yarn was so well put together, however, that it sent Detectives Miller and Brechner on a wild goose chase through that part of Connecticut designated by Weber. They returned last night worn out and angry and anxious to find Weber. He kept out of the way. Weber was well acquainted with the country around North Haven, the detectives say, and gave a minute description of roads and houses leading to his place. They searched everywhere for Weber's place and information of a missing girl named Matilda Haber, but nothing was learned of Weber or his wealthy niece. When they were convinced that Weber had been telling fairy tales they wired to Coroner Homeyer to hold Weber until they returned.

A Talkative Stranger.

It has just leaked out that a man visited the liquor stores on the Cypress Hill road of F. Hellman and Gus Grauer on Monday night. He had been drinking and had a big roll of money, which he spent freely.

When the murder was spoken of he said: "I know all about it. I killed her and am sorry for it." The loungers laughed, and then he said angrily: "You don't believe me. Well, I killed this girl for an old man. He got me to put her out of the way because there was money in it for him and me. I will tell you more. The old man will be here to-night to identify the girl."

About an hour later Weber identified the girl as Matilda Haber. Before he could be arrested he escaped.

Coroner Homeyer went to Rockaway Beach to arrest a young man who said he was Charles Reade, of Darien, Conn., and who had identified the body as that of a girl whom he had danced with at Rockaway.

The coroner drank a glass of beer with the young man, but he managed to escape before he could be arrested. Undertaker Ruoff embalmed the body of the dead girl, and he will place it in a vault in Mount Olivet Cemetery to-day or to-morrow. The inquest will be held on Friday evening.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS MEET.

Nearly 1,000 Delegates in Convention To-day at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The Republican League State convention was called to order this morning at 11 o'clock by President McAlpin, nearly 1,000 delegates being present.

When the name of the James G. Blaine Association of the Sixth Assembly District of New York was called there was a tremendous demonstration for the statesman from Maine.

There is but little to be transacted beyond the appoinment of committees, and the session will be largely taken up with speech-making.

The great feature of the convention will be the mass meeting to-night. The election of officers will take place at the closing session to-morrow afternoon.

The special train from New York reached here a little before 7 o'clock last night. Politics was almost the sole topic during the trip from New York, the talk turning mainly on Republican Presidential possibilities. At last a vote was taken to test the feelings of the delegates, and the result was: Blaine, 102; Harrison, 15; McKinley, 8; scattering, 14.

Stolen Documents Recovered.

BELOIT, Wis., Aug. 5.—A stranger recently left notes, mortgages and other papers representing a value of over $30,000 with City Attorney Menzie for examination. He claimed to have loaned $30 on them to a man in Milwaukee, who represented himself as an agent of Erastus Thayer, of Brandon, Vt. Mr. Menzie's suspicions were aroused, and he opened a correspondence with Mr. Thayer, who is a banker, and learned that the documents were stolen from a train on the Rock Island Railroad. Mr. Menzie forwarded the papers to Mr. Thayer.

The Election in Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 5.—The municipal election here resulted in a victory for the Democrats. Last year the Republicans had six and the Democrats three aldermen. This year the entire Board will be composed of Democrats. John J. Larkey, the Democratic candidate for mayor was elected by a majority of 918 over Thomas E. O. Marvin, his Republican opponent. Mayor Larkey's majority is the largest ever given a candidate for mayor in this city.

A Conscience Contribution.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A conscience contribution from an unknown resident of Scottdale, Pa., of $4 has been received at the Treasury Department. The sender said he owed this amount on one package of oleomargerine, on which he failed to pay the tax.

OHIO'S THIRD PARTY.

The State Convention in Session This Afternoon at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 5.—The People's Party State convention was called to order at 2 p. m. to-day in the city hall by Mrs. Stevens, a newspaper writer, of Toledo.

The hall was more profusely decorated than ever before in its history. Prominent among the decorations are ears of corn, sheaves of wheat, bunches of grass, etc., all fantastically arranged. The most significant mottoes are: "Seven Billion Acres and the Result Nine Million Mortgaged Homes;" "Thirteen Thousand Business Failures Annually;" "One Million Five Hundred Thousand Tramps and Millions of Paupers;" "How Do You Like It?" "The Voice of the People is the Voice of God;" "Then Let the People Speak and the Nation Prosper."

It is generally conceded that either Hon John Seitz or Major Cobb, the latter of Wallston, will get the Gubernatorial nomination.

Secretary Hugh Pryor of Cleveland arrived this morning. He said:

"The People's Party will name and elect the next President. The South and West are thoroughly organized and the North and East will be by next fall. If the election for President was held to-morrow the People's Party would sweep the country. We will make a strong effort to elect the State ticket."

STRANGE ELOPEMENT.

A Married Man and a Married Woman Disappear Together.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—A sensational elopement took place at Grapeville, a small town of natural gas fame west of this city. The principals are a married man named Marion Dunn and a married woman named Ella Morgan. These parties left their respective homes and, it is thought, went West.

Dunn leaves a wife and four small children, the youngest being about only three months old, while Mrs. Morgan leaves a husband and two children, aged 4 years and 16 months. There is no clue to their destination. Dunn is the father of the 9-year-old girl who was criminally assaulted last Thursday evening, and Mrs. Morgan is the wife of the man who is charged with the assault.

MURDER SUSPECTED.

The Decomposed Bodies of Three Polanders Found in a Mine.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 5.—Mine Inspector Duncan and Coroner Holbert are exploring Rainey's Grace Mine. Last February, at the beginning of the great coke strike, this mine was set on fire, and three Polanders, who were repairing the tracks, lost their lives in the mine. Their decomposed bodies were found last evening.

Three of the strikers are suspected of first having killed the Poles and then set fire to the mine to conceal their crime. The company is proceeding under this supposition, and sensational developments are promised at the coroner's inquest.

CHICAGO'S EIFFEL TOWER.

The French Architect Makes a Proposition to the Fair Directors.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—President Baker, of the World's Columbian Directors, has received a proposition by cable from M. Eiffel, the architect of the Eiffel tower, for permission to erect a tower on the grounds, the enterprise to be backed by French capital. The cable was brief, but set forth that the tower would be superior to the one at the Paris Exposition.

President Baker cabled in return that he was very glad to receive the proposition and would bring it immediately to the attention of the directors. The prospects are that the proposition will be looked upon most favorably, as there is yet time in which to build it.

Sudden Death at Cape May Point.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 5.—George McAllister, a clerk, residing at Roxborough, Philadelphia, fell dead just as he was entering the door of his bath house, Cape May Point. Both McAllister and his wife were in the surf a short time, when McAllister complained of feeling cold. He left the bath at once. The coroner said that his death was caused by heart failure. The deceased is 24 years old and recently married.

Return of the Schooner Minnie.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 5.—The sealing schooner Minnie has just returned from Behring Sea, having been ordered home by the Revenue Cutter Thetis. The schooner C. D. Rand was spoken in Onemak Pass, homeward bound, having also been ordered to leave the Sea. The Captain of the Thetis says that so far forty schooners have been warned to clear out.

Big Failure in Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Schuyler's Steam Towing Company, the oldest and best known of the North River lines has suspended. The liabilities admitted foot up $940,000.

BERNE, Aug. 5.—The old Catholic Bishop Reinkens, of Bonn, is dying at Thun.

CRAZED BY CRUELTY

Horrible Case of Brutality at Mount Carmel, Pa.

A YOUNG WOMAN PERSECUTED.

Locked Up in a Cellar Until She Became a Raving Maniac.

The Only Clothing She Had on Made of an Old Salt Bag—Her Body Burned With a Red Hot Poker by Her Stepmother and Brothers—They Wanted the Girl's Fortune of Fifty Thousand Dollars.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Rose Sheshinskie was arrested here during the day, and this developed a most horrible story.

There has been living with her, Amelia, a stepdaughter, a young woman of 25. Amelia's father died when she was 3 years old, leaving her a large strip of land worth many thousand dollars.

Since then Mrs. Sheshinskie and her two brothers have been working to secure the property. They made the girl go out and pick up coal and beat her every night.

She made several fruitless attempts to escape. For many months she had not been seen till yesterday when the citizens of the town started out to search for her.

In a foul cellar in the Polish part of the town they found the girl. She was locked in the house a raving maniac, begging everyone not to kill her.

The only clothing she had on was made of an old salt bag, and on her neck were found several large red scars, made by her stepmother, who burned the girl in many places with a red hot poker.

Evidence has been secured to prove that the woman and her brothers have tried to poison the girl, whose property is now said to be worth $50,000. Mrs. Sheshinski was held in $3,000 bail.

THE TEXTILE WORKERS.

Important Action Taken by the Fall River Convention.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 5.—The National Textile Workers' Association convention here voted to grant transfer cards to traveling union men; to refer the matter of establishing a monthly journal to the national council, and to have regular quarterly reports of expenditures.

A declaration of principles was adopted, declaring for the lessening of the hours of labor so that the immense army of unemployed men can find work; urging the adoption of means to protect employes from accidents in factories, and demanding the non-employment of children under 15 in factories.

The association aims to organize the textile workers of America into one grand and powerful body, and to settle all grievances by arbitration, strikes being the last resort.

The methods employed by manufacturers to evade the weavers' fines bill were denounced.

THEY EXPECT TROUBLE.

Deputy Sheriffs Guarding the Property of the Vesuvius Iron Works.

SHARPSBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—The strike of the 400 members of the Amalgamated Association at the Vesuvius Iron Works, at first insignificant, is fast developing into a contest equal in importance to any in the history of the organization.

About 40 non-union workmen are working in the plate mill to-day. So far the strikers have not shown any hostile feeling.

Every precaution is being organized by the firm to prevent the workmen from communicating with the strikers. Deputy sheriffs are guarding the mill property. The statements concerning the quantity and quality of work done are conflicting.

Died at the Breakfast Table.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 5.—While in the act of taking his seat at the breakfast table with the other guests at Mrs. Guthrie's fashionable boarding house, Wm. P. Anderson remarked that the damp weather had made him feel dull. He had hardly pronounced the last syllable of the sentence when he staggered off his chair, gasped and died. He was 60 and corpulent. He belonged in Boston, and came here a few months ago to manage the Passaic Print Works, an establishment employing over 600 hands.

Notorious Character Shot.

SOUTH MCALLISTER, I. T., Aug. 5.—Deputy United States Marshal Jim Yates, a notorious character, was killed in a gambling den here by Bob Marshall, at 2 a. m. A general row occurred, in which over 40 shots were fired. Marshall escaped.

Killed by an Electric Shock.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Henry Sartel, aged 28, a bartender, was killed by a shock of electricity last night while attempting to turn off an electric light.

OGDEN'S BODY RECOVERED.

Found by Two Fishermen Near North Long Branch.

NORTH LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 5.—H. Corbett Ogden's body was found at 10:15 a. m. off Galilee, by two men who were going fishing. Ogden had been missing from his cottage at Monmouth Beach since last Wednesday, and was last seen alive on the evening of that date, on the Sandy Hook boat Monmouth.

Mr. Ogden's friends offered a reward of $500 for information concerning him, and a general alarm had been sent out from Police Headquarters. Mrs. Ogden, his wife, is ill and prostrated with grief. She returned to Monmouth Beach last evening.

Ogden was 42 years old and had charge of the silk department of James Talcott & Co., of New York.

WORK OF THE MAFIA.

A Witness to a Shooting Affray Murdered by Italians.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 5.—The Mafia seems to have broken out here. Last night Jim Scott, one of the witnesses to the shooting of an Italian by a negro named Misher last winter, was shot and killed while on his way to a corner grocery.

The shooting was done by Charles de Antile and a companion who stole up behind the negro and filled him with slugs from a pair of Sicilian muskets.

It is believed that the killing of the negro was decreed by the local Mafia. The murderers escaped.

Bank Cashier Buck Killed.

DARBY, Pa., Aug. 5.—Great excitment was created throughout this section when it became known that Mr. William L. Buck, a well-known citizen of Delaware county, and cashier of the First National bank of Darby, was killed during the night on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad near Collingdale, by being struck by a train while walking on the tracks. It was at first reported that Mr. Buck had been robbed and murdered, but as money and valuables were found on his person, his death is believed to have been accidental.

The Victim of the Duel May Recover.

CROTON LANDING, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Coroner Sutton has drawn upon himself a great deal of comment by his action in empaneling a jury while Mr. Baker, who was shot by Orville Anderson, is alive. The jurors of the place, it is said, go about engaging freely in discussions and disputes, and giving opinions strongly colored by prejudice as to the merits of the case. One of the jurors is reported as having said that he believed the shooting was premeditated. It is now believed that Baker will recover.

Only a Nervous Shock.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 5.—A bulletin issued at 8 a. m. announces that there is but little doubt that the Queen of the Belgians will soon recover. Her prostration was due to nervous shock caused by the spectacle presented by the unhappy ex-Empress Charlotte, who when visited by the Queen yesterday, was suffering from one of those periodical attacks of violent insanity to which she has been subject ever since the tragic death of her husband, Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

Late Returns from Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 5.—Returns from 105 counties give the Democratic candidate for Governor a majority of 21,000. On joint session the Legislature will stand about as follows: Farmers' and Farmer Democrats, 73; Straight Democrats, 50; Republicans, 15.

VETERANS AT WORK

The Grand Army Encampment Opened To-Day.

TROUBLE OVER THE COLOR ISSUE

White Comrades from the South to Force a Vote on the Question.

It is Conceded that Washington Will Have the Next Encampment—Weissert of Wisconsin in the Lead for Commander-in-Chief—Brilliant Reception to Commander-in-Chief Veazey.

DETROIT, Mich, Aug. 5.—This morning the sessions of the Grand Army encampment were formally opened.

Probably the most important question that will come up for consideration is the trouble over the color issue in Louisiana. The white comrades from New Orleans are determined to force a vote on the question whether or not they shall be compelled to have posts of mixed color, or whether the colored man and brother in whose behalf they fought shall not be compelled to get into posts by themselves.

If the encampment lays down the law of "no color line" the white comrades threaten to break up the department.

Last Night's Reception.

Last night the comrades flocked out to the rink to participate in a reception to Commander-in-Chief Veazey. Ex-Gov. Alger was master of ceremonies. Mayor Pingree, in a well-chosen address, welcomed the veterans to the metropolis of the Wolverine State and the Commander-in-Chief made a brief response. Brief addresses, breathing a spirit of good will to the veterans, were made by ex-President Hayes, Secretary Proctor, Governors Hovey and Page, Gen. Butterfield and Gen. Fairchild.

Meanwhile another great crowd had gathered at Camp Sherman in the Exposition building, and thither the same speakers were hurried and the programme repeated.

At midnight the streets were just as crowded as they were at mid-day, but the sleeping accommodations of the city were ample, and nobody was compelled to seek a lodgement in the open air.

Washington Will Win.

It is pretty well conceded that Washington will get the next encampment. The Western posts have made a gallant fight, and the Lincoln delegation especially have spent money like water. The Washington crowd, however, had got in their work, and the Western men have about given up the fight. Ex-Postmaster-General Frank Hatton was the leader of the Washington boomers.

A. G. Weissert, of Wisconsin, is still in the lead for commander-in-chief, although a combination against him is probable. The chief argument against him is that both Wisconsin and Minnesota have had the office in the last decade.

HON. W. L. SCOTT VERY SICK.

The Ex-Congressman's Family Alarmed Over His Condition.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 5.—Ex-Congressman W. L. Scott lies very sick at his residence in this city. His physician is very reticent, but there can be little doubt but that Mr. Scott is suffering from his old stomach trouble.

Two weeks ago, on the recommendation of his physician, he went to the Cambridge mineral springs, but the water, instead of benefiting him, aggravated his sickness, and he returned home to take to his bed, from which he has scarcely risen since.

The members of Mr. Scott's family are all here, and though but little is given to the public regarding Mr. Scott's condition, they cannot disguise their anxious concern, nor the conviction that he is a very sick man.

THAT POISONED COFFEE.

Stanton Says He Fixed the Dose Himself to Create Sympathy.

RONDOUT, N. Y., Aug. 5.—People at Milton on the Hudson are talking about the poisoning of William Stanton, who a week ago drank coffee in which a large quantity of arsenic was subsequently found.

Stanton now insists that he fixed the dose himself to draw the sympathy of the peope and his wife to him, but declines to be interviewed.

Dr., Snow, who attended him, maintains that Stanton was the victim of treacherous people and strong influences have closed his mouth from saying anything about the case. There are many who believe an investigation would reveal a startling state of facts such as would create a stir unheard of before in that village.

Deputy Sheriff Woolsey says he does not desire to act too hastily in the matter. His attention has been directed to important facts which have recently come to light and which may soon lead to arrests. Mrs. Stanton, who, it is alleged, is the cause of all the trouble, is apparently unconcerned as to the outcome.

Parnell Anxious About His Mother.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Aug. 5.—Dr. W. H. Shipps, the physician of Mrs. Parnell, who was recently bitten by a dog, received a cablegram from Charles Stewart Parnell asking if it is necessary to have his mother sent to Paris for treatment by Dr. Pasteur. Dr. Shipps replied that his patient was getting along nicely.

Damrosch's Ballet Dancers Not Artists.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A committee from the Musical Protective Union called upon Gen. O'Beirne, of the Immigration Bureau, and informed him that Walter Damrosch was bringing a party of ballet dancers across on the steamer Majestic, who, the committee said, were not artists, and their coming is contrary to law. Mr. O'Beirne will make an investigation when the girls land here.

REPLY TO GOV. PATTISON.

He May Appoint a Committee to Examine the Keystone Bank's Books.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Mr. Lacey, Comptroller of the Currency, has sent the following letter to Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania:

"I have the honor to inform you that the Secretary of the Treasury has referred to me for reply your communication.

"In accordance with the request therein contained, I have authorized the receiver of the Keystone National Bank to permit a committee of three or five citizens, to be designated by you, to examine the books, papers and accounts of the said bank, with the view to ascertain what deposits of public moneys, in which the State of Pennsylvania had or has any interest, were made in said bank by John Bardsley, the late treasurer of the city and county of Philadelphia, and what became of the money thus deposited.

"In accordance with your suggestions, the authorization is limited to an examination as to deposits of public funds passing through the hands of John Bardsley as treasurer of Philadelphia and agent of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and of such funds as the said Commonwealth may be directly or indirectly interested in."

KNIGHTS WIN A STRIKE.

The Pavers in New York Victors in Their Fight With the Contractors.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—District Assembly 49 of the Knights of Labor and the National Paving Block Cutters' Union, have scored a victory in the big strike of pavers, rammermen, cartmen, clippers, stonehaulers, laborers and helpers.

After a conference between District Master Workmen George Murray, Secretary James Grant of Westerly, R. I., and representatives of Pierce, Booth & Co. and Booth Brothers, of Maine, it was agreed that hereafter only Knights of Labor and union men should handle the product of the two Maine firms from the time it was quarried until it was used on the streets.

Rewards for Murderers.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 5.—The Council last night authorized the Governor to issue a proclamation reciting the fact of the recent crimes and officially recommending that the next Legislature pay the person who may arrest the murderer of Christie Warden the sum of $2,000, and a reward of $1,000 for the capture of McArthur, who escaped from Dover jail. Accurate descriptions of Almy and McArthur will be sent out by Secretary of State Stearns at once.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Fifty-five hundred Italians sailed from Genoa for America this week.

The schooner S. B. Pomeroy, coal laden, was burned on Lake Ontario.

The Liberals carried Salt Lake, Utah, by 900 majority, electing full legislative and county tickets.

All the New York morning newspapers with one exception were indicted by the grand jury for publishing the details of the recent electrocution of Slocum, Jugigo, Wood and Smiler at Sing Sing prison.

Fire destroyed the Monson Yarn Mills at Shirley, Mass. Loss $12,000, insurance $8,000. The building was owned by the Rollstone Savings Bank of Fitchburg. The mill was operated by C. H. Vickery of Clinton.

The directors of the California Athletic Club of San Francisco decided to match Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Hall for a purse of $6,000. Negotiations are now pending between the club and the fighters, and the probabilities are the match will be made.

A passenger train on the New York and New Haven road ran into the rear of a switch train near the West Haven, Conn., station during the morning. Several cars of the passenger train were derailed and partially wrecked. A number of persons were slightly injured. The switch engine was to blame. Loss to the company about $25,000.

A two-bladed jack-knife with which William Welch stabbed Robert and John Walker at Hopkinton, N. H., has been found in the grass a short distance from Walker's house. Welch's hat was also found close by. The finding of Welch's knife disposes of his claim that he used no weapon during the row. The wounded men are in a critical condition.

Mrs. Susan Harberry, aged 70, of Uxbridge, Mass., committed suicide by hanging. Her youngest son recently eloped with a married woman of Alford, taking with him the three children of the woman, leaving his own wife and many creditors, and his misconduct added to his mother's feeble health, caused her to kill herself.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—For New England: Fair weather, except local showers in Western Massachusetts; slightly warmer; variable winds.

For Eastern New York: Local showers; slightly warmer; variable winds.

For New Jersey: Slightly warmer; occasional showers; variable winds.

For Western New York: Generally fair and slightly warmer; variable winds.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The date of the Warren mission excursion to Asbury Park is August 28.

—Asbury Park's policemen did not interfere with the babies' parade. The babies wore long clothes.—New York Recorder.

—This week Friday the First Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist and Congregational Sunday-schools, and their friends, will go to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, for a fine day at the beach.

—An organization meeting of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics will be held at the new school hall, Dunellen, to-night. A number of able speakers will be present to outline the objects and past history of the order.

—The soldier has a stanch friend in U. S. Senator John R. McPherson. Recently, through that gentleman's intercession, several applicants for pensions in this vicinity have had their claims adjusted and granted.

—There are 64,391 post-offices in the United States, an increase of 2,000 over the last year. Nobody objects to the multiplication of these offices any more than one would to the increase of school-houses and churches.

—Edward I. Vroom, of 39 Madison avenue, was doing some work at Mr. McDonald's, 40 East Front street, yesterday, when a dog sprang from its coop and bit him on the calf of the leg. Dr. Long cauterized the wound.

—The Jersey City and Bergen horse car railway company unanimously decided that Dixon's Silica-Graphite paint shall be used entirely for all their car stable roofs and iron work about their buildings —as the best and most economical.

—The Reading, Jersey Central and Pennsylvania railways are considering a movement to abolish mileage books. All passengers will be carried at the uniform rate of two cents a mile, instead of discriminating in favor of the mileage-book man.

—The Young Cuban Giants of this city defeated the Rahways by the score of 2 to 0, yesterday, at Rahway. The Rahways wanted to hire the Cuban Giants' battery, but they had not enough money to hire them. The catcher is Carter, and VanLiew is pitcher.

—The New Jersey crop reports make a favorable showing. There are some serious drawbacks here and there, but on the whole the State has been favored this year with bountiful crops, and the farmers will have good reason to observe Thanksgiving Day.

—Senator Henry Winton, editor and owner of the Bergen County Democrat, recently purchased a fine new power press from the Scott Press works of this city, similar to one in use in the PRESS office. THE PRESS congratulates editor Winton on the successful growth of his office and paper.

—The various peach basket factories throughout the county are working pretty hard to keep up with the demand, but they are unable to do it. There has seldom been such a loud cry for baskets, and prices are going up. The yield of peaches in good old Hunterdon county is expected to reach over 2,000,000 baskets.

—A writer in Our Dumb Animals says that whenever a horse driven by himself has balked he has got out of his carriage and gone to its forefoot, lifted it from the ground and struck the shoe with a stone. He has never failed to start a horse in that very simple way, and he has on several occasions had balky horses which had exhausted the patience of all former owners.

—A man makes a very sensible suggestion to the women who get up fairs and manage them. He says that there should be pocket-handkerchiefs, hemmed and embroidered by hand, both silk and linen; gloves in glove-boxes, ties, and collars and cuffs in boxes that would ornament a dressing-table. He claims that the managers of fairs expect to make most of their money from men, and yet they do not sell articles that a bachelor needs.

Plainfield News from Abroad.

Joe Pike, a wealthy and popular young gentleman from Plainfield, is down at the Park for a few weeks. Mr. Pike is a bicyclist of some note, having beaten champions Murphy and Zimmerman in a recent race. He may frequently be seen about the Park, riding a tandem with his handsome friend, George T. Gaden.—Asbury Park Daily Spray.

If Anybody Can Help It, He Can.

Architect Charles H. Smith has been engaged by the Music Hall directors to make a thorough examination of the construction of the interior of the hall, discover the cause of its faulty acoustics, suggest the remedy, and estimate the cost. Mr. Smith is already at work, and assures a PRESS reporter that he has no doubt of success.

Captured in Hunterdon County.

Wm. McCredy was arrested at Jutland, Hunterdon county, by police captain Grant to-day, on the charge of stealing a wagon from a man named Clark and selling it to Mahlon Vail. He will have a hearing to-morrow.

Don't be afraid, it won't hurt you! Root Beer made from Knapp's Root Beer Extract cheers but not inebriates.

BROKE INTO THE BANK VAULT.

Professional Safe-Breakers Came Within Reach of $40,000 of the City National's Funds.

After working all day of yesterday and till one o'clock this morning, safe-openers succeeded in cutting a hole in one of the City National bank's vaults big enough to get their hands in. They then threw the bolts back and opened the door. There was $40,000 in cash within their grasp, but they did n't get a cent of it. They even left their tools behind them.

The trouble, damage and expense was all brought about by a single ten-cent piece. When the vault door was slammed shut Monday evening, the little dime was jarred down behind one of the bolts. Yesterday morning it was found to be impossible to open the door, and expert safe-openers were sent for. They brought for the purpose a large collection of the most improved and costly tools, made of the finest steel. But it took until after midnight to get inside of the vault.

It was a very expensive casualty for the bank, but it proved that there is no safer place in the world for one's funds than in the City National's vaults.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. J. H. Poillon, wife, and family, left to-day for Spring Lake, N. J.

Seymour G. Smith, President of the Common Council, is spending the month of August at Hartwick, N. Y.

Among the July guests at Richfield Springs have been Mrs. John Gray Foster, J. P. Munn and J. A. Stafford, all of this city.

The Misses Kittie and Della O'Connor, of Harrison street, North Plainfield, are visiting relatives at Cold Springs, Long Island.

J. Burt Emerson, one of the prominent merchants of Haywarden, Iowa, is visiting at the home of his mother on Central avenue.

Major J. Howard Ackerman, one of New Providence's most influential citizens, was in Plainfield Tuesday, calling on friends.

Simon Oley, father of Charles W. Oley, formerly principal of the Dunellen public school, died at his home, Honeoye Falls, N. Y., July 22.

W. E. Hinkson, of the Central pharmacy, is again at his post after a week's vacation, part of which was spent at the home of his parents, Chester, Pa.

Miss Louise M. Leggett, brother of J. Howard Leggett, manager of the Central pharmacy, has returned to her home, Princeton, after a pleasant visit here of one week.

Counselor Craig A. Marsh and wife sailed on the steamship Friesland, of the Red Star Line, for Antwerp, this morning. A number of prominent people from Plainfield and Fanwood gathered on the deck just before the hour for sailing and overwhelmed them with wishes for a happy voyage. The travelers were much affected by the evidences of esteem bestowed on them by their friends.

The Fate of Wesley Levers.

The Elizabeth Journal gives the following additional particulars of the fatal accident to brakeman Wesley Levers, which occurred at Bound Brook Monday:

Levers was one of the crew of conductor John Long's freight train, and the accident which resulted in his death took place at about 9 o'clock in the morning. He was operating on a brake, and the ratchet broke, causing him to fall under the cars.

One of his legs was cut off, and the other mangled. His body also was considerably mutilated. He was still living when picked up, and was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital at Plainfield. His mother and other members of his family were notified and reached his bedside some time before he expired. He was conscious before his death.

His remains were brought to his late home Monday evening in charge of undertaker August F. Schmidt, who is arranging for the funeral service.

Levers was twenty-one years of age, and an estimable young man, held in high regard by the railway officials and all acquainted with him. He was unmarried, and was a member of Court Advance, Ancient Order of Foresters.

The family moved in recent years from Easton. The male members have been well known as railway men, and two others, brothers of Wesley, were killed by the cars. An older brother had both legs cut off by the cars some years ago, and is now a resident of this city.

The grief of the family over this new affliction is intense, and the home on Fulton street is the scene of the most sincere sorrow.

The Rev. Jason Will Speak.

The Rev. W. C. Jason of Orange is to be the Emancipation Day orator in this city to-morrow, after all. A committee consisting of Wm. Douglass and James A. Saunders made a thorough investigation yesterday and found that the clergyman was wholly blameless in the matter of the horsewhipping affair. The pastor is an educated and polished gentleman, and the girl who assailed him is certainly demented.

The gormandizer likes it because it is fine. The workman likes it because it quenches his thirst, enriches his blood, and strengthens his muscle. It is cheap. The mother likes it. It keeps her boys at home. The women of America like it, because it takes the place of intoxication. This Hires's Root Beer.

NEITHER TEAM WON.

The Crescent League Ball Players Tie the First Game at Norwich.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

NORWICH, Aug. 4.—The first game between the Crescent League ball team and the Norwich professional league nine, resulted in a tie at the end of the ninth inning.

The score was 8 to 8 when darkness prevented further playing. Each team made nine hits. Taylor was very wild. The Plainfield boys arrived in fine condition and are much encouraged by to-day's game. They feel sure of winning at Willimantic to-morrow.

HOLY CROSS CHOIR IN CAMP.

(SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.)

MERWIN'S POINT, Conn., Aug. 4.—The Holy Cross church choir arrived safely at Camp Dupee at 8:50 a. m. yesterday, after having breakfasted in New Haven. The tents and baggage soon came along, and at 10 o'clock the choir's beautiful flag was swung to the breeze amid tremendous cheering. The afternoon was spent in playing games, rowing, and bathing, and in the evening an impromptu concert was given on the rocks by the Sound. To-day the camp awoke at 5 a. m., and although rain fell until 10 o'clock the fun waxed fast and furious, as soon as breakfast and rehearsal were over. This evening the choir by invitation will be the guests of the Owanus Canoe Club of Bridgeport, at their camp near here.

Emancipation Day To-morrow.

As has already been told in these columns, the first attraction of to-morrow's Emancipation Day celebration will be a ball game between two colored teams—one from Washington, Warren county, the other made up of players from Plainfield and from the celebrated Gorhams—on the Crescent League grounds, at 10:30 in the morning.

At noon dinner will be served, and at 2 p. m. the parade will start. At the head of the procession will be visiting and local dignitaries, the president of the day, Mr. Johnson, and the orator of the day, the Rev. Mr. Jason, all in carriages, the Grand Marshall, Wm. Douglass, and his aides; then will come the visiting colored organizations, all citizens desirous of falling into line, either in carriages or afoot, and two or three brass bands. At the conclusion of the parade a mass meeting will be held at the Crescent, where Mayor Gilbert will give an address of welcome and the Rev. Mr. Jason will deliver an oration. Wm. A. Alexander, of 113 Richmond street, also will address the meeting. At 3:45 p. m. another base-ball game between the Washington and Plainfield colored clubs will be played. In the evening at 8 o'clock, at the Crescent, the Rev. Mr. Jason will again deliver an oration, and at the close of his address a colored ball will be held. The costumes will be gorgeous, and the affair a brilliant one. There will be a band of music at the ball games. The public is requested to decorate the houses along the line of march.

Miss Mary Howe to Wed.

It will be news not only to her many friends in Plainfield but to a great many people in the musical world to learn that Miss Mary Howe, the soprano, and William Lavin, the tenor, are soon to be married.

The news of the engagement leaked out yesterday, and, of course, came from a friend, who told it in strict confidence to another, who himself told it in confidence to somebody else.

Miss Howe is a blonde and is very handsome. She comes originally from Brattleboro, Vt., and has studied both here and under Mme. Marchasi's tuition abroad. Her first appearance here took place last November at the Musurgia concert.

She afterward appeared as soloist at the Metropolitan Musical Society's concert, and sang once or twice during the winter at the Thomas concerts at the Lenox Lyceum, New York.

Mr. Lavin has appeared at many concerts in this city, and everybody remembers that Miss Howe sang at The Casino, Thursday evening, Jan. 15.

A Fine Day at the Shore.

The Trinity excursionists had a nice day at the shore yesterday. It did not rain until about 6 p. m., and then it only sprinkled. The train had the usual hot box coming back, and a car had to be left at Elizabethport. The excursionists arrived home shortly after 9. Everybody who went enjoyed the day. The committee managed the excursion in a very satisfactory manner.

A Plainfielder Helped Ashore.

H. E. Gayle, treasurer of the Trinity Sunday-school, and one of the committee men on yesterday's excursion, got out beyond his depth in the surf yesterday, and was assisted ashore by the bathing master. Mr. Gayle said that he was never more glad of anyone's companionship than of the professional swimmer's at just that moment.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

E. R. MACKEY, M. D.

The Plainfield Bicycle Club Wins in Six Innings.

The Flemington Democrat says: "An attempt was made here last Saturday afternoon to play a game of ball, the Plainfield Bicycle Club—who are also ball players—coming here for the purpose of playing with our Flemington Ball Club. The rain interfered, and only six innings were played, the score standing 4 to 3 in favor of the visitors."

To-morrow's Line of March.

The revised line of march for the Emancipation Day parade to-morrow afternoon will be as follows:

Peace street to Front, to Washington avenue, to Park place, to Grove, to Craig place, to Somerset, to Manning avenue, to Westervelt, countermarch back on Manning avenue, to Somerset street, to Park avenue, to Fifth, to Central avenue, to Eighth, to Park, to Crescent avenue, to Broadway, to Kensington, to Putnam, to Franklin place, to Fifth, to the Crescent Rink, where the afternoon celebration will be held.

Plainfield's Colored Champions.

The following team will play for Plainfield in the morning base-ball game of the colored people to-morrow:

Charles Kline—pitcher.
Frank Nelson—catcher.
Thomas Patterson—first base.
Schenck—centre field.
Al. Ackson—second base.
James Potter—third base.
D. Martin—left field.
W. Moffett—short stop.
E. Martin—right field.

Dillon and O'Brien in the Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Dillon and O'Brien were given quite an ovation when they appeared in the House of Commons during the afternoon. The Bankrupt Court has granted Mr. William O'Brien another delay of three days in which to show cause why he should not be declared a bankrupt because of his failure to pay the amount of costs ($8,500) awarded against him in July, 1889, in a suit for libel in which Lord Salisbury was the defendant.

Swallowed a Silver Dollar.

FINDLAY, O., Aug. 5.—A silver dollar lodged in his stomach is causing John Dolland, a young farmer, much uneasiness. Yesterday he was flipping a dollar in the air and catching it in his mouth, when it suddenly slipped down his throat. How to be relieved of the coin is now the question Dolland and his physician are trying to solve.

They Want to Form a Trust.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The directors of the Boston Water Power Company have decided to ask the stockholders to form a trust, with a view of keeping the old stock alive, so that the former directors may be sued for malfeasance in office, this course being pursued upon the advice of eminent counsel.

Murderer Webster Will Surrender.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—It is learned that the well known criminal lawyers, Howe & Hummell, have been retained by Bertram C. Webster, who shot Charles E. Goodwin Sunday night, and that his friends will produce him in court within 48 hours. Mrs Webster has been released.

Vedder Nominated by Acclamation.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The Hon. C. P. Vedder was nominated by acclamation for State Senator from the 32d Senatorial district at the Republican convention held in this city.

Cut Her Throat With a Jack-Knife.

HANSON, Mass., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Hannah S. Pratt, wife of John N. Pratt, killed herself here by cutting her throat with a jack-knife in a fit of despondency induced by ill health. She was 57 years old and leaves a family.

The Engineer Was Careless.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 5.—The railroad commissioners reported on the Kittery Junction accident, blaming Engineer Roundy for carelessness in the disregard of the rules of the road and in not taking proper precautions to avoid accidents.

Two Barks Out 110 Days.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 5.—Some anxiety is felt for the safety of the barks Viega and Francisco Clinto, from Transpan to this port. They are now out 110 days and have never been heard of since starting from Transpan.

Cal McCarthy's Challenge to Dixon.

PURSUED ON A BICYCLE.

A Westfield Newspaper Man Captures a Coachman Who Fatally Injured a Child.

Minnie Elgin, the two-year-old daughter of Benjamin Elgin, of Montclair, was run over, Monday, by a carriage on Bloomfield avenue, near Montclair, and injured so severely that no hope is entertained of her recovery. The carriage was driven, it is alleged, by Joseph Brown, a coachman in the employ of James C. Beach, of Beach street, Bloomfield, although he disclaims any knowledge of the affair.

Brown, it is said by those who saw the affair, was driving down Bloomfield avenue at a breakneck speed at the time he ran into the little girl. She was knocked down, and the wheels of the carriage passed over her, cutting two ugly wounds in her head and fracturing her skull. She was picked up unconscious and taken to her parents' home, near the spot where she was run over. The driver, instead of waiting to see the extent of the unfortunate girl's injuries, whipped up his horses and drove rapidly down the avenue toward Bloomfield.

Clifford E. Pearsall, manager of the Westfield Standard, and son of the editor, Alfred E. Pearsall, was passing by at the time and saw the affair.

Seeing Brown drive off, he started after him on his bicycle, followed by half a dozen other citizens, some in wagons and others on foot. When near Park avenue, in Bloomfield, Pearsall caught up to him and succeeded in stopping him. Others who had seen the chase came up, and an excited crowd soon collected. Brown claimed to know nothing of the affair, and told Pearsall, and others who upbraided him for his conduct, to mind their business. Mr. Higgins, one of the eyewitnesses of the affair, went before Justice Hall at the request of the father of the injured girl and had a warrant issued for the arrest of the driver, who will probably be taken prisoner to-day and held to await the result of the injuries of the child.

When the little one was picked up blood was oozing from both sides of her head and ears. Dr. Shelton, of Montclair, and Dr. P. V. P. Hewlett, of Newark, the family physician, were called.

The child in the meantime had been carried to the Mountainside Hospital. The injuries were considered by the attending physicians to be very serious. The little one had partially recovered consciousness yesterday, but soon feel into a dead sleep. The mother is almost distracted over the affair, and is continually at the bedside of her daughter.

The Fastest Train in the World Runs Through Plainfield.

The following table giving the actual running time of the fastest trains in this country and Great Britain, shows that the train that passes through Plainfield every afternoon just before 2:30 is the fastest in the world:

ROYAL BLUE TRAIN.

	Miles.	Schedule.
Washington	—	10:00 a. m.
Baltimore, arrive	40	10:45 a. m.
Baltimore, leave	—	10:48 a. m.
Wilmington	110.9	12:24 p. m.
Philadelphia, arrive	136	12:55 p. m.
Philadelphia, leave	—	12:57 p. m.
Wayne Junction	143	1:10 p. m.
Jersey City	225	2:48 p. m.
New York	226	3:00 p. m.
Time allowance:
Patapsco ferry		15 minutes.
North River ferry		12 minutes.
Wait at Baltimore		3 minutes.
Wait at Philadelphia		2 minutes.
Arbitrary allowance, four stops		8 minutes.
Total		40 minutes.

Actual running time, 260 minutes; average, 51.9 miles an hour.

SCOTCH EXPRESS.

	Miles.	Schedule.
London (Euston)	—	10:00 a. m.
Willesden Junction	5.5	10:10 a. m.
Rugby, arrive	82.75	11:44 a. m.
Rugby, leave	—	11:49 a. m.
Crewe, arrive	158	1:14 p. m.
Crewe, leave	—	1:19 p. m.
Preston, arrive	208	2:20 p. m.
Preston, leave	—	2:40 p. m.
Carlisle, arrive	299.25	4:05 p. m.
Carlisle, leave	—	4:30 p. m.
Edinburgh	400	6:30 p. m.
Time allowance:
Wait at Rugby		5 minutes.
Wait at Crewe		5 minutes.
Wait at Preston		20 minutes.
Wait at Carlisle		5 minutes.
Arbitrary allowance, five stops		10 minutes.
Total		45 minutes.

Actual running time, 465 minutes; average, 51.6 miles an hour.

The Scotch express does better than 51.6 miles an hour between certain stations. Its best run is the 75¼ miles from Rugby to Crewe in 85 minutes, an average of 53 miles an hour. But the Royal Blue line also makes some smart short runs. On the Baltimore and Ohio road, between Baltimore and Washington, it averages 60 miles an hour for the greater part of the 40 miles, while the Reading and Jersey Central engineers, in places, rush along at 75 to 80 miles an hour, and do it every day. It is said that the Great Northern has lately added a still faster train than the Scotch express of the London and Northwestern. It averages 54 miles an hour, but only for a distance of 105½ miles.

Quick Time to Plainfield.

President Clum, of the Mercury Wheelmen, Elizabeth, is a rider worthy of a little mention. He rode down from Plainfield the other day in forty-five minutes on a wheel weighing fifty-eight pounds. Mr. Clum is no racer, but he can hold out as long as the next one in an ordinary run and at a regular pace.—Elizabeth Journal.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

A LITTLE BEHIND THE AGE.

A Thirsty Tramp Gives a Pointer to Plainfield's Progressive Pharmacists.

A very forlorn but good-natured tramp straggled dismally into a local drug store the other day and established himself in one of the chairs provided for the comfort of the pretty girls who patronize the soda fountain. There were no customers in the store at the time, and the clerks were monkeying with some mysterious prescription in the back room, so the tramp just sat still and drank in the beauty of the cut-glass bottles and the corn-cure samples and the soft-eyed maidens in the patent-medicine advertisements. He would have sat right there, happy, quiet and contented, for probably half a day, if he had been left alone; but he was n't. Pretty soon one of the clerks spied him from the who-enters-here-leaves-hope-behind-looking place at the rear of the shop and came out to discourage the siesta.

"Well, sir,"—said the clerk—"what can I do for you?"

The tramp started as if some one had pinched him, and seemed too dazed to answer. The clerk repeated his stock interrogation. Then the intruder awoke. He strolled somewhat uncertainly to the soda fountain.

"I guess, mister,"—he said—"you kin gimme a kodak."

"A what?"—asked the clerk.

"A kodak."

"Kodak?"

"Yes; doncher know what a kodak is?"

"Certainly I know what a kodak is; but we don't keep them here."

"Do n't keep kodaks here?"

"No: we don't."

"Tha's sing'lar, very sing'lar"—muttered the weary one.—"Sure you know what a kodak—"

"See here, sir!"—interrupted the clerk.—"You have got into the wrong store. What you want is a hardware or a stationary or a sporting-goods store; this is a drug store."

"Drug store?"—queried the guest.

"That's what I said: drug store"—returned the host, getting saucy. A gleam of intelligence shot across the tramp's face.

"I'm all right"—he said.—"Drug store; that's it; gimme a kodak."

Then the drug man got mad. He winked to another clerk who had taken in the latter part of the conversation, and between them they landed the knight errant on the sidewalk, and the fly-screen doors closed behind him forever. The clerks laughed at him through the door as he scrambled up and eyed them curiously.

"Gen'lemen,"—he said, reproachfully—"I thought you knew that kodak is the proper for brandy and soda. I shall not trifle with any more jay druggists; they know what I want in New York."

And he bowed and shuffled off toward the great metropolis.

GREEN ALMOST A SURE WINNER.

VanWinkle and Lyman, However, Will Give Him a Hard Fight Before the Finish of the Crescent League Pool Tournament.

Although only 82 of the 210 games have been played in the Crescent League pool tournament, yet it looks already as if Green was a sure winner. Lyman, the scratch man, who is heavily handicapped, had bad luck last night. Up to then he had lost only two games, but both Green, to whom he gives 15, and Jackson, to whom he gives 25, beat him. Kenney and Moore, who are rated even, also played last night and the former won.

Epworth Leaguers Hold a Rally.

Unfavorable weather yesterday afternoon forced the Dunellen Epworth League to hold their rally in the church instead of on the lawn, but although circumstances in this instance were against them the occasion was a brilliant success.

The entertainment was held in the upper church room, and was very interesting in both its musical and literary features.

Miss Ella Fisher's recitation, "The Three Lovers", received much applause, as also did the recitation by Miss Louise Apgar, entitled "Legend of VanBibber's Rock".

Dr. R. R. Doherty, of Westfield, addressed the company on the rapid growth of religious organizations, after which a quartette, consisting of the Misses Apgar and Giles and Messrs. Apgar and Leal, sang "The Bill of Fare", which was greatly applauded by all present. Upon invitation the gathering then repaired to the Sunday-school room, and were bountifully served with lemonade and cake, after which the Rev. W. C. Kinsey and others favored them with more singing.

A large number of visitors, from Elizabeth, Westfield, and other towns, were present, all being representatives of this or a similar society.

A Minister's Weather Predictions.

The Rev. Ira R. Hicks, of St. Louis, the weather prophet, writes as follows, for August, to The Word and Works Publishing Company:

"Atmospheric and electrical disturbances during the closing days of July will have subsided, leaving the weather fair and moderate during the opening days of August. A storm period is central on the 4th, calling for rising temperature about the 3d, which will grow in intensity until the heat is modified by the passage of northwesterly storms on the 4th, 5th and 6th. The new moon on the 4th will tend to precipitate the disturbances within 36 hours of noon on that date, increasing any earthquake tendencies otherwise existing. Normally, fresher, cooler air should follow until we approach the 10th, which with 11th call for very high temperature with reactionary storms, reaching eastern sections into the 12th. Lower temperature should follow.

"The 15th is the central day for the next storm period. Five days is about the average life of a storm period, the temperature always rising and the wind currents shifting to easterly and southerly during the first half of the period. By the central day, storm conditions, as a rule, are ripe in the West, and during the last half of the period they move across this continent to the East. Lower temperatures and high barometers break down in front of advancing storms, and follow in the reverse order in their rear. Storms, therefore, with very high temperature may be looked for from about August 15 to 17. After this, cooler days and nights will follow to the 20th, on which date, and the 21st, reactionary temperature and storms will appear. Cooler to about the 26th.

"The last storm period for August is from the 25th to the 29th. The 27th is the central day. Many parts suffering with heat and drought may look for partial relief through the disturbances at this period. The month will end with a fair, bright day and cool night."

Let the Fish Laws be Enforced.

(From The Flemington Democrat.)

The poor luck that attends all hook and line fishermen who fish in the Branch this Summer indicates that there are but few fish in the stream. The general impression is that they have pretty much all been dragged from the river by the illegal net and set line fishermen. Certain it is that the hook and line fishermen receive no encouragement this summer at the Branch. Their "bites" are few, and their catch is next to nothing. It was not so a few years ago. Then there was a plenty of fish, and with proper effort there was no trouble at all in catching a mess of bass, catfish or eels.

The society now forming in this vicinity for the protection of the fish in our streams was begun none too soon. We hope that it may become a powerful organization, and that it may re-stock the river with the various breeds that may thrive in its waters, and, above all, that it may succeed in enforcing the laws against illegal fishers. It is high time that the strong arm of the law be laid upon all who persistently violate it in the matter of illegal fishing.

In Regard to Illegal Fishing.

Those farmers who live along the small streams or rivers of this State, and who claim and exercise the right to fish at any season or with any device they choose, should know what Lawyer Henry Huston, of Newton, Sussex county, has to say in his interpretation of the fishing laws. Mr. Huston says: "Where a stream of water flows through a farm, the owner of such farm has no right to take fish from such stream except according to the laws of the State. And if such owner catch fish from such stream out of season, or with nets, fykes or seines, or in any other way prohibited by the laws of the State, he violates the law, and is liable to conviction and subject to the penalties provided by law. He has no more right to catch fish from such stream out of season or contrary to law than has any other person. If such owner uses nets he may be fined, and the nets may be confiscated."

A Most Welcome Rain.

The farmers are more than delighted with the frequent and generous rain falls. They say it was just the thing needed to fatten up the corn and potatoes. The sod fields also show its beneficial effects, while garden truck fairly jumps toward the top rail of the tall grape arbor. The peach men report wonderful improvement in the looks of their trees since the rain, and they say that the peach itself has almost doubled its size. No one will care to dispute the assertion that no rain ever came more welcomely. As far as the peaches are concerned they will come to handsome maturity without another quart of water. Perhaps the corn and potatoes would like another soaking about the middle of this month. Will the clerk of the weather please make a note of this without further notice?

—What style! Where did you get it? At Peck's, of course.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

WHERE NEGROES CANNOT DANCE.

Founder Bradley of Asbury Park Objects to the Revels of Colored Roisterers.

Founder James A. Bradley is on deck again with an entirely new and unique crusade. This time it is against a part of the colored colony of Asbury Park. Most of those against whom this effort is directed are waiters and cooks in the summer hotels. They have been accustomed to gather night after night in Central Hall, in Mattison avenue, which is rented for amusement purposes, and they have continued their dancing and boisterous revelry until early morning, much to the annoyance of the people of the neighborhood. Yesterday morning founder Bradley had the following circular issued.

Complaints having been made through the press and otherwise about a nuisance that is maintained in Central Hall, owned by Dr. H. S. Kinmonth: therefore all aggrieved persons are requested to meet in the Commissioners' rooms in Park Hall on Tuesday, Aug. 4, at 3 o'clock. If the protests are sufficient, legal action will be taken at once to suppress the immoral gatherings held by the colored people.

JAMES A. BRADLEY,
President of Board of Commissioners.

Promptly at the hour named Park Hall was filled. Many short speeches were made. It was said that the dances of the colored revelers usually ended in drunken carousals, annoying the residents for blocks around. In a private interview founder Bradley said that he and his wife had sleeping apartments in his building adjoining the hall and that they had been compelled to vacate them because of the loud and filthy language of the colored people of both sexes on the sidewalk under his window. He said the reason the place had not been closed by the police was that Dr. Kinmonth, the owner of the building, had agreed to abate the nuisance. If evidence enough can be obtained the place will be raided by the police.

Dress Reform at Chautauqua.

Of the projects for reforming the dress of women which from time to time claim public attention some are so radical in their departure from existing customs that, justly or unjustly, they inspire more ridicule than respect. Some are merely the pet fads or ingenious advertisements of individuals. Some are the devices of cranks. Some infringe upon ideas of propriety which, right or wrong, are so firmly rooted in the feminine mind that they are likely to remain for generations unshaken. Some, too, and these are none the least unworthy of serious attention, are not supported by good taste and do not accord with proper and popular conception of beauty.

To the general objects and purposes of the dress reform crusade now being so vigorously pushed at Chautauqua these objections do not apply. The women who are in charge of that movement are making a fight for health, beauty and comfort in dress. They oppose customs which fix an arbitrary standard for stylish apparel and squeeze, compress and torture women into lay figures to fit such dress. They want to set up a high ideal of symmetrical, healthful and beautiful development of the body, and to make dress conform to the upbuilding and maintenance of that ideal. They want the Venus of Milo to supplant the wasp as a model for the female figure.

Frances Willard, the energetic head of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, is credited with winning over many of her followers in the ranks of the anti-rum workers. Miss Willard has rechristened the wasp waist, and hereafter it will be known among the Chautauqua reformers as "the death line". No prudent young man at Chautauqua will have anything to do with it; for, according to Miss Willard—and this is a big concession—"this line has filled more graves than whiskey". All this is quoted to show what a mighty commotion there must be within the gates and on the other side of the tall board fence that make Chautauqua in, but not of, the world. When Miss Willard uttered the death-line-graves expression the great audience applauded her. Among those assembled there, perhaps, were many whose knowledge of anatomy and physiology taught them that the speaker did not inaptly or unfairly describe the voluntary deformity to which many women subject themselves at the demand of an arbitrary and injurious fashion.

The Chautauqua reformers propose by photographs, lectures and statues to lead women to correct and artistic ideas of what beauty of figure means. They want to put before them for imitation and example not the distortions wrought by silly and pernicious fashions, but the noble model which nature often gives and which vanity so frequently impairs or destroys. They want to accustom them to the high ideals of great artists, to the postures and development which are embodiments of grace and beauty. They want to warn them of the folly and sin of following fashions which deform and distort the body and are likely to wreck the health.

Whether the details on which these women may agree will be as worthy of commendation as their purpose, is a question. But—comments the Newark Evening News—they have already done good service to their sisters by recalling to them the true models of health and beauty and by reminding them that fashions which seek to alter nature's lines and re-shape nature's wise and beautiful designs are pernicious and unsightly.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

Impatience.

A doctor who was noted for his pretences rather than for his cures was called to prescribe one day for a man who was ill, and gave him some medicine. The next day but one he called to see the patient.

"How is he to-day?" he asked a servant at the door.

"He's dead, sir—that's how he is," said the servant.

"He is, eh," said the doctor, indignantly. "Well, that's always the way. People expect our medicine to work wonders, and then they get in a hurry and don't give it time to prove what it can do!"

The Lesser Evil.

Lawyer Grind (whose office is across the hall from the dentist's)—What is your object in having that bag piper playing in your room every time you have a patient? Does it ease his pain any?

Dentist Snagg—I am doing that for the benefit of my neighbors. The music deadens the patient's cries.

Lawyer Grind—Well, if that is the reason, you may shut off my part of it hereafter. I thought if the music made it any easier for the patients I'd try to stand it. But if it's for my benefit, I prefer the howls.—Munsey's Weekly.

Circumstances Alter Cases.

Old Husband (reading)—This lymph is doing wonders. I think I will try it. It may enable me to live a few years longer.

Wife—Oh, I wouldn't take it.

Old Husband (continuing reading)—Ah! I see that it has killed several.

Wife—Well, it might do you good!—Once a Week.

No Cause for Complaint.

"Ah, deah boy! What made you withdraw from the club whist tournament?"

"Weally, old chappie; ther' was quite too much cheating going on, doncherknow."

"Why, me deah fellah, it's quite the the usual thing in the pwince's set!"—Puck.

Almost Incredible.

A Houston (Tex.) gentleman is too modest to use the word garter. A friend asked him:

"What kind of a present are you going to buy your wife?"

"I think I'll get her a 'Honi-soit-qui-mal-y-pense,'" was the reply.—Texas Siftings.

A Grand Idea.

Hicks—What a grand thing it is to think of the ballots of a great and free people being disseminated, as seed are sown to fructify and bear rich fruitage.

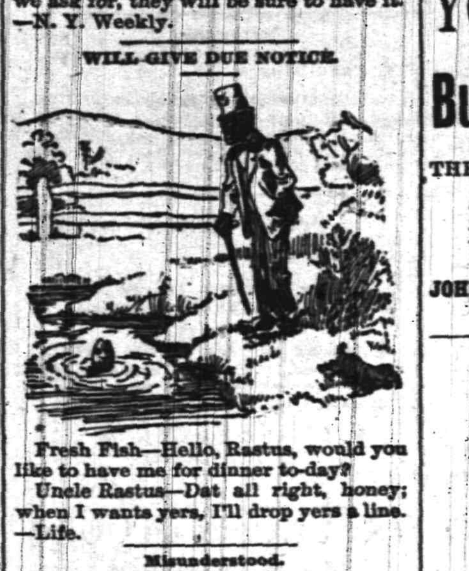
Wicks—Yes; only the votes remind one of these boots of mine—machine sewed, you know.—Boston Transcript.

Unsatisfactory Shopping Place.

Daughter—Here is Bigg, Stocke & Co.'s great store. Let's go in.

Mother—No, no. No matter what we ask for, they will be sure to have it.—N. Y. Weekly.

WILL GIVE DUE NOTICE.



Fresh Fish—Hello, Rastus, would you like to have me for dinner to-day?

Uncle Rastus—Dat all right, honey; when I wants yers, I'll drop yers a line.—Life.

Misunderstood.

William the Wanderer (at the kitchen window, sniffing the delicious odor of the cooking dinner)—Beanteous maid, I smell—

The Cook—I know ye do; an' ef yer don't go away from here I'll put th' Boord av Hilth on yer.—Jury.

Sarcasm.

Mrs. Scrimp (to man with pack)—G'lang, there! We don't want no peddlers 'round here.

Cohen—I haf some English grammars mit me, ma'am. Mebbe you could use vun of dhose.—Judge.

A Pertinent Question.

He (coming home late)—Very sorry, my dear, but I was detained down town by some pressing business.

She—Pressing business! H'm! Was it your typewriter girl?—Munsey's Weekly.

Didn't Want to Know Him.

Paying-Teller—You will have to be identified—have some one introduce you to me—before I can cash this check.

Young Lady (haughtily)—But I do not care to know you, sir.—Judge.

An Eye to Business.

Si Stokes—I'm a pretty reg'lar customer o' yours, Jake.

Storekeeper—Yes, but I wish you'd spend a little less time here an' a little more money.—Munsey's Weekly.

A Decided Objection.

The Friend—Do you think you will mary the viscount?

The Belle (doubtfully)—No, I think not. He hardly matches my complexion.—Munsey's Weekly.

A Dead Give-Away.

Col. Blood—And so I've caught you at my hen coop again, you rascal!

Coonby—'Fore de Lawd, sah, dis am de berry first time yo' ebber cotched me, suah!—Judge.

Not Accepted.

Banker—What securities can you give me as collateral?

Broker—None; but I can give a wagon load of insecurities.—Munsey's Weekly.

More Beauty Than Beauty.

Cora—Don't you think I will sweep everything before me with this gown?

Dora—No; but you will sweep everything behind you.—Puck.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. ABOUT CAMPING OUT.

How It Is Done and How It Ought to Be Done.

The Fat Man's Ideal of Camp Comfort—Too Much Bread — Hints of Camp Cookery—Tent Life as a Medicine—Women in Camp.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

"Yes," said the fat man at about eleven p. m., when the fire and the flickering shadows in the dark depths of the woods at Saranac Lake and the sweet breath of the piny air and the sense of companionship had made us all communicative as no other influence can. "Yes, this is a very comfortable camp indeed, but it isn't as comfortable as my ideal camp would be, by a long chalk."

"Tell us about your ideal camp, Frank," said a sleepy voice near the fire.

"Well," said Frank, with all a fat man's deliberation, "in the first place the tent would be very large, much larger than this for instance. Any pleasant place would do to pitch it; the nearer to a good grocery the better. It would have mattresses or cots. My back is sore now from lying on the ground last night."

"That's because you were too lazy to pick enough hemlock boughs," I said.

"My ideal camp," went on the fat man, paying no heed to the interruption, "would have a piano—"

"A piano!"

"A piano and a hammock, or two or three hammocks, if necessary. Then there would be a telephone to communicate with the grocery and the office—"

"And the brewery," I interrupted again.

"And the rest of the world. I would take my wife and babies into camp with me, and I'd have a man cook and never move or go back to town until cold weather."

This was many years ago, but I don't believe the fat man has ever yet attained his ideal. Indeed, when he really got a wife and baby he gave up camping altogether, which shows how unwise it is to expect too much in this life. More recently I saw at the canoe exhibition in New York city a little collection labeled "A Veteran's Camp Outfit," which consisted of a tiny canoe, a blanket, a paddle and a sheath knife. This shows how ideals will differ.

Of course, circumstances alter cases. If the camper wants to stay in one spot and rest and grow fat, he can convey to that spot considerable luggage and keep it there. I can see the possibility, if not the desirability, of that. But if one would taste the joys of an ever-changing experience, camping in a different spot every night, he must go light laden. I have tramped over a good bit of country with two or three companions, carrying my share of the camp outfit on my back, and enjoyed it immensely. A few pounds additional weight would change enjoyment into disgust. Better than this is to make a highway of some river, load one's few belongings in a light boat and set out in quest of strange adventures. Who knows where we shall camp to-morrow night, and who cares?

Young fellows roughing it really do not need a tent at all. I have spent some portions of more than one rainy day under my boat drawn up on shore and tipped over, the edge to leeward propped up on a stick; and when the night is fair how could one ask a better bed than the bottom of his boat, with only the star-dotted coverlid of the sky over him?

An adequate outfit for any camping scheme within reach of supplies will include a tent, which may be made of very light cloth. Steven's tent, which he carried across Asia on his world-encircling bicycle, was made of waterproof cloth and weighed only a few ounces. There should be matches in a water tight box, a frying pan and a pail to boil coffee. A set of two or three pails of slightly differing sizes, which will "nest" into each other, is very convenient. A jackknife is a necessity, a fork a forgiveable luxury; a forked twig cut from a tree will usually answer. The blankets must be large and well woven, but not necessarily heavy. Old-fashioned Indian "point" blankets are the best. I have used one which I hung up to make one side of an improvised tent, and which turned a heavy day's rain. To guard against dampness at such a time the tent should, of course, be pitched upon a slight rise of ground.

The camp cuisine presupposes enormous hunger. Fish or game in season may be a standby, but on a long cruise some supplies must be carried. Tin cans contain nowadays almost all that is needed. I have seen a Boston professor dancing frantically about with a can of baked beans in one hand and a can of brown bread in the other and vociferously shouting that there was no more need of women. All the same, women are handy in camp, and take to roughing it more naturally than cynics would suppose. Of course they cannot cook so well in camp as men, having preconceived notions and a general dislike to the wholesome amount of dirt, ashes and bark. But they like camping, and then they always have pins and needles.

Some campers never bother with flour, but take with them an inordinate amount of hardtack and pick berries for dietetic variety. Flour prepared so as to be self-raising is a handy substance to have in the tent. Used in combination with the berries it contains the promise and potency of short cake. If there is a cow anywhere about which can be milked in an absent-minded moment, bread and milk is a practicable combination; and as cows feed on the farthest fringe of civilization and browse in the edges of the wilderness it is more commonly attainable than might be supposed. A great variety of dishes may be prepared in the frying pan, but almost any kind of meat, usually fried in camp for lack of a better way, is much better broiled before the fire on a forked stick. There is no objection to carrying for this purpose a little wire broiler; it doesn't weigh much. Tin cups for drinking should have handles. Patent telescoping cups are often recommended, but if the gentle reader ever tries to drink hot coffee out of one and first burns his fingers and next allows the thing to collapse and spill the coffee over his knee he will appreciate the force of the suggestion that they be severely let alone.

Coffee is the camper's breakfast standby. Somehow, although this beverage is, of course, utterly unjustifiable under ordinary conditions, it seems to make itself felt in camp. Tea is useless except for the confirmed tea topers. Anything with alcohol in it may be taken if desired, but should then be carefully poured out upon the ground; not in the river, it might kill the fish.

And, apropos of alcohol: I knew a very grave and pious man once who was going camping and intrusted to a jocular acquaintance the responsibility of ordering the provisions. Next morning, a few hours before the start, the grocer rang him up on the telephone.

"Hello! Hello!" he said; "get away there, Central, or I'll—Hello, Jones! Is that grocery order of yours all right?"

"Yes," came back Jones' voice through the burring and buzzing of the 'phone. "It's all right."

"But," said the grocer, "aren't you afraid you've got down too much"—here he paused and looked about the store. A number of persons were within earshot—"too much—ah—bread; you know; too much bread?"

"No," said Jones; "that's all right; want lots of bread."

And when the big order of goods was unpacked in camp behold! there was an enormous wicker-guarded demijohn of whisky and no bread at all, which shows that even righteous campers are not proof against the machinations of the ungodly.

The end of summer and early fall is the great camping-out time all over the union. Whether a person is in Maine or the Adirondacks or among the Minnesota lakes or in the Rocky mountains the last days of August are not bad camping weather. The days are still warm enough for loafing, the nights sufficiently cool to make sleep perfect and blankets a luxury. Earlier in the season the sun will persist in waking one up at four a. m., which makes our days too long in the land. Earlier than this, too, there will be found in most places some few or many inquisitive mosquitoes or others of their profane tribe. Whatever the month, until after the autumnal equinox, the tent should face the west, so as to admit the evening and shut out the morning light.

I believe it to be a fact that no properly constituted person ever caught cold by sleeping in a tent in ordinary summer weather. I have seen invalids in the last stages of consumption carrid into the pine woods almost on their beds as a last resort. Sometimes they died—they would have done that in any case—often they dwarfed the miraculous by getting well. It is a specific for nervous diseases, sleeplessness, worry, anxiety, lung trouble, hay fever. Henry Ward Beecher went into the heart of the White mountains at a certain time nearly every summer in order to breathe without pain.

The camping out habit is purely American as nearly as I can make out. People are said to do it on the Thames between Oxford and London, but I have looked for tents all the way and seen only two. American or not, it is a good custom and ought to be kept up, and to grow with the growth of the towns as a corrective of their unnatural conditions.

OWEN LANGDON.

An Ignoramus.

Mr. Blinkers—I understand, sir, that your son and my daughter are engaged, and I feel that on account of my daughter's youth their contemplated marriage should be postponed.

Mr. Levelhead—What? My son talking about marrying? Why, he's a mere infant, a perfect ignoramus. He doesn't know enough to last him over Sunday. Why, sir, the fellow hasn't been out of college over a year.—Good News.

Why They Smiled.

Returned Traveler — French people always seem so pleasant. I noticed that everyone I spoke to while I was in France would smile at me.

Friend—Indeed! In what language did you speak to them?

Returned Traveler—French.

Friend—Perhaps that accounts for it.—Munsey's Weekly.

Insanity in the Family.

Doctor—Your husband appears to be run down, anxious and overworked, but I see no signs of insanity.

Mrs. De Fashion—I'm sure he is in danger of it. Insanity runs in his family, you know.

"Does it?"

"Yes, indeed. Two of his sisters had chances to marry rich men and then married poor ones."—N. Y. Weekly.

Entirely Impartial.

Traveler—Which is the shortest, quickest and best route to the west?

Ticket Agent—I don't know, sir.

"Have you no opinion on the subject?"

"None at all. They all pay the same commission now."—N. Y. Weekly.

Two Kinds of Paleness.

"You are awfully pale," said Esmerelda Longcoffin to Birdie McGinnis.

"Yes, I know I am pale; but my paleness is natural. It comes from dyspepsia; but you get your paleness by the box from the drug store."—Texas Siftings.

A Great Future.

"Mrs. Hankinson's eyes are giving out, and for ten years she has been very hard of hearing. Poor woman! What can her future be?" said Mrs. Hicks.

"She'd make an excellent chaperon," said the unsympathetic Hicks.—Puck.

Real Estate Item.

A—Is land dear in Italy?

B—No, but the ground rents are awful.

"What's the cause of that?"

"Earthquakes."—Texas Siftings.

A Vital Question.

The Bosom Friend—They tell me, Nell, that you are engaged.

The Victim—Dear me! Is it to anyone I know?—Puck.

"MOTHERS, I WARN YOU!"

Watch carefully your daughter's health. When the appetite fails, or there is a growing nervous irritability, extreme lassitude, emaciation, the voice trembles, the step is irresolute, eyelids droop, and expression languid, then devote one hour to a thorough investigation of the cause.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound acts promptly in such cases; by its use your daughter will be speedily restored to health. It is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women. Every Druggist sells it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

EXCITING STRUGGLE

Washington Secures the Next G. A. R. Encampment.

WON AFTER A HARD BATTLE.

The Grand Army Interest Now Centred in a Commander-in-Chief.

New York's Veterans Unite on Gen. Palmer—Weissert is a Formidable Candidate—The Color Question Still in Abeyance—Ex-President Hayes Forgot the Countersign and Had to Halt.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6.—The 26th annual Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held in Washington.

The other leading matters, the color question and that of Commander-in-Chief Veazey's successor are still in abeyance.

The contest over the place for holding the next encampment was the most bitter in the history of the G. A. R. Just before a vote was taken Pennsylvania asked for permission to retire for a few moments. This action took the delegates by surprise.

Confusion reigned supreme, the noise of the gavel was drowned in the roar of voices, intermingled with which were sounds of warm disputing.

When the Pennsylvania delegation filed in again it was with the announcement that they had voted 25 to 18 in favor of Lincoln and that it had been decided to enforce the unit rule in favor of the will of the majority.

An Exciting Scene.

Amid a scene of excitement unparalleled in the history of encampments the roll was called. Illinois, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin and other large delegations voted for Lincoln, and when the last State had been called the tally sheets apparently showed a majority for Lincoln. Paul Vandervoort jumped upon a chair and shouted: "The day is ours." Thereupon President Oakley, of the Lincoln Board of Trade, and a dozen others tore off to the telegraph office to spread the good tidings. Meanwhile the apparently defeated delegates had been clamoring for a verification of the vote, and when this had been done it was found that the 36 votes of New York had gotten into the wrong column, and the corrected vote stood: Washington, 366; Lincoln, 339.

When the corrected count was announced the Western men were for the moment stunned, while the supporters of Washington yelled themselves hoarse. In the midst of the confusion an adjournment was taken.

For Commander-in-Chief.

The location of the next encampment having been settled, the interest of the encampment is now chiefly centred in the election of the commander-in-chief. Capt. John Palmer, of New York, A. G. Weissert, of Wisconsin, and Col. W. R. Smedberg, of California, are the leading candidates, and it is safe to say that one of these will be elected. The long and stubborn contest in the New York delegation between Palmer and Hedges ended in a victory for Palmer. It is also well understood that Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Maryland will caucus in favor of Palmer.

Before the New York delegation united on Palmer the chances were decidedly in favor of Weissert, and even now he is a formidable candidate. Maine and Illinois have already caucused in his favor, and it is well understood that Michigan will declare for him in the morning.

Ex-President Hayes Had to Halt.

At the morning session ex-President Hayes was halted by the sentry because he had forgotten the password, and was compelled to remain in the lobby until Gen. Alger came along and vouched for him as a true and loyal ex-commander-in-chief.

At the opening of the afternoon session a resolution was passed that hereafter the route of the encampment parade shall not exceed two miles.

THE WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Address of the President and Report of the Secretary.

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—The ninth national convention of the Women's Relief Corps was called to order by Mrs. Mary Sears McHenry, of Iowa, the National president. In her address of welcome and review she dwelt upon the necessity of keeping before Congress the needs of the army nurses. Congress, she said, should pass a special pension law for them, and to that end the record should be completed as soon as possible.

National Secretary Hannah Plimpton of Iowa, next presented her report, showing a total membership of 77,779; divided into 2,083 corps and covering nearly every State and Territory.

The Czar Goes to Finland.

ST. PETERSBURGH, Aug. 6.—The Czar and Czarina, the Grand Duke Alexis, and the Minister of War, have departed from St. Petersburgh for Finland. They will make the journey in the imperial yacht Derjava. The Czar will visit the autumn manœuvers at Villmanstrand, in Finland, which will be repeated by a grand review and a march past.

Our Fair Commissioners Abroad.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—When the work of the Foreign Committee of the Chicago World's Fair is completed in this city the members will divide into groups, some of whom will visit Vienna, and other Austrian and Hungarian cities, while others will go to Sweden, Switzerland and Italy.

PULLED THEIR REVOLVERS.

Trouble Between Strikers and Non-Union Men at the Vesuvius Iron Works.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 6.—The first trouble at the Vesuvius Iron Works of Moorhead & Co. since the inauguration of the strike occurred last evening.

The 40 men who had been working in the plate mill all day had finished their tasks and were waiting for the arrival of the train which was to convey them to their homes in Allegheny.

Five hundred or more strikers and a crowd of citizens were on hand to witness the departure of the non-unionists. As the men were boarding the train they were hissed; cries of "Blacklegs" were heard, and a volley of stones and then cinders rattled against the car in which the non-union men were seated.

Every man on the car pulled a revolver and pointed it at the strikers. The strikers and citizens that were armed pulled their revolvers, others seized stones and for a moment a terrible riot was imminent.

President Riddle of the local lodge of the Amalgamated Association, Mr. Moorhead and Deputy Sheriff Ritchey rushed between the crowd and the train crying to the men to desist. At this moment the train steamed away and the crowd dispersed.

The consensus of opinion is that the boys in the crowd threw the stones at the train. No one was hurt beyond a few scratches.

QUAY WILL FIGHT.

To Take Charge of the Republican Campaign in Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—It is learned here that Senator Quay will shortly be made chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Pennsylvania, Chairman Andrews retiring to make the vacancy.

Quay will then proceed to fight the greatest political battle of his life in an attempt to redeem the Keystone State to the Republicans.

KILLED HIS ONLY SON.

Result of a Rich Philadelphian's Accidental Blow.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—By an unlucky blow struck during a quarrel, J. Henry Jahke, a West Philadelphia butcher, who has accumulated a large fortune, killed his only son.

Young Jahke's father remonstrated with him for being under the influence of liquor. The young man became quarrelsome. His father picked up a piece of gaspipe to frighten him away. The gaspipe fell over the son's arm as he grabbed his father, striking him on the left temple. The young man died about midnight. The father was committed to await the action of the coroner.

THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION.

Col. McAlpin Re-elected President by the Republican League.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 6.—After a short session to-day the New York State Republican League adjourned. It was decided to hold the next convention in Rochester. Col. Edward McAlpin, of New York, was unanimously re-elected president.

The resolutions adopted endorsed the administration and the platform of 1888. Reciprocity and protection, a bi-metallic currency based on sound financial principles, liberal pensions, the extension of the navy, and the protection of honest immigration received favorable mention.

Committed Suicide in a Hotel.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 6.—James Hillers of Cincinnati registered at the Mansion House last night, saying he wanted to stop for the night. He was shown to a room on the fourth floor. About noon he was found lying in his room dead. His features were distorted and his blood soaking the floor. A bullet in his temple told the story. He was about 45 years old.

Fraudulent Insurance Company.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Hon. James F. Pierce, State Superintendent of Insurance, in submitting to Attorney-General Tabor the reports of his examination into the affairs of the Flour City Life Association of Rochester, says he is satisfied that the association has been conducting its business fraudulently. He requests the Attorney-General to take legal proceedings to secure a dissolution of the association's charter.

Another Delegation Appointed.

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—The vacancies caused by the resignations of Messrs. Rockwell, Walker and Cogswell from the Committee on Resolutions have been filled by the selection, by the Republican State Central Committee, of Congressman Frederic T. Greenhalge of Lowell, chairman; Wm. E. Draper of Hopedale and Frank B. Wright of Great Barrington.

Vermont's Legislature to Meet.

ST. ALBANS, Aug. 6.—Gov. Page will issue his call this week, convening the Legislature in special session on Tuesday, Aug. 25, to consider the disposition of the United States direct tax money, amounting to $179,000. It is said that the Governor will announce his selection of a successor to Senator Edmunds about the time the Legislature meets.

BEATEN WITH ROPES

A Married Man Roughly Used by Vigilantes.

THEY DUCKED AND FLOGGED HIM.

Neglect of His Young Wife the Cause of His Disgrace.

He Was Infatuated With Another Woman—They Paid No Attention to Warnings Sent by Angry Citizens—The Couple Were Glad to Leave Town After the Severe Punishment.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 6.—John Clayton, a cottager at Bay Head, was taken from the cottage of his neighbor, John Parker, by a vigilance committee, a rope tied about his body, and thrown into the river. He was several times drawn out of the water and thrown in again. The men then cut the rope into yard lengths and flogged Clayton till he fainted. After he recovered he was ordered to leave town at once.

Clayton had been a summer resident of Bay Head for some time. When he first came there he made the acquaintance of Mrs. Joseph Parker, wife of another resident of Bay Head. Clayton and Mrs. Parker were so intimate that friends of Clayton's wife asked him to cease his attentions to Mrs. Parker.

Clayton sneered at his critics. The citizens met secretly and decided to have a vigilance committee visit the man, who, through infatuation for Mrs. Parker, had neglected his own wife.

During the night the committee found Clayton at Parker's cottage alone with Mrs. Parker. He was taken out and given the treatment described.

Both Clayton and Mrs. Parker left the town promptly, and their present whereabouts are not known. Mrs. Clayton and Mr. Parker, the injured wife and husband, could not be found to-day. Clayton is about 22. Mrs. Parker is said to be about 30, and is very handsome.

GLENDALE'S MYSTERY.

The Police Still in the Dark About the Terrible Murder.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Late last night Detective Miller went from Glendale, L. I., to Jamaica to find a German farmer who has been working for two weeks on the unfinished house near which the body of the murdered girl was found. It seems that this man quit work on Monday afternoon and has not returned to the house since. He left his tools behind him and he is thought to be in Jamaica, but there is no evidence as yet known connecting him with the crime.

No light was shed on the gruesome murder to-day and the solution of the mystery grows more improbable as the days go on. After their unsuccessful labors of yesterday Coroner Homeyer and his assistants rested.

District Attorney John Fleming, of Queens County, drove over from Jamaica in the morning and had a long conference with the coroner. It was admitted by these gentlemen that a great mistake had been made in allowing Charles Weber to escape. The district attorney was inclined to the belief that Weber was not merely a crank, as the detectives paint him, but a man who knows considerably more about the mysterious murder than he was ready to admit. Mr. Fleming said that the New York police had sent out a general alarm for Weber, and that he had no doubt but that this valuable witness would be recovered. He gave orders for the remains and the clothing to be photographed, and then drove back to Jamaica.

Determined to Die.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 6.—Jack Frost, aged about 28, of Anderson, England, stabbed himself in the throat with a pair of pliers, ripped open his abdomen and jumped out of a third-story window of the Hotel Corson about noon. His recovery is improbable. Frost came from England about six months ago. He has been working for the Allegheny Electric Light Company, but was dismissed Saturday and has been drinking heavily since.

Charged With Causing Seven Fires.

WEST MEDWAY, Mass., Aug. 6.—Johnny Carr, a simple-minded man, 23 years old, was arrested here, charged with having caused the fire at Eaton & Wilson's mill 10 days ago. He hails from Franklin, and unless that town places him under restraint he will be prosecuted by the authorities here. Carr is suspected of having caused at least seven fires within the past six months.

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED.

The Queen's Speech Referred to the Behring Sea Dispute.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Parliament has been prorogued until Oct. 24.

The Queen's speech stated that relations of amity existed with all the powers.

Proposals to submit to arbitration the differences between England and the United States relating to Behring Sea had been made. The negotiations on the subject were far advanced, but not yet concluded.

The Letter Carriers' Convention.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6.—Two hundred delegates, representing forty-one States, handed in their credentials when the third annual convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers of the United States was called to order in the Odd Fellows temple at 10 o'clock by President John J. Goodwin of Providence, R. I. A special committee appointed last year submitted a plan for an insurance branch on the assessment principle, providing for benefits of $3,000 and $1,500 to widows or other heirs of deceased members.

Mrs. Gougar to Stump Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6.—It is reported that the Democratic State Committee has engaged Mrs. Helen M. Gougar, the Iowa Prohibitionist speaker, to follow Major McKinley all through Ohio during the campaign and talk low tariff and increased wages for workingmen. She says she proposes to be at McKinley's heels all through the campaign.

An Heiress Wanted.

SACO, Me., Aug. 6.—The postmaster here says that efforts are being made by a prominent party to learn the whereabouts of a young lady who was adopted sixteen years ago by a Saco family. The family has since removed and no trace of them has as yet been found. The young lady is said to have fallen heir to a large fortune.

A Place for Mrs. Douglas.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—One of the last acts of Secretary Foster before going on his vacation was to appoint Mrs. D. B. Douglas to a position in the Treasury Department outside of the classified service. Mrs. Douglas is the wife of Dr. Douglas, who patiently nursed Gen. Grant in his last illness at Mount McGregor.

An Ex-Bank Teller Arrested.

OSCEOLA MILLS, Pa., Aug. 6.—Wm. R. Hamilton, late teller of the Houtzdale Bank, was arrested on oath of the recent owners of the bank, charged with the embezzlement of $15,000. The trouble originated with the sale of the bank to Wm. H. Dill last May.

A Party Starts for Treves.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—About 150 ladies and gentlemen left here on the steamer Friesland for Antwerp. They are bound for Treves, Rheinish Prussia, to view the Holy Coat of Christ, which is on exhibition there for the first time since 1844.

RAILWAY DISASTERS

An Excursion Train Run Into by a Fast Express.

TWO KILLED AND MANY INJURED

The Engineers and Firemen Jumped and Saved Their Lives.

Over 700 Pleasure-Seekers on the Excursion Train—The Air-Brakes Failed to Work—Nineteen Persons Injured in an Accident in Maryland—Three Seriously Hurt in New Jersey.

CHAMPLAIN, N. Y., Aug. 6.—A train conveying a Sunday school excursion from Ellenburg and Rouse's Point and intervening stations on the Central Vermont Railroad ran into a mail train, which had the right of way, just east of this station at 7 o'clock last night.

The excursion train had about 700 persons on board and was returning from Wellsborough Point. William Angell, aged 17, son of a merchant of this place, and Sim Venetta, a laborer, of Chateauguay Lake, were killed outright, and some 20 people more or less injured.

The more seriously injured are: Henry Lamountain, of Champlain, both legs cut off; it is thought he will die; Sydney W. Moore, both legs broken; Henry Swett, of Ellenburg Centre, arm fractured and body and limbs bruised; John Patterson, of Perry Mills, leg broken; Mrs. Lewis, of Moira, head and limbs bruised; Miss A. Bateman, of Perry Mills, hip dislocated; S. Levy, of Albany, commercial traveler, wrist broken, seriously bruised. Several other passengers were more or less slightly injured.

The Engines Telescoped.

The excursion train had orders to meet the mail here and should have gone on the siding a few rods back of where the accident occurred. The engines telescoped and two cars were badly smashed, one on each train. John E. Beatty, excursion manager of the Central Vermont, exerted himself for the injured, and the physicians and citizens of Champlain were prompt to render assistance and open their houses.

Physicians were summoned from Moores, Rouse's Point and St. Albans, and a wrecking train soon arrived from the last named place.

The engineer of the mail backed his train when he saw the train coming up on the track over 100 rods ahead. The engineer and fireman of the two engines jumped before the collision occurred.

BURNED AND CRUSHED.

Nineteen Persons Injured by the Overturning of an Engine.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 6.—News has just reached here of a frightful accident which occurred at a point called Switchback, on the West Virginia Central Railroad, about 60 miles from here.

Early in the morning, as usual, the men, 17 in number, boarded the tramway engine to go to their work in the lumber regions. Two women asked permission to ride out a short distance to a berry patch. Their request was granted and the engine containing the 19 passengers started on its journey.

It had hardly gotten under good headway when the engine struck a piece of timber that was lying on the track, turning it over. The occurrence was so sudden that none of the people on the engine had a chance to escape, and all were more or less injured, either by escaping steam or the fall of the engine.

In an instant everything was in an uproar. Women screaming, men moaning, and the escaping steam from the broken pipes of the engine presented a terrible sight. As soon as the men who were the least injured could extricate themselves they went to work to release their more unfortunate comrades, whose condition was pitiable to behold.

The first person taken out was Alice Robinson. The escaping steam had cooked the flesh on her face, arms and hands in a horrible manner, and her injuries are considered fatal. John McKenzie, who lives at Frostburg, was caught under the engine and scalded so badly that he died. Several others were seriously, but not fatally, hurt.

As soon as word could be sent the physicians of Elk Garden, the nearest station, were telegraphed for, and they responded promptly, relieving, as far as possible, the sufferings of the injured.

ACCIDENT AT RAHWAY.

The Flagman Jumped Into the River to Save His Life.

RAHWAY, N. J., Aug. 6.—An extra freight, west-bound, met with an accident here at 1 p. m. At the Grand street crossing an axle broke, scattering the stones in every direction. The bridge was crossed safely, but near the station the main track was torn up and the cars were piled in a heap.

The flagman jumped in the Rahway River to save his life. Trackman Peter McCune's back was broken by a projecting truck and he was fatally injured. Thomas McDonald had his arm broken and his breast injured.

Marquis de Louville a Bankrupt.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—In the Bankruptcy Department a receiving order was made, under petition, against the Marquis de Louville, formerly a resident of New York, but now of Wallingham House, Piccadilly, described as a journalist and art dealer. The act of bankruptcy was a declaration by the Marquis that he is unable to pay his debts.

Dugan Arraigned for Manslaughter.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 6.—Frank Dugan, the agent of the Meriden Brewing Company, who is charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Josephine Wallace at Savin Rock, was arraigned and bound over to the Supreme Court.

3 cups of flour, 1 tablespoonful of butter, ½ teaspoonful of salt, 2 cups of milk, 4 eggs whites and yolks beaten separately, 1 heaping teaspoonful of Cleveland's baking powder.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together twice, chop in the butter. Stir the beaten yolks into the milk and add the flour, then the frothed whites. Whip high and light and bake in cups in a quick oven.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

Hot biscuit made with Cleveland's baking powder may be enjoyed even by those of weak digestion. Cleveland's is the anti-dyspeptic leavening agent. The leaven comes from cream of tartar and soda, nothing else; no ammonia or alum.

DIPLOMATIC MISTAKES.

An Alleged Letter from Bismarck Creates a Stir in Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Government circles are again excited over the publication of a letter alleged to have been written by Prince Bismarck to a Russian leader of the German party in St. Petersburgh in which the ex-Chancellor declares that the visit of the French squadron to Cronstadt would not have occurred had he remained in power.

That visit, the Prince is made to say, was the result of three gross mistakes in the conduct of German diplomacy, to wit, the visit of the ex-Empress Frederick to Paris; the renewal of the Dreibund, which divulged so much of eagerness on the part of the Kaiser, and finally, the Kaiser's noisy visit to London.

Orders have been given by Emperor William for the painting of a huge picture of the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, which will be presented to Queen Victoria as a memento of the Emperor's visit to England.

QUEEN OF THE OCEAN.

The Majestic Breaks the Best Record From Queenstown.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Teutonic's record has been broken. The steamship Majestic, just arrived from Queenstown, made the time in 5 days, 18 hours and 8 minutes. Had she not been delayed by a disarrangement of her machinery she would have beaten the best previous record by three hours.

The best previous record was 5 days 19 hours and 5 minutes made by the Teutonic, a sister ship of the Majestic last year. It has been disputed by some, but it stood supreme against the 5 days, 19 hours and 18 minutes of the City of Paris.

This new performance is therefore 55 minutes better than that of the Teutonic, and one hour and 10 minutes than that of the City of Paris.

Charged With Receiving Stolen Goods.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Timothy Burns and John Cusick, charged with receiving stolen goods, were given a hearing before United States Commissioner Craig, and were committed in default of $2,000 bail pending a trial in Virginia, where the goods are said to belong. These men are suspected of belonging to an organized gang of postoffice thieves who have been operating in Virginia of late.

The Adjutant-General's Report.

Adjutant-General J. H. Golding's annual report for the year ending June 30 shows that there are in the order 45 Departments with 7,409 posts and 398,067 comrades in good standing. The sum expended in charities during the year was $333,699 against $217,957 the previous year. There have been 5,530 deaths this year against 5,479 in 1890. The total apparent membership is 444,807. Suspensions, delinquencies and transfers bring the number down to 398,067.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The convention of the American Turner Bunds is in session at Philadelphia.

Acting Secretary Nettleton has appointed John S. Rogers commissioner of immigration at Philadelphia.

Gov. Russell, of Massachusetts, has appointed John E. Griffin and William R. Byrne inspectors of tenement house made clothing.

Secretary Noble is staying a few days at Hotel Ampersand, New York, and spends a good deal of his time fishing in Lake Saranac.

The State fish hatchery of Vermont will be located at Roxbury. The buildings of the national hatchery will also be located at that place.

The body of Michael Ross, of Brooklyn, N. Y., an employe of the steamer Rosedale, was found in the harbor at Bridgeport, Conn., during the morning.

Cardinal Gibbons spoke at the opening of the 21st annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America, now in session in Washington.

An invitation has just been forwarded to the Lord Mayor and Town Council of Gloucester, England, to attend the 250th anniversary of the founding of Gloucester, Mass., which takes place in August, 1892.

Alfred Wheeler, a weaver of Fall River, Mass., who has been drinking heavily, demanded from Elizabeth Swindles, the key to the house of a family with whom he boarded, but who were away. On being refused Wheeler slashed her face and throat with a knife, then running from the house cut his own throat. Wheeler will die, but Mrs. Swindles may possibly recover.

—The North Plainfield school trustees advertise in another column for sealed proposals for the macadamizing of a part of the public school grounds on Somerset street.

—Wm. McCredy, who was arrested in Hunterdon county, yesterday, by captain Grant, for stealing a wagon from a man named Clark and selling it to Mahlon Vail, will be held to await the action of the grand jury.

—Those who do n't go to Somerville, Saturday, to see the Crescents win, ought not to miss the rare sport of seeing the game on the Crescent League grounds in North Plainfield, between the colored nines of Plainfield and Somerville.

—Eleven car loads of Plainfield people came yesterday with Trinity Sunday-school excursion. Plainfield always sends the largest excursions, and the people seem to enjoy their visits to Asbury Park.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

—Edwin B. Maynard wishes THE PRESS to state that he is not the Edward Maynard who has been advertised as connected with the arrangements for to-day's emancipation celebration. He says he has nothing to do with the affair in any way.

—William Keegan, the lineman, who fell from a telegraph pole at the corner of East Jersey and Division streets, Elizabeth, Sunday, died at the Elizabeth hospital at about 5 o'clock, Tuesday evening. His remains have been taken in charge by his brother.

—Next Saturday—says the Somerville Messenger—we play the Crescents on our grounds, and as there has been no game here for three weeks there should be a great crowd out. We shall try to make it three straight. But the old adage is: "While Brag is a good dog, Hold Fast is better." So I will not brag; we may be beaten on our own grounds. They are coming here loaded, understand, and it will be a great game.

—It is of importance to every owner of an iron or metal covered building, that it shall be painted with a paint that possesses a large covering power and great durability and yet be pleasing in appearance. Dixon's Graphite Paint is guaranteed to cover two or three times more surface and to last four to five times longer than any lead, mineral or metallic paint. It is of a rich black color that will not rust or be affected by acid fumes. Graphite is impervious to all chemical action.

Expensive Berries.

In the Union county courts at Elizabeth, yesterday, John Peiffer, of Westfield, was accused of stealing blackberries from the farm of James L. Clark. The allegation stated that $2 worth of berries were taken.

Peiffer said he picked two quarts of the berries from bushes hanging over the fence from Clark's property.

Judge Rice called the prisoner forward and talked with him as to the condition of his family, concluding by imposing a fine of $1 without costs. Peiffer had been in jail two weeks.

Escaped the Guns of Battle, but Lost His Thumb in a Mill.

William Boe served four years in the late civil war without a scratch. Yesterday he ran his hand in a peaceful planer with disastrous result. Wm. Grannatt, who does most of the fine scroll work at Spicer & Hubbard's mill, was particularly busy, yesterday, and he called his friend Boe in to help him out. Boe took a hand at running the planer and the planer took his left thumb. Dr. Berg sewed up the stump.

Malicious Mischief at the Club-house.

Another gross indignity has been committed at the Union County Country club-house. Two or three days ago some miscreant entered the building at an hour when detection was unlikely and deliberately ruined the surface of one of the billiard tables by slashing it repeatedly with a sharp knife. It is suspected that the offender was a discharged servant. Harsh punishment awaits the discovery of his identity.

Cruelty and Death to a Dog.

Some malicious person fed a dog belonging to John J. Finley, of 79 East Third street, on turpentine, and the sufferings of the animal became so great yesterday that it had to be killed.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

—Whenever you are looking for a store where you can always rely upon getting value for your money, go to Peck's.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

GREAT GAME FOR PLAINFIELD.

Hammill's Excellent Work Against the Famous Willimantics—The Score 6 to 2 for the Crescents.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Aug. 5.—The base-ball team of the Plainfield Crescent League won a great game against the crack Willimantics this afternoon. Hammill went into the box for Plainfield and did superb work. He pitched the best game of the season, and held the Willimantics down to four hits. The Crescents made thirteen hits and got six runs. They made only two errors, while the Willimantics got only two runs, making the score 6 to 2. Jones played in fine form behind the bat. The whole town of Norwich came to Willimantic to witness the victory of the gilt-edged Plainfield team that so nearly defeated the celebrated Norwich team in Tuesday's tie game.

CAMP DUPEE IN FULL BLAST.

The Holy Cross Church Choir Making Things Lively.

(SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.)

MERWIN'S POINT, Conn., Aug. 5.—If the weather has been a little bit damp and horrid it has n't in the least affected the ardor or subdued the spirits of Camp Dupee where Holy Cross church choir are making things lively night and day. It was rainy and misty and sticky last night and to-day has been no better, but boating and bathing have gone on just the same and a ball game has served to amuse the boys and amaze the natives. Last evening the choirs were the guests of the Owanus Canoe Club of Bridgeport at their pretty camp near here and were royally entertained. The time was spent in singing and playing games and the Bridgeporters were given to know what a great big important place Plainfield, N. J., is.

The handsome choir flag as well as the dainty camp pennant, the gifts of Mrs. Charles J. Taggart, on the eve of departure from home, have been objects of continuous and unqualified admiration and are by all odds the finest colors anywhere around. The bathing, under the direction and protection of sexton Israel Jones, the champion swimmer of the community, has been greatly enjoyed, but the fishing has not panned out so well. The fish seem to have heard that he choir was coming and made themselves scarce.

Choirmaster Miner went up to New Haven Tuesday afternoon and has concluded arrangements for the choir's visit to Naugatuck where they will sing at the morning and evening services Sunday. He has been unable to make it convenient to render a service at Seymour, as originally intended, Sunday afternoon, because there is only one railway train each way on Sundays in this blue-law country, and the poor people of Seymour will have to content themselves with their luckless lot, or else walk up to Naugatuck and hear the music there.

Forty Years a Westfield Church-woman.

Mrs Mary A. Cory died at the residence of her son-in-law, Jacob Davis, 328 North Broad street, Elizabeth, at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Cory was in the 90th year of her age. She was born in Springfield township, and was the relict of the late Jonathan Cory, of Westfield, where she spent most of her life. For nearly forty years she was a member of the Westfield Presbyterian church, but when she went to Elizabeth, about twenty-five years ago, she transferred her church relations to the Westminster church.

She had been an invalid for eight or nine years. She was the mother of Mrs. Jacob Davis, and of J. Harvey Cory, ex-president of the Elizabeth City Council. She was a most estimable lady, and had a very large circle of friends who are deeply bereaved by her death.

"The Feature of the Game Were."

The White Caps of this city were defeated, yesterday, in a very interesting ten-inning game, by a picked nine who called themselves the Moonshiners. The Moonshiners were four runs behind when they took their last half of the ninth inning; but they knocked out four runs and tied the score, and won it in the last half of the tenth by the score of 13 to 12. A participant writes that "the feature of the game were the throwing of apples." The batteries were Truss and Voehl for the Moonshiners, and Davis, Smith and Egan for the White Caps.

A Big Bill Paid Before Due.

The Singer Manufacturing company delivered into the hands of Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, Tuesday afternoon, a check for $24,269.12, in payment of its taxes for the present year. The company's taxes were not due until October 20, hence it will be seen that the city has the use of the money over two months in advance.

This early payment is due solely out of the personal consideration of the company for the city's welfare.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

OUGHT TO HAVE BEEN PLAINFIELD'S

Tuesday's Game Was Called at Norwich's Request—The Crescents in Fine Form—Saving Hammill for Saturday's Game Against Somerville.

Additional special dispatches from Norwich to THE PRESS state that the Crescents ought to have won the tie game of Tuesday. Taylor was very wild, and Bonner had a hard game to catch, but he filled his position splendidly, and his fine work called forth great admiration from the crowd of people that witnessed the game. The contest was a prolonged one, and it was at the request of the home captain that the game was called.

Manager Keller will start to-day's game against Norwich with Taylor in the box, hoping to save Hammill for Saturday's game, but it is feared that Hammill will have to be worked, as the Norwich team have caught on to Taylor's contortion act, and will steal every bag on him. The Crescents put more ginger into Tuesday's game than they have at any other time this season. The batting order was slightly changed, and the change was found to be an improvement. Yesterday was a lovely day, and both teams put up a good game.

The Norwich papers have the following remarks to make about the Crescents and their opponents:

Tuesday's game on the Greeneville grounds, between the Norwich nine and the Crescents of Plainfield, N. J., started off with every indication of a sharp, well played and well-contested game, but the promise was not fulfilled to the close in spite of the fact that the game was called at the end of the ninth inning with the score a tie. For four innings the Norwich team played a sharp fielding and batting game, and secured a commanding lead over their competitors, but after that they played in a listless manner, and made serious errors at critical points which, with the opportune hitting of the visitors, enabled them to tie the score. Finke's home run and the two double plays of the Crescents were the features of the game. The crowd loudly expressed its dissatisfaction at the calling of the game after the ninth inning, and demanded that another inning be played, but the umpire and the players were deaf to entreaties. The score:

Earned runs—Norwich, 2; Crescents, 1. Two-base hits—O'Connell, Lufbery, Lee and Bonner. Home run—Finke. Double plays—Taylor, Holly and Bonner; Lufbery and Holly. Base on called balls—Off Sullivan, 2; off Taylor, 6. Hit by pitched ball—By Taylor, 3. Struck out—By Sullivan, 8; by Taylor, 4. Passed balls—Blansfield, 2; Bonner, 3. Wild pitches—By Sullivan, 2; by Taylor, 1. Time of game—2:30. Umpire—D. Murphy.

The Crescent base-ball nine of Plainfield, N. J., accompanied by a score of admirers, arrived here this morning and put up at the Wauregan House. At 1 o'clock the Norwich and Crescent teams boarded Pierson's four-horse bus and before going to the grounds were driven about the principal streets of the city. The carrier pigeons did not arrive, and that part of the afternoon's entertainment had to be omitted. A good crowd is in attendance. Mr. Berriman, a well-known league umpire, who accompanies the club, is umpire.

The Plainfield club plays in Willimantic to-morrow, here Thursday, and, if possible to arrange a game, in Putnam Friday. If not, they will start for home Thursday night. The nine are a fine looking set of men and in Manager Keller's hands will play the best kind of ball. "Cyclone" Ryan will not play with the Crescents.

Tommy O'Brien, the happy third baseman of the Mystics in the recent series, was in town to-day and at the Greeneville grounds this afternoon. He has left the Mystics since Saturday's game, and said to-day that he doubted if they continued through the season. Perhaps they have at last arrived at the conclusion that they can't play ball.

From the Boston Globe: The Norwich, Conn., team, with "Danny" Sullivan in the box and Billy Long at short, beat the Mystics Saturday 8 to 0, only four hits being secured off Sullivan. "Little Willie" Murphy played left field for Norwich, and "Cyclone" Ryan pitched for Mystic, the winners securing seven hits.

The Mystics are trying to arrange a series of games with the Ivorytons.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning? The signal, perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Con-sumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street Plainfield, N. J.

Mrs. Rogers, wife of Capt. Rogers, of Newark, returns home to-day after enjoying, for two weeks past, the invigorating air of Plainfield and the society of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. VanEmburgh, of East Second street.

Miss Emma Walraven Comfort, who was married at Langhorne, yesterday, to Pasha Harry Crookshank of Cairo, Egypt, was at one time a resident of Elizabeth, and was well known to Plainfield society people. She is a cousin of Dr. W. A. M. Mack, of Elizabeth. The doctor and Mrs. Mack were present at the wedding.

A large gathering of relatives and friends were present yesterday at the funeral of Mrs. Hannah A. Ayers. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and the Rev. L. E. Livermore. Palms and a sheaf of wheat were laid across the casket. A quartette consisting of Miss Gussie Holmes, Miss Eleanor Demarest, E. E. Runyon and M. VanArsdale, chanted, "Rest weary heart." The pall bearers were: Herbert Ayers, her only son; Daniel Randolph, her only brother; Walter Dunn and Hobart Ayers, grandsons, and Lewis E. Dunn and Joseph G. Miller, sons-in-law. Interment was made in the family plot at Hillside cemetery.

The gormandizer likes it because it is fine. The workman likes it because it quenches his thirst, enriches his blood, and strengthens his muscle. It is cheap. The mother likes it. It keeps her boys at home. The women of America like it, because it takes the place of intoxication. This Hires's Root Beer.

THAT WESTFIELD TRICK.

How Could You Do Such a Low-down, Contemptible Thing! Says Somerville.

[From The Harkinstown Messenger.]

"The West Ends are coming to Westfield 'for revenge.' Will they get it it? The question will be answered at Drake Park Saturday, Aug. 1."

The above is a copy of the posters which were scattered broadcast over Westfield, tacked to the fences and trees, and pasted on the wooden sidewalks of that last-century town. Did we get revenge? You bet we did. Did you see the game? It was great, after winning a game from the Crescents the week before, and then going to Westfield, and right on their own grounds shutting them out, and allowing their heavy batters to make but five hits and one of them a scratch! But the beauty of it was that we found out just why they have won so many games this year. They have won them by one of the dirtiest, lowest, meanest tricks that was ever perpetrated on a ball field.

June 27, when we played in Westfield, Harkins said, after the game, "that he thought the pitcher's box was further away from the plate than it should be", but the fellows laughed at John and said his glass arm was troubling him. John, however, was sure something was wrong, and Saturday showed up the trick not only to the followers of both the contesting teams, but also to a goodly number from Plainfield.

This is how it happened: Westfield went to the bat first, and McManus, the first man to face John, would not hit the ball, although it seemed to cut the plate in two. John sent up four good ones, but Faas called them balls, and McManus trotted to first. John saw something was wrong and spoke to Capt. Farrell. Farrell paced the distance from the pitcher's box to the home plate and found it was two paces over. He demanded that it should be measured, which was done, and by actual measurement it was found to be five feet further than the rules allow.

There is the secret of the Westfields winning so many games. People will say if it was fair for one, why not for the other? But stop! Harkins depends upon his speed in pitching, and Hammil does not. Hammil is a slow pitcher, depending on his curves, so the difference in the distance does not affect him, but with Harkins every foot counts. After the deception was discovered Farrell demanded that Umpire Faas should call McManus back to the bat, which he refused to do; thereupon Manager Mack called his men from the field and refused to play, saying that, as Harkins had not been in his box, the game had not been commenced. When Manager Codding saw that Mack was in earnest he at once told McManus to come back, which he did.

We never dreamed that the Westfield management could or would do such a disreputable thing as we discovered on Saturday. We had imagined we were playing with gentlemen, but found we were mistaken. Our John seems to be something of a mind-reader and can tell most generally what kind of people he is playing against.

A few more tricks like this one and the Westfield Athletic club will get no decent clubs to play with them. By this time all the base-ball world knows of the trick which they have worked so successfully, as last Sunday's Sun made great mention of the fact. Well, that's right; they ought to be shown up to the whole world, and I guess they have been.

But to the game. We won it, and with it fame and glory of the most exalted kind. The whole secret of our winning was that, while those stuffs at Westfield couldn't get around John's deceptiveness, our men batted like fiends. There were holes in most of the Westfield men's bats.

Mighty is the West End cyclonic baseball twirler, John West End Harkins! Whenever he has met the tremendous batsmen of the Westfield team he has bothered a certain number of them, with his wonderful speed and sweeping curves until his fame has spread further than the boundaries of New Jersey. But his past grand record pales before his performance of Saturday. It isn't often that a pitcher of any degree retires nine gilt-edged hitters without a single run, and with but five hits, while he compels their men to go out on glistening strikes 9 times. And the way in which he succeeded in hypnotizing them was great indeed. Smiles on the faces of the Westfield players or their followers couldn't have been discovered by the most powerful magnifying glass in the land. On the contrary, everyone in anyway connected with the Westfield Athletic club looked sick and ill at ease.

There were no errors to make the spectators grind their teeth and murmur unpleasant criticisms to themselves, but the bats of the Westfields, it seemed, were full of holes, and couldn't be made to come anywhere near the shooting curves of Mr. Harkins. Big John McLaughlin tried in vain to hit the ball. The mighty hero who did so much in Somerville, and who it is claimed has hit Harkins each and every time he came before him, did not even touch the ball. John struck him out three times, and the last time, when he was importuned by the crowd to "put it out of the lot", what did he do? Simply stood with his bat on his shoulder and let Mr. Faas call "strike" three times. Then, and then only, did they appreciate that he was great no more. His star has paled before that of Harkins, one of greater magnitude.

—The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet this evening at 8 o'clock.

THE PLAINFIELD DARKIES LED.

But the Umpire Lopped Off Several Runs, and Gave the Game to Somerville.

(From the Carbyburgh Messenger.)

The game between the two colored nines, on the West End grounds, last Saturday, was the funniest thing it has ever been my good fortune to see. There were about 200 people present, and to say they enjoyed the game would be putting it mild. From the time that right-fielder Martin stepped to the plate, and someone from the grand stand yelled out, "Hit it out, Carby", until Sam Rodgers made the safe hit in the pouring rain, driving in 2 runs, it was one cyclone of merriment and laughter. Umpire Conkling, in a beautiful light suit and shoes, began the game full of hope and confidence that it would not rain, but before they had finished the second inning he was obliged to call it. Three different times during the five innings that were played he called time, and finally, after waiting the usual limit (10 minutes), called the game back to the fifth inning, and in favor of the Little Giants, by a score of 6 to 3. Whew! but the ebony-hued gentlemen from Plainfield were mad; they had made 7 runs in their half of the sixth inning, but, owing to the fact that the game was called before the Little Giants had finished their inning, the game must be called back to even innings; therefore Mr. Conkling did just right, but the Plainfield gentry could not see it in that light. They saw the thing through parti-colored lenses, as it were, and therefore thought Bogart was robbing them of the game, and expressed themselves in sundry and diverse manners, to-wit: "Dere's no nine coons in Somerville dat can win a game from us; youse have to get one white man to help you." And one dark-skinned beauty, who came from Plainfield to see the game, and who was resplendent in a yellow dress and red parasol, said: "If dose Somerville niggers make anoder run I'll hit somebody in the snoot. I don't care if I do get 10 days." And then she would let out a most unearthly howl, to rattle the pitcher.

And the same colored female, when coming out after the game, stopped at the ticket office and said: "Can you tell me, please, who won? I's came all the way from Plainfield to see these coons beat, and I'm so fluctuated that I can't tell who is ahead." Ye gods and little fishes! here this coffee-hued damsel had sat and gazed all through those six innings, and yet she did not know which side had scored the most runs. But I suppose she was happy in her own ignorance. Where ignorance is bliss, etc.; You know. So it was just as well.

The game was a very exciting one for five innings, and was for the most part a battery game. Kline, the twirler for the Stars, striking out 8 men, while Rodgers, in behalf of the Little Giants, compelled 5 men to fan the air.

Two-base hits—J. Kline, M. Rodgers, C. Kline, Potter, D. Martin. Struck out—By Rodgers, 5; by Kline, 8. Hit by pitched ball—Little Giants, 1; Stars, 2. Passed balls—Rodgers, 5; Milford, 1. Time of game—1 hour and 10 minutes. Umpire—B. T. Conkling.

This was the score of the uneven innings, but owing to the rain the game was called back to the fifth inning, the Little Giants winning by the score of 6 to 3.

Next Saturday the two teams are to play again, in Plainfield, and in case the Stars win, a third game will be played.

The William G. Holton Lodge.

The Junior Order of United American Mechanics organized a council in Dunellen last night with 38 members. Similar effort has been made twice before but each time it failed. This time, however, Neal Taylor embarked in the work and secured over 30 signers on the charter list.

Wm. S. Clarendon, a representative of The American Eagle, addressed the meeting outlining the objects and good qualities of the order.

Edwin W. Struble and Wm. A. Bambridge, of the Geo. A. Adams Lodge, Newark, were also present, and were instrumental in organizing the Dunellen Lodge, which was named William G. Holton, No. 109, in honor of a deceased member of the Newark Lodge who was noted for the service he rendered the order.

The Newark lodge has promised to donate to the W. A. Holton a flag and Bible, together with other articles of significance which will help give a fine start for the Dunellenites.

Next Monday, the lodge will be instituted, and the officers after installation will be ready for business. Meetings will be held weekly at the new school hall.

PRAISE FOR THE LOCAL PAPER.

And Honest Wrath and Censure Against the Sheet that Filches its Plainfield News Bodily from THE PRESS.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

The gift sheet of New York which has invaded the communities of the State in an alleged Jersey news edition, spats its spleen this morning on what it pleases to call rural newspapers and country editors, and states that this is the silly season for country journalism, and ridicules the publishing that "John Brown's fence has been painted" that "a row of brick buildings is being built", and that "diphtheria is raging".

It might be appropos to ask, when do the managers of the delectable Jersey edition see for themselves any other season but the one they allude to? If it where not for the so-called country papers their Jersey edition would be issued in blank form. This could be verified if a keyhole glimpse could be had by the reader into the butcher shop of the gift sheet which is an abortion on journalism, and see the amount of Jersey news which is hacked from the columns of the dispised suburban paper. And again, to watch the World's representatives with feverish heat await the issue of the alleged country paper that he may get the facts of each news item, but who so distorts it that it becomes an article of condemnation to the city or town in which it was created.

The article in question this morning would seek to lower the suburban paper to the country reader, for the purpose of self gain. But its weight is so little felt or appreciated that its shot falls far short and renounds to its sender as silly. The experience of all capable journalists of the past and present generation teaches the fact that it is the short, crisp, terse, trenchant and gossipy bit of news that best suits the reader, and to that paper which publishes them falls the honor, glory and circulation.

To the paper which uses its brain power to serve the public with truthful and not libelous news rather than compel its working force of the office to hatch out lottery schemes that the gambling public may be induced to buy the paper for no other purpose than to catch a prize, is the paper for the people, young and old.

The local paper is issued for the moral and business interests of its community. It is directly responsible for its utterances, which are backed by facts. It does not attempt to destroy the fair name of the family circle, or the integrity of its public servants, unless warranted by facts.

Its object is to foster and to nurse the growing interests of the city or town in which it is published. It does not appear at the fireside as a nightmare or as a cartoon of immorality, or as a catalogue for prizes.

It is in every sense a newspaper, paying its editors, reporters, compositors and press-room force with money secured by honest newspaper work, not from the profits of lottery schemes or the admittance into its columns of filthy, immoral stories, or stories whose foundation is sensation, and which are called for by the cry of the editor, "Never mind the facts: let the story be spicy."

The Death of Edgar Stelle.

Concerning the death of Edgar F. Stelle, which occurred at Wellsville, Alleghany county, N. Y., June 12, at the age of 73 years, 5 months, and 3 days. The Sabbath Recorder, of Alfred Centre, N. Y., says:

"The deceased was born in Stelton, N. J., and was one of seven children—four sisters and three brothers—of Benjamin and Mary Stelle, only one of whom, Freeman Stelle, of Crossingville, Pa., survives him. He leaves four children, Dr. W. E. Stelle, of Plainfield, N. J., Mrs. C. J. Watson, of Wellsville, N. Y., and Misses Emma and Laura Stelle, of Erie, Pa. He united with the Seventh-Day Baptist church of Cussewago, Pa., in 1860, and became a constituent member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in Wellsville, of which he remained a good member until death. His remains were taken to Plainfield, N. J., and laid beside those of his wife, who preceded him to the 'better country' five years ago."

Mayor Gilbert's Scheme.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Mayor Gilbert, of Plainfield, admits in a message to Council that it is impossible to get evidence to convict liquor dealers of Sunday selling, and he proposes to turn the people into detectives by advocating an amendment to the license ordinance requiring all dealers to keep their window blinds and screens open from Saturday night to Monday morning. The proposed penalty for neglecting to comply with such a law is the forfeiture of the license. The scheme is worth a trial."

The First Cloud.

"Boo-hoo-hoo!" cried the bride.

"What is it, dear?" asked the groom from the other end of the breakfast table.

"Y-y-you have bub-broken your pup-pup-promise," sobbed the bride. "You said nothing should ever come between us, and the bub-breakfast table is there now!"—Harper's Bazar.

What He Knew.

Wandering Raggles—I tell you, fellers, that the present state of society is all wrong. Now Henry George says—

Reckless Blinks—Henry George, indeed! Wot do yer know about Henry George?

Wandering Raggles—Well, I know all about progress and poverty from experience, anyway.—Munsey's Weekly.

Long Hair.

Mr. Nicefello—By the way, have you seen Miss Newbelle's hair? They say it drops almost to her feet.

Miss De Pink—So I have heard.

Little Brother—Why, Mr. Nicefello, that ain't nothin'. Th' other day sister's hair dropped clear to th' floor an' Fido ran off with it.—Good News.

His Very First Pair.

Angele—I wouldn't wear my gloves at dinner if I were you, uncle.

Uncle Philemon—Sh-sh, Angy! I've been a-watchin' folks all day long, an' I can't make up my mind when it shocks 'm t' see plain hands an' when it don't.—Judge.

How It Happened.

Penscratch—I had two jokes in the Howler this week.

Friend—You needn't think anyone read them!

"There's where you are wrong; everybody read them. The printer put them in upside down."—Jury.

A Blessed Hope.

He (affianced to the widow)—How embarrassing it will be, when we die, to meet your first husband!

The Widow—Possibly, my dear, you and the sainted dead will abide in different regions. That is my hope.—Munsey's Weekly.

The Old Habit Clung.

"Chollie can't get over his old dry-goods habits now that he's in real estate."

"What has he done now?"

"Sold a man a house the other day and asked him if he wanted it sent."—Judge.

R-R-Revenge!

Mrs. Hicks—My husband was awfully cross this morning, but I'll get even with him.

Mrs. Dix—How?

Mrs. Hicks—I'll put a mustard plaster on him to-night.—Munsey's Weekly.

A Bad Failure.

Bankrupt (to his wife)—Well, it's no use! I'm ruined.

His Wife—Is it as bad as that?

"Yes; all is gone but honor, and there ain't much of that left."—Puck.

Too Transparent.

A recruit was brought up for medical inspection, and the doctor asked him:

"Have you any defects?"

"Yes, sir; I am shortsighted."

"How can you prove it?"

"Easily enough, doctor. Do you see that nail up yonder in the wall?"

"Yes."

"Well I don't."—Motto Per Riders.

A New Heating Process.

Traveler—You don't seem to have any stoves or furnaces in this large hotel, and yet the rooms are warm.

Landlord—Yes; you see I'm troubled so with book agents who can't pay their bills, that I keep the clerk and the colored cook constantly firing them.—Light.

Ossified.

Potter—Yes, sir; that man is a hypocrite, if there ever was one. While professing the warmest friendship for me, he was for a whole year stabbing me in the back, and I never knew it.

Irwin — Goodness gracious! What kind of a back have you got?—Jury.

An Unfair Advantage.

"How is your uncle coming on?" asked Gilhooly of Hostetter McGinnis.

"Very poorly, indeed. He is now being treated by three doctors."

"That's cowardly. What chance has one man got against three?" — Texas Siftings.

Her Own.

"You know Prof. Henpeck? He's a master of fifteen tongues."

"Yes, and I know his wife, who cannot master one."—Light.

A HEAVY LOAD.

Fat Man—Conductor, put me off at Twenty-second street.

Conductor—What do you take me for—a derrick?—Once a Week.

Intense Realism.

"The curtain falls as the burglars are heard sawing the bars, and Ethel, the heroine, rings the district-telegraph alarm for help."

"What happens then?"

"Ten years elapse, and as the curtain rises the messenger boy arrives."—Judge.

He Had to Pay for It.

"Where did you get that handsome watch, Brown?"

"Oh, it was given to me."

"Why, you're a mighty lucky fellow."

"I don't know about that. You see it was my wife that gave it to me."—Saturday Evening Herald.

A Crushing Answer.

Uncle James—What, smoking again, Tommy? Don't you know that no smoker ever grows tall?

Tommy—They don't, eh? Well, just look at that chimney. It smokes like sixty, and papa's just had it made six feet taller.—Munsey's Weekly.

Covering It Up.

"You bad boy, you have made a grease spot on the new sofa with your bread and butter," said Mrs. Fizzletop to her son Johnny.

"Never mind, ma, you can sit on it when there is company in the parlor."—Texas Siftings.

This Frightened Him.

"After we are married, George," she said sweetly, "and you come home from your work, you can sit and read to me through the long winter evenings."

And now she wonders why he insisted on breaking the engagement.—Munsey's Weekly.

Musical Item.

"How beautifully your daughter plays," said Mrs. Peterby.

The music ceased at that moment. The door opened and a German professor said: "Pefore I finishes tuning dot piano I vants mine tollar and a half."—Texas Siftings.

Wanted It Cheap.

Poet—I should like this little poem to appear in the Howler.

Editor—H'm, well, I can't pay you for it, but I tell you what you can do; get some other editor to buy it, and I'll copy it from his paper.—Munsey's Weekly.

What Did She Mean?

Miss Richly—When one is wealthy as I am, it is hard to decide whether a lover wishes to marry for the money or for one's self.

Miss Caustique—In your case, dear, there is no room for doubt.—Jury.

The Phantom Lady.

"Cornelia is a widow, now."

"I hadn't heard of her husband's death."

"She married Lord Bancastle, you know, and it seems that title has been extinct for sixty years."—Life.

One Reason.

Angry Father—How was it, young man, that I saw you kissing my daughter in the hall last night?

Young Man—I suppose, sir, because you happened to be around just at the right time.—Jury.

No Use for Eyes.

She (at the theater)—That blind man in the next row seems to be enjoying the play as well as the rest of us.

He (seated behind a high hat)—Y-e-s, just about, just about.—Good News.

Witty, Yet a Pickpocket.

Amiable Citizen—Little chilly this morning, my friend.

Friend (nipping the citizen's watch)—Yes, yes it is indeed. Quite nippy.—Peck's Sun.

The most beautiful woman in New York said that she "ascribed her good health and rosy cheeks to the occasional use of a tablespoonful of pure whiskey before meals. It increased the circulation, sent a warm glow through the system, and gave her a hearty appetite." That is the experience of all who drink pure whiskey moderately. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old.

AN AMERICAN TOWER.

The Original Idea Presented by Theophilus Reichard.

Copy of the Design for a Structure of Gigantic Proportions and Remarkable Beauty — Far Superior to the Eiffel Tower.

Mr. Theophilus Reichard, formerly of Brooklyn and now of Chicago, an artist and inventor with original ideas, has placed in the hands of several capitalists, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, a design for an astonishing structure in the form of a world's fair tower, for their consideration, with the view of interesting them to form a stock company to build it.

In the accompanying description he says of his design, here illustrated, that the diameter of the tower could be increased to double its present proportions and more platforms could be added without destroying its beauty in the least.

The structure could be left permanently, perhaps, for an interstate exposition building and other uses. The states could be interested to cooperate in building it for this purpose, or perhaps California alone would build the exhibition structure (the domes and base) for an annual or permanent exhibition, leaving the tower proper for a stock company.

In the picture the beauty of this tower is not even approached as shown by the original painting and model, which (now in the hands of the directory) must be seen to enable one to form a correct idea of the attractiveness of this design, which shows the tower gilded with a brilliant red between the spiral of the lower section, a brilliant blue green between the squares of the second section, the third section or steeple being entirely gilded. The whole structure has a most festive and artistic appearance, and its brilliant and bristling effect has an astonishing attractiveness to the inartistic as well as the artistic eye. The cables, representing copper, seem to be feeders to the great light.

As the lower section is a straight shaft of equal diameter from the base through the dome to the platform, the drawings as well as the material made for any one part of the section would answer for any other part. This applies to the second section as well. The third section tapering proportionally enables drawings and material to be made for it easily and quickly. The cables need no drawings, merely calculation. The spiral around the lower section, the plain and ornamental bands are intended to be merely sheathing on the outside of the tower proper. From this it will be readily seen that this tower could be built in a much shorter time and at less cost than one on any other plan. The attractiveness of a structure of such beauty by day, with the effect of its conservatories and hanging gardens lighted by electric lights at night would be simply marvelous.

London as It Was.

Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates" makes the statement that the old name of the city of London was written Lynden or Llyndin, meaning "the city on the lake." An old tradition gives us to understand that London was founded by Brute, a descendant of Æneas, and called New Troy or Troynovant, until the time of Lud, who surrounded the town with walls and named it Caer-Lud or Lud's town. This latter is probably the correct version of the story, if for no other reason, because it is an easy matter to detect a similarity between the expression Lud's town and London. It is claimed by some writers that there was a city on the same spot 1,107 years B. C., and it is known that the Romans founded a city there called Londinium, A. D. 61.

The Mikado's American Soldier.

A soldier of fortune who has had an interesting career in the orient is Col. Wasson, the first American officer ever admitted to the Japanese army. The colonel is a tall, distingue and well-preserved man. He went into the war of the rebellion as a private and came out a major, going afterward to Japan, where his services in reorganizing the mikado's army procured him a colonelcy. In one of the Japanese insurrections he was sentenced to be beheaded, but he escaped, was restored to favor and is now high in the mikado's esteem.

BELFAST'S TRIPLETS.

Two Bright Little Boys and a Sweet Little Girl Pet.

Just beyond Primrose hill, in the suburbs of Belfast, overlooking the Penobscot river and bay, is the comfortable cottage home of Mr. Harvey S. Cunningham. It was here that a reporter for the Boston Globe made the acquaintance of the three beautiful children whose innocent little faces look out from the picture herewith.

They are more interesting than ordinary babies from the fact that they came into the world together. They are now almost two years old, and are as healthy and playful as three little kittens.

The one on the left in the picture is Roy Elijah, the baby in the middle is Ralph Harvey, while on the right, and perhaps the sweetest one of the three, is Rena Elsie.

They were born September 29, 1889. At birth Roy weighed 3¾ pounds, while Ralph and Rena each weighed just 5 pounds. Now Roy weighs 21, Ralph 28 and Rena 21 pounds. All three have sparkling black eyes and very light brown hair, Ralph's being curly. His roguish little face is almost hidden by the profusion of ringlets.

The photograph was taken when they were about six months old, and lovers of babies can easily imagine how much prettier and more interesting they are now toddling about, playing among the daisies and buttercups and sweet clover blossoms in the orchard near the house.

Their mother thinks there is a wonderful sympathetic bond between them, for they cry, laugh and do almost everything in concert. They have a baby carriage with as many seats as babies, and when the weather is fine the nurse or mother wheels them to the city, where they always become a center of attraction.

"We have one good cow," said Mrs. Cunningham, "but if the little ones continue to grow as rapidly as they have for the past few months we shall be obliged to get another to supply their constantly increasing appetites."

There is one other child in the family, a boy, who was about four years old when the triplets came. On being taken in to see the babies the doctor had brought, this big brother began to cry bitterly and asked if that was all there were of them.

Before the reporter left Mrs. Cunningham the time for the babies' afternoon nap arrived, and he was permitted to see them all sleeping in one overgrown crib, with their sweet little faces close together and three pairs of pink and white arms twined lovingly around each other—a grand picture of health, innocence and beauty.

A MODERN SYBIL.

Pretty Miss Kennedy Who Has Created a Sensation in London.

Those who do not mind laying their past open to a sympathetic and very charming Sybil may gratify their love of the marvelous by testing the powers of Miss Nina Kennedy, says London Black and White. Miss Kennedy is an ideal Sybil, as the pretty name sounds to the ears of the present generation. There have been Sybils of a spidery and lurid type, old ladies whose eyes embodied a terrible apathy, wrinkled beldames who rustled from mere drouth when they moved. Miss Kennedy, the "inspirationalist," as she is barbarously dubbed, is a spirit of quite another rate. In all but her curious power of mind reading she is "human to the red-ripe of the heart," and very pleasingly human at that. Even in the performance of her very striking feats as a Zaphnath-Paaneah or revealer of secrets, there is an utter absence of mystic affectation, which perhaps makes the effect of her occult power all the more striking. Miss Kennedy holds the wrist of the inquirer, physician-like, between her fingers, and from the beatings of the pulse is apparently made aware of the very nature of the subject under her control. She professes inability to define or account for her powers, which have been explained, not too lucidly, as "a mixture of clairvoyance, palmistry and magnetism." Miss Kennedy inherits, on the mother's side, the supernatural abilities of a Spanish tribe of Zingari. Her father was descended from an old Scottish family, credited with second sight, and she herself was born between twelve and one—the witching hour, though scientists are not agreed as to the actual potence which may be attributed to this cause. Whencesoever derived, Miss Kennedy possesses a remarkable gift, which she exercises with a very singular charm.

MISS NINA KENNEDY.

An Off Year.

Miss Spoonful (after third plate)—I don't seem to care for ice-cream as much as I did last summer.

Mr. Payout—Jove, I don't like to crow over the misfortunes of others but when I remember that all your previous admirers are bankrupt, I must consider myself fortunate that it is an off year.—Munsey's Weekly.

Ontario Center, N.Y. May 7, 1890.
F.E.C. Medicine Co., Rochester, N.Y.:
For seven or eight years my wife has been troubled with some kind of kidney trouble. She tried many different remedies but all in vain. She continued to grow worse. Last fall I induced her to try the F. E. C. Remedy, and before using one bottle she began to improve, and now, after using six bottles, she is entirely cured. I have recommended it to many and it has benefitted in every case heard from.

CLOSING G. A. R. DAY

The Silver Encampment Adjourns This Forenoon.

NO COLOR LINE TO BE DRAWN.

The Proposition Voted Down After a Long Debate.

Gen. Palmer Elected Commander-in-Chief—A Plan to Pension Ex-Prisoners of War—"Comrades of the Battlefield" Perfect a National Organization—The Ladies of the G. A. R. Hold a Meeting.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 7.—The closing day of the 25th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic opened as bright and balmy as the previous days of the reunion.

There was a big fight over the color line, but it was finally decided to stand by the negro and refuse to bar him out of the white posts.

Capt. John M. Palmer, of Albany, N. Y., was elected as national commander on the second ballot. Col. Henry M. Duffield, of Detroit, was chosen senior vice-commander by acclamation. Corp. Tanner put Capt. Palmer in nomination. Commander Clarkson was chosen junior vice-commander on the first ballot.

The encampment this forenoon adopted a special ritual for the laying of corner stones.

Among the reports of committees was one embodying a bill to be presented at the next session of Congress in behalf of soldiers who were in prison for a period of not less than 60 days, providing that they shall receive $2 for every day of their confinement from the government.

As a result of the encampment a new national organization with the title of "The Comrades of the Battle-field" has been brought into existence. Its membership is to be limited to veterans who were under the fire of the enemy not less than 90 days or who were wounded and disabled from further service within that period. George E. Dolton, of St. Louis, was elected the first Major-General commanding.

Not a single disagreeable feature has occurred to mar the success of the encampment, and the outgoing visitors are loud in their praise of the admirable arrangements and hospitality of the city. In every social respect the convention is pronounced the most successful ever held.

The Ladies of the G. A. R.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 7.—The fifth national convention of the Ladies of the G. A. R., a split from the Woman's Relief Corps, was held at St. Peter's and Paul's school. Mrs. Catherine Hurst, of Louisville, presided. Her report stated that the order was rapidly growing, its present membership being 20,000. Its popularity was ascribed to the fact that it admits soldiers and sailors to membership as well as the wives and daughters.

Albany to Welcome Gen. Palmer.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The receipt of the news of the election of Capt. John Palmer as commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic caused great rejoicing among Albanians, especially among the old soldiers. A meeting of war veterans was held and a committee appointed to arrange for the reception of the new commander-in-chief on his arrival home. It will be made a grand demonstration.

SOUTH CHESTER'S MYSTERY.

An Unknown Person Administered Poison to the Children.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—The coroner's investigation to find out the cause of the mysterious deaths of Mary Morgan and George Lewis, the adopted daughter and son of Isaac Lewis of South Chester, resulted in a verdict that the two children had come to their death by arsenical poison administered by some person unknown. The parents and sister of the dead children were examined. All asserted that no poison of any kind had ever been in the house.

Both children died after a brief illness. A post-mortem was held and sufficient poison was found in the boy's stomach to have caused his death. The girl's body was then exhumed and traces of arsen were found in her stomach.

Not Blamed for Killing His Son.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—J. Henry Janke, sr., was exonerated of all blame by the coroner's jury of the killing of his son and namesake. The verdict was that death resulted from a fall and that the blow of the father in no way contributed to his son's death. Coroner Ashbridge thereupon discharged the father. The death of the son aroused the greatest interest, because it was supposed to have been due to a blow from a weapon in the hands of the father.

The Headless Remains of a Man Found.

GREENSBURG, Pa. Aug. 7.—Last evening the headless and decomposed remains of an unknown man were found in a secluded thicket near United Mines. From an overhanging branch of a tree, swaying in the breeze, dangled the ghastly head at the end of the rope. A few coins and some papers were found in the pockets. The papers will be fumigated and an effort made to establish the identity of the supposed suicide.

Ex-Speaker Sheehan's Supporters.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 7.—About 1,000 Democrats met at O'Connell's Hall, No. 45 Perry street, last night. They all agreed to support the Hon. W. F. Sheehan. The meeting was presided over by John O'Connell, a prominent local Democrat. Much enthusiasm was displayed.

SULLIVAN MADE A SCENE.

The Champion Bound and Locked Up on His Way to Australia.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The steamer Alameda brings news of another escapade of John L. Sullivan's. One day, while the steamer Mariposa was between Honolulu and Mariposa, Sullivan arose at 11 o'clock in the morning and began to imbibe freely. By supper time he had disposed of 38 glasses of porter and was uproariously drunk. Capt. Hayward ordered the bar shut down, and while the 80 or more passengers were at supper Sullivan made his appearance and strongly protested to Capt. Hayward against being deprived of liquor.

He made a scene and squared off to strike the captain, when there was a roll of the ship, and John L. went down in a heap. He was seized, bound and taken to his stateroom and locked up. He obtained no more liquor during the remainder of the passage.

ASBURY PARK STARTLED.

A Leading Hotel Keeper Fined for Using Oleomargarine for Butter.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 7.—William Applegate, the proprietor of the Atalanta Hotel, was summoned and taken before Justice of the Peace Gould upon a charge of having used oleomargarine on his table. The complaint was made by George McGuire, the State dairy inspector.

The hotel is one of the leading houses of the town and is patronized by well known families of New York, Philadelphia and other cities. Mr. Applegate claimed that he did not know that the New Jersey laws prohibited the use of imitation butter in hotels and boarding houses. Justice Gould sentenced him to pay a penalty of $100 and costs. Inspector McGuire will prosecute other hotel proprietors on the same charge.

LOOKS LIKE MURDER.

The Body of a Woman Picked Up by an Oyster Steamer's Captain.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 7.—Coming across the Sound Wednesday night Herman C. Monsell, captain of the oyster steamer Laura, of South Norwalk, picked up the body of a young woman off Norwalk Islands.

It was that of a woman about thirty years of age, of fine physique, and had been in the water some time. It was brought to South Norwalk and Deputy Coroner Burke notified. The clothing had been washed away by the action of the waves, only a small portion of an undergarment and a dress waist remaining.

What might have been a stab wound was found directly over the heart.

An Absconder Caught.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 7.—A special from Salem, O., says: Detective Henson, of Hoboken, N. J., arrived here last night and arrested Jesse S. Weller, alias Williams, who is wanted in Newark, N. J., on the charge of embezzlement. He was in the employ of the D., L. & W. Railroad at Newark and absconded with $1,000 of the company's money. He says he can explain everything at the proper time. He is willing to return without requisition papers.

Slaters on Strike.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 6.—Five hundred slaters in the Bangor and Pen-Argyl slate region, this county, are on strike for an advance of ten per cent. and eight hours. This only represents three-quarters. It is expected that others will follow shortly. Both sides are very determined, and a long contest is anticipated. There are over 1,500 slaters employed in this region.

New York Prohibitionists.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Chairman F. E. Baldwin, of the Prohibition State Committee, says a full ticket will be nominated at the State convention, which is to be held in Albany Sept. 2. William S. Wandwell and W. Jennings Demarest, of New York, and W. S. Powell, a wealthy resident of Columbia County, are mentioned as possible candidates for Governor.

General Greeley's Mission.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Gen. Greeley, chief signal officer of the army, has been ordered to proceed to Munich, Bavaria, to attend the Meteorological Conference and the International Polar Commission, which will meet in that place in August and September, respectively, and upon the adjournment of the meeting of the Polar Commission in September to return to his station in this city.

Ex-Congressman Scott's Condition.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 7.—Ex-Congressman Scott passed a good night and is resting somewhat easier. The only nourishment he is allowed is a little light gruel at regular intervals. He is still hopeful he will conquer his old enemy, and his indomitable will power greatly aids in the endurance of his physical suffering, which at times is most intense.

Comanche Destroyed by Fire.

CEDAR RAPID, Ia., Aug. 7.—Word has been received here that the city of Comanche, Clinton County, was burned. Grist and saw mills, dry-goods and business houses were all swept out by fire.

AFRAID OF THE KING

He is Mad and Has Made a Cave in the Mountains.

ESCAPED FROM A STATE ASYLUM

A Posse of Citizens Organizing to Arrest Him.

He Appears in an Almost Nude Condition—A Party of Berry Pickers Flee for Their Lives—He Carries a Large Knife and Will Allow No One to Approach Him.

ASHLAND, Pa., Aug. 7.—A madman has made himself a cave on the mountains south of this city, and, calling himself "King of the Mountains," will allow no person to advance within 50 yards of his strange residence. His name is Joseph Minnick. He resided here a number of years and is well known throughout the county. Minnick's insanity was first discovered in 1886, when he attempted suicide, throwing himself across the railroad track before a passenger train, but was rescued by workmen after a severe struggle.

He was then taken to the city station house, which he set on fire, and was badly burned and almost suffocated. He was removed to the State Asylum, but 14 months ago managed to escape, and walking from Harrisburg to this place, a distance of 90 miles, stepped into his home and announced to his astonished wife and children that he had come back to stay. A few days later he became violent and was returned to the State institution. Recently he made a second escape, and came to this city on foot, visited his home and took refuge in the mountains.

Three days ago a party of berry pickers came upon him very suddenly. As soon as he saw them he commenced yelling, which caused the women to drop their baskets and flee for their lives. They notified a number of men of their discovery, who started for the "King's" cave, but they had not proceeded far before they were confronted by that individual, who, brandishing a huge knife, commanded them to depart at once or abide by the result.

On Thursday he appeared at Washington Park in an almost nude condition and put to flight a large crowd that was present. He then disappeared in the woods and has not been seen since. Much excitement prevails, as it is feared he will do considerable harm before he is captured. Several attempts have been made to reach the cave, but each time he has detected them and grows more furious at each effort. A posse of citizens is being organized with a view of making a raid on the cave at night to arrest the would-be "King of the Mountains" and safely lodge him in the asylum from which he escaped.

MAD CONVICTS ESCAPE.

They Overpower the Keepers in the Insane Ward at Auburn Prison.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 7.—There was intense excitement throughout the city when it became known that nine crazy convicts had escaped from the State Hospital for Insane Criminals.

The ward in which they were confined is that devoted to the most dangerous men in the institution, and had about twenty inmates in charge of four men. While two of the guards were at breakfast nine of the convicts set upon the two keepers present without warning. The keepers made a valiant struggle, but were overpowered finally, one of them being stabbed twice under the right shoulder blade.

He fought desperately and has three cuts in the palm of his right hand where he grasped the convict's knife.

Having overcome the keepers, the convicts took their keys and opened a passage way to the airing area. From there it was easy to scale the low wall and away they went, nine of them, in all directions.

The escape was not discovered until the two absent keepers returned from their breakfast.

Then the alarm was given, and before 7 a. m., the whole western part of the city, into which the convicts headed was astir.

Before 8 o'clock four of them were recaptured. At that hour T. J. Arindel, a Bulletin reporter caught convict McGraw, the most athletic and dangerous of the party, as he was begging his breakfast of a widow lady.

The convict knocked Arindel down, but was subsequently brought to bay by a revolver furnished the reporter by the frightened lady occupant of one of the houses in the neighborhood.

All the convicts were captured but three, but those at large are young and desperate.

She Shot to Protect Her Father.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—Francis Bolderic, a French-Canadian, and John Rhodes became involved in a quarrel last night which led to blows. Rhodes' 20-year-old daughter, Bessie, interfered in behalf of her father and shot Bolderic in the neck. Bolderic will die. The girl is in jail.

THE SHOCK MAY KILL HIM.

Baker's Doctors Say His Arm Will Have to be Amputated.

CROTON LANDING, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The condition of T. Newton Baker, Col. Ingersoll's private secretary, who was shot on Saturday evening at Croton Landing by Orville M. Anderson over a family row, is somewhat improved to-day.

Although his general condition is better, the doctors now say that his arm will have to be amputated at the point where the pistol ball was taken out. Amputation will not be resorted to unless it is absolutely necessary, as it is feared that in his present state he would not be able to survive the shock.

Anderson still remains in jail. There will be another hearing in the case tomorrow morning. Mrs. Baker is still very much prostrated and refuses to see any one. Col. Ingersoll is expected here to-day. Mrs. Ingersoll continues in her attentions.

Organizing the Lynn Shoe Workers.

LYNN, Mass., Aug. 7.—Secretary Harry Skeffington, of the Shoemakers' International Union, proposes to reorganize the entire shoe craft of this city. It is said that he expects to meet with some opposition from the Knights of Labor, but that he is fully prepared to meet all emergencies. It is also stated that he is fully backed by the American Federation of Labor. The manufacturers are in nowise alarmed at the movement, but freely express the belief that the influence of organized labor is on the wane and unaffective.

Banker Danner Arrested.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 7.—James Danner, of Schall & Danner, bankers and brokers, who assigned in March, was arrested last evening, charged with larceny and embezzlement. The charge was made by John B. Walsh, of New York, who alleges that Danner received money from him knowing that his bank was insolvent, and also that Danner embezzled stocks and bonds entrusted to his custody by Walsh. Danner gave $10,000 bail. Other suits are expected.

Liability of Bondsmen.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—A hearing on the demurrer filed by the Ayer National Bank against the bondsmen of Harold E. Spaulding, now serving a term of five years in jail for having defaulted in the sum of $30,000 while cashier of the bank, was heard in the Supreme Court. The bank claims that the bondsmen are liable for the full amount, whereas the bond calls for but $20,000. Decision was reserved.

Ex-Gov. Axtell Dead.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Aug. 7.—Ex-Gov. Samuel B. Axtell died at the residence of his son-in-law, Charles M. Phillips, after a brief illness. Judge Axtell came on a visit from Santa Fe, N. M., four years ago to regain his impaired health.

BRANCHVILLE, N. J., Aug. 7.—Wm. P. Elliott died yesterday from the effects of a rattlesnake bite which he received a week ago.

SHE WAS A SERVANT

The Body of the Glendale Victim Identified.

HER FORMER LOVER ARRESTED.

He Bears a Good Reputation and Says He Can Prove an Alibi.

The Unfortunate Girl Was a Domestic in the Family of Rev. Thomas Martin—She Left Her Employer's House to Meet Her Lover—The Inquest to be Held This Evening.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—At last the body of the unfortunate girl that was found Sunday morning by the wayside at Glendale, L. I, has been identified, and detectives are now following a clue which will no doubt put them on the track of the murderer.

The body has been identified as that of Hannah Robertson, a servant recently in the employ of the Rev. Thomas Martin, of Hewlitts, Long Island.

Detective Miller of Ridgewood, R. I., arrested Martin Phillips, of No. 305 Bedford avenue, Williamsburg, as the suspected murderer.

Martin Phillips was the murdered woman's lover.

When Hannah left Hewlitts Saturday afternoon she told Sexton Smalley, of Trinity Church, that she was going to meet Martin Phillips. Hannah and Phillips had quarrelled, and this meeting was to be a making up.

"He's my steady company," explained Hannah, and she appeared very happy at the prospect of the meeting.

Whether Phillips met the girl is not known. His whereabouts on last Saturday night will now be a matter of more searching inquiry.

The suspected man was taken to Ridgewood in company with the girl's sister, who also lives in Williamsburg, and the sister's husband. All positively identify the girl as Hannah Robertson.

Phillips was then taken to Jamaica and locked up.

Phillips is an innocent looking fellow, about 25 years old. He has made the following statement:

"On last Saturday night, the time they say she was murdered, I was with a party of friends in New Jersey and went fishing. I am a pressman in Hines, Ketcham & Co.'s lithographing establishment, and we stopped work at noon. I and my friends left for New Jersey late on Saturday afternoon and did not return until Sunday night. All that I am anxious for is that the police will at once investigate this matter as far as I am concerned, as I know absolutely nothing of the murder."

The coroner's inquest, to be held this evening at Doblin's Hotel, will doubtless shed some light on the manner of the girl's death. The disappearance of her reticule and money, the lonely spot where she was found, and her declaration about her lover, all afford points which will tax the ingenuity of Brooklyn's detectives to fathom.

WRECK AND FLAMES.

Twelve Men Killed and Many Injured in the Crash on the West Shore Road.

PORT BYRON, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Twelve persons were killed by the wrecking of the Chicago & St. Louis limited passenger train a few miles west of this village. The train was running at a high rate of speed, and at that point ran into a freight train.

The wreck was an awful one, and the deaths outright numbered ten. Those killed instantly and those who died from their injuries were all Italians but one, Michael Bergen, the fireman of the passenger train.

Eleven Italians were badly hurt, four fatally.

Twelve cars of the freight train were wrecked and piled up on the tracks, completely blocking them.

The Italians were in the smoking car, which was completely shattered. Hardly a whole piece of timber was left of the car.

The wreck took fire, and the passenger train was burned with the exception of three sleeping cars.

The train was made up of two express cars, a baggage car, a smoking car, a day car and four sleeping cars.

The Conductor's Account.

Probably the best account of the accident is that of Conductor Jeremiah B. Konaly, of the passenger train.

"At the time of the accident," he said, "I was in the front end of the sleeping car Marathon making my usual rounds of the train. We left Syracuse at 1:58, exactly on time, and we were running on the regular schedule time, about 45 miles an hour.

"The accident occurred about a quarter of a mile east of Montezuma station. It was very foggy at the time, and we could not see very distinctly.

"There is a siding at this place and the freight train was just pulling in on the side track when we struck it. We did not expect to find anything out of the way, and I am told by Conductor Tobin that the freight train would have been side-tracked in ample time to allow us to pass if the train had not broken in two just as it was pulling into the side-track. The train had been connected and was pulling in when the crash came."

Terrible Flood at Melbourne.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The steamer Alameda, just arrived from Australia, brings particulars of the overflow of its banks by the River Yarra at Melbourne. Over 1,000 families were made homeless, and there is much sickness and fever among them. The damage caused by the flood amounts to $2,000,000.

He Will Fight Any Man Here.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Pritchard is shortly going to America to deposit with Richard K. Fox $1,000 as a challenge to fight any man in the United States.

RUSSIAN BRUTALITY.

Bewildered Jews Charged Upon by Soldiers and Several Wounded.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—A brutal affair is reported from the Russian frontier of Prussian Poland. A party of Jews, led by one David Rosebalt, had crossed into Prussian territory. As they had but little means, being stripped of nearly everything by Russian officials before they crossed, the German officials ordered them back into Russia, after first giving them food and otherwise treating them humanely.

At the Russian frontier on their return they were met by a body of soldiers, who had been ordered out in anticipation of their arrival. The soldiers, with fixed bayonets, stopped the refugees and commanded them to go back into Germany.

Upon the bewildered Jews hesitating, not knowing what to do, the soldiers charged upon them, wounded several and nearly killed Rosebalt by a bayonet stab in the neck. They arrested the whole party, and those who will survive their wounds will, it said, be sent to Siberia.

PENNSYLVANIA'S DEMAND.

Philadelphia Asked to Return $86,000 Collected by Bardsley.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—The City Treasurer has received a communication from the Auditor-General, of the State demanding that $86,000, the amount of the city's indebtedness on account of mercantile taxes, shall be at once turned over to the State.

This money was collected by ex-City Treasurer Bardsley, who failed to pay it over to the State Treasurer.

City Treasurer Wright has referred this demand to the city solicitor for his opinion as to whether the city is responsible for this money.

It is claimed by some that the city treasurer acted directly as the fiscal agent of the State, and that the city cannot be held for the misappropriation of the State's money.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A. C. Hunt of Texas, ex-Governor of Colorado, is dangerously ill at Chicago.

The Glucose Trust has been reorganized at Chicago with a capital of $15,000,000.

Miss Dollie Smith, a Maine artist, with studios in New York and Boston, is dead, aged 62.

Dr. Wedgewood, of Lewiston, Me., who is attending Editor George Jones, of New York, says there is no decided change in the condition of his patient.

A full State ticket was nominated by the People's Party in Ohio at a convention held in Springfield. John Seitz, a former Greenbacker, heads the ticket for Governor.

Charles A. Price, has resigned the presidency of the Boston Association Baseball Club, on account of private business. Julian B. Hart has been elected in his place.

It is said that the Russian Ambassador to France, Baron Mohrenheim, has received a cipher dispatch from the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs announcing that a treaty between Russia and France has been signed.

The State Board of Agriculture of Maine has just issued its crop bulletin for August. The bulletin states that now all fear of damage to the hay crop by drouth is passed. The hay harvest will yield about 1,250,000 tons. Grain, corn and potatoes never looked better.

The Board of Aldermen of Bridgeport, Conn., have adopted resolutions abolishing the office of Chief of Police. The Board also approved the much contested pay roll of the police force. This effectually disposes of Chief of Police Rylands, whom the Democrats have been trying to oust for some time.

Joseph E. Dispeau, a leading caterer at Pawtucket, R. I., committed suicide by taking a mixture of chloroform and laudanum. He was a director of the Providence County Savings Bank and the Pawtucket Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and was at one time a member of the Town Council and the General Assembly.

Official society at the national capital has a sensation in the elopement of Miss Genevieve Jordon, the only child of the late Paymaster Jordon of the Navy, and Dr. William Frederick Nickel of Baltimore. The mother of Miss Jordon was bitterly opposed to the marriage, and she refuses to acknowledge her daughter.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—For New England: Generally fair; warmer on the coast; nearly stationary temperature in the interior; variable winds.

For Eastern New York: Fair; light, variable winds; nearly stationary temperature, except slightly warmer in extreme southern portion.

For New Jersey: Fair weather; winds becoming variable; a slight increase of temperature.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Continued warmer, variable winds, generally southerly; fair weather, except local showers on the lake shore line.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Quit that flirting and buy your goods at Peck's.

—A bargain in real estate, at Dunellen, is advertised in the cent-a-word column of THE PRESS to-day.

—Great inducements are offered by the United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association in their advertisement to-day.

—German Lutheran services will be held at the W. C. T. U. rooms, Sunday morning. The Rev. Dr. Moldenke of New York, will preach.

—Rogers Bros. have been giving some great bargains in shoes, of late, but in their advertisement to-day they offer the greatest bargain of the season.

—The White Caps of this city will play the Pond Juniors, also of this city, at 3:30 to-morrow afternoon on Madison avenue, a short distance beyond Ninth street.

—Yesterday's Emancipation Day celebration was very creditable to the colored race, and already plans for a perfected and more glorious celebration for next year are being talked of.

—The fight between the Jersey Central and the Lehigh Valley railway companies over the crossing near Elizabeth, ended yesterday. The Jersey Central had the obstructions removed, having accepted $36,000 damages.

—If you want to witness the most exciting, the funniest and the most entertaining base-ball game of the season, go to the Crescent League grounds to-morrow afternoon when the colored teams of Somerville and Plainfield will meet.

—A great game of ball between Plainfield's and Somerville's colored champions will be played on the Crescent League grounds to-morrow afternoon. Those who don't go to Somerville to see the Crescents win ought not to miss the sport.

—Sixteen passenger cars, filled with people constituted the excursion of the First Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist and Congregational Sunday-schools to Asbury Park this morning. The day was beautifully clear, and the excursion was a great success.

—All young people are invited to attend the regular meeting of the Young People's League to be held in the Sunday-school rooms of the First Baptist church at 8 o'clock this evening. The subject will be: "Obedience the Test of Faith and Repentance."

—That the masses of the colored people do behave themselves better than the masses of the "white folks," was proven again yesterday. This city was full of the colored of all classes and the barrooms did a thriving business, yet it was not necessary for the police to make an arrest.

—A number of Plainfielders attended the annual meeting of the King's Daughters at Ocean Grove, yesterday. The meeting was under the direction of Mrs. Marguerite Bottome, president of the order. Four services were held. Over 2,000 were present. Dr. E. H. Stokes made the address of welcome.

—William Hooper, of Ticonderoga, N. Y., sends the Dixon company a piece of tin roof which had been painted with Dixon Graphite paint thirteen years before, and said the paint on all the sheets remained as bright and firm as if newly painted. He recommends it as the best paint in the world for a roof.

—A Plainfielder writes from Asbury Bury Park; "The white girl is becoming a conspicuous figure upon the beach. From the jaunty white hat which surmounts her blonde curls to the dainty white shoes upon her feet, she is clothed in garments of white. And she is a beauty, too, when she is a beauty."

—The Central Railroad of New Jersey has secured the right of way for a branch line to Long Branch, the route being along the base of the Atlantic Highlands across the Shrewsbury River. The New Jersey Southern, which is operated and owned by the Jersey Central, is to be compelled by the United States Government to move its present terminus from Sandy Hook in October, so that the building of a branch is made necessary.

—At The Edgemoor, 34 SeaView avenue, Ocean Grove, Plainfielders will find a most excellent seaside home when visiting the shore. The house fronts on Wesley Lake, and is only one block from the ocean. The table supply is abundant and thoroughly satisfactory, and every comfort of the guests is carefully looked after. The estimable proprietress is S. Augusta Hart of this city. A great many Plainfield people patronize this place.

—Three new stations are now being built on the Central Railroad between here and Jersey City. The old ruin at Communipaw is to be succeeded by a pretty grey-stone structure on the opposite side of the tracks; an entirely new station is being put up at Graceland, and another is nearly completed half-way between Claremont and Greenville. Elizabeth still sports the same old rookery that came over with Father Noah on the Mayflower and will probably continue to do duty till the wall of the last Elizabethan is heard in the land.

The gormandizer likes it because it is fine. The workman likes it because it quenches his thirst, enriches his blood, and strengthens his muscle. It is cheap. The mother likes it. It keeps her boys at home. The women of America like it, because it takes the place of intoxication. This Hires's Root Beer.

LOST BUT ONE GAME IN THREE.

Plainfield's Ball Players Back From Connecticut, Well Satisfied.

The Crescent League team got home from Connecticut this afternoon, well satisfied with the loss of only one game of the three played. The game lost was at Norwich yesterday, and the reason was entirely because the Crescents are, as always, very weak in the pitcher's box.

Taylor pitched in the beginning and at the wind-up. Hammill was put in the box in the fourth inning and each of the three Norwich men that came to the bat knocked a long fly that was beautifully caught by Bonner in deep centre. In the Sixth inning Hammill gave two men bases on balls and hit one—all three in succession. Then gentle Willie Murphy followed with a safe hit and O'Connell with one over the fence.

All the Crescents that the PRESS reporter talked with agreed that Umpire Berriman "roasted" the Plainfield players in yesterday's game and the Norwich umpire "roasted" them in the first game in that city. The scores by innings, yesterday and the day before, were:

AT WILLIMANTIC—AUG. 5.

Crescents	0	0	1	0	0	0	5	0	*	—6
Base hits	1	1	3	1	1	2	5	0
Base hits	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	1

Errors—Crescents, 2; Willimantic, 4.

AT NORWICH—AUG. 6.

Norwich	3	2	2	0	0	5	0	0	1	—14

NO END OF FUN AT CAMP DUPEE.

(SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.)

MERWIN'S POINT, Conn., Aug. 6.—Yesterday was the gala day of the week with Holy Cross choir at Camp Dupee. The morning was peacefully spent in fishing and bathing, and in the afternoon the annual regatta of the Owanus Canoe Club of Bridgeport took place and the choir were the guests of the club. After luncheon everybody prinked up and fixed themselves to look so pretty that their own parents would n't have recognized them at twenty paces. Then steward Israel Jones got in his work and shaved every man who looked as if he needed it. When everything was in perfect order, and the whole outfit was just as sweetly pretty as it could be, they proceeded to the canoe camp and took in the races and sat for a picture. Some of the young gentlemen have succeeded in making the acquaintance of an equal number of the most charming young ladies in the world, the belles of the Point, and have been unfit for any heavy work since the meeting. In the evening the chair paraded about the neighborhood till 11 o'clock and were regaled with soda and cigars by the impressionable inhabitants. Among the visitors to the camp were the Rev. Mr. Booth of Bridgeport, Commodore Leavenworth, Canoeist French, Mr. Henry Bishop and, as was to be expected, a host of summer girls. Everybody had to get up on time this morning although they felt more like sleeping till noon. Mr. Bond, the tenor of the First Presbyterian church, Plainfield, visited camp in the morning and friends of the choirmaster from New Haven came this afternoon. The weather is delightful, and everyone is in the very best of health and spirits, thanks to the precautions and admonitions of camp doctor Mackey.

Complaints Against a Saloon.

Theodore Kurzhals, of 6 West Second street, made a complaint to Mayor Gilbert to-day that the Elkwood saloon, adjoining his property, was a nuisance to the neighborhood, and asked that it be suppressed. The Mayor promised to investigate the matter on his return from New York this evening.

Mr. Kurzhals says that the noise of the carousings in the saloon became so intolerable that he politely requested the proprietor to keep the windows partially closed to shut it out from his family's hearing. This the proprietor refused to do, and for his own protection Mr. Kurzhals put up a high board fence, which shuts off from view the sights in the saloon that disgusted him, and which partially quells the disagreeable sounds of maudlin revelry. But the fence also obstructs the light from entering through the Elkwook windows, and the proprietor and frequenters of the place object to it. So—says Mr. Kurzhals—they gather at the windows and make all manner of disagreeable sounds, and call him all manner of names, and taunt and insult him continually. He says that the nuisance is driving his wife frantic. Last night she was so nervous over it that she went into convulsions. He demands that the city authorities interfere.

Proprietor Miller says he closed the window adjoining Mr. Kurzhals house, but had to leave the others open for ventilation. He denies that anybody in his place taunted Kurzhals or any of his family. He says Mrs. Kurzhals wanted him to turn out one of his hotel boarders because her baby cried, and another because her dog barked. Mrs. Kurzhals also complained because one of the Elkwood's upper windows was broken. She said some of the glass would fall on her and kill her.

The Mayor will decide to-night what to do about the matter.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Hutt, Biddeford, Me.

FACTS, NOT TALK, PROVE IT.

She Can Win at Base-Ball, but as a Fire Department Somerville Isn't in It.

Some Somervillian who, it is claimed, was present in this city upon the occasion of a recent fire, is said to have ridiculed the Plainfield department and asserted it was much too slow in getting its engines to work.

This, if so, is rather rough on the Somerville fire department. If Plainfield is too slow, how about Somerville? The only comparison that was ever made as to their respective efficiency, was at a past fire in Bound Brook. Then the Plainfield and Somerville departments were sent for, and met.

Somerville arrived seven minutes ahead of Plainfield. Yet the latter's steamer was unloaded, on the ground, and throwing a stream on the fire some minutes before Somerville's engine got to work.

When Somerville's firemen can hitch up, drive to the fire and have water on it in five minutes from the time the alarm is struck, they can beat Plainfield, but not before.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. D. C. Adams was busy last night.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Vanderbeck are happy over the coming of a little son.

Mrs. C. E. Vail presented her husband with another boy, early this morning.

The Rev. T. Logan Murphy spent to-day at Mount Vesuvius.

Dr. J. A. Allis has returned from a trip to Albany, Saratoga and Richfield Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brower are at South Columbia, Herkimer county, N. Y.

The Rev. A. F. Todd, of Dunellen, will preach at the Trinity Reformed church next Sunday.

Mr. Lippenhoff, the exiled Russian missionary, will lead the meeting at Hope chapel to-night.

Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, of 133 East Front street, is spending the summer at Wentworth Hall, Jackson, N. H.

Miss Leora D. Wenzel, of Evona, is spending the month of August at Flemington, Hunterdon county.

H. A. Clark, who was recently hurt by the falling of a lightning rod upon his head, is recovering from the accident.

Mrs. Wm. Addis, son and daughters, are at the Berkshire hills, visiting a brother of Mr. Addis, for the month of August.

Dr. Comegys Paul, at the Coleman House, Mrs. Louise Worthington and Miss L. Worthington at the Surf House, and Mrs. and Susie Emerson and Grace Lewis at the St. James, are among the Plainfielders recently registered at Asbury Park.

At the funeral services over the remains of Charles Pelletreau, at the home of his parents in Brooklyn, Tuesday evening, there was present as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by his companions, a crescent four feet high, made of white rosebuds on a mound of lilies, presented by the Plainfield Crescent League.

Stole a Passenger's Ticket.

Shortly before noon yesterday a passenger train on the Central railway rolled in to the Elizabeth station, and a man with a handbag jumped off. In close pursuit was another passenger who charged that the first fellow had stolen the return part of his excursion ticket from New York to Plainfield.

Officer Eckert collared the accused and held him while the explanations were being made. It seems that the accused was a fakir coming to Plainfield to try his luck at swindling the Emancipation Day crowds. He took the half ticket from the seat where the passenger had laid it, just as the train was moving into Elizabeth. The conductor corroborated the passenger, but as the latter was unwilling to remain to make a complaint the fakir had to be released. The officer, however, held on to him until the train had gone. Three other fakirs came to Plainfield but were run out of town by detective John M. C. Marsh, of Westfield.

Must be Published in English.

Chancellor McGill, in Jersey City, rendered a decision, Wednesday, that a is of large interest to the Germans of New Jersey. Last winter a German editor secured the passage of an act requiring that all notices of land sales should be advertised in one German newspaper. Ex-Judge Blair, as special Master, had superintended a sale in chancery, and in compliance with this act had inserted a notice of the sale in a German newspaper in Jersey City. The Chancellor refused yesterday to confirm the sale, on the ground that the advertisement, if inserted in a German newspaper, should have been printed at least in the English language.

The act of George II., passed 1d 1733, requiring that all judicial proceedings shall be published in the English language is still operative in New Jersey, the Chancellor declares. Prior to 1733 they were published in Latin.

Serious Runaway.

A horse driven by F. O. Smith, of 196 West Front street, took fright at the noise of the parade yesterday and ran away from Fourth street, through Liberty, to Seventh, where it was caught. Mr. Smith was thrown out, run over, and severely injured. One of his legs is thought to be fractured. The wagon was smashed into kindling wood.

New Brunswick's New Ball Team.

A New York paper publishes the following information about John Harkins's new nine:

"A new base-ball nine has been formed in New Brunswick which is to join the State semi-professional league, composed of the Plainfield, Westfield, Somerville, West End and probably the New Jersey Athletic Club. The new club will carry in the courts the question of the constitutionality of the city ordinance recently passed forbidding ball playing within certain restricted limits. The ordinance was aimed at the athletic grounds of Rutgers College, and closes the best ball field in town. John Harkins, a well-known ball player, formerly of the Brooklyns, has charge of the undertaking. He is collecting subscriptions for the club, which will be known as the New Brunswicks. Nearly all of the players will be residents of the town, with the exception of the catcher, who will be an outsider. Harkins himself will play with the nine, except when they play the Somervilles. He went to New York Monday to see about uniforms."

Its The Netherwood's Pretty Ladies That Attract Him.

A correspondent at Netherwood hotel writes thus to the Richfield News:

One of the busiest men about the hotel when anything in the shape of entertainment is sur le tapis, is J. August Hinchman, not half so august as his name would seem to imply—but, on the contrary, one of the most jovial and thoro'ly companionable of men. He is Mr. Miller's right hand man on such occasions. For several years it has been his custom to spend the season here. Sometimes I think that his friendship for the proprietor of the Netherwood is not the only magnet which draws him hither. He is an indefatigable gallant, and I honestly believe that the beautiful women who annually make the Netherwood their summer home, have a great deal to do towards attracting their appreciative admirer. I am going over to the Hotel Breslin to-morrow to spend a week with Mr. Brockway, so by the time this gets into type I shall be out of Mr. Hinchman's reach; but I thoro'ly believe every line I have written, and affirm the allegation, that if it were not for the ladies, Brother Hinchman would his himself away to some other spot where such fair companions might be found. I regard this as a compliment to the gentleman's discriminating taste; also to the ladies.

A Run to the Deserted Village.

The party of ladies and gentlemen bicyclists that made a run between Elizabeth and Plainfield last Saturday will make another run to the Deserted Village near Scotch Plains either Friday afternoon or Saturday. Refreshments will be served on the mountain. This club is composed of ladies and gentlemen from Rahway, Plainfield, Elizabeth, Westfield and Roselle.—Elizabeth Herald.

BY THE WAY.

—The United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association have commenced to run their fourth delivery wagon. It is a beauty.

—A free fight occurred at Blimm's Hotel this afternoon, and the police had to be sent for. A young man named Burke was arrested.

—Up in Portland, Pa., newspaper men have an easy time. The Enterprise of that place announces that no paper will be issued from that office this week, as the entire force is going to take a week's vacation.

—The Dover Iron Era, in its last issue published a legal notice which reads as follows: "Notice is hereby given of an application to the next Legislature for a law requiring the list of delinquent taxpayers to be posted in every saloon and hotel in the ward and township where such delinquent taxpayer resides, and the sale of any intoxicating liquor to such delinquent taxpayer, shall forfeit the license of every person so selling."

OUR "Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2 00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. WON BY A HIRED PITCHER.

The Stars of Plainfield Defeated by a Lot of New York and Philadelphia Players.

One of the most interesting features of Emancipation Day was the base-ball contest between the Stars of this city and a nine that claimed to be from Washington, N. J. But the latter sprung a pitcher on the Plainfield boys, who could win against any team. He was called "J. Andrews," and was said to be a Philadelphia professional. It is also claimed by the Stars that some of the celebrated Cuban Giants also played in the Washington nine.

The Plainfield players who deserve special mention were: Atkins on second base; David Martin, center field; and Nelson behind the bat. The last got hit in the morning and had to retire, but played a fine game in the afternoon. Kline pitched a straight ball that was just pie for the Washingtons. Vail, however, took his place in the afternoon and was much more effective. His curves are very deceitful and had he been put in the box sooner, the result would have been different.

Of the Washingtons, besides their pitcher, the playing of first baseman G. Andrews, third baseman W. Steele, and center fielder Furman, are to be praised for good work. The scores were:

Emancipation Day.

The colored people of Plainfield had a very enjoyable day over their Emancipation Celebration yesterday. They hugely enjoyed their base-ball games, and their parade in the afternoon was very creditable. Most all of the colored citizens of Plainfield were in line, either afoot, on horseback, or in carriages, and numbers of visitors from Morristown, New Brunswick, Raritan, and other places, joined in the procession. Several fife and drum corps and brass bands, most of them made up of colored people, furnished the music. The local colored drum corps presented an especially fine appearance. The Morristown and Raritan musicians marched like veterans. St. Mary's fife and drum corps did excellent work. Prominent in the procession were Mayors Gilbert and Place, Councilmen Roberts, Spangenberg, See, Hetfield, Buckle, Hummer, City Clerk Coward, Counselor Jackson, and Postmaster Pope. A number of old freed slaves who had been sold on the block were in the procession. During the parade, salutes from a brass cannon were fired along the route.

After the parade a mass meeting was held at Crescent rink, where Mayor Gilbert made an address of welcome and Charles M. Robinson of Camden read the Emancipation Proclamation. A patriotic address was made by the Rev. W. C. Jason of Orange, in which he urged his fellow countrymen to continue on their march of civilization and advancement. In the evening an enjoyable promenade and ball was held at the rink. Addresses were made by Jesse Lawson and the Rev. William A. Alexander. During the day the citizens were generous with their display of flags and bunting along the route of the parade.

A PLAINFIELD MAN'S IDEA.

Having Grown as Big as America, It Extends Its Influence Into Foreign Lands.

S. A. Haines, of Netherwood, founder and president of the Commercial Travelers' Temperance League of America, is now extending his work into England.

With the primary object of considering the advisability of forming a Commercial Travelers' Temperance League in Hull, a meeting of commercial travelers was held, under Mr. Haines's direction, in the Central Temperance Hotel, Albion street, Saturday night, July 25. The gathering was a representative one. After a few introductory remarks by others, Mr. Haines addressed the meeting. Mr. Haines, after thanking those present for the hearty way in which they had received him, said that he did not quite understand that he was to deliver a lecture. He had looked forward to having a talk along the line of the Commercial League's work; what it had done, and what it might do. He did not propose to go into any argument on the temperance question, and did not suppose that it was necessary to dwell on the sentimental side of the question. He took it that every one who was present that evening was already a temperance man. Many said that a man had a right to drink, it was a privilege, and a man could drink and yet be a gentleman. He thought so once, but he found out his mistake. In the course of correspondence he wrote to Edward Everett Hale, one of the brightest men in America or in the world, and putting himself into a pharisaical condition, pointed to himself as being better than other men. He got a reply, which made him think, for in it he was told not only not to take another drink, but to swear that by the grace of God he would never tempt another man. The motto of the Commercial League of which he had been president for seven years, and which now numbered more than 4,000 men, was: "No man is sure that he is temperance himself until he tries to make other people so." Drinking was the curse of commercial men. No commercial traveler ever ascended the ladder of success carrying a whiskey bottle in his grip. Whilst drink was debasing and degrading to a commercial traveler's life, their business led them up to the central interests of the world. No man was so important to the commerce and industry of the world as the commercial traveler. That, he said, was a broad statement, and the Board of Trade and the Chambers of Commerce might contradict him, but he contended that no body of men, if they were suddenly taken from the face of the earth, would so totally demoralize all the forces that went to make up the human society and the rich es of the community. In conclusion, Mr. Haines spoke strongly in favor of the formation of a league in Hull.

The following resolution was then unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That, in the opinion of this meeting, the time has arrived when a Commercial Travelers' Temperance League should be formed.

In commenting on this movement, the Eastern Morning News, of Hull, says:

The commercial travelers of Hull have resolved to establish a temperance league of their own, and for this they are to be commended. As a class they are peculiarly exposed to the temptations of the drink traffic, although, as we pointed out the other day, they have more opportunities of emancipating themselves from the fatal habit of indulging in intoxicating drinks than they had say ten or fifteen years ago. At one time a non-drinking commercial traveler was a rarity—now he may be found on any road, and there is evidence that temperance is making rapid progress among a class who serve the interests of the commercial community with zeal and benefit to the nation at large. It is only natural that Mr. Haines, the president of the Commercial Travelers' League of America, should claim for his class such an important position in our industrial economy. But whilst we are prepared to acknowledge that commercial travelers play a very important part in relation to the commercial and industrial life of the country, we think it somewhat of an exaggeration to say that were they withdrawn from their ordinary sphere of activity all the forces which go to make up human society would become demoralized. Commercial travelers are great factors in trade and commerce, but they are not so vitally necessary as Mr. Haines represents them to be. Still we should be sorry to discount the value of their services to mankind, and the newly-formed temperance league has our very best wishes for its success.

Mr. Haines addressed another meeting for the organization of a branch at Shaftesbury Hall, 13 South Parade, Leeds, Friday, July 24. A large number of commercial travelers and business men attended.

On Sunday Mr. Haines preached as follows:

At 10:30, in the Coltman Street chapel, on "Friendship"; in the afternoon at 3 o'clock in Great Thornton Street chapel, on "The Clean way"; and in the evening at 6:30 in the Coltman Street chapel, on "Tears; or, Stop Crying".

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

A Pastoral.

A beautiful maiden,
Reading a book;
A picturesque landscape,
A babbling brook.
A man with a kodak
In secret prepares
To picture the maiden
As she sits unawares.
Her two strapping brothers
Were chancing to pass,
Saw the man with the kodak,
And also the lass.
They rolled up their sleeves,
Threw off hat, coat and vest;
The man pressed the button,
They did the rest.

A Preacher's Insult to the Press.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

The Rev. Dr. Merrill, a gentleman belonging to the Methodist body and calling himself a bishop, has added his quota to the mass of Puritanical absurdity and inconsistency that has during the past week rendered Asbury Park and Ocean Grove the targets for the scoffs of the irreligious and the contempt of all common-sense Christians.

He was enlarging on the subject of keeping holy the "Sabbath Day", and in the course of his somewhat perfervid address he turned his guns on the press and fired a raking shot at the members of the "fourth estate". Facing the reporters' table, he gave utterance to the following very foolish sentiments:

The man who sits on this platform and reports a sermon for a religious or secular newspaper is as big a sinner as the man who plows his field on Sunday. One man plies his vocation as well as the other.

We hardly venture to imagine what would have been the feelings of this divine had he not seen his sermon in print on the Monday morning following. His indignation would have known no bounds, and would have vented itself in a tirade of abuse against the want of enterprise displayed by the local papers and the press correspondents. That is to say, his mortified vanity would have reproached these very men whom he had so fiercely attacked the day before for not being guilty of the very act which it had pleased him to call sinful—reporting his sermon—which, by the way, could not have been set up in type without a further violation of what he improperly styled the Sabbath. We suppose, however, that Dr. Merrill would have the divine law suspended in his case and in his only.

But the inconsistency did not end there. The preacher branded the reporter as a "sinner", because he was "plying his vocation"! The reporter was doing no more than the preacher. The only difference was that the slave of the quill probably earned about $3 by "plying his vocation" in reporting the sermon, while Dr. Merrill would put as money in his purse some $50 or $100 for the delivery of it. Had the man been preaching for nothing, for the pure love of saving souls, we should be the last to blame him. But when he was not only absent from his legitimate sphere of duty in Kansas, when he was not only enjoying what the reporter so seldom gets, a vacation without any stoppage of his salary, but was also making money as a "star preacher", his utterances certainly savored naught of the divinely commissioned messenger of salvation. They were redolent simply of Pharisaism and hypocrisy.

Of the two men, the reporter and not the preacher was best obeserving the Sunday by doing his duty faithfully.

Wesley Levers Buried.

Wesley Levers, the young brakeman, whose sad death at the Muhlenberg Hospital, this city, was chronicled Tuesday, was buried yesterday afternoon. The body was escorted from the home of the bereaved family, Elizabeth, to the Fulton Street M. E. church, by the members of Court Advance, Ancient Order of Foresters, and delegations of railroad men. On the casket were several floral offerings. The Rev. Mr. Johnston, the pastor, preached a sermon, and several appropriate selections were sung by the choir. The pallbearers were members of the Order of Foresters. The remains were escorted from the church to the Central railway station and taken to Phillipsburg for interment. The Foresters had a special car and went to the place of burial.

A Meteoric Display.

A meteoric display is booked by the astronomers for the beginning of the second week of this month. These meteors in their passage are deflected from their course by the earth's attraction, and are ignited by the arrested motion caused by the resistance of our atmosphere, leaving a luminous train behind them. Most of them are burnt up before reaching the earth. Those which are large enough to run the gauntlet successfully and strike the ground are known as aerolites or meteoroids. They are most numerous on the nights of August 9, 10, 11, and November 12, 13 and 14.

The Horse Obeyed the Policeman.

Police officer Christian Frederickson rides to and from duty in his own horse and carriage. Yesterday his daughter and little son were driving through Park avenue from Front street, when the horse was scared by the Hannibal fife and drum corps, and ran away. As it rushed under the railroad bridge, Frederickson was coming out of the station-house just in time to halloo, whoa! The horse stopped.

Six Weeks More of Summer.

We are now rapidly nearing fall. The longest day in the year is passed, the first six months of the year are gone, and we are going down on the other side of the hill. Katy-dids were heard Tuesday. The popular belief is that they are heard six weeks before frost.

"I say, Jim, you doesn't call around as much as yer uster at de house of Miss Matilda Snowball."

"De truth am, Julius, I called on her so many times in dis hear close, dat I'se afeerd she will suspect my wardrobe am limited."

Too Thin.

"It is astonishing," remarked Sam Cooly at the breakfast table, "how extremes meet in this world."

"To what extremes do you refer, Mr. Cooly?" asked the landlady, who was pouring out the coffee.

"Well, you, for instance, are very stout, and the coffee is so very thin," and he stirred up the mixture and smiled in a sickly sort of way.

"It's not as thin as your excuse for not paying your board bill regularly."

Sam has not said coffee since.—Texas Siftings.

The Wrong Man.

Temperance Advocate—My young friend, let me counsel you to read this story of the shocking fate of a man in Brooklyn, who met a terrible death from delirium tremens. It would perhaps inspire you with a wholesome horror of the wine cup.

Young Man—Perhaps it mightn't though. You see, I'm a reporter on the Daily Fake, and I wrote that story myself—pure invention, every word of it.—Munsey's Weekly.

No Bread.

Antoinette de Bourbon, the mother of the Guises, had, in addition to her other fine qualities, great good sense. One example of the discipline to which she subjected the young Guises indicates that had there been more mothers like her in her class there would have been less of ruthless extravagance on the part of the royalty and nobility of France.

The young nobles were out hunting, and rode through fields which had been sown with corn. The duchess heard of it. That evening, according to the tradition preserved at Joinville, there was no bread on the supper table.

The princes at once asked for bread, astonished at such negligence in this well-ordered household.

"My children," replied Antoinette, "it is necessary to economize flour, since you have destroyed the future harvest."

Adding Insult to Injury.

While conversing with Miss Esmeralda Longcoffin, an old maid of Houston, Tex., she asked a young man in a bantering tone:

"How old do you really think I am?"

"About thirty," he replied.

"You are joking," said Miss Longcoffin, indignantly.

"Well," said the wretch, looking at her more critically, "you can't be much older than thirty-five or forty."—Texas Siftings.

Mr. Enpeck's Remonstrance.

"So," said Mrs. Enpeck, "Mr. Marrynuch is in jail at last. Serves him right for having one wife too many!"

"Oh, see here now!" Mr. E. ventured to remonstrate. "If that's to be made a test——"

"Well?" very severely.

ELLA DIETZ CLYMER.

Actress, Poet and Advocate of Woman's Privileges.

A Lady Who Attracts Considerable Attention—Her Personality and Popularity—The Secrets of Her Success—An Advanced Thinker.

In the ranks of advanced woman thinkers and reformers, there is no personality that better represents the highest type of the popular woman of the day than that of Ella Dietz Clymer—actress, poet, philanthropist, advocate of woman's privileges and rights, and withal a womanly woman in dress and deportment.

In appearance, says the New York Sun, Mrs. Clymer has a beauty which picturesque quaintness of attire enhances. Wonderfully expressive brown eyes look out from beneath a low brow, on which fair wavy hair rests lightly. In the soft, dull lavender and gray gown she affects, with the silver chatelaine at the waist and lace at the wrists, she looks as if she might have stepped from some antique canvas.

In personality she has the dignity and graciousness of the grande dames of the old regime. Never excited, irritated or aggressive, never raising the tone of the clear voice that rings through the shrill chatter of women's gatherings, she forms a happy contrast to the pronounce dictatorial type so common among the leaders of the woman movement. She is said to be the best parliamentarian of her sex, and those who have seen her marshaling the excited factions of Sorosis in array understand how she has earned her title of honor.

One of the secrets of Mrs. Clymer's success as a reformer is perhaps that, unlike her prototypes, she does not affect the brusqueness of masculinity demanding consideration and attention, but rather, with the sweet persuasiveness of woman, appeals most potently to her hearers. Her first efforts in this direction were devoted to the uplifting of the dramatic profession, which she embraced with success until delicacy of constitution prevented her from fulfilling its exactions. According to her theories the stage should be subsidized by the government and made available to the masses, to whom it must stand in the relation of teacher of ethics rather than as an amusement, and the calling of the actor should be considered as second to that of the priest. Religion should espouse the cause of the stage and make it an important ally in the salvation of the people from intemperance and vice. Only a woman could have dreamed anything so poetical. As Pauline, Rosalind, Juliet and Marguerite she was successful in her poetical and imaginative characterizations, and when failing strength made acting impossible she turned her attention to writing. Her books were all published in London during her residence abroad, and are not as well known here as among English critics. Among the most important are "The Triumph of Love," "The Triumph of Time" and "The Triumph of Life."

Mrs. Clymer's club life began with the inception of Sorosis, of whose first executive committee she and Phœbe Cary were members, in whose incorporation she was instrumental. She has been ever an active and capable member of the club, was its president for two years, and is now the vice president. Very rarely does anyone hear from her any of the radical doctrines promulgated by the aggressive arguers for woman's equality, but when some one said to her not long ago: "You are not one of those masculine reformers, I hope," she answered very decidedly but smilingly:

"I am a reformer to some extent, though I hope that in consequence I have not ceased to be womanly. My life has chiefly been devoted to literary and artistic pursuits, but I sympathize very strongly with some of the reform movements. I have always believed since I have been old enough to think that woman should take her share of responsibility in helping govern her country, and I think woman's broadening sphere of usefulness to-day is the result of the agitation caused by the noble pioneer women who claimed the right of every woman to help frame the laws under which she lives. I cannot see how this country can ever attain the standard which our forefathers raised up for us unless woman's influence shall be brought to bear in some way upon the political life of the nation. I think, for man's sake as well as her own, woman needs to be recognized as part of the organized force in political life. My temperament being artistic, my active energies have been expended in the direction of art and literature; but I love my country too well not to think of many problems that are to-day affecting its welfare, and I hold decided opinions as to most of them."

A Curious Calculation.

One concern at Waterville, Me., made 18,000,000 yards of cotton goods last year, and a Maine newspaper figures that the cloth would make a tent that would cover 370 acres and hold all the people of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts comfortably seated, with a ring of 168 acres in the center. In that ring the 84,000 horses of Maine could be exhibited at one time without crowding.

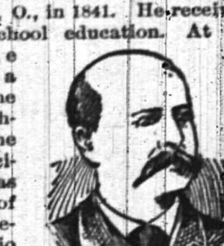
THE SEAL QUESTION.

Prof. Merriam and Prof. Mendenhall, Commissioners for Uncle Sam.

In order that the government may be fully prepared with all necessary technical information respecting the actual state of the Behring sea seal fisheries in the probable event of early arbitration of the United States' rights in those waters, the president has decided to send two agents to Alaska to gather the necessary information. He has had under consideration for some time the names of Prof. Mendenhall, chief of the coast and geodetic survey, and Prof. C. H. Merriam, ornithologist of the department of agriculture, and has at last named them. This mission will be similar to that with which Sir Baden-Powell is charged on behalf of the British government, and if Prof. Merriam accepts the place he will be instructed to leave for Alaska at once with Prof. Mendenhall, who has already accepted.

PROF. C. H. MERRIAM.

Prof. Mendenhall was born near Hanovertown, O., in 1841. He received a common school education. At an early age he developed a fondness for the study of mathematics and the natural sciences. He was professor of physics and mechanics in Ohio university from 1873 to 1878. Later he went to Japan as professor of physics in the Imperial university at Tokio. During his stay he organized the general meteorological system of the Imperial government, and he was also one of the organizers of the Seismological society of Tokio. In 1881 he returned to the United States and resumed the chair of the Ohio State university. He organized the Ohio State weather bureau service in 1882, and subsequently devised a system of weather signals for display on railroad trains. Mr. Mendenhall became a professor in the United States signal service in 1884, and established stations in the United States for the systematic observation of earthquake phenomena. He resigned from the government service to accept the presidency of the Rose polytechnic institute of Terre Haute, Ind. Besides membership in other scientific societies, Prof. Mendenhall has held the office of vice president of the physical section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and president of the National Academy of Sciences.



PROF. MENDENHALL.

IN PRISON FOR LIFE.

Turkey's Deposed Ruler Immured in a Bosporus Palace.

It is not generally known that a tragic drama equal to that of "The Man in the Iron Mask," a supposed pretender to the throne of France, has been played in the present day and generation on the banks of the Bosporus, which, although the victim is known, unlike the unfortunate Frenchman, is strangely similar in its leading features and in the sternly tragic situation of the hero.

Since the present sultan of Turkey, Abdul-Hamid, mounted the throne, sixteen years ago, his elder brother and predecessor, Mourad, has been immured, as a state prisoner, at Cheragan, a palace on the Bosporus, near the splendid palace of Dolma Bagtche, which is devoted to the reception and entertainment of foreign embassadors and princes visiting Constantinople. During all this time, writes E. de Leon in the New York Advertiser, Mourad's nearest and dearest friends have not been permitted to see or correspond with him or have the certainty whether he be living or dead. No boat or caique is ever allowed to approach near the bank on which the palace-prison is situated, and both by land and water the entrances and garden walls are jealously guarded. Neither is his face or figure ever seen at any of the windows of the palace wherein he has been buried alive for all these long years—if he survived his imprisonment.

EX-SULTAN MOURAD.

The portrait which accompanies this sketch was obtained accidentally at Constantinople some years ago. Every memorial of the lost man is forbidden circulation there. It was taken before his accession to the throne, while heir apparent, for every sultan, according to usage and etiquette, must wear his full beard.

Then All Europe Will Freeze.

It appears that about 17,000,000 tons of coal per year is the amount yielded by the chief coal districts of Great Britain—New Castle, South Wales and the Clyde country—and, assuming this to represent the average consumption for many years to come, it is estimated that the British mines will be exhausted in less than 600 to 800 years. It is further calculated that, drawing upon only one of her fields, the Westphalian, Germany will not exhaust that before the end of the twenty-seventh century, but that by the beginning of year 3000 the big coal fields of Bavaria and the Aachen and the Silesian districts will also be entirely used up. What will Europe do for fuel then? Fall back on the timber supply, of course. But the timber will also be a thing of the past. At the rate the woodman is now denuding the face of Europe, the twenty-fifth century will find a fuel tree a rarity. The black forest, the chief timber region of Europe, has suffered more in the last ten years than it did in the 200 years preceding. What is to be the fate of the last European? Will he freeze?

BOOMING THE FAIR

Members of the English Royal Family Coming.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR'S PLANS.

If Europe be at Peace He Will See Chicago in 1893.

Keen Interest Taken in London in the Great Exhibition—The Lord Mayor May Inspect the Site This Year—Commissioner Peck Starts for Stockholm To-Day—He Was Well Received in Copenhagen.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—If the presence of royal persons can boom the World's Fair in Chicago, its success now seems to be assured. It is certain that several members of the English royal family are showing such an interest in the progress of the preparations as indicates an intention on their part to visit the Fair. Communications have reached London from Berlin which leave little doubt that, if Europe be at peace at the time of the Fair, the German Emperor will take the greatest voyage of his life to see America.

The keen interest taken in London in the Fair renders it probable that an invitation from the Mayor of Chicago to the Lord Mayor of London, asking him to inspect the site and preparations for the Fair this year, would be accepted.

The question is discussed among the members of the London Common Council whether the Lord Mayor could take a protracted leave of absence from office to go in state to America. Precedents support the proposal, so that it is probable the Lord Mayor will see Chicago.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 8.—Mr. F. W. Peck of the Foreign Committee of the Chicago Columbian Exhibition arrived in this city yesterday. He was met by the Hon. Clark F. Carr, the United States Minister, Mr. Michelsen, president of the Industrial Association, and by several gentlemen engaged in in manufacturing industries in Denmark. Mr. Peck's stay in this city will be short, as he starts for Stockholm to-day. He is making the most of the short time at his disposal, however, and is explaining as fully as possible the benefits that will accrue to Danish exhibitors at the World's Fair.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

Vermont's Citizens Preparing Royal Receptions for the Chief Magistrate.

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 8.—President Harrison's tour through this State promises to be marked with a succession of public demonstrations from the time of entrance to his departure.

As now made up the itenary contemplates the President's leaving Saratoga, N. Y., by special train on Tuesday, Aug. 25, arriving at Rutland at 11:30 a. m. A stop of half an hour will be made at this station when the President will leave for Burlington, which place he will reach at 2:30 p. m. At Burlington the President will be the guest of Senator Edmunds and will remain about two hours.

The train will reach St. Albans at 5:15. At this place President Harrison will remain over night as the guest of Gov. Smith. At 7:30 on Wednesday the President will leave St. Albans for Rouse's Point, N. Y., and take a trip on the steam yacht Alfreda, as the guest of Dr. William Seward Webb.

It is expected that the party will make the trip of Lake Champlain in a little more than two hours, arriving at Burlington at 11:40, where a special train will be in waiting, which will take the party to Montpelier, arriving there at 1:15 p. m.

The President will inspect the State House and hold a reception if the Legislature is then in session. He is expected to leave the capital at 3:30 p. m., reaching St. Johnsbury at 5 p. m., where he will be the guest of Col. Franklin Fairbanks over night.

Thursday morning the President and party will leave for White River Junction. The President will attend the meeting of the Vermont Road and Horse-Breeders' Association in the afternoon and will leave for Bellows Falls at 2:30, where a stop of 15 minutes will be made, when the train will proceed to Proctor, which place will be reached at 6:30 p. m. The President will be the guest of Secretary Proctor at Proctor for a day or two.

The trains on which the President will travel will make short stops at all important intermediate points along the various routes.

Chief Arthur Trying to Settle.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—P. M. Arthur, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, arrived at the Grand Pacific Hotel from Cleveland last night. The Brotherhood engineers on the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago Railroad have had trouble with the management and Mr. Arthur is here to straighten out matters if possible. The dispute arises over the construction the management puts on a certain clause of an agreement made last March.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

MANY PILGRIMS EXPECTED.

Protestants as Well as Catholics to See the Holy Coat of Treves.

TREVES, Aug. 8.—The Catholic world is manifesting marked interest regarding the exhibition of the Holy Coat—said to be the seamless coat worn by the Saviour, which is to take place in the old cathedral of St. Peter and St. Helen in this city. Protestants also manifest much curiosity in the proposed exhibition, and it is probable that many thousands of people will come to this city from all quarters of the globe.

The railroads have completed such arrangements as will enable them to carry vast numbers, and the general preparations are on a scale commensurate with the importance of the occasion.

Not many pilgrims have as yet arrived, but as the ceremony of the exposition of the sacred garment does not occur until Aug. 20, this is in no way remarkable.

Those who have arrived, and are actively engaged in securing comfortable quarters, are looked upon as merely the advance guard of a multitude who will tax the uttermost resources of the city to provide for their entertainment.

CORNERING WHEAT.

The Kansas Alliance Claims to Have Completed the Arrangements.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 8.—J. B. French, secretary of the Kansas State Farmers' Alliance, states that the business branch of the Alliance has completed arrangements by which it will handle three-quarters of the Kansas wheat crop of 50,000,000 bushels.

Arrangements have been made to store at least half of the crop in the big elevators in Kansas City, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Baltimore and other large cities for an indefinite period, or until the owners desire to sell.

Arrangements have been made in the East to secure an advance on the wheat stored 75 per cent. of the present value of wheat. This new move by the Alliance practically corners the Kansas crop.

BOBBIES MYSTIFIED.

They Claim that the Latest Whitechapel Victim Committed Suicide.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The police insist on a theory of suicide in the case of the old woman Woolfe found dying from horrible wounds that suggested the work of Jack the Ripper.

The police have found that the woman was insured for $150, for the benefit of her son, and they allege that she probably cut herself with a razor in order to give the impression of a Ripper murder, and to secure the insurance to her son, she being aged and feeble, and with no interest in life.

Physicians, however, say that it was impossible for the woman herself to have inflicted the wounds, and some critics aver that the police are hopeless of catching the murderer, and wish to dismiss the crime as self-perpetrated.

Robbery and Murder Suspected.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Coroner Rice, of Ulster County, is trying to clear up the mystery surrounding the finding in the river of the body of a woman about 55 years old, well dressed and denoting comfortable circumstances in life. There was nothing on the body to show the woman's identity. An autopsy was held which showed that the woman was dead before she touched the water, and it is suspected that she was robbed and murdered on one of the night boats and her body thrown into the river.

Tried to Swindle Ex-Senator Fair.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Bayard Saville was arrested yesterday on complaint of ex-Senator James G. Fair, charged with obtaining money under false pretences. He presented a letter of introduction purporting to be from ex-Senator Bayard of Wilmington, Del., and induced Senator Fair to indorse a draft of $500. It now transpires that the letter was a forgery and that Saville had no money in the bank. He claims to have studied law with Secretary Bayard.

Smuggled Chinamen Must Go Back.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 8.—United States Commissioner Hirschbeck decided in the case of the smuggled Chinamen, Wo Sing Lee and Jew Fan, that they must be conducted to the Collector of the port of San Francisco and by him sent to the Empire of China. There are five other Chinamen in custody charged with unlawful entry.

Pork Packers Threaten to Move.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The packers in the stockyards, outside of Morris, Armour and Swift, have obtained an option on lands at Hickney, and threaten to move unless the Stock Yards Company of Chicago give them some of the benefits of the concessions granted to the Big Three.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—The Spandau powder works are running day and night to fill the orders for ammunition.

TWO GIRLS RESCUED

They Were Carried Away by a Band of Indians.

TWELVE YEARS IN CAPTIVITY

Remarkable Experience of a Massachusetts Family in the West.

Their Little Home Burned by Savages—The Parents Tied to Trees and Left to Perish—Rescued by Cowboys and Taken to Camp—A Stranger Sends Word Where to Find the Captive Children.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 8.—Caleb Page arrived in town yesterday from Dakota with his two daughters, having recovered them from a band of Indians in whose custody they have been twelve years.

He moved to Dakota in 1870 with his young bride, who was Miss Clara Baker, of Roxbury. Everything prospered and the Indians were friendly.

One day a caravan passing through the settlement fired upon the Indians, who the next day returned with their war paint on. Page's little home was burned to the ground, and he, his wife and their two children were made captives.

Page was bound to a tree. His wife was taken with hysteria and died before his eyes. The children were carried away and he was left to perish.

The second day some cowboys saw him. They cut the rawhide which bound him and he went with them. A few days' travel brought them to a mining camp, where there were traces of civilization.

There he joined a prospecting band. They were fortunate at every turn. In a few years he had amassed a fortune.

Finally he returned to Boston. Here he found his father-in-law had received the following letter:

FORT GARLAND INDIAN RESERVATION, August 6, 1883.

MR. BARKER—I have just returned from the Indian settlement of the Ursacs. While there I saw two beautiful white girls. They informed me that their father and mother had been put to death by the Utes, and their grandparents bore your name and lived in Roxbury, Mass. CHARLES PENCKNEY.

The case was then put in the hands of the Washington authorities and Mr. Page soon received the necessary papers. He went to Fort Brown, then, with guides and an interpreter, he visited the reservation near Fort Garland, where he regained possession of his children.

KING HUMBERT FIRM.

He Refuses to Make Any Surrender to the Vatican.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—A Rome dispatch says that the Italian Cabinet was sounded by the French ambassador to the Vatican on the subject of a possible settlement of the trouble with the Papacy by extending the limit of Papal jurisdiction over the city of Rome, Italy to have rights of a general nature that might be requisite to protect the welfare of the Kingdom.

When the matter was submitted to King Humbert he declined to give it even a moment's consideration, and declared that Rome would forever remain the capital of united Italy, that he would as soon think of surrendering his crown as of recognizing any other authority in Rome, and that however much it pains him to be under the ban of the head of the Catholic Church, it was farthest from his mind to surrender one iota of what had been won by so much sacrifice and suffering by the Italian people.

The French ambassador took back the answer to the Vatican, where there was much chagrin, as it appears to have been supposed that the King was in a frame of mind less uncompromising than formerly.

Miss Willard on Dress Reform.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Miss Frances E. Willard, who is in this city, explains her position in regard to the recent interview on dress reform. She says it is a mistake to say that the W. C. T. U. as a body, or herself as an individual, has ever indorsed in the most distant manner the discarding of skirts on the part of the gentler portion of the common race. "We are, however," she said, "practically unanimous in the opinion that skirts that clear the ground are the only kind appropriate to the street, and purpose as White Ribboners to do what we can to institute a reform in the present style of street cleaning on the part of fashionable women."

Out for Blaine.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.—The Commercial-Gazette, the leading Republican organ of Pennsylvania outside of Philadelphia, publishes a double leaded editorial declaring for Blaine for President in 1892. It says that he will be nominated by acclamation, and that men in the party who once distrusted and opposed him are now his supporters.

An American Student Drowned.

ROME, Aug. 8.—Mr. Dussing, a resident of St. Louis, who was a student at one of the ecclesiastical colleges in this city, has been drowned at Portouzio, a village lying a short distance from Rome.

SHOT DOWN IN THE STREET.

Cowardly Assassination of a Young Woman in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 8.—About 8 o'clock last night Joseph J. Levi, recently employed by the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad, shot and almost instantly killed Ida Kipp just as she was entering the gate of a Fifth street beer garden with a gentleman friend. Levi had been paying attention to the girl for some time, and was jealous of her. He saw the couple walking together on the street and followed them for several blocks.

Just as they reached the beer garden he stepped up and drew a revolver from his pocket and fired four shots at her, one taking effect in the head and another through the left hand. He then placed the weapon to his own head and pulled the trigger, but it missed fire.

Ida Kipp was a handsome girl about 19 years of age. Her father keeps a blacksmith and wagon shop at 423 Second street, and lives at 26 Anderson street. The murdered girl, after being wounded, was taken to the city hospital, but died soon after reaching there.

GEN. PALMER'S RECEPTION.

The Grand Army Chief to be Welcomed Home by Gov. Hill.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The joint committee of arrangements of the Grand Army posts in this vicinity completed a programme for the reception of Commander-in-Chief Gen. Palmer on his arrival Monday. The commanders of the several posts will meet Mr. Palmer at Schenectady. All the posts in this vicinity will be in line and the citizens will be invited to join.

Cannon will be fired, fireworks discharged and colored fires burned. The reception will take place in Bleeker Hall.

Governor Hill will welcome Commander Palmer on behalf of the State, Mayor Manning on behalf of the city and Past Commander William Blasle, of Post 5, on behalf of the Grand Army. It will be a grand event.

NOT THE STRANGLER.

Martin Phillips Was Not the Murderer of the Glendale Victim.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 8.—The young man Martin Phillips, who was arrested on suspicion of being the murderer of Hannah Robertson, who was found choked to death at Glendale, L. I., last Sunday, was discharged from custody, he having satisfactorily proved his whereabouts at the time when the murder is supposed to have been committed.

It is said that in Hannah's trunk were found photographs and letters from three different men. One of these men is said to be named Wallace, and it is alleged that he has been in the habit of meeting Hannah in various places. The police are looking for him.

The detectives are still searching for Charles R. Weber, the queer little German who falsely identified the body on Monday, and who led the detectives such a merry chase down into Connecticut. It is now suspected that Weber's name is Edward M. Baldwin, and that he lives either in New Haven or Westville, Conn. Officers have gone to Connecticut again to hunt him up.

Cleveland Democracy Manifesto.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The committee of 15 recently appointed by the Cleveland Democracy to define a course of action to be pursued with regard to the rules adopted by their fellow Democrats, have issued a manifesto to the Democratic electors of this city urging the overthrow of bossism as expressed in the obnoxious rules and to oppose them until their abrogation. Briefly the Cleveland Democracy will knife all candidates nominated under the rules.

Excitement in Corona.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The effigy of William F. O'Neill, which hung over the street at Corona, L. I., has been taken down by the chief of the fire department. Late last night Corona was in expectation of another fight before morning. There is talk of putting up effigies of both O'Neills and the woman they brought there. All the constables and deputy sheriff of Newtown are in Corona, to preserve the peace.

A Broker Kills Himself.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Norman Campbell, aged 58, a broker having an office in the Consolidated Exchange and Petroleum Exchange in this city, committed suicide in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, last evening, by shooting himself in the head. He had become despondent over business troubles. He had but fifteen cents in his pockets.

Murphy Won the Pigeon Match.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 8.—A pigeon match at Hollywood took place between J. Edgar Murphy of New York and Philip Daly, Jr., of Long Branch. Murphy won the match, killing 94 birds to Daly's 73. The boundary was 21 yards and rise 28. There was a very large attendance.

James Russell Lowell Seriously Ill.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The condition of Hon. James Russell Lowell, who has been confined to his house for the last three weeks, is unchanged. His trouble appears to be seated in the liver, though the doctor attending him gives it no name. His condition is regarded as serious.

Accused His Brother of Murder.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 8.—Adelbert Geohan, awaiting at Fergus Falls the day of his execution for the murder of Rose Bray, has made a statement that his brother, Anderson Geohan, did the killing and that he saw it. Anderson Geohan has been arrested.

Another Murder Mystery.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 8.—The body of a man named Stalker was found in the river here. There was a bullet wound in the head. An investigation will be made.

The Author of the White House Cook-Book

Says: "I have used baking powders for many years, and tried all kinds that have appeared in the market, but find Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder surpasses all others."

"By practical tests in the kitchen, Cleveland's Baking Powder is the most economical, less being required for the same baking."

"It makes the finest grained and lightest breads and cake—other powders are apt to make a coarse-grained cake, as if the sugar were too coarse."

"Food made with Cleveland's Baking Powder retains its natural moisture and flavor, not drying out as when made with powders containing ammonia or alum."

"For these special qualities of excellence, I use only Cleveland's Baking Powder and recommend it to my friends."

Mrs. F. L. Gillette

LOST MONEY IN GAS

Bank President Schmertz in Financial Trouble.

HIS LIABILITIES OVER $200,000.

Deeply Interested in Ventures Which Proved Unsuccessful.

The Most Extensive Shoe Manufacturer in Pittsburg—It is Said His Banking House is All Right—He Was Classed Among the Leading Capitalists of the Smoky City.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.—The announcement of the financial embarrassment of William E. Schmertz, for many years president of the Third National Bank of this city, and the head of one of the largest shoe manufacturing companies in the country, was made last night. It created a sensation in financial circles.

The matter became public by the issuing of an execution against Mr. Schmertz at the instance of William Loeffler for $100,000. It was learned, however, that Mr. Schmertz had confessed judgments aggregating $333,000. The judgment on which the execution was issued was to protect the estate of the late R. C. Schmertz, for which W. E. Schmertz is the administrator.

The following judgments were also entered: E. W. Quimby, $58,248; W. G. Taylor, $30,480, and Emelia E. Schmertz, $54,390. Quimby is a brother-in-law.

Mr. Schmertz is confined to his bed at his residence in the East End, and the exact amount of the assets and liabilities could not be ascertained.

A son-in-law of Mr. Schmertz ventured the opinion that assets amounting to about $600,000 could be readily realized upon, but could not give any idea as to what the liabilities would be or who the creditors are. He claims to have known nothing of the business affairs of Mr. Schmertz, but thinks that there will be enough left to fully pay off the liabilities.

Mr. Schmertz is interested in numerous financial concerns, and has been classed among the leading capitalists of this city. It is said that his financial embarrassment was brought about by his indorsing paper for a friend who was deeply interested in ventures which proved unsuccessful.

Mr. Schmertz is also a heavy stockholder in the Chartiers Natural Gas Company, and it is said he has sunk a large amount of money with others in endeavoring to pull the company through its recent financial troubles.

Directors of the Third National Bank say Mr. Schmertz yesterday resigned office, and that Charles F. Wells has been elected to fill that position. They claim the bank will not be affected by Mr. Schmertz's assignment.

Mr. Schmertz was president of the Third National Bank of this city, president of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the National Bankers' Executive Committee. His credit was rated as high, with from $300,000 to $500,000 capital.

Among outsiders his embarrassment was attributed to heavy decline in natural gas stocks and the failure of several shoe concerns in the East and here.

QUADRUPLE LYNCHING.

Four Prisoners Shot and Their Bodies Thrown in the River.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 8.—News has reached here of a quadruple lynching in Henry County, Ala. The residence of William Davis, a prominent farmer, was burned and the family narrowly escaped with their lives.

Ella Williams (colored) was arrested and confessed to saturating the house with oil and setting fire to it out of revenge. Her confession implicated William Williams, Willis Lowe and Eliza Lowe (all colored).

Yesterday they were arrested, and while the officers were taking them to jail at Abbeville a mob overpowered the officers and took the prisoners and shot them to death. Their bodies were thrown in the river nearby.

The Contractor Used Bad Stuff.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 8.—Work on the additional wing of the insane asylum on South Orange avenue has been stopped. Superintendent Conroy reports that the material used by the contractors, P. Vanderhof & Son, is unsatisfactory, and that they don't comply with his demands and the contract in general.

A RIVER'S COURSE CHANGED.

The Colorado Said to Have Been Shifted by an Earthquake.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 8.—A letter from Yuma, Ariz., says a report brought in by the Cocopah Indians states that the recent earthquake resulted in changing the course of the Colorado River.

It left its old bed, and now flows through a crevasse forty feet wide and a thousand feet long. The report is not generally believed.

The Duelists Buried.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 8.—Thomas Long and John Estus, the two men who fought a duel in the northern part of this county on election day, died of their wounds within two hours of each other. They were buried yesterday in the same graveyard and at the same hour.

Our Mary Writing a Book.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—News comes from England to the effect that Miss Mary Anderson, or Mrs. de Navarro, is writing a book recording her own early experiences in the theatrical world. It is said that an English publisher made her a very tempting offer.

Held for Murder.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 8.—H. V. Wimbrow, mate of the schooner Hester A. Walters, of Norfolk, Va., was arraigned in the police court here charged with the murder of Henry Shepard, a colored member of his crew, and held for trial.

THE DAILY PRESS:

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Borough Council had no quorum last evening, and will meet Monday night instead.

—There will be no Sunday evening services in Dr. Ketcham's church during the present month.

—A regular meeting of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, will be held next Monday evening.

—VanEmburgh & White call special attention to the great bargains they are offering in blazers for ladies.

—Jonathan Steward, Trenton, N. J., says: "A new tin roof on the Trenton Banking company's building was painted with Dixon's Graphite Paint, and it was fifteen years before repainting was necessary."

—W. E. Johnson, president of the Emancipation Day celebration, requests THE PRESS to announce that his entire people extend a hearty and sincere vote of thanks to all who assisted in the success of the affair.

—St. Mary's T. A. B. association will conduct an excursion to Asbury Park next week Wednesday. The train will leave Plainfield at 8 a. m. This is the first excursion the society has ever run to that popular resort. It will undoubtedly be liberally patronized.

—Two 16-year-old girls have disputed their mother's right to spank them for irregularities. One lives in Brooklyn, and the other in Burlington, New Jersey. The Jersey girl took poison because the punishment preyed upon her mind, while the Brooklyn girl left home after the imaginary trespass on her dignity. The question arises, When does the mother's right to spank her daughter cease?

—The Flemington Democrat-Advertiser says of the recent base-ball game of the Plainfield Bicycle Club in that place: "A much finer and more friendly game has not as yet been played upon our grounds this season. And we must say of the members who compose the Plainfield club that a more gentlemanly set of fellows have not come to this place in some time. Our boys will go to Plainfield some time in the near future."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. H. Pollion are at Carleton House, Spring Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver, and son, Charlie, will spend Sunday at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Sarah Green, of 152 Park avenue, has gone to Corning, N. Y., for the month of August.

Miss Byrdie A. Randolph has sailed on the steamship City of New York, for an extended visit to Europe.

Bishop John F. Hurst will preach in the Methodist Episcopal church, to-morrow, at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

Ex-Mayor John H. VanWinkle, his wife and his son, John H., jr., left to-day for a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

T. H. Bartindale and family are enjoying the cool ocean breezes at Cape Cottage, Cape Elizabeth, Maine, for a time.

The Rev. R. B. Montgomery, pastor of the Green Avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, will preach both morning and evening of to-morrow in Dr. Yerkes's church.

A Norwich paper says: "Manager T. H. Keller of the Crescent base-ball nine is a journalist of some repute. He is a regular correspondent of the New York Illustrated News and Forest and Stream. He will represent the latter papers at the four days' shoot of the fourth annual tournament of the Standard Keystone Target company on the grounds of the New London gun club next week."

Eminent Sir William H. Sebring, together with I. D. TenEyck, John Chandler, B. F. Coriell, W. L. Force, Henry Woodland, and H. S. Mason, all of Trinity Commandery, this city, were guests of St. John's Commandery, Elizabeth, Thursday evening, at the initiation of two candidates into the Red Cross degree, at Masonic Hall, Roselle. After the initiation the guests were entertained at a banquet at VanCourt Inn.

...for a Plainfield Femininity.

...n have to do is to let out ...d sew the Louis-Some... the waist, and no one will ...that your gown was not made ...—said an energetic woman to ...nger one by her side.

"But I don't want people to know that all my clothes were made this spring"—returned the other, obstinately.—"As for encouraging the supposition that I never had any clothes until this year, I think it most undesirable. I would rather let people see that I have been accustomed in the past to well-made gowns than have them think that I have either been too poor hitherto to afford them, or too untidy to keep them for more than a season. It is heresy, I know, but I enjoy wearing a pretty frock which shows that it began life at least one or two seasons ago."—Kate Field's Washington.

The gormandizer likes it because it is fine. The workman likes it because it quenches his thirst, enriches his blood, and strengthens his muscle. It is cheap. The mother likes it. It keeps her boys at home. The women of America like it, because it takes the place of intoxication. This Hires's Root Beer.

TWO SINGULAR ACCIDENTS.

A Fall of Four Feet Proves Fatal, While One of Forty Results in Little Injury.

Mary Wagner, who was paralyzed by falling a distance of four feet, from a cherry tree, at Dunellen, July 7, died at the Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. She was about fifty years of age, and had long been an esteemed resident of Dunellen, where for years she was companion to Mrs. Whitenack. Funeral services will be held at the Dunellen Presbyterian church to-morrow afternoon at 3:30.

James Leonard, a mason, had a terrible fall, but miraculously escaped serious injury, yesterday afternoon. The scaffolding on which he was working, on the new Grace church building, was forty feet above the ground. A portion of it gave way, and he fell headlong on a heap of building stone. He was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital, where his injuries were found to be a dislocated wrist and a number of bad bruises. But no bones were broken, and he will soon be at work again.

Half a County to be Sold.

A syndicate of the wealthiest New York speculators, in conjunction with English capitalists, have been trying to purchase the Colwell lands, and the deal still hangs fire. Chas. R. Colwell, the owner of these lands, which cover nearly one-half of Atlantic county, N. J., has been in this city negotiating with this syndicate, and it is said that the purchase is about to be made.

This will be the largest purchase of land ever made in New Jersey. If the land is sold it means the starting of the three large paper mills at Whymouth which have been idle for several years.

If the syndicate succeed in purchasing the land they will immediately begin the erection of factories of many kinds which will give employment to many thousands of people.

Since the articles of agreement between Mr. Colwell and the syndicate were filed in the County Clerk's office in May's Landing about three months ago work has been rapidly pushed to get the property in shape to sell. Mr. Colwell has spent all of his time in this city conferring with the capitalists, but no satisfactory settlement could be arrived at until within the past few days.

A large party of capitalists and business men who intend investing in the project, made a thorough inspection of the property, which consists of about one hundred thousand acres of woodland, three large paper mills, one hundred tenement houses, five farms and the best water power in South Jersey. It is said that it will take nearly a year to get the property in fit shape for the transfer, owing to the complicated condition of the title.

The entire property will be included in the sale, reserving only the handsome residence of Mr. Colwell in Whymouth. A prominent real-estate dealer of this city is authority for the statement that the deal has been closed, and that the transfer of the property will take place soon. The consideration is known to be over a million dollars.

A Feminine Mosquito Fiend.

Two quarts of dead mosquitoes were sent to the New York Sun last Friday. This quantity of game was "bagged" by Anna McPeek, of Jersey City, although the time of action is not stated. The Sun says that the pile looked like a cross between caraway seeds and raisins. The gamestress sent a lengthy writing with this present, saying that she had lived in Jersey ten years and had become an expert mosquito hunter. She added: "We are all trained to defend ourselves. We all have been wounded many times, and our blood has flowed freely as we stood in defence of self and home." This miss insists that she has become quite an athlete in her line. It thus appears that the little hummer has performed one good office, the development of muscle in a young lady, and she has robust health as a result. "Training prolongs life,"—says an old sport—"and sparring is a good tonic." Miss McPeek exultingly exclaims: "They teach me to turn double back-action somersaults and to get up in pugilistic style." As an evidence of the endurance of the strongest she says: "We have still enough mosquitoes here to interest the family till winter." Miss McPeek's address is 34 Waverly street, where active mosquitoes may be sent for training purposes; but as Plainfield has n't any of the festive birds she need n't look anywhere this side of Westfield for samples.

Plainfield's Population Not Dependent on a Pitcher's Presence.

[From The Somerville Democrat.]

Harkins will not leave Somerville. Surely not as long as the West Ends have a game with the Crescents. He can get more glory and sweet revenge by winning games from the Crescents than in any other way. It is true that Harkins has organized a team in New Brunswick, and Doc Kennedy is to catch him, but they are to play mid-week games, so they will in no wise interfere with our playing and defeating the nine of the Crescent City every time we play with them. In answer to the Press, which says: "If Somerville lost Harkins the town would probably close up and the people move away," we would like to ask, How many people would leave Plainfield if they were to lose their whole team? We also, in the same breath, answer it by saying, Not many!

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Hall, Biddeford, Me.

MOVING DAY AT CAMP DUPEE.

(SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.)

MERWIN'S POINT, Conn., Aug. 7.—To-day was quietly spent by Holy Cross choir at Camp Dupee, and although thoroughly enjoyed it was marred by the thought that the camp must be broken to-morrow, when at noon the colors and tents will be struck and the party move on to New Haven, thence to Naugatuck, where they are to sing Sunday.

More People Traveling, But Fewer Trunks.

Baggage-master Jeremiah F. Garretson says that the number of people who have gone out of town this season far exceeds the number that went during the same period last year. The amount of baggage, however, has been far less. Each person has been content to take fewer trunks. The cause of the curtailing of baggage is the introduction of excess rates, which compel all over a certain amount to be paid for liberally. Some people not being aware of the new rule found, much to their surprise, that the expense of transporting their numerous trunks was more than their own car fare. One family who last year took fourteen trunks away with them got all their baggage into three this year. The excess rates are hard on the ladies, for condensation of baggage means curtailment of room for fine dresses.

The number of pieces of baggage coming into town during May, June and July of this year was 200 less than came in during the same quarter of 1890.

Whistles Instead of Bell Ropes.

At the Dover car shops last Saturday two cars were equipped with air whistles, which will enable the train men to signal the engineer in his cab without the aid of the bell rope. The whistle in the cab is sounded by means of a rubber tube under the cars, and is claimed to be quicker, safer, and better than the bell rope system of signals. The connections of the tubes are made in the same way as those of the air brake. Some cars have now four different connections of this kind—for air brakes, whistling tubes, steam heat and illuminating gas—and the amount of machinery on the bottoms of passenger coaches is being constantly increased. Another car at the Dover shops was fitted up with a gas tank a few days ago.

Great Head for Figure Work.

W. J. Leonard of this city is editing the Elizabeth Journal while editor McBride is away on his vacation. His leading editorial equib yesterday was the following "most unkindest cut":

"The Plainfield correspondent of the New York World, who estimated the number of negro visitors at yesterday's celebration to be seven thousand, would make a first-class superintendent of the circulation department of a New York newspaper."

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street Plainfield, N. J.

The Body of an Unknown Girl Found.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The body of an unknown girl was found in the river about half a mile below Lewiston during the morning. She is about 20 years old, and dark complexion. It is thought she was from Toronto. Two strangers have been arrested on suspicion of being connected with the affair.

A Well-Known Woman Dead.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 8.—Mrs. Sarah Osborne, wife of Rev. Elbert P. Osborn and mother of Rev. William B. Osborn, the founder of Ocean Grove, died in her cottage at that place yesterday, aged 86 years.

Death of Isaac Van Wart.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Isaac Van Wart, grandson of Isaac Van Wart of Revolutionary fame as one of the captors of Major John Andre, the British spy, died on his farm at Westchester, N. Y., aged 71 years.

A Murderer Respited.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.—John McManus, the Philadelphia murderer, was respited by the Governor until Oct. 29, to give him a chance to go before the Board of Pardons. The date for McManus' execution was the 20th of this month.

Mutrie Said to Have Signed Barr.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 8.—It is rumored here that James Mutrie has signed Barr, of the Buffalo Club, to pitch for the New Yorks. Barr is considered one of the best pitchers of the Eastern Association.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Ten prisoners, with a fine saw, escaped from the county jail at Lacrosse, Wis.

Philadelphia has taken the first step toward the formation of a naval reserve, in imitation of New York and Boston.

Gov. Buchanan, of Tennessee, issued a proclamation calling an extra session of the Legislature for August 31.

George Theodore von Moltke, nephew of the great German Field Marshal, was married at Tacoma, Wash., to Miss Jane Smith.

A clerk in the clothing store of Abraham & Co., at West Superior, Wis., hid a half smoked cigar from one of his employees in a pile of clothing. Loss, $40,000.

A man supposed to be Samuel Stevens, of Washington, D. C., was found wandering in the streets of Boston in a half dazed condition. He was sent to the hospital for treatment.

Appointments in the Navy.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 8.—The President has appointed F. M. Wise as lieutenant commander, Lovell E. Reynolds and James C. Gilmore as lieutenants and William A. Gill as lieutenant of the junior grade.

Bought by the Cordage Trust.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The National Cordage Company has purchased the Boston Cordage Company. This was the largest and strongest competitor of the trust.

Warden Brown's Storekeeper.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Warden William R. Brown, of Sing Sing State Prison, has appointed Gilbert R. Crissey, of Newburg, storekeeper of the institution. Crissey was deputy postmaster while Brown was postmaster here.

The Acme of Coolness.

"Please, sir, can't you give me an old coat?" asked a mendicant of a wealthy merchant. As the mendicant had formerly been the servant of the merchant, the latter said:

"Go over to the clothing store and pick yourself out a twelve-dollar suit, and I'll come and pay for it."

The mendicant did as he was told. Taking the clothing store man to one side, he said to him:

"That old duffer sent me over to pick out a suit of clothes. Now, I want you to let me have my commission, so I, too, will make something by this little trade."—Texas Siftings.

A Martyr to Principle.

Mr. Skinnphlint had been walking the floor with his hand on his jaw for about four hours.

"Why don't you have it pulled?" inquired his wife.

"Have it pulled!" he roared. "Martha Ann, that tooth cost me a two-dollar bill less than a year ago for filling. Reckon I'm going to throw that money away and half a dollar more on top of it? Not much! Ache away, gosh ding it! Ache away!"

And Mr. Skinnphlint resumed his walk.—Chicago Tribune.

QUITE LIKE.

"These very tight dresses the women wear remind me of that old theatrical sign."

"Which?"

"Standing Room Only."—Puck.

Valuable Experience.

"Have you an opening on your staff, sir?" asked a man as he entered an editor's office.

"What department would you like to work in?"

"I think I could make a great success of the 'Answers to Correspondents.'"

"Have you ever conducted such a department?"

"No, sir."

"Then on what do you base your belief that you could do that sort of work?"

"I have spent several months answering the questions of a four-year-old boy."

"I think you will do."—Harper's Bazar.

Two Strings to His Bow.

A musical man, accompanied by a hand organ and a child, has been giving performances for the past week in the streets of New York. After he had twisted one of the Beethoven soul-stirring symphonies out of the instrument of torture the artist sent the child among the crowd. A gentleman disgorged a nickel.

"I vants anoder nickel," lisped the child.

"What for?"

"Dot nickel you put dot cup in vas for de moosic, but mine fadder ish a professional pegger besides."—Texas Siftings.

OUR

"Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

EDSALL'S,

20 WEST FRONT STREET.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2 00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. BASE-BALL BLABBER.

Notes of Interest to Those Interested in the Crescent League's Team.

Bonner wears a chest-pad now. THE PRESS said he would before long or have a hole knocked through him. A Connecticut foul tip took him in the stomach the other day, and he could n't breathe for a few minutes. Then he put the pad on and has saved his life thereby.

A Norwich paper, Thursday, said: "At half-past one o'clock this afternoon Tubbs's band assembled in front of the Wauregan house, and after playing a selection, together with the Norwich and Crescent nines, boarded one of Manager Shaw's eight-seat horse cars and were driven to the West Side and return. At two o'clock the car started for the Greenville grounds. Manager Kellar will put in the field the same team as played here Tuesday, with Taylor in the box."

The ball cranks of Connecticut went wild over the playing of Lee, Bonner, Holly and Keeler of the Crescents. The last made a magnificent catch, Thursday, of a liner, four feet over his head, that was going through space like a cannon ball. Keeler jumped straight up in the air and caught it with his left hand.

The Norwich team has authorized Rare Tom Keller to arrange a series of games for them against the teams of Somerville, Westfield and Plainfield, to be played at those places within the next few weeks. The games here are sure to draw, while it is also sure that a large crowd of Plainfielders at least will attend the games in the other towns.

Cyclone Ryan, who pitched for the Norwich professionals last year, was THE PRESS's official scorer during the recent trip of the Crescent League's team through Connecticut.

It is more than ever apparent that the Crescents are as weak in the box this year as in those past. There are pitchers to be got, and the management are already throwing out hooks for them. One thing is certain—this year's experience will result in the Crescent League owning next year the finest semi-professional ball team in this or any other State.

Building Schemes for Ripleyville.

Three different manufacturing concerns are now negotiating for factory sites along the Jersey Central railway between Westfield and Cranford.

Dr. Ripley, who owns much of the land in that section fronting on the south side of the railway, has been approached by the principals, and he thinks satisfactory arrangements will be made with the companies.

The three proposed factories will employ 1,200, 800 and 400 hands respectively.

Negotiations are also in progress for the purchase of a factory site on the outskirts of the town. The people have been quite indifferent to the advantages of having factories built in the village, and many have opposed the idea, but now there appears to be a general feeling in favor of having factories come.

An interesting as well as a peculiar feature of the proposed location of factories in Westfield is the affect it will probably have on the interests of one or two churches of the town. For some time past the pastor and people of the Catholic church have desired to secure a more eligible site for their church, and they have been negotiating for a plot of ground on Ripley Hill, an eminence overlooking the town. Bishop Wigger has encouraged his people to take that step, but they have hesitated about taking the responsibility. But now that the factory project gives promise of becoming an actuality the pastor and his flock are stirred to renewed activity in the matter.

The Baptist church has also been looking for a site on Ripley Hill, as it has outgrown its present home on the north side, and the same causes that are enthusing the Catholics are reviving the enthusiasm of the Baptists.

The whole town is looking forward with interest to the action of the Baptist and Catholic churches, for the building of one or both of the churches on the hill would mark a new era in the development of the southside.

Powers Had to Fight for the Possession of His Own Property.

When Charles Hand took possession of the Crescent rink property, he claimed everything on the ground, no matter to whom it belonged. There was about a hundred dollars worth of flagging piled along the Fourth street side of the building that M. Powers, of Somerset street, had left there temporarily, being compelled to unload it from freight cars before he was ready to cart it over the brook.

Hand seized possession of this flagging in spite of Powers's protest, and laid a nice walk with it along Fourth street. Then Powers tore the sidewalk up and carted the flags away. Now, it is said, Hand will bring suit against Powers for the possession of Powers's own property.

WORKING ON THE SABBATH.

A Notable Sunday Labor Suit of Interest to Plainfield's Seventh-day Baptists.

[W. J. Leonard in The Elizabeth Journal.]

Like other States, Tennessee has a Sunday law which is designed to prohibit all forms of labor on the first day of the week. A violation of this law by a citizen named R. M. Kink, a member of the religious sect known as the Seventh-day Baptist Adventists, has been given large publicity by reason of the pertinacious fight made by the defence. Mr. King was tried and convicted on the charge of ploughing a field on Sunday.

The case was appealed to the Supreme Court, and the sentence was affirmed. Then the leaders of the denomination took a hand in the suit and engaged eminent counsel to carry the case to the Federal Court on a writ of habeas corpus, the contention being that Mr. King was held by the Sheriff contrary to the bill of rights of Tennessee and the Constitution of the United States. The application was argued several months ago, and the court has held it under advisement until a few days since, when a decision was rendered against the application. The Federal Court took the ground that it was not in its province to review the case, as the conviction was reached under due process of Tennessee law.

This decision has been widely circulated and has called fresh attention to the case. In commenting on it, the press has generally agreed that the conclusion of the court is in accordance with the common view of the constitution of the United States which grants to the State the largest liberty in dealing with its internal affairs.

In none of the discussions of the case that have come to our notice has there been any allusion to the provision of the Sunday law in many States, which exempts from their operation those religionists like Mr. King who observe the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath. About three-fourths of the States have modified their Sunday law in the interest of the class of Christians named. The provisions vary in the laws of different commonwealths, some being framed in a more liberal spirit than others.

New Jersey is one of the States where the Sunday law has the modification referred to. Here the Tennessee farmer could have ploughed his field on Sunday unmolested. It may be interesting to the reader to see what our State law says on the subject, and we here reproduce the section:

If any person, charged with having labored or worked on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, shall be brought before a justice of the peace to answer the information and charges thereof, and shall then and there prove, to the satisfaction of said justice, that he or she uniformly keeps the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath, and habitually abstains from following his or her usual occupation or business and from all recreation, and devotes the day to the exercise of religious worship, then such defendant shall be discharged, provided always that the work or labor for which such person is informed against, was done and performed in his or her dwellinghouse or workshop, or on his or her premises or plantation, and that such work or labor has not disturbed other persons in the observance of the first day of the week as the Sabbath; and provided also that nothing in this section contained shall be construed to allow any such person openly to expose for sale any goods, wares, merchandise, or other articles or thing whatsoever in the line of his or her business or occupation.

This exemption was secured through the efforts of the Seventh-day Baptists of New Jersey, who have several influential churches in the State, the most prominent being situated in Plainfield, where the membership includes some of the most substantial and most worthy people of the city. That such an order-loving and law-abiding class of citizens as they should have their religious convictions respected in the way that it has been done in this State, no broad mind will question.

It is said that the Tennessee case will not be abandoned, but will be carried to the United States Supreme Court. Whatever the result may be, it is time that Tennessee fell into line with New Jersey and the other States which have been able to break with the narrow spirit of the olden time.

A Comedian Who Has Added 7,083 Days to Men's Lives.

"The Tar and Tartar" has started on its fourth month at Palmer's Theatre, New York, and it 's no longer a question of how long the public want the opera, but of how many out of town dates Manager Askin can cancel in order to accept time open for him in New York. Some crank on statistics has sent in the following figures which at a first glance look stupendous but which are capable of verification.

In the 85 performances of the "Tar and Tartar", taking a low average, 102,000 people have gone into the theatre; allowing that Digby Bell has caused ten laughs to escape from each man, he has a record of 1,020,000 laughs to his credit; and, as the saying goes, every time a man laughs he adds ten minutes to his life. Digby Bell is a benefactor to his race to the extent of 10,000,000 minutes, or 170,000 hours, or 7,083 days, or 19 years 1 month 18 days.

"HER AIN COUNTRIE."

What Called the Lonely Scotch Lassie Home.

HE was just a little Scotch lassie. A timid, sweet-faced little creature, with an aureole of tawny hair to frame her shy face.

She had come to this country three years before. At her father's death she had been left alone save for an aunt, a good kind woman, who was a mother to the girl.

They were left almost penniless, dependent on their own exertions. Much was said of the employment to be found in America and the good wages paid. Lisette's aunt decided to come and try their fortunes in the strange country. "But what o' Kenneth?" the girl had asked. "I gae him a promise to wait for him till he comes hame for me, this Yuletide a year." "Leave yer address with some friend, Clyde Burgh wad be a gude one, and when he comes hame fer ye, he can come over the waters fer ye, or ye can come back to him. We must gae, lass, fer there's naught to do here."

So they came and found a home and employment in this country. The first year was a happy one to them. They were charmed with the novelty of it all, and though they worked hard they were making and saving money. And Lisette would be so glad to show it to her lover when he came for her. Over and over she planned her wedding outfit, day after day she dreamed of the little home that would be theirs, in their "ain countrie."

The weeks slipped happily by, but when the Christmas came and no Kenneth came over the waters, and the months slowly dragged away till the summertime had come and yet no lover, the happy smile faded. The cheeks lost their bloom, and the laughing eyes lost their light and were wistful now. Each morning's dawn brought whisperings of a hope that might be fulfilled, brought expectancy and yearning love. Each evening's sun set on the hopes and dreams and plans of a loving heart.

That fall the aunt sickened and died, leaving Lisette alone in the great, strange world. She had been a patient, loving nurse all through her aunt's long sickness and was heartbroken at her loss. People said sorrowfully that she would soon join her in their long home, she looked so white and languid. And she coughed some. They remembered that her aunt had said her father had died of consumption. They argued with her about working so hard, but she only shook her head decidedly. "I must," she said, "I am gaeing back to my ain countrie when I can save eno' to take me there." Her aunt's illness had used up all her little store. So she worked on, patiently, quietly, always talking of that home of hers, in the far away country; working, striving ever to reach it. They all loved the girl, these kind neighbors of hers, and it pained them to see her fading away from them. They helped her all she would permit them, but she was strangely independent, and liked best to be left alone the little while she had out of the mill.

It was one evening the autumn after her aunt's death, that she toiled home, weary and heartsick. The sun was just sinking its great red self behind the azure tipped clouds, smiling a good-night to the tired world. "Ye are sinking on all my hopes," the girl cried; "I has nae use to linger here, but I canna get back to my ain countrie."

"MAY I COME WITH YOU, LISETTE?"

"May I come with you Lisette?" a man called, coming to her side.

"Yes, Jack, I am glad to hae ye," she answered, smiling feebly.

"You are tired to-night, my girl; you work too hard, Lisette."

"No, I may be some tired to-night, but I shall be a' right to-morrow."

"I wish you would let an old friend help you, child; you want to go home, don't you?"

"To my ain countrie?"

"Yes, Lisette."

"Aye, that I do, Jack," she said, with glistening eyes, "I like ye all, ye hae been sa gude and kind to poor little me, and I like America, too, but it is na Scotland, and I long for a sight of the dear auld hame."

"Then let me help you go back to it. It will be awful to let you go, Lisette, but your heart is set on going and you ought to go; now I have more than enough to take you, and I wish with all my heart that you would take it and go; it would please me so."

"No, no," she said, flushing hotly, "I canna take yer hard earned money, Jack. It is gude and kind o' ye to offer it, but I canna take it."

"Not to please me, dear?"

"I would do much to please ye, but I canna do that, Jack."

"Then for your own sake, but most for mine, give me the chance to loan it to you; you could send it back to me whenever you wanted to," he pleaded.

"No, I am na strong. I might na be able to send it back to ye; so I will stay here and thank ye with all my heart for yer kindness."

"Then give me the right to take care of you, darling. You are so weak, and I am so strong. I know I am not your first love, you may not love me now—I know you do not—but I would try so hard to make you happy and to care a little for me; I love you so, Lisette."

"Oh, Jack," she moaned, "dinna ask it; I would na wound yer gude, kind heart, but I am promised to another, and I canna think of it."

"I know it," he said, huskily. "I have known it all along, but he has been so long coming to you, and you need some one to care for you, and I—oh, Lisette, it would have made me so happy to have done it."

"May our good Father bless ye," she said softly, putting her two hands in his, "for yer gudeness, and oh, may this suffering gae frae ye. I must wait for him, for I ken he will come." The sweet face was transfigured with joy and the love-light.

"Then may he come soon and make you very happy," he said, and left her.

He had not gone far when he heard her calling: "Jack, oh, Jack," turning, he found her with a letter in her hand a boy had just brought her from the post office. "I am gaeing hame, now, to my ain countrie." Her face beamed with joy and happiness that had come to her. He could not endure to look upon it, so he called to her that he was glad that she was happy, and strode away. The girl ran lightly down the narrow path that led to her lodgings. The letter seemed the very elixir of joy to her, and yet she had not broken the seal. "I knew it would come, I knew it," she laughed. She was just going in when she spied the landlady coming out of her own door. "Oh, Mrs. Grant," she called, "I am going home, I am going home."

"Are you, my dear? I am glad, for your sake, though I shall hate to lose you."

But Lisette did not hear her, she had gone in to be alone with her precious letter. She sank down in her little chair by the window, the last rays of the sun came in and kissed her hair and face. She fondled and caressed her letter, she turned it over and over in her little work-hardened hands. She postponed the greater happiness she never doubted the contents would give her. She feasted heart and eyes on the outside. Then she broke the seal, and, in the full red light, read:

"LISETTE, MY AIN, MY OWN LOVE: They tell me I am dying, and with my last strength I would tell ye o' my love for ye. I hae ever loved ye. When I went back for ye that Yuletide, he—Clyde Burgh, told me ye had gone and left na word for me, and I believed him—forgive me, Lisette. When I went away to forget ye, I couldna. And when they brought me hame to die he told me that ye had been true to me, that he wanted ye for his own bride. But we will be happy yet, ye will soon come up hame, and I will be waitin' ye. Good-by. Yer ain, KENNETH."

A little stifled moan, and the white-faced girl slid down on the floor, her head bowed on her arms. The twilight came in and filled the room. Then it changed to gloom, and then the stars began to twinkle. And still she knelt there, quiet, save now and then a moan, and a low murmur of "Kenneth, Kenneth, my ain Kenneth. Father, mother." And now the stars were hidden, and darkness filled the room. A storm was brooding, muffled thunder filled the air. The lightning flashed all around her, but still she knelt. And now the rain poured in torrents over her, through the open window. She raised her head, and dragged herself back into the room, but still the pitiless rain beat over her. She lay there still and motionless, now a sob broke the stillness, and then all was still.

The bright sunshine of the morning beamed into the room. It fell on the little figure that lay there, cold and still. It caressed her hands, her eyes, her white lips. The soft breeze came in to play in the beautiful, unbound hair. A man with a pale, sad face came up to the window to give the girl good morning; he started back in terror and grief. They gathered around her soon, her neighbors and friends, and they said, as they placed her gently on her little white bed, and lifted the curls, so damp and clinging, from her sweet, white face:

"Lisette has gone home to her own country."—Louise Lupton, in Yankee Blade.

FOR TIME.

Oh! for time, amid life's rush,
To learn the bird's free note;
To list the evening's gentle hush;
To watch fair clouds afloat;
To mark the grace of flowers and leaves,
With a sense of all their sweet;
To ken the charms that nature weaves
In the green turf at our feet.

Oh! for time for thoughtful deed
Of the good e'en we might do,
Of the joy that comes of a loving deed,
Or an act that is just or true;
Out of the night so dark that speeds,
Wherever may be the morn,
On this dear earth, with its charms and needs,
No other day shall dawn.

Oh! for time, in the rush and the race,
To turn our feet aside,
The beauty of earth and sky to trace,
And the charm of ocean wide;
To note in the wild and jostling throng,
Some fellow crushed or driven,
And give our hand as we go along;
This were to well have striven.

—J. A. Kennedy, in Leslie's Weekly.

CAPTURED AN OUTLAW.

While Carrying Glad News to a Ticket-of-Leave Man.

"AH, WILL, the bluecoats have got Bob Fletcher, the bushranger, this time, unless you can stow me away in your hut until they pass."

"How can I give you shelter in the cabin, Bob? You know if the police come they will not even leave the hearthstone unturned in their search."

"Then Ill sit here in your doorway and prepare to give the officers a warm reception," replied the outlaw as he threw himself from the back of his jaded steed, and drawing his revolvers seated himself near the entrance to the rude abode which sheltered the ticket-of-leave man, William Stewart.

"No, no," exclaimed the latter; "you shall commit no murder on these premises. Look, you are armed, and may take by force what I rather would keep from you."

"What do you mean, Will?" asked the robber quickly.

"I mean," replied the other, thoughtfully, "that Black Duke, the fleetest horse between the sea coast and Ballarat, is feeding in the shed back of the hut. Your weapons are loaded; you are a desperate man. How, then, can I prevent you if you see fit to take the animal?"

"By heavens, Will, I understand you," exclaimed the bushranger, as he grasped the hand of the ticket-of-leave man; "and believe me, the time will come when you will have occasion to thank God that you extended me this help;" and the outlaw dashed the rowels of his spurs into the horse's side and rode rapidly away.

Scarcely had the hoof-beats of Black Duke died away than a cloud of dust arose from the direction of the metropolis, out of which soon appeared a company of mounted police. Dashing up to the hut the leader called:

"Ah, Stewart, where is that rascal, Fletcher? Hereabout, I dare say, for there is his horse, that we have chased these ten miles."

"Yes, lieutenant, that is the bushranger's horse, but the man has gone."

"Which way? Where? How?"

"He forced the Duke into his service and rode away on his back, sir."

"What?" exclaimed the officer; "did the villain steal your horse? Why did you not shoot him dead?"

"Because I was unarmed."

"A likely story," returned the lieutenant, angrily. "But we must go after him. Two of you remain here, and mind that you do not let the ticket-of-leave man out of your sight. And you," continued the officer to Stewart, "may think yourself lucky if you do not see the inside of the hulks again for this piece of work."

The lieutenant was destined, however, to be unsuccessful, and returned to the sheep-herder's hut empty-handed.

"If I did not think that you were a square man, Stewart," he remarked, as he threw himself from his horse, "I should consider it my duty to take you back to Melbourne."

"Lieutenant," answered Stewart, "I can readily see why it is my conduct

"I'LL GIVE THE OFFICERS A WARM RECEPTION."

looks strange to you; but if you yourself were forced to live here alone in these wilds, you would think twice before you made a mortal enemy of a bushranger."

"Well, well, perhaps I should," replied the officer, "but get us something to eat and we'll say no more about it."

Some six months after the escape of Bob Fletcher we meet him again, but this time he is surrounded by a dozen or more members of his fierce band. Yet all the faces which are lighted by the camp-fire do not belong to robbers; two, at least, are feminine, and one is exceedingly lovely. The ladies are seated side by side on a trunk, while about them are scattered chests and boxes, with their contents of wearing apparel and toilet articles.

Near them, lying on the ground, are three men, their arms pinioned.

"Ladies," began Fletcher, as he approached the two women, "I am sorry to trouble you, but I must take a look into the trunk."

"Oh, sir," answered the younger of the two, "it does contain a treasure; a treasure of countless value, not only to your poor captives, but to another, whose life has, alas, been all too sad."

The maiden took from her neck a golden chain, from which was suspended a key, and handed both to the bandit.

On the top were a few articles of feminine clothing, which the bushranger removed with somewhat more delicacy than might have been expected in one of his stamp.

Suddenly he started, rose almost to his feet, then seized the burning knot from his attendant's grasp, while he exclaimed in a hoarse voice:

"Go join your comrades and tell them to stop all further search for our prisoners' effects. He who disobeys dies by my hand. Go!"

Then turning to his two frightened captives who stood near, the outlaw continued:

"Women, come hither and tell me whose likeness is that," and the robber chief pointed to a large photograph of a fine-looking young man.

"It is the picture of him whom you are this night to despoil of his dearest treasure, proof of the innocence of a crime under the stigma of which he has labored these many years."

"His name, I say; his name!" exclaimed the bushranger.

"It is written in his own hand on the back of the picture."

As the robber turned the cabinet he read: "Yours, with unchanging love, William Stewart."

For a moment the outlaw remained silent, gazing at the signature, then he returned the likeness to its place in the trunk, and to his captives he said in a voice husky with emotion:

"Ladies, I beg you will forgive me for the treatment you have received from me and my band. To the original of that picture I owe my life. A friend of his, or one who could but speak his name, shall ever find safety and kindly treatment at the hands of Bob Fletcher, the bushranger."

"WHOSE LIKENESS IS THAT?"

Before the two women could recover from their surprise their captor had drawn the keen blade of his knife across the bonds which had secured their fellow-prisoners, and in a voice that rang from tree to tree he ordered his band to replace every article as they had found it, and load all again into the wagon from which they had been taken.

Though much surprised, the robbers did not dare to question the orders of their chief, but obeyed in sullen silence.

As the sun began to gild the tree tops a heavy covered wagon, drawn by two yoke of oxen, halted before the cabin of William Stewart, the ticket-of-leave man.

The sturdy driver was just coiling up the long lash of his whip when he was joined by those who were traveling in his company, two ladies and three men. One of the latter was mounted on a horse whose glossy hair was black as midnight. As the rider drew rein he called in a cheery voice:

"Oh, Will Stewart! Come, I've brought you back the Duke that you so kindly loaned me some months since."

While the outlaw was speaking he had dismounted and assisted one of the ladies to do likewise. It was the younger and handsomer of the two, and as her delicate foot touched the ground she raised her veil, and turning said in a low voice:

"William! have you forgotten me?"

For a moment the ex-convict and the brave girl stood, lost to all the world, when their bliss was broken in upon by heavy hoof-beats hurrying toward them. Looking up the party descried a body of police.

"Ah, Will, you see," coolly remarked Fletcher, "you see they are after me."

"But there is the Duke, man! Mount him and escape," said Stewart.

"No, no, my friend," exclaimed the bushranger. "It must come sooner or later. I will meet my fate like a man." And drawing his weapons from his belt he dropped them to the ground. Then folding his arms across his chest he walked forward to meet the officers.

It was a singular group that breakfasted that morning at the hut of the ticket-of-leave man. Leaving his men to secure their prisoner, the lieutenant hurried toward the sheep-herder, exclaiming joyfully:

"Good news, friend Stewart, good news! We have just received word from England that you were innocent of the crime for which you were transported."

"Ah, lieutenant, you are a tardy bearer of such news. This lady has outstripped you, and captured a bushranger into the bargain."—Boston Globe.

May 7, 1890.
F.E.C. Medicine Co., Rochester, N.Y.:
For seven or eight years my wife has been troubled with some kind of kidney trouble. She tried many different remedies but all in vain. She continued to grow worse. Last fall I induced her to try the F. E. C. Remedy, and before using one bottle she began to improve, and now, after using six bottles, she is entirely cured. I have recommended it to many and it has benefitted in every case heard from.

SEVERAL LIVES LOST

A Pleasure Boat Capsized in Boston Harbor.

SIX PERSONS WERE DROWNED.

The Bodies of the Victims Have All Been Recovered.

Four Prominent Milwaukee People Were Drowned in Pewaukee Lake—Their Boat Capsized and Sank Immediately—A Philadelphian Thrown Overboard and Drowned in the Delaware River.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—A sad accident occurred on Dorchester Bay last evening by which six persons lost their lives.

The yacht May, owned and sailed by Capt. J. M. Burke, started on a cruise about the bay in the afternoon, having on board four men and five children. There was but a light breeze blowing, but yachtsmen say the boat was overcrowded.

In tacking the vessel keeled over too far, and the entire party was thrown into the water. Skipper Burke, aged 48, was one of the victims. The others who were lost are:

THADDEUS MANYERS, aged 30.
NELLIE BURKE, aged 11.
JAMES BURKE, aged 8.
THOMAS CARMODY, aged 11.
ANNIE CARMODY, aged 13.

Vincent Burke, aged 14; Fergus Churchill, aged 30, and Thomas Ballard, aged 30, succeeded in clinging to the overturned boat, from which they were taken by a passing yacht when they were almost exhausted. The bodies of the victims have all been recovered.

FOUR DROWNED.

A Squall Struck the Pleasure Boat and It Sank Immediately.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 10.—Four young people, children of prominent business men, were drowned at Lake Pewaukee, twenty miles from here, yesterday at noon. They were out in a small boat with three other young people. A squall struck the boat, capsizing it. It was heavily balasted and sunk almost immediately, leaving the seven people struggling in the water.

The names of the drowned are Albert and Emma Barth, Martha Kindling and Clara Siegler, their ages ranging from 15 to 20. Their fathers are Louis Kindling, Peter Barth and Leopold Siegler. The young people had been spending a few days at the lake, which is a favorite resort.

Three Boys Drowned.

WEST BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 10.—The thousands of people who visited Winona Beach, on Saginaw Bay, yesterday were shocked by a sad drowning accident. About 3 o'clock three boys were out alone on the bay in a row boat when it capsized, and as there was not another boat near them they were all drowned. The bay is being dragged for their bodies. The boys, whose ages were 16, 18 and 12 years respectively, lived in Saginaw. Two of their names were Frank Pinterbalter and Charles Wiedemeyer.

Fell Overboard and Drowned.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—John Kirk fell or was pushed from a boat in the Delaware River last evening and was drowned. He was out with a fishing party, and it is claimed by the others of the party that he was intoxicated and quarrelsome. Charles Hoyt, one of the party, tried to quiet him, and in the struggle that ensued Kirk fell overboard and was drowned. Hoyt surrendered himself to the police and was held pending an investigation.

THE LEWISTON MYSTERY.

A Torn Postal Card Found Near the Girl's Effects on the Bank.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Mystery still shrouds the identity of the beautiful dark-haired girl found in the Niagara River at Lewiston.

Physicians have made an autopsy and found that she was drowned. They do not think any assault was made and no bruises were found.

A torn postal card was found near the girl's effects on the bank. It reads as follows:

Miss Mamie Cooley, 174 St. James street, Montreal, care D. Batherly.

DEAR MAMIE: How long do you intend to stay at Niagara? Write immediately. Frank and I may come.

This, it is thought, may be the girl's name, but another theory is that she is a Buffalo girl, as her shoes bear the mark of a dry goods firm there.

Pitcher Barr Sold to the Giants.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Bob Barr, the popular pitcher of the Buffalo Baseball Club, has been sold to New York for $1,500. Barr arrived in the city last night to make arrangements for the transfer. He says the contract has been signed, and that he will report at New York to-morrow. Barr's place will be filled by some good pitcher next year, and Callihan and German will carry them through the season.

Died Suddenly of Heart Disease.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Erastus W. Ketchum, 63 years old, a prominent wholesale grocery dealer of this city, died suddenly of heart disease at his home in the Chelsea apartment house on Twenty-third street. He has been afflicted with heart trouble for the past four years. He complained of not feeling well yesterday, and in the morning when his wife entered his room she found him dead.

Shot by a Policeman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Michael Dulte, a Hungarian saloon keeper at 224 Second street, was shot and fatally injured last night by Policeman John Foster while resisting arrest for violating the excise laws.

EDITOR CROASDALE DEAD.

He Was Chairman of the National Committee of the Single Tax League.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—William T. Croasdale, the editor of the Standard and chairman of the National Committee of the Single Tax League, died last evening at Merriwold, Sullivan county, N. Y., of peritonitis, after an illness of eight days.

Mr. Croasdale was 43 years old and a bachelor. He was a native of Delaware and a member of the Delaware Society. He was the founder of Every Evening, a daily paper in Wilmington. For a time he conducted a daily paper in Baltimore and afterwards was an editorial writer on the New York Star.

In 1886 he took an interest in the mayoralty campaign of New York in behalf of Henry George and ever since that time he has been an active, and, for most of the time, a prominent representative of the Single Tax, or Henry George movement.

SWALLOWED FALSE TEETH.

Remarkable Case of Surgery by a New Hampshire Doctor.

BETHLEHEM, N. H., Aug. 10.—Miss Mary Gorman, of New Haven, Conn, who is at the Highland, fainted yesterday morning and while in the faint swallowed a silver plate with seven teeth attached to it.

The plate lodged about half way from the mouth to the stomach. Dr. Marsh, after much difficulty, located the obstruction with a silver "sound," but was unable to reach it with any forceps at his command.

Taking a silver sound 12 inches long the doctor curved its point and inserted it in the œsophagus. He managed to hook it into the plate and after much exertion he extracted the teeth.

The laceration of the throat was comparatively slight, and the resulting hemorrhage was easily stopped. The operation was performed by the doctor unaided, and no anæsthetic was used.

The case is unparalled in the records of surgery.

FATAL GAME OF "CRAPS."

A Colored Woman Quarreled With a Man and Then Stabbed Him.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—A white man named Frank Hetzelberger was fatally stabbed by Ida Howard, a colored woman.

Hetzelberger and two companions were watching the Howard woman and two colored men playing "craps," when the woman took offense at some remark dropped by Hetzelberger. Some words passed between the parties. Finally the men walked away, stopping at the corner of the next street to talk with some acquaintances.

While they were standing there the colored woman ran up and stabbed Hetzelberger in the breast directly over the heart, producing a wound which caused his death in twenty minutes. The woman ran away, but was subsequently captured by the police.

Church Dedication at Long Branch.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 10.—St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church at Long Branch was dedicated yesterday by Bishop O'Farrel, of Trenton. The church was packed with wealthy cottagers. Right Rev. John J. Keane, D. D., of the Catholic University of the United States, preached the dedication sermon. The building cost upwards of $50,000, and a considerable part of this amount has been subscribed by A. J. Drexel, George W. Childs, Gen. Thomas T. Eckert, Daniel Dougherty, John A. McCall, Col. D. M. Hildreth and the Messrs. George and Jeremiah Curtis. A magnificent altar has been presented to the church by Banker Drexel as a memorial to his brother.

Trampled to Death by a Horse.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 10.—John Uniack, aged 40, a teamster, employed by the People's Gas Light Company, and his four-year-old son Thomas, were trampled to death by a vicious horse in the company's stables in the morning. Uniack had gone with his little boy to feed the horse, which, for some unaccountable reason, attacked him and the boy, and before assistance could arrive both had been thrown and their heads crushed to a jelly.

Accidentally Shot and Killed.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Thomas Tulley, of Pope's Mills, was accidentally shot and killed by Amsen Thornton, a camper on an island in Black Lake, St. Lawrence County. Tulley was employed as a guide and helper. The men were out on the lake taking photographic views, and had with them a Winchester rifle, which was accidentally discharged, the ball passing through Tulley's head, killing him instantly.

Not Ex-Gov. Lloyd's Son.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—The New York papers yesterday published a story about the conviction of an alleged son of ex-Governor Henry Lloyd of Maryland as a swindler, with the further statement that Governor Lloyd died in 1885. Governor Lloyd presided over the Democratic State Convention ten days ago and is very much alive. He is not yet 40 years of age, was not married until 1886 and his children, if any, are, therefore, at a very tender age. The swindler is not known to Governor Lloyd.

HE IS STILL FREE

Armed Men Chasing the Columbus Grove Robber.

MURDER ADDED TO HIS CRIMES.

So Far the Search for the Desperado Has Proved Unsuccessful.

Several Experienced Detectives Have Joined in the Chase—The County and Town Offer Rewards—He Stole a Horse from a Pasture—A Belief that He Took a Train at Findlay.

COLUMBUS GROVE, Ohio, Aug. 10.—Early in the morning the men in pursuit of the fugitive bank robber, and now murderer, were awake and resumed the chase of the criminal.

William Vandemark, the farmer shot Saturday, died at 4 a. m., and by his death new zest was given to the manhunters and a stronger determination that he should be taken dead or alive.

Word was received by telegram that he had been traced to a small area near Beaver Dam, a small village eleven miles south of this place, and to that point everybody who could get a vehicle went.

Reward Offered.

A reward has been agreed upon and is offered as follows: The county offers $500, the municipality $250, and the bank $200. Besides this a subscription has been started among the people, which, in connection with the official amount offered, aggregates considerably above a thousand dollars. Policemen from the forces of neighboring cities and several experienced detectives have joined in the chase.

Latest Work of the Desperado.

A later report says the desperado is beyond reach, and it is questionable if he is ever caught at all. After the chase was given up last night the man stopped with some laborers building a pipe line about two miles east of Beaver Dam and at the crossing of the Lake Erie Railroad at a point one mile west of Bluffton. He went into a pasture and stole a black mare at 1 a. m., four miles east of Bluffton. He followed a farmer and his family home who had been out visiting, and with his ready revolver compelled them to get him a meal. The stolen horse was tied to the branches of a tree by a rope halter during his stay at this place, and an attempt was made to buy a buggy and harness, or even a bridle from the farmer, but the attempt was in vain.

It is highly probable that the hunted man has rode his horse into Findlay, jumped a train, and is by this time far away. It was noon before the theft of the horse was discovered and later when his direction was learned. Hundreds of men were in the chase to-day where there were 10 yesterday, and the time was all spent beating about the bushes from which the bird had flown.

FARMER EVANS IS GONE.

Claims Amounting to $10,000 Are Held Against Him.

HADDONFIELD, N. J., Aug. 10.—The flight of Samuel Evans, one of the best known farmers in Camden County, is the sensation of the day in this vicinity. It is said that claims amounting to fully $10,000 are held against him. Evans had a fine large farm on the White Horse Pike, about three miles out of Camden. His outbuildings were of the most pretentious kind, and everything he purchased was of the best.

It was the discovery of a forged note that precipitated his flight. The note was for $230, payable at the National State Bank, Camden, and purporting to have been made by Isaac Matlock, a well known Burlington County farmer. The paper went to protest, and Mr. Matlock, on being notified, pronounced it a forgery.

In a letter for his wife Evans wrote:

MARY: All that is left of your father's estate is what is in the house. You had better sell it and pocket the money.

As soon as the news of Evans' flight became noised about there was a hasty comparison of notes by the farmers and business men, and it was then learned that Evans had secured considerable money before he departed. Philadelphia merchants with whom the farmer had business relations are said to be among the number. On the day he left he entered the office of Shivers & Moffett, the Camden lumber dealers, and made a fruitless effort to get an exchange of checks.

White Caps Sued for Damages.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 10.—John F. Abbott and Edward Benson, both of whom have been handled roughly by alleged White Caps in the suburb of Haughville, have brought suit for damages against fifteen prominent citizens of that place, charging them with participating in the outrages and demanding heavy damages. Abbott says he was arrested by the marshal when the citizens took him away from the officer and beat him and then hanged him to a lamp post. Benson makes similar allegations, and each of the plaintiffs ask for $1,000 damages in each of the fifteen cases.

RYAN WON THE FIGHT.

He Punished McMillan Terribly and Knocked Him Out in the Third Round.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The prize fight for $1,500 a side and 75 and 25 per cent of the gate receipts, which amounted to about $1,500 more, between Tommy Ryan, of Chicago, and Billy McMillan, of Washington, came off in a grove about sixty miles from Chicago at 6:30 a. m. Quite a number of sports were in attendance, having left Chicago on a special train for the scene of battle.

The men weighed a little less than 144 pounds. Ryan was in first-class condition, but in the opinion of experts at the ring side McMillan was overtrained. Betting was 2 to 1 on Ryan.

Ryan's seconds were announced as Jim Hall and Billy Kunts, and McMillan's as Joe Rollo and George Siler. Malachi Hogan was referee.

When the men faced each other McMillan's stock rose a little. He opened the round by leading with his left, which fell short, Ryan retorting with a smart blow in the face. A quick exchange followed. When the round closed both men were fresh, but McMillan's face was scarred and the blood was coming.

In the second round Ryan went in fast and hard. He caught his man on the cheek once or twice and then gave him a short-arm punch in the right eye. The eye closed its doors and hung out crape, and McMillan looked dazed.

McMillan went into the ring in the third round with the air of a man who knew he was beaten and wanted to hasten the killing blow. He ran against Ryan, who punished him horribly, breaking one of his ribs with a right-arm swing. The champion knocked him down, and he got up weakly, only to be smashed again and knocked out. McMillan was badly cut and bruised in the fight, and his nose looked as if it had been broken. Ryan was perfectly fresh.

KILLED HIS FATHER.

A Family Quarrel Results in a Terrible Tragedy.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—George F. Nieman, a shoemaker at No. 180 Everett street, was shot and instantly killed by his son, Charles F. Nieman, aged 20 years, at their home, No. 18 Gorman street.

The shooting resulted from a family quarrel which has been in progress several years. About 10 years ago Mrs. Nieman procured a divorce from her husband for cruelty, but he was allowed to retain a room in the house, which belongs to his wife. The quarreling among the members of the family and the old man has been frequent, owing to his violent temper.

Early in the morning he began to abuse his wife and two daughters, Anna and Emma. The son, who was asleep up stairs, hearing the noise, came out and saw his father with a pair of tongs in his hand upraised as if to strike his mother, who is a cripple. He rushed back and got a revolver. Just then the old man made a motion as if to strike his mother, when he leveled the revolver at his father and fired, the bullet passing through his right lung and heart, causing death instantly.

The young man surrendered himself to the police and was locked up at the Oliver street station. He is assistant secretary of the Cincinnati Insurance Company.

[A Father's Terrible Crime.

PITTSFORD, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The citizens of this place were greatly excited over the arrest of Edward M. Sage, the village blacksmith, on a very serious charge. His wife and daughter made complaint that he had been criminally intimate with the latter for over a year. It is stated that the mother has been aware of the fact for some time, but under the threat of death from Sage she failed to reveal the condition of affairs until forced to do so from Sage breaking in the door of their sleeping apartment and brutally treating the mother. The daughter is a handsome girl of 18 years. Sage is held without bail.

A General Strike Expected.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 10.—The grievance committee of the striking Santa Fe boilermakers was closeted during the day with General Manager Robinson, but an adjournment was taken without any compromise being effected. Neither side is willing to make known its intentions, but the indications point to a general strike of the 2,000 employes of the Santa Fe shops. General Manager Robinson does not seem inclined to make any concession whatever to the strikers, who have the sympathy of all the other employes.

Fight With Desperadoes.

CASEYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 10.—In a free-for-all fight here last night between Thomas M. Laren and Tony Kleber, two local toughs, and City Marshal Binesmith, assisted by several citizens, who were trying to arrest them, Kleber hit Anthony Huber on the head with a rock, fracturing his skull. He then turned and struck A. E. Ford on the back of the head, cutting him badly. J. Daly was accidentally shot by the marshal, but his wound is not serious. A reward has been offered for the two desperadoes, who subsequently made their escape.

Run Over and Killed.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—William Quinn, a builder from Utica, was run over and killed by a New York Central freight train last evening at the Iron Pier, one of the pleasure resorts on Onondaga Lake. He had boarded the train at East Syracuse, where he had been putting up a building for the railroad company, and in jumping off at the pier his coat got caught and he was thrown under the cars. His body was frightfully mangled.

Struggle With a Snake.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Aug. 10.—Warren Wilson, aged ten years, of this place, had a thrilling encounter with a mammoth pine snake, which measured 6 feet and 3 inches in length, yesterday. The snake coiled itself around the lad's limbs. After dealing the reptile several hard blows across the back the boy succeeded in killing it and freeing himself.

A PECULIAR PEOPLE

The Economite Society Becoming Spiritualists.

CONVERTED BY MRS. EMMERTS.

She Hails from New York and Professes to Be Wealthy.

Several of the Members Greatly Excited—Many of the Conservatives Frightened—They Say the Woman Has Designs on the Society's Wealth—Trustee Duss Explains His Newly-Formed Ideas.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—The Economite Society has been greatly excited for several weeks over the advent of Mrs Francesca B. Emmerts, a spiritualists' medium and the expounder of peculiar scientific principles. The fact that her views have been accepted by Trustee Duss, who has been selected as the future head of the society, and seemingly silently approved by Father Henrici himself, has added terror to the astonishment of the conservatives and created a fear among some of them that their religious doctrine, so firmly upheld for nearly a century, may now be modified by an unheard of stranger.

Mrs. Emmerts is about 40 years of age and claims to be a great traveler. She professes to be wealthy, and is credited with sincerity in her belief. She says her home is in New York. She left Economy on Friday, but is expected to return in a few days. Trustee Duss has fully accepted her views. Speaking of them he said:

"We are told that God is everywhere. We are also told that the earth is round and that we live on the outside. Now imagine a god who can fill all this illimitable space. The idea is absurd. We know that the earth is round; that has been conclusively proven; but it has not been proven that we live on the outside by any means.

"The fact is that the earth is a hollow ball and we live on the inside. Computing scientifically the crust is 100 miles in thickness. On the top or outside part we find the different formations all mixed up, but on going deeper everything is in exact layers. The sun is in the centre. Lines of force are continually rushing from the earth to the centre. They fuse there and form our sun, which has a dark side. Lines rush back and are met by other forces and the meeting of these form our stars, just on the same principle as electric light is caused. Each one of us has his own particular star. There are no planets, as the old system tells us, simply these points of light. We have proof in the Testament for this belief in a particular star for each of us. Did not Christ have His star? We can also prove from the Bible that we live within the earth and not on the outside."

Continuing, Mr. Duss indicated his belief that spirits sometimes return to earth and converse with friends left behind. The few members of the society who have not accepted the views of Mrs. Emmerts openly declare that she is an imposter, and that she has designs on the society's wealth, which is very great.

Owing to the vow of celibacy taken some years after settling at Economy there are now no children there. Little old men in light blue jackets, or women clad in Norman cap and striped gown, may be found in the streets, but that is all.

PLOT TO SINK IRONCLADS.

Discovery of a Conspiracy to Destroy Two Chilian Vessels.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Startling information is in possession of the Chilian Legation in reference to a conspiracy to destroy the two Chilian ironclads, Presidente Pinto and Errazuriz.

It appears that the sum of $3,000 was offered to an English maritime officer, in the service of the Chilian government, if he would undertake to blow up the Errazuriz. He refused the offer with indignation.

While the vessel was in the harbor of Lisbon suspicious boats were seen approaching on several occasions at night, but the careful lookout on the vessel kept them at bay. There was no doubt a purpose to explode the vessel at Lisbon.

While the Presidente Pinto was at Toulon a party of men attempted to join the crew. They looked so unlike ordinary sailors, two of them being unable to conceal their refinement of manner, that suspicion was aroused, and the commander concluded to reject them, although in need of men. Proof afterward came to his knowledge that these men had been engaged to sink the ship.

There is also reason to believe that the running aground at Toulon was owing to treachery. The commander was so convinced of this that he sent a report to that effect to Paris.

The Errazuris is already safe at sea, and it is understood that the Pinto will soon be in a position to follow, and that their arrival in Chili will put an end to the revolution.

Great Bench Show.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 10.—Arrangements are all complete for a great bench show, to be held under the auspices of the New York Kennel Club. General Hampton of South Carolina will be present with his celebrated pack of hounds to engage in fox chases. The race track will be enclosed and hurdles will be placed across the same for hunters. All in the chase will be dressed in English hunting costume.

Will Send a Group of Natives.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Dr. Guzman, the chairman of the Board of Exposition Commissioners for the republic of Guatemala, proposes to send to Chicago a group of natives of that country to ply their various vocations in the building on the Exposition grounds, and sell the various articles of native manufacture there.

THE PETTICOAT MUST GO.

Boston Dress Reformers Will, It Is Said, Abolish It This Coming Fall.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 10.—The Dress Reform Association of Massachusetts has about 200 members, mostly active and intelligent women. They are opposed to trailing skirts and corsets. It is seriously proposed by a number of members to appear on the streets early next fall in a short skirt made up of waterproof cloth in dark colors reaching but an inch or two below the knee, with heavy boots and long gaiters made from macintosh cloth. If gaiters are not used, then mousquetaire or ordinary riding boots will be worn.

The skirt will be kilted and hang heavy, so as not to be disarranged by the wind. A reefer jacket or long cloak will cover the upper part of the body, and under this a fancy silk skirt or ordinary dress waist will be worn. An ordinary hat, or, better still, a tarpaulin sailor hat, will complete what will certainly be a very novel costume. It has been decided to have no complete uniformity about the dress. In the matter of material the members of the club have been instructed to exercise their individual tastes, making the toilet as attractive and becoming as possible.

The membership of this dress reform club includes school teachers, physicians, actresses and members of other professions. Discussions are held as to the best means to bring about the much needed change. All the members have pledged themselves to appear on the streets and in the stores of Boston—in fact wherever they are likely to attract attention—in a dress which may become popular with women in stormy weather.

Fought in a Cell—One Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—John McCloskey, aged 28, and George Barclay, were arrested last night for drunkenness and placed in one cell. They had been there but a short time when they quarreled and the turnkey upon going to the cell found McCloskey lying unconscious upon the ground. He was removed to a hospital, but died without regaining consciousness. Barclay, who admitted having struck McCloskey, was committed without bail to await the coroner's inquest.

THE FIRST IN TWO YEARS.

Plainfield Manages At Last to Win a Game from Somerville.

Out of six base-ball games payed against the West Ends of Somerville during the past two years, Plainfield won her first victory Saturday. The contest was a most interesting one. The score was 7 to 6.

So many people were disappointed by the last trip to Harkinstown that it was not surprising that such a comparative few went from Plainfield to see the West Ends lose.

The condition the Crescents were in evidenced the good that their Connecticut trip had done to them. Rare Tom Kellar had infused into the team a great deal of ginger, and the benefits of his training were so apparent that the management urged him to sit on the players' bench and make the men play out the game along the line which had been adopted so successfully in the down-East games.

The consequence was that the men went to the bat with confidence, and bereft of the old idea that Harkins was a bugaboo against whom they were powerless. McIndoe was the only Crescent who struck out, and he was then so heartily ashamed of himself that when his turn came again he met with a tremendous whack the first ball pitched to him and sent it sailing over the fence for an easy home run.

It had been said before the game that Hammill had a glass arm; and that he would speedily be knocked out of the box was predicted. Neither statement was verified. Hammill pitched well, and struck out three men to Harkins's one. The wholesale manner in which Harkins was hit is seen in the record of 4 hits by the Crescents and their 12 flies that the West Ends gathered safely in, against 7 hits and 3 flies from the bats of the West Ends. The Crescents were batting the ball tremendously, and only superb fielding by the West Ends kept down their number of hits to so low a figure.

After the game the Somerville people protested that if Kennedy had caught the game the result would have been different. As it was, he was not in condition to play, but sat on the players' bench and coached the West End team. Tom Kellar protested against Kennedy being permitted to sit on the bench while he was incapacitated, and pointed to the rules authorizing him to take that stand. At this the genial sportsman was called all sorts of names and threats were made, in that typically, semi-polite language known only to Somerville people. He was told if he did n't keep his head shut he'd be put off.

An incident of a similarly lively nature occurred at the beginning of the ninth inning, when the umpire threw a ball off the field at the demand of the West Ends, who claimed that it was ripped. Keller and Bonner demanded to see the ball, and after some dispute it was thrown out to them from the ticket office. Bonner was examining it and saying that he did n't see anything wrong with it when Faas, who umpired at the home plate, came up, snatched it from Bonner's hand with an angry exclamation, and hurled it violently away against the fence, saying: "You don't play with that ball! See!"

Three fielding errors—two by Lufbery and one by Holly—resulted in five runs being made by the West Ends in the first inning. But for these errors the side would have been retired without a run, and Harkins would have had to wait till another inning to bat the ball over the fence for a home run.

Reilly, who took Kennedy's place, was the famous Joe, who has been catching this year for Rahway, and who formerly played with the Bergen Points. Bonner for the Crescents caught a fine game, Keeler again proved himself a masterly shortstop. The two errors he is credited with were almost wholly excusable, and as neither of them let in a run they were not costly.

After the fifth inning neither side made a run. The runs that were scored were made in this way:

As soon as the West Ends went to the bat, in the first inning, Carbonell made a hit. Farrell got first on Lufbery's error, and reached second on a wild pitch. Moorehead was given a base on balls. An error of Holly gave Reilly first base, and Carbonell and Farrell scored. Harkins's home run hit brought in Moorehead and Reilly. A neat single and a fine double play retired the side. Five runs.

For the Crescents, Jones followed Keller's advice, waited, and got his base on balls. He stole second. Lufbery made a hit and stole second. Keeler did the same, and Jones scored. McIndoe flew out. Hammill got first on Davenport's very bad error. Harkins made a wretched throw that let Lufbery Keeler and Hammill reach the home plate safely. Holly was hit by a pitched ball, but was left on second, which he stole. Lee flying out to right field, and Bonner going out on a little hit to second. Four runs.

The Crescents tied the score in the third inning. Keeler got his base on balls, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on the throw in of Hammill's long fly to centre.

The West Ends made their only other run in the fifth inning. Moorehead made a two-base hit when two men were out. The ball was thrown in, struck him in the back, and was so deviated from its course that he got third before it was recovered. When Reilly reached first on Keeler's bad throw, Moorehead scored.

Then the Crescents earned two runs. Jones made a hit, stole second, and went to third on Keeler's sacrifice. McIndoe made a home run, bringing Jones in.

Davenport's error in the first inning resulted in his being promptly put on the bench, and Murray was substituted in his place.

The score;

The game was once interrupted by a brief thunder shower. The inning preceding the rain was played in a blinding dust storm. The rain improved the ground for playing, but made harder work for the pitchers, who detest, and with good reason, a wet and muddy ball.

SHE THINKS SHE KNOWS HIM.

The Misses Hubbard Chase a Thief, but He Holds the Door Shut in Their Faces While He Empties Their Pockets.

A burglar entered the home of Isaac S. Giddis, of Dunellen, yesterday morning, between 3 and 4 o'clock. While at work ransacking the bureau, he was discovered.

Mr. Giddis supposing it to be his son, asked: "What are you doing?" Then the robber darted from the room, and Mr. Giddis followed. The pursued, however, escaped through the front door that he had left open, and when Mr. Giddis had succeeded in getting down stairs, the man was lost in the darkness.

He took $11 which he found in Mrs. Giddis's dress pocket, and would undoubtedly have secured other valuables had it not been for the timely discovery of his presence.

He next appeared at the home of John Hubbard, on South avenue, where he entered the Misses Hubbard's room, and while searching their dresses was discovered by Miss Susie Hubbard. The girl screamed and awakened her sister who added her screams to the uproar. The thief ran out of the room, carrying the dresses with him.

The brave young women sprang from their bed and followed, reaching the door almost as soon as he but it was closed in their faces and held shut by the thief until he had emptied the pockets of the dresses. He did n't get m uch, however.

Miss Hubbard has a suspicion who he is.

A Family Terribly Bereaved.

Frederick Roome, 17 years of age, grandson of the late Judge and Mrs. Jane Roome of this city, died of consumption at the old homestead on Washington avenue, North Plainfield, this morning at four o'clock. He was the only surviving son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham P. M. Roome, of New York.

The sincere sympathy of scores of friends in this city and elsewhere will be extended to the bereaved parents who have been as sorely afflicted by the loss of their children as have but few others. Only one is now living of a family of five. Four bright and brave young sons have been cut down at their very entrance to promising manhood. An only daughter, Carrie, remains—a woman of the loveliest character and a true Christian. She, too, is dying, but like the brother who died this morning, is not afraid of death. Her unselfishness has been shown during the past few days when she has wished she could die for her brother and have him live.

Some fifteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. Roome lived at the City hotel in this city. Their daughter was then a pupil of the Plainfield public schools. Since then they have resided in New York, in a charming home with everything that money could buy. But the ghost of slowly developing consumption haunted that home. Two summers ago Mr. Roome rented the VanDeventer house on Myrtle avenue, hoping a change of air would help another son. But he died that fall after the family returned to New York.

An undertaker from New York has charge of the remains which will be removed to that city where the funeral will take place.

As warm weather is here the natural craving of humanity call for something cooling to drink. Hires's Root Beer is sparkling, and a most delicious article. Every family should have it in their house. A 25-cent package will enable any one to make five gallons. Ask your druggist or storekeeper for it.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

Dunellen Still in Darkness.

The electric lights of Dunellen burned but one night. Since then the borough has been in total darkness, as those who had kerosene street-lamps have ceased to fill and light them. The burglars and chicken-thieves are taking advantage of the circumstance.

—The fourth annual Interdenominational Bible Conference now being conducted by Dr. L. W. Munhall at Ocean Grove, will close Wednesday evening. The following among other distinguished pastors and teachers, are expected to be present: James H. Brookes, D. D., of St. Louis, Prof. L. B. Townsend and Rev. Geo. C. Needham of Boston, Nathaniel West, D. D., of St. Paul and Prof. J. M. Stifler of Crozier Theological Seminary. Sessions will be held each day at 10:30 a. m. 3 and 7:30 p. m.

OUR "Y. S. F."

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

EDSALL'S,

20 WEST FRONT STREET.

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

THE TWO GOOD BYES.

(A CONTRAST.)

I.

Scene—A railway station. Guest saying "good bye" to his host.

Guest—

"Well, Dick, good bye! I've had a splendid day;
Thanks for your invite, but I cannot stay.
So glad to see you when you're passing by,
Drop in, my boy, and have 'pot-luck!' Good bye."

(That's how we, men, say "good bye." This is how you, ladies, say "good bye.")

II.

Scene—The same. Lady guest and child saying "good bye" to their host and hostess.

Lady Guest (in one breath)—

"We're here at last. I thought we'd miss the train.
We mustn't leave it quite so late again,
Though really where one has to say 'good bye,'
You never notice how the moments fly.
You're sure you put in all the wraps, my dear?
One really never knows, this time of year,
If it will rain—and Tootsie's such a cough.
It is so good of you to see us off.
I haven't told you half the news, I know—
You've heard that Lottie Denham's got a beau,
And that a dress she wore last Thursday week,
Was made of next to nothing—so to speak!
But there—they do so gossip in our town,
This one they praise, and this one they run down.
I never say a word, dear, for scandal—
Well, well—leu jeu n'en vaut pas la chandelle!
Yes, thanks, I'll come again, dear, very soon,
I might be down on Sunday afternoon.
We're off! Please give my love to little Sue,
And mind, dear Fan, you kiss the baby, too.
Now, Tootsie, wave your handkerchief, and nod."

Hostess—"Good bye! Good bye! They're off at last."

Host—(Sotto Voce) "Thank God."

OBITUARY.

Jennie Clarkson.

[From The Christian Inquirer.]

On June 27, at the age of twenty-seven, after a most painful illness of fifteen weeks, she passed to the brighter June of eternal joy. Mrs. Geoffroy was the wife of Nicholas Geoffroy, and the daughter of William R. Clarkson, for many years a resident of Plainfield, N. J., and widely known as a merchant in this city. In the beautiful Plainfield home nearly all the years of our dear one were passed. Here she was reared with every advantage for intellectual and æsthetic culture. Whatever wealth and affection could do for her was done. Endowed with a buoyant temperament and a cheerful disposition she was the centre of sunshine. Music, painting and languages were her delight and she was always ambitious for high attainments in them. Her travels abroad afforded her opportunities for observation and the garnering of useful information. Her reading was confined to our purest and best literature. Her attractive apartments at the Sherwood showed the delicacy and refinement of her tastes. Hers was a nature that attracted others, and invited confidence. She was loyal to friends, and too noble to make enemies. It one of the highest triumphs of this life is quiet submission to God's will then our loved one won the crown. For long weeks her sufferings were beyond all language to describe and yet was never one syllable of murmur heard, but there was a resignation, a patience, a fortitude that seemed half divine. It is not possible to define the beauty of a true life or the charm of a noble character. The subject of this sketch was attractive in form, was intellectually bright—was winning in manners—these qualities will be remembered. But the real womanhood, the grandeur of soul, the highest reach of character were seen in the quiet, uncomplaining sufferer, in the heroism displayed in the furnace of physical agony. There was the repeated, piteous moan which still clings to memory and which sent a prostrating thrill of pain to loving hearts that would have quickly shared the suffering, but there was never a note of complaint in it or a look of impatience to accompany its utterance. In the loss by death of this noble young wife and this loving daughter we can be consoled only by the assurance that the purpose of her life has been wrought out and the emancipated spirit is exultant in the presence of God. Mystery still lingers to try us, but faith sees a grander culture, purer associations, and sweeter joys for the sainted one. No words can express the sense of bereavement felt by husband and parents. Mrs. Geoffroy's untimely death is mourned by a wide circle of friends. The funeral rites were observed at the Sherwood, Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street, where she died, and the burial was at Plainfield, N. J.

Miss Wagner Buried.

At the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, yesterday, services were held over the remains of Mary A. Wagner who died Saturday at Muhlenberg Hospital. Miss Wagner, who was 56 years of age, had lived with Mrs. Vandeveer for many years, and was much thought of by the family and all others who knew her. Some weeks ago, as told exclusively in THE PRESS, she fell from a tree, injuring her spine and causing paralysis from which she never recovered. She was buried today in the family plot at Bound Brook.

No Auction Sale in Fanwood.

The auction sale announced for to-day, of the coleus and tomato plants on premises recently occupied by R. P Moore of Fanwood, will not take place. The Hon. George Kyte has notified the owner of the plants that he will not permit their removal.

THE UMPIRE HELPED AGAIN.

The Plainfield Colored Ball Players Were Roasted, Broiled and Kept in a Stew.

A fair number of varied hues gathered on the Crescent League's grounds, Saturday, to witness the second contest between the colored ball teams of Plainfield and Somerville. The struggle was long and severe, and the visitors were the victors. To achieve such result valuable aid was accorded the Somervilles by the tenth man, the umpire. He not only roasted, but he broiled the Stars, and kept them in a stew from the beginning to the close of the game. He was either very partial, or wholly incompetent. In any event he was no more fit for an umpire, than the unmentionable place is for the storage of explosives.

The spectators enjoyed the game greatly. It was kick, kick, kick, from the commencement to the end.

Of the Stars, Vail, Cuff and Schenck, deserve the most credit; and of the Little Giants, N. and S. Rogers and Kline were the best. The score:

MRS. PARKER'S PREDICAMENT.

She Exhibits the Divided Skirt and Gets Both Feet Into One Leg of It.

The following extract from a letter written by a Plainfield lady, who is spending some time at Dr. Vincent's Chautauqua, will doubtless be read with no little interest by many of her friends at home. She writes:

"Chautauqua has a new fad, and it has taken hold with a grip that is as enthusiastic as it is firm, and as contagious as Chautauqua fads usually are. It used to be said that the young ladies who come here for the summer were the ones who write to some of the newspapers for horoscopes, and to others for a cure for freckles. Well, those girls have either all been married off or have died, for those here this year are swimming on the high tide of dress reform, and, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Stuart Parker of Chicago, propose to revolutionize the world. The first step taken in the matter was by the 'Woman's Club,' which held a secret conference presided over by another revolutionist named Emily Huntington Miller, and from which every man was excluded. Mrs. Parker took the floor and exhibited an array of dresses, skirts, tights, underclothing, etc., both on or off her splendid figure, in a way that captivated every woman present, and there were a great many of us, I assure you. All the time she was showing her wonderful clothing she was carrying on a harangue against the present mode of dressing that made every corset, every waistband, every garter, and every clumsy petticoat in the room ache. As she proceeded she warmed up to the subject and became so enthusiastic that she got both feet in one 'leg' of a divided skirt, and then we all laughed."

Plainfield's Souvenir Spoon.

Plainfield has a souvenir of which its citizens may well be proud. It is one of the most handsome silver spoons yet designed as mementos of prominent American cities. According to the artistic taste and direction of J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, a silver tea-spoon has been made, which is peculiarly appropriate as a reminder of Plainfield and its environments. Many elegant souvenir spoons have been designed for American cities, and this one is the equal of any. In the bowl is etched in graceful letters the inscription "Plainfield, N. J." Upon the handle of the spoon General George Washington is pictured as standing upon Washington Rock looking over the plains toward the advancing army of Hessians.

They Have This Thief in Their Eye.

When chicken-thief Wahl was caught and sentenced to fifteen years in States prison, Dunelleners hoped that they might rest in peace from further depredations in that line. But before this year's chickens have reached their full growth, they are fast disappearing. There is a party suspected of it in the town and as soon as he steals the right man's chickens, he will have a hot time of it.

He 'll go to keep Wahl company while the latter is serving his sentence.

THE CHOIR AT NAUGATUCK.

Conductor Miner and His Holy Cross Singers Gives Some Connecticut People a Sunday Treat.

(SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.)

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Aug. 10.—Holy Cross church choir arrived here Saturday evening from Camp Dupee, Merwin's Point, Conn., and were quartered with the parishioners of St. Michael's church. Saturday night a rehearsal was held in the Sunday-school building adjoining the church, and the choir were introduced to the Rev. Jared W. Ellsworth, rector of St. Michael's.

Yesterday morning the choir reported for rehearsal at 9 o'clock, and at 10:30 morning service begun, the pretty church being crowded to the doors. The choir marched down the side and up the centre aisles singing the Trinity hymn as a processional. Choirmaster Miner presided at the organ and the choir occupied temporary seats in the chancel. The choral part of the service was beautifully rendered and the people of Naugatuck were made thoroughly envious of their more fortunate brethren in Plainfield who enjoy such music the long year round. In the evening service begun at 7:30 o'clock and the church was more than packed, people standing in all the aisles and far out of the doors.

A full choral service with two anthems was given. The choir's flag was hung in the church at the request of the rector, and the choristers each wore a white and gold badge commemorative of the day.

St. Michael's church is an extremely pretty structure, patterned on much the same plan as Holy Cross, Plainfield, and has a seating capacity of about 500. The choir were most hospitably entertained by the people of the parish and were greatly pleased with their delightful Sunday in this little Connecticut town. To-day will be spent in visiting the immense works of the Goodyear Rubber Co., at Naugatuck, and in enjoying the varied pleasures afforded by High Rock Grove, one of the most picturesque spots in the Naugatuck Valley. To-night the choir sails for home, sweet home, on the steamer Erastus Corning from New Haven.

She Threatens to Slap the Duke.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The Duke of Manchester is receiving terrible abuse from Miss Bessie Bellwood, the darling of the music halls. She says she will never forgive him for his treatment of her. Bessie is reported to have told a reporter that the first time she meets Manchester she will slap his face. She characterizes him as an ungrateful man, who accepted all her means when he was a hungry viscount, but who spurns her now that he is wearing a coronet.

The President and Mr. Blaine Invited.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The President will go to West Virginia in the autumn as the guest of the Hon. Stephen B. Elkins at the club house on Cheat Mountain, near Beverly. Secretary Blaine has been invited to join the party, which will spend the time deer hunting.

Hanged Himself in His Stable.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Abner Koehler, proprietor of a bakery establishment in this city, committed suicide early in the morning by hanging himself in his stable with a piece of clothes line. He was 70 years old. Business embarrassments are believed to have led to his rash act.

Engster Held for Trial.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Charles Engster, the insurance collector who was arrested charged with assaulting a number of young girls, has been held for trial. Bail was fixed at $12,000.

Strychnine Caused His Death.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 10.—John Duvall, whose mind had become unbalanced by the supposition that he was about to lose his property, committed suicide by taking strychnine. He told his two sisters, with whom he lived, that he had taken the deadly drug. Everything was done to save him, but he died in great agony.

Small Cyclone in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 10.—A sudden gust of wind came up at a late hour last night and startled the community, slammed doors, knocked out screens, smashed windows, blew gates off their hinges, snapped branches of trees and, on the whole, was very cyclonic. Tugs saved several people from drowning who had been capsized in small boats.

PRETTY MISS RUSK.

The Young Woman Who Is the Light of Uncle Jerry's Household.

There are so few of the cabinet ladies now in Washington that the diplomatic corps scarcely have energy enough to perform their social rounds. The Blaine family are away; Vice President Morton's lovely household long since transported itself to Rhinebeck and thence to Europe; Mrs. Wanamaker and her daughter have also gone to Europe; Mrs. Proctor is in Vermont; Mrs. Wilmerding, Mr. Tracy's daughter, is going to get married; Mrs. Noble is going to Richfield Springs; Mrs. Attorney General Miller will go for awhile to Cape May, as the guest of Mrs. Harrison, and Mrs. Jerry Rusk, like the good and sensible housewife that she is, is going to her beautiful rural home at Viroqua, Wis., to put up her fall preserves and apple-butter. Mrs. Rusk takes a great deal more interest in her old home at Viroqua than she does in her husband's fight with Emperor William and President Carnot as to whether the American hog shall be received at court abroad. Mrs. Rusk cares nothing about the hog, except as he appears every fall in her sausage machines or pickle barrels. Her charming daughter cares even less. She guys her amiable father on his agricultural fads, and tells him that she and her mother can make better butter at home and give better recipes for it than can his wisest of experts in the department of agriculture.

Miss Mary Edith Rusk, says the Chicago Herald, is the only living daughter of the secretary. While governor of Wisconsin, and when the family were living at Madison, another daughter died. Miss Rusk is the light of her mother's household. She is about twenty, of pretty figure, cleanly molded features and quiet demeanor, yet when waked up she is very vivacious and ever alert for repartee.

A gentleman laughingly observed the other day: "If Uncle Jerry Rusk, with his bombs and balloons and all that sort of thing, means to bring clouds and storm and wet, I'll bet that if he takes his daughter along her smile will upset all his plans. No cloud could withstand the sunshine of that smile, even if it were of Uncle Jerry's own make."

THE JACKSON STATUE.

A Grand Work of Art Recently Unveiled at Lexington, Va.

The statue, which is by Valentine, is in bronze and of heroic size. The figure of Jackson is clad in a full suit of confederate gray, the gold lace showing distinctly on his coat sleeves. His feet are encased in a pair of heavy cavalry boots, the tops reaching midway above the knee. His sword hangs by his side in its scabbard. In his right hand he carries his field glasses. The head is bare and his long hair is thrown back from his broad forehead, his mouth is firmly set and his eagle eye looks out to the south.

The pedestal on which the statue stands was built of six slabs of granite. The first is 7½x7½ feet; the second is 7x6½ feet; the third is 6x6 feet; the fourth is 4x3½ feet; the fifth is 4x3 feet 8 inches; the sixth is 3x3 feet, on which the statue rests. The granite base is 9 feet high, the bronze plaque 1 foot, and the bronze statue is 8 feet high, making a total height of 18 feet.

When the Czar Travels.

It is a serious matter for ordinary travelers when the czar of Russia starts on a journey. The other day, when he went from St. Petersburg to Moscow, a trainful of business men proceeding in the opposite direction was put on a side track in order that the imperial train might pass, and for two hours everybody was kept the closest prisoner. All the doors and windows in each car were closed and locked, and special sentries were posted to see that no one attempted to open them. During the preparations for the czar's trip there was an almost total cessation of postal and telegraphic communication between Moscow and St. Petersburg for two whole days.

Returned in Installments.

"What are you crying about?" asked a kind-hearted stranger of a lad who was standing in front of a newspaper office, weeping as if his heart would break.

"Oh, dad's gone upstairs to lick the editor."

"Well, has he come down yet?" pursued the gentle Samaritan.

"Pieces of him have," exclaimed the boy, indulging in a fresh burst of tears, "and I'm expecting the rest every minute."—Peterson's Weekly.

A Frightful Predicament.

Mrs. Grayneck—Why, Johnny, what in the world are you striking Willie for like that?

Johnny—Well, I should think I had good cause.

Mrs. Grayneck—What do you mean?

Johnny—Well, I let him use my beanshooter all last Sunday afternoon if he'd say my prayers for me for a week, and I've just found out that he's skipped three days.—Jury.

A Sure Remedy.

A—So you have sworn off from using tobacco?

B—Yes; I suffered a good deal during the first week, but after that I felt all right.

"What did you take to allay the craving for tobacco?"

"I took to smoking again. That allayed the craving right off."—Texas Siftings.

Very Suspicious.

Magistrate—Why did you arrest this man?

Officer—On suspicion. I think he's a Philadelphia boodler.

Magistrate—Do you know him?

Officer—No, y'r honor; but he said he was from Philadelphia, and he seemed to be in a hurry.—N. Y. Weekly.

Gentlemen of Leisure.

Kind Lady—What a nice little girl you are! Is your father in business in this city?

Little Girl—Business! My papa doesn't have to bother about business.

"Ah! Gentleman of leisure, then?"

"Yes'm; he's a detective."—Good News.

And Then the War Began.

Henpeck—I believe that there really is something in the saying that Friday is an unlucky day. I remember when I proposed to my best girl on a Friday.

Smith—And she rejected you?

Henpeck — No — unfortunately she married me.—Munsey's Weekly.

ABOUT THE SIZE OF IT.

Boy (who has lost his way)—I say, mister, how far is it to Camptown Creek?

Man (surlily)—Find out. I ain't no city directory!

Boy (with acute emphasis)—No, you ain't; you're a wolume on good manners, you are!—Life.

Asking an Impossibility.

Photographer—Can't you assume a more pleasant expression than that? Just think of your best girl a few minutes.

Young Man (sadly)—It wouldn't do any good. She refused me about a week ago.—Jury.

Answered.

"What would you do if you had a voice like mine?" said Binks, who is rather proud of his basso profundo.

"I'd take it out into the woods and yell with it till it bu'st," said De Garry, who prefers his own tenor.—Harper's Bazar.

IT IS NOT

A LIE.

A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:

HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. TUDOR Co. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. TUDOR Co.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. Government stamps on the barrels thereof have, in no instance, borne date later than the year 1881.

CHASED BY AN ENGINE.

An Engineer's Story of a Wild Railroad Ride.

Making a Mile a Minute to Escape Death in Hot Pursuit—Why One Engineer Is Looking for a Daylight Run.

"WELL, yes," said the engineer, puffing contentedly upon his pipe and gazing with loving pride at his engine as it stood in the yard near the Union depot, waiting for its train, "we do see some very strange sights along the road after dark, but whether a night run makes a man superstitious or not I would not like to say. I had a peculiar experience myself on the mountain some years ago, one which led me to ask for a day run, although I didn't get it. At that time I was taking the fast line east, leaving here about eight o'clock in the evening and getting into Altoona a little after midnight. That night we pulled out of the union depot half an hour late, the Pan Handle connection being that much behind time.

"The first section, which I took out, consisted mostly of baggage and express cars, there being but two passenger coaches coupled on behind. The sleepers were on the second section, which followed us about twenty minutes later. You know how wild and lonely the country is along the Pittsburgh division, and that outside of Greensburg and Johnstown there's no settlement worth mentioning.

"When we reached the narrows east of Blairsville intersection a rainstorm set in. The wind howled through the forest and blew a regular gale, the occasional crash of a falling tree on the mountain above showing how the storm was raging. Jack, my fireman, got scared and begged me to stop the train for fear we would run into a log or a landslide.

"I didn't dare to do it, for as I said before, we left Pittsburgh half an hour late, and so far had not made up one minute, and besides it wouldn't do to get on the time of the second section. I shut off steam a little so that in case we should strike anything we would not be likely to roll down the rocks into the Conemaugh river.

"We passed through the Pack Saddle all right, however, and reached Johnstown near midnight. This was years before the great flood, and I was glad when we came in sight of the furnace fires and electric lights of the iron works, for somehow I felt nervous and out of sorts.

"When we got away from Johnstown and began to climb up the mountain we were again in the wilderness, for, as you know, the stretch of track on the western slope between Cresson and Johnstown runs through about as desolate a section as you would find anywhere. We were the only crew on the hill that night, and I said to Jack that there must be a block on the west-bound track on the other side of the mountain, for we usually passed half a dozen trains of empty coal cars after leaving Johnstown.

"Well, we found there had been a landslide near Allegrippus when we reached Gallitzen, but it had been cleared away, and three west-bound extras had already reached the summit. It takes three engines to bring up an ordinary freight from Altoona, two in front and one behind. The two helpers are cut off at the top of the mountain and run back light to Altoona for another trip.

"When we reached the summit, therefore, there were six empty engines waiting to follow us down. 'You want to keep a move on,' one of the freight engineers yelled to me as we rolled slowly by, 'we're going to chase you down into Altoona yard ahead of the second section.'

"YOU WANT TO KEEP A MOVE ON."

"I laughed, and when my train got fairly over the summit and began to slide down the grade, shut off steam. I knew the engines which would follow us would be kept far enough in the rear by the signal men in the towers. We soon plunged into the tunnel and rattled along at a lively gait, with that clickety-clack of the wheels which makes it plain to everyone that the train is running down grade by its own weight.

"I kept the air on pretty closely and so held the train under control; for if the brakes failed to work when needed going down there it would be good-by John when the first curve was reached. I got to thinking of that as we swung down the track that night and fell to wondering what it would look like to see an engine or car roll down the mountain to the bottom, hundreds of feet below.

"The air was misty, the rain having ceased, but now and then a gust of wind would blow away the fog and for an instant the mountain tops and sides could be seen. Then the fog would fall again and shut out everything, so that the track right ahead could not be seen.

"Just above Allegrippus, at the point where the track bends around and runs down to the Horseshoe bend, is a signal tower, and below the curve is another. We got the white at the upper tower, and, reducing the speed, rolled on.

"A gust of wind blew away the fog just as we were rounding the bend, and the wild mountain scenery was clearly outlined against the darkness. We moved slowly down to the curve, for the rules were very strict about keeping control of the train along there. We rounded the Horseshoe and put on a little steam to get back to a fair speed again.

"Jack was sitting in the cabin half asleep, for the fireman has a rest on a down grade. I saw ahead the clear signal at the Kittanning Point tower. Something made me turn my head and look across the valley to the other side, from which we had just come.

"As I gazed the mist cleared away and suddenly a headlight flashed into view and an engine was outlined against the sky beyond. In a second it disappeared, but a rattle and roar and a faint light as from an open furnace door told me that a locomotive was coming down the mountain at a terrific speed.

"The course of the engine was then nearly parallel with that of ours, but I knew that a moment later it would skim around the curve and be right behind. For an instant I was almost paralyzed with surprise and fear. The idea of an empty engine dashing down a grade in your rear with a speed four times that of your own is something to benumb one's brain.

"A person accustomed to act upon the impulse of a moment does so almost unconsciously, and in this instance I threw off the brakes and put on a full head of steam, even while my eyes were fixed on the engine behind.

A HEADLIGHT FLASHED INTO VIEW.

My engine gave a jump, and I knew that in less time than it takes to tell it we would be making a mile a minute.

"If the engineer of the helper was running rapidly but carefully under the impression that we were far ahead, the danger signal at the tower would warn him and he would stop, but if he had lost control of his engine—I thought of the high embankments ahead and trembled as the idea of rolling down the mountain again came into my brain.

"The wild and prolonged tooting of a whistle sounded in the rear, and reechoed again and again through the valleys. I knew what that meant—the engine was beyond the engineer's control. We had at least a mile start. Could we with six cars hope to escape an engine without burden?

"One thing was in our favor. The helper was a locomotive built for great power but slow running, and therefore its small driving wheels must already be revolving at a dangerous speed. Possibly it might jump the track, and so put an end to the threatening calamity.

"I gritted my teeth in agony. A short distance ahead was a deep cut, and then a high embankment; if we passed that point part of the danger would be over. We whizzed down the track faster than I ever rode before or since. A rumble and a roar, and the cut was left behind.

"A second later we were over the hill and on solid ground. I glanced back and saw the headlight of the wild engine in the cut not one hundred yards distant. With frozen blood I awaited the crash. It came. A sudden shock ran over the train, and my engine leaped forward, but luckily did not leave the track.

"Instantly I realized the vestibule arrangement on the coaches had broken the force of the collision, aided also by the rapid speed of our train. A second later the same whistle which had thrilled us before rang out, but this time it was the cheery call for brakes, entirely different from the former shrieks. I shut off steam and put on air cautiously to see whether the light engine was pushing us with her full power.

"Finding it was not, I looked back and saw the runaway come to a standstill just as we passed the tower and rolled under the Seventeenth street bridge at Altoona. I afterwards learned the levers on the helper had caught in some way, and the engine could not be stopped.

"When it struck the rear coach, however, the shock loosened the machinery, and the engineer at once shut off steam and put on the brakes on the driving wheels.

"Well, there comes the Pan-Handle connection. Good night."—Boston Globe.

A Palindrome.

A palindrome is a line or phrase that reads the same backward as forward. The Latin language is full of such linguistic freaks; the English has but few. One at least is imitable; it represents our first parent politely introducing himself to Eve in these words: "Madam, I'm Adam." The following phrase lacks but one letter of being even more remarkable: "Lewd did I live, evil did I dwell." From the Latin we have: "Roma tibi subito motibus ibit amor" (Rome, love will come to you suddenly with violence).—Detroit Free Press.

ANOTHER HOT DAY

Many Deaths and Prostrations in the Large Cities.

TERRIBLE HEAT IN NEW YORK.

The Ambulances of the Different Hospitals Kept Busy.

A Sickening Report from Chicago—Dead Bodies Found Among Lumber Heaps—Philadelphians Suffer from the Hot Wave—Crops Burning Up in Connecticut—Mills Idle on Account of the Drouth.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—To-day was the hottest 11th of August that New York has known in twenty years.

At 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer at the Signal Service Station recorded 98 degrees. At noon it was 93 degrees.

The humidity was 83 per cent. at 8 o'clock this morning, and at that high figure it stood all the morning and afternoon.

A large increase in the death rate was noted, which is attributed directly to the intense heat. Thirty cases of prostrations from heat were reported to the police, and the ambulances of the different hospitals were kept busy carrying persons of all ages and sexes to those institutions.

Several persons were driven insane by the heat, and one of them, Charles Witt, of Bridgeport, Conn., tried to shoot a train hand on a train coming to this city. Three persons died on the streets before assistance could reach them, but this is only a small fraction of those who died from the effects of the heat.

It is estimated that at least fifty persons who were sick and weak had their deaths hastened by the hot wave.

All the country east of the Mississippi is in the hot wave.

Terrible Drouth in Connecticut.

PLAINFIELD, Conn., Aug. 11.—This has been one of the hottest days in years. The drouth is something startling and all late crops are burning up in the ground. Early crops have ripened so quickly that they are badly dwarfed. The rivers, ponds, and all other mill streams are lower than for years and many mills in this section have been compelled to stop for want of water. All through the valleys of the Yantic, Quinnebaugh and Shetucker rivers mills are idle. Pachaug Lake, that covers 14,000 acres, is nearly dry. Unless rain comes quickly both farmers and laborers will suffer great loss.

Philadelphians Feel the Heat.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—The thermometer in this city to-day reached the highest point of the summer, having struck an average of 97 degrees. Not only has the weather been hot but there has been a great amount of moisture in the air, which has caused a large number of sunstrokes. Everyone who was able to get out of town has gone and the streets are practically deserted. Sergt. Day promises that this is only the beginning of the August hot wave.

Sudden Deaths in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Women dropping dead while washing, dead bodies found among lumber heaps, men falling from ice wagons and drays were the thermometers that registered the day's heat. A number of deaths occurred on the streets and half a dozen more in the hospitals where the overcome patients had been taken.

Ninety-two at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 11.—At 3 p. m. the thermometer was at 92 degrees in the shade at the city engineer's office. At noon it was 89 degrees.

Pittsburg Broiling.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 11.—Ten prostrations and one death from heat were reported during the day.

NEW FOREIGN MINISTER.

Richard Cotts Shannon to Go to Costa Rica.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Cape May, N. J., says the President has appointed Richard Cotts Shannon of New York, to be Minister to Costa Rica, San Salvador and Nicaragua, Central America.

Mr. Shannon was at one time Secretary of Legation at Brazil. He is a native of Maine and is said to be a thorough Spanish scholar.

Over the Cliff to His Death.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Charles Van Wike, aged 11 years, son of James Van Wike, an old driver for the Miller & Brundage Coach Company at Niagara Falls, fell over the high bank of the Niagara River near the mills and was dashed to death on the rocks, 150 feet below. The boy was playing about the bank where garbage is dumped over, and missed his footing, taking the fatal plunge.

Will Pay $1,000,000 for the Site.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—President McLeod, of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company, has satisfactorily concluded the negotiations which have been in progress for some time for a settlement with the Market companies, at Twelfth and Market streets, and will pay $1,000,000 for the site.

The Desperado Beyond Reach.

COLUMBUS GROVE, O., Aug. 11.—The local authorities have practically abandoned the chase after the bank robber and murderer of M. Vandemark, as it is believed he is beyond reach. The pursuit, however, has been taken up by professional detectives.

Editor Jones Improving.

POLAND SPRING, Me., Aug. 11.—George Jones passed a comfortable night. He has taken more nourishment and his family are more hopeful.

PRISONERS ESCAPE.

They Break Out of the Somerset Jail and Make for the Woods.

SOMERSET, Pa., Aug. 11.—Five prisoners escaped from Somerset's new county jail at noon. The sixth one was intercepted as he was descending the rope by which his comrades escaped, and was returned to the prison.

The hole in the wall from which the Nicely brothers escaped last March had been bricked up in a loose manner, and when the prisoners had gained an entrance to the attic it was the work of but a few moments to punch the brick out, and with a rope made from the cell hammock slide to the ground, a distance of forty feet. They at once broke for a strip of woods about a quarter of a mile distant from the town.

Deputy Sheriff Lassen has organized a posse and gone in pursuit of the runaways, several of whom are desperate characters.

TOO MANY PEACHES.

Excellent Fruit in Great Abundance in Western New York.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Three carloads of Crawford peaches, containing in all 2,400 baskets, were auctioned off during the morning in this city, and went at prices ranging from 20 to 50 cents per basket. The fruit was in excellent condition, but the market has been glutted.

Not only is the peach market glutted, but most every variety of fruit is in great abundance. Watermelons are cheaper than ever before, 20 and 25 cents is all that is asked for the finest South fruit. Bananas have been retailing by the thousand dozens at 10 cents a dozen, and potatoes are retailing at 25 cents per bushel for the finest variety, with the prospect of a reduction before fall.

STABBING AFFRAY.

Two Deaths the Probable Result of a Quarrel Between Three Brothers.

ASHLAND, Pa., Aug. 11.—News of a serious stabbing affray at New Media, near Centralia, has been received here. Three brothers named Earnest became involved in a quarrel in which one of them was beaten so badly that he will die.

During the fight Bert Cleaver interfered in favor of the beaten brother, but he was turned upon and stabbed with a knife by one of the Earnests. Cleaver's assailant escaped to the woods and is still at large.

THINK HE WAS ALMY.

The Hanover Murderer Said to Have Worked for a Connecticut Farmer.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 11.—Frank C. Almy, the Hanover murderer, hired out with a farmer in South Ford last week, but left suddenly a few days later.

It was not known until afterward that he was the murderer.

The description tallied exactly with the one sent out by the New Hampshire authorities. He gave his name as Frank Anderson and had a large handled knife marked "Cattle" on the blade. He also had a revolver.

A Well-Known Crook Arrested.

OLEAN, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Matt S. Reilly, a well-known McKean County, Pa., crook, and son of ex-Commissioner A. Reilly, of Smethport, was arrested in Jamestown and brought here, charged with forgery. He forged his father's name to a $20 check, and got it cashed upon the endorsement of two Olean men. He is also held on the charge of highway robbery, perpetrated near Westons a few nights ago.

An International Prize Fight.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—A cable dispatch from London says that Ted Pritchard, the champion pugilist of England, has posted a forfeit of $500 to bind a match with Bob Fitzsimmons. The Olympic Club, of New Orleans, has offered a $10,000 purse for the fight, and Pritchard has accepted this offer. The probabilities are that a great international prize fight will shortly be decided in America.

Distressed Over a Water Famine.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Aug. 11.—It looks as if this place will suffer from water famine. Yesterday the reservoir gave out and hundreds of families are without water. Not only is it distressing, but also dangerous. In the event of a fire there is no water for use. People are in dread of such a catastrophe.

Attached His Real Estate.

NORTH ABINGTON, Mass., Aug. 11.—The real estate in Plymouth County owned by Moses N. Arnold has been attached by the creditors of Potter, White & Bayley, of Boston, for $100,000. Mr. Arnold was at one time a member of the firm, but is at a loss to understand upon what ground the suit is brought.

Democrats to Confer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The Executive Committee of the National Association of Democratic Clubs will meet at the Hoffman House to-day. The Democratic State Committee will meet at the same place to-morrow morning.

James Russell Lowell Recovering.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Though there was no change last evening in the condition of James Russell Lowell, his physician expresses hope of a speedy recovery.

GHOULS FRIGHTENED

Trying to Steal Ex-Congressman Packer's Body.

THEY LEFT IN GREAT HASTE.

A Railroad Man Saw Them at Work in Passing the Cemetery.

He Made a Slight Noise and the Grave Robbers Rushed Away, Leaving Their Tools Behind—All Sunbury Excited Over the Bold Attempt to Rob the Grave—No Trace of the Thieves.

SUNBURY, Pa., Aug. 11.—A daring attempt was made early in the morning to secure the remains of the late Hon. J. B. Packer, at Sunbury, but the fortunate appearance of a brakeman spoiled the grave robbers' plans.

The people are much excited over the affair, and detectives are at work to secure clues in order to arrest the guilty ones. Soon after the Congressman and millionaire's remains were laid to rest guards were placed over the grave to prevent a possible attack by ghouls for the purpose of claiming a ransom for its return. A week ago the family concluded that there was no necessity for the guards, and they were discharged.

The cemetery is opposite the lower yard of the Pennsylvania Railroad. About 1 o'clock Brakeman Myers was walking down the tracks when he heard the noise in the cemetery.

Listening attentively he heard the rattle of dirt and clicking of picks.

He was startled for a moment, but finally arrived at the conclusion that the season, in order to escape the heat of midday to prepare a grave, had chosen the cool hours of early morning to do his work.

Not quite satisfied, Myers leaped over the fence and proceed in the direction of the noise. It was dark, and in walking by a grave 50 feet from the sounds tripped and fell over a tombstone.

The fall made considerable noise, and when he arose Myers was startled by three men who ran rapidly past him and into the underbrush.

The Ghouls Frightened.

The brakeman ran back to the railroad, and calling several companions, once more invaded the graveyard and found a number of picks and shovels over the grave of Mr. Packer.

A foot of earth was excavated from the grave. No trace of the would-be body-snatchers could be found. The work of the ghouls was the most daring thing ever perpetrated in Sunbury.

Not twenty feet away train men were working, but they failed to hear the noise until Brakeman Myers gave the alarm. When the news was flashed through Sunbury the population was very much excited.

Although every effort possible is being made to run down the marauders, the officers have thus far been unsuccessful in their work.

THE BAKER-GILMER CASE.

Strong Language Used by One of the Prosecuting Counsel.

ABINGDON, Va., Aug. 11.—J. C. Wysor opened the argument for the prosecution in the Baker-Gilmer case. He began with an imaginary picture of the courtship and early married life of Dr. and Mrs. Baker, and the home of Gilmer and his wife before murder darkened the one and the seducer the other. Turning to Baker he said:

"Had you invaded my home and destroyed my happiness as you did Wyndham Gilmer's, I would have sought you out with shining steel and buried it in your treacherous heart. Gilmer chose the coward's as the field in which he would settle with you, and in the name of the Commonwealth of Virginia, I charge you with murder most foul and damnable, and your life is the penalty."

Wysor was followed by ex-Attorney-General Blair in an argument devoted mainly to an analysis of Mrs. Gilmer's testimony, and in which he pictured her as a shameless adulteress unworthy of credit.

Congressman Buchanan will close for the defense.

Experts to Testify This Afternoon.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—A meeting of Councils Investigating Committee will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was thought that the experts appointed by the committee, Messrs. Heins and Whelan, would be ready with their report this week, but it has been found advisable to allow them more time. The meeting to-day will in all probability be an interesting one. The mayor's experts, Taylor, Faunce and Lawrence B. Brown, will be the chief and, perhaps, only witnesses. The committee is now trying to find what become of the $925,000 which Mr. Bardsley said he deposited in the Keystone National Bank.

Senator Vedder Ill.

PEDONIA, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Congressman Hooker has received a dispatch stating that State Senator Vedder is seriously ill.

ALLIANCE SENSATION.

A Business Agent is Over $20,000 Short in His Accounts.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 11.—There is a sensation in Alliance circles. J. O. Wynne, business agent of the Georgia State Alliance is over $20,000 short in his accounts. The directors appointed W. A. Broughton, treasurer of the Exchange, to examine the books and the shortage was discovered. Wynne is under a bond of $50,000.

The bondsmen held a meeting to arrange the payment of all shortages. The Exchange claims that the shortage is an out and out defalcation, but Wynne makes the statement that the shortage was due to clerical errors and lost vouchers.

The affair is creating a tremendous sensation.

LUMBER DEALERS FAIL.

The Glendon Company's Liabilities Estimated at $200,000.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—The Glendon Company, which has been engaged in the lumber trade and in the manufacture of sash, blinds and interior furnishings, have failed. The liabilities of the firm to the trade are estimated at $200,000.

The firm has been engaged in speculative building operations and several buildings have been left on their hands. This and several other minor causes led to the failure.

It is not believed that other firms in the trade will become involved.

Died from an Overdose of Medicine.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Amherst, N. H., says that Mrs. Lelia Robinson Sawtelle, an authoress and a member of the Massachusetts bar, died during the morning from, it is supposed, an overdose of medicine taken inadvertently. She was the first woman in Massachusetts to be admitted to the Bar. She graduated in 1881 from the University Law School. She was the author of the books "Law Made Easy," and "Law of Husband and Wife." She was a vigorous speaker and writer.

A Chance for Pugilist Mitchell.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Pugilist Jim Corbett will start out with his show tomorrow. He says he is willing to meet Slavin or Mitchell for $1,000 a side. He was particularly anxious he said to meet Mitchell and take some of the conceit out of him. "I will meet him," he said, "any place in America, and will offer him inducements which he cannot refuse. I will fight him any way he wants from one round to a finish."

The York Farm Colliery Disaster.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 11.—The mine disaster which occurred at the York Farm Colliery on Saturday afternoon was far more serious than was reported. Sixteen miners were burned, several of whom are in a precarious condition. John Corby expired in terrible agony nine hours after the explosion. He was a single man, and his home was at Oxford, N. J.

Charged With Grand Larceny.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Moses S. Levy, of the firm of Levy Bros. & Co., which recently failed for several hundred thousand dollars, has been arrested charged with grand larceny. Butterfield & Co. and the Assabet Manufacturing Company, both of this city, are the accusers.

A Young Woman's Hangs Herself.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Miss R. Dykeman, who lived near Willseyville, was discovered by her mother hanging dead from a tree in the yard. Cause of the suicide is unknown.

CAUGHT IN A TRAP

A Gigantic Building Association Swindle Exposed.

VICTIMS IN ALL THE STATES.

The Officers Were Collecting Money and Making No Loans.

Clever Work by Postoffice Inspector Stuart—Disguised as a Letter Carrier He Secured Important Evidence—Two Officials of the Crooked Concern Arrested—The Manager Has Disappeared.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Postoffice Inspector Stuart has arrested President Alfred Downing and Vice-President N. H. Tolman of the National Capital Savings Building and Loan Association of North America, and exposed a most gigantic swindle.

It is charged that the men who have been conducting this association have swindled thousands of people from every State in the Union; that they have taken from $200,000 to $600,000 and given nothing in return. The victims hail from Maine to California, and are numbered among the rich and poor alike.

From facts already in possession of the authorities, the scheme will parallel that of the great "Fund W" swindle, which was broken up about five years ago. There are still two men at liberty, they having disappeared several weeks ago.

The two men who are missing, it is believed, got away with most of the funds.

For six months and more letters have been received from all parts of the country by the postoffice and city authorities protesting that the National Capital Savings Building and Loan Association of North America was not what its projectors represented it to be, and that it was collecting money and making no loans.

Inspector Stuart has been working on the case four months. He found that the concern had agents in every State in the Union, who were selling the $20,000,000 of stock the company had issued. The scheme was advertised through these agents, who were sent documents and circulars showing the association to be gilt edged.

As the time Captain Stuart took charge of the case, Louis F. Mortimer, the general manager and secretary, was apparently the responsible man, and handled the cash received in large amounts every day. Captain Stuart visited the company's office frequently, disguised as a letter carrier, in order to secure evidence.

Several weeks ago Mortimer disappeared, and yesterday, after waiting in vain for his return, Capt. Stuart decided to secure the other visible members of the concern.

George O. Ferguson, of Lincoln, Neb., representing about 60 victims in his city, was summoned here. With his assistance the necessary evidence was completed and the arrests made. Three young women clerks were taken into custody as witnesses.

Until within a few months the concern, it is said, did a heavy business in Philadelphia, but it appears that the authorities there made inquiries which resulted in the manager leaving.

THE CHINESE TROUBLE.

Several Vessels Ordered to Proceed at Once to Protect American Interests.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The Government is alarmed at the situation in China and is hastening to send all the vessels that can be spared for the protection of American citizens and interests in China.

The Navy Department has sent orders for the steamship Marion to proceed at once from Behring Sea to Chifoo.

It is also stated that instructions were sent for the Alert to follow the Marion. It is not improbable that the Charleston may also be ordered to join the Asiatic station.

DOUGLASS RESIGNS.

Official Announcement of the Minister's Retirement Just Made Public.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Frederick Douglass has resigned his position as Minister to Hayti. The letter tendering his resignation is dated July 30th, and is simply a formal resignation, giving no reason for his action.

About 40 days ago Minister Douglass left Port-au-Prince and came to the United States on leave of absence for the customary period of 60 days, during which time he has been at his home in this city.

An Old Physician Kills Himself.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 11.—Dr. T. H. Stewart, a prominent physician of this city, shot himself in the temple with a revolver last evening. The dead man was about 75 years old and had been a practitioner in this city for eleven years. He leaves a widow and two children, who reside at Erie. Ill-health and despondency caused the act.

Hot at the Summer Capital.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 11.—The intense heat lessened the daily amount of executive business that has been usually transacted. S. B. Elkins has been a late mysterious visitor at the Cape Capitol. It is understood here that he, General Clarkson, Mr. Wanamaker and Mr. Quay held a meeting in Philadelphia, the result of which has not transpired.

Temporary Injunction Granted.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—A temporary injunction has been granted against the order of the Royal Ark in the suit of John McLeod and others, who allege that their certificates have matured and are unpaid, and that the officers of the order seek to divert its funds for illegal purposes.

Will Not Work With Negroes.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Aug. 11.—Trouble is feared in the coal mines of this city. The whites object to the employment of colored laborers, and the latter have frequently been "run off" by the white miners.

CULINARY. No. 34.

Small Fresh Fish Baked in a Crust.

BY MRS. D. A. LINCOLN,

Author Boston Cook Book.

Use small fresh fish, like trout, smelts, perch, etc. Clean them and wipe dry. Cut gashes one inch apart through the thick flesh on each side. Sprinkle well with salt and pepper. Make a rich crust, with 1 quart flour, into which mix thoroughly 4 level tea sp. Cleveland's baking powder and 1 tea sp. salt. Moisten with thin cream sufficient to make a dough to roll out. Divide into two parts, and roll each part ¼ inch thick. Lay the fish on one part, leaving two inches space between each fish. Put the other half of the crust over. Cut through the crusts around each fish; pinch the edges together tightly, and lay them some distance apart on a baking tin. Bake about ½ hour. Serve with egg sauce. Cook 1 tea sp. minced onion and 2 table sp. flour in 2 table sp. hot butter, add gradually 1 pint hot milk. Stir as it thickens, and season with 1 tea sp. salt, ¼ salt sp. white pepper and 1 table sp. lemon juice. Add the chopped whites of three hard boiled eggs, and the yokes mashed and sifted, and serve very hot.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

Cleveland's Baking Powder is wholesome, leavens most and leavens best. Try it.

TO MAKE THE BIG GUNS.

The Bethlehem Company to be Awarded the Contract.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The Board of Ordnance and Fortifications recommend that a contract be entered into with the Bethlehem Company of Bethlehem, Pa., for the manufacture of 100 breech-loading, single shot, built-up forged steel rifled guns as follows: 26 8-inch at $17,246.55 each, including ten rounds of ammunition complete, the first gun manufactured to be a type gun, which shall be subject to such tests as the Board of Ordnance and Fortification shall prescribe; 20 10-inch guns, each for $36,547.58, including ten rounds of ammunition complete, the type gun to be subject to tests which the Board may prescribe; and 26 12-inch guns each for $54,472.22, including ten rounds of ammunition complete, the first gun (the type), to be subject to tests prescribed by the Board. Under this bid guns will be delivered as follows:

The 8-inch type gun two years from the date of signing the contract and the 24 service guns of this type six years and eight months after the test of the type gun; the 10-inch type gun to be delivered two years and five months from the day of the contract; the 40 service guns of this type nine years and three months after the test of the type gun; the 12-inch type gun to be delivered for its test two years and nine months from the date of the contract; the 24 service guns of this type to be completed in eight years and nine months thereafter. The guns will cost $8,580,873.50 and the appropriation for them was about $4,800,000.

DILLON NOT IN A HURRY.

He is Reluctant About Taking Part in the Present Irish Struggle.

DUBLIN, Aug. 11.—There is little excitement at present in Irish political affairs. Dillon, who was willing at first to be aggressive against Parnell, has, it is said, almost concluded not to take a share in the struggle between the two factions.

The reported scandal in the family of an Irish M. P. opposed to Parnell will probably not come before the public. The first wife, it is said, has accepted the offered compromise, and will maintain the reticence on the subject which she has maintained for years.

It is said that Timothy Healy has received an intimation from Dillon that attacks of a personal character on Mr. and Mrs. Parnell were very distasteful and doing more harm than good.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Phylozera have appeared in the champagne district of France.

The chainmakers' strike at Findlay, O., has been settled by the strikers surrendering.

The First National Bank of Omaha has lost $3,000 in gold. A young clerk, recently resigned, is accused of the theft.

Nollgang Teschner, manufacturer of ladies' underwear, Canal street, New York, has assigned without preferences.

Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Russell Harrison are in Paris, whence they will proceed in a few days to London, on their way home.

Ten Italians were injured in a railroad wreck near New Haven, Conn., and nearly 200 of their countrymen sought to take the life of the engineer of the train in revenge.

A Madrid dispatch says that United States Minister to Spain, General E. Burd Grubb, has gone to Paris, and thence will start for America at the end of this month; and it is probable that, having completed his treaty mission he will return to Spain to present letters of recall.

The Hopkins block at North Uxbridge, Mass., was destroyed by fire yesterday. The building was occupied by eleven families, most of whom lost all their effects. Hector Thelen, grocer, on the first floor loses $3,000, insurance $2,000; his mother lost $1,000 in money which she had sewed into the bed coverings. The loss on the building was $5,000. The building was owned by Slater & Parna. A small building owned by B. J. Blanchard was also burned.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—For New England: Continued warm; southwesterly winds; fair weather.

For Eastern New York, New Jersey and Connecticut: Continued warm; southwesterly winds and generally fair weather.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Generally fair, except local rains on the lake shore; southwesterly winds; slightly cooler.

—The "Merits" of the Pond Machine Tool company's works, defeated the "Unions" of Grant avenue, in a game of base-ball, Saturday, by the score of 24 to 21. The battery for the Merits was Mack and Scott; for the Unions E. McCarthy and Firstbrook.

—Saturday the Westfield base-ball nine play the Crescent League's team on the latter's grounds. The Westfields are outclassed by the Plainfield players and cannot possibly win unless by accident as they have won before, or by the bad playing of the Crescents.

—Two very able sermons were delivered by the Rev. R. B. Montgomery, of the Green Avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning and evening. His text in the morning was from St. Mark IV: 38, 39. In the evening, St. Luke XIV: 23. Mr. Montgomery will occupy the pulpit again next Sunday.

—The "dagoes" working on the waterworks trenches don't seem to be bothered by the frightful heat of the sun's broiling rays, but it is noticed that looks of envy are cast by the rest of the gang on Park avenue, at the fortunate few who have the cooler berth underneath the railway bridge, where a grateful shade is cast over the sons of toil.

—Rogers Bros., say that yesterday's paper with their new advertisement in it had not been out over an hour when ladies came to buy the $4 shoe they are selling this week for $2.75. When people see the advertisement of this firm, they know it is true. The house has about one hundred pairs left, and about seventy five pairs of the oxford ties.

—A Jerseyman predicts that the coming winter will be long and cold, because the nut crop is immense. Some people are in such a hurry to forecast the winter weather that they forget to wait and see what the goose bone has to say. Nothing will be positively known about next winter's freezes and breezes until the goose bone comes on with its readings.

Here is one that is found in an exchange, but it is not accompanied with an affidavit as to its efficacy. Here it is: "It is said that common salt sprinkled liberally around places infested by rats will drive them away. This is a simple experiment and won't cost much to try it."

—New Jersey is getting so many doctors that the public have a right to expect cheaper pills and less "nasty" tasting medicine before a great while. We read that forty-four of the fifty-one candidates who recently presented themselves at Trenton for examination for licenses to practice as physicians in this State were successful in answering a sufficient number of questions for them to pass.

—The huckleberry season is now at its height, and people residing on the Pocono mountain and vicinity report the crop as an exceedingly large one. Many people living in the huckleberry section always hail a big crop with great delight, for the sale of these berries is the principal source of income to many families. The berry trade puts hundreds of dollars in circulation throughout the region in which the berries grow.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

TO REST IN OLD TRINITY.

MANY MEMORIES REVIVED AS THE OLD TOMB IS OPENED.

Thaddeus Avery Van Zandt Was Placed To-day in the Remaining Niche of the Family Vault—Twenty-four of His Relatives Interred There—Other Notables Dead Near By.

Up to the close of the first half of the present century old Trinity churchyard was the principal burying ground on Manhattan Island. Everybody of any distinction in the community used to be laid at rest alongside the walls of the oldest church in New York.

A burial in the old graveyard to-day is of rare occurrence. Interments seldom average more than three or four a year. What was then a parish churchyard on the main thoroughfare, over which nothing noiser than the ox team and wagon laden with vegetables from Staten Island ever passed, is still the same. The only change is that the country road of half a century ago is now a street full of bustle and traffic, while added to the present hubbub will soon be established the monotonous rumble of the cable to help awake the dead.

Near the southern portal of the church, in a corner of the pathway leading from the gateway to the main entrance, there is a slab of stone that differs in no way from the other modest monuments except that it bears the inscription Wynand Van Zandt. It is the entrance to the vault of the Van Zandts, and it was opened at noon to-day to receive the body of the twenty-fifth member of the family.

Thaddeus Avery VanZandt, who now occupies the last remaining niche in the family vault, was the son of the late William VanZandt, of New York city. He was a descendant of one of the oldest Knickerbocker families in that State. He died Saturday at his home on Crescent avenue, this city, at the age of sixty-three, as told exclusively in yesterday's PRESS.

In May last the vault was opened to receive the body of Mr. VanZandt's eldest son, Edward, but before that it had not been disturbed for ten years.

An additional interest will therefore be attached to the burial of Thaddeus Avery VanZandt this morning at 12 o'clock, by reason of the deceased's old family connections and the extreme infrequency of Trinity churchyard funerals in the present generation.

There is scarcely a stone in old Trinity churchyard that is not full of interest; not a family of any prominence in New York city can look back a hundred years and not be represented in the old burying ground.

Next to the VanZandt vault stands the Lawrence monument, erected for Captain James Lawrence, of the United States Navy, who was killed June 1, 1813, in the memorable fight between the Chesapeake and Shannon. He had previously immortalized himself in the bravery he displayed on board the U. S. Gunboat, Hornet, when she sank H. M. S. Peacock after a short encounter that lasted fourteen minutes.

Around on every side can be found names which have since become identified with New York of to-day. Vaults marked Hammersley, Livingston, Morris, Campbell, Bayard, Watts, Desbrosses, Berkeley, Brownjohn, DePuyster, VanHorn, Rogers, Lispenard, VanRensselaer, Cruger, Gautier, Mesier and Bleecker dot here and there the stone-paved walks of the yard.

These names which have become familiar to every New Yorker are not the only ones remembered in Trinity Churchyard. At the extreme northern end is the largest monument in the cemetery. It is dedicated to the martyrs who died in the prison ships during the Revolution.

NOT A FIRE-BUG.

Instead, a Wayward Boy, Who Was Breaking His Mother's Heart.

The arrest of Fred. Willibald, at the fire, yesterday afternoon, gave rise to the rumor that a fire-bug was in the toils. Willibald is a fifteen-year-old son of Amelia Willibald, who lives at the rear of 23 Liberty street. He is familiarly known as "Dutchy". Of late he has been a very wayward lad, and his mother complained to the police that he had repeatedly run away from home, was in the habit of jumping on moving coal trains, and in various ways causing her great anxiety and worriment. The officers have been looking for him several days past, but it took the fire gong to bring him out of his hiding place. He could not resist the temptation to run to the fire, and consequently he was speedily arrested.

After spending a night in the police station, the lad was this morning sent home to his mother, on promise of good behavior in the future.

—Crabbing is excellent at Boynton Beach and fine catches of weak fish are being made daily.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

PERHAPS A FEMALE FIRE-BUG.

Her Own Children Say that They Saw Her Strike the Match.

A small frame stable owned and occupied by Charles Arnold, and situated just at the rear of his butcher shop at 21 Liberty street, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon.

An alarm was sent in at 5:45 from box 34, and within five minutes two streams of water were being poured into the flames. The stable was little more than a shed, however, and the firemen could do little beyond preventing the fire from spreading to the adjoining buildings. The heat of the blaze was very intense, while it lasted, for the stable was well filled with hay and straw. The loss is about $400, insured.

A number of children who were playing about in the neighborhood say that they saw a woman pause at the stable door, set down a pitcher of beer, and light two matches and throw them into the straw. They describe the woman and give her name. She is the mother of some of the little ones. An effort will be made to have the woman arrested, but it is feared that she cannot be convicted on the evidence of the children alone, since they are too small to make their testimony of sufficient legal weight. The woman in question is said to bear a grudge against butcher Arnold.

When accused of having caused the fire, the woman denied the charge, and in turn said that the children were to blame. She said they were playing with matches in the stable.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

L. B. Woolston and daughter have gone to Beverly, N. J., for a week's recreation.

The Misses Fannie and Mamie Rafferty, of Park avenue, have gone to Asbury Park for two weeks.

C. G. Crawford and wife, of East Fifth street, are in Chicago on their way to Denver and Colorado Springs.

Miss Ida M. Weaver and Miss Lottie Morse, of North Plainfield, are registered at The Kelsey, Asbury Park.

Mrs. S. O. Horton and her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Cory, of Somerset street, leave to-morrow morning for Forked River, Ocean county.

Miss Esther C. Keeler, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is a guest of Miss Florence Randolph, of West Front street. To-morrow they both will go to Stamford, Conn., for a week.

The Misses Emily and Millie Hudson, of Brooklyn, have returned home after a pleasant week's stay with friends in this city. Miss Emily Hudson is a young lady possessing great talent and cultivation of music, her repertoire includes the most difficult and recent popular selections.

After a lingering illness, Clarkson R. Hope, son of Stevenson R. Hope, and exforeman of Gazelle Engine company, died last night, of consumption. He was conscious to the last. His death was painless and peaceful. He was in his thirty-fourth year. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Editor W. J. Leonard says: "The short address made by Mayor Gilbert, of Plainfield, at the Emancipation Day celebration, could not well have been improved. Mr. Gilbert is a busy cashier of a New York bank, but a professional orator could not have arrayed his thoughts more skillfully, appropriately and tersely than he."

The New York and Brooklyn sportsmen who attended the races on Park avenue, Saturday, paid high compliments to the Plainfielders, and assured them that they had never seen better racing anywhere than that afforded here.

The first race was between Fosher's Dynamite and M. Quinn's Kitty Pilot. Dynamite won both. His time in the first heat was: At the quarter in 39½; at the half, 1.19½; three-quarters, 1:58; home, 2:38. Second heat—39½, 1:19, 1:58, 2:37½.

This race was trotted admirably. The two horses were so close together, the entire distance, that one sheet could have covered both.

A year ago neither horse could trot a mile in 3:50. They have been magnificently trained—Dynamite by Nash, and Kitty Pilot by C. C. Brower, until now they are high priced queens of the turf.

A second race was run between Hayes's Andy and Dr. Herbert's Reputation. Andy won both heats. His time was: First heat—41, 1:23, 2:05, 2:46½. Second —42, 1:23½, 2:05½, 2:46½.

Death of a Colored Bishop.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Bishop Jabez P. Campbell, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, died in this city last night in the 88th year of his age. BisSop Campbell was ordained a bishop in 1865, and for the past four years has been the bishop of North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland.

Secretary Blaine Out Calling.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 11.—Secretary Blaine, Mrs. Blaine and Mrs. Damrosch, made a call on Secretary Tracy on the Dispatch. They were there nearly an hour, after which Mr. Blaine called upon John R. McLean of the Cincinnati Enquirer. He remained with Mr. McLean a long time.

Christian Workers' Convention.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 11.—The Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip, an organization of Christian workers, composed principally of young men of the various reformed churches throughout the United States and Canada, will hold their third annual convention here on September 25.

A Chinese Brute Arrested.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Lung Chung, a Chinese laundryman, has been arrested charged with assaulting 7-year-old Ellen McGrimes, of 229 South Fifth avenue. He inveigled the girl into his laundry and then outraged her.

Legislated Out of Office.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 11.—It is stated that the World's Fair managers have legislated themselves out of office. At the July session of the Legislature a bill was passed increasing the appropriation for the use of the managers from $10,000 to $25,000, and it is now discovered that the clause requiring the appointment of members of the board within 30 days after the passage of the act was retained from the old bill, thus necessitating the re-appointment of the board by Governor Ladd.

Burned to Death in His House.

BEDFORD, Pa., Aug. 11.—Jacob May, a prominent farmer, living eight miles from here, met with a terrible death last night. May was subject to fits. He went into the house with a lantern, was taken with a fit and by falling to the floor the lantern exploded, setting fire to the house and burning the unfortunate man to a crisp with the house and all its contents.

A Girl's Body Identified.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 11.—The body of the girl discovered near Lewiston has been identified as that of Miss Cora Farthing of this city, a respectable young girl. Enough evidence was found by her parents to prove it was their daughter, and her death was a contemplated suicide.

Anxiety for the Wheat Crop.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 11.—Great anxiety is expressed for the wheat crop of North Dakota, which at the beginning of the hot wave on Tuesday was in the milk, and under ordinary conditions would have required from fourteen to sixteen days to ripen.

Ryan and His Creditors.

ATLANTA, Aug. 11.—The creditors have been offered 30 cents on the dollar by Stephen A. Ryan, the drygoods merchant, who failed for $500,000 recently.

Work to Stop on the Ship Railway.

HALIFAX, Aug. 11.—Orders have been received from London to stop all work on the ship railway at the end of this week. The suspension is due to the present state of the money market, the company not being able to float their remaining securities without a sacrifice.

Quarrymen Strike.

MILFORD, Mass., Aug. 11.—All the quarrymen employed by Darling Bros., about 100 in number, struck because the firm refused to discharge several men who had been expelled from their union.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2 00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

ODE TO THE LOST CAUSE IN WESTFIELD.

[FOR THE PRESS.]

Mary had a little lamb,
It came to grief and sorrow,
It pined its puny life away,
A blatin' for a borough.

And when it saw beyond a doubt,
The borough was a goner,
It said, "For buncombe, I will put
My death off till September;

"Because the judge will be away;
The people need informing;
A new assessment shall be had—"
(Suppose all this was shamming).

But when September comes, alas!
And final dissolution,
That blatin' lamb I fear will prove
No good for wool or mutton.

Deep in a hole—an ugly hole,
O'ercome with grief and sorrow,
That lamb, poor thing, that blatin' lamb,
Will find its only burrow.

A PROFESSIONAL PLAYER BEAT THEM.

But the St. George Cricketers of Plainfield Played a Game to be Proud of.

The St. George's Cricket Club, of this city, played a strong game Saturday against the Cosmopolitans of New York, on the grounds of the latter at Clifton, S. I. The Cosmopolitans put their regular league team, including their professional player—who is not allowed to play in league games—against the St. George's.

Notwithstanding this handicap the Plainfield men made a good stand, 6 wickets falling for the small total of 14 runs—Hendry taking 4 wickets and Stansfield 2.

Then Capt. Jackson, coupled up with the professional McCarthy, and between them saved the game for the Cosmopolitans. Ardern and Stansfield took the honors for batting on the side of the St. George's. The full score:

DUNELLEN DOINGS.

Interesting Items from a Thriving Borough, by Our Own Correspondent.

Miss Ernestine Giles is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Tinsman, at Jersey City.

The Misses Swackhamer have returned from their visit at Ocean Grove.

Quite an interesting ball game was contested here, last Saturday, between the Dunellen and the Jersey City amateurs. On account of the rain only eight innings were played. The result was 13 to 11 in favor of the Dunellens. Dunellen has two ball clubs, but as neither had all of its men on hand, nine were selected from the two clubs which made a strong team.

Harry Swackhamer has been detained at home sick for the past few days. His friends will be glad to hear that he has recovered and will soon be able to attend to business again.

Mrs. William Hunt, of Mayville, Chautauqua county, N. Y., has been making a short visit to her cousin, Mrs. A. W. Warden.

The temperance people held their meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms, Sunday. The Rev. L. O. Grennelle officiated.

A Pest Unknown in Plainfield.

[From The Newark Advertiser.]

At dusk, last Sunday night, what was first supposed to be a huge black thunder cloud proved to be a compact mass of mosquitoes which lighted on the city of Elizabeth, driving the people from the churches and streets. Bonfires were built in many of the streets to drive the pests away. Services in many of the churches were suspended. Never before has the mosquito plague been so great in Elizabeth or in the State. The recent heavy rains, it is said, have driven the mosquitoes from the meadows. They were also very bad in Newark.

Deserting the Elkwood Building.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, last evening voted to leave the Elkwood building on West Second street, the latter part of this month. They have rented the Exempt Firemen's Hall on Park avenue, in the Coward building. This leaves only two lodges in the Elkwood building, and they stay only because they have a lease and have expended about $1,000 each in furnishings. They are Perseverance Lodge, K. of P., and Plainfield Lodge, I. O. O. F.

As warm weather is here the natural craving of humanity call for something cooling to drink. Hires's Root Beer is sparkling, and a most delicious article. Every family should have it in their house. A 25-cent package will enable any one to make five gallons. Ask your druggist or storekeeper for it.

NEWS OF THE NETHERWOOD.

A Belle Who Takes Another—Mr. Whitney's Remarkable Watch—A Married Beauty Who Confesses no Rival—The Return of a Popular Family—Other Gossip of the Hotel.

If THE PRESS dared it would like to mention a certain young gentleman of The Netherwood by name, and tell him that his fiance this morning drank two orange-phosphates in succession. This would be a warning to him never to ask her to "have another"—whether it was an ice, a bird, or a small bottle.

One of the features of the season is a ten-thousand-dollar watch belonging to one of the guests. It is on exhibition every evening and all day Sundays after 10 o'clock a. m. It is claimed by its owner to be the most magnificent watch on earth. A few days ago rumor said it would be offered in trade for a safety bicycle, as its owner had been advised to ride a machine and reduce his obesity. The rumor is denied.

Mrs. Fred Van Zandt need yield to none among the young married women. She is very pretty, with a delightful figure, thoroughly graceful in every movement, most winning in speech, and gowned to perfection. In pure white from throat to toe, the other evening, she was the cynosure of men's eyes and the subject of women's envy. No wonder she was imprisoned in a far corner of the porch all the evening with her husband on guard.

Among the latest arrivals at the hotel are Major and Mrs. T. H. Cullen and daughters. They are regular guests of The Netherwood each season, and favorites with all. The welcome accorded them upon their return was flattering and sincere. Miss Hattie Cullen has grown up to be a very pretty and fascinating woman.

Of all the pretty lads and lassies of the hotel, none attracts so much attention and admiration as the golden haired child of Col. and Mrs. William McMichael. It seems as if it had stepped out of a brilliantly colored picture.

The Fresh Air Fund subscription started by George W. Crossman, now amounts to nearly $200.

A subscription list was started last evening for a loto party to be held Saturday night. Already the number of subscribers is large, and will probably reach sixty.

The Sunday evening concerts of Greenop's orchestra—the programmes of which are published in each Saturday's PRESS—are greatly appreciated by the guests and the people of Netherwood and this city.

The latest arrivals include: Major and Mrs. T. H. Cullen, Miss Adele Cullen, Miss Hattie Cullen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Heine and family, Chas. B. Brush, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Reiset, W. M. Smallwood, Mr. and Mrs. William McMichael and family, A. G. Carson, F. F. Proctor, J. H. Ottley, from New York; J. V. Doup, from East Orange; A. Colson, Jr., from Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Melick, from Retort, Pa.; W. H. Shelton, Wm. C. Lathrop, Montague Douglas, Richard Hopkins, from Morristown; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Russel, from Short Hills; Miss L. M. Pelton, from Warwick; Miss Hate, from London, Eng.

More Errors Than Assists.

The "White Caps" defeated the Pond Machine company's "Juniors", Saturday afternoon, in a rather poor game of ball, by the score of 21 to 19. It was played on the victor's grounds, Madison avenue beyond Ninth street.

The game was lost for the Juniors because of the many errors of the infield and outfield. In fact both sides played a very yellow fielding game, but the Juniors errors were the most costly. The losers made a grand rally at the bat in the ninth inning, and added nine runs to their score, but it was too late.

The pitching of Smith for the White Caps, and Hickey for the Juniors, deserves mention. Simmonds and Cathcart led in the batting. Henry of the Juniors made a fine double play. The catching of Foose was a feature of the game. He was twice struck in the stomach yet he never resigned his post until the game was finished.

Each nine has now won a game. The next will decide which is the better. The score Saturday was:

How to Stop an Express.

Suburban Resident—See here, sir! You told me that that country place I bought of you was only thirty-five minutes from the city.

City Agent—Yes, sir, thirty-five minutes by express. You remember, when we went out to look at it the time was thirty-five minutes exactly.

"But, confound it, sir, the express trains don't stop there, not one of them, and the accommodation takes about an hour and a half!"

"You and I went by express, and it stopped for us, you know."

"Yes, got up a column of good advice to the king of Italy."

"Glad to hear it. We'll send him a copy. What else did you write?"

"A long editorial on national finances."

"Good! That will fill the page. Now let's go out and see if we can borrow a dollar."—N. Y. Weekly.

An Egotist.

A New York club man, not above the average in brains, was visiting a Detroit girl recently, and when he went away she was asking one of her friends about him.

"I liked him well enough," she said, "but he talked horse too much. Did you notice that?"

"Well, no," was the hesitating reply, "not exactly. He talked donkey to me mostly."

"I don't quite understand," she said, puzzled somewhat.

"Why, he talked about himself."—Detroit Free Press.

A Candid Critic.

"Well, what do you think of my picture at the academy of design?" asked young Mahlstick of Jones the other day.

"Fair, dear boy, fair; but now you asked me I must confess I liked your earlier style better."

HOMING PIGEONS.

Their Practical Value as a Means of Communication.

What They Can Be Taught to Do—Not Only Will They Return to Their Own Lofts, But They Can Pick Out Their Own Ships.

The naval messenger pigeon service was established in France by Admiral Bergasse Dupetit-Thouars several years ago, with headquarters at Toulon. Every man-of-war leaving Toulon, says the New York Herald, is now provided with an outfit of homing pigeons, which are released at various distances according to the stage of their respective training. With a few exceptions they return to their home lofts the bearers of cipher dispatches attached in the customary manner to their wings or tails.

A loft has been established on board the gunnery practice ship St. Louis with a view to accustoming pigeons to the report and smoke of guns. They follow the vessel in her cruises and never mistake her for another.

Their usefulness has been especially demonstrated whenever the ships of the squadron were beyond the range of the heliograph, as they enabled the commander of the fleet to communicate with the shore at long distances when no other means of communication were available.

The ordinary service which the pigeon unconsciously performs by carrying letters, orders, reports and similar dispatches is based on the natural instinct of the pigeon to return to its own home, to which its nest, mate and food attract it. In a "there and back" flight, however, the task is to induce the same pigeon—which, unless carried away, as a rule, never forsakes its own loft—to fly to another loft with which it has been previously made acquainted in order to provide itself there with its accustomed food and water and then to return to its proper home.

In this manner a pigeon carries a dispatch to a certain spot with the view of obtaining food there. The first message is then removed and an answer substituted, which the pigeon on the completion of its feeding carries back to its own loft. In this way it is possible with a single loft of ten birds trained for this particular work to keep in constant communication by messages two places, either or both of which may be besieged or blockaded.

After several successful experiments in Italy with homing pigeons on a "there and back" flight a continuous service was established between Rome and Civita Vecchia, the latter being selected for these experiments because of its strategic importance. The distance between Rome and Civita Vecchia is forty miles. This remarkable means of communication was obtained only after long and careful training.

Germany, France, Spain, Austria, Italy, Portugal and Canada maintain numerous pigeon service establishments, which form an important department in their naval and military organizations. Several of them employ pigeons in connection with the defense of the coast as well as on board war and dispatch vessels.

So far no organized service of messenger pigeons has been established in the United States navy. It is to be hoped that such a service will soon be established, as numerous experiments have demonstrated that homing pigeons can fly several hundred miles at sea; that they can be bred and trained on board ship; that they can recognize their own ship among others, and that they can be relied upon to carry news from the fleet to the shore, and under favorable circumstances from the shore to the fleet and from one vessel to another, when beyond the range of the heliograph and electrograph.

A naval messenger pigeon service cannot be improvised on short notice, as the pigeons require long and careful training before they can be depended upon to carry dispatches. War vessels employed in defending a coast are frequently without the means of transmitting information of the most importance to the mainland. By means of trained messenger service they could send communications on shore over a distance of several hundred miles, signal the approach of an enemy's fleet and report quickly all his movements.

Novel Ecclesiastical Financiering.

A novel plan for extinguishing a church debt has been hit upon in Melbourne. The church committee—or vestry, as the case may be—divide the total debt among themselves and each man insures his life for the amount that falls to his share. The policies are transferred to the church, and the annual payments on them are made out of the collections. Then, of course, as the members of the committee "drop off," the sums insured on their lives drop in, and later, when the last committeeman is dead, the last installment of the church debt will be paid. The plan has the merit—if merit it be—of throwing the whole of the responsibility for the continuance of the indebtedness upon Providence.

Woman's Capacity.

A couple of schoolboys were coming along Jefferson avenue the other day talking about their teacher and whether or not women or men were better in that capacity.

"Women are all right," said the older one sententiously, "in some of the branches, but a woman can't handle mathematics."

"Can't she?" exclaimed the younger one with extreme interest. "Can't she! Well, you ought to have seen Miss Blank throw an arithmetic at me one day, and you'd change your mind."—Detroit Free Press.

Modern Methods.

"Kin I 'splanify de 'surance doin's? 'Deed I kin, Mr. Willis. Yer pays de company a few cents a week on yer son's life, an' w'en he dies dey pays yer a hundred dollars fer de kyarcass."

"Am dat p'intedly a fac'? Den I s'pose dey keeps de kyarcass?"

"No, sah; dat am de curi'us part of it. Dey pays yer for de kyarcass, but dey lets yer keep it yerself. It am a very lib'ral 'rangement."—Munsey's Weekly.

Two Great Futures Open.

"Well, Mr. Pedagogue, does my boy show any special aptitude for work?" asked the proud father.

"I think so, Mr. Bronson," returned the school-master. "I am uncertain as yet whether John will make a sculptor or a baseball player. He is unerring in his aim with paper wads, but the condition of his desk top convinces me that he can carve with considerable facility."—Harper's Bazar.

Nothing Lost.

Teacher (to boy whose father keeps a corner grocery)—Johnny, if your father has a hundred eggs and twenty of them are bad, how many of them does he lose?

ANSWER TO "WANTED: A WIFE."

One doesn't need to go to school
 Or college nowadays,
To learn that "'tis a useless rule
 That worketh not both ways."

I want a man that doesn't smoke
 Till everything is blue;
Then only lays his pipe aside
 To take a nasty chew.

I want a man that doesn't drink,
 A man that doesn't swear,
One that has brains enough to think,
 And heart enough to care.

I want a man that will not scowl
 Whene'er a button flies,
One that can eat without a growl
 A cake that did not rise.

A man that doesn't angry get
 When everything goes wrong,
But lends a hand to help a bit
 And hums a cheerful song.

A man that won't at night come home
 And leave his business clothes
For me to sit and mend alone
 While to the club he goes.

I want a man that will not smile
 On every girl he sees,
And always keep on hand for me
 A look to make me freeze.

A man that's not afraid to lend
 His pocketbook to me,
And feel that I can save or spend
 As carefully as he.

Now if the "bachelor"—the "dunce"
 Finds this a pleasant pill,
He has no task but just to ask
 For me to fill his bill.

—Farm and Home.

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER.

The Old Gentleman Does a Little More Tinkering.

Her "Pretty Yarn" or His Remarkable Forgetfulness—The Trouble Caused by a Refractory Screen-Door.

"Do you pass a carpenter shop on your way downtown?" asked Mrs. Bowser the other morning as Mr. Bowser was ready to leave the house.

"Why?" he cautiously inquired in reply.

"We ought to have a screen door to the kitchen. There's where all the flies come in. We can use one of those doors we brought with us, but we'll have to have a carpenter to hang it."

"We will, eh? I beg to differ. I don't propose to pay no carpenter three or four dollars for doing what I can do in half an hour. I'll fix it myself."

"But don't you remember, Mr. Bowser—don't you remember that you—"

"That I what?"

"You tried to hang a screen door last summer in Detroit and you got so mad you nearly tore the house down."

"I did, eh? That's a pretty yarn for you to stand up there and spin! In the first place, I never tried to hang a screen door, and in the second I never got mad."

"But you—you—" she stammered.

"Nothing of the sort! I don't even remember that we had a screen door. I never tried to hang one. I never got mad. I never even saw a fly around our house in Detroit. Change of climate seems to have had a very queer effect on you."

"But won't you send up a carpenter?"

"Not by a jugful! I sha'n't have anything to do at the office this afternoon, and if there's a bit of tinkering around the house it will be fun for me."

He returned at noon, having a heavy parcel with him, and when Mrs. Bowser asked about the contents he cut the string and replied:

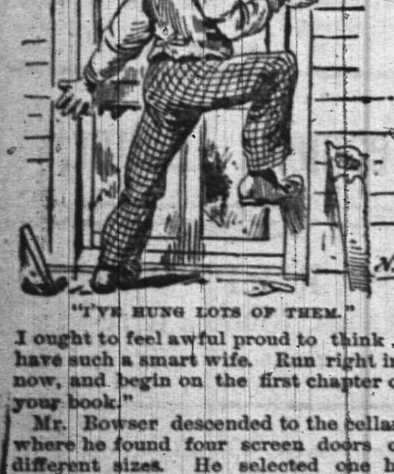
"Just a few tools. Come handy to tinker with. Every man ought to keep a few tools and do his own repairing. I think I saved us at least two hundred dollars last year."

"Well, I hope you won't fly mad over your work. A screen door is a very particular thing to hang."

"Oh! it is! You've hung lots of 'em, I presume?"

"I know that it takes a skilled workman."

"You'd better write a book and call it: 'What I Know About Screen-Doors.'



"I'VE HUNG LOTS OF THEM."

I ought to feel awful proud to think I have such a smart wife. Run right in, now, and begin on the first chapter of your book."

Mr. Bowser descended to the cellar, where he found four screen doors of different sizes. He selected one he thought would fit and carried it up. It was six inches too high. The next was four inches too short. The third was almost long enough to make two such doors as he wanted. He had the fourth one, which was almost a fit, in the back yard, when Mrs. Bowser came out to say:

"If you had first measured the opening and then measured your doors, you wouldn't have had to lug up but this one."

"Wouldn't I? Perhaps you understand my object in bringing up the extra ones? Perhaps it is the duty of a husband to explain every little move he makes?"

The door had to be sawed off about an inch at the top. Mr. Bowser brought out a couple of kitchen chairs, made a scratch on the door with a nail, and was about to use the saw when she asked:

"Aren't you going to strike a line across there?"

"For what reason?"

"If you don't you can't saw straight."

"Can't I? Perhaps I am blind!"

When he finished sawing off the strip and held the frame up to the opening it was plain that he had run his saw at an angle.

"I told you so," she quietly observed.

"Told me what!" he replied, as he turned on her. "Do you suppose I don't know what I'm about! Do you imagine I wanted a straight top on that door! If you know so much go ahead and finish the job!"

Mrs. Bowser went into the house, and Mr. Bowser held the frame up again to see that he would be obliged to tack on a strip or leave an opening for all the flies in New York state. He was sawing a piece off one of the other doors to make this strip when Mrs. Bowser appeared and said:

"You'll spoil that door too, Mr. Bowser. Why don't you take a piece from this box? If you had put a straight edge on the other and marked it you would have been all right."

"Mrs. Bowser," he began, as he laid down his saw, "am I a purblind child five or six years old, who must be brought in when it rains, or am I the man of the house, forty years of age and generally supposed to have sense enough not to sit down under a piledriver to eat my dinner?"

"But you'll never make that door fit," she protested.

"If I don't no other man on earth need try!"

She went in again and he sawed off a strip and nailed it on the other door. Then he held it up to find the frame half an inch too long. Mrs. Bowser reappeared and was about to say something, but he glared at her so savagely that she went back without a word.

"The infernal old kitchen is either lifting up or settling down!" he growled as he held the door up. "I've got to saw a piece off the bottom to make a fit, and she'll either fit or down comes the shanty!"

He sawed off a piece and got what he called a fit. He smiled and chuckled over his success, and had the hinges on when Mrs. Bowser came out to ask:

"What good is a door there if you leave all those cracks?"

"Cracks! Cracks! You can't find one!"

"Look here—and here—and here! Mr. Bowser, even the bumble bees of New York would have no trouble in flying in there! And how are you putting that spring on?"

Mr. Bowser laid down the hammer, the gimlet and the screwdriver, and after wiping off his flushed face he stood erect and pointed into the kitchen. Mrs. Bowser disappeared without a word. Then he inspected and found cracks.

"Confounded old doorway is out of plumb, and that's the matter!" he growled, as he set to work to unhinge it. When he got the door off he racked it this way and that and tried it again. More cracks than before. He took it down and sprung on the top with all his might, and this time, as he held it up, there was a crevice through which a sparrow could have flown. He started to lay it flat on the ground, but fell forward, tumbled over himself and sprawled on his back.

"What's the matter?" asked Mrs. Bowser, from the back door.

Mr. Bowser slowly arose, looked all around for the ax, and not seeing it he jumped at the screen doors and kicked with both feet until they were reduced to strings and strips. Then he went up to Mrs. Bowser, panting and perspiring and pale faced, and hoarsely whispered:

"This is the last time—the very last! Next time you coax me into doing any such infernal puttering work around the house I'll go—go, never to return!"

"When did I coax you?"

"Never you mind! It's all right!"

"But I say"—

"Just—keep quiet! I am neither blind nor deaf. If we live together ten billion years longer don't you ask me to even bore a hole in a table leg for a caster! This is the limit. I'm dangerous from this on!"—M. Quad, in N. Y. World.

—Running Comments.—The Filter (tired out)—"Haven't you got through yet?" The Water (in liquid tones, yet coldly)—"I'll stop if you say so, but I fear I have not succeeded in making myself entirely clear." The Pitcher (in a hollow voice)—"I have to stand and take it. You've both got the drop on me."—Chicago Tribune.

—Jealousy at the Start.—The Hairspring—"I move that we, the several parts of this watch, unite in a general movement for the betterment of our condition." The Crown—"I'm willing to preside." Chorus of Parts—"Your case is different; you're not in 'it.'"—Jeweler's Weekly.

PRESIDENTIAL TALK

Senator Carlisle's Views on the Battle Next Year.

NOT AFRAID OF THE ALLIANCE.

Blaine and Cleveland the Strongest Men in Their Parties.

He Says the Maine Statesman Would Sweep the Convention, But Does Not Believe He Will be a Candidate—Harrison the Choice if Blaine Will Not Consent to Stand.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 12.—Senators Aldrich, Carlisle, Harris and Allison are here as members of the Senate Sub-Committee on Finance. Mr. Carlisle talked about the political situation as follows:

"The Farmers' Alliance is a gradual atrophy, a marasmus which indicates that the organization will not, in all probability, be a serious factor in the election next year. The only States it can by any probable chance carry are Kansas, and perhaps Nebraska and Colorado.

"The movement in the South has substantially run its course already. There is a spectre which confronts the white man in the Southern States, a shadow of negro supremacy. Rather than have negro denomination the whites will bury political differences and unite at the polls in order to prevent that which they regard as a greater evil.

"I do not quite understand the Alliance movement in Ohio. The Democratic candidates may not be helped by the third ticket, but between now and election day difficulties may be smoothed over.

"If the Republicans nominate Harrison and the Democrats Cleveland, both anti-free coinage, the third party would then probably have a ticket of its own."

Speaking of the probable candidates for the Presidency in 1892 Mr. Carlisle said: "The Republicans will nominate President Harrison if Mr. Blaine will not consent to stand. The influence of the ladies of his family may deter Mr. Blaine, but there is a tremendous pressure upon him from his old party friends to run. He would sweep the convention, I think. No Republican is as strong as Blaine. I do not think that he will consent to run.

"Mr. Cleveland, in my judgment, is still the strongest Democratic candidate. He may have offended the extreme pro-silver men by his remarks against free coinage, but he enjoys a wonderful reputation among the people."

AN IMPORTANT REPORT.

Investigating the Effect of the New Tariff on Prices and Wages.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—C. D. Wright, chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is making an important inquiry in regard to the effect of the tariff on prices. He expects to have his work far enough advanced to be able to report to the next Congress in the early part of the session. The Finance Committee of the Senate was instructed just before the close of the last Congress to ascertain the effect of the McKinley bill on prices.

The committee having no machinery with which to prosecute the work, engaged Col. Wright, because of his well-known ability as a statistician and his reputation for accuracy. The department has agents at work collecting information regarding prices and wages on 230 selected articles, which usually enter into general use. The inquiry extends from June 1, 1889, to September 1, 1891.

In securing these figures, monthly quotations have been obtained from retail dealers in sixty-nine different cities and towns distributed in all parts of the country, so that a fair average may be obtained. Wholesale prices will be obtained from six different distributing centers.

An extensive inquiry will be made into the wages paid for a long period of years, which will be made up from original resources and official reports. Mr. Wright says this will be the most extensive inquiry relating to wages and prices ever instituted in any country.

All the Fish in the Lake Died.

NYACK, N.Y., Aug. 12.—People passing the small lake west of here in the morning were mystified at seeing the shores of the lake thickly lined with dead fish. In some unaccountable manner all the fish in this lake had died and millions lie along the edge. Men were employed all day in removing the dead fish from the shores and burying them. No bad effects are apprehended from the stench, owing to the prompt mea sures taken for their removal.

Race Horses in a Crash.

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Aug. 12.—In the sixth race here fourteen horses took part, and in making a turn of the back stretch the horses became bunched and came together in a crash. When the cloud of dust had subsided the horses Alfred B. and Davis were down, and Eddie Carr and George Bushnell, the jockeys who rode them, were lying prostrate alongside their fallen steeds. Carr was badly injured and had his collarbone broken. Bushnell was insensible, and died shortly after the accident.

The Foresters' Convention.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The second biennial session of the High Court, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, is now being held in this city. Credentials were received from delegates from nearly every State in the Union, and representing a membership of over 80,000. At noon the convention adjourned and the members visited the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Conscience Contribution.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A conscience item of $14.97, from Orange, N. J., has been received at the Treasury Department.

HUNTING A MURDERER.

Fred Earnest Wounds Three of His Pursuers and Escapes.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Aug. 12.—Fred Earnest, who beat his brothers so badly that they cannot recover, and also knifed Bert Cleaver, in a row at the Granger's picnic at Johnston's Grove, is still at large, notwithstanding a desperate effort was made to capture him today.

A number of citizens have been searching the surrounding hills for the assailant, and not until 9 a. m., did they get any trace of him.

While walking along the hillside several miles from this place they espied Earnest concealed behind a clump of bushes, and as soon as they set upon him he drew a revolver and fired into the crowd, seriously wounding three of the number, and during the excitement beat a hasty retreat.

The affair has created the greatest consternation, and the air is rife with threats of revenge.

BLEW OUT HIS BRAINS.

A Pittsburg Policeman's Love Affair Discovered by His Wife.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12.—Henry M. Dehl, a policeman, married, committed suicide at 9:30 last night in front of 197 First avenue.

Dehl had been keeping company for some time past with a handsome young lady named Maggie Edgar, of whom he had become infatuated.

Last night Dehl's wife met her husband on First avenue in front of where the Edgar girl lives. Mrs. Dehl upbraided him for his unfaithfulness.

Dehl seemingly became very penitent, and sent his wife to the Edgar girl's rooms to get several presents that he had given the Edgar girl. While his wife was after the presents Dehl pulled out a 32 calibre revolver and fired a bullet into his brain, killing himself instantly.

BILL THE SCOUT DEAD.

A Noted Wild West Character Dies Suddenly in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 12.—William Yaupman, who under the soubriquet of Bill Germagne was widely known in the West as a scout and hunter, died in his chair at his home on West Kinney street at 9 a. m., in his 50th year.

Bill conducted the Rufus Hatch party through the Yellowstone Park in the seventies, and during the recent Indian troubles in the Bad Lands of Dakota took a prominent part for the government.

His Museum of National Curiosities of the West, which was known as the "Wild West," has been visited by thousands. A widow and three children survive him.

Found Unconscious in a Boat.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Yesterday a boat was discovered floating on Rockland Lake, about four miles from Nyack, N. Y., by Louis Winans. In it lay Mary Heinecke, unconscious, and bearing all the indications of having been outraged. The girl was a servant employed by Mrs. Schiller, whose house is situated near the lake. The boat had been hired Friday evening, and it is thought the girl has floated about the lake in a state of insensibility since that time. The girl is still unconscious and she will probably die.

Mysterious Drowning Accident.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 12.—In the bath house of the steamboat landing is an unclaimed suit of cloth, light trousers, black derby hat, black diagonal coat, left there yesterday by an unknown bather. A memorandum in the pockets contains the name "W. W. Bardell." The man was accompanied by two women, all of whom came down on the Republic. His companions left without giving any account of the accident.

Still Deadlocked.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 11—The Fourth Judicial District Republican convention continued its adjourned session here last night. The first ballot indicated that there was no change from the Malone deadlock, the vote standing: Tappan, 7; Badger, 7. After taking eleven ballots with the same result the convention adjourned until to-day.

Senator Quay in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Senator Quay and his son Richard arrived at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night. They came to meet the Senator's son, Andrew Jackson Curtin Quay, who is expected aboard the city of Paris to-day. The Senator said that he had experienced great relief since severing his connection with the National Republican Committee.

Bogus Quarters in Circulation.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 12.—For the past two or three weeks it is estimated that over 1,000 bogus quarters have been put in circulation in this city. The coin is of a composition metal, has a good ring, but is much lighter than the original and is of very poor workmanship.

Killed by an Explosion.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12.—The boiler of a portable threshing machine exploded near Mercersburg during the forenoon, instantly killing the engineer, Charles Metcalf, and seriously injuring several other men.

AFTER POLITICAL REFUGEES.

An American Captain Refused to Surrender Five Men on His Vessel.

Not Allowed to Proceed on His Way—Threats Made that His Ship Would be Confiscated—The Matter Now Being Investigated by the State Department at Washington.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The superintendent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company has been advised by the company's agent at La Libertad, San Salvador, that the City of Panama, which had been detained on account of having political refugees on board, had sailed from that port direct to San Jose de Guatemala.

The agent also stated that the cargo had been discharged at La Libertad, and that the commandante at that port had refused to dispatch the vessel.

Vice-President J. B. Houston, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, said this afternoon that he had received a dispatch stating that the company's steamer City of Panama had been seized and detained at La Libertad by the authorities of San Salvador because there were political refugees on board. The details are very meagre, the dispatch having evidently been "edited" with great care by the San Salvador officials.

Gen. Latona is a passenger on the City of Panama. He is a political refugee, bound from Corinto, Nicaragua, to San Jose de Guatemala. How this concerns the San Salvadorans is not stated, but they demanded his surrender at La Union.

Capt. White refused to comply with the order and the commandant of the port refused him clearance papers. He sailed without them, telegraphing the information to the agent at Panama, who advised him to make the port of San Jose de Guatemala direct, fearing the wrath of of President Ezeta, who has an armed force at Acajuala.

Capt. White, no doubt, had to stop at La Libertad to let off passengers. There he was told that his ship would be confiscated unless he gave up the five political refugees, whose names are not given. He again refused to give up the men, who were under the protection of the American flag, and he was not allowed to proceed on his way.

The State Department to Investigate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A telegram has been received at the State Department stating that the authorities of San Salvador have threatened to seize the Pacific Mail steamer City of Panama for leaving that port without properly clearing under the law. On receipt of the dispatch Acting Secretary Wharton telegraphed Minister Panceno to investigate the matter and to report to the Department as soon as possible.

SIR GORDON IS HAPPY.

He is Having a Good Time Among the Gentry in the Highlands.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—A nobleman, said to be Lord Middleton, who recently visited Sir William Gordon Cumming and Lady Cumming at their home in the Highlands, says that he found them very happy and enjoying themselves in visits to various points of interest.

The gentry of the neighborhood have treated both Sir William and his wife most cordially, and there has been a round of entertainments and pleasure parties. Sir William looks much better in health than last summer, when he was dancing attendance on the Prince of Wales and his baccarat layout.

It is said that to some of his Scottish intimates Sir William has said that he and the Prince, and a majority of the party, were drunk on that evening at Tranby Croft.

Warren and McCarthy to Fight.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12.—Tommy Warren, the champion feather-weight pugilist of the world, is a guest of Mike Haley. Yesterday Haley received a telegram from Charles Noel, president of the Olympic Club of New Orleans, stating that his club will offer a purse of $2,000 for a fight to a finish between Tommy Warren, of California, and Cal McCarthy, of Jersey City. The fight is to take place on September 15. Mr. Haley has accepted the offer on behalf of Warren, who will commence training at once in this city. There seems to be no doubt that McCarthy will accept. The fight will be at 118 pounds.

Miss Dahlgren's Wedding Day Set.

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 12.—The marriage of Miss Ulricka Dahlgren, the daughter of Mrs. Admiral Dahlgren, to Joseph Pierce has been set for September 15. Cardinal Gibbons will officiate and Bishop Lane will assist at the ceremony.

PLOT TO KILL A JUDGE.

He is Determined to Try a Murder Case and Take His Chances.

TOPEKA, Kas. Aug. 12.—There is great excitement here over the coming trial of Brennan, who killed Col. Samuel Wood. Judge Botkin, who is to try the case, said: "I know there is a plot to kill me, but I want to say that if I am molested I have friends enough to see to it that every one of the conspirators will bite the dust, and the funeral procession will reach from Topeka to No Man's Land. said:

"I understand the Sheriff of Stevens county intends to call on the Governor to send the militia to Hughtown when Brennan is tried.

"I want to say that if it be done there will be no court. I will never try a case or permit one to be tried in my district under the shadow of bayonets. I will swear in new court bailiffs, who will be able to keep the peace and prevent murder or bloodshed."

Challenge from Hanlan and O'Connor.

BURRIE, Ont., Aug. 12.—Hanlan and O'Connor authorize a double scull challenge to the world. They will row three miles against any other double for from $500 to $5,000 a side, giving or taking expenses if the course is in America. If any two Australians will come to this continent they will guarantee them two single sculling races for $2,500 a side each. They will allow $1,000 for expenses if a double scull match is made for $3,000 or more a side.

Dragged Into the Canal and Drowned.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Shortly before midnight Alfred Tilley, a well-known and wealthy plumber of this city was drowned in the Erie Canal, near the Solvay Process Works, under peculiar circumstances. Mr. Tilley and Michael Ryan were riding in a carriage along the tow-path of the canal, and a tow-line of a passing canal boat swept the horse and carriage and the man into the canal. Ryan was dragged out alive but unconscious.

Fire Chiefs in Convention.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 12.—About 800 chiefs and assistants are present at the nineteenth annual convention of the National Association of Fire Engineers in this city. The city is gaily decorated in honor of the convention. The visitors were escorted to Cooley's Opera House by the local fire department, where they were formally welcomed by Mayor Bradford, which was replied to by the president of the association.

Assaulted by Italian Laborers.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 12.—A gang of striking Italian laborers assaulted their foreman, Martin Fitzgerald, during the forenoon because he refused to give them their pay until the regular pay day arrived. His injuries will probably prove fatal. Several arrests have been made.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Aug. 12.—John Irwin of Chester, Pa., was drowned at Burlington while bathing. His body was recovered.

CHASED BY A MOB

Kansas City Men Indignant Over a Boodle Measure.

TRIED TO KILL THE ALDERMEN.

A Crowd of Taxpayers Invade the Common Council Chamber.

The City Fathers Flee for Their Lives. Several Intemperate Speeches Made—The Mayor and Council Stigmatized as Cowards and Thieves—Frequent Cries of "Lynch Them!" and "Hang Them!"

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 12.—A mob invaded the Common Council Chamber here during the day, and had it not been for the fact that the Aldermen made their escape through a back door violence would probably have been done.

The attack was the result of a proposition before the Council for the purchase of the Consolidated Electric Light and Power Company's plant for $340,000.

Rumors of the use of "boodle" were freely indulged in, and public indignation was aroused to a high pitch. This culminated in a mass meeting of taxpayers to protest against the purchase.

The meeting was in charge of John B. Scroggs, a leader of the Kansas City bar. Several intemperate speeches were made, and finally Mr. Scroggs addressed the crowd from the Court House steps. He denounced in bitter language the proposed action of the Council. Finally a committee of fifteen was appointed to call at the Council Chamber and present the protest before the ordinance could be passed. The crowd by its own motion joined the committee, and all started for the City Hall.

Threats of Lynching.

As the march proceeded the excitement grew until the mutterings of the crowd became loud and bitter, and finally culminated in shouts of "Lynch them!" and "Hang them!" The crowd had worked itself up to a high pitch of indignation when the City Hall was reached.

In the meantime the Council had been informed of the progress of the mob, and a hasty adjournment was taken. The last alderman had barely left when the advance guard of the mob rushed into the chamber, to be disappointed at finding it emptied. The crowd resolved itself into a mass meeting again and more speeches were made. The mayor and Council were stigmatized as cowards and thieves. Finally the mob dispersed without doing any damage.

KISSED THE GOVERNOR.

Pennsylvania's Executive Complies With an Odd Request.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—It has been the custom at Camp Kensington during the morning for visitors to be presented to the Governor in his tent. There is a handshake and the reception is ended. Yesterday a lady saw fit to vary the routine. After she had shaken hands with the Governor, she leaned forward and impressively asked:

"May I kiss you, Governor?" Governor Pattison gallantly responded:

"Certainly, madam."

It was no sooner said than the kiss came, much to the amusement of the spectators. The lady was about 40 years old and not particularly prepossessing. When the kiss was finished, the lady, a little flushed from the excitement, blurted out that it was to decide a bet that she had made that she could kiss the Governor. Of course this rubbed a little of the bloom off the peach. Every one that dared guyed the Governor about the affair.

Gov. Hill Revoked the Warrant.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Gov. Hill has revoked the warrant granted by him Aug. 8, for the arrest of Wolf F. Falk, charged with the crime of embezzlement committed in San Francisco, for whose extradition the Governor of California had issued a requisition addressed to Gov. Hill. The ground of the revocation was that the papers did not conform to the United States statute and the rules governing extraditions, requiring that the expenses of extradition proceedings should be a public charge.

Forfeited His Bail Then Surrendered.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—John P. Kirwin, the real estate agent whose bail ($2,000), was forfeited because he failed to appear for trial on an indictment charging him with assaulting Mrs. Mary Allen, surrendered himself during the morning. Kirwin was arranged before Judge Cowan who fixed his bail at $5,000, and that amount in cash was deposited by his friends for his appearance for trial.

Y. M. C. A. of All Nations.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 12.—The Twelfth Conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of all lands opens here tomorrow. The Committee on Credentials is sitting to-day to pass upon the credentials of delegates. Superintendent McBurney, of the New York Y. M. C. A., is among the delegates from America.

The Davis Will Case.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 12.—In the Davis will case yesterday seven more witnesses were examined on the subject of James Eddy's handwriting. The testimony was in the same line as to his peculiarity of spelling, the same shown by the will now in contest.

$500,000 to Defeat McKinley.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—C. C. Shayne, who arrived here last night, told a correspondent that he had been informed by the agent of a satin and silk importing house that the importers in New York have decided to raise $500,000 to defeat McKinley in Ohio.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—The Philadelphia Club has accepted Pitcher Tim Keefe's terms and he will report in time to take part in the Pittsburg series.

SIR HECTOR RESIGNS.

His Withdrawal from the Ministry Creates a Surprise in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 12.—Sir Hector Langevin has resigned from the Ministry. The resignation proved a veritable bombshell in political circles and is the sensation of the day. It was totally unexpected at this stage of the proceedings in the investigation.

Before the Privileges and Elections Committee to-day Sir Hector read a lengthy defense. He said he would preface it with the statement that he had resigned in justice to his colleagues in Parliament and the committee. His statement was very voluminous. He denied emphatically all the charges preferred against him and asserted his innocence in the most positive manner. It was absolutely false that he had ever received $10,000 from Owen E. Murphy; he had no relations whatever with Murphy. He was not aware that his son had received a cent either directly or indirectly. He contended that his administration of the Department of Public Works was perfectly honorable and that there had been no manipulation of public contracts.

FRENCHMEN CHEER RUSSIA.

The Grand Duke Alexis Warmly Welcomed on His Arrival in Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The Grand Duke Alexis arrived in this city early in the morning, but as it was not known that he was coming, no one was present to receive him. Even the members of the Russian embassy were ignorant of his arrival.

A number of people at the station recognized the Grand Duke, however, as he stepped from the train, and they shouted: "Vive la Grand Duke Alexis," "Vive la Czar," "Vive la Russie," etc., the cries being quickly taken up by the crowd of passengers and others in the vicinity.

The Grand Duke smiled and bowed graciously in response. He quickly entered a carriage and was driven to a hotel.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The heat is causing many deaths in Naples.

Chinamen claiming to be merchants formerly residing here are constantly arriving from Cuba.

Very Rev. Gilbert Elliott, D. D., is dead at the age of 91 years. He has been Dean of Bristol since 1850.

Ex-Minister Douglass declares that his color had in no way militated against him in his negotiations with the Haytian Republic.

Juan Weeks, a convicted United States prisoner escaped from the Court room at Denver, Col., by throwing pepper in his guard's eyes.

At Peabody, Mass., Aulson & Mohan's India Goods Factory, one tenement house, a barn and several buildings all belonging to George Helman, were burned during the morning. Loss, $10,000. Insured.

George W. Vanslyck, of Albany, N. Y., the well-known manufacturer of the "Up and Up" and "Not Left," and other popular brands of cigars, died during the morning after a lingering illness, aged about 55 years.

The creditors of Henry S. French, boot and shoe manufacturer of Brockton, Mass., met and appointed a committee to investigate the accounts. The liabilities were shown to be $61,000, and the nominal assets $9,600.

A petition for a compromise in the matter of the contest of the will of Charles L. Hancock has been granted in the Supreme Court at Boston. Under the compromise Harvard college will receive $70,000 as residuary legatee.

John Humphrey, a 19-year-old lad, was caught in the elevator of the Arlington Hotel at Binghamton, N. Y., shortly before midnight and strangled to death. He endeavored to catch the elevator, and falling, was drawn upward, being caught by the neck between the flooring and the elevator.

Death of a Prominent Lawyer.

LITCHFIELD, Conn., Aug. 12.—Henry B. Graves, one of the prominent lawyers of this State, died of congestion of the lungs, aged 68 years. He has been a Judge of Probate, clerk of the State Senate in 1849, executive secretary in 1854 and clerk of the Superior and County Court in 1854 and 1855. He was seven times a member of the State House of Representatives as a Democrat, and was an active leader of his party.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Do you expect to find better goods and lower prices than Peck's? Well, you won't!

—The lote party at Hotel Netherwood has been postponed from Saturday to Monday evening.

—Gazelle Engine house has been draped in mourning for 30 days, because of the death of ex-foreman Clarkson R. Hope.

—The excursion of St. Mary's T. A. B. association, to-day, required a train of ten cars, eight of which were well filled. Asbury Park was the objective point.

—A speaker at Chautauqua the other day said that the reason some women are so ill-natured is because they are so badly clothed. If the philosophers at Chautauqua have just found this out they're behind the times. Poor men who work for small salaries have known it for many moons.—Baltimore American.

—No effort will be made to arrest the woman who was accused of setting fire to butcher Arnold's barn, unless some new evidence be discovered. Her own property, which was uninsured, was endangered by the fire, and it is deemed improbable that she would commit a wrong which might thus have injured herself more than anyone else.

—James Sherlock, a tramp, was the only prisoner before Judge Codington this morning. He had been begging on the streets. The court told Sherlock he ought to be ashamed of himself, and said that a big able-bodied fellow like him ought to be at work. Sherlock was given thirty minutes to get out of town, "or be put to work on the streets". He went quickly.

—The Elizabeth Journal says: "The choir of men and boys of the Church of the Holy Cross, Plainfield, is enjoying an outing in a camp at Merwin's Point, Conn. The Plainfield Daily Press had a happy thought when it arranged for a daily telegraph message from the camp, thus keeping a large circle of friends in pleasant communication with the party. The choir, arrayed in surplices, rendered the music in St. Michael's church, Naugatuck, last Sunday morning and evening, and astonished the natives of the Nutmeg State by its excellent work."

—The Newark Advertiser says: "A Plainfield saloon-keeper is waging war against a citizen who objects to having midnight revelry and disorderly proceedings under the windows of his domicile. Finding that remonstrance was of no avail, the harrassed citizen put up a high board fence which not only closed the saloon windows against his premises, but shut out light and ventilation, whereupon the saloon-keeper retorted with midnight horn blowings, howling dogs and a general racket of portentous proportions, until the citizen's family are well-nigh crazed. In answer to threats, the saloon-keeper replies that he has a license and that he is impregnable in his position. That is the fortress into which the gin-miller and the gin-miller's allies invariably retreat. He has paid money for a license to sell liquor. The theory is that the license permits him to do anything and everything he chooses on his premises, and that no power on earth can take that license from him."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A. D. Cook and family are at the Huestis House, Saratoga, for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Milliken, jr., will go to Saratoga and the Adirondacks for the balance of the season.

Mrs. Thomas S. Armstrong and children have gone to Middletown, N. Y.

There will be no more Saturday afternoon teas given by the Hillside Tennis club, until Sept. 5.

Manager Armstrong, of Reynolds's pharmacy, is one of a quartette who are going to camp for the rest of the month in the woods of Maine, eleven miles from Jackmantown.

The Water-Works Problem in the Borough.

The borough of North Plainfield, is to be afflicted with a water-works problem similar to that which has caused so much turmoil in Plainfield. J. M. Low has already applied for a franchise to construct and operate works, and at the coming meeting of the Borough Council the Water Supply people will announce their intention of laying pipes to supply borough households. The entire matter will be referred, for a time, to the appropriate committee, to wrestle with.

Ready to Put Water in Your House.

Any day after Saturday the Plainfield Water Supply company will be ready to connect the houses along the line of its mains. Application may be made at the office of the company, 6 East Front street.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

DEATH OF JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—James Russell Lowell, the famous poet, essayist and diplomat, died at 2:10 this morning, from a complication of liver complaint and weakness, which his age of 72 years prevented him from overcoming.

GEORGE JONES DEAD.

POLAND SPRINGS, Aug. 12.—George Jones, proprietor of The New York Times, died here this morning, at 3 o'clock. He was 80 years of age yesterday.

KILLED BY THE HEAT.

William Allen Falls Victim to a Sunstroke.

William Allen, of 154 Somerset street, was helping the family of Henry Ruppert move into their new house in the borough, yesterday afternoon, when he felt himself being overcome by the heat, and went into the shade of Eugene Hoerster's barn to lie down and recover. He rapidly grew worse, however, and a physician was sent for. Dr. Carman did all in human power for the sufferer, but in two hours Allen was dead, and his body was removed to the home of his father, John Allen.

Deceased was about thirty years of age. Some time ago his wife was killed by falling down the stone steps of a cellar and cutting open her head against the fragments of an earthen vessel she had been carrying.

William Allen was the joint possessor, with his sister Ella and his brother Irenæus, of the large tract of land on which the Crescent League ball grounds are situated, besides property in New York and Brooklyn, all of which was bequeathed to them by their grandparents.

THE COAL BARONS AND THEIR TRUST.

A Correspondent Reiterates the Charges of Their Bad Treatment All Around.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Plainfield correspondent to the New York Times represents our local combination as righteously indignant, that any outside combination should dare to come in and compete with them in supplying coal to the dwellers in this wicked city—still more, that one "not to the manor born". That a stranger in a strange city should actually come in and by fair and open competition, wrest from this Ring the ripe plum of supplying our School Board with all their coal at a saving of $2 to $3 to the already over-burdened tax-payers!

What an outrage!—and has not the "Coal Trust" or combine a right to be indignant, especially as No 1 in the ring last year, by arrangement, secured "the plum", and now No. 2 and all behind him are out in the cold. Indignation is not the word! For has not the "Coal Trust" a first mortgage on the city and all the inhabitants thereof? Are there not a dozen or more in "the Trust", and where are the profits to "go 'round" unless all shall pay tribute? Again—it is actually claimed—that the Lehigh Valley Coal company are delivering their best quality Old Lehigh at South Plainfield at prices which, with a drayage of 2 to 3 miles, can be laid down in our city at from 60 to 80 cents a ton below the ordinary retail price here of our dealers, vide the school contract. What another outrage! and now the only relief from this new competition is an injunction or boycott against the Lehigh railroad company prohibiting them from transporting any coal seeking a market here.

For what is the use of a "Trust" that does not protect? M.

NEW HOMES AT NETHERWOOD.

The Land Between Front Street and the Station to be Developed.

An important sale of considerable property at Netherwood has just been consummated through the agency of J. T. Vail. It consists of that tract of land extending from Leland avenue to Johnston avenue and from Midway avenue to North, being the 19 acres immediately in front of the railway station, on the north side of the tracks. The land will at once be cut up into building lots, which will variously front on Leland, Netherwood, Johnston, Jackson, North and Midway avenues. The locality will be immediately built up into a section of fine homes. The nominal purchaser is Wm. H. Moffett, of Brooklyn, but it is understood that he is acting for metropolitan capitalists whose ultimate plan is to build up the entire section from the station to Front street.

An Alarm of Fire in the Borough.

North Plainfield had an alarm of fire last night. The Warren Engine bell was rung furiously at about 9:30, and the department promptly responded. Their services, however, were not needed. A curtain in the house adjoining the electric light works, on Race street, had caught fire, but the people in the house prevented the flames from spreading. The house was occupied by a colored family.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

E. R. MACKEY, M. D.

AT REST WITH HIS FATHERS.

Impressive Funeral Services Over the Remains of T. A. VanZandt.

Five minutes after the midday hour, yesterday, the big organ in old Trinity church, New York, began in slow monotones the first notes of a funeral anthem. From the left of the chancel a surpliced minister walked slowly down the aisle to the rear of the church. The folding doors leading to the little reception-room for the dead opened, and four young men came out bearing a coffin.

The deep tones of the organ were stilled. With measured pace the minister led the way up the aisle, reading aloud the first passages of the Episcopal burial service. The pall-bearers followed. From out the fear pews deeply-veiled women and sombre-clad men joined in the procession to the chancel. The black coffin was placed in front of the railing, and the minister ceased his reading. Again the deep-voiced organ intoned. Catching the funeral strain, six white-surpliced boys raised their voices in an anthem for the dead.

There was no pomp, no parade, in this midday funeral at old Trinity yesterday. Only a few mourners; only a few sweet white flowers on the coffin. The body to be buried was that of a man whose ancestors had been as notable years ago as old Trinity itself.

Immediately back of the brown-stone monument to Capt. James Lawrence an old gray stone had been moved away and an opening left for the coffin. On the Lawrence monument this phrase catches the eye: "His bravery in action was equaled only by his modesty in triumph." On the stone moved away was inscribed simply, "Wynand VanZandt." Thaddeus Avery VanZandt, twenty-fifth of his line, was soon to rest with his forefathers.

As has already been told in these columns, Thaddeus Avery Van Zandt died last Sunday at his home in this city. He was sixty-seven years old. Only last May the old family vault was opened for the reception of Mr. Van Zandt's eldest son, Edward. The family now consists of Mrs. DuFlon, of Plainfield, a daughter by Mr. VanZandt's first wife; Mrs. H. L. Montague, of Orange, another daughter; Ernest, a son; and the unmarried daughters, Lulu, Elsie, Jennie and Gracie.

The vault now about to be filled has been the last resting place of the Van Zandts since the old Knickerbocker days. It is on the south of the lower entrance to the church. It is the only vault besides that of David Coutant and L. Clarson within the iron railing that divides the southern graveyard from the little stone-flagged piazza leading to the church doors.

The people who attended the funeral yesterday were nearly all from Plainfield and neighboring towns. Thaddeus VanZandt had lived in Plainfield since boyhood. His father, William VanZandt, was born in New York city and left a comfortable fortune. The property, consisting of real estate, was situated chiefly in Brooklyn and New Jersey.

The funeral services yesterday were conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, who had been the dead man's pastor. The family vault needs some repairs, and in consequence the body was not placed in it yesterday. The body will be kept in the church a day or two until the vault is made ready. The last niche in it will then be filled, and old Trinity churchyard will receive no more of the Van Zandts.

An Old Robbery Recalled.

About four years ago the post-office at Bound Brook was robbed, and it was believed that one of the thieves, named "Winky" Conover, was drowned in the Raritan while trying to escape. Some months later the legs of a man were found in the Raritan at the Five Mile Lock. An inquest was held on the legs and they were declared to be those of "Winky" Conover and so buried. Last Saturday constable John Long, of New Brunswick, was at Coney Island and says he met a man there who said he was one of the party who robbed the Bound Brook post-office, and that his partner was not drowned at that time at all, but died long afterward. Constable Long says the man never mentioned "Winky" Conover in connection with the robbery. The reason he did not arrest the man is because the confession was made outside of his county and State, and he felt very doubtful about getting the Coney Island authorities to hold the man for him.

John Harkins's New Team.

John Harkins says that there will be no game with his new base-ball team, the New Brunswicks, before next week Tuesday or Thursday. The team will appear in their new uniforms, which will be ready about Monday next, and which are described as very "tony". The colors are gray and maroon, and the shirt will be lettered with the name of the team.

The battery for next week's game will be Francis and Kennedy.

"Y. S. F".
BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.
OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.
IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.
WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

We Struck a Bargain
And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.
The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. A RED-LIGHT PARTING.

How the People of Merwin's Point Bade Farewell to the Holy Cross Church Choir.

A very pretty feature of the recent Connecticut trip of the Holy Cross church choir took place Monday night at about 11 o'clock, when the steamer bearing the choristers back to New York was off Merwin's Point, where they had spent the week. A young man was on board who had just come from the Point, armed with a red signal light, and he spread the news that the people, especially the girls, who were left behind, intended to salute the boys from the Point as the Erastus Corning sailed by. There was a thin mist over the Sound, and the shore was fully two miles away, but the captain said that the steamer's lights could be seen by the people on the land, and so the choir tilted back their chairs or hung on the railing and gazed into the blackness, each one anxious to be the first to see the light from shore. And sure enough, just when the first mate said they were opposite the Point, two bright red spots flared out in the mist to the westward, and in another minute the signal on the steamer was lighted in reply and the captain twice saluted the distant friends by blowing the great chime whistle of the Corning. It seemed almost as if the responsive lights had bridged the watery depths, and the more imaginative thought they could see the people on shore. After about ten minutes, however, the lights began to fade, and finally went out altogether, and the darkness wrapped everything again in its sable embrace. It was the saddest kind of a parting when the kindred flames died away and the black night swallowed up the last sign of those good friends and that week of pleasure; and the boys ceased their merry-making for a moment, while their minds wandered back to the camp, and the fun,—and the girls.

Cranford's Venetian Carnival.

The executive committee of the Cranford boating association are busy perfecting their arrangements for the grand Venetian carnival to be held on the evening of August 15, on the Rahway river. The event will undoubtedly eclipse any of the previous efforts of this wide-awake and enterprising association. It is proposed to illuminate all the bridges within the limits of the village, also both banks of the river, commencing at the dam near the Union avenue bridge.

At 8 o'clock the flotilla, consisting of about one hundred boats and canoes tastefully decorated with Chinese and Japanese lanterns, will collect at the dam and form in line, and at a signal from Commodore Charles Leo Abry the procession will, amid a grand shower of pyrotechnics and a blaze of colored fire from each shore, move up the river. On the return of the flotilla to the starting point there will be an open air stereopticon exhibition at Bookhout's dock, under the direction of E. W. Austin, who, being an expert artist, has been untiring in his efforts in getting together a very rare collection of both local and miscellaneous pictures which will appear upon a canvas containing about five hundred square feet, suspended over the river.

Bartow's celebrated Bound Brook band will be in attendance. Visitors from neighboring towns will be amply repaid for a visit to Cranford on Saturday evening. In case of rain the carnival will be postponed until the next fair Saturday.

Another Council of Mechanics Who Are Not Mechanics.

William G. Holton Council, No. 55, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, was instituted Monday evening at Dunellen, with fifty-seven charter members. A large number were present from neighboring councils along the line of the Central railway.

George H. Adams Council, of Newark, was also well represented and assisted in organizing the new council The following officers were installed for the ensuing quarter:

Junior Past Councilor—Howard Bird,
Councilor—P. M. Ising.
Vice Councilor—G. Elston Lowrie.
Warden—P. Herlick.
Conductor—Neal Taylor.
Sentinels—A. Herlick and John Kinney.
Trustees—Adam Dealman, Frank Covey and Louis Snyder.

After the installation the newly made officers took charge of their respective positions, and finished up the work for the evening. Not the least important among the order of closing exercises was a bountiful colation of sandwiches, cake, ice-cream and lemonade. At midnight the company adjourned with many a hand shake and wishing much success to William G. Holton, No. 55.

Borough Wells Want Water.

George H. Fairchild, the efficient head man of the North Plainfield fire department, superintended the taking of Warren Engine, No. 1, out for a "wash" last evening. The steamer was first placed on the fire well on Grandview avenue, but soon pumped it dry. Then she was taken to Stony brook. She worked finely at both places.

The deplorable fact is stated that there is not a good well in the borough. The wells are all choked up with sand and mud, and need cleaning. The Borough Council ought to take action immediately, as at present the borough has almost no protection in case of fire.

THE LEMON TRICK.

A Villain's Story of How He Won a Wife.

"SOME men are born villains, some men achieve villainy, others have villainy thrust upon them. I belong to the last category."

He didn't seem the least bit like a villain. He was stout; villains are supposed to have a lean and hungry look. And at that moment Bobby, his youngest little boy, presented him with a sticky pear-drop, which he ate. Who ever heard of a villain eating pear-drops? We were next-door neighbors; we were both fond of gardening, and there was a good deal of innocent rivalry between us. He was something in the city; so was I; we always went to town by the same train, generally in the same carriage, and we were both first-class season-ticket holders—that in itself was a guaranty of respectability. Still, he said he was a villain.

"Good gracious!" I thought; "I hope he isn't going to confide in me."

"Yes," he said; "I obtained my wife by a piece of designing villainy. I should like to tell you about it."

I was sitting in this villain's garden, on this villain's garden-seat, smoking one of this villain's cigars (which wasn't at all villainous), and Bobby, aged three, had retired. We were alone, and I was in for it. I crossed my arms upon my chest, as I have seen persons do in my position upon the stage. "Go on," I said, with a melancholy smile; "your story interests me much."

"You are probably not aware that my wife, Carlotta, is the daughter of an eminent flautist."

"I beg your pardon?" I said.

"Flautist," he repeated—"flute-player, you know." The fellow didn't look a bit ashamed at the fact of the mother of his children being the daughter of a professional musician. Now, my wife's father was an indigo broker, and there is something very gentlemanly about indigo.

"Yes," he continued, "my father-in-law was the celebrated Tremolo. You've heard of Tremolo—everybody's heard of Tremolo. Tremolo, sir," he added, proudly, "was without a rival until Triller came upon the scene, and he killed Triller in three years. My father-in-law, sir, measured fifty-two inches round the chest; he caused special music to be written for him which that puny wretch Triller attempted to render. You have heard the fable of the frog and the bull. Triller was just the frog, and he burst, and my father-in-law, the great Tremolo, went to his funeral. I met my present wife at a little dance in the suburbs. I fell violently in love with her, and I wasn't a bit awed when I was told that she was the daughter of Tremolo, the flautist. I've got a decent business, I said. I was earning six hundred pounds a year at that time, my dear fellow, and I had saved a little money. Why on earth shouldn't I marry Tremolo's daughter? I didn't know that I was a Philistine, you see? Signor Tremolo divided the world into two classes—professional people and Philistines. Now the lady at whose house I had met my Carlotta, though she knew Miss Tremolo well enough to ask her to her little dance, was either unwilling or unable to give me a formal introduction to the young lady's papa; but I was not to be balked. 'I'll take lessons,' I said to myself, 'and get to know him that way.' So I bought a flute, and I knocked boldly at Signor Tremolo's door and demanded an audience. He was awfully civil, and he was greatly astonished when I told him that I wanted to have some lessons.

"'I shall be delighted, young gentleman,' he said; 'how many years have you been working at the instrument?'

SIGNOR TREMOLO SPRANG TO HIS FEET.

"'To tell the truth, Sig. Tremolo,' I answered, airily, 'learning the flute is just a little whim of mine. I only tried once, and then I couldn't get it to make a noise.'

"Never in my life had I seen a man get into such an awful rage all at once. Sig. Tremolo sprang to his feet and turned purple. 'Wretch, brute, animal, Philistine, dog, beast, toad-pig!' he shrieked, and then he clutched at his collar as though he were going to have a fit. 'And you come to me—to me, Tremolo!—to teach you the rudiments! Get out of my place, you insolent rascal!'

"I thought it best to make a clean breast of the whole matter at once. 'Sig. Tremolo,' I said; 'I beg that you will excuse me. I love your daughter to distraction; the lessons that I asked you to give me were a mere pretext.' But that only made him worse.

"'Philistine!' he cried in an awful voice, as he flung the door wide open; 'go!' He wouldn't even give me time to tell him about my six hundred a year.

"For three months I was perfectly miserable; I had no opportunity of meeting Carlotta Tremolo, and how on earth was I to get over her father's insuperable objection? How was I to cease to be a Philistine? It is difficult to become a professional after you are eight-and-twenty; and I could not very well black my face and turn negro minstrel.

"I am rather fond of dry reading; I like a book which is, so to say, caviare to the general. I was reading 'Wugsby's Physiology' one day—the section on mental impressions. This was what I read: 'The mere mention of a favorite article of food will often make the mouth twitch involuntarily. This peculiar phenomenon is often observed in an exaggerated degree at the sight of a very acid fruit—as the lemon. These obscure phenomena,' etc. The idea—the fiendish idea—came to me in an instant; I became a designing villain in the twinkling of an eye. 'I will become an evil genius to Signor Tremolo,' I thought; 'I will become to him as the Old Man of the Sea. No more shall he delight the public. When I see his name billed for a concert in the usual manner:

THE FLUTE OBLIGATO, BY SIGNOR TREMOLO,

I will be there with my lemon, and I will produce obscure phenomena.' I had not long to wait.

"ST. JAMES' HALL.—SELECTIONS FROM 'IL FLAUTO MAGICO.' SOLO ON THE FLUTE, SIGNOR TREMOLO.

"I paid twenty-one shillings for a front-row seat. I took care that my victim should perceive me from the very first. I went through the various musical torments that are only appreciated by the elect; then came the selection from 'Il Flauto Magico.' Signor Tremolo stepped out to the very front of the center of the platform. There was a great burst of applause as Carlotta's father drew down his great wristbands and made his bow; then I coughed loudly to attract his attention.

HE SHOOK HIS FIST AT ME.

and I succeeded in doing so. After the orchestra had played several bars, the solo commenced. You have heard Tremolo play; I need not describe it. You might have heard a pin fall, the public was so attentive. He reminded me of nothing so much as a human thrush. What gurgles, warbles, and bubbling trills of melody that man produced! Every one—every one except the villain in the front row (I mean myself)—sat entranced. I coughed suddenly and succeeded in catching my victim's eye. I produced a lemon and applied it to my mouth. Suddenly the unhappy maestro ceased to produce delicious melody; he made just that noise a gas-machine does when it is short of water; then he turned all colors of the rainbow; he seemed to be trying to swallow his own tongue. He shook his fist furiously at me, seized his bushy professional locks with both hands, dropped his flute, appeared to be attempting to pull his hair out by the roots, and then rushed from the platform without a word.

"I hurried from the concert room; but before I could get out somebody made an apology for Signor Tremolo on the ground of sudden illness. That night Signor Tremolo sent for me. I found him in bed.

"'Have you no mercy, young man?' he said, in a hollow voice.

"'You can't expect any mercy from a Philistine,' I replied, airily.

"Then he groaned. 'I am a ruined man!' he said. Then he began to cry. A middle-aged Italian, weeping bitterly, is not a pleasant object.

"'How much do you want?' he said, as he wiped his streaming eyes.

"'Old man,' I said, 'your professional career is over. Whenever you appear in public, I will be there, armed with this.' Here I produced my lemon. As I did so, Signor Tremolo's head disappeared beneath the bedclothes. 'As a man,' I continued, firmly—'as a Philistine,' I added, severely—'I have no sympathy with you, Signor Tremolo; but I have my price.'

"The flautist's head was instantly protruded. 'Name it,' he said; 'name it, wretch! and it shall be paid.'

"'Sig. Tremolo,' I began, 'when I informed you of my affection for your daughter, you dismissed me with threats of personal violence; you may refuse to allow me to pay my addresses to your daughter, but you cannot deprive me of my rights as a man. I adore the flute'—then I gave a diabolical laugh—'and,' I added, 'I'm desperately fond of lemons.'

"There is no more to add. I married Carlotta Tremolo four years ago. If it had not been for 'Wugsby's Physiology,' I should never have been allowed to pay my addresses to her. It is awfully hot weather; shall we have a lemonade? I am very fond of lemons."

Then he laughed a great, hearty, good-humored laugh. I do not think my neighbor was such a villain after all, considering the circumstances.

I accepted the lemonade.

Curiosity impelled me to go to a promenade concert and try the lemon trick upon a popular flautist. The popular flautist jumped off the platform at a single bound and offered to fight me. Next day I had to buy a new hat.—St. James' Gazette.

Legal Note.

A young man of about eighteen years of age had occasion to shoot a friend with whom he had a personal difficulty. He was arrested and brought to Austin for trial. As he had no money to hire a lawyer, the court appointed a member of the Austin bar to defend him. As the jury was being selected, the lawyer asked his client if he knew of any cause why any of them should be challenged.

"Not yet," was the whispered reply; "but if they find me guilty, I've got a brother who will challenge the last one of 'em. You can challenge the judge if you want to, but I want to attend to the sheriff myself."—Texas Siftings.

A Graceful Affair.

The late duke of Rutland, when walking one fine morning in his grounds, came across a gamekeeper's little girl.

"Well, little one," he asked, "and what do you call yourself?"

"For what we are going to receive make us truly thankful," replied the little one, with apparent irrelevance.

It seemed that the child's mother's instructions had been: "If you meet the duke, be quite sure to say 'your grace.'" —Jury.

A Good Example.

St. Agedore is a young man about town whose artistic admiration of beauty occasionally leads him to walk six blocks in order to turn around and meet a pretty girl for a second time. He explains this peculiarity of his by the argument:

"I have always been admonished to follow a good example. So whenever I see a good example of a pretty girl I follow it."—Munsey's Weekly.

Phelim—Niver mind, yez spalpeen; howld me grip till I get on the police!—Puck.

Club Rivalries.

Pembroke—Some of the members of the Beaumonde club charge Hayes with conduct unbecoming a gentleman and want to expel him.

Balling—The charge can be easily substantiated.

Pembroke—How?

Balling—By merely proving his membership in the club.—Judge.

Disappointment.

"Of cawse you liked deah old Lunnon?" said Goslin to Sappy, when the latter returned from his first run across.

"No, deah boy; I was rathaw disappointed, doncher know."

"Aw?"

"Yass. The fact is, Lunnon isn't quite so English as New York."—Harper's Bazar.

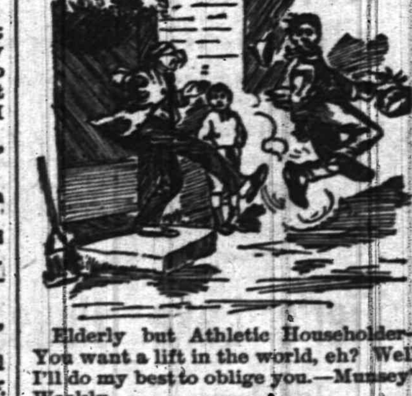
Difference in Pies.

Hostess—Te he! I beg pardon, Mr. Downeast, but really the New England custom of having pie for breakfast seems very funny.

Mr. Downeast—Ah, madam, if you could taste New England pies you'd want them three times a day.—Good News.

AN UPWARD IMPETUS.



Elderly but Athletic Householder—You want a lift in the world, eh? Well, I'll do my best to oblige you.—Munsey's Weekly.

No Faith in Banks.

Old Lady—It just makes me laugh to see the way the banks are bursting up. It doesn't hurt me any, I can tell you.

Friend—Haven't you any money in banks?

Old Lady—No, indeed. I invested all I had in a flying machine.—Good News.

A Superfluity.

She—Don't you think that our modern society is too frivolous? I am oftimes amused by some young man who goes about with his heart in his sleeve.

He—Yes; I met a fellow the other night who had several of them there.—Judge.

Why Whistling Was Approved.

"I like a man who whistles at his work," said Payles, who was reducing his help.

"Why?"

"Because it gives you such an excellent excuse for firing him."—N. Y. Press.

A Sad Disappointment.

First Highwayman—Why do yer look so glum, Bill?

Second Highwayman (surveying the spoils with disgust)—It's green goods, by gosh! Dat was a farmer from de city we jest held up.—Judge.

SAVED A LIFE.

How an American Boy Won Fame at a French School.

SUPPER was over in the college of Sainte Barbe. The lessons for the next day were all prepared, and the boys were getting ready for bed. A merry lot they were in the preparatory department this year; nearly all were French, of course, with here and there a little Englishman from across the channel, and in one of the beds in the long dormitory slept a small representative of our own republic, Frank Harrington, whose parents had left him to receive his winter's schooling at Sainte Barbe, while they were traveling abroad. Frank was a great favorite among the boys—bright, overflowing with fun and full of American grit. They admired the little fellow's courage and daring, and that fine sense of honor which is born in the breast of every true American boy. And Frank Harrington, if the truth must be told, rather enjoyed all this admiration, and was not a little proud of being a leader among the French boys.

At the extreme end of the dormitory stood the bed of the only boy who refused to acknowledge the reign in the preparatory school of "le petit Americain," as Frank was called. A proud, haughty nature had Louis de Chaves, the last of a long line of titled ancestors, faithful followers of the Bourbons, and hating with an inherited hatred all that savored of republicanism. Although younger than Frank by several years, he seemed to have taken an instinctive dislike to the careless, happy-hearted boy, and more than once had succeeded in bringing him into disgrace.

It had been a holiday, and the boys had been having a very jolly time, so being unusually tired to-night they were unusually subdued and, after a whispered word or two about the games of the day, went quietly to sleep. Gradually the few noises about the college ceased, until the ticking of the clocks could be heard through all the buildings. Outside, the streets of Paris grew more and more deserted, and the lonely footsteps of the sergeants de ville were the only sounds which broke the stillness of the night.

Frank Harrington had played a little too hard that day, or his supper, somewhat better than usual on account of the holiday, had disagreed with him, for he was very restless, and started many times in his sleep, until at last his eyes opened wide and would not close again. It was very still. Frank was unused to being awake in the night, and it seemed to him he had never felt anything more oppressive than the silence of the room, and the regular breathing of the sleeping boys. The moon shone in full through the window just above his head, and threw long shadows over the floor, which he fancied took queer forms and shapes around him. The great hall clock struck two, and he started, so loud it sounded through the room. At last, however, he grew sleepy, and was just beginning to doze comfortably off, when he saw a small, white-robed figure coming slowly toward his bed. Now Frank had been a little nervous for some time, though he wouldn't have admitted it for the world, and his heart gave a bound, and for a moment he held his breath, then the figure stepped into the moonlight, and he saw that it was Louis de Chaves. His eyes were closed, and Frank saw instantly that he was walking in his sleep. He felt a little ashamed of his fear a moment before, especially as he had often heard the other boys say that Louis was a sleep-walker.

LOUIS STOOD FOR A MOMENT.

"It is always he," he thought, petulantly. "I would be real happy here if it wasn't for this miserable little royalist." Louis stood for a moment, as if hesitating, and then turning walked slowly along the length of the dormitory. Frank watched him curiously until he saw him reach the door, when, to his surprise, Louis opened it and passed out, closing it quietly after him. Frank's first impulse was to spring out of bed and follow him. "He will come to some harm," he thought. "The stairs are just outside." Then came a selfish thought. "It is cold. He wouldn't do it for me." Five minutes later Frank Harrington was fast asleep.

Every morning at half past five the bell of Sainte Barbe rouses the students of the college. A half an hour later it is rung for prayers. But the hands of the clock pointed to twenty-five minutes to six, and one after another the boys awakened, wondering what ailed the punctual old bell, that had never failed in its duty since their grandfathers were babies. They were not left long, however, in suspense. Through the long corridors one of the under professors noiselessly passed. With his finger on his lip commanding silence, he beckoned to the frightened boys who quickly gathered round him, and in low, hurried tones told them why the bell had not been rung. In the dim gray light of dawn, one of the professors, looking from his window, had seen little Louis de Chaves sitting on the edge of the eaves which ran along the French roof of the further building, his feet swinging over the terrible height, and his whole attitude showing him to be asleep. The windows above him were securely grated, so that the only way he could possibly have reached this position was to have climbed out of the window at which the professor was standing, walked over the roof below, and crossed a narrow ledge which ran between the two buildings. The professor stood for a moment horror-stricken, then rushed with the alarming news to the head of the college, who commanded that the bell should not be rung, and sent immediately for the nearest mairie for assistance, and so perfect is the police system of Paris that, by the time the boys had hurriedly pulled on their clothes and collected outside the building, beds and hay were piled on the ground, policemen were stationed at the two streets running into the Rue de Reims to prevent persons, or vehicles, from passing, and others were ranged all along the walls to maintain the perfect silence which was absolutely necessary, for everyone knew that any sound awakening the little sleeper would be instantaneous death by causing him to fall from his dangerous position down the fearful number of feet which lay between him and the ground.

The question now arose as to how the boy was to be saved. There seemed but one way; to take out the grating as quietly as possible from the window above, and let some one down to him by a rope.

But who would undertake so hazardous a thing? All held back afraid. They knew that one false step, or the least want of steadiness would hurl the unconscious boy to the ground.

Frank Harrington, too, heard the reason told in whispered tones why the bell was silent. He stood now among the group of frightened boys, his eyes fixed in horror on the helpless figure so far above him, for he knew that he had held in his hand the night before the life of Louis de Chaves and had thrown it away as worthlesss.

He stood dazed and shuddering, until he heard them wondering around him who would be brave enough to try to save Louis. Then he started forward: "I will go. Oh! let me try. I am sure can save him," he whispered, earnestly. The permission was granted, and a few minutes later all below were held spellbound as Frank appeared at the window, and cautiously began his descent toward the spot to which all eyes were lifted.

Three policemen held the rope, which was fastened just below his arms. Slowly he neared the place, he reached it, he clasped the sleeping boy firmly around the waist. A struggle as the little fellow awoke, and then, as the two boys were carefully drawn up again, cheer upon cheer echoed up and down the street for Louis de Chaves and "le petit Americain." And when, a moment later, the great bell pealed forth to summon them to prayers, all knelt with softened, grateful hearts around the young royalist and the brave boy who had saved his life and gained his friendship.—Katherine Hamilton, in American Agriculturist.

A Doubtful Story.

A Norwegian living in the sixteenth century was accounted a masterhand at minute contrivances. In proof of this it is recorded that he made sixteen thousand dishes of turned ivory, in every respect without a flaw, and so tiny that all of them could be safely cradled in an empty pepper-corn cup of usual size. One may well believe that, as was written in connection, "magnifying-glasses were essential to full belief and enjoyment of the Lilliputian show;" it is added that the fairy-like workmanship was the admiration of many learned men.—Harper's Bazar.

An Honest Man.

Great Lawyer (in cross-examination)—Huh! You consider the prisoner an honest man, do you?

Witness.—An honester man never lived.

Great Lawyer (superciliously)—Will you kindly state on what you base that remarkable opinion?

Witness (hotly)—On the fact that he once tried to be lawyer, and failed.—Good News.

—Taking His Breath Away.—Miss Simper—"Aren't things much cheaper this year than they were last year?" Calloway—"Yes, indeed. I only pay one-half as much for my neckties. The difference is so great that now (smiling) I could easily afford to get married." Miss Simper—"Oh, Mr. Calloway, this is so sudden!"—Clothier and Furnisher.

O "CAN I ASSIST YOU, MADAM?"

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Terrible Disaster on an Excursion Barge.

14 KILLED AND 30 INJURED.

A Squall Lifted the Hurricane Deck and Dropped It on the Crowd.

The Accident Occurred on the Return Trip—There Were 600 Excursionists on Board from Brooklyn—Frightful Scenes When the Crash Came—The Coroner Says the Vessel Was Unseaworthy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Fourteen persons were killed outright and thirty more were injured at Cold Spring Harbor at 4 o'clock last evening.

They were just clearing the dock on an excursion barge to return to Brooklyn when the vessel was struck by a heavy squall and dashed against the dock. It was in the midst of a terrible thunder storm, the waves ran high, and some people think that the mast of the barge on which the people were killed was struck by lightning. This is not known, however.

There Was Great Excitement.

All was excitement and confusion; women and children were running about and screaming with fright. The sky was dark and threatening, and a heavy sea was running when the upper deck of the barge fell with a crash upon the crowd beneath. Fourteen persons lay dead upon the deck when the wreckage was cleared away and upward of thirty more were severely injured. Others are supposed to have fallen into the water, but up to 9 o'clock no bodies had been washed ashore or recovered.

600 Excursionists on Board.

The excursion was sent out by the big dry goods house of Kayser of Brooklyn for the benefit of its employes, but many other persons took advantage of the excursion to go along. In all there were about 600 persons, nearly all of them are residents of Brooklyn and Williamsburgh. The excursion had two barges, which belonged to Mild's Excursion Company, and were towed by a large tug. The excursion party left Brooklyn early in the morning and arrived at Cold Spring harbor about noon.

The boats had barely put off from the dock on the return trip when the accident happened. Among the killed was the pilot of the barge. When the confusion had subsided the superintendent of Kayser's establishment sent the killed and wounded to their homes in Brooklyn by special train.

The Vessel Was Rotten.

The coroner immediately summoned a jury and, after an examination, permitted the removal of the bodies. The jury in its verdict strongly censured the owner of the excursion barge for carelessness, as the vessel was found to be as rotten as punk and totally unseaworthy.

The bodies of the people whose lives were lost were brought to the foot of South Fifth street, Brooklyn, on the steamer Tolchester. Ambulances were in waiting and the bodies of the men, women and children were carried to the Fifth Precinct station house.

The Death Roll.

The following have been identified:

MRS. KATE RALLER, aged 40, and her 7 year-old daughter Kate.

MISS GOETZ, aged 18.

ROBERT SHULER, pilot of barge.

KATE KANTZ, aged 4.

LIZZIE SCHREMAUT, aged 8.

PAULINE PRINCE, aged 52.

MRS. LIVERPINK, aged 38.

J. HOFFMAN.

Story of an Eye Witness.

Charles Wetzlein, of No. 34 Johnson avenue, was on the lower deck of the barge when the crash came.

"There was a stroke of lightning," he said, "and then there came such a violent gust of wind that the boat swayed back and forth. There was a crash and I heard women and children shrieking. Many of the excursionists dropped into the water when the barge went over on one side and the boat looked as though she was going to capsize.

"The brakemen and the railroad people acted like brutes. They wanted to be paid for everything, and many people who hadn't any money had to foot back and get home as well as they could."

The Seizure of the Steamship City of Panama Being Investigated.

CAPE MAY POINT, N. J., Aug. 13.—Attorney Edgar Lauterbach, of New York, laid before the President facts in connection with the seizure by the government of Salvador of the steamship City of Panama.

At the conclusion of the interview the President telegraphed the Secretary of State to instruct the Minister and Consul at Salvador to furnish a report of the facts in the case for the information of the President.

The Secretary of the Navy was also telegraphed to keep the cruiser Charleston ready for any service that may be required of her.

Will Depend on America.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Daily News commenting on the action of Russia in prohibiting the export of rye, says that it is reassuring to learn that the crops in the United States promise to yield an exceptionally large harvest. The farmers of America, the paper declares, are masters of the situation, and it is to be hoped that they will use their strength mercifully. The making of corners in the necessaries of life is never laudable, and in the present juncture it would be little short of fiendish.

A Man Drops Dead While Pursuing Negroes Who Attacked Wife.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Oscar Cook and her daughter Edith, of Wilton, while driving near King's Station met two negroes, who tried to assault them. They aroused people residing in the vicinity by their screams and the negroes fled.

Mr. Cook when he heard of it started out with his hired man in pursuit. They had gone but a short distance when Mr. Cook, who was laboring under great excitement, fell from his wagon and died in a few minutes of heart disease.

Chief Blodgett and Detective Costello arrested near Sandy Hill the negroes who committed the assault and brought the men here.

The prisoners gave their names as Edward F. and Sewell E. Willard and claimed to be from New Hampshire and to be peddling soap. Both were intoxicated at the time of the assault. They choked Mrs. Cook until she nearly became insensible. She is now insane as the result of her injuries and from grief at the death of her husband. Miss Cook escaped from the brutes by taking refuge in the woods along the road.

SOCIETY SENSATION.

A Prominent Married Lady of Buffalo Deserts Her Home for the Stage.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Society circles are all agog over the announcement that Mrs. Emma Cronyn, wife of Dr. John Cronyn, a prominent physician of this city, had joined the Carlton Opera Company as a chorus singer and that she appeared on the stage at Washington last night as a student in "Amorita," dressed in tights.

Mrs. Cronyn is a very handsome blonde and is of almost perfect physical proportions. Her husband enjoys a large practice, and she had almost everything that could be desired. She became infatuated with the stage and when the Carlton Opera Company was in this city she applied for a position in the company. She was told that she must start at the bottom in the chorus, but this did not deter her, and on Sunday she left with the company for Washington.

It is said that Dr. Cronyn is much distressed over his wife's conduct. His office is closed and the doctor could not be found.

HILL AND BULKELEY.

New York's Governor Refuses to Honor Another Connecticut Requisition.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 13.—Sheriff Brown went to Albany yesterday with requisition papers for James Lamphere, wanted for highway robbery. Upon application to Governor Hill the latter told the officer that he saw no reason for changing his opinion previously given the people of Connecticut concerning Bulkeley.

The sheriff told him that Governor Russell, of Massachusetts, and Governor Davis, of Rhode Island, had recognized Governor Bulkeley, and that Judge Seymour, of the Supreme Court, had declared him de facto Governor.

Governor Hill said he had never heard of the Supreme Court decision, and asked that a copy be sent him.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—A report is current that Gen. Benjamin F. Butler died suddenly on board his yacht this morning.

Hon. W. L. Scott Improving.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Ex-Congressman Scott's condition is slightly improved. His physician said: "I am confident that Mr. Scott will recover, though his recovery will be necessarily very slow. I consider that he has passed the turning point and the chances are greatly in his favor. I shall strongly urge that he go abroad during the Presidential campaign, for you know it will be absolutely impossible to keep Mr. Scott from taking an active part in the campaign, especially if Mr. Cleveland should be nominated."

Denied Her Lover She Suicides.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 13.—Nora Jorallman, aged 21, who lived about half way between Providence and Pawtucket, committed suicide about 9 p. m. by shooting herself through the left temple with a revolver. The deceased had been receiving the attentions of a young man to whom her family objected and finally the latter forbade her seeing him. As a result she became gloomy and despondent, and this is given as a cause for her self destruction.

New Life-saving Stations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Contracts for erecting life-saving stations at Burnt Island, Me., and Quonocontaug, R. I., have been awarded by the Treasury Department, W. H. HIS BODY IN A WELL

The Dream of a Dying Wife Solves a Mystery.

MISSING WILLIAM SHORT FOUND

He Was a Car Cleaner and Disappeared Mysteriously Two Years Ago.

Neighbors Find the Corpse at the Bottom of a Well—It Was Easily Identified, No Sign of Decomposition Being Visible—The Coroner to Make an Examination. A Double Funeral.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Two years ago William Short, who worked on the Long Island Railroad, suddenly disappeared from his home in Jamaica, L. I., and since then he has been given up for dead by the neighbors.

His wife continued to carry on the house, and never would allow that her husband was dead, but repeatedly said that often she had visions of him and that he would turn up some day. His two children also frequently spoke of their father as being "at the bottom of the well," a well in the garden formerly used by the railroad company for their locomotives.

Last night Mrs. Short died suddenly, but some of the neighbors say that previous to her dying she told them she had been repeatedly awakened at night by a vision of her husband, who stood at her bedside and told her that he had fallen down the well.

Two men, John Mayall and William Amberman, procured a fifty foot ladder, and descending to the bottom of the well were horrified to discover the body of the missing William Short.

The body was drawn to the surface and laid on the ground, where it was immediately identified by a number of the neighbors. The body was in a good state of preservation, there being no signs of decomposition. The depth of the well and the peculiar quality of the water, which contained a great quantity of lime, had preserved it.

The coroner will make a thorough investigation.

The bodies of husband and wife will be buried together to-morrow.

MAY LYNCH HIM.

Armed Citizens Scour the Woods for the Negro Highwayman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The constables of Great Neck, Little Neck and Manhasset spent another vain day in scouring the woods for John Ammerman, the negro who assaulted and robbed Mrs. Neimeyer.

They were armed with revolvers and it would have gone hard with the negro had they caught him. Squire Morrell directed the operations of the hunting party from his house at Manhasset.

The party divided into two sections. Constable Fred Neimeyer, the husband of the woman who was assaulted, and Constable Pilcher, of Manhasset, with one party went to Hempstead, while Deputy Sheriff George Clark and Constables Roe and Hicks searched the woods in the direction of Jamaica.

The negro is 58 years of age and of stout build. He served a term in State prison for assaulting a girl some years ago. He wears earrings. Everybody around Great Neck knows him. He worked in farm house around the place. Of late years he was not considered a dangerous character.

Heat and Stings Drive a Man in New Jersey Mad.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 13.—Alexander Gordon, a well-known dry goods furnishing dealer on Broad street, whose business has been dull, became violently insane yesterday morning. He dashed from his house at daylight and plunged into a wire fence, badly lacerating his half-nude body.

Two officers captured him. He was placed in a cell, where he tore all his clothing from his body. He was overpowered and placed in a strait-jacket.

His young wife says his mental derangement is due to the great heat and mosquitoes.

Children Fatally Burned.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 13.—Two children of L. L. Horton, manager of the Somerset Lumber Co., near Ohio Pyle, this county, were fatally burned last night by the explosion of an oil can. The boy was pouring oil on a torch which he was preparing to take to a hive of bees, when his little sister threw a lighted match into the torch, igniting the oil in the can.

Street Car Employe Steals $15,000.

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—John Callahan, street car employe, has been arrested charged with robbing the company of $15,000 in cash. It was part of Callahan's duty to go to the various outlying stations of the company every night and collect the deposits made by the conductors and drivers. He has turned over to the company $15,000 in cash and an ex-

ON THE MURDERERS' TRAIL.

The Slayers of the Unknown Belvidere Dead Man Traced Into Pennsylvania.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 13.—The detectives who have been working on the case of the man who was murdered at Hope on Friday evening and whose body was found in a corn field near the road on Sunday morning have succeeded in tracing the fleeing murderers about 25 miles into Pennsylvania. They continued the chase to-day, and it is thought not improbable here that they may return with one or both of the fugitives in a day or two.

At one small place through which they passed the negro obtained a supply of provisions at a farmhouse by threats of violence. At another place a robbery is said to have been committed by the men.

All the witnesses who have testified to seeing the three men say they could pick the negro out from 10,000 of his race, his features were so repulsive.

W. T. Croasdale's Remains Cremated.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The funeral of W. T. Croasdale, the late editor of the Standard, the single tax organ, took place from the rooms of the Manhattan Single Tax Club. The services were conducted by Father Huntington and Henry George. The Episcopal service was read, after which Mr. George made an address, paying a high tribute to the memory of his deceased collaborateur. After the services at the club were concluded the remains were taken to the Fresh Pond Crematory, where they were incinerated.

Forecast of a State Ticket.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—It is reported that the Democratic managers have agreed on the following State ticket: For Governor, Roswell P. Flower. For Lieut.-Governor, William F. Sheehan, of Buffalo. For Secretary of State, Frank Rice. For Comptroller, Frank Campbell. For Treasurer, Elliott Danforth. For Attorney General, S. W. Rosendale. There is strong talk of a combination which will be made to defeat a portion of this ticket.

Decision Against Mrs. Crane.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—There was no surprise in this city that the application of Mrs. Walter Beverly Crane, formerly Miss Alice Cooper, of New York, for an annulment of her marriage, on the ground that Mr. Crane forced her by threats of suicide to consent to the wedding, and the marriage had never been consumated, was refused by the court in which the proceedings were instituted.

Fell Over a Precipice.

VIENNA, Aug. 13.—Two young students of this city, who attempted to ascend the Dachstein, near Ischl, lost their way in a dense fog. One fell over a precipice and was killed. The other was found, almost starved, after forty-eight hours search by a rescuing party.

ABDUCTORS CAUGHT

They Kidnapped Millionaire Perrien in Detroit.

CLEVER WORK BY DETECTIVES.

They Arrest Three Members of the Notorious Considine Gang.

One of the Party Drew a Revolver and Attempted to Escape—All the Prisoners Quickly Locked Up—The Officers Making the Arrest to Receive a Reward of $3,000.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 13.—Twenty-one weeks ago to-night Joseph Perrien, a millionaire miller living in Detroit, was abducted from his home on Catherine street by kidnappers bent on extortion. The nature of the crime and the prominence and wealth of Mr. Perrien attracted widespread attention. The people of Detroit were startled to realize that such a deed could be committed under their eyes, and the police put forth every effort to capture the criminals.

The closing scene of the bold drama was enacted last night when the police arrested the abductors, who belong to the famous Considine gang, the members of which have been charged with burglaries, robberies, safe crackings, gigantic swindles, murders and numerous other crimes, and in the past ten years have been a menace to the safety of Detroit people. By defiance of officers and by means of political pulls the members have often escaped conviction, but the evidence against them has never been so clear as in the great abduction case.

Detectives have been working diligently for five months. From the descriptions of the men given by Mr. Perrien and surrounding circumstances, and by carefully spotting all horses and rigs which answered the descriptions, they soon got on the trail of the men, and for over three months have been adding valuable links to the chain of evidence which is now complete. Last evening the police raided Frank Weithoff's gambling den on Cadillac square, and arrested Billy Considine, Frank Griffiths and Tom Kennedy, all members of the Considine gang.

Billy Considine drew a revolver, but changed his mind and sprang out of the back door into the alley. He gained rapidly on the officers pursuing him, but the police were on the lookout, and as he turned a corner another officer pushed a revolver in his face and brought him to a sudden stop. A few minutes later Jim McDowell, Johnny Considine and Eddie Kent, other members of the gang, were arrested in another resort and lodged behind the bars.

After his release Mr. Perrien offered a reward of $3,000 for the arrest of his abductors. The reward will go to three or four officers.

THE DEAD POET.

Telegrams of Sympathy Pouring in from the Old and New World.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Deep sorrow is expressed on all sides over the death of Hon. James Russell Lowell.

Telegrams of sympathy have been pouring in all day from prominent men in this country and England. The announcement of his death is felt as a personal loss.

The funeral services will be held in Appleton Chapel, Cambridge, at noon to-morrow. Bishop-elect Brooks will probably officiate.

A Sketch of His Life.

James Russell Lowell was born in "Elmwood," Cambridge, Mass., on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1819.

He was the son of Rev. Charles Lowell, D. D., and Harriet, daughter of Robert T. Spence, of Portsmouth, N. H. His first American ancestor was Percival Lowell, who came from Bristol England, settling in Newbury, Mass., in 1639. He graduated from Harvard College at the age of 19, in 1838. He was the class poet. He passed through the Harvard Law School and opened a law office in Boston after being admitted to the bar in 1840.

His literary career began in 1841 with the publication of his first volume of poems, "A Year's Life." In 1844 came a second volume of poems, and a year later his first prose work "Conversations on some of the Old Poets." In 1848 he gave to the world "The Vision of Sir Launfal," "The Table for Critics" and the first of the series of "The Bigelow Papers." Since then he has been a prolific writer of prose and verse.

He passed 1851 and 1852 in travel in Europe, and after his return in 1854 delivered a course of lectures before the Lowell Institute in Boston on the British poets, which led to his selection as successor to Longfellow in the chair of Belles-Lettres in Harvard College, to which he was appointed in 1855.

In 1877 Mr. Lowell was appointed Minister to Spain, and in 1880 was transferred to the Court of St. James.

Mr. Lowell was married in 1844 to Miss Maria White, of Watertown, a poet like himself. Her death occurred in 1853. The second Mrs. Lowell was Miss Frances Dunlap, niece of ex-Gov. Dunlap, of Maine, who was married in 1857 and died in England in 1885. She was a lifelong invalid. Of the four children by Mr. Lowell's first marriage only one survives, Mabel, who married Congressman Edward Burnett.

England Mourns for Lowell.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Times says that the death of James Russell Lowell is more keenly and widely felt in England than would be that of any other American, or indeed any man not a fellow-countryman. With his death there passes into history a really remarkable man.

Breakfast Vanities

BY MRS. DEARBORN,

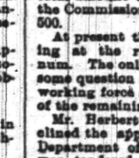
Principal Boston Cooking School.

Mix and sift together 1 pint pastry flour, ½ tea sp. salt and 1 heaping tea sp. Cleveland's Baking Powder. Mix to a stiff dough with milk, using only sufficient to make it stiff enough to roll.

Toss out on a slightly floured board, roll out very thin, cut into small squares with a sharp knife or pastry wheel and drop into boiling lard.

Shake the kettle gently to facilitate their rising, and when well puffed up turn them and brown the other side. Drain on paper. They should be cooked in fat hot enough to brown a piece of bread while counting sixty, and are quite hollow when cooked. Serve with maple syrup if liked.—(Copyright, 1891.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.



Pure crystal cream of tartar and soda make a perfectly wholesome leaven. There is no other leavening power in Cleveland's Baking Powder.

EDITOR JONES' FUNERAL.

His Remains Taken to New York City for Interment.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The remains of Mr. George Jones, who died yesterday at Poland Springs, Me., were brought to this city at midnight.

The funeral services will be held to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock at Dr. Heber Newton' Church, Madison avenue and 69th street.

The death of Mr. Jones will not make any change in the conduct of his newspaper, the New York Times. Gilbert Jones will succeed his father as publisher and Charles R. Miller will remain as editor.

Mr. Jones was born 79 years ago at Poultney, Vt., where his father had settled on coming to America from Wales. It was in this village that Mr. Jones met Horace Greeley, and the two boys formed a friendship that lasted nearly half a century. They were employed together in a country store and on a newspaper, the Vermont Spectator, both owned by Amos Bliss.

Young Jones went to New York in 1833, and again met Greeley, but declined an offer of partnership in the Tribune. Later Mr. Jones went into the news agency business at Albany, and in 1851 he started the New York Times in association with Raymond and Wesley, and in 1869, on Raymond's death he became sole proprietor.

WORLD'S FAIR TROUBLES.

The National Commission Spending Too Much Money.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Salaries must be cut down and a number of employes dropped if the National World's Fair Commission is to avoid a big deficiency at the close of the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1892.

The estimates already prepared show an apparent deficiency of $39,940. The total amount available for the use of the Commission and its officers is $50,500.

At present the Commission is spending at the rate of $89,740 per annum. The only solution of the trouble some question seems to be to reduce the working force and cut down the salaries of the remaining employes.

Mr. Herbert Baxter Adams has declined the appointment of Chief of the Department of Liberal Arts. The place was tendered to him a month ago by Director-General Davis, who had received positive assurance that Dr. Adams would take it.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—At no season can buyers resist the magic of good goods at Peck's.

—The Somerville coons say they will never play base-ball in Plainfield again.

—The Netherwood Heights base-ball club defeated the Fanwood club, Tuesday, by a score of 13 to 3.

—The Waterbury American enviously says: "The Holy Cross church choir of Plainfield, N. J., is one of the finest in the country."

—Grand stand reserved seats for Saturday's game against the Westfield, and next Wednesday's game against the Norwich team, are on sale at Kenney's, corner of Front street and Park avenue.

—Fred. Willibald, a thirteen-year-old lad who lives in the rear of 23 Liberty street, had a succession of 13 fits, at the North avenue railway station, last evening. He was taken home in a very weak condition.

—Mrs. M. E. Marvin will open a kindergarten school at 9 Plainfield avenue, Thursday, September 17. Classes will also be formed in drawing and painting, particulars of which will be found in the advertisement in another column.

—All members of the Order of Foresters and those desiring to become members, are requested to be present at a meeting in the Sons of Temperance hall, corner of Front street and Park avenue, to-night, at which time the final organization will take place.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Joseph G. Miller and family are at Westerly, R. I.

Dr. T. S. Davis and family are now at Westport Inn, Westport, N. Y.

Josephine Casper and Andrew J. Stiglitz, both of this city, were married last evening. The Rev. Dr. Taylor officiated.

Sheridan F. Fox, who has been in the Adirondacks all summer, made a flying visit to his home on Hillside avenue, Monday.

On the desk of F. M. Bacon, at the office of the Real Estate Trust, is a card which says: "Gone fishin'. Supply is limited. Leave your order early."

The Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman who have just returned from Liberty, N. Y., will leave to-morrow for a visit to Mrs. Honeyman's old home in the vicinity of Lake Hopatcong.

Walter Brown, of the Metropolitan Telephone and Telegraph company, of New York, and Waldron Hoppins of the New York and New Jersey Telephone company, of Brooklyn, visited The Netherwood last Sunday. After dinner they drove to Plainfield and through its charming suburbs. They expressed themselves delighted with their day's outing.

A dinner was given by John F. Wiechers to a number of friends from the Manhattan Club and the Union County Country Club, at the club-house on West Seventh street, last evening. The event was a most enjoyable one. The guests were charmed with the Casino, and surprised and delighted at the beauty and completeness of the club-house. The dinner was especially prepared entirely by the club chef, and was of surpassing excellence. The wines were of choicest vintage. In every way the host made the occasion one long to be remembered with most pleasurable feelings, and the Manhattan members will carry back to their club enthusiastic stories of the famous hospitality the Plainfield club-house affords.

Change of Date.

A meeting of the general committee of the reunion of the Thirtieth Regiment was held at the court house, Somerville, last Thursday. It had been brought to mind that the Smith picnic occurs regularly on the last Wednesday in August, which this year falls on the 26th, and as the committee have no desire to interfere with that notable event, it was decided to change the date of the reunion from Aug. 26 to Sept. 3.

Capt. G. S. Cook resigned the permanent chairmanship, and J. W. Ballantine was chosen to fill the vacancy. A communication from H. P. Baldwin, general passenger agent of the Jersey Central Railway, with a proposition to run trains to and from the Veghte grove, was read and approved.

A Tribute to the Departed.

Concerning the death of Hannah A. Ayres, who died in this city, August 2, of paralysis, at the age of seventy years, the Sabbath Recorder, of Alfred Centre, Says: "Mrs. Ayres united with the New Market Seventh-day Baptist church fifty years ago, and remained a faithful and devoted member until called to her heavenly home. She leaves three daughters and one son who will greatly miss her from their circle; but all are comforted with the hope of a joyful reunion by and by. Funeral services were held at her late home, Aug. 5, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. L. E. Livermore, of New Market, assisted by Dr. A. H. Lewis. Interment was made at Hillside Cemetery."

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

GABLE GIVES BONDS.

He Still Clings to Mrs. Avery, But Must Support His Wife.

John B. Gable, the wife deserter, has been run to earth in New York city, and compelled to furnish bonds to contribute to the support of his suffering wife. On Tuesday night, accompanied by Mrs. Gable herself, a detective visited a house in the metropolis where it was said Gable was living with Mrs. Avery, and Gable was captured just as he was about to go out for a pitcher of beer. He was at once locked up, but later found in a New York friend a bondsman who went surety for him in his promise to pay Mrs. Gable $5 a week. Then he was released. He paid Plainfield a flying visit this morning and then went back to New York.

ROW AMONG NEGROES.

A Brutal Husband Charged With Trying to Throttle His Wife.

A scandalous quarrel occurred among the colored people living at 155 East Sixth street, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Henry Peterson, who lives at that number, tells The Press, and insists that the facts be published to the world, that the quarrel began over her asking her husband for money to help pay for the rent. She says that Peterson not only refused her request, but abused her shamefully for daring to make so audacious a demand. He called her vile names—she adds—and caught her by the throat and shook and choked her. All the time she had a babe in her arms. The child is only 9 months old. Mrs. Peterson says that when she tried to get out of her husband's grasp Henry's brother Louis assaulted her, striking her and knocking her down. A general row followed. When she got up again she was beaten and knocked against the fence. She screamed murder and help came, and her assailants were quieted. Peterson's whole family, she alleges, were fighting her at once, and now she is going to "get the law on 'em".

"Rotary Whist" at Fanwood.

Mr. Gardner, of Fanwood, has associated with him Henry Kyte, Abner P. Downer, Walter Force and Clarence W. Smith, of the same town, in a midsummer tournament at whist, which, though not a novelty, is very fascinating and exciting.

The gentlemen meet each Wednesday evening rotating from one residence to another. Upon starting the game all five cut; the one having the lowest card dropping out, and the remaining four playing the first game after cutting for partners. After each game one of the players drops out in rotation; thus all five play the same number of games, cutting for partners after each fifteen games of seven points per game are played each evening.

One of the prettiest games of the series was played last evening at Mr. Gardner's, the score standing as follows: Mr. Downer, 9; Henry Kyte, 7; Mr. Force, 7; Mr. Smith, 4; Mr. Gardner, 3. Upon the termination of the games the gentlemen were entertained by Mrs. Gardner with one of her graceful little suppers for which she has become famous among Fanwood's society people.

To Whom Does He Refer?

The Water Supply Company, after having apparently become satisfied that the suction on its water mains connecting the wells was all right, covered the pipes and graded the surface of the ground in an artistic manner. Gentlemen riding daily from here to New York have commented on the thoroughness with which the grounds at the pumping station have been put in shape, and were greatly surprised yesterday morning to see a gang of laborers again stripping the pipes as though other leaks are sought.

Can it be, as some of them remarked, —"Perhaps the sucker is at the wrong end of the pump?"

Lawn Party by Little Misses.

A lawn party was held on Somerset street, yesterday afternoon, in aid of the Children's Home. The rain somewhat interfered with the party, but, notwithstanding, the sum of $6.50 was realized from the sale of iced cream, lemonade, candies, and similar refreshments. The managers of the affair were: Edith Conover, Katie Powers, Mattie and Flora Smith, Julia and Belle Williams, Bertha and Mamie Philpitt, Sadie Taylor, Carrie Dentz, Minnie Gulick, Rosie Haynes, Mamie Teller, and Master Vincent Gulick.

No Lights in Fanwood.

Last night for the third consecutive time the lamps along the highways in Fanwood were not lighted, and great annoyance and inconvenience was occasioned to many of the residents thereby.

A number of them feel very indignant towards the one having it in charge, as they claim that they pay $6 per annum each for the lights and are entitled to the protection afforded when they are lighted. They have noted with anxiety the reports of Dunellen burglaries since the people there are without street lamps.

Honi Soi Qui Mal y Pense.

"Evil to him who evil thinks."
"To the pure all things are pure."

These quotations are respectfully referred to Asbury Park Bradley and the Comstocks of Ocean Grove.

—The excursion of St. Mary's T. A. B. association to Asbury Park, yesterday, was a success both socially and financially. The committee ably managed the affair, and all who went greatly enjoyed the day.

CITIZENS UPRISING AGAINST KEAN.

His Water Company Shan't Seize Cranford If the People Can Help It.

The people of Cranford are not going to sit still and let John Kean, the millionaire octupus, seize their town. That is, he won't if they can help it—but they probably can't. He is boss of Elizabeth, he is tightening his clutches on Plainfield every day, and if he can't rule the Cranford water supply, he'll ruin anybody else who attempts to.

The people of Plainfield should take warning by the action of their brighter and braver neighbors in Cranford. Don't be afraid of Kean! He may have the Supreme Court under orders; and he boasts that he has in his pay every lawyer of ability in Union county except Craig A. Marsh; but he can't scare The Press. He shan't get this city in his clutches so long as The Press lives—and it will never die.

The Cranford people, as said before, are uprising against Kean and his attempt to steal their river and control their water supply. A mass meeting of the citizens recently resulted in the appointment of a committee, and the latter has issued this edict:

"The newly organized Union Water Company is without legal existence, and all of its acts under its organization are null and void."

The committee also decided the company was a "menace to the natural interests of Cranford."

Here is the finding of the committee:

The Union Water Company as organized in 1870 was and is a live corporation at this date, and that the attempt at organization recently made by Messrs. Ham, Cahill, Voorhees, Bergen, Kean and others, under the style of the Union Water Company, has no legal standing.

The new company had no representative present. Lawyer H. Wilbur stated for the old incorporators, who opposed the new company, that they held 700 of the 1,100 shares of the original stock. These 700 shares they would hand over to trustees without money and without price, and the people of Cranford could subscribe for them. The idea of disposing of the stock was to get money to pay the expenses of a legal contest. The original stockholders were willing to stand their share of the expense by re-subscribing for stock, but they did not propose to fight the battle for the people single-handed. If the people did not take the stock outsiders would, but in any event an effort would be made to prevent "those men from Elizabeth stealing the Rahway River."

Alden Bigelow said the charter was originally obtained to prevent the city of Elizabeth taking the river water.

It was resolved to take subscriptions for the stock and 371 shares were subscribed for by the citizens.

A stockholder of the John Kean company said afterwards that the action taken by the people in subscribing for the stock, or any other action they might take, would not make the least difference to the new company, for it was the only company legally organized to act under the charter, and it would go on with its work at the proper time. It is conceded that the matter will have to be settled by the courts.

Rare Tom Keller Won the Game.

The Somerville Messenger explains last Saturday's victory of the Plainfield base-ball nine as follows:

"The credit for the Crescents' winning must all be given to the only man who knows anything about ball-playing in Plainfield—the great and only 'Tee Kay'. For the past week the team has been under his able and efficient guidance, and to say that he makes them play ball, would be only telling the truth. Their improvement in batting was marked indeed, and the placing of the men in the field certainly reflects credit upon him."

A Dunellen Man Libels a Yacht.

John W. Handree, formerly of Dunellen, and J. N. Robins, the proprietor of the Erie Basin Dry Docks, South Brooklyn, yesterday filed a libel in the United States District Court in New York city against the steam yacht Lagonda, which is owned by the Rev. William L. Moore, who lives at the Plaza Hotel but is at present at Bar Harbor. They have a bill against the owner of the yacht for about $6,000 for putting in a new boiler and making extensive repairs. The yacht is now in charge of Deputy United States Marshal Trautman.

Dunellen Doings.

A number of Dunellenes are going on the Jr. O. U. A. M., excursion, which leaves Newark next Wednesday for Asbury Park.

W. J. Winges has been putting new water-works in his residence. A. S. Giles is superintending the work.

Michael McFaddan, who was run over by a passenger train at Grant avenue a little over a year ago and lost one of his legs, has purchased a horse and carriage and has started hacking at the Dunellen station.

Dunellen Proud of Her Artist Citizen.

John Merschrod, of Dunellen, entered one of his original paintings at the exhibition of the American Art society, in New York city, and took second prize. The amount of the prize is $250 and pays Mr. Merschrod nicely for his trouble. This is quite a star in his crown of success, and makes Dunelleners proud as well.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Hurd, Biddeford, Me.

Midsummer at Hotel Netherwood.

Despite the intense heat of the present week at all points, the evenings at The Netherwood on the broad piazzas is simply a joy forever, for the reason one may always find a lovely breeze especially directed to this point by our mutual friend, Serg't Dunn, of the Weather Bureau.

Your correspondent last evening sat in his little rookerie and noticed the supreme satisfaction of the guests as the grateful breeze fanned them into a sense of complete happiness, and he heard sweet voices humming in sweet monotone, Tennyson's lovely song—"Blow breezes blow, aloft and alow." For a brief moment we lost sight of the cares and toils of this busy life, and were wafted away into Elysian fields and made supremely happy.

The Netherwood still retains its full complement of mid-summer guests, and daily additions are made thereto. Pleasing events follow each other in rapid succession so that there is no lack of enjoyment and pleasure at this home resort on the heights. The initial loto party of the season is bulletined for the evening of the 17th.

Soon I will be able to give the date of the musicale postponed on account of the illness of Mrs. F. E. Miller, whom I am pleased to announce is on the rapid road to recovery.

The Saturday night hops at the Netherwood are one of the special features of the season. Our fair friends and escorts from Plainfield, usually honor us with their presence, and I can safely say that I voice the feeling of the guests when I state their advent is always hailed with pleasure.

Few people know the thousand and one details necessary to be looked after in a hotel of this magnitude in order to render it successful. Proprietor Miller has certainly accomplished that end, judging from the general air of satisfaction pervading the atmosphere hereabouts.

In conclusion I desire to chronicle that in my humble opinion that no summer resort in this country contains more lovely and accomplished women, and brave and loyal men, than The Netherwood. The elegant and exquisite costumes nightly to be seen at this fair resort, cannot be excelled. They are charming creations, fully evidencing the excellent and asthetic taste of the fair owners. J. A. Cory Had No Wager on the Game.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—My attention has been called to an article in The Press of a recent date, taken from a Somerville paper, in which it is stated that reports credit H. H. Cory, late shortstop for the Crescents, of wagering $25 on the result of a game played between the Crescents and Somerville teams, and that in order to win, sold the game. I have, since The Press first came before the public, found it ever ready to right a wrong, and feel sure it will make no exception in this case.

Mr. Cory is willing to take affidavit that he not only did not wager on the above game, but that he never wagered a dollar in his life on a game of ball. It is evident that the person guilty of starting this report is a "hard loser", and not only lost his good dollars on the game, but also what little conscience one so mean and contemptible as to start such a report, is allowed to have. The West Ends made five runs in the first inning, winning the game right there. Mr. Cory retired two men in this inning and played until the third without an error. The Crescent League, and the public at their back, demanded a sacrifice, and who so fit as the man with four errors to his discredit. Mr. Cory is nevertheless a ball-player and one too well known to need any word of mine to prove it. And he is moreover a man and an honest one, and I do not for a moment believe that The Press will allow this base report to go any further. J. C. RANDALL.

A Plainfielder's Regret.

Bret Harte, whose family live on Broadway, this city, but who is now in London, has written, concerning the death of Jas. Russell Lowell, the American poet, as follows:

To my pride as an American, in the frank admiration and living appreciation shown of Lowell's intellect and character personally here, I have to add my own expression of sorrow at the loss of one of the most fastidious and cultivated professors in my calling, and one of its gentlest, yet manliest critics.

OUR "Y. S. F."

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.
OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.
IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.
WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. AS SOMERVILLE SAW IT.

A Royal Battle Between New Jersey's Best Two Teams.

[From The Harkinstown Messenger.]

Who would have thought it! The third game proved our Waterloo: two games from Plainfield by the score of 11 to 2 and 10 to 2, and then, in the third game, to have them beat us out! Or, in other words, for the West Ends to win the game in the first inning and to turn around and lose it in the fifth! It's hard luck, to be sure, and yet you should be guided by those old Biblical words—"Love your enemies." Therefore, why not, while letting ourselves down as lightly as possible, still give credit where credit is due? True it is, we were handicapped by Kennedy not being able to play, but all there is to say about it was, the boys had a day off, and the story of how the game was won can be told in a very few words.

McIndoe, the home-run hitter, at last succeeded in putting the ball over the fence, and, as there was a man on base, it came just in the nick of time. McIndoe is known not as a sure hitter but as an occasional one, and this was the first time he had ever hit Harkins. He caught the ball squarely on the end of his stick, and it sailed over the fence. Oh, my! but did n't they yell, screech, and shriek? Talk about crazy men! Why, they danced and hugged each other in their wild frenzy of joy—and who can blame them? It is the first time in two years the Crescents have won a game from us, and they can well afford to celebrate over their victory, for a victory it was, and a glorious one at that. It was a royal battle between two of the best teams in the State, and for nine long innings it was fought inch by inch, either side on the lookout for the least advantage that could be secured over the other. It was a game that incites the spectator to rise up and smash his hat on the seat in front of him, and do all sorts of insane things, while reviling this or that player for not making a play that will put his team in the lead. It was the kind of a game that causes spectators to shriek like Sioux Indians and squander money for peanuts and sarsaparilla with reckless abandon.

It was too bad to keep the 600-odd persons on the ragged edge of suspense, for two long hours, and then suddenly drop them into a crevice of gloom. That's what the West End team did Saturday afternoon. It was a shriek-provoking game, and the ups and downs were so frequent that, for a time, the thunderous roar of the West End rooters would hardly die away before the frenzied squeals of the Crescent cranks would be heard.

The exhibition, from the standpoint of scientific base-ball, was not good, but there was considerable hard smashing of the ball, some brilliant fielding, and enough good ball to redeem the contest. It is impossible to point the finger of scorn at any one player. Moorehead played at short with all the ginger that might be expected of an Egyptian mummy. Reilly, who caught in Kennedy's stead, did fairly well as a backstop—which was a surprise to everyone. Being unused to the foxy methods of Captain Farrell, he failed to throw down when a man was on third, and this, combined with his wildness when he did throw, netted the Crescents five stolen bases.

Harkins, although unable to use his speed to its fullest extent, still pitched a magnificent game, but 4 hits being secured off his delivery, and one of these a homer. It is a funny thing that, in spite of the fact that the West Ends outfielded and outbatted the Crescents, yet they did not win—but that is the funny part of base-ball.

In Saturday's game Freddy Jones in centre field put up a game of the gilt-edged order, while at the bat he has profited by the suggestion of The Press, and waited. He therefore materially assisted in winning the game to the extent of two runs and a pretty single.

I see Bonner has at last been persuaded to don the protector while catching, and I am inclined to think that the reason is because, in one of the Eastern games of last week, he found the ball to be a little too hard. Bonner, in time, will no doubt be a backstop; but just now he seems to be a little anxious. To see him snatch the ball off the bat reminds one of a fakir in a dime museum, who picks up a red-hot piece of iron, and who is only too willing to drop it. Bonner is quickness personified, and it is a wise move in allowing him to catch.

Holly, it seems, is the right man in the right place, as he accepted 13 out of 14 chances offered. Keeler, at short, lost his head in the first inning, but after that he made very much of a success of his position. At any rate, he is better than Cory, and, I think, can give Martin some few points.

Borough Property Changes Hands.

Recent real-estate transfers in North Plainfield include the following:

Hezekiah Hand, executor, to William H. Carter and others, $500.

Thomas R. Reynolds and others to Lucy M. Reynolds, $1.

Francis Barnert to William M. Stillman, $1.

John R. Marsh and others to Robert Murphy, $500.

Peter Brunn and others to William Minard, $150.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

E. R. MACKEY, M. D.

A WESTFIELD DUDE HELD UP.

Freeholder Pierson's Son Attacked by Festive Highwaymen.

Herbert C. Comstock, who claims to be a brother of Anthony Comstock, and George Miller, a youth whose chief aim seems to be to sow wild oats and have a good time, have been stopping at the Fisher House, at Kiskatom, N. Y., a hamlet on the turnpike from Palenville to Catskill. Their conduct from time to time, in company with two variety actresses from New York city, has been such as to set the tongues of the gossips wagging, and the proprietor intimated that their departure would be hailed with delight.

On Saturday they started for the mountains, and must have fallen in with the mysterious characters that lured Rip Van Winkle to the rocky fastnesses and there proffered him the tempting flagon, for when they returned at sunset and were wending their way through the quiet town of Palenville, the riotous quartette were in a very maudlin condition. They discharged firearms recklessly, frightening teams and scaring timid women.

Near the Kiskatom post-office they met Arthur Pierson, son of Freeholder J. T. Pierson, of Westfield, and a young man well known in Plainfield society, who was walking by the roadside, and commanded him to halt. Mr. Pierson thought they were a party of summer boarders bent on having some fun, and when Herbert C. Comstock stepped forward and ordered Mr. Pierson to take a drink with the party out of a mysterious looking flask, Mr. Pierson good-naturedly begged to be excused. As Pierson was stepping aside to resume his stroll, Comstock drew a revolver and commanded him to throw up his hands. The joke became serious.

Comstock, placing the pistol near Pierson's head, said: "See here, you city dude, if you don't take a good drink of whiskey with us I'll blow out your brains quicker than you can say Jack Robinson."

Mr. Pierson glanced around, and, seeing no one in sight to come to his aid, very reluctantly took the drink with the pistol pressed against his temple.

After the bacchanalians had accomplished their purpose, they repaired to Kiskatom and painted the town. Mr. Pierson procured a team of Dan Smith, of Palenville, and went to Catskill, where he swore out warrants for Herbert C. Comstock and George Miller for felonious assault. A constable proceeded at once to Kiskatom for the "highwaymen" but having been informed of their prospective arrest, they fled to the mountains and have not since been seen near their boarding-house. They are camping out in the mountains, where a newspaper correspondent found them in a most pitiable condition, living on such food as they could beg from house to house. Miller regrets his part of the affair, but Comstock seems to glory in his exploit.

Their female companions have been forced to leave the Kiskatom boarding-house, and on Monday were wandering about Palenville seeking for a lodging place, but met with a positive refusal everywhere. The constable is still sitting on the porch of the Fisher House with warrants in his pocket, awaiting the return of the prodigals.

KELLER SECURES TIERNEY.

He's a Strong Hitter, a Fine Fielder and He's Got a "Base-Ball Head".

(From The Norwich Record.)

Charlie Tierney, who has played right field for the past month in the Norwich team, will probably leave Friday night to play the rest of the season with the Crescent club of Plainfield, N. J. Manager Tom Keller has made him an offer which he intends to accept. Mr. Keller will be in Norwich to-night and the contract will be drawn up. Before coming to Norwich Tierney played this year with Rochester of the Eastern League as pitcher and shut out Cornell college 7 to 0. During the latter game he caught cold in his arm and will not be able to pitch to any extent this season. He is a strong hitter and a fine fielder and has done good work for the Norwich nine. In him the Crescent team gets a thorough and valuable ball player.

Tierney pitched for the Hackett-Carharts in two games against the Crescent League's team, last year. He was only bit safe 4 times in the first game and 5 times in the second. At the bat he himself hit the ball safe both games. He is all the above clipping says of him, but, best of all besides, he has a base-ball head on his shoulders, which so many of the Crescents lack. Taylor has been released to make room for him.

Westfield's New Station.

The contractor who is to build Westfield's new station, was in that town yesterday and engaged board for thirty men. Work is to begin at once. A part of the covered platform on the south side of the track is to be boarded in and used for waiting rooms and ticket office. The new station is to be 72 feet long without its platform.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

Mother Unconscious and Child Dead.

AYER, Mass., Aug. 13.—During the morning Mrs. L. H. A. Peabody of East Pepperell was found unconscious and her 4-year-old son dead from the effects of chloroform administered by the former. When restored to consciousness she begged to be allowed to die. Poor health was the only cause that can be assigned for the act. Her husband is employed here. She has no other children.

Failed to Comply With the Lobby Law.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The Attorney-General has received from the Secretary of State a list of sixty-seven names of persons or corporations failing to comply with the Lobby law, requiring the filing within thirty days of the prorogation of the Legislature of expenses incurred on matter before the Legislature. The Attorney-General is not ready to indicate what action he will take.

Second Deposit for Gibbons and McAuliffe.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The second deposit of $500 a side in the lightweight championship for $7,000 between Jack McAuliffe, of Brooklyn, and Austin Gibbons, of Paterson, N. J., has been posted. The balance of the stake money is to be posted on August 26, when the Granite Club will also deposit $4,000, the amount of the purse it offers.

Corbett Issues a Challenge.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Jim Corbett has deposited $1,000 with the New York World to fight "any man above ground," Marquis of Queensbury rules, either to a finish or a limited number of rounds. He prefers Slavin or Mitchell.

Farmers Will Meet in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 13.—A letter from Secretary J. F. Tilman, of the National Farmers' Alliance, says Indianapolis has been selected as the place for the next Farmers' Alliance convention.

Senator Squire May Accept.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 13.—Senator Squire, it is reported from Washington, has been seriously considering the acceptance of the Chinese Mission, which has been tendered to him by President Harrison.

Another Jockey Killed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—William Monaghan, aged 15, a jockey, was thrown from the Breta Colt during the first race at Jerome Park and had his skull fractured. He died after being removed to a hospital.

Mr. Blaine at the Tennis Games.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 13.—Secretary Blaine was a spectator at the tennis games during the day. Later he took a drive, after which he called on John R. McLean.

No Grants for Evicted Tenants.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Mr. Timothy Harrington, presiding at a meeting of the Dublin League, announced that he was obliged for the present to discontinue grants to evicted tenants. He said an appeal would be made forthwith to start a daily paper in Mr. Parnell's interest.

The New French Minister.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The new Minister to Washington, M. Patenotre, will sail for America soon. He was formerly the representative of France in Morocco.

Without an Incentive.

Primus—Jenkins, the lawyer, is very happy in addressing a jury. Why isn't he better as an after-dinner speaker?

Secundus—Because in the latter case his dinner doesn't depend upon his speech.—Life.

Professional Etiquette.

Mrs. Brown—I wonder why Dr. Finn didn't bow!

Mr. Brown—Devotion to his profession as a surgeon, you know—he delights in cutting people.—Munsey's Weekly.

With a Parenthetical Understanding.

Miss Vernon—Mr. Crook is a fine horseman. Doesn't he look as if he was born in the saddle?

Jack Belvidere—Yes; particularly when you see him walking on the street. —Puck.

Ten Dollars In.

Hardup—I called on Cashley to-day to borrow ten dollars from him, but he was out.

Wiggins—H'm! I should rather say he was "in!"—Munsey's Weekly.

Fair Warning.

"Gabber, you want to be careful about drinking water."

"Why?"

"A flannel mouth like yours might shrink."—Jury.

A Good Plan.

"I really don't know how to get rid of young Van Arndt. He is such a persistent and devoted admirer of mine."

"Why don't you marry him?"—Munsey's Weekly.

He'd Be Right, Too.

"What would you do, John, if I got up in the middle of the night, as some enthusiasts do, to play the violin?"

"I would get up and play the hose." —Puck.

Silly Gossip.

Maud—Is it true that you are in love with Mr. Bullion?

Clara—Mercy, no. I'm only engaged to him.—N. Y. Weekly.

Too Deliberate.

"Jimpson is very deliberate in his movements."

"Yes. It takes him an hour to get a ten-minute walk."—Harper's Bazar.

A Serious Matter.

The trouble with Dr. Koch's lymph seems to be that the supply is not equal to the consumption.—Puck.

Away Up.

Scott—Jimson tells me his ancestors occupied high positions in England.

Walters—Yes, several of them were hanged on Tyburn hill.—Munsey's Weekly.

Where It Had the Advantage.

"That chimney is smoking all the time," said Dolkins.

"Yes," said his grandmother; "but it isn't such a fool as to smoke cigarettes." —Puck.

Unappreciated Company.

Sappy—Good mawning, Miss Inwood; are you—aw—alone?

Miss Inwood—Unfortunately not at present, Mr. Sappy.—Munsey's Weekly.

Speaking from Experience.

An old country gentleman, returning home rather late, discovered under his kitchen window a yokel with a lantern, who, when asked his business there, stated that he had only come a-courting.

"Come a-what?" said the irate gentleman.

"A-courting, sir. I'se courting Mary."

"It's a lie!" exclaimed the old gentleman. "What do you want a lantern for? I never used one when I was a young man."

"No, sir," was the yokel's reply, "I don't think yer did judging by the missis!"—Jury.

A Married Look.

Mrs. Grumps—Your friend, Mr. Baldpate, did not mention his wife the whole evening.

Mr. Grumps—Wife? He's an old bachelor.

"Well, I declare! I took it for granted he was married."

"Why?"

"Oh, I don't know. He has a sort of married look somehow."

"He used to live out west, and once he was treed for three days and three nights by a grizzly."—N. Y. Weekly.

His Age.

Attorney (to witness)—What is your age, sir?

Old Beau—What has that to do with this case?

"I insist upon an answer."

(After a pause) "I was just five years old at the breaking out of the war."

"What war?"

(With extreme reluctance) "The Blackhawk war."—Chicago Tribune.

A Shrewd Girl.

Laura—What a clever girl Jennie is! She had sixty-seven offers of marriage within a week after she left college.

Clara—Indeed! And she is not very good looking.

Laura—No; but the subject of the essay that she read at her graduation was: "How to Keep House on Twelve Dollars a Week."—Munsey's Weekly.

Would Have the Desired Effect.

First Chicago Woman—Mrs. Lakefront was here to-day and she inveighed terribly against the divorce evil in this city.

Second Chicago Woman—Shall we cut her in society?

First Chicago Woman—No; I shall whisper it about quietly that she is guilty of heresy.—Judge.

Adding Insult to Injury.

Train Robber ("going through" the passengers)—Well, I swow! Got a gun in your pocket, hev ye? If it wasn't for my pressing engagements I'd turn ye over to the town authorities just ahead, for carrying concealed weapons without a permit.—Puck.

Dullpate's Story.

Dullpate (proudly)—Every one laughed when I told that funny story at the table.

Miss Brighteye—Yes, it was real mean of them to laugh at you.—Good News.

Brutal.

She—It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all.

He—Yes. It is better for the florists, for the jewelers, and sometimes even for the lawyers.—Harper's Bazar.

TROUBLES OF A YOUNG RAKE.

Grandmamma—You seem very solemn this morning, Johnny—what's the matter?

Johnny—I'm in trouble, grandma. Jennie Jackson says I've trifled with her affections, and she's going to have me arrested if I don't marry her, and the fact is I love another girl.—Munsey's Weekly.

No Fun for Bobby.

Mamma—Bobby, don't you want to go over and play with the little Brewster boy?

Bobby—No; I don't.

Mamma—Why, Bobby, he's a nice boy.

Bobby—Yes; he's too nice. Every time I hit him he yells.—Judge.

By the Sad Sea Waves.

"Ah, Jim, we poor folks has our trials!"

"Yes, I'se had a good many; but it ain't the trials what annoys me, it's the verdicts they brings in arterwards."—Life.

An End of Servitude.

Mrs. Bloomer—Did you ever! Miss De Talent, the wonderful actress, has married her manager.

Mr. Bloomer—I presume she got tired of being managed.—N. Y. Weekly.

Love's Logic.

She—Papa, may I marry Jack? I could go further and fare worse.

He—You couldn't fare worse.

She—Then what's the use of my going further?—Judge.

Accounted For.

"My health is getting shaky," said the popular old gentleman.

"That's because it has been drunk so much," returned his crony.—Puck.

No Danger.

Guest (in an agitated whisper)—There are thirteen of us at this table!

Poor Relation—No. Only twelve. I don't count.—Chicago Tribune.

Society Note.

Floor Manager—The press is always welcome; but, me deah fellah, hawven't you got another coat?

Reporter for the Morning Hooter—Yes, I've got another coat.

"Ah, why didn't you put it on?"

"Because it isn't as good as the one I've got on."—Texas Siftings.

The Range.

Mrs. Dimling—I wish you would tell me the difference between a fiddler, a violinist and a virtuoso.

Dimling—I will. A fiddler plays for nothing, a violinist gets five dollars for an evening's work, and a virtuoso receives fifty dollars for one piece.—Judge.

Comparisons are Odious.

The Old Beau (rocking little Anna on his knee for Aunt Susan's sake)—I suppose that is what you like, Anna?

Anna—Yes, it's very nice. But I rode on a real donkey in the park yesterday —I mean one with four legs, you know. —Texas Siftings.

Necessary to Economize.

Simpkins—Well, I wonder what the trusts will take hold of next. There is a corner in arnica.

Slimkins—By Jinks! I guess I'll sell my bicycle and buy a horse.—Good News.

EVERY DOG HAS HIS DAY.

The city dog goes to the country.

The country dog goes to the city.—Puck.

Both Out.

Depositor (breathlessly)—Is the cashier in?

Bank Examiner—No, he's out. Are you a depositor?

"Yes."

"Well, you're out, too."—N. Y Weekly.

An American Barbarism.

"Lord Cheapsides looked terribly depressed when I met him this morning."

"Yes; I had loaned him one of my clean shirts before he discovered that it opened at the back."—Puck.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

She Goes Forth in a Picturesque Louis Gown.

River Dresses That Are Easy to Make—How to Secure a Pretty Variety of Costume — Hunting Dress — Leather as Trimming.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

Very swell are the "Louis" coats in which the ladies array themselves for an afternoon's walk. Velveteen forms the material for the skirt which accompanies the coat and also for the coat itself. That is, the wearer of it has a fondness for looking as if she had just stepped out of an ancient picture gallery.

The skirt is made perfectly plain, and as scanty in front as possible, with a full back and demi-train. The coat has high puffed sleeves and is so long that it reaches almost to the knees. There are big hip pockets and broad lapels turning back and a high standing collar. For the vest there is a brocaded satin front, with a bow of chiffon trimmed with lace at the neck. The deep turned back cuffs are also of brocaded satin, edged next the hand with a frill of lace so deep that it falls down over the knuckles. As to the color of the velveteen a great deal is left to the wearer's taste, only she must not use a light shade, because that detracts from the ancient picturesqueness of the attire.

Black velvet with a pink brocade vest and pink brocade cuffs, lapels and collar makes a charming combination, and one which lingers on the memory after the wearer of it has passed out of sight in the crowd. With a dress like this a woman should wear the old time court hat worn by the Louis'. It is three cornered and looped up on the rim with rosettes to match the brocaded vest and cuffs. The hat is faced with velveteen to match the gown and puffings of chiffon and lace cover the round crown.

Dressed in a costume like this, with a gold-handled riding whip in her hand and the lash gracefully coiled in her fingers, the woman of fashion sallies forth for an afternoon promenade on the beach or at the springs, with Fifi by her side, bearing herself with all the pride which a woman feels when she knows she is exquisitely dressed.

Another of these Louis costumes was of brown velveteen combined with yellow brocade. Dark blue velveteen and gold lace and brocade were the materials in another. Crimson and pale wine color formed another, and so on, and so on. In every case the combination must offer a decided contrast in color, the brocade being very light and rich looking and the velvet dark and heavy.

For a boat ride in which one is to remain seated, merely doing the picturesque in one corner of the boat, it really matters little what kind of a skirt is worn, provided the waist and the hat be pretty, becoming, natty and jaunty. Very smart waists of some nice materials may be made up by the half dozen to be worn with any good serviceable skirt.

A specially pretty blouse which can be worn with any colored skirt is a white silk one, dotted with old rose spots. A finely plaited frill should go around the neck and be arranged down the front of the waist in a fichu becomingly put on so that it is very broad at the throat, and very narrow at the waist. This gives a becoming tapering effect. The skirt of the blouse is left rather long. The blouse may be belted with a broad metal band, or it may be simply drawn in at the waist with an elastic, and finished with a frill of the old rose, so as to make a pretty finish. The sleeves should be full, with puffs at the shoulders, and a frill at the hands.

A skirt which is supplied with several bodices after this fashion really gives the appearance of being as many complete costumes as there are waists, because, after all, the skirt of a gown does not form a very important part of the costume. It is the sleeves and the waist, and the general color as it shows itself next the face, which stamps the gown with its own individuality.

Recognizing this, the Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein caused two waists to be made with each of the skirts in her wedding trousseau, and with a few of her most serviceable skirts, she had three or four, and even a half dozen, bodices made.

But to the subject of river dresses. It it possible to make a river gown which shall be so essentially aquatic that there is no mistaking it at all. It stamps itself just as soon as it is seen as a dress that is made for boating. And if the design which one has in mind is nicely carried out, it may be very becoming and satisfactory as long as it is worn. And so, being pretty every time it is seen, one does not really tire of it, and the necessity for having many changes is done away with.

One of these essentially aquatic costumes is made of butcher blue linen. Around the bottom of this skirt there is an embroidered design of anchors, fancifully interwoven. Below the anchors are three very narrow rows of white braid extending only across the front and side breadths. The blouse waist has a deep sailor collar, the ends of which are brought down in front and tied in a true lover's knot. The sailor collar and also the standing collar are edged with three rows of white braid. There is a breast pocket also edged with the braid and with an anchor design worked upon it. The sleeves are full at the shoulders and caught in at the wrist with three rows of white braid. Around the cuffs there is another design of anchors. A sailor hat is also worn with this costume.

The fishing girl has a chance to come out strong this season, because so many pretty dresses are made for her use that she is sure to find something becoming if she takes the pains to look about.

The most progressive and enterprising of the fishing costumes which has yet been seen is made of a checked tweed so cunningly contrived with a double skirt that it looks precisely as if the wearer had turned to her dress, washerwoman fashion, to protect it, and was walking about in the sensible length of her petticoats.

The underskirt is bound with leather and the upper one also has a leather binding and is fastened back with leather straps. The back falls in a perfectly natural manner—just as it would if the skirts were actually pinned up. It will not do, however, to take two skirts and pin up the upper one in the hope of securing the proper effect, because the effort will be at once visible, and the effect so realistic that no woman would feel comfortable in such a rig.

Let the underskirt be just as full as the skirt which is to be looped up, and let them be fastened together as far as possible so that the underskirt responds to every motion of the part which is turned up.

The effect produced in this way is novel and pretty, but let no one seek to desecrate it by making such a skirt in any but the way described. The bodice worn with this costume is a tight-fitting one, with a deep basque. There are neat lapels turning back from the tweed vest and a leather collar and deep leather cuffs.

A little Alpine cap sets snugly over the wearer's head and is ornamented with a strip of the leather.

Pantalettes of the tweed with leather binding may be worn if desired, and heavy boots with leather or velvet overgaiters.

It must be understood that the leather, as referred to, is not heavy, cumbersome shoe leather, but is, rather, almost as thin as kid and is quite as pliable and easy to work for dressmaking purposes. It is no heavier than the leather which was used a year or so ago for trimming sleeves and bodices, and only differs from it in that the leather which is now used is not cut in any fanciful designs, but is preferred in broad, smooth bands.

Another fishing dress is of tan-colored cheviot in diagonal pattern. The hem is bound with leather, which is, however, manufactured by a process which is known as "roughed up." This gives a peculiar surface almost similar to velvet, so that a cheviot gown of tan color, trimmed with this natural colored leather, looks like a calling costume of cheviot and velvet.

The coat of this garment turns back with a deep round collar, displaying a shirt made of tan-colored foulard with white dots on it. A broad leather belt of the same finish as the leather just described holds the waist at the belt with neat folds. A little tan-colored cap accompanies this costume and shoes with tan-colored uppers also go with it.

The latest fashion in summer walking gowns shows the Medici collar turned away in the front so as to give a view of the wearer's fair neck and throat. Dresses that already have the very high collar extending all the way around the neck can be easily prepared in the latest style by removing the fastening from the front of the collar and permitting it to swing open. The stiffening with which a Medici collar is always reinforced will keep it in place if it is bent back to show the throat.

With this open collar arrangement bonnet strings are again becoming popular, and all the pretty flat summer hats—dainty creations of open lace, straw and jets—are provided with narrow strings of black velvet ribbon, which are brought closely under the chin and fastened with jeweled pins high under the ears.

FRAUD IS ALLEGED

Sensational Allegations Over the Schmertz Failure.

EASTERN FIRMS ARE ANXIOUS.

They Send Representatives to Pittsburg to Make an Investigation.

Numerous Judgments Confessed to Defraud Creditors—There Are Many Complaints of Crookedness—Broker Backer of New York Arrested—A Southern Judge Makes a Charge of Grand Larceny.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.—To-day sensational allegations concerning the Schmertz failure became general property in business and legal circles. Representatives of W. F. Morgan & Co., Charles W. Lee, and Gould & Walker of Boston, three of Schmertz's Eastern creditors, have been in Pittsburg since Tuesday investigating matters.

W. S. Pier, Esq., has been empowered to file a bill in equity in their behalf against Schmertz and the relatives and friends in whose favor the numerous judgments have been confessed in large sums. Mr. Pier, it is said, will file his bill to-morrow, alleging that Mr. Schmertz confessed judgments to members of his family and friends for the purpose of defrauding outside creditors of their just dues.

An interview was held with Mr. Quimby, a son-in-law of Mr. Schmertz, and also his assignee. Mr. Quimby admits that the Eastern creditors are here, and that they are dissatisfied with the arrangements as made. He denies, however, that there are any complaints of crookedness. He will meet the Boston gentlemen to-morrow, and says Mr. Schmertz's books are yet in the hands of the sheriff, and that until he can have access to them he cannot definitely ascertain how Mr. Schmertz's affairs stand.

Closed by the Schmertz Failure.

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 14.—The Standard Plate Glass Works have passed into the hands of D. E. Wheeler as receiver. This action is the result of an amicable arrangement between creditors and stockholders caused by the failure of E. W. E. Schmertz, of Pittsburg, who was endorser for $250,000, as well as a stockholder for a large amount of stock. The business of the company is in a prosperous condition, and the failure of Mr. Schmertz will not affect the running of the works.

CHARGED WITH LARCENY.

A Judge Says that Broker Backer Defrauded Him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Abraham Backer of the firm of A. Backer & Co., the dealer in commercial paper who failed for $4,000,000 two weeks ago, and made an assignment to Benjamin F. Einstein, was arrested during the afternoon. The specific charge is grand larceny of $10,000.

The charge of grand larceny was preferred by William Harden, the presiding Justice of the City Court of Savannah, Ga.

Judge Harden in an interview with a reporter to-day said:

On the 9th of January last, I gave to the defendant my own personal note for $10,000 for him to discount for me, giving him as collateral six per cent debenture bonds of the Central Railroad and Banking Company of Georgia. These aggregated $7,900.

"I also gave him 90 shares of the Savannah Gaslight Company's stock valued at $2,000. My note Backer discounted at the Park National Bank of this city.

"Yesterday the note was due. I called at the bank and paid it. I then called upon Mr. Backer, showed him the paid note with the bank's stamp and demanded my collaterals. Then I learned that Mr. Backer did not have them; having used them as collateral for a debt of his own at the Merchants National Bank. There was nothing left to do but the course I did, having given Mr. Backer ample opportunity to arrange matters to my satisfaction."

Robbed at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 14.—J. J. Guiton of Albany, N. Y., had his watch, diamond pin and a large sum of money stolen in a bathroom of the Asbury Park bathing grounds during the day. He had put his valuables and money in an envelope, intending to leave them at the office, but instead had left them on a seat. He missed the articles soon, however, and within five minutes returned for them, only to find that they had disappeared. There is no clue to the thief.

Russell Nominated.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The deadlock in the Fourth Judicial Republican Convention was broken last night on the 17th ballot. The convention went into committee of the whole and a compromise was effected. The Tappen and Badger men voted unanimously for Leslie W. Russell of Canton, St. Lawrence County. He served one term as State Attorney-General, and also served on the State Board of Regents.

Hanged for the Manipur Uprising.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A dispatch from Calcutta says that the Senaputty of the royal house of Manipur and the Tongal general were hanged at Manipur for their part in causing the massacre of Grimwood, Quinton and other British officials at the time of the Manipur uprising. Large crowds witnessed the execution. There was no disturbance.

An Offer to Dixon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—A cable dispatch from London says the National Sporting Club has decided to hang up a $2,500 purse for a fight between Geo. Dixon, the colored champion, and Fred Johnson, the featherweight champion of England. Dixon will be allowed $500 for expenses.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT.

New Jersey and Delaware Citizens Have a Serious Clash.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 14.—In a free fight for several hours at Pennsville, N. J., one man was nearly killed, and 20 seriously injured, and 200 received cuts and bruises.

The South Jersey Farmers were having their annual reunion and 5,000 farmers, friends and relatives were present. Beer was plentiful and caused trouble. All went well until 1 o'clock, when a youth from Salem had a quarrel with a youth from Pennsville, and the crowd took up the fight, which raged for three hours.

The farmers armed themselves with wagon whips and wore out the butts on each other.

A Salemite and a Pennsylvilian began a fight to a finish for a stake, consisting of a gold watch and $50. This started another riot. A Newcastle man was chased two miles up the Delaware River shore, and it is feared he met with foul play.

Two hundred people watched the fight from house tops. No arrests are reported. Several hundred Philadelphians and 100 persons from Newcastle were among the spectators of the riot.

FLOWERS AND A FIGHT.

Mr. Mooney Gets Into Trouble for Placing a Bouquet on a Woman's Grave.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Aug. 14.—Thomas S. Mooney, of Burlington, yesterday got a bouquet of flowers, and taking it to the cemetery in which the wife of Geo. W. Haines is buried placed it on her grave.

Mr. Mooney is no recognized acquaintance of the Haines family, and no cause for such strange actions could be accounted for.

Mr. Haines did not approve of Mr. Mooney's actions and returned the flowers. A severe dispute arose from the matter, and during the morning Mr. Mooney met Mr. Haines on the street and gave him a severe beating. He was arrested and held under $500 bail for court. Mr. Haines is very badly hurt and is in a critical condition.

THREE MORE VICTIMS.

The Deaths at Cold Spring Harbor Increased to Sixteen.

COLD SPRING HARBOR, L. I., Aug. 14.—The Brooklyn police reported to the authorities here, last night, that, besides the thirteen persons who were killed in the accident to Kayser's excursion party and accounted for, three others were missing.

They were probably thrown into the Sound and drowned. This brings the total list of dead up to sixteen. The names of those reported missing are not given by the Brooklyn police.

KILLED WHILE ASLEEP.

Mother and Daughter Murdered in a Louisiana Hotel.

ST. MARTINSVILLE, La., Aug. 14.—Mrs. James R. Robinson and her daughter Belle were found murdered in their room yesterday morning. The mother's throat was cut, while the daughter had been strangled. The imprints of her assailant's fingers were left upon her throat.

It is believed that the murderer or murderers killed the women when detected robbing the house. There is no clew to the perpetrators.

Gov. Hill Going to Buffalo.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Gov. Hill has accepted the invitation of the Central Labor Uunion of Buffalo to attend the celebration of Labor Day in Buffalo on Sept 7, and to make an address on labor questions. Each year, since the first Monday in September was created a legal holiday by the Legislature upon Gov. Hill's recommendation, this organization has tried to have the Governor present at its celebration, but his engagements have made it impossible until now.

The Bennington Centennial.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 14.—Preparations for the Bennington centennial are nearly complete. Gov. Page and staff will arrive to-morrow and remain during the week. President Harrison and party will reach here on the evening of Aug. 18. Mrs. Harrison, Vice-President Morton and several members of the Cabinet will be with the Presidential party. Gen. Alger is also expected to arrive on the 18th. The celebration promises to excel any previous Vermont effort.

Maryland Alliance Officers.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14.—At the session of the Maryland Farmers' Alliance President L. L. Polk of the National Alliance made a long address, which was loudly applauded by the 50 delegates present. The following officers of the State Alliance were re-elected: Hugh Mitchell, president; Col. L. A. Benson, vice-president; T. C. Jenkins, secretary; Dr. J. R. Blandford, treasurer.

Big Abattoir Burned.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 14.—Alexander Mewbaum's extensive abattoir, situated in Vailsburg, near this city, was burned during the morning. The loss is about $50,000; insurance partial.

LEPERS IN NEW YORK

Victims of the Scourge Cannot be Isolated.

CHINAMEN CREATE TROUBLE.

They Demand the Release of Two of Their Countrymen.

The Contagious Nature of the Disease Questioned—A Fight Between Officials Over Two Loathsome Creatures—They Are Allowed at Large Although Lepers of the Most Pronounced Type.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Dr. Edson yesterday received a report from Charity Hospital stating that the two Chinamen who were taken there on Monday last from Mott street were suffering from genuine leprosy. The lepers are Ong Mow Toy, a Chinese fan tan gambler, of No. 24 Mott street, and Tsang Ding, of No. 57 Mott street. Both are afflicted with another loathsome disease besides leprosy.

Ong Mow Toy was found at his home by Dr. Edson last Sunday. The doctor was unable to tell by a cursory examination whether it was a genuine case of leprosy. On Monday Tsang Ding was reported as a suspected leper. Dr. Blauvelt found his case similar to Toy's. Dr. Edson decided to send them both to Charity Hospital.

Yesterday morning a number of Chinamen, friends of the lepers, called on the Commissioners of Charities and Correction and demanded their release. Commissioner Sheehy declared that the Commissioners had no authority to hold the men unless they were committed to the institution by some magistrate and this had not been done. Accordingly Tsang Ding was given his liberty yesterday afternoon, and Ong Moy Toy was released this morning.

As the situation now stands it will be a fight between the commissioners of charities and correction and the board of health. President Edson and Dr. Wilson, of the board of health, believe that leprosy is contagious.

The hospital doctors and the commissioners claim that if leprosy is contagious the city should provide an isolated hospital for its special treatment.

AN INVENTOR'S MAD FIT.

He Stabs His Jailer and Then Commits Suicide.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 14.—About midnight William Spellman, an inventor, confined in the county jail, made a desperate attempt to murder Andrew Robinson, one of the night jailers. Spellman then committed suicide by cutting his throat.

Spellman lived at 248 Mount Vernon street, but he has been in jail for several months awaiting trial on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses for selling the right to a patent railroad switch to several different parties.

He spent his time in prison perfecting another patent switch, and would work for hours on a pretty model he had in cell 31 on the lower eastern corridor.

While Night Jailer Robinson was making his rounds, Spellman called on him to bring the model, as he could not sleep and wished to do some work.

Robinson brought the nearly completed fac simile of a railroad track and switch, and opening the door stooped down to hand it to the prisoner.

Just then Spellman raised his hand and plunged a black-handled penknife, with a long, sharp blade, into the top of Robinson's skull.

The jailer was stunned for a moment and fell, but had thought enough to pull himself out of the cell and shut the door. He then crawled to the jail entrance, where he called for help. Head Night Jailer Johnts ran to Spellman's cell and found the inventor lying on the floor in a pool of blood with his throat cut from ear to ear. The penknife with which he had done both deeds was lying by his side.

The windpipe, both jugular veins and the carotid artery were completely severed, and nearly all the blood was out of his body. Spellman was taken to the Cooper Hospital, where he died early this morning.

An examination of Jailer Robinson's wound showed that the knife blade had gone nearly through the skull and inflicted a scalp wound three inches long. He was weak from loss of blood, but not fatally injured.

In Spellman's cell was found the following blood-stained note:

"I want to see my wife at 548 Mt. Vernon street. Please send me to the hospital."

The note had apparently been written after the man cut his throat.

Spellman evidently intended to kill Robinson and secure the keys and escape, but, finding he was balked, determined on suicide.

SMALLPOX IN CHILI.

Discussion by Congress on a Bill to Disown All Acts of the Insurgents.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Panama papers, brought by the steamship San Juan, which arrived here to-day, say that a bill has been discussed in the Chilian Congress to disown all acts of the revolutionists in order not only to lay the civil and criminal responsibility upon those supporting them, but to warn the neighboring nations against dealing with them.

An epidemic of smallpox at Santiago has been followed by the announcement of a number of cases at Valparaiso.

The Balmacedan troops had returned from Coquimbo and gone further south. Many of the troops had rebelled and gone to Vallenar and Ereinu.

Took an Overdose of Morphine.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 14.—Henry Hahn, son of Charles Hahn, a retired merchant, living on North Seventh street, Philadelphia, narrowly escaped death last night from an overdose of morphine. He was found unconscious in Library Park on Asbury avenue, and an officer started to take him to the lockup in a wagon. The joggling of the wagon revived him, and he requested the officer not to take him to jail, but to the Hotel Asbury, where he had friends. On the way to the hotel the officer found a small vial. After taking Hahn to the hotel it was discovered that the vial contained morphine. Physicians were immediately summoned, Hahn was taken from bed, and after three hours' hard work saved from death. But for the fortunate discovery of the vial Hahn would have died.

Conspiracy of Speculators.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 14.—Editor Harlan P. Hall, of this city, claims to have unearthed a conspiracy of speculators in the issuance of the "Hold Your Wheat" circulars, several millions of which have been issued from St. Paul. He says: "Ostensibly it purports to be a movement of the farmers, while in reality it is a move of the speculators. I can say from positive information that the movement had its origin in Minneapolis and that speculators in that city are at the head of the scheme."

Mutilated Postal Cards.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Acting Postmaster-General Whitfield has decided that postal cards, the edges of which have been cut and the shape of the card materially changed for advertising purposes, cannot be sent through the mails. Parties must refrain from mutilating such cards, or they will be considered by the department as unmailable.

The Long Island Negro Captured.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Aug. 14.—John Amelmen, the negro who attempted to assault Mrs. Frederick Neimeyer of Great Neck in the woods near that place on Monday last, was arrested in Jamaica during the morning. He was removed to the jail in this city, as it was feared that he would be lynched if left in the Little Neck jail.

THEY EXPECT RIOTS

Germans Excited Over the High Price of Bread.

THE SOCIALISTS VERY ACTIVE.

Workingmen Clamoring for the Repeal of the Corn Duties.

The Government Disturbed by the Situation—Intense Suffering in Many Districts—Deaths Hastened by the Scarcity of Food—Soldiers and Police Openly Sympathize With the Afflicted People.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—The excitement is increasing in the manufacturing districts over the high price of bread, and workingmen are clamoring for the repeal of the corn duties. The Social Democratic party is proclaiming everywhere that once in power it would sweep away all duties on food.

In Leipsic clubs are being organized whose object is to secure the repeal of corn duties, and multitudes of workingmen are being enrolled.

The government is evidently disturbed by the situation, as it is feared that riots may break out in some of the districts where the suffering is greatest, and there is no doubt of the sympathy of the soldiers, and even of many of the police, with the nearly starving people.

In Greis a family of four persons has been found that had only one small loaf of rye bread in three days to live on. They were out of work, owing to the industrial depression, and were ashamed to ask the authorities for relief.

Among those who do seek relief painful cases are found. The death of a babe at Leipsic was shown to have been caused by the mother having had nothing to eat for many hours, and the deaths of many grown up persons have undoubtedly been hastened by the scarcity of food. The government, meantime, remains obstinate as to maintaining the duty on imported grain.

WOLFE DROPS DEAD.

The Pennsylvania Reformer Dies Suddenly in Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 14.—The Hon. Charles Spyker Wolfe, of Lewisburg, fell dead on the pavement surrounding the capitol grounds here last evening at 5 o'clock from an attack of heart failure. Mr. Wolfe came here to attend a meeting of the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission, of which he was a member. During the afternoon session he was chosen active commissioner, defeating three other candidates for the place.

Mr. Wolfe, after leaving the capitol, went to the Grand Hotel with ex-Senator Lewis Emery, Jr., and there the two gentlemen ate a hearty dinner. Mr. Wolfe was returning to the capitol unaccompanied, when he fell upon the pavement on Third street, near Walnut. Several persons hurried to his assistance, but it was a heart attack, and he died almost instantly.

The committee was reconvened, and after remarks by the Governor and others appropriate resolutions were adopted. A committee was appointed to represent the commission at the funeral. Gov. Pattison sent Mrs. Wolfe a telegram expressing sympathy in her loss.

Mr. Wolfe's body was taken to an undertaker's establishment and prepared for conveyance to his late home at Lewisburg.

DRIVEN TO SUICIDE.

A Scranton Doctor Accused of Ill-Treating His Wife.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 14.—Dr. Arthur Jones killed himself at his home here about midnight, shooting three bullets into his left breast. He had grown melancholy and despondent over the talk of neighbors connecting him with the death of his wife, several weeks ago, the charge being made that while she was confined he came home drunk and dragged her down stairs by the hair, the injuries she received resulting in her death.

He denied these charges but the neighbors persisted in them and he hid himself until the funeral was over to avoid meeting some of the women who threatened him harm. The talk did not cease, however, and he finally said he would take his own life.

He came here six years ago, after graduating at Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia.

Hanged for Wife Murder.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 14.—Henry Henson, for the murder of his wife, was hanged in the jail yard here, the drop falling at 7:11 a. m. Henson was a giant in stature and weighed 315 pounds. He refused religious consolation until within an hour before the execution. The trap was sprung while he was making a rambling and incoherent speech, and as the body shot down through the trap a snapping sound was plainly heard as the vertebrae parted. He died instantly.

Cruise of Our Naval Students.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Upon the arrival at Devonport of the U. S. training-ships Jamestown and Portsmouth, their commanders paid their respects to the Duke of Edinburgh, Admiral Commanding at that naval station. Yesterday His Royal Highness returned the visits, being received aboard the ships with the salutes and ceremonies due his rank. He expressed his gratification at the fine showing made by the naval apprentices.

Held for Abducting a Girl.

MEDINA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Alfred White, who was arrested a week ago for abducting Ida Bissell, aged 14 years, and who escaped from the officers at that time was rearrested in Fillmore and brought back to Medina. He will be held for the grand jury. White is 25 years old.

TIRED OF PLUNGING.

Speculator Pardridge Loses Nearly a Million Dollars in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Ed Pardridge, the plunger, has settled his affairs with the Board of Trade and his enormous loss, amounting to nearly $1,000,000, if not more, is now a thing of the past. His check for more than $100,000, which is the largest that has passed the Clearing House for many a day, was handed in before 10 a. m.

It is quite possible that with the speculator's settlement the Board of Trade has seen the last of him, but he does not authorize this statement. He simply does not know whether he will ever trade again or not. "Financially I am all right," said Mr. Pardridge, "otherwise I am—well, I got beat, but it was not by the market. Somebody is behind this thing, but they won't catch me that way again. No, I never said I would quit trading. What I did say was that I had played the limit—plunged, I guess they call it—and I didn't intend to play that way any more. And that's the truth. I won't let 'em get me again." Mr. Pardridge said he was still possessed of an income of $180,000 a year from what remained of his fortune.

MURDERED AT HIS DESK.

A Coal Dealer Horribly Mutilated by a Negro.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Job Haas, a coal dealer, corner of Gorgas Lane and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, was murdered at his desk about 6 o'clock in the morning. His head was crushed in. The murder is supposed to have been done by a colored man who was seen about the place.

The furniture of the office was upset and broken, and the walls and floor were covered with blood, and there was every indication that Haas' murderer had had a fearful tussle before accomplishing his purpose.

From the appearance of the body it is thought that Haas' slayer had struck him on the head with a heavy club and stunned him. Then he finished him with a hatchet.

Both weapons were found on the floor near by.

BARDSLEY'S BOOK.

Treasurer Wright Gets Possession of the Convict's Private Memorandum.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Late yesterday afternoon City Treasurer Wright became possessor of John Bardsley's private memorandum book, for which he has been searching for nearly a month. A copy of the contents of the book will be taken before it is returned to the District Attorney.

Treasurer Wright has appointed ten Democratic magistrates to replace the ten appointed by John Bardsley to collect the delinquent mercantile taxes.

Another Baseball Club in Trouble.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 14.—The Providence Baseball Club will probably have to go under. Manager Cheney received a telegram from President White of the Eastern Association last night announcing that the league could not provide funds to meet the pay roll of the club. The players decided to continue together on the co-operative plan, but this is hardly probable.

Big Silk Robbery.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—It has just been made public that on Tuesday night the establishment of Cleveland, Brown & Co., manufacturers and dealers in gentlemen's neckware at No. 11 Otis street, upon the second floor, was entered and upward of 1,000 yards of various kinds of silks, aggregating fully $8,000 in value, were removed. The doors were all locked, and the thieves, it is thought, must have had keys to the building.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Seven convicts escaped from the stockade at Briceville, Tenn.

Ex-President Cleveland has declined to be present at the Bennington Monument Celebration.

Walter Chamberlin, one of the Sun's bright young men, and who hails from Plainfield, turned up in Asbury Park last night for a rest from recent hard work. Chamberlin's good looks proved so fetching that he had two proposals in less than three hours from susceptible young creatures—so Chamberlin says.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

Firemen Honor Their Dead.

Seventy-five firemen, in fatigue uniform, and a large number of other citizens, attended the funeral, yesterday afternoon, of Clarkson R. Hope, late ex-foreman of Gazelle Engine Company. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Mr. Hyde, who was a constant attendant at the beside of the deceased during his illness, and whose sermon contained touching words of resignation and comfort for the mourners left behind. The floral tributes were very beautiful. Prominent pieces were "Gates ajar", from Gazelle Engine company, and a pillow bearing the word "Papa". The floral display was photographed. The pall-bearers were Jeremiah Moore, James Searing, D. W. Littell, John Harding, J. W. VanSickle and Hiram Voorhees. Chief engineer T. O. Doane acted as marshal. Interment was made in Evergreen Cemetery, Plainfield avenue.

THE RECONSTRUCTION OF MUSIC HALL.

Extensive Plans Submitted for the Perfecting of the Acoustics and the Beautifying of the Interior.

Architect Charles Smith's plans for the reconstruction of the interior of Music Hall, will unquestionably accomplish everything desired. The acoustics will be perfected, the gloom of the house will be dispelled and it will be excelled by no suburban theater in the country for beauty and comfort. All that is now necessary for the future success of Music Hall, is that the directors should carry out Mr. Smith's plans and recommendations—the new management will do the rest.

The plans propose eight private boxes—two above and two below, each side of the proscenium arch. These will cut out some of the present seats at the ends of the dress-circle and gallery, but at the same time close up the echoing corners of the auditorium now at both sides of the arch. The corners in the back of the hall will be rounded and their echoes stopped, while upstairs posts and fret work will run around the gallery back of the front rows and break up the volume of sound that is now retained in bulk and thrown back to meet the sound that follows.

The doors and windows are all to be draped in plush, and other echoes thus destroyed, while more carpet is proposed for the floor to deaden the sharp sounds. The redecorating suggested is white and gold, and such a treatment of the interior would meet with the approval of the majority of Music Hall's patrons. The place needs just such a lightening up. With the plush hangings of a rose tint and the same material used in upholstering the top of the dress-circle rail, the effect would be most elegant and agreeable.

Estimates for all this will be furnished to-day or to-morrow, and work will then be begun at once. The new management hope to announce the opening of the new house on Sept. 8. The best of the New York successes of last season have been secured for 1891-92 at Music Hall.

PYTHIAN DAY IN PLAINFIELD.

Great Preparations for the Annual Inspection and Parade of the Knights.

Pythians all over the State are planning for a notable event to be held in this city Sept. 16, when the annual parade and inspection of the first regiment of the order will be held under command of Col. George H. Rhodes, of Elizabeth. Many of the uniforms worn will be brand-new, and a handsome spectacle will be presented. Head-quarters will be established at the Crescent Rink. The line of procession will be formed at 1 o'clock.

At the last session of the Grand Lodge $100 in drill prizes was appropriated, which is to be divided into three parts for the best-drilled divisions in the State. The eleven divisions comprising the regiment are Palestine No. 1, of Jersey City; Unity, No. 3, of Elizabeth; Black Prince, No. 4, of Newark; Friendship, No. 5, of New Brunswick; Red Cross, No. 6, of Long Branch; Monmouth, No. 9, of Red Bank; Ortygia, No. 10, of Phillipsburg; Excelsior, No. 11, of Trenton; Crescent, No. 13, of Plainfield, and Oalanthe, No. 14, of Orange.

Crescent Division, of this city, is making great preparations to entertain the guests.

That Peterson Row.

Lewis Peterson, who was accused by Mrs. Jennie Peterson, his sister-in-law, of 155 East Sixth street, of being concerned in the assault committed upon her, Wednesday, writes to The Press that he wishes to contradict the statement made by Mrs. Peterson, which he says is not true. The facts are—he adds—that he interfered to shield her from the beating she was getting, but as far as his assaulting her, that is not so. It is said that Mrs. Peterson thought Lewis was taking sides against her and that she tried to scratch his eyes out.

Notwithstanding Lewis's denial, Mrs. Peterson to-day had a warrant issued for his arrest, and he will probably be apprehended this afternoon.

The Oldest Mason in Jersey.

The New York papers announced this morning that Thomas Pratt, who, it is believed, was the oldest Freemason in New Jersey, died his home in Oxford Township, near Belvidere, Wednesday, in his ninety-first year. He was a hale old man until a few months ago, when he was taken sick. He was made a Freemason in 1826, in Somerset, Somerset county, Penn. He leaves a number of children and a large estate. The Freemasons will bury him.

Timothy H. Morse, of this city, is over ninety years of age, and has been a Freemason since 1824.

The Torment of Flies Causes a Runaway.

A milk wagon from the Johnston farm dairy was upset on Jackson avenue, near the residence of A. H. Martin, yesterday morning, and all the milk was spilled. The horse started to run away while the driver was delivering milk on the other side of the street. After upsetting the wagon, it tore itself loose and was caught some distance away. The runaway was caused by flies tormenting the horse.

As warm weather is here the natural craving of humanity call for something cooling to drink. Hires's Root Beer is sparkling, and a most delicious article. Every family should have it in their house. A 25-cent package will enable any one to make five gallons. Ask your druggist or storekeeper for it.

WAS IT DYNAMITE?

John Walker Threatens to Blow Up the Somerset County Jail.

John Walker and Frank Cook, the persecutors of old John Toms, whom they strung up by the thumbs at his home near New Brunswick last winter, are very restless in the Somerset county jail. They have already made several attempts to escape.

Last Tuesday a letter arrived at the jail directed to Walker. Jailer Wilson opened it and found in it two spools of thread, some needles and a queer-looking substance that he had never seen before. He said nothing, but took the substance to a local druggist, who pronounced it to be dynamite. The spools of cotton had already been given to the prisoners, but the jailer went to their cells and took the thread away. They had been tampered with already, and it is believed that some of the dynamite had been wrapped in the cotton.

When accused of having this dangerous explosive sent to him, Walker swore furiously and declared that the substance was nothing but chewing-gum. It was thought by Jailer Wilson that Walker's mother sent the stuff from New Brunswick. This belief was verified by a letter received to-day from Mrs. Walker, asking her son if he had received the thread.

Jailer Wilson has since had the stuff examined by a man who is accustomed to handling dynamite, and he says it is not that explosive, but he has a suspicion that it is one of its compounds. It will be analyzed.

Walker uttered all kinds of threats when he found he was not going to get the stuff. He declared to other prisoners that he would blow up the jail and all in it, including the jailer.

It is thought that it was his intention to use the dynamite in breaking open the locks. The men are kept closely confined in their cells. The time for trial is drawing near, and that makes Walker and Cook all the more desperate. The authorities threaten to chain them if they do not behave better.

The West Ends, So Far, Lead in Both Batting and Fielding.

The following varies a little from the correct totals, but not enough to the advantage or disadvantage of either side, to make much difference in the averages. It is taken from the Harkinstown Unionist:

"One half of the series between the West Ends and Crescents being completed, it would not be out of the way to take a look at the work of the two teams. In the three games the West Ends have been at the bat 119 times, Crescents 93 times. West Ends have scored 27 runs, Crescents 11 runs. West Ends have made 28 hits with a total of 33, Crescents 13 hits with a total of 20. West Ends have 11 sacrifice hits to their credit, while the Crescents have only 1. West Ends have made 12 errors, Crescents 25. West Ends have stolen 19 bases, Crescents 9. West Ends received 14 bases on balls, Crescents only 7. Strike outs are even, 13 apiece. West Ends have had 27 men left on bases; Crescents 12. Now if we take the percentage of each team in batting and fielding, we will get the following result:"

Her Name Was Mag Bunworth.

Among the excursions that came in yesterday—says the Asbury Park Press—was one from Plainfield. It brought down a fair crowd, and the excursionists set out to enjoy themselves. Two of the women loaded up on "Jersey lightning" which they had brought with them, and got so beastly drunk that they were unable to take care of themselves. One of them was captured by officer Chamberlain and yanked away from the Ocean Grove board walk into the presence of justice Patterson. She said that she was overcome by the numerous bracers which she had taken to prevent being overcome by the heat. Her friends claimed that she was seasick. She was accompanied by her five-year-old daughter. She was lodged behind the bars and asked to tell who she was. This she stoutly refused to do, and no amount of questioning elicited anything from her, except that she was from Plainfield and had four children. She made the hall hideous with her yells and groans. Toward evening she was released, and subsequently took a train for home.

Kindly Words.

R. R. Sinclair, of Westfield, and one of the editorial staff of the Harpers' publishing house, writes as follows concerning the death of the renowned editor, Geo. Jones:

New York, Aug 12, 1891.

Gilbert E. Jones, Poland Springs Hotel, South Poland, Me.:

The death of your dear father, my beloved friend and former chief, deeply grieves me. All in Franklin Square send assurances of sympathy.

A Return Game.

On Saturday, the 1st inst., the Plainfield Bicycle club base-ball nine went to Flemington and defeated the nine of that town by the score of 4 to 3.

The second of the series will be played on the Park avenue grounds to-morrow at 3:30 o'clock. Lovers of good amateur base-ball should see this game.

An Enjoyable Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paddock, of Green Brook, gave a hop to their friends last Wednesday night. The affair was a brilliant success. It was largely attended by out of town guests. Among those present were Mrs. Thos. Clifton and daughter, Mrs. Arthur Muir, Miss Annie Tait, Miss Lula McDermitt, and Mrs. C. I. Nash, all of Brooklyn; and the Misses Bowers and Fettis, of New York city. Music for the occasion was furnished by J. H. Johnson, of Dunellen.

Miss Annie Tait, a talanted pianist, played the accompaniments for singing and rendered solo selections that were admired by everybody present. After the usual repast, all repaired to their several homes much pleased with the evening's entertainment.

He Favors the Potter Printing Machine.

In an interesting address by James W. Scott, of the Chicago Herald, before the convention of the National Editorial association, at St. Paul, recently, he said, in discussing the subject of presses, that he favored the Potter machine, with a capacity of 24,000 an hour. In this machine the paper was used dry, and the impression was clear and distinct. Mr. Scott then referred to the improvement made in the manufacture of paper and to the difficulty at times in printing owing to the effect of electricity on the paper. Many means have been tried to prevent this difficulty, and only recently had success met their efforts.

Go Out in the Barn and Shut the Door.

Many tossed in their beds during the long, hot nights of this week, and bemoaned the weather that prevented their sleeping. But their discomfort was nothing to that of those residents of East Fifth street who are awakened and kept awake every night by a cornet player who doesn't commence his or her playing until the neighbors are beginning to get settled down to sleep, and the babies on the block are quieted after a long evening of persuasion. Then the horn starts up—not in-doors to entertain that particular family, but outdoors to arouse and annoy the whole neighborhood.

They Must Have Been Pretty Poor Lozenges.

Yesterday afternoon a customer who had bought a box of vermifuge lozenges at Reynolds's pharmacy a few hours before, rushed in again and inquired excitedly what would be the result of an overdose of them, what symptoms of poisoning would first develop, and whether there was any antidote. It seems the baby at home for whom the anthelmintic was not intended, ate almost all the lozenges there were in the box, at one sitting. The parents expected its death every moment, but not a symptom of any disorder is apparent and the baby to-day is better than ever before in its life.

He Got Off Easy in New York.

It was a New York officer who arrested Gable in that city, the other day, as told exclusively in The Press of yesterday. Mrs. Gable and her friend, Mrs. Ettinger, of this city, went to New York and with a detective located Gable in apartments where he was living with Mrs. Avery. It is suspected that he gave no bonds to pay his wife $5 a week towards her and their children's support. The court probably let him go on his verbal promise. He was much agitated over his arrest and begged for mercy.

A New Bridge at Sandford Avenue.

The contract to build a new iron truss bridge at Sandford avenue has been awarded, through agent William T. Kirk, of West Seventh street, to the firm of Milliken Bros. It is to cost $2,350. There were eight bids for the work, no two of which were $100 apart. Four of the bids tied on $2,400. The bridge is to have a roadway 20 feet wide, and two 7-foot sidewalks.

Double Tragedy.

Gaylord, Mich., Aug. 14.—A. W. Wilcox, a well-to-do farmer, killed his 19-year-old granddaughter with an axe and then shot himself dead. It is supposed that Wilcox became suddenly insane.

Many Religious Topics Discussed.

Amsterdam, Aug. 14—The session of the Twelfth Conference of the Young Men's Christian Association of all lands was continued to-day by the reading of reports and delivery of addresses. The attitude of the Young Men's Christian Association to the social question, and the problem of counteracting the difficulties which hinder the development of the Young Men's Christian Association in Roman Catholic countries, were among the topics of discussion.

Died in a Bath Tub.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Edwin J. Chute, of Providence, R. I., traveling agent for Packard & Barrill, brush manufacturers of Boston, who has been in Buffalo several days, was found dead in the bath tub during the morning at 66 Swan street, where he was staying since his arrival. He was subject to epileptic fits and the supposition is that he was attacked with one while in the water.

Gen. Butler at Work.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 14.—Gen. Butler is at home working on his book with Private Secretary Major. His grandson, Butler Ames, and some friends have the yacht on a cruise and the General has not been with them since Monday.

Mrs. Polk Dying.

Believed They Were Drowned.

Scituate, Mass., Aug. 14.—The three sons of Louis T. Cushing of Cohasset, were out sailing yesterday during the heavy thunderstorm and wind squall which sprung up so suddenly. Nothing has been heard from them since they left and it is feared their boat was capsized and that they were all drowned.

Four Years for Tatro.

New York, Aug. 14.—Charles Tatro, the Connecticut engineer, who on June 16 abducted 16-year-old Augusta Ursinga and took her to New Haven, where he assaulted her in a lonely woods, has been sentenced to four years' imprisonment, he having pleaded guilty.

The Baker Jury Out.

Abingdon, Va., Aug. 14.—Argument in the Baker trial was concluded and the case was given to he jury. A verdict is not expected until this evening. Dr. Baker, it is thought, will be acquitted, or else the jury will disagree.

Mrs. Peabody Sent to Prison.

Ayer, Mass., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Fred Peabody, who attempted to commit suicide after having murdered her 4-year-old boy, was committed to prison to await the action of the grand jury.

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.
The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. BASE-BALL BABBLE.

Manager Green Will Put Tierney on the Bench—Westfield is Coming Loaded.

The following is signed by only one member of the board of managers of the Crescent League team, but there is no reason to doubt that it is official. Why such a course has been decided on, no one will be able to explain:

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Will you kindly correct the statement in to-night's issue of THE PRESS to the effect that Mr. Taylor had been released by the management of the Crescent League.

Mr. Tierney has been taken on as the tenth member of the team, and Mr. Taylor remains a member of the team as heretofore.

FRED. S. GREEN.

August 13.

Rumor reached THE PRESS on Tuesday that Tom O'Rourke had been signed to catch for Westfield in to-morrow's game here against the Crescent League's team. This is now denied, but not officially. There is no doubt of the fact, however, that McManus, Westfield's clever catcher, has a sore arm and he says he cannot play the position, so no one need be surprised if O'Rourke or a better one takes his place.

The Westfield club is coming with a loaded nine. Some one has told Manager Peek that the Crescents have engaged last year's Norwich battery, Ryan and Hackett, and he has made arrangements to spring a little surprise party of his own, should the story be true.

But it isn't! So far as anybody knows, there will not be the least change in the Crescent League's team. Even Tierney, who it was supposed had been signed to play right field in place of Taylor, is to sit on the bench according to Manager Green's edict published above.

It will be Hammill against Hammill, in the box, to-morrow. There is just as little doubt that the Westfield Hammill is a high-class pitcher, as that the Westfield players as a team are low-class. He has held such teams as the West Ends down to 5 hits. This is better than the Plainfield Hammill can do. So it is sensible to suppose that the latter will be hit harder than the former, but when it comes to field work the Plainfield team, of course, will show itself far superior. As before stated in these columns, the Westfield's cannot win except by accident or the very worst kind of playing by the Crescents.

Another Somer Villain's View.

(From The Harkinstown Unionist-Gazette.)

Kennedy was too ill to catch, the Crescents won, and the band played "Annie Laurie."

The prophecy that Plainfield would loose their third consecutive game to the West Ends, did not take into consideration the fact that accidents might happen. An accident, however, did occur, for on Friday last word was received from Kennedy that sickness would prevent his catching the game. The only thing to be done under the circumstances was to hunt up the best available man for the occasion. To find a catcher to hold Harkins at a day's notice, is a practical impossibility, as was proven in Saturday's game. Reilly's back-stop work was not so bad, but his throwing was execrable. The Crescents were not slow in grasping the golden opportunity, for whenever they were fortunate enough to get a man to first, it was almost a foregone conclusion that two stolen bases would be the order of the day. Work of this kind was enough to discourage any team.

It sometimes seems strange that our opponents can make error after error without affecting the score. Not so with the West Ends. Errors with them invariably mean runs for the other fellows, and Saturday's game was no exception. The West Ends both out batted and out fielded the visitors, as they have done in previous games, but even this did not prevent the Plainfielders from leaving Somerville with the first victory won in Somerville since May, 1889. No one begrudges Plainfield the victory! Poor fellows! they have tried hard to win. Let them have their fun. There are yet three games to be played, and in order to win the series the Crescents will have to win the remaining games.

Harkins's pitching was fully as gilt-edged as it has been throughout the year, and but four hits were made off his delivery, a surely wonderful record, considering the disadvantages he was laboring under. Hammill also pitched a very clever game, and pulled his team out of a very small hole in the last inning. He was well supported by Bonner, and by the balance of the men behind him after the first inning. Lufbery and Keeler had no less than twenty-three chances, of which they accepted nineteen.

It Was Not an Accident, Neighbor.

Plainfield has boasted. She has vaunted herself aright, which, we are told, the charitable man doeth not. This has been caused by her base ball pride. Twice was this proud city humbled and brought down into the dust. On Saturday she lifted her dust-begrimed face a little, and the same proud look was there. But she scarcely dared look about her. It was accident, neighbor. Don't worship any false idols—Editorial in the Somerville Gazette.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

IT'S A GO!

Tuxedo, the Farce Comedy Conceived in Plainfield, Opens With Success in Denver.

Mrs. James Brown Potter, the erewhile society queen among the ultra fashionable set of New York's "400", and who is now more or less known to fame as a clever and fascinating actress, may take upon herself the honor of first making "Tuxedo" known to the world at large.

Tuxedo is beautifully situated amid the nestling Orange mountains, about two hours ride from New York on the Erie railroad. It is the mecca of American fashionable life; none but those whose blood is bluer than skimmed milk are recognized within its precincts. Many a millionaire would gladly slice off a watermelon piece from his fortune to set his gold-laden feet within its sacred portals.

But Ward McCalister says "No,
This must not yet be so"

And Father Plebean Croesus must reluctantly betake himself to Saratoga or Long Branch with his uxoric relative, and their golden olive branches. At the time Tuxedo was born, the rage for amateur theatricals was at its height in New York society. Grease paint hung heavily on the horizon, and a nimbus of sock and buskin glory encircled Mrs. James Brown Potter. Amateurdom was at her feet, and she was its proudly recognized queen. What more appropriate then, than that Tuxedo should be formally opened with a superb amateur performance given under the mantle of sweet charity. The event was the most brilliant one of the season. The performance was a success. Mrs. Potter, Edward Fales Coward, Miss Elsie DeWolf and other representative society people were in the cast. The affair was described in the columns of the New York papers; in a word Tuxedo was born, and in its mouth was the traditional silver spoon.

All this time a couple of merry minstrel men, were chasing flies and building jokes at Plainfield, just a metaphorical stone's throw from Tuxedo.

Ed Marble was spending the summer with George Thatcher at the latter's home, corner of Seventh street and Central avenue. The more Marble read of the gay doings at Tuxedo the more he ruminated. He had an idea. He nursed it, fed it, and cherished it. It finally took root, germinated, and sprouted, and just what that idea was will be seen here Friday evening, Nov. 13, at Music Hall, when George Thatcher's minstrels with Rich & Harris' comedy company will present Mr. Marble's farce comedy, "Tuxedo", a satire on society's caprices.

It was given at Denver a few nights ago with unparalled success. It is crowded with good things, new ideas, while the costumes excels that of any comedy on the road. The farce is so prolific of bright and clever thoughts that a new comedy could easily be made out of the material which will be discarded for want of room.

George Thatcher, Hughey Dougherty, Eugene O'Rourke, Ed Marble, Raymon Moore, have strong character studies which will bring to them an added measure of fame. Lizzie Derious Daly, Miss Gilroy, Miss Fitzhugh, have been judiciously cast, the former particularly showing a versatility which cannot help but win her the praise of the critics and the public.

Only Six Weeks More.

Heat seems to have about as little effect upon the attendance at the Broadway theater, New York city, as it is popularly supposed to have on a salamander. Goodwin & Morse's charming operatic burletta "Wang", now in the fourth month of its prosperous run, together with comedian DeWolf Hopper, and his excellent company of fun-makers and singers, continue to attract large and well pleased audiences, no matter how loftily ascends the sensitive mercury. The magnificent Broadway, with its cool rattan chairs, and its numerous inlets for the evening zephyrs, is far from uncomfortable, even in the midsummer months, and "Wang" runs merrily along to a business that would be acceptable even in the height of the regular season.

The usual Saturday matinees have been resumed, and will be continued throughout the Hopper engagement, which terminates on October 3. The 100th performance of "Wang" will take place this evening, which event will be duly celebrated by the distribution of handsome and appropriate souvenirs of unique and novel design. During the coming season Mr. Hopper and his company will present "Wang" in all of the large cities, and the comedian's tour will be inaugurated at the Globe theater, Boston.

Toughs Arouse a Neighborhood.

A disgraceful row occurred on Somerset street, near the bridge over Green brook, at 2 o'clock this morning, when a number of roughs, intoxicated, indulged in a furious war of words. The language they used was of the vilest, and the disturbance was so great as to arouse the entire neighborhood. The Plainfield police were powerless, as the row was on the borough side of the brook, but after vainly trying to bring a borough marshal to the spot they succeeded in persuading the drunken crowd to disperse. The fellows are known, and may be arrested today. Those who were awakened by the racket found that their nerves were so shattered that it was impossible to get to sleep again, even after the noise had ceased.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

OUR M'PHERSON'S ANCESTRY.

Scotch of the Culloden Stock, Not of the Broadalbin.

A constant reader, who for many years enjoyed the honor of a seat alongside the boy Senator upon a backless bench at the Dublin district school-house of their native town, and there discerned the fact that he possessed the courage of his convictions to the extent of talking aloud in school hours across the room to the girls, essays to say that the distinguished newspaper correspondent, G. A. Townsend, in The Sun, is not exactly correct in intimating that the honorable Senator came from that stock of Scotchmen who, leaving their Scotland home at Broadalbin, Perthshire, in the year 1798, and consisting of Donald McPherson, Malcolm McLaren, Hugh McDermid, James McLaren, John D. McVean, Peter Campbell, John McNaughton, Donald McVean, John McPherson, Donald Anderson, and Alexander Thompson, were induced by Col. Charles Williamson to locate at the "Big Springs", or what is now Caledonia, N. Y.

On the other hand, James McPherson, grandfather of Senator McPherson on the paternal side, came from Culloden, Scotland, in 1801, locating at Delhi, Delaware county, N. Y., where Donald, the Senator's father, was born in 1803, and who, in 1816, along with the family, removed to the Genesee valley, locating on a farm on the western borders of the Inverness settlement, in what is now the town of York, in Livingston county, where the honorable Senator was born in May, 1832, and where he grew to manhood. James and Elizabeth Calder, grandparents on the maternal side, emigrated from Sterlingshire, Scotland, in the year 1800, locating at Greenfield, Conn., where Jean, the mother of the Senator, was born in 1806, and who, along with the family, came to the "Genesee country" in 1808, locating upon a farm lying on the southern boundaries of the Inverness settlement aforesaid, where, in 1828, she was united in marriage with Donald McPherson.

Both of these honored and highly respected parents have within a few years died at Avon at advanced ages, in whose beautiful cemetery their remains repose alongside those of their departed children, Col. James A. McPherson, Joseph H. McPherson, and Jennie McPherson, whose graves are marked by a beautiful monument erected by the liberality of the surviving sons, John R. and Donald of New York city.

Plainfield's President Writes to the World's Convention.

At the World's Convention of the Young Men's Christian associations at Amsterdam, Thursday, the subject under discussion was: "Spiritual Life in Our Associations; the Dangers That Threaten It in Our Actual Development; the Best Means for Maintaining and Increasing It, and for Constantly Recruting Active and Truly Converted Members."

The discussion included the reading of a paper prepared by William D. Murray, of this city, who is a member of the American International committee. This was read by Mr. Douglas, one of the American delegates, and it had been printed in the Dutch, French, German and English languages, and placed in the hands of all the members of the convention. The paper prepared by Mr. Murray showed that while the American associations were very prosperous and growing rapidly in numbers, membership and property, and were given much attention to the social, mental and physical development of young men, the greatest and most prosperous work of the associations was in the development of the religious life of young men, and gave carefully-prepared statistics showing large numbers of conversions in connection with association work.

New Jersey's County Fairs.

The season of county fairs in New Jersey begins next Tuesday, when the annual exhibition of the Cumberland county agricultural society will be opened at Bridgeton. It will continue until Thursday. From then until the middle of October there will be at least one fair a week. The Hunterdon county society and that of Monmouth county, disheartened by the bad luck during the past four or five years, have gone out of business, and the Sussex county society will follow suit, unless they are unusually fortunate this season. The dates of the events follow:

August 18 to 20, Cumberland county agricultural society at Bridgeton. August 25 to 27, West Jersey agricultural and horticultural association at Woodstown, Salem county. August 31 to Sept. 4, first fair of the Drummond driving park and Monmouth county fair society at Asbury Park. September 2 and 3, Vineland fair association at Vineland, Cumberland county. A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

Catch the Public Eye!

Advertise in THE PRESS.

Advertising as an Investment.

Advertising is a tax on him who so regards it. Only when he has learned to look upon it as an investment, and treat it as such, giving it his time and thought, will it develop into a thing that pays. Newspaper advertising space, like most other kinds of property, has two values; to wit, what it costs the advertiser and what it is worth to him. Therefore, in buying it, he should consider its character as well as its price.—The Roller Mill.

A Boon to Man.

The newspaper advertising columns are a boon to man. They help him out of his troubles and into the smiles of prosperity. If Truth is contemplating the erection of a new arch, she cannot do a more consistent thing than to choose for its keystone:

He who in this world would rise
Must read the papers and advertise.
—Chicago Herald.

A Striking Advertisement.

A certain advertisement, printed fully ten years ago, is still recalled as having been to this effect: "Two-thirds of your life is spent in your clothes. Why not have comfortable clothes?" It was a truism of course, but put in that form and with the "two-thirds" printed boldly as a fraction it was peculiarly striking. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Cannot Afford to Stop.

There is a reason why a business that has been built up by advertising cannot afford to stop or change its tactics. The class of trade that has been secured is the kind that is influenced by advertising, and he who would hold it must continue using the same means.—Printers' Ink.

The Keystone of Success.

Because a man is doing a big business and making money is no reason why he should not make more, and many a millionaire has found that letting people know what he had to sell was the keystone of success.—Rome (N. Y.) Tribune.

Don't Encourage Peddlers.

Give peddlers the "go by" and deal with your home merchants, who show they desire your patronage by advertising in your home paper.—Exchange.

If you require Whiskey for Family or Medicinal use buy the best. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is not made by any "peculiar," "secret" or fairy process. It is made in the good old way in which all pure whiskey is distilled. It is sold only in bottles bearing the label and trade mark of A. R. FASHIONS IN BATHING.

Bathing Dress and Methods in America and Europe.

The Bathing Machine of the English Woman—Going Down to the Beach by a Swinging Cable at Brighton—The Stinging Fish of Biarritz.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

Modes and modesty. English bathing women and French baigneurs. "Remember, my love, we are going to Trauville this year. You must have your bathing dresses made in Paris," were the words said by an American mamma to her daughter who made such a sensation last year at Bar Harbor by wearing white flannel suits which were everything that was respectable until dipped in the water. After that their color changed to pink, so indiscreet was the ocean swell and so transparent its treatment. What her mamma hoped the Parisian dressmakers would be able to turn out for her daughter which would prove more attractive to the casual loungers on the French coast it is difficult to surmise, but it must not be supposed that at foreign watering places costumes used by ladies at the court of Neptune and Amphitrite are more becoming than those in use in America.

It is conceded in all polite society that at a certain time of the year when the icy waters of the Atlantic begin to modify their temperature and the waves court the swimmers or merely the wading bathers who seek for ozone and the invigorating tonic of a plunge, that men and women may cast aside much of the conventional covering propriety demands and appear together on the sea beach in costumes that would not only be comical but utterly reprehensible in a ball-room or on Broadway. For one of these reasons only known to the lawmakers of society a lady may show a great deal more than her shoulders in a ball-room; but were she to exhibit ten inches above her ankle (a modicum of leg which the ripples of the shore look on as prudery compared with what they often wash) she would be regarded as a brazen thing, unfit for Newport Casino or Delmonico's Patriarchs. But let the bathing season commence and how few pretty women appear on the ocean whose figures cannot be divined beneath their dark bathing suit, while many are the wonderful outlines of factitious beauty which fade into terrible reality when their frauds are given away by the heartless sea, and of course one of the most fruitful joking-grounds for the summer journalist is the watering place—not merely for the flirtations on the piazza around the hotel or boarding house, nor for the chase after man when the week days take the fathers and husbands away to New York; but more especially for the never ceasing attacks on girl bathers and their vanities; their diminishing suits and their out-of-sight modesty. After studying marine life among the bathers of most seashores I cannot say that women in

TROUVILLE—A PRETTY PLUNGER.

THE SURF COMEDIAN.

America display more than the natural amour propre every woman ought to possess, as evinced by a desire to look her best, and, as little ridiculous as possible in trotting across the sands from her bath house to the water.

The most trying moment for a bather is the entrance on the scene; the promenade down the beach when the eyes of those in the water and the eyes of those lounging around will detect any flaw or deformity, any incongruous appearance or unfortunate tendency which nature or want of taste may accentuate.

The woman who knows she is well made, can walk with the demarche of a goddess and is certain there is nothing in her costume which calls for criticism or cavil may set out from her boarded boudoir where she left the fig-leaves of fashion and calmly traverse the strip of sand separating her dressing room from the sea, conscious that no unnecessary decollete, no matricious make-up will enhance her attractions or prevent her beauty making its mark. While the cruel smile goes round from lip to lip among the groups on the sands, where the babies are making castles and moated granges with their spades as some abnormally thin old maid helplessly ambles past into the rippling water, or some overgrown matron shakes the shore in her laudable attempts to conceal her avoirdupois among the breakers. In England this ordeal is not one of the miseries of life. The English have no bath-houses such as we have in America. All bathing in the sea is done from what are called bathing machines. These are simply cabins on wheels drawn out to the axles, higher or lower, as the customer may demand, with steps at either end to enter or descend into the waves. On many shores these machines have awnings like the head of a bassinet or the hood of a perambulator, effectually concealing the fair occupant till she emerges beyond its protecting flounce into the open sea; and though the lounger on the beach is deprived the pleasure of witnessing the plunges of the siren and the frolics of the nymph the unwieldy matron and the ossified old maid are saved the chagrin of an offensive notice which often verges on contempt.

In some places, as at Brighton, where the beach is precipitous or shelving, the machines are let down by cables from a windlass, but usually horses are used, and when a stranger finds himself for the first time left in his wooden cabin in a raging sea while his hall and drivers depart to haul another machine, his dismay may be better imagined than described.

In England the bathing woman is an institution. Though living all the summer in the sea, she looks more like a porpoise than a mermaid, but she is most useful in giving confidence to beginners and even in teaching ladies how to swim. She is replaced in France by the baigneur, who takes ladies in his arms into the deeper waters and is much patronized when a strong bearer and a good swimmer. Such a baigneur is the hero of a French play by Meilhac, in which Mme. Judic used to delight her Parisian public.

The English bathing machine has been adopted at many of the French watering places, more especially those contiguous to England. Calais, Boulogne and Dieppe are all fond of bathing machines, and the French have introduced family cabins divided into two or three compartments for ladies and children. At Trouville, Etretat and Biarritz, at Ostende and Blankenberg, all fashionable resorts either for French or Belgians, the cabins as at Long Branch or Narragansett are in use.

Fashion first began to trouble her head about the modes for bathing when the beautiful Eugenie, empress of the French, made Biarritz the only place for lovely women. She wanted sea air at that period. There the fair Spanish-Milesian first instituted the costume de baire, which has since become so necessary an adjunct to the trousseau of every fashionable beauty.

At that time the English women wore for sea baths a dark blue flannel garment which tied around the neck with a string, and coming down to her ankles, made her look like a shapeless bag; added to which she concealed her hair in a yellow oilskin cap. Very proper, no doubt—except when some libertine wave insisted in pulling it over head—but tasteless and encumbering to a degree.

But at Biarritz the Frenchwoman introduced the artistic bloomers. Some of the beauties of the imperial court followed suit to the empress' innovation with elaborate fancies; and frills and ribbons soon graced the robes that Madame de Mouchy and the Countess de Pourtales wore when bathing, while every woman wore sandals on her bare feet and carried a long Louis Seize bathing stick as she paraded the beach between France and Spain.

On the French coast the sandal is a necessity in some form, on account of the prevalence of an annoying fish (Trachinus Draco) known in England as the weaver. This name comes from the French Vive, given it by the coast fishermen in recognition of its power of living out of water for some time after capture.

Ammonia is always kept by the proprietor of the bathing establishments in case of accidents caused by this particularly objectionable fish. He is not large, but the prickles of his gill-covers and dorsal fin sting almost like a hornet, and I have seen a foot and a hand swollen to double their normal size from the injuries it has occasioned. In France it is compulsory by law for fishermen to cut off the stings of these fishes when caught.

The bathing sandal is much thought of by its wearers in France. Not so many years ago, Paris was placarded with the colored advertisements of a sea-sandal christened Amanda by its manufacturers. N'est ce pas aux Bains de Mer Sous Amanda (don't go to the seaside without Amanda) stared the Parisian and his guests in the face from every wall.

As much care and taste are displayed in these sea shore sandals as Helen of Troy or Phryne of Athens could have used in past ages. On the French shore is there doubtless some variety of color and form in the dress seen in the waves. Every Parisian dressmaker wishes to stamp even a bathing dress with his or her individual taste; but it is not by any means good form or bon ton to show too much of the figure as caricaturists would lead people to suppose, and indeed anything like immorality is left to those few individuals of bad taste and worse morals, who will always find a way to make themselves conspicuous in public.

In every country and on every shore there are thoughtless dudes with no idea beyond their own selfish vanity who encourage girls to make idiots of themselves, in no country perhaps more so than in France. If a bathing costume is wanted more exaggerated and extravagant than another's it will be found either on the Trouville shore in France or on the variety stage in America; but rarely, if ever, on our eastern coasts, from Atlantic City to Narragansett Pier. In most French watering places part of the bathing area is roped for men alone; only these with ladies and families being allowed to bathe together. Ropes are used as with us; but there are always one or more boatmen rowing up and down continually during bathing hours to guard against accidents, and there is one accommodation universal which might be well introduced into America. If a bather is tempted to stay in the water too long it is not necessary to wait till he turns blue to discover it. His feet will grow cold. Now to avoid ill effects on reentering the cabin or machine the baigneuse or old woman in a blue bloomer and rough straw bonnet will bring a foot bath of hot water into which the feet are plunged while dressing. The benefit is incalculable and the institution has saved many from sickness, if not from consumption.

Men bathers are just as open to criticism as the opposite sex only as they are not so attractive they are often spared observation. But of all comical shows on the watering place beach nothing comes up to the fat old gentleman who cannot swim. The way in which he splashes like a water-logged balloon amid the breakers, jumping up and down while he rubs his bald head or pats his protuberant stomach, is a farce-comedy of itself, but when he persists in making a ring with two or three children and a couple of forlorn old maids and dancing round and round in the surf it would compensate any feminine spectators for all the criticisms lavished on girl bathers.

Judging from personal observation, I should say that swimming is less rare as an accomplishment among English and French women than among America's daughters. And yet the under-tow, or as it is called in some parts on our coasts "the sea-puss," is as strong in the Dover channel as in the open Atlantic. Every child should learn to swim. It may mean life not only to the child, but later on to others, as no fearless swimmer ever hesitates to plunge in when a fellow creature is drowning.

To those going to Europe it may be useful to know what are the most characteristic bathing resorts. In England, Scarborough, on the coast of Yorkshire, is far the most lively of watering places, though its more modest neighbor, Filey, is much more beautiful, the rocks and cliffs being more than picturesque. In the south, Eastbourne has the most attractions, Brighton being a winter resort for Londoners. Margate and Bamsgate are more like Coney Island. Bournemouth and the Isle of Wight are most fashionable and admirable for bathing and yachting, but very expensive. In France, Trouville still is queen of watering places. Boulogne has too many English visitors, but the bathing sands are superb. Ostend has great attractions for the German and Belgian visitors. Dieppe has annually whole troops of French and English, and may be well recommended as a typical French watering place.

"CAN I ASSIST YOU, MADAM?"

This is an every-day occurrence; she is taken with that "all-gone" or faint feeling, while calling or shopping. The cause of this feeling is some derangement, weakness, or irregularity incident to her sex. It matters little from what cause it may arise; instant relief may always be found by using

FOUND IN THE WOODS

A Prominent Inventor Driven Mad by Overwork.

HE TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF.

Roaming About for Two Days With Ugly Gashes in His Throat.

His Disappearance Creates Excitement Among the Guests at Glen Summit—A Searching Party Tramped the Forests All Night—The Unfortunate Man Found Early in the Morning.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 15.—There is much excitement at Glen Summit, a summer resort, for one of the guests, and a prominent one at that, has become a maniac.

Two days ago H. F. Coxe, of Philadelphia, disappeared. He is a member of the principal clubs in the Quaker City and a leader in society there. He is the inventor of the block system of signals in use on all the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and from royalties on this he receives a fortune annually. He is also the inventor of a track connector which has been adopted on all railways recently built. He has invented several other railroad contrivances, which have made him very wealthy.

Mr. Coxe worked so hard during the past year that his health became impaired and he made a tour of Europe and Asia. Returning, he located at Mount Summit, and two months ago he was married. A week ago he again became very sick and was attended by the best physicians in Philadelphia and the Wyoming Valley. On Thursday afternoon he left the hotel alone and was seen going in the direction of the mountain. As he did not return at dinner time his wife and the guests became alarmed for his safety, and after consultation they formed themselves into a searching party and started out. By this time it was dark and all carried lanterns. Not a male guest slept all that night and all aided in the search.

All night long the woods echoed with calls of men, who signalled to each other as they tramped through the forest in different directions. Not until morning was their search rewarded.

A Raving Maniac.

About 6 o'clock one of the searchers who had gone in advance of the others saw a man running ahead of him and intercepted him as he was about to pass. There was an ugly gash in his throat that ran from ear to ear, and his clothes were soaked with blood. Mr. Coxe was a maniac. He was induced to return to the hotel and the physician dressed his wounds.

The large artery was not severed, but the medical attendants fear that his injuries, together with his broken-down system, will terminate fatally. In his clothes were $4,000 in cash.

He will be taken to Philadelphia and placed in an asylum. Dr. Urbane, of Philadelphia, says his sudden attack of insanity was caused by overwork, and that the prominent inventor will invent no more.

FRIGHTENED THE SULTAN.

England Sends a Formidable Fleet of War Vessels to Alexandria.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 15.—Considerable feeling has been aroused here by the sudden visit of a formidable British ironclad fleet to Alexandria.

The coming of the war vessels had not been announced beforehand, and the spectacle, therefore, excited no little surprise and some apprehension in the Egyptian city.

There is little doubt that the sudden presence of these vessels in the harbor of Alexandria is connected with recent rumors of a purpose on the part of the Sultan, at the suggestion of France and Russia, to depose the Khedive.

The English fleet, presenting a sight at once magnificent and terrible, reminded Alexandrians that England was still the protector of Tewfik, and that the scenes of 1882 might be re-enacted, in the event of any movement against him. The visit has apparently had the effect intended, for nothing more is heard of any intention by Turkey to interfere with the Khedive.

Contract Laborers Bring Suit.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 15.—Six employes of the large plush concern recently established here by Sir Titus Salt, Bart., Sons & Company, as a branch of their English concern, have brought suit against the firm for $6,000, and an attachment was placed upon the firm's property. Plaintiffs charge that they were imported by the concern, and becoming dissatisfied with their work, they seek to have the concern convicted of a violation of the alien contract labor law. The case will come up at New Haven on August 24.

Newspapers Must Refund.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 15.—Attorney-General Hensel has notified the following Philadelphia newspapers, which have published the Mercantile Appraisers' lists for two years, that they must refund the rebate of 40 per cent. paid an alleged agent of the State for securing the advertisements: Press, North American, Inquirer, German-Democrat, Bulletin and Telegraph. The papers are given until September 1 in which to refund the money.

Congressman Fitch Ill.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Congressman Ashbell P. Fitch is seriously ill at Fire Island from a dangerous fever, and for the past few days his condition has been such that nobody outside of his family has been allowed to see him.

No Bail for Anderson.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Judge Barnard has denied the application to admit Anderson, who did the Croton Landing shooting, to bail. Baker is not yet out of danger.

OUR MINISTER PROTESTS.

The State Department Informed About the Trouble in Salvador.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The State Department has received a dispatch from Minister Pacheco, dated Guatemala City, stating that when the City of Panama weighed anchor at La Libertad on the morning of the 10th inst., the government of Salvador served notice of confiscation upon its captain, and on the same evening she arrived safely at San Jose de Guatemala and landed all her passengers and her cargo.

Minister Pacheco also says that he has submitted a protest to the Salvadorian government, as per instructions he received from the Department of State.

Acting Secretary Wharton has communicated the contents of the dispatch to the President. No action will be taken in the matter until the department receives a detailed report of the affair from Minister Pacheco.

PANIC ON A STEAMER.

The Gatenieu Loaded With Pilgrims Runs on the Lachine Rocks.

VALLEY FIELD, P. Q., Aug. 15.—The steamer Gatenieu, with 500 pilgrims on board, bound for St. Anne Bellivéu, had a terrible experience in the rapids above Lachine. The pilot was endeavoring to take a short cut through the channel, near Isle Perrault, and lost control of the boat which went on the rocks.

It is alleged that an awful panic prevailed on board, but the boat was finally gotten off the rocks without serious damage, but the pilgrims, of whom many were hurt, insisted upon returning to Valley Field.

KING KELLY IN THE LEAGUE.

The Cincinnati Association Club Transferred to Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 15.—President Gillette of the Milwaukee Baseball Association has recived a dispatch from Cincinnati stating that Louisville, St. Louis, Washington, Boston and Baltimore have assented to the transfer of the Cincinnati American Association team to Milwaukee. The terms offered are satisfactory to the Milwaukee men and they have wired their acceptance.

The terms include the retention of Bancroft as the financial manager of the team. King Kelly has already gone to the National League.

The President's Visit to Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—President Harrison will arrive in this city at 5:50 o'clock Tuesday afternoon next, and leave at 6:35 for Vermont. Secretary Halford telegraphed the mayor that 45 minutes were at his disposal. He will be received at the train by a committee consisting of Postmaster Warner, Deputy Grand Master of Masons James Ten Eyck and John G. Myers. A reception at the City Hall will follow and Governor Hill will meet the President, the Governor having signified his intention of being present.

Poisoned a Spring.

AYER, Mass., Aug. 15.—Several pounds of paris green were found in a spring near the poor farm last night. The occupants of a notorious road house near the farm are large users of the water. Several unsuccessful attempts have recently been made to burn them out, and it is thought that this means has now been tried to rid the community of them. It is not yet known whether any one has partaken of the poisoned water.

Opposed to Foreign Tin Plate Workers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor at a meeting here adopted resolutions instructing President Gompers to co-operate with President Weihe, of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, for the purpose of preventing and discouraging the attempt to import tin plate workers into this country in violation of the alien contract labor law.

Dr. Sheshadri Dies at Sea.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Rev. Dr. Narayan Sheshadri, the first high caste Brahmin ever converted to Christianity, who left New York recently on the steamer Circassia for Glasgow, died at sea of heart disease, on the morning of July 21. His visit to this country was for the purpose of arranging for the exhibition of an Indian village. Dr. Sheshadri was 68 years old. He was buried at sea.

Secretary Nettleton's Denial.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Acting Secretary Nettleton denies that the statement to the effect that the 4 1-2 per cent. bonds were to be extended at 2 per cent. had been authorized by him. He said that such a statement did not represent any official opinion. He did not positively deny the alleged extension of the bonds, but only the fact that it originated with his department.

Miss Rachel Sherman Engaged.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 15.—News has been received of the engagement of Dr. Paul Thorndyke, son of the late Dr. J. T. Thorndyke, of Milwaukee, to Miss Rachel Sherman, the youngest daughter of the late Gen. William T. Sherman. Young Dr. Thorndyke is now a brilliant and rising practitioner of Boston.

REPRIEVED IN TIME

A Double Execution Postponed at the Last Moment.

THE PARTIES ON THE SCAFFOLD.

Black Caps Were Over Their Heads and Nooses About Their Necks.

The Governor's Secretary Rushed in When the Sheriff Was About to Pull the Fatal Trigger—Great Excitement Among the Spectators—They Loudly Murmured Their Disappointment.

COLUMBIA, S.C., Aug. 15.—David Jacobs and Mrs. Mary Johnson, who were sentenced to be hanged at Chesterfield for the murder of William Johnson, the woman's husband, were respited by the Governor until Sept. 4, and the respite came after they had taken their places on the scaffold, and the nooses had been adjusted around their necks and every preparation made for the double execution.

The town was crowded with people from many miles around. The culprits, while protesting their innocence, made all preparations for death, although they looked for a reprieve up to noon. At 1 o'clock they were led out to the gallows. Both were calm and seemed to have nerved themselves for the terrible ordeal.

Without any unnecessary delay they were placed upon the fatal trap, their arms and legs were pinioned and the ropes adjusted about their necks. They were then asked if they desired to make any statement.

Jacobs replied that he had made his statement twice in court, that was the only statement he had to make and he did not care to repeat it.

Mary Johnson said she told the truth all the time, that she was not guilty; the people had sworn falsely and brought her where she was.

The last prayer had been finished by their spiritual adviser, farewells had been said, and Sheriff Douglas was about to step aside to pull the fatal trigger, when suddenly a man made his appearance.

He was Mr. Tompkins, the Governor's private secretary, who had been sent as a special messenger to bear the reprieve, which was handed to the sheriff, who read it aloud. Up to this time no emotion had been shown by either prisoner. The woman's stolidity then gave way and she became hysterical. Jacobs, although evidently terrified at first, now became more composed. The crowd in the inclosure loudly murmured their disappointment, but the two figures on the gallows uttered not a word.

The black caps were quickly removed from their faces, the nooses slipped from around their heads, the cords which bound their legs and arms cut loose and the two wretches were quietly conducted back to their cells in the jail.

THE JESSE JAMES STYLE.

Gamblers Held Up at Noon and Forced to Surrender Their Money.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 15.—A boldly conceived robbery, which has a touch of the Jesse James method, occurred about the noon hour here.

Samuel Wagner & Son keep a palatial saloon, with gambling rooms upstairs, at No. 10 South Main street. During the past three days a stranger, who claimed Chattanooga, Tenn., as his home, has been playing faro bank and lost a large sum of money. Early in the morning the stranger went broke and begged for a loan. Sam Wagner, Sr., accommodated him and the stranger signed "E. E. Poleng" to a receipt. Poleng went out and lost $10 against another faro bank. With the remainder he bought himself a double-action revolver.

At noon Poleng entered Wagner's gambling rooms. Steve and Bill Le Compte, well-known gamblers, and S. Wagner, Sr., were the only occupants of the room. Pulling out his revolver, Poleng ordered Wagner to hand over the bank roll.

"I will kill two of you and then shoot myself," grimly said the robber. The roll, amounting to $196, was handed out and Poleng coolly made his escape, presenting his revolver at several persons who attempted to detain him. No trace of him has yet been found.

Many Caught by the Bogus Company.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The closed offices of the agents of the American Trust Company, at 173 Broadway, are visited daily by out of town people who have lost money by the company. The manager of the concern, Adelbert L. Eastman, has disappeared. During the past 24 hours complaints have come from various towns in Maine, saying that people there have trusted their money to the American Trust Company and are sufferers.

Affairs in Samoa.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The State Department has received a dispatch from Consul-General Sewell, at Samoa, in reference to affairs on the Samoan Islands. The dispatch states that Chief Mataafa has been slightly restless, but no serious trouble is anticipated.

CITIES OF THE UNION.

Interesting Comparisons Published by the Census Office.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The Census Office has just issued a bulletin on the social statistics of cities of the United States. The returns are yet incomplete, but the statement comprising 50 of the cities is given.

From the tables it appears that the annual cost of each gas lamp in cities varies from $50 in New Orleans to $17.50 in Hoboken, while the annual cost of each electric lamp varies from $440.67 in San Francisco to $68 in Chicago.

The bulletin shows that gas lamps comprise more than 60 per cent. of all classes used for street lighting, but are rarely used exclusively for that purpose.

In cities of less than 100,000 inhabitants there is an average of 8.75 patrolmen to the square mile and 4.08 miles of street to each patrolman who makes annually an average of 51 arrests. The cost of the force to each head of population is $0.78, varying from $1.26 in New Haven to $0.60 in Nashville.

The average death rate in the police force of all the cities is 55 per 1,000, varying from 197 per 1,000 in Lowell, and 133 per 1,000 in Hoboken to 12 per 1,000 in New York city, 15 per 1,000 in Minneapolis and 139 per 1,000 in Hartford.

In twenty-two cities of over 100,000 inhabitants each the average annual cost of the fire department to each head of population is $0.81, varying from $1.78 in Boston and $1.06 in New York city to $0.64 in Chicago, $0.60 in Philadelphia, $0.70 in Brooklyn, $0.62 in St. Louis, $0.35 in Baltimore, $1.15 in San Francisco and $0.92 in Cincinnati.

In twenty-one cities of over 100,000 inhabitants each the total loss by fire during 1889 was $2.20 to each head of population, ranging from $6.27 in Buffalo, $3.82 in St. Louis and $3.11 in Brooklyn to $1.11 in Baltimore, $1.02 in Newark and $0.55 in Washington.

IRON WORKERS STARVING.

Thousands of Men Thrown Out of Work in England.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Owing to the depression in the iron trade operations at many of the principal iron works in the Cumberland district have been suspended for some time past, and the inability of the workmen to procure employment is causing the most acute distress.

Six thousand men have been thrown out of employment, and a large number have earned nothing for a year. Many families have struggled along, hoping for better times, but hope of the works again starting up has been abandoned now, and the outlook for the coming winter is one of the gloomiest nature.

The families of the iron workers—men, women and children—show traces of the privations they have suffered, and it is an absolute fact that hundreds of them are on the verge of starvation.

So serious has the situation become that the authorities have decided to start public works to give employment to the many idle men in the district and thus avert the famine which is threatened.

MURDERERS AT LARGE.

The Hope Fugitives Said to be Hiding in New York State.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 15.—The coroner's inquest in the Hope murder case has been adjourned until Monday next, when important evidence is expected. It is now definitely known that the murderers are hiding in the mountains in New York State. They have been seen, and no doubt will be captured before many days.

The negro arrested cannot be identified and has been discharged. Some new developments are expected very soon that will throw some light on the identity of the murdered man.

Canadian Papers Seized.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The postoffice authorities here have seized a number of Canadian newspapers containing advertisements of lottery companies doing business in Canada. The seizure is made in conformity with instructions from Washington, which state that such papers, besides all lottery tickets and all letters supposed to contain matter pertaining to the lotteries are liable to customs duty and must be opened in the presence of a customs officer.

An Aged Farmer Hangs Himself.

PERRY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Hiram H. Owen, aged 64 years, a farmer living a short distance from Perry, committed suicide during the morning by hanging. Mr. Owen had been in poor health for the past year, and had not been quite right in his mind at times. His body was found hanging from a tree at 8:45 o'clock this morning. It is supposed he left the house about 2 o'clock.

Boulanger Talking Once More.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Gen. Boulanger, in an interview with an Austrian journalist, is represented as having asserted that an offensive and defensive alliance between France and Russia has been actually signed. He declared, it is reported, that he himself intends shortly to return to the field of active politics.

Iron Statistics.

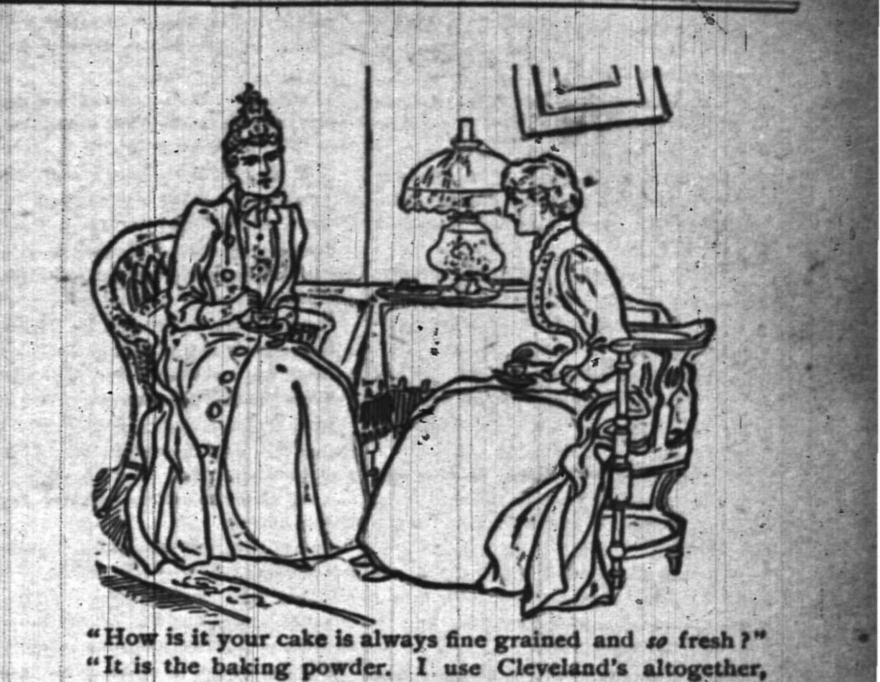
CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 15.—Statistics published here by the Iron Trade Review show that up to August 1 1,998,181 gross tons of iron ore had been laid down at Lake Erie points. This points to a total of about 5,000,000 or 5,500,000 tons for the season, against 6,874,000 tons last year.

Dr. Falkner to Investigate.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Dr. Roland H. Falkner of the University of Pennsylvania has been asked by the Senate Committee on Finance to assume the direction of its coming important investigation into the effect of the McKinley tariff upon wages and the cost of living.

Swindled by Forgers.

RONDOUT, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Two gilt forgers have operated successfully here for the past few days. Many storekeepers and retail merchants have been swindled.



"How is it your cake is always fine grained and so fresh?"
"It is the baking powder. I use Cleveland's altogether, and I always have the same 'good luck.'"

FORCED TO RESIGN

Hayti's Ministry Charged With Corruption.

CENSURED BY THE CHAMBER.

President Hippolyte Busy Forming a New Cabinet.

Another Outbreak Feared at Port au Prince—Excitement in the City—Every Effort Being Made to Restore Quiet. The President of the Chamber of Deputies Says There Will be Serious Trouble.

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, Aug. 15.—A noisy and turbulent session of the Chamber of Deputies was closed with a vote of censure against the members of Hippolyte's Cabinet, and was followed by the Ministers handing their resignations to the President.

Such excitement as prevails has not been experienced since the outbreak of May 28, and many persons expect that similar scenes of bloodshed, if not open rebellion, will result from the proceedings in the Chamber of Deputies.

The debate in the Chamber was a stormy one. Members of that body openly charged the Cabinet Ministers with corruption and incapacity, which caused one of the noisest scenes in the Chamber that any one can remember.

The Ministers were vigorously defended, their opponents as vigorously denounced, but the formal vote of censure for incapacity and corruption was carried amid storms of cheers.

No Ministry could stand against such a vote. Its announcement was followed by the handing of their resignations to President Hippolyte. The President is now busy with the formation of a new Cabinet.

No one ventures to fortell the outcome of the day's action. The city is still comparatively quiet, but it is a quiet that fills the people with alarm because they fear it may be followed by a new political storm like the bloody ones so frequent on this island.

Mr. Deetjen, President of the Chamber of Deputies, says: "The situation is a difficult one. I fear there is trouble ahead that will be hard to overcome."

Many consultations are being held and men anxious about the future are making every effort to restore quiet and avert an outbreak.

WORKING FOR WASHINGTON.

The Democratic Convention May be Held at the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—William Dickson, the Democratic National Committeeman for the District of Columbia, is using every bit of influence he can command to insure the bringing of the next national convention to this city. He has already secured the written approval of three of his fellow-committeemen, Messrs. Barbour, of Virginia; Pasco, of Florida, and Ransom, of North Carolina, and he feels justified in putting down Gorman, of Maryland, and Kenna, of West Virginia, as on his side for local considerations. With these seven votes as good as secured at the outset of his campaign, he is very sanguine of the result.

Released from Prison and Rearrested.

JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 15.—J. Finley Hoke, the notorious Peoria forger, who got away with $180,000 belonging to the Merchants' National Bank of that place, where he was employed as bookkeeper, was released from the penitentiary during the afternoon. His sentence having expired. He was immediately rearrested by Sheriff Berry of Peoria, and will be taken to Peoria to be tried on another indictment. There are 19 indictments against Hoke.

New Haven and Providence Dropped.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Eastern Association, at the Kenmore Hotel, the New Haven and Providence clubs were officially dropped from the League. The schedule committee immediately went into session and are now working on a new schedule, the Association to continue with six clubs. The matter of the attached property of the Association at Providence was not brought up.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Kirk Mooney had a hand badly torn by an ice pick on one of Tier's ice wagons yesterday.

—The Orange Wheelmen and the Englewood Wheelmen will enjoy a road run to Plainfield to-morrow.

—A regular meeting of Easter Lodge, Knights of Honor, will be held next Monday evening in the Stillman building.

—Borough Magistrate T. B. Crosley had little judicial business during July. The amount of fines collected was only $12.

—The city collector of New Brunswick, announces that he will have either the poll tax or the body of every male resident.

—Warren Engine company, No. 1, has added $25 to its firemen's relief fund by filling with water a tank in a Plainfield house.

—The grocers' association of this city will have a gala day at Boynton Beach, Monday, Sept. 7, to which all their friends are invited.

—Charles Williams was adjudged not guilty of being North Plainfield's flower thief, by the court at Somerville, yesterday, and was discharged.

—Mrs. Ellis expects to be at the song service in the W. C. T. U. rooms to-night, at 6:45, to give a recitation, accompanied by music.

—Great bargains are being offered by VanEmburgh & White for the coming week. This house believes in doing a rushing business all the year 'round, and to do it will sell goods at about actual cost.

—John Reedy, the Bound Brook man who was shot and clubbed by marshal Anderson in rescuing Anderson from the assault of a rough, is recovering from his injuries, at the Muhlenberg Hospital, and will be sent home next week.

—The borough has been compelled to follow the example of the city in borrowing money in anticipation of taxes. Last night the clerk was instructed to borrow $75 for use on Somerset street, $500 for use on other thoroughfares, and $100 for general purposes.

—As fine an excursion as ever went from Plainfield will be that of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., to Rockaway Beach, on the new and magnificent steamer General Slocum, August 21. The object is a most worthy one, being for the post's relief fund, and all ought to patronize it.

—Friday, the 28th inst., is the day set for the Warren Mission excursion to Ocean Grove. If the weather is pleasant a large excursion will leave Plainfield at 8 o'clock. The Dunellen Presbyterian Sunday-school go with them. The price of tickets from Plainfield is the same as last year, $1.25.

—When the borough residents set out to get anything, they are usually in earnest. At last night's meeting of the North Plainfield Council a number of petitions for electric street lamps were presented. All were very emphatic, and one of them concluded with the expression "We want these lights". The matter of granting the lights was referred to the proper committee.

—The Salvation Army all over the country has been raising what it calls a self-denial fund. The Plainfield corps is credited with giving nearly $100, which is more than any other corps in the country gave, except New York and Minneapolis. And the Plainfield corps is a new one, too. To the assiduous labors of Adjutant Leyh and Lieutenant Watkins the success of the subscription here is due.

Knights Templar's Day.

Thursday, August 27, will be a great day at Atlantic City—it will be Knights Templar's Day. Damascus Commandery, No. 5, of Newark, have arranged for an excursion train on that day, and will attend in a body, accompanied by their friends. They will leave Newark at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 27th on a special fast express train, and will have over seven hours of pleasure at the largest and finest summer resort on the New Jersey coast. The tickets are placed at $3.50 each. A number of members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, of this city, with friends, will accompany Damascus on their pilgrimage. Those of the public desiring to participate in this excursion may procure tickets of Wm. H. Sebring, 27 Park avenue.

A Handicap Tennis Tournament.

There will be a handicap tennis tournament for ladies' singles and gentlemen's singles and doubles, held on the grounds of the Hillside Tennis club, Saturday, Sept. 5, and Labor Day, Sept. 7. Entries may be made to any of the committtee on or before Thursday evening, Sept. 3.

Prizes will be awarded to winners. The committee in charge is composed of: Howard W. Beebe, Charles E Schneedy, Ernest L. Walz, jr., and James P. Murray.

A Catskill Physician.

I give to Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills the credit of doing more for me than all other medicines combined for the Acid Stomach and Indigestion with which I have suffered 15 years. I now relish my food, have so much comfort after eating, and have added 10 lbs. to my weight. I have seen 45 years of active practice, and have done a larger business than any other doctor in Greene Co., yet I have never felt better than of late.

E. B. MACKEY, M. D.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. T. Logan Murphy is at Lucerne, to-day.

Choirmaster Miner, of the Holy Cross church, is in Chicago.

Seymour L. Smith, of Grandview avenue, is at Pluckamin.

Miss Helen Metzler, of Brooklyn, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. W. Walker, of Grant avenue.

Borough Councilman Charles P. Sebring is slowly recovering from a dangerous attack of pleurisy.

The Rev. W. E. Honeyman has gone to Dover, Morris county, for a visit at the former home of his wife.

F. M. Derby and family begin to-day the enjoyment of the pleasantest season of the year, at Ocean Grove.

Letter carrier John Mackey is enjoying his annual vacation visiting old comrades and battle grounds around Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Townsend H. Fellows, of Albany, are visiting their mother, Mrs. A. L. Fellows, and their sister, Miss Blanche Fellows, of 87 Duer street.

Miss Mattie Humble, of this city, is enjoying the cool mountain air with her grandmother, Mrs. Martha Mundy, on the top of the mountain, at the rear of Bound Brook.

The Rev. L. E. Livermore, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church of New Market, will occupy the Rev. Mr. Schenck's pulpit, at the Trinity Reformed church, to-morrow, morning and evening.

William Tilden is making for himself a beautiful summer home at Chimney Rock. He has built a cottage among the heights, and is going to build a fine dam at the old burned mill and construct a pretty artificial lake.

William F. Arnold, assistant cashier of the City National bank, and Arthur M. Griffen, have just returned from a week at Barnegat. They report the catch of the two boats in which they fished, as 2,500 lbs. of sea bass, etc.

The Rev. Mr. Martine, of Dunellen, will occupy the pulpit of the Flemington Presbyterian church to-morrow. Mr. Martine was recently called to the pastorate of the church at Dunellen of which the Rev. Mr. Stinson was formerly pastor.

Seymour Hait, for many years a resident of this city, died at his home, Highland, N. Y., last evening at 5:30 o'clock. Funeral services will be held there tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery at noon of Monday.

Mrs. John Roulstone, wife of a former hotel proprietor of Scotch Plains, died at the home of her son-in-law, Alexander Messler, in that town, Thursday. She was sixty-four years of age. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 3 o'clock. Interment at Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

Harry Smith, general superintendent of all the Edison electric light plants in New York city, is negotiating for the purchase of forty acres of land in Washington valley. It is now the property of A. H. Wilmont, and part of what is so well known as the Wolf Hill farm. Mr. Smith intends erecting a handsome and spacious home thereon.

Prof. Holmes, who preaches every Sunday at the Crescent Avenue church, during the absence of the Rev. Mr. Richards, delivered such a magnificent sermon on "Peter's Memory" last Sunday that many who heard it have requested its repetition. He will therefore repeat it at the W. C. T. U rooms, 73 West Front street, at 4 p. m. to-morrow.

Messrs. Wm. F. Arnold and Arthur Griffen returned yesterday from a few days' trip to Barnegat, where they had extraordinary luck and sport in catching fish, having as their guide the well-known and popular William Morris, of Point Pleasant, who kindly remembered friends in this city with fine messes of fish when the above-mentioned gentlemen returned home.

The Rev. J. A. M. Chapman, of Philadelphia, who is to preach in the Methodist church to-morrow, both morning and evening, is one of the most accomplished and eloquent preachers in the country. His sermons while highly polished are of a deeply spiritual character, and so entertaining that every one thinks the half-hour, beyond which he never goes under any circumstances, all too short.

Somerville Prisoners.

Cases in the Somerset county court were disposed of as follows yesterday:

Wm. Hadley, charged with larceny of a coat and vest, valued at $18; sentence suspended.

James Bonner, charged with assault and resisting an officer; sentence suspended.

Charles Williams, charged with entrance and larceny; discharged.

Frank Harrington, charged with assault on wife; sentence suspended. Rearrested on the charge of non-support.

Randolph Hollen, charged with assault on his sister; trial set down for Wednesday, Aug. 19.

Johnson, colored, charged with attempted assault and robbery of a white woman in her bedroom in North Plainfield, pleaded not guilty; trial set down for Wednesday, Aug. 19.

Wanted—A Councilman

The borough wants a councilman to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Newton B. Smalley. Robert F. Currie, who was elected to the office, has declined on account of ill-health, which compels him to take a long rest from active labors.

CREDITORS DISSATISFIED.

Serious Charges Made Concerning the Failure of M. A. Higgins.

Justice Nash to-day stopped Michael A. Higgins, the livery stable man, from doing any further business until a settlement of his affairs has been reached. Higgins has a large number of creditors, whose total claims exceed $4,000, and whose only securities consist of chattel mortgages on his stages and other goods. The creditors are far from satisfied with Higgins's methods, and may, it is thought, find it necessary to proceed against their debtor to punish him for alleged peculiar transactions as well as to recover the amounts due to them. It is alleged that Higgins repeatedly mortgaged the same property to secure loans, each time intimating that it had hitherto been unencumbered. Hence each creditor fancied himself holder of a first mortgage, when in several cases there were others ahead of him. Those having charge of the legal settlement of Higgins's affairs claim that it will be a hard task to find out in just what order the debts were incurred. A sale of the debtor's property will take place Monday. It is estimated that about $2,500 will be realized, which will pay something over 50 per cent. of the debts.

Four of the chief creditors of Higgins are James Clark, William Woodruff, Eugene Laing and A. D. Thompson, who are acting in concert in the effort to get a true accounting from Higgins. Charles A. Reed is counsel for Thompson, and John H. VanWinkle for the others.

One Journalist's Opinion of Another.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Will you kindly allow me to say that the personal in yesterday's issue, credited to the Asbury Park Journal, has no reference to the undersigned. He has had business dealings with the New York Sun, but has never been connected with that newspaper and never claimed to be. He has not been in Asbury Park or Ocean Grove in six years. He trusts that it is needless for him to add that he has never been guilty of the remark imputed to him.

The editor of the Asbury Park Journal should know that the words that he puts into the mouth of the person he names are as old and commonplace as they are witless and vulgar. A standing rule in all reputable newspaper offices excludes them. If he intentionally allowed them to get into his columns and thus gain circulation he betrays ignorance of the A B C of newspaper ethics. If he is in the habit of printing such notices of the gentlemen who have the misfortune to stray across his path, he should be stripped stark naked, an iron run through both cheeks and his tongue, his left ear sawed off with a penknife, the right ear connected with the big toe of his left foot by a wire one foot long, and in this condition he should be served with vinegar and pepper upon the largest table of the largest boarding house beanery on the ocean front. He would make good chicken salad, he is so tender, green and fresh.

WALTER N. CHAMBERLIN.

River Carnival at Bound Brook.

Arrangements are about completed for a carnival to be held on the Raritan River, either Tuesday or Wednesday evening, August 25 or 26.

The squadron will consist of six or eight companies of four boats each, all beautifully illuminated. Among the decorations carried will be seen forms of an arrow, comet, domino, serpent, ship, beacon, scythe, star, heart, cornucopia, crescent, and ace of clubs. The boats will be manned by the young men of the town, and loaded to the gunwale with fairy forms. A drill of the whole fleet will be given, consisting of about twenty-five formations.

The bridge will be brilliantly lighted, and Bartow's band, stationed on a float fifty feet below the bridge, will make the evening merry with music. Displays of fireworks will be given from the river banks, the fleet, and the water surface.

—The Borough Council will meet next Monday evening to consider tax matters.

An American War Ship Wanted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson writes to a friend in this city from Apia, under date of July 16, as follows: "We live in constant tumult of threatened war and massacre of the whites. There are no men-of-war here but one German ship, and that doesn't count, as it only makes more trouble. I wish our country would send us a ship."

Murphy Won the Fight.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Advices from Sydney, N. S. W., state that the prize fight between Billy Murphy and Young Griffin, for a purse of $1,250 and the lightweight championship of the world, ended in Murphy winning in 17 rounds.

Anthracite Coal to Advance.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—The Reading Coal and Iron Company announces that prices of anthracite coal at tide will be advanced Sept. 1, as follows: Egg and chestnut 15 cents and stove 20 cents.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

News from the Dory Racers.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Captain Waite of the British steamer Barrowmore, from Baltimore, reports that on August 10 he spoke the American dory, Mermaid, in latitude 47, N., longitude 35, W. Captain Andrews, of the dory, stated that he was well and his boat in good condition. The dory Sea Serpent, with which the Mermaid started on a race across the Atlantic, arrived at Caverack, August 5.

The Seized Fishing Boats.

EASTPORT, Me., Aug. 15.—The six fishing boats recently seized by the Dominion cruiser Dream are at Indian Island, N. B. Captain Pratt of the Dream offers to give them up to the owners providing they sign a paper waiving an indemnity. One owner signed, and the others refused. The opinion is prevalent that the Dream will deliver all the boats at the wharves here.

Arrested for Wire Tapping.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 15.—Detectives have arrested John McGinnis on a charge of wire tapping. McGinnis had equipped a room adjoining a pool room with telegraph apparatus and tapped the loop running from the main wire into the pool room. He had everything all prepared for a grand coup when he was captured. McGinnis came here from Albany, N. Y.

Found Dead in Bed.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug 15.—A special telegram fro Bay City, Mich., states that Charles B. Collins of Little Falls, N. Y., was found dead in bed at the residence of his cousin, Mrs. Randall, during the morning. He came to Michigan to attend the Grand Army Encampment, and then came to Bay City to visit relatives. He was a prominent Odd Fellow.

Sprang in Front of a Train.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 15.—An unknown but well dressed man of 35 years sprang in front of a rapidly moving train here during the morning. He was struck and instantly killed, his body being horribly mangled. Both legs were severed at the waist and his body was crushed out of all recognition.

Killed in a Quarrel.

GENEVA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—In a quarrel yesterday John Welch, aged 70 years, owner of a farm north of this place, was terribly kicked and beaten by Daniel Cameron, the lessee, and died at 7 a. m. The trouble grew out of a demand for the rent money, which Cameron was unable to pay.

Balmaceda Swings an Axe.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The Chilian Congressional envoys in Washington have received advices from Chili which they say confirm the statements heretofore made that President Balmaceda had removed all the judges in the country and had appointed other persons in their places.

Eloped With a Negro.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Miss Nettie Shaw (white), 18 years old, daughter of a well-to-do farmer of Marbletown, near here, eloped with James Cantine, aged 28, a colored man, yesterday. The couple were married by Justice Brill, of this city. The parents of Miss Shaw will endeavor to separate them.

OUR "Y. S. F". BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2 00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. EXTENDING ITS GRASP.

The Water Supply Company Now Reaching Out for Borough Patronage.

The Plainfield Water Supply company seem determined to extend their water-works system into the borough of North Plainfield, but their treatment of the Borough Council in the matter is as courteous as it is decided. In a communication to the Council last night the company announced that the works in Plainfield city would be fully completed by Sept. 1, and that the company were prepared to extend the system through the borough, acting under its old State charter, during September. The company desired, however, to act in harmony with the Council, and suggested that the Council appoint representatives to discuss with the company the plans for the extension. The matter was put into the hands of a special committee, consisting of Councilmen Hegeman, Hummer and Buckle, to be reported on at the next regular meeting of the Council.

Tom Keller and the Crescents.

[From The Harkinstown Democrat.]

The Crescents felt confident of winning last Saturday's game, providing they could hit that man Harkins. During the time previous to the game they held mysterious conferences. They gathered in groups of threes and fours and exchanged valuable hints, while Harkins was in the box, and so cheerful and encouraged were they that smiles ornamented each face from Keller to Lufbery. While the West Enders were practicing Keller gathered his men around him, and informed them that there was no use in being afraid of swift pitching. "Stand up and hit at it freely and boldly", said the great Tee Kay. Whereupon he expanded his chest and looked very, very fierce. The three ex-managers stood on the outskirts of the mass meeting with cold, chilly smiles on their Plainfield countenances, and saying to themselves "just as if Tom Keller could manage the team so they could win a game from the West Ends." But he did! After shaking hands all around and assuring each other that Harkins would shortly be the chief mourner at a surprise party, the Crescents waited for Umpire Faas to give the word. Meanwhile Harkins, all unconscious of the plot to wreck his reputation as a pitcher, was smiling in his old way and was pitching a few swift ones to Riley to get his hand in, while the latter was hopping around like a chicken on a red-hot stove. When the contest got under way the Crescents tried to apply their recipes, but someh ow they failed to work. Bonner roared from the coach line at first base, Lee from the third base line, and Kellar from the bench. The burden of their vocal dynamite was "line her out". But the strong-limbed, broad-shouldered young man from New Brunswick grinned audibly and threw the ball with such speed the human eye colud not follow it, and so they secured only four hits, two in the first and two in the fifth, and one of these a home run. Still they won. And why? Just by an odd complexion of circumstances which oftentimes loses a game, when a team has it well in hand. Such was the case on Saturday. It was just like the Westfield game—pure luck, not good playing.

It Has, in Somerville and Plainfield.

We are sorry to see the Somerville Unionist-Gazette denying Plainfield baseball cranks the little pleasure they can get out of the single victory of their local team over the Somerville champions. The latter have wiped up the diamond, as it were, with the Plainfield team time and again, and because the city of the plain saw her pets, at last, refuse to bite the dust, she is, forsooth, chided for wearing a "proud look", and is taunted with obtaining a victor only by "accident." Has the base-ball contest come to this?—Elizabeth Journal.

The People Are Not Celebrating the Success of Boss Kean's Selfish Schemes.

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

To-morrow is to be a notable day in Plainfield's history. President Frank Bergen, of the Water Supply company, has announced that on that day the water will be turned into the mains for the use of those who have made necessary connections. If there is to be any public celebration of the event, the Journal has not heard of it. Some towns make a great demonstration over the opening of public works of that sort.

Borough Fire Wells to be Cleaned.

The recommendation of foreman George H. Fairchild and THE PRESS that the borough fire wells be cleaned out was adopted at last night's session of the North Plainfield Council. Councilman Hegeman reported that the wells were choked up with mud and sand, and that there was little water in them. This, he held, was a dangerous condition of affairs. The committee on fire, water and lamps were authorized to have the wells put in proper condition.

Fell for Want of Sleep.

Wm. Kicsy, a farmer who lives one mile from Liberty Corners, drove into town yesterday. He had lost a great deal of sleep of late, and was in such a dazed condition when he reached the Plainfield Beef company's office that he fell out of his wagon. His face was terribly bruised, and he is now a patient at the Muhlenberg Hospital.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

THE STAGE AND ITS PEOPLE.

Notes of the New York Theatres and Gossip About the Profession.

[From THE PRESS' Special Correspondent.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Theatrical circles just now are bubbling and boiling with the busy, bustling preparations for the great tidal wave of farce comedies, thinly disguised specialty shows and kindred absurdities which is soon to be turned loose upon an unhappy public. A few of the best of these will probably make some money. The rest, I am afraid will be put to the sad necessity of balancing their books with the acquired wisdom of unpalatable experience. The American people are ever ready to revolt against monotony and they may be certain of the infliction this season. There will be a few exceptions, however, in the way of wholesome legitimate comedy and plays of real dramatic worth. An abundant harvest of success will undoubtedly be gathered by these attractions. A few of these were introduced last season; the rest are new.

Charles Frohman's "Jane", which was presented here for the first time last week, is proving a remarkably strong magnet at the Madison Square, crowded houses being the rule in spite of the almost insufferable weather prevailing here. "Jane's" drolleries, in fact, have a tendency to drive away the blues and make the "stay-at-homes" forget the summer heat. Mr. Frohman, who is a shrewd judge of the public wants in the amusement line, has decided to send out two "Jane" companies this season. Possibly one may go to Plainfield.

Sprightly Rose Coghlan will also give a new comedy, "Dorothy's Dilemma" at the Park theater next week. It is an adaptation from the German by that brainy young journalist, Leopold Jordan, and ought to prove highly interesting. A feature of the piece will be a dashing bit of horseback work—man fashion—by Miss Coghlan, in the disguise of a British officer of dragoons. George Wotherspoon of your city is her manager. There is talk of her appearing in Plainfield early in March.

Abbott & Teal's successful comedy, "Niobe", is another attraction of the higher order soon to be seen here. It is to follow "A High Roller" at the Bijou, and great things are expected of it. Three or four new people have been engaged for the New York run. "A High Roller", by the way, has been rewritten throughout and the performance generally renovated.

Richard Mansfield continues to good business at the Garden theater. He has added "Dr. Jeykel and Mr. Hyde" this week to his usual repertoire of "Don Juan", "Beau Brummell", "Prince Karl", and "A Parisian Romance."

Comic opera is still in high favor here with the patrons of the Casino, the Broadway and Palmer's. The present hot spell though, has had a material effect upon business and the management of the respective houses are grumbling in consequence. There is a prospect of abundant operatic entertainment here this season. The Casino will continue its regular course with several new offerings, while Francis Wilson goes into the Broadway in October to stay for the winter. Ben Stern announces that his partner, Marcus Mayer, is also negotiating with manager Oscar Hammerstein to open the latter's new Manhattan Opera house when it is completed next January with Mme. Patti and a strong Italian Opera company. This, of course, is in opposition to Henry E. Abbey's Grand Opera company at the Metropolitan. The Mayer-Stern contingent are just heralding Mrs. Bernard Beere for an American tour. During the season a number of intermittent productions of comic opera will also be seen here, including the impending production of Emma Steiner's "Fleurette" at the Standard and of "Miss Helyett" at the Star theater in November.

Much speculative comment is being heard just now concerning J. H. Haverly's return to the field of theatricals, in which he was once such a power. Mr. Haverly says he intends pursuing a modest course and will confine his managerial efforts to one attraction, "The Volunteer", a kind of military melodrama. "Jack" says he has had enough of minstrelsy and mastodonic enterprises.

I am sure that everybody will be glad to hear that Mr. and Mrs. McKee Rankin have become reconciled. A mutual friend has brought this about and as he has money he intends starring Mr. and Mrs. Rankin this season in "The Danites."

Frank McKee, general manager for Hoyt & Thomas has transferred his headquarters to the Madison Square theater, which, at the conclusion of the present run of "Jane", will pass into the exclusive control of that enterprising firm. The name of A. M. Palmer will then disappear from all bills and programmes of the house.

Prof. Hermann and his indefatigable manager, W. H. Morton, have made a hit with Broadway strollers by enlarging the entrance and portico of their elegant little theatre. The change is a wonderful improvement and everybody marvels why it was not done before.

Speaking of Hermann reminds me that manager George Washington Lederer has again wrested Wolfe Falk from the professor's legal grip. It is an everlasting game of battledore and shuttlecock, which is highly amusing to everybody but Falk. Poor Falk! A treasurer's lot is not a happy one.

Matthews & Smythe, alias Reed and Collier, alias "Hoss and Hoss", have been rehearsing so long in the Metropolitan Opera House that the piece has grown to such proportions they are all in a quandary how to reduce it to the size of one night stands.

There is less talk and more work about "A Country Circus", Klaw & Erlanger's forthcoming production, than with the majority of companies. The firm in this case pin their faith to the old maxim of "Still waters run deep". In conjunction with C. B. Jefferson, they also control "The County Fair" and "The Soudan".

After a fitful career in England, Loie Fuller returns to her first love, Uncle Sam. She is soon to begin a joint starring tour with Louis DeLange in "Quack, M. D.", under the management of popular Nat Roth.

Judging by some of the people engaged, Gus Pitou's stock company promises to cut an important figure in theatricals this season.

D. A. Bonta, who was A. M. Palmer's chief of staff at the Madison Square theater, has branched out for himself. He and Nelson Roberts are to be joint managers of Kate Claxton in a repertoire of standard successes.

In spite of the numerous financial embarrassments that have been wildly accredited to him, J. M. Hill and his whiskers are conspicuous among those managers who have a mortgage upon success this season. His Union Square and Standard theaters will present some of the strongest attractions in the country during the fall and winter.

That young woman Evelyn Granville, whose "common-law" husband, Bertram Webster, recently killed Charles Goodwin, owes her distinction as an "actress" to the fact that she tried to be one for a few nights some years ago and miserably failed. She has not since been in any way connected with the stage.

The substantial manner in which Henry C. Miner is building his new Fifth Avenue theatre looks like a promise that New York shall at last have a really fire-proof place of amusement. FRANK DUPREE.

Advertise in THE PRESS.

Advertising as an Investment.

Advertising is a tax on him who so regards it. Only when he has learned to look upon it as an investment, and treat it as such, giving it his time and thought, will it develop into a thing that pays. Newspaper advertising space, like most other kinds of property, has two values; to wit, what it costs the advertiser and what it is worth to him. Therefore, in buying it, he should consider its character as well as its price.—The Roller Mill.

A Boon to Man.

The newspaper advertising columns are a boon to man. They help him out of his troubles and into the smiles of prosperity. If Truth is contemplating the erection of a new arch, she cannot do a more consistent thing than to choose for its keystone:

He who in this world would rise
Must read the papers and advertise.
—Chicago Herald.

A Striking Advertisement.

A certain advertisement, printed fully ten years ago, is still recalled as having been to this effect: "Two-thirds of your life is spent in your clothes. Why not have comfortable clothes?" It was a truism of course, but put in that form and with the "two-thirds" printed boldly as a fraction it was peculiarly striking.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cannot Afford to Stop.

There is a reason why a business that has been built up by advertising cannot afford to stop or change its tactics. The class of trade that has been secured is the kind that is influenced by advertising, and he who would hold it must continue using the same means.—Printers' Ink.

The Keystone of Success.

Because a man is doing a big business and making money is no reason why he should not make more, and many a millionaire has found that letting people know what he had to sell was the keystone of success.—Rome (N. Y.) Tribune.

Don't Encourage Peddlers.

Give peddlers the "go by" and deal with your home merchants, who show they desire your patronage by advertising in your home paper.—Exchange.

TURNED OUT TO GRASS.

Mr. Fielding Finds Himself a Conversational Failure.

The Story of Uncle Lem Drew's White Horse and His Peculiar Method of Making a Living—Two Extracts from a Diary.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

I have always considered my conversational powers to be much above the average. My remarks have almost never failed to interest and instruct my hearers. They have a convincing force which influences even my wife. I can bring her to a reasonable view of any question by persistently taking the wrong side of it.

In the course of time there might have grown up in me an unbecoming vanity regarding this gift of eloquence, if it had not been ordained that I should come to Grimesville. My brief sojourn here has added the finishing touch to the modesty of my nature. The Grimesville rustic is polite. He does not interrupt me when I talk. But he listens to my brilliant comments on topics of the day with a weary resignation, as if he were suffering from a gentle, monotonous backache which he had learned to bear, but could not hope to cure.

I have tried telling stories, some of them founded upon fact, and others founded simply upon a desire to make my auditor relax the sad and wooden composure of his visage, but all to no avail. There must be an exceptionally lurid liar somewhere in these parts; for, whereas in New York I was considered good enough to write for the newspapers, I am little better than a truthful man in Grimesville.

My conversational failure is especially painful when I am called upon to buy the store. It is considered bad form in Grimesville to make a purchase as if it were merely a commercial transaction. The venerable merchant who has kept his store—and a large part of his stock—since 1861, will feel offended if one offers him no more than money for his goods. It is necessary for him to hang around the store and talk a bit, and take a social shot or two at the square box of sawdust in front of the stove. As I chew nothing but gum, and cannot interest these people by any conversational endeavor, my social failure is complete and hopeless.

The first time I went to the store, I made the unfortunate error of trying to be funny. I called attention to a couple of advertising cards which were tacked up in such a way that the combined result was this:

THY BRUSH'S FOOD FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS.
THEY DO NOT DIE IN THIS HOUSE.

My remark was a good one, but the storekeeper did not even smile. Instead he explained his lack of interest in a way that was almost too satisfactory by saying that a "durned fool" had been in the store the day before and had said the same thing.

When I visited the store again, I took Maude for protection. A lack of interest on the part of her auditor will never check the easy flow of her conversation. Frequently, when we disagree upon a subject, she will continue to present her view of it to me for an hour or more after I have fallen asleep. I have often waked up and caught her at it. She should be exactly the person to converse with old Jones, the storekeeper.

I prepared her for the interview by saying that old Jones had passed far beyond an interest in ordinary human affairs, but she replied that a man never did know how to make himself agreeable to strangers, and that the lack of neighborly feeling was all on my side.

"Try to enter more intimately into the simple affairs of these people," she said. "Get hold of a little bit of gossip, and see whether it fails to please. Just watch me talk to Mr. Jones, and you will learn how to get into the good graces of your new associates."

I think Maude made a special endeavor to capture some item of Grimesville scandal to barter for old Jones' friendly regard. The result was not what I should have expected. I had always supposed that women could hear those things anywhere without the slightest effort. In this case, however, Maude was obliged to fall back upon a story which was more than seventeen years old, and was known to everybody within ten miles of the place. It related to our neighbor, Lemuel Drew, whom I have elsewhere mentioned as the meanest white man outside of politics. This was the gist of it:

Uncle Lem once owned an old white horse. Years of experience with the hospitalities of Uncle Lem's stable had graven upon the countenance of this animal an expression of mournful and hungry despondency. The sexton of the village church, a man with a fine idea of propriety, one day detected Uncle Lem's horse shedding the bitter tears of hope deferred as a load of hay rolled out of Uncle Lem's barn. Thereupon the sexton, who was also the town clerk, made a "dicker" whereby he secured the services of the old white horse to draw the hearse at two dollars a trip payable by the town. Thus it happened that Stephen Drew, who in life would have been charged the regular hire, had one free ride behind his brother's horse. Uncle Lem sent in his bill to the town, but the feelings of the community were shocked, and payment was refused. He brought suit, was most unjustly defeated; and, then, as the story goes, announced publicly that he would take the amount of the bill and costs of court out of the rations of the horse on the installment plan. Uncle Lem seems to have played in hard luck all around in this affair, for the horse concluded that he could pay the debt of nature easier than that which the town owed Uncle Lem.

I do not understand how Maude could have hoped to establish a bond of sympathy between herself and old Jones with the aid of this ancient story, but she made the effort. When we approached the store old Jones put on his customary mask of utter indifference. He sat outside, with his chair tilted back against the door-post, and made no move to enter as we came in sight. He didn't wish to talk; he had no desire to trade; he appeared to be absorbed in melancholy musing. A thin young man named Weeks was lounging near by, and looked as if he were making an imitative study of Jones' lifeless taciturnity. Maude peered in at the door.

"You have a very nice, clean-looking store, Mr. Jones," said she. "Can I go in and get weighed?"

"There's a bushel o' pertaters on the scales," replied Jones, "maybe I'll take 'em off bimeby."

"Oh, no indeed," said Maude; "I couldn't think of putting you to all that trouble. I'll come over some other time."

"Just as you say," responded Jones. He took his right leg off his left, wearily, and crossed them the other way, laboriously, assisting the operation with his right hand. Then he rubbed the small of his back with his right hand and sighed.

"Do you keep candy, Mr. Jones?" asked Maude.

"I got some lemon stick," said Jones.

"But I want some chocolates and marsh mallows," said Maude.

"Ain't got any," replied the merchant of Grimesville. "Had some up from the city week before last, but it's all gone. Never saw anything like the people in this town. I can't keep nothin'. They buy it all out, an' I have to go to work an' order more."

Old Jones looked much aggrieved, and I felt as if I ought to sympathize with him because trade was so good.

"Have you ordered the chocolates?" asked Maude.

"No; I been waitin' for an agent. He was round last spring an' I expect he'll be here again afore fall."

This evidence of enterprise amused Maude, and she turned away to conceal a smile. Young Weeks detected her, and coughed in a deprecating fashion. She checked herself with a sudden realization that she was not proceeding in the right way to conciliate old Jones, and that I would laugh at her if she failed. In this emergency she fell back upon the scandal.

"You know we're living next to Mr. Lemuel Drew?" said she.

"Be ye?" said Jones.

"Yes; we're taken the house his brother formerly occupied; and, by the way, I heard an awful story about Mr. Drew the other day. I don't believe it's true."

Jones looked interested. Maude smiled hopefully; but young Weeks coughed louder than ever, and made a motion to attract my attention. I moved nearer to him.

"It was about a poor, old white horse he used to own," Maude continued. "They say—"

Here Weeks whispered in my ear "Make your wife quit or she'll get into hot water. Old Jones is a relative of Uncle Lem. His wife's sister married a second cousin o' Lem's first."

Meanwhile Maude was going on with her narrative and warming to her subject, as Jones showed more and more interest. I broke in upon her hurriedly and tried to turn the conversation into harmless channels, but it was too late. I could see by a sullen gleam in the old man's eyes that the mischief was done. I expected that something very disagreeable would happen right on the spot, but it didn't. Old Jones relapsed into his customary cold-blooded calm, and we got away with our small purchases in a peaceful manner.

HERE WEEKS WHISPERED IN MY EAR.

Unhappily, however, that was not the end of the episode. Maude's failure with old Jones was destined to bring far more serious consequences. I learned of their coming from a gentleman whose acquaintance I early endeavored to cultivate. He is well, because of his legal attainments and the fact that he is the local magistrate. One afternoon, not long after Maude's unfortunate experiment with the conclaiming power of gossip, the squire dropped into our yard and took a seat under a tree where I was watching Nina and Sydney playing tennis.

"I'm afraid you're going to have trouble with Uncle Lem," said he. "The old fellow's going to sue you for defamation of character on account of that yarn about the old white horse."

"But, my dear sir," said I, "that old story has been floating around the town for seventeen years, and has been told by every living being in it."

"That don't make any difference," said the squire. "Lem wouldn't dare sue one of the townspeople on that ground, because there was so much feeling about the occurrence at the time. He couldn't get any witnesses for love or money."

"I didn't know witnesses were supposed to be got in that way," said I.

"Lem don't get many for love," replied the squire, "but as for the rest of it, all I can say is, look out for him. It's different with you than it would be with a Grimesvillain. All of Lem's regular witnesses will testify."

"His regular witnesses!" I exclaimed. "Does he keep them as salaried employes?"

"Not exactly, but he uses them pretty regularly. I don't mind telling you that Lem has made the biggest part of his living the last twenty years out of damage suits. When there's an assault and battery or something of that kind in 'em, they come before me, and I usually manage to get the parties to compromise. The law in such cases is mighty complex, and I haven't got any time to waste in looking it up. I size up Uncle Lem's case, look over the witnesses and tell the other fellow what he ought to be willing to pay to get out of it. He usually settles."

"But civil suits go before a jury," I suggested.

"Yes," said he; "they're tried over in Leedsborough and Lem usually wins. Pretty much the same folks are in the jury box over there every time, and they've got to know Uncle Lem and respect him by this time. They know that he'll bring evidence enough to win his case if it takes every liar in this county, and they just naturally throw their votes for him whatever the case may be. I advise you not to face a Leedsborough jury against Uncle Lem. He's had too much experience."

"This is very surprising," said I; "one would suppose that in a quiet, peaceable town like this there would be few occasions for legal proceedings."

"Uncle Lem don't wait for occasions; he makes 'em," replied my legal friend. "Wait till you've lived alongside of him a few months longer. He'll trap you or your cattle into committing a trespass before you know it. Then he'll sue. Didn't it seem strange to you that this house had been so long vacant? Wait and you'll find out why. He'll sue to make you repair the line fence, and then he'll sue to relocate the line fence. Don't you let a tennis ball be batted over into his lot or he'll bring ten men to swear that it killed a chicken worth twenty-five dollars."

I began to be seriously alarmed.

"As to this libel suit," said I, "do you really think he'll bring it?"

"Sure," said the squire. "He's asked me if there's any way that he could get the preliminary proceedings before me. He says law costs more in Leedsborough. I advise you to fix it up. This is your first offense and he'll let you off easy. I think he'll take twenty-five dollars and call it square."

I was much relieved. I had supposed that it would cost ten times as much. It seemed to me that the squire must have used his influence in my favor. At any rate, he fixed the compromise for me in a few days and gave me a legal document wherein Uncle Lem acknowledged satisfaction. But he killed the joy it brought to me by darkly hinting that my money would probably be used by my disputation's neighbor in securing two witnesses for another suit which was soon to be brought.

"That's his way," said the squire. "He works his funds up gradually by compromises till he can afford to take a strong case before a jury."

I begged the squire to stand by me. I made a friend of him in every way I could. To show how thoughtful and persistent were my efforts to win him over, I quote two extracts from my diary. They will show what a hard place I was in at this particular time, and will serve to close this part of my record, for the full iniquity of Uncle Lem and the deep guile of his schemes must be reserved for a later day. These are the extracts:

July 11.—The squire has invited me to his house to play "forty-five." This will be an excellent chance to cultivate an acquaintance with the only man who can save me from Uncle Lem.

July 12—The squire plays a very stiff game. Perhaps it would be cheaper to let the law take its course.

GREAT CELEBRATION

Bennington is Decorated With Flags and Bunting.

STATE TROOPS NOW IN CAMP

The President and Party Will Arrive To-morrow Evening.

Big Crowds Will Witness the Dedication of the Battle Monument—The Guests of the State Will Number 1,500—Two Triumphal Arches Erected—A Choir of 200 Voices to Sing Patriotic Songs.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 17.—This city is one complete wave of bunting and flags in anticipation of the dedication of the Bennington Battle Monument and the Centennial celebration of the admission to the Union of the State of Vermont, which occur this week.

Midway in the city stands the triumphal arch. This arch bears on its eastern side the motto, "1791—the best legacy of Vermont's first century is her son's and daughters—1891." On the opposite side are the following: "1777—You see the redcoats, they are ours, or Mollie Stark sleeps a widow to-night," being the historic words uttered by General Stark as he rallied his men to fight on the field of Bennington. The other side of the same arch has this inscription: "Peace hath her victories, no less renowned than war—1891."

There is also the living arch on which the thirteen original States will be represented by young ladies in costume with banners. As the President passes under this arch in the great procession of Wednesday a choir of 200 will sing "America," "Hail Columbia," "Star Spangled Banner" and other patriotic songs.

Preparing for the great celebration, the Vermont militia are now in camp. Yesterday Cushing's Battery B, U. S. A. arrived. They presented quite a warlike appearance, and were greeted with cheers.

Prominent guests of the State are expected to-day. Among them will be Col. Wheelock G. Veazey and wife, Col. Alidace F. Walker and wife, Gen. Russell A. Alger and wife, Gen. A. S. Webb and son, Hon. B. B. Smalley and wife and ex-Gov. Rice, of Massachusetts. The Presidential party arrives to-morrow evening and will be entertained by Gen. J. G. McCullough. The Hon. E. J. Phelps, orator of the day, and wife are already in town, the guests of Gen. McCullough.

Gov. Page and staff arrived yesterday and went into camp with the Vermont National Guard. It is expected that the guests of the State will number fully 1,500.

For more than 50 years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a monument to commemorate the battle of Bennington. From one cause or another the agitation always lapsed until it was finally brought to a successful issue by the erection of the marble shaft on the site of the Continental Storehouse, the objective point of Col. Baum's expedition in 1777. The cost of the monument and site has been in round numbers $100,000.

WEATHER CROP BULLETIN.

Report on the Condition of the Crops in Several States.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The weather crop bulletin issued by the Weather Bureau reports the condition of the crops as follows:

New England.—Drought severe in central and southeastern portions; pastures suffering, also wells and cisterns very low. Corn has grown well. Potatoes promise a large yield, and there is but little not reported. Tobacco promises an excellent yield.

New York.—The oat and barley harvest is progressing favorably, with a large yield in prospect. Corn growing fairly well. Potatoes locally damaged by rot. Severe storm in western counties inflicted damaged on fruit and grain.

Pennsylvania.—The warm, bright weather has been partially favorable for farm work, and has advanced all growing crops. Corn is excellent. Potatoes are the finest crop for years. Tobacco cutting continues. Fruit of all kinds has seldom been as plentiful.

New Jersey.—Conditions have been most favorable for corn, vine truck and fruits. Some local damage done by hail and high winds prostrating corn.

Saw Her Father's Lifeless Body.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 17.—As Annie Longdergelt, the 15-year-old daughter of Theodore Longdergelt, entered her room last evening, she saw hanging by a rope from over the inner door the lifeless body of her father. The medical examiner rendered a verdict of suicide because of despondency. Deceased was 53 years old, and a few weeks ago lost his position at the armory of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company.

Still Hunting for Almy.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 17.—Sheriff Wheeler believes that the man who worked on a farm near Southbury recently under the name of Frank White, and who is supposed now to be Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, is still in this vicinity, and he is organizing a number of searching parties to thoroughly scour the wild country about the Naugatuck Valley.

Chicago's Baby Smoker.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The Illinois Humane Society has decided to prosecute the parents of Leonard Turner, aged 2 years, who, it is alleged, was taught by his father to smoke, beginning when the child was two months old. The child has now become so accustomed to the weed that he cries for his pipe and tobacco.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

BARON HIRSCH'S PLAN.

Getting Ready to Found a New Colony in New Jersey.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 17.—John Moore, the glass manufacturer of Clayton, N. J., who is at present negotiating with Baron Hirsch for the sale of 5,000 acres of land between Woodbine and Mount Pleasant stations, on the West Jersey Railroad, was seen at the Stockton Hotel in reference to the transaction.

At first Mr. Moore declined to talk, saying that the papers had made premature announcements, and he said there is absolutely nothing to give to the public.

On July 1 last Mr. Moore was requested to call on the agent of Baron Hirsch in New York, which he did. Since that time the land has been looked over and other preliminary business matters entered into. The agents of the rich Baron are engaged in looking up the validity of the titles, and should they prove acceptable the deed will probably be made out during the next fortnight and the cash handed over to Mr. Moore. No money has as yet passed hands, and the negotiations cannot be considered closed for that reason. The land is said to be worth from $8 to $10 an acre and charmingly situated.

The West Jersey Railroad cuts it almost into equal halves, while the proposed new line, the Seashore Short Line, crosses the West Jersey at right angles, about half way between the two stations, thus placing the proposed settlement on four sides of two important railroads, one being already in active operation.

The tract of land when purchased will be laid out into small farming sites, and each farm will be provided with the necessary frame buildings. Factories for cloth and shoes will also be erected. Baron Hirsch is not entering into the transaction with a speculative view, and when the papers are ready all the cash will be at once forthcoming.

HANGED BY A MOB.

Two Men Suffer Death Although Their Victim is Nearly Well.

CULLMAN, Ala., Aug. 17.—Monroe Evans and his son John were arrested at Baileyton a few days ago charged with shooting Pierce Mooney last May. On Saturday they were taken before a local justice of the peace, who declined to try them but bound them over without bail. They were put under guard at a neighbor's house over night.

About midnight they were taken from the house and hanged to a tree. The guard say a large crowd came up, and supposing them to be Evans' friends come to rescue the prisoners, they fled.

Mooney has about recovered from his wounds of last May.

May Not Participate in the Fair.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A dispatch from Berlin says that the signs multiply that German industries will not be fully represented at the Chicago Fair. Many unfavorable replies have been received by the Imperial Commissioner, and as a result the government has thought best to issue a statement that its official acceptance of the invitation to participate in the fair will be withdrawn unless a suitable number of exhibitors signify their intention to send displays. The government doesn't wish to appear as officially recognizing an exhibition that would not afford a creditable showing of German trade and industry.

The Great Trotting Meeting.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—One of the greatest trotting meetings Chicago has ever had will open at Washington Park this afternoon and continue six days. The programme, which has been arranged by the Northwestern Association of Trotting and Pacing Horse Breeders, consists of nineteen regular races, with 450 entries, and in addition six dash races are provided, one each day. All the star drivers, trotters and pacers of the West are here, together with a share of the Eastern horses and experts.

Died While Preaching.

DUBLIN, Aug. 17.—Considerable excitement was created in Ireland yesterday by the sudden death of Canon Carleton, while preaching in Kilkenny Cathedral. The reverend gentleman had progressed to some considerable extent with his sermon when he was suddenly seen to reel and fall. Several persons rushed to his assistance, but he passed away almost instantly.

Club House Destroyed by Fire.

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Saranac Lake Club House, at the head of lower Saranac Lake, was, with its contents, totally destroyed by fire during the morning. The fire was discovered while the guests were at breakfast. No lives were lost, but the guests lost all their personal effects. The loss is unknown. A defective flue caused the fire.

Large Catholic Pilgrimage.

AUBIESVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 17.—A pilgrimage to the shrine of Our Lady of Mercy here was made yesterday by more than 3,000 Catholics, mostly from Troy and Albany. Services lasted until noon, when the pilgrims returned home. It is estimated that more than 25,000 people have visited the shrine since its erection four years ago.

BIG AQUATIC MEET

The Great National Regatta Begins To-Morrow.

TO BE ROWED ON THE POTOMAC.

Thousands of Amateur Oarsmen Now at the National Capital.

This Year's Entry List Never Had an Equal—The Course Has been Staked Off and the Flags and Buoys Are in Position—Great Struggle Expected in the Senior Singles—Gold Medals for Each Event.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—To-morrow the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen will give the biggest regatta ever held in America.

The National Association is the ruling body in all the principal boat clubs in this country. It is more that 20 years since the organization was formed.

To the lovers of amateur boating, a national regatta means the gathering of thousands of the best stock of the aquatic world, and the making or breaking of the reputations of hundreds of ambitious youngsters. To win at a national regatta is a guarantee that the victor is the best product of the country.

This year's regatta will be held on the muddy waters of the Potomac. Washington has paid a big price for the privilege of having the event held here, and Virginia has also chipped in its share. All the best rooms in the hotels of the Capital are taken, and on the barren Virginia shore opposite the city large booths have been erected.

The entry list for this year has never had an equal either as regards numbers or quality. New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City are represented in the majority of the events.

All of the oarsmen who are to participate have arrived in the city, and together with the local oarsmen are busily engaged in getting everything in readiness for the coming meeting.

The visiting oarsmen who came last week are taking advantage of their early arrival by daily practice, and the river presents a pretty sight with the coming contestants spinning over the course, and from the exhibition of skill and brawn the contests cannot fail to be spirited and interesting. The course has been staked off, the flags and buoys placed in position, and all the preliminary arrangements completed to insure the success of the regatta.

The indications point to a grand struggle in the senior singles in which the best amateurs in the country will take part, and great interest is being taken in this race. A new departure in amateur regatta racing will be introduced by a quarter-mile dash for single sculls. It will be a short, sharp and decisive struggle in which the quickest man away will have a decided advantage.

The racing will be for the championship and the challenge cups and plates of the National Association to winners of senior singles, doubles, pair oars and senior four oars. Individual gold medals in each event will be given to every winning oarsman or sculler, and a handsome silk banner to his club.

DEATH FROM LEPROSY.

A White Woman in New Orleans Dies at the Smallpox Hospital.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 17.—A death from leprosy has occurred in the smallpox hospital here. The patient was a white woman named Mrs. Mary Bolt.

She was brought to the Charity Hospital in June last, before the nature of her disease was discovered. As soon as it was found she was a leper the woman was sent to the hospital for infectious cases.

The physicians who treated the case says she must have had the disease for many years, as her body was entirely covered with sores and that peculiar white scale characteristic of the disease.

At the hospital she continued to grow worse, and finally died a painless death.

Dr. Beard, physician in charge of the hospital, says there are half a dozen cases of leprosy in the city, several of severe and advanced character, and, further, that the city authorities have taken no steps to separate them from persons to whom they might communicate the disease.

Struck by an Electric Car.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 17.—A carriage containing Frank L. Gunn, his wife, Mrs. Preston and a child was struck by an electric car at the corner of Union and Main streets yesterday. Mr. Gunn was fatally injured and the others badly bruised.

Endorsed by Powderly.

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—Henry Lagotte, the prime mover in the scheme for municipal coal yards, has received a letter from Master Workman T. V. Powderly, in which he endorses the plan.

The People's Party in Maine.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 17.—A conference of supporters of the People's Party will be held at Lewiston September 9.

WICKED CHARLIE BRUNER.

Thirteen Years Old and a Horse Thief—Perhaps a Murderer.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 17.—Chief of Police Cannon of Latrobe arrested here Charles Bruner, 13 years old, on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of Samuel Reese at Ebensburg, last Thursday. He seems to have been an important catch, if his confession is to be believed.

Charlie says that with his cousin Elmer Bruner, and the woman Ann Jackson they have been traveling together through Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York for several months, stealing horses and then selling the animals. On reaching the Reese residence Elmer proposed burglarizing the house, the woman keeping a lookout. Mr. Reese attempted to shoot Elmer, whereupon the latter shot the old gentleman through the head, killing him instantly. Elmer then ransacked the house.

Elmer and Miss Jackson went on to Wall's Station, near Pittsburg, while Charlie intended remaining in Latrobe for a few days.

The parents of Charlie and Elmer are highly respectable people and reside in Pittsburg.

MAY SHIELD HIS BROTHER.

It is Believed That Bank President Kennedy Will Plead Guilty.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—The grand jury for the United States District Court will to-day act on the bills of indictment drawn up against Francis W. Kennedy and Henry H. Kennedy, the late president and cashier of the Spring Garden National Bank. It is generally understood that Francis W. Kennedy will plead guilty and endeavor to shield his brother, Henry, who is now out on bail.

After the indictments are returned the Kennedys will be called upon to plead. Indictments will also be presented against Charles Lawrence, the former assistant cashier of the Keystone National Bank, whose case is also to be called for trial.

Indictments will also be presented against the fugitive Marsh. This is desired by the State Department in order to notify the consuls that true bills have been found. United States District Attorney Reed hopes to get through with the whole business to-morrow, including the trials He expects Lawrence will plead guilty, likewise the Kennedys, although he has no positive information as to the latter. He judges so, however, from the fact that there seems to be no defense for them to act.

HIS LIFE IN DANGER.

A Prosecuting Agent Goes Out Accompanied by a Guard.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 17.—The life of Attorney Bacon Wakeman, Fairfield's prosecuting liquor agent, has been threatened, and when that officer goes out after nightfall he is accompanied by a guard and fully armed.

One night last week Wakeman was accosted by a Hungarian to whom he had been a benefactor, and the man told him his life was in immediate danger and begged him to go home as fast as he could.

Mr. Wakeman has stopped the sale of liquor to the colony of desperate men who are at work on the new tracks from the w gons which were in the habit of bringing it to them from Bridgeport. The cutting off of this illicit traffic so enraged the Hungarians and Italians that they are ready to kill him.

Death of Charles Watrous.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Charles Watrous, of 723 Lexington avenue, New York, died of pneumonia at his summer residence on Union avenue, last evening, aged 65. He was sick with pneumonia when he reached Saratoga over a month ago, and was unable to stand the strain on his system. Mr. Watrous was one of the promoters of the Nicaragua Canal, and was one of the Warner Miller party which was wrecked on the Nicaragua coast not long since. His illness dates from that event. He will be buried in New York.

An Aeronaut Drowned.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 17.—James Buckingham, known as Professor De Ivo, the aeronaut, made an ascension from Pleasant Beach, Onondaga Lake, at 7 o'clock last evening. When the balloon had reached a height of about 300 feet he loosed the fastening of the parachute and dropped. The balloon was over the water when he jumped, and though the parachute opened all right, Buckingham became tangled in it and was drowned within fifty feet of 5,000 people.

An Asbury Park Spotter Wounded.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 17.—Thos. Halstead, a spotter, employed by the Law and Order League, was badly wounded last night by the drivers of the beer wagons which he had been spotting. Charles Sexton, the driver of one of the beer wagons, is missing. Halstead received a bad knife wound over the eye, and one on the head. He was found unconcious on the road by a policeman.

Sorry She Had Not Killed Him.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 17.—Obadiah Newcombe and his wife Kate got into an altercation last night and Kate struck Obadiah with an axe, nearly splitting his head open. It is doubtful if he will recover. When arrested Kate said she wished she had killed her husband outright. The two had quarreled over the day's receipts in a butcher shop which Newcombe runs.

Ex-Congressman Scott Much Better.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 17.—Mr. William L. Scott's condition is so much improved that he spent a portion of the day with his family in the yard. He expects to go to New York next week, where he will stay until he fully recovers.

Lavina Munger Dead.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 17.—Lavina Munger of Saratoga died suddenly yesterday afternoon of heart failure, at the summer residence of her son at Bradley Beach. She was 83 years of age.

IS THE KAISER MAD?

A Sensational Story Printed in a Paris Paper.

DOINGS ON THE HOHENZOLLERN.

The Emperor Tries to Throw One of His Officers Overboard.

In the Struggle That Followed He Fell and Broke His Knee Cap—Carried Into a Padded Cabin by the Officers and Placed in a Straitjacket—The Sailors Paralyzed with Fear—The Crisis Lasted Three Days

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The Paris Eclair, which is not given to sensationalism, prints the following story as confirmed by unquestioned authority:

On the night of the departure of the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern from England the crew was beaten to quarters and was surprised to find the quarter deck brilliantly illuminated.

An altar had been erected on the deck, bearing the Old and New Testaments, and the Kaiser stood by wearing a white chasuble with a crozier in his hand and a black and white mitre on his head. He read the most warlike passages from the Testaments and invited the crew to respond. He then preached a long sermon on the duty of sovereigns to their people, the whole service lasting from 11 p. m. to 2 a. m. The crew were then piped below. At 5 a. m. the Kaiser appeared on the bridge in the uniform of a high admiral, looking extremely haggard, and addressing the commander, said: "Sir, retire to your cabin; I shall take charge." The commander replied: "Sire, permit me to observe that we are in a dangerous passage and that it is advisable for Your Majesty's safety, as well as for that of the crew, that a sailor remain in command."

The Emperor responded: "Never mind. God will inspire me." The commander bowed and retired.

The second officer remaining, the Emperor angrily bade him retire, the officer respectfully protesting.

Crazed With Rage.

The Emperor then said: "You resist, wretched creature. You trouble the spirit of God which is in me. This is the vengeance of God upon you," dealing the officer a heavy blow on the cheek. The officer turned crimson, but remained until the Emperor seized him by the throat and tried to throw him overboard.

In the struggle that followed the Emperor fell and broke his knee-cap. The sailors watched the scene, paralyzed with fear. The occurrence was one that cannot be forgotten.

The Emperor howled with pain. His eyes started from their sockets. He swore terribly, and, in fact, displayed all the symptoms of madness. The officers after a brief consultation, carried him into a cabin padded with mattresses. Nobody was admitted except the doctor and the Empress. Man were necessary to help restrain him until his leg was bandaged and a strait jacket put upon him. The crisis lasted three days.

DENIED BY THE PRESIDENT.

He Will Not Write a Letter Withdrawing from the Presidential Race.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 17.—President Harrison, through Private Secretary Halford, denies the story that he is about to declare, over his signature, that he will refuse to be a candidate for renomination. The President replied in his usual manner that he would not discuss newspaper rumors.

The vigor with which Mr. Harrison's answer was given made it quite apparent that no such letter will be written.

Mr. Harrison's friends say that while the President is not a candidate in the sense of chasing after a nomination, he desires a renomination. His subordinates are doing the work, while he looks on and notes the effect.

Secretary Tracy and Attorney-General Miller, who were here some days ago, are at present doing some good work in Mr. Harrison's interest. They have recently approached Congressmen and other prominent and influential politicians relative to sending their respective delegations to the national Republican convention next year. This is not heresay. The statement is based on strong, substantial facts. These two Cabinet officers are now engaged in preparing a slate to suit their chief, and through their combined efforts it is said that the Maryland delegation has already been pledged to Harrison, Secretary Tracy and Congressman Mudd, of Maryland, having arranged affairs to their entire satisfaction.

The President has not written any letter declining to permit his name to go before the national convention, but it is said there exists an implied understanding between Mr. Harrison and Secretary Blaine to the effect that one of them will decline in advance should the other develop greater strength.

This is simply a tacit agreement existing only in the inferential sense, but it seems to be an agreement, nevertheless. All of Mr. Harrison's friends seem lately seem confident of his renomination.

Two Drowned and Two Rescued.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—Four persons—two women and two men—started for Jamestown in a rowboat last night. The boat struck a rock and sank. Annie McCormick, of Providence, and Eugene Maloney were drowned. The woman's skull was found to be fractured, and an autopsy will be held. Maloney's body has not been recovered. The other couple were rescued by a passing sailboat.

Will Hang Him if He Recovers.

OTTAWA, Kan., Aug. 17.—E. H. Prestoe, a wealthy lumberman, shot his wife dead during a quarrel last evening and then attempted suicide. If he does not die the probabilities are that he will be taken out and hanged by the citizens. He is very low.

GERMANY TO SURRENDER.

Fears of Riots Will Cause a Mitigation of the Corn Duties.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—The government is preparing for a surrender to a certain extent on the question of corn duties. The clamor has become so overwhelming that Chancellor Caprivi can hardly maintain himself against it.

It is said that the Kaiser has referred the matter entirely to the Chancellor, to act in his discretion. Both the Kaiser and the Chancellor would rather give Austria and Hungary the exclusive benefit of the German demand for foreign corn, under the commercial treaty soon to go into force, and this has been the chief motive for delay, but the distress on account of the high price of bread is so great and growing that prolonged waiting may, it is feared, result in riots and bloodshed. Hence a probable mitigation of the corn duties within a few days.

The government itself feels the pressure of scarcity, owing to the higher prices paid for grain for the army, and would undoubtedly be a larger purchaser of foreign grain at lesser rates should a reduction of duties take place.

The report that American farmers are hoarding grain causes no little anxiety not only in Germany, but in all European countries, as it is felt that the demand from America this year will undoubtedly be large.

Advices from Russia present the situation in no more favorable light. In Astrakhan, near the Caspian Sea, several villages are reported to be almost depopulated, many of the people having died of hunger, and others have left for better favored regions. In Volhynia, where the Russian maneuvres are to be held, it is said that the commissariat branch of the army has found that no supplies can locally be obtained for the troops, and that all food will have to be brought from a distance.

POISONED THE CAKES.

An Attempt to Kill an Entire Family in West Virginia.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 17.—Mrs. Henry Mallonee, of Grafton, her niece and five children are lying very ill from eating poisoned cakes.

Mrs. Mallonee made the cakes yesterday. In her absence from the house some enemy, it is believed, attempted to kill the entire family by putting arsenic in the dough.

Two of the children, it is belived, will die.

There is no clue to the perpetrator of the crime.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—All Plainfield is anxious to see the Norwich game in this city, Wednesday, and the storekeepers are with commendable forethought planning for a half-holiday for themselves and clerks that afternoon. The game will be a great one, and everybody ought to see it.

—The Annual Convention of the Order of the Sons of St. George will be held this week in the city of Camden. Mr. Whitehead, of this city, will represent the members of the order who reside in Plainfield, and Mr. Gibbs, of North Plainfield, will represent the city of Elizabeth.

—There was no sale of liveryman Higgin's property to-day. He says he is in full possession of it and ready for the continued patronage of the public. He will start the stages again to-morrow morning. "These rumors about my owing Billy Woodruff and others," he told a PRESS reporter, "is lies and just a piece of underhand business to ruin me." He intends to bring suit against "some of them," he says, for vindication and damages.

MAY DIE OF HIS INJURIES.

The Wagon Upset, and Randolph Was Hurled Headlong Against the Curb.

Franklin B. Randolph, of Orchard place, driver for Engine company, No. 2, was driving a fast horse, at a rapid gait, down Front street, Saturday evening, when his wagon, in an attempt to turn the corner at the Harberger place, was upset. His three companions, young men from Evona, were comparatively uninjured, but Randolph was thrown head first against the curbstone, and received injuries that will probably result fatally. His scalp was torn open, and more than thirty stitches were required to close up the horrid gap. His head was otherwise terribly cut. Dr. Boone, who is attending him, says that his condition this afternoon is slightly improved, but that there is still great danger. One of his companions received a bad cut in the fleshy part of the arm.

Good Sermons by an Able Divine.

The Rev. L. E. Livermore, pastor of the New Market Seventh-day Baptist church, preached very acceptably to good-sized and appreciative audiences, yesterday morning and evening, in the Trinity Reformed church. Mr. Livermore has many warm friends in Mr. Schenck's congregation. His sermon at the morning service, on "The Rainbow" was very fine and very instructive. At the evening service his theme was "Why I am a Christian". He answered that question very ably, and the way he knocked the props from under infidelity was convincing and edifying.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

WON IN ONE INNING.

The Plainfield Hares Get a Victorious Start on the Mt. Ararat Tortoises.

A very peculiar but none the less interesting game of base-ball was that played on the Crescent League grounds, Saturday, between Plainfield and Westfield. The Crescent nine ran away ahead of the Westfields at the start, and though the Mt. Ararat players tried hard they were not able to catch up, and Plainfield won by the score of 7 to 5.

It was a game of one inning for Plainfield against nine for Westfield. The Crescents made six hits in the first inning against Westfield's seven in the whole game. Jones, the first man at the bat, waited till he got two strikes on him and then hit the ball for two bases. Lufbery hit the first ball pitched, took first, and advanced Jones to third. Then he stole second. Tiernay's hit would have been out, but first baseman made a muff, and Jones scored. Keeler was patient and got his base on balls, and the bases were full. McIndoe hit safely, and Lufbery and Tierney scored. Hammill made another hit, and Keeler scored. Hammill stole second. Holly struck out. Lee made a hit, earning McIndoe's and Hammill's runs. Bonner made a two-bagger and earned Lee's. Jones struck out, and Lufbery went out on a little hit to pitcher. Great cheers rent the air, for the Crescents had made seven runs. But they made never another. Four scattered hits was all they could do in the eight innings that followed. The Westfield contingent claimed that had their pitcher been given a chance to practice before the game the Crescents would n't have banged him so in the first inning, but the fact is that all through the game the Crescents hit the ball hard. Their grounders, however, were well fielded, and their flies invariably dropped into the Westfielder's paws.

Plainfield's Hammill was not by any means in his best form. In the second inning he gave O'Rourke his base on balls, and a run resulted. In Westfield's half of the third inning things looked very bad for the Crescents. Two wretched errors—one by Lee and one by Lufbery—let in two runs, and the bases were full when Mullen went to the bat. A superb double play saved the game. Mullen hit a hot liner that Hammill might have been excused in fumbling, but instead he held it and threw quickly to Bonner, who put Diven out at the plate. Then Bonner threw to first in time to spoil Mullen's chances. It was all done like a flash of lightning, and was a sample of what the Crescents can do when they want to.

In the fifth inning Westfield got another run through another error of Lee's, who had a chance to prevent Lever, who had made a fine two-bagger, from scoring. In the seventh inning the Ararats earned a run, by two hits and two sacrifices. In the fourth, eighth and ninth innings Westfield went out in easy order. In the fourth and ninth the Crescents retired the side with only seven balls pitched in each, and in the eighth with only six.

Bonner caught a superb game, though Hammill was quite wild. Keeler acquitted himself well at short stop, and Holly proved the right man at first. Tierney gave evidence of being a fine acquisition in both the batting and fielding line. McIndoe made a magnificent running catch of a long fly, and Keeler a fine running catch of another. Jones did a queer thing in the second inning. There were two men out, and McLaughlin sent a high fly to center. Jones ran forward, and seemed about to catch it, but suddenly stopped short and let it drop at his feet. That let in the run of O'Rourke, who had got his base on balls and reached second on McManus's sacrifice. The score:

NOTES.

During the absence of manager Coding, last week, deputy-manager Peek had the Westfield uniforms washed. They shrunk so the boys could hardly get them on, Saturday. But the boys didn't shrink even though seven runs faced them when they first stepped to the bat. They played a brave game, and a good one, throughout.

Even Manager Mack of the West End team, who was present, bet on the Crescent League's team. Anyone with any judgment knows that the Westfield players are outclassed by such teams as Plainfield and Somerville put in the field.

There is no doubt that Westfield's backers bet Plainfield's to a stand still, but the latter never weakened until they had put up all they had. One Crescent League member even bet the stakes he was holding for someone else.

THE PRESS has been requested to say that the Westfield Hammill "had a chill just before the game." But that could have been no circumstance to the chill he had during the Crescents' first inning at the bat. It was such a cold period for Mr. Hammill that frost broke out on his brow instead of perspiration.

An analysis of the pitching in Saturday's game may not be uninteresting. Hammill of the Crescents pitched 97 balls. Of these 30 were hit fair (7 of them safely), 23 were called strikes, 35 were called balls, and 9 were hit foul. Hammill of the Westfields pitched 106 balls. 33 were hit fair (10 safely), 29 were called strikes and 28 balls, and 16 were hit foul.

Previous to the game Hammill of the Crescents said that he should not pitch his best, as he was nursing a sore arm and was saving himself for this week's games against Norwich and Somerville. He predicted that the Westfields should not make more than two runs in one inning, and said that if the score got too close towards the last he'd hold them down and not let in a run. And of the 15 men at the bat in the last four innings for Westfield 12 went out very promptly.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Plainfield the Cynosure of All New Jersey.

The Elizabeth Journal thinks that Mayor Gilbert's proposition to prevent Sunday liquor selling is highly important, and comments on it in this wise:

"Plainfield has undertaken to regulate the liquor traffic by the high license policy, and the mayor desires that regulation shall regulate so far as his power as executive can effect that result. He simply asks Council to amend the license ordinance in such a way, 'that it shall be the duty', as he says, 'of every party licensed to sell liquor in the city, so to arrange the doors and windows of his or her saloon, that a full and unobstructed view of the interior thereof can, during the hours mentioned, be had from the street, through an opening in the door at the entrance thereto, or through both.' The hours referred to are from twelve o'clock Saturday night to six o'clock Monday morning. As a penalty for the violation of the provision he recommends the forfeiture of the license. All law-abiding citizens, one would suppose, must be in favor of securing the end which Mayor Gilbert is seeking. Plainfield has undertaken to show by its $750 license fee how to solve the liquor problem, and it is therefore the cynosure to all New Jersey. The people wait to see how it will handle the Sunday violation question."

From Office Boy to President.

Daniel Underhill, an uncle of Mrs. Andrew J. Gavett and Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett, of this city, and one of the best known and most highly esteemed veterans of the fire insurance business in New York city, died Saturday morning at his residence, No. 232 West Thirty-seventh street, in his seventh-first year, of the infirmities due to age. Mr. Underhill had been connected with the New York Fire Insurance Company for fifty-four years, when he resigned last March because of failing health. He began as office boy, and used to sand the floors. Then he became clerk, secretary and, in 1864, president of the company. Mr. Underhill was of Quaker descent, his family having come to New York city from Maryland. He was an active Mason and a volunteer fireman.

His wife died in November last, and the heirs to the competency he acquired are one daughter, a nephew and two nieces. His brother was Mrs. J. W. Gavett's father, and his sister was Mrs. A. J. Gavett's mother. Funeral services will be held at his late home this evening at eight o'clock. Interment at convenience of the family.

Awakened by a Burglar.

At 3 o'clock Sunday morning Mrs. Clifton, of Morris avenue, in the section of Plainfield known as Pondville, was awakened by a noise in the house. A thief had cut out a pane of glass and entered through a window, and was prowling through the rooms with a lighted lamp. He was frightened away without having secured any booty.

OUR
"Y. S. F."
BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.
OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.
IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.
WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.
EDSALL'S,
20 WEST FRONT STREET.

We Struck a Bargain
And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.
The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

LATTER-DAY CHRONICLES—NO. 1.

Being a Veracious Account of the Deposing of a Mighty Man Among the Tribe of Babbitt, Together with the True Tale of What Became of the Surplus in the Treasury.

In the land of Pinchgut, in the reign of Alexander, dwelt the tribe of the sons of Smith and the tribe of the sons of Babbitt. And the countenances of the sons of Smith were fair to look upon; but the sons of Babbitt were a dark-skinned generation.

And it came to pass that a man of might arose among the sons of Babbitt, and he set himself up among his people and said unto them: "Let us make merry and rejoice. Let us set apart a day for much gladness. For inasmuch as we were once ground to the dust by serfdom now we are free from the yoke of bondage. Let us lift up our voices in glory and thankfulness to him who brought us out of slavery." And the sons of Babbitt of one accord said "Let it be so."

And behold, the sons of Babbitt sent emissaries out among the sons of Smith, and demanded of them tribute money, both of silver and of gold, and likewise of greenbacks. And the sons of Smith yielded up freely of their substance to the sons of Babbitt, and an abundance of shekels gathered they in.

In the days when the sun smote hot upon the land of Pinchgut—yea, when it shone with an exceeding great hotness—and when the sons of the tribe of Smith were abroad in distant lands, there gathered together in the chief market-place of the great Pinchgut plain a multitude of the sons of Babbitt from near and from far.

And there were songs of joy in the land, proceeding out of the mouths of the sons of Babbitt, that the day of their bondage was past. And the people gat themselves together into companies, like unto companies of soldiers, and each company was led by a man of majesty, and they passed mightily to and fro through the streets of the market-place, and were a goodly sight. And there was the sound of music, of many instruments of brass and of string, and of the fife and drum, for the sons of Babbitt were doing things up with an exceeding fine brownness, and had hired famous musicians from the lands of Harkinstown, and Pridmore's Swamp and Mt. Ararat.

And it came to pass that while the merriment was at its height there arose a cry for him who had set himself up as a leader among the sons of Babbitt. And he was silent and did not show up. And when the elders of the sons of Babbitt sought out the man, lo and behold, he lay moaning in his bed, sick of a fever. And he said: "It hath been appointed that I this day may not be with you. Take ye, however, this manuscript, and what therein I have written do ye it." And having spoken he fell to groaning, for the pain of the fever was upon him.

And the elders went out again among their people, and read unto them what was written in the script. And behold, of the young men of the sons of Babbitt there were some who were haughty and proud, and some who had mischief in their hearts. And these stirred up trouble and dissension among their brethren, and said: "What hath this man done of good that he should be set up as an arbiter above us? Whereas we are content with the traditions of our fathers, he hath sought after strange things, and hath striven to force them upon us. Yea: even in the script which hath just been proclaimed he hath spoken of an alien whom he hath purposed to come among us, preaching strange doctrine and seeking power over us. Is not this alien the same who was scourged in the temple?" And a voice answered "It is." And thereupon the young men said: "Is it meet for us to receive one on whom the lash hath thus fallen? Shall we not, rather, refuse to hearken unto the counsel of the script?"

But again a voice answered: "This man hath done no wrong. Though he be an alien among you, he is nevertheless a man of your own blood, and of your own heart. Though he hath been scourged, it was but as a martyr to his faith."

And there was much contention, and divers were the plans of the elders and the young men.

And after much dispute the young men agreed to hinder not the coming of the alien but while the multitude were hearkening to his words of wisdom, and were merry-making, the young men left them to their rejoicings and sought out him who was sick of a fever, and demanded of him the shekels which had been gathered together and put into his hands for the settlement of the debts of the day. And when he pleaded with them they laughed him to scorn, and they stripped his house of the treasure which it had contained, and straightway hied themselves to a secret chamber and counted the greenbacks and the silver and the gold. And their joy was great, for of the treasure there was an exceeding abundance, even after they had set aside that which was to satisfy all claims.

And when the morrow was come they hastened to meet the creditors, and to pay to them that which was theirs. And of that which was left after paying each creditor his share, not one farthing found its way into the pockets of the sick man. But there were a few whose coffers waxed exceeding fat.

And it came to pass that when the sick man arose from his couch he was met with disfavor by many of the people, for there were tales abroad that he had sought to turn their day of rejoicing into an event of political portent and had striven to deliver them into the hands of their enemies. And the people were bitter against him, for the young men had stirred their hearts to anger.

But the scoffed one hardened his heart concerning their reproaches, and he reasoned thusly within himself: "Alas for ingratitude! Alas that I the benefactor should be trampled under foot. The fame and the glory of the day are mine of right, yet even that they have robbed me of. The spoils have gone into the treasury of the wicked. They have taken advantage of my helplessness. In the day of mine adversity they have bereft me of my profits. Verily, the triumph of the hour is theirs, but woe upon them, for I shall set against their names a day of reckoning. In the day of my wrath and majesty they shall bow their knee and bite the dust before me, and every man among them shall call me master."

And the young men were jubilant and spent their shekels freely, for they had much of the money which had been levied from the sons of Smith. And they counted not on retribution, for they had bidden themselves to eat, drink and be merry, and of the morrow they wotted not at all, neither of him whom they had despoiled and who was even now darkly plotting for revenge.

And behold, a prophet witnessed the thing from afar, and in his book he wrote down a wondrous prophecy. But inasmuch as the time of its fulfilment hath yet to come the Sage who writes this chronicle must silent be, and dare not tell of the strange and many things that shall come to pass.

Notes of The Netherwood.

The very latest arrivals who have attracted any particular attention, are Mrs. Charles Poe, of New York, and her sister, Miss Conway. There are three little Poes, yet it was a day's wonder whether either of the ladies could possibly be the mother of the children, and which of the ladies was. Last evening especially Mrs. Poe looked not a day older than Miss Conway who, by the way, is a remarkably comely young blonde. Mrs. Poe's dress last evening was a revelation.

None of the younger ladies at the hotel is more universally admired than Miss Ella Fielman. Her fashion is perfect, her face pretty beyond compare, and nothing so fair as her flaxen hair has e'er been seen at Netherwood. Miss Fielman is Jay Gould's daughter's chosen friend, and has just returned from a long visit to that gilded lady.

Little Stanley Hime, who has not been talking as many months as you have years, speaks three languages fluently. He is a noble looking lad, manly in face and figure, and a great favorite with everybody.

All are glad to see Col. Fred Martin out again. He has been a great sufferer from muscular rheumatism, this summer, which has tied him down helpless in his Brooklyn home. Yet in spite of confinement away from his office and days and nights of pain, he has kept a firm grip upon the direction of the Brooklyn elevated roads of which he is superintendent.

Some idea of what it costs to run a hotel may be had from the mention of the fact that the bread-baker alone, at The Netherwood, is paid $100 a month—and he's worth it. Even in this, which might be considered a minor detail, Mr. Miller considers that only the best is good enough for his guests.

C. G. Hime's costly camera has photographed the attractive natives and picturesque ruins of all countries under the skies of every clime, but it never had reproduced upon its film a group of more charming women, more popular men and completer ruins under a bluer sky, than at Netherwood Saturday. The charming women were Mrs. Hime, Mrs. McCredy, Mrs. Benary, Mrs. Crossman, Mrs. Froment, Miss Cullen and Miss Ella Fielman; the popular men and ruins were Messrs. Balch, Hinchman, H. Martin, Whitney, Crossman, Froment, Spencer, Benary, McCredy, Ogden, Kirk, Eaton, Tobey, Col. Martin and Major Cullen.

Don't Miss This Game!

One of the Norwich papers of last Wednesday, said:

Manager Keller of the Crescent nine was in town last evening and completed arrangements for the appearance of the Norwich nine in New Jersey. The Norwich team will play at Plainfield Wednesday, and at Westfield Thursday. These two cities are in close proximity to each other and Mr. Keller predicts big crowds at each game. Excursion rates will be arranged from this city. Mr. Keller while here also engaged Tierney for the balance of the season. Tierney will leave here Friday night and this afternoon made his final appearance in a Norwich uniform.

There is no doubt that there will be a large attendance at Wednesday's game in this city, and the visitors will see how the Plainfield people appreciate their many courtesies to the Crescents. The Norwich team is a member of a professional league, and its players are hired by the month to do nothing else but play ball, yet the Crescent League team has tied them and are going to try to defeat them, Wednesday.

Chewing Gum, Not Dynamite.

A New Brunswick manufacturer cruelly explodes the story sent from Somerville last Friday to the effect that dynamite had been sent to two of the criminals there, with which they were to effect their escape. The men who received the so-called dynamite were Walker and Cook who had assaulted John Toms near New Brunswick. Walker has brothers at New Brunswick who work for Johnson & Johnson, and Mr. Kilmer, the head chemist of this firm, says the package received at the jail was sent from their factory, by Walker's brother and contained nothing but harmless chewing gum.

Plainfield Defeats Flemington, Too.

The Bicycle club's ball nine played its second game against the Flemington nine, Saturday. The contest was an exciting one and witnessed by a large attendance of club members and their friends. Plainfield won by the score of 12 to 9.

Those who composed the Bicycle club nine were: Dawe, catcher; Lowry, pitcher and right field; McMurray, first base; Tilney, second base; R. F. Murray, third base; Townley, short stop; Young, left field and pitcher; Gilbert, right and left field; Erickson, center field.

Another President of a Council After a Libelling Newspaper.

It is said that Judge P. Hamilton Gilhooley, president of the Elizabeth City Council, will cause the arrest to-day of W. S. McKean, the editor of an Elizabeth newspaper, and ex-Councilman Oliver Stone, of that city, on a charge of criminal libel. The trouble grew out of the building of oil tanks by the Standard Oil Company and the statement printed in the newspaper in question, signed by Stone, charging that the City Council had been bought by the oil company to allow the building of the tanks.

As The World Saw It.

[From The New York World.]

The Westfield Athletic club base-ball team came to Plainfield Saturday with the full determination to shut the Crescent League nine completely out. In the first inning the Crescent batters knocked out seven runs and in subsequent innings showed great familiarity with Hamuill's curves, though they made no further runs. The Westfields secured in all five runs, which were scattered throughout four innings.

Catholics in New Jersey.

The third church census bulletin, just issued by Dr. H. K. Carroll, of North Plainfield, contains the statistics of the Roman Catholic church. The communicants in New Jersey number 222,274, and the value of church property is $6,050,682. There are 191 places of worship, with a seating capacity of about one hundred thousand. These do not include twenty-seven halls used by as many organizations.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.
Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

Price of Flour Advanced.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 17.—In consequence of the recent advance in wheat, local millers have put up the price of flour about 75 cents. The proprietors of most of the large mills depend upon Western wheat and are buying as little as possible, claiming that the advance will not be permanent. The price paid for local wheat last week was $1. There is very little wheat being held by the farmers.

Three Smugglers Arrested.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Three smugglers were arrested on the Etruria, which has just arrived. They were Joseph Zeiter, of Syracuse, N. Y., and N. E. Yesner and Jacob Rosenberg, of this city. A large quantity of silks and jewelry was seized. The men will have a hearing before the United States commissioner.

A Prominent Contractor Missing.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Aug. 17.—George L. Titus, a prominent contractor of this city, disappeared last night, and it is feared that he has taken his life. It is thought that he had become temporarily insane over business affairs, which have worried him considerably of late.

Two Young Men Drowned.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 17.—John Quinlan, aged 21 years and Michael Sullivan, aged 23 years, both of this city, were drowned in Welch's Pond, Methuen, Mass., yesterday, by the capsizing of their boat.

Death of a Great Wrestler.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Matsada R. Sorakichi, the celebrated Japanese wrestler, died in this city Saturday night of consumption. Sorakichi was 33 years old. He had been ill for a long time. Sorakichi was one of the foremost wrestlers of the time, and in certain styles of wrestling had no peer. He came to this country several years ago from his native land, Japan, where he was looked upon as a phenomenon and was called the strongest man in the world. His first public appearance was in this city in a match with Duncan C. Ross, and he subsequently met Muldoon, Lewis, Miller and all the other prominent wrestlers of the country.

The 46-Footers Ready.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—To-day's race of 46-footers has all the yachtsmen here worked up. The race will be under the management of the Corinthian Yacht Club of New York. All the boats entered, except Palmer's Alborak, Maxwell's Nautilus, and Commodore Sands Uvira will start.

Harkins Released from Prison.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—Mrs. Harkins, whose husband was in 1887 sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment for complicity in a dynamite conspiracy in England, has received a cablegram stating that Harkins has been released and that he sailed for New York.

Good for young and old. We know of no better tonic for the system than Hires's Improved Root Beer. It is delicious, effervescent, sparkling, appetizing, and a helper of temperance. Satisfying the thirst, enriching the blood, and fortifying the system against the advance of disease. A 25-cent package makes five gallons. Sold everywhere.

AN EXTRAVAGANT EDUCATION.

Son—Poppy, de teacher told me ter bring a penny ter school fer a new slate pencil.

Pop—Of cose, money ag'in! Dat maiks twenty-free cents I'se spent already on yo' edication, an' yo' dunno yo' A B Abs yit.—Judge.

She Wanted to Be a Bird.

A certain young gentleman is courting a young lady. He called on her a few evenings ago. She seemed to be under the weather, and there was a peculiar drug store smell in the room.

"What ails you, my darling?" he cooed.

"I wish I was a bird," sighed the young lady.

"So you could fly into my arms?" queried John, suggestively.

"No; I want to be a bird, so I could not get the toothache any more," replied the lady, swinging on her jaw and groaning audibly.—Texas Siftings.

A Pleasing Uncertainty.

Tourist (in Kansas)—Can you tell me where the residence of Col. Hooks, the real estate dealer, is?

Native—Wal, jest now it's four or five mile from here, but (pointing to a dark, funnel-shaped cloud in the west) thar's a cyclone comin' over frum that way, an' if you'll wait awhile the house may come right here to you an' save you the trouble of goin' down there to it.—Munsey's Weekly.

A Long Sentence.

"I say, Bill," said one summer philosopher to another, as they lay beneath a spreading tree, "did yer ever turn yer attention to literatoor any?"

"I should say so."

"What's the longest sentence you ever run across?"

"Ten years," was the unhesitating reply.—Washington Post.

A Fair Shaker.

Sageman—A remarkable girl is that Miss Snapper. You know her pretty well; has she any leaning in the direction of any particular creed?

Bluntly—I can't say definitely, but from the way in which she disposed of my marital aspirations last evening I should say that she was a Shaker.—Boston Courier.

Not in the Wood.

Summer Boarder—I think, considering the price I pay, and the poor accommodations you have, you might at least treat me with respect.

Mrs. Hayfork—Well, mum, to tell th' truth, I can't feel much respect for people what pays the big prices I charge fer the sort of accommydations I give.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Useless Expense.

Mr. de Laie—Do you suppose we shall ever be able to drop a nickel in the slot, and get a wife?

Miss Wayting (in her most captivating tone)—Oh, it is unnecessary to go to that expense, even now, Mr. de Laie. Brides are given away, you know.—Puck.

The Ruling Passion.

Foreman of the Jury—Guilty of murder in the first degree.

Judge—Prisoner at the bar, stand up to receive the sentence of the court.

The Prisoner (who poisoned her husband)—In a minute, judge. Jennie (to her sister), is my hat on straight?—Life.

It Made a Difference.

Mrs. de Peyster—If I lived as near to you as you do to me I'd run over to see you real often.

Mrs. Darling—I guess you don't know that we moved last month.—Judge.

For Self.

"Who is more dear to you than your husband?"

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY is WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD. 6 9 tf

MRS. BROWN-POTTER.

The Fair American Writes About Her Tour in the Far East.

She Will be in London Early in August Prepared to Take Her Own Part—Strange Adventure With an American Near Yokohama—Her Plans.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

UNDER date of June 12 Mrs. James Brown Potter writes from Yokohama, Japan, the first definite news of her which has reached the American public for many months. Within one week she will be in London, where she can and beyond doubt will take immediate steps to set at rest many of the absurd and conflicting rumors which have for so long a time been in circulation in the American newspapers in regard to her personal and professional future.

Extracts from her letter written in Yokohama to the gentleman in this city who has charge of the preparation of her memoirs are as follows:

YOKOHAMA, Club Hotel, June 12, 1891.—MY DEAR——: Just a line from beautiful Japan. I give a recital here to-night, and to-morrow morning I sail for Europe on the Peninsular & Oriental steamer, the Ancona. This will land me in London by the P. & O. steamer, Ravenna, on August 4. How I long to be once more in touch with my native land. For nearly a year I have not seen an American newspaper—outside of the few clippings you have sent me, and since I left home, for America is still my home, the "land of my birth and pride," I have not seen half a dozen of my fellow countrymen. One I met on Christmas day at Sidney, New South Wales; it was so warm that we were dining out of doors, and I had my picture taken at the dinner table with a half emptied glass of Australian claret in front of me. I wrote you that I paid seventy-five thousand dollars of my Australian earnings for a sheep ranch up in Bushland. I have almost concluded to make another investment in that marvelous country, in the purchase of a vineyard adjoining the one on which was made the wine which I am represented as drinking in this picture. It is an excellent red wine, and I ought to be something of a judge.

Our performance here to-night, which is a recital in which I will have the assistance of a number of amateurs—you know I have a warm feeling for amateurs, having so lately been one myself—will be our only appearance in Japan. Admiral Belknap, who is in command of the United States steamship Monocacy, has been exceedingly kind to me and has agreed to loan me for the evening the band of the Monocacy, which is undoubtedly the best in Japan. It will furnish an accompaniment during the recital and will play during the interludes.

I have heard that Americans always feel ashamed of the Monocacy when they come here, because the picturesque old craft, which has been here for twenty-six years, contrasts so poorly in appearance and efficiency with the warships of other foreign nations in these waters. I can truly say that of the personnel, courage and gallantry of her officers and crew, their patriotism and their keen sense of duty, their fellow countrymen have excellent reason to be proud. Among the crew, indeed, I understand there are very few native-born Americans; however, they are always the first on shore to assist at a fire or in any public event and are exceedingly popular with the authorities. I believe the Monocacy's band has never until now played at a professional performance.

The time is drawing so near when I will be once more in an English-speaking country, within daily touch of my native land and of New York, the city which I dearly love, that it is natural for you to ask my plans for the near future.

Personally—there are many delicate and easily-misunderstood reasons for a continuance of the policy of reticence which I have thought it due to myself and my family I should preserve since my professional debut.

Professionally—I am still at sea, inasmuch as my inclinations draw me one way and the pecuniary interests of those who are near and dear to me, as well as my own, seem to draw in another direction. From the newspaper clippings you have sent me, I gather that the announcement has been made that Mr. Bellew and I will appear in London and the provinces in "Hero and Leander" and other plays in which we have not been seen in Great Britain or America, beginning at an early date this fall. This may or may not be so. At present the statement is unfounded.

Until I arrive in London, the first week in August, my arrangements for the professional future will be unsettled; they may depend more largely than you think on personal and private affairs, which I can readily explain face to face, but about which I am loth to write even to you.

If I do not see you in London when I arrive it is possible that I may see you in New York not long after that date.

The future professionally is full of hope and encouragement to me; whatever my critics may have thought fair to say of me in the past, after two years of faithful and industrious application and of varied and eventful experience, I am willing again to trust myself to their verdict, both in my new dramas and in the roles in which they are familiar with me.

Pecuniarily my venture in Australia, India, China and Japan has been profitable to a high degree.

Japan is a most lovely country. My trip of recitals through China has been, I am glad to say, exceedingly successful. We left Bombay on April 24, on the P. and O. steamer Ravenna, bound for Hong Kong, Shanghai and Yokohama. Our friends came down to the Victoria dock to see us off, many of them with "Old Glory" in their hands and on their carriages, and I believe the Stars and Stripes never had quite such an enthusiastic ovation here as in the crowd on the pier that morning. I only gave six plays in Bombay, "Tosca," "Frou Frou," "Camille," "David Garrick," "She Stoops to Conquer" and "The Lady of Lyons," supplementing these with recitals from "Hamlet," "Romeo and Juliet," "Richard III." and "Macbeth."

It is these last that I have been using on my recital tour through China. The season in Bombay was as successful pecuniarily as it seemed to be otherwise.

On Saturday, May 15, we opened at the Theater Royal in Hong Kong. China and Japan are scarcely large enough for a company, but for a recital tour of six weeks they offer a splendid field. They are in very close touch with the United States.

India, of course, is more English. Tokio, the capital of Japan, is a very large city, but of course does not seem much after the big Indian cities.

Japan seems to me like a toy country, the houses and people are all so small. Oh, the lovely silks! and the lovely curios! they pass all words!

I do not know whether it is generally appreciated in New York or not, but it is a great deal cheaper to buy Japanese goods there, strange as it may seem, than it is here in Japan, for some reason or other Japan and China are very expensive countries either to shop or to live in. Perhaps the foreigners, English and Americans especially, have made this so. But a dollar here goes about as far as a rupee in India or a shilling in London.

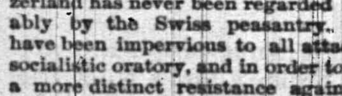
We have been in Yokohama four or five days, and are delighted with its surroundings. At the Japanese navy yard, which is about two hours' sail away, I met an old friend, an American, named Harold Dulaney, a southerner, who is leading the most curious kind of life here. He and I were at one time, when I was very young, excellent friends, and I cannot tell you what a shock it gave me to have him suddenly come before me after so many years' absence, in Japanese garb, with his head shaved, barefooted, leading the life of a hermit in a rocky cave in the hills just outside of the Buddhist temple near the navy yard.

He sent me his card—fancy a barefooted hermit having cards, but I learned afterwards that in his cave he had a great many of his American traps—and said he knew me at a glance. It was a long, long time, however, before I could reconcile myself to looking upon the face of my old friend amid such painful surroundings in a strange land. From what I gather, he has a religious monomania, and expects to become a Buddhist priest.

This is decidedly a foreign city, that is, foreign to Japan, there are so many Americans, English and Germans in business here. Yeddo is only half an hour away by rail. There is a splendid hotel here; by the way, several of them, indeed. S. F. Wolfe, formerly of San Francisco, and who at one time, I believe, thought of establishing a theater here, has a charming caravansary, which faces on the water. The growth of the city is astounding, considering that thirty-five years ago it was only a fishing village.

I judge from what you write me that a great many curious things have been published about me from time to time in the two years which have elapsed since I left New York. I rejoice that the time is so near at hand when I shall have an opportunity of correcting those that need correcting and of setting myself right in the eyes of the public which has, here and everywhere, been so generous to me. My plans for next season are not yet settled, but I expect that they will be by the 15th of August.

Yours with friendship ever,



Swiss Peasantry.

The asylum that anarchists of all European countries have made of Switzerland has never been regarded favorably by the Swiss peasantry. They have been impervious to all attacks of socialistic oratory, and in order to make a more distinct resistance against socialism, peasant associations—under the name of "Bauerbunde"—have been founded in several parts of German Switzerland. The movement has two newspapers, one of which advocates this policy for the government: "The abolition of public festivals and government pensions, opposition to all superfluous expenditures of the state, and improved education."

Unknown to Fame.

A QUEER TRADE.

Visit to the Office of a Professional Tattooer in New York.

Pushing my way into a rather forbidding little shop on the Bowery, in New York, past one or two screens which shut off view from the street, I saw a very curious group. In the middle was a man whose naked arms were covered with tatooed birds, beasts, flags, women and other things. He was the sample. By his side, persuasive, the artist stood exhibiting a fat book of designs to half a dozen young fellows who looked like dock laborers or teamsters; certainly not sailors. The book was a very attractive one, apparently. The men eyed its hundred or more crudely drawn and colored pictures with evident admiration. One of them was chaffering with the artist.

"That air one'll cost you $5," said the man of needles, pointing to a picture of a fat woman, "decollete at both ends," as the saying is.

"I kin git dat done beautiful for two cases," said the young chap.

"Huh! Ye kin, kin ye? Do you know how much the tools cost?"

"No, I don't; but I kin get it done for——"

"Dat's all right, youse tell me where, dat's all. Look at de coloring! And de tools cost just five dollars and fifty cents. Youse make me tired!" And the artist turned away in disgust. He knew his audience.

The young man rolled up his sleeve and the artist set to work with red and blue and black ink, pricking in an elaborate pattern. Soon big drops of perspiration were standing on the victim's forehead, but he wouldn't flinch in the presence of the little group who watched him.

"Doesn't it hurt?" one of them inquired.

"Hurt? Na-ah!" said the victim; but the artist said briefly: "You bet."

An "Old Fashioned Man."

There is in New York a business man who does not send out letters typewritten by the clicking machine worked by the young woman with bangs. Every letter he sends is neatly written out with pen by his private secretary, and when it comes in its unusual delicacy of script with the business man's heavy signature scrawled boldly across the bottom of the sheet the man who receives it feels as if he had been personally and delicately complimented.

I sat in this man's office recently, idly watching the pale young secretary write letter after letter until a big heap lay before him. When the last one was finished he threw his notes into the waste basket with a sigh of relief, put away the fine gold pen he had been using, took up a heavy steel "stub" and after a few preliminary flourishes, began forging his employer's bold and somewhat peculiar signature with some rapidity and considerable skill. At about the sixth repetition of the name he picked up the sheet and held it out to me.

"There," he said, "I was a little rocky at first on these signatures, but I flatter myself that's a pretty fair one. Oh, yes, I commit authorized forgery like this every day. The boss is always off somewhere or other and when he's here he's too busy to sign his letters. But the country dealers wouldn't like to get letters signed with a stamp. They like to see the pen signature; shows that a—D'n a stub pen, anyway!—shows that a man's attending to his business. You bet I'm glad to get through with this mess."

I will never again put trust in an impressive signature. But what about the ethical bearings of such a practice?

An Archbishop's Little Joke.

At a meeting held in Philadelphia to found a Catholic Historical Library, addressed by Cardinal Gibbons, his Eminence caused laughter by saying that the eloquent and beloved Archbishop of Philadelphia, when a small, red-haired lad in Ireland, delighted in repeating the language of Daniel O'Connell, but now the stream of genuine eloquence flowed so freely from the Archbishop's own breast that nobody would accuse him of palming off anybody else's oration as his own.

But Archbishop Ryan managed to get square with his Eminence. "I forgive the Cardinal for his witticisms," he said; "what nature did for me in my early days the Pope did for his Eminence later on, by sending him a red cap."

Matrimonial Red Tape.

"Florry, dear," faltered the youth, "I couldn't summon courage to tell you what is in my heart, and I wrote it. You got my letter, didn't you?"

"Yes, George, I got it."

"And you read it, didn't you?"

"Yes, I read it. In fact I—I read it over twice."

"And now, Florry, he said, growing bolder, "I have come to learn my fate."

"The best I can promise you, George," said the blushing daughter of a distinguished statesman, withdrawing her hand from the ardent clasp of the infatuated young man, "is that I will advance your letter to a third reading to-morrow."

Cross Words Not in Vain.

Loving Wife.—Now that you are ruined, Henry, I will disclose my secret. For years I have been saving up, and now (pouring a shower of gold pieces into his hat) this may tide you over.

Husband.—Oh, my darling, how did you manage to do it?

Wife.—Easily enough. Every time you said a cross word to me I put a nickel in the box.

Domestic Notes.

How innocent a guilty man may look.

Gentleness carries with it great authority.

No mind that has any real life is a mere echo of another.

To bear other people's afflictions, every one has courage enough and to spare.

Happiness grows at our own firesides, and is not to be picked in strangers' gardens.

There is no temptation greater than the one which leads us to excuse our weakness.

"HOW OLD I LOOK, AND NOT YET THIRTY!"

Many women fade early, simply because they do not take proper care of themselves. Whirled along in the excitements of fashionable life, they overlook those minor ailments that, if not checked in time, will rob them of Health and Beauty. At the first symptom of vital weakness, use

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound

The roses will return to your cheeks, sallow looks depart, spirits brighten, your step become firm, and back and head aches will be known no more. Your appetite will gain, and the food nourish you. The Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

PATTISON TESTIFIES

The Governor Before the Philadelphia Committee.

EXPLAINING HIS BANK AFFAIRS.

He Said He Never Paid Bardsley Interest on State Money.

Another Chapter in the Quaker City Bank Scandals—The Officers of the Defunct Garden City Institution Plead Guilty—President Kennedy and His Brother to be Sentenced This Afternoon.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—The councils sub-committee to investigate the affairs of ex-City Treasurer Bardsley and the Keystone Bank held another session. Gov. Pattison appeared and expressed a willingness to testify as to the alleged payment of interest to Bardsley by the Chestnut Street National Bank, of which Mr. Pattison was president prior to his election as Governor. After being sworn he said:

"I was elected president of the Chestnut Street bank in 1887 and served until the second week in January, 1891. The city opened an account with the bank when it was made a city depository. Bardsley at that time was treasurer, I think. No interest was paid to Bardsley on the account.

"I never met Mr. Bardsley as president twice, and I never knew him socially. At no time as president of the bank did I have any conversation with Bardsley on the question of deposit, or directly or indirectly on the payment of interest. No interest was ever paid on State money.

"The first intimation we had that some of the money deposited by Bardsley was State money was when we were called upon to file a bond of $100,000. This Mr. Singerly subsequently did. Bardsley came to the bank in 1889, and received certificates of deposit. These certificates were obtained by Bardsley from time to time, and it was upon these that interest was paid—about $600 at one time and $500 at another.

"The first intimation I had that the bank was paying Bardsley interest was when the cashier came to me and said Bardsley wanted three per cent. on his money. The bank could not afford to pay this, the certificates were surrendered and the account withdrawn.

"Certificates of deposit are issued by all banks and interest paid on them. The account for which we gave Bardsley the certificates was not a check account, and the money merely remained in the bank. We never paid Bardsley any interest on the account of the city."

According to the testimony of experts, Bardsley, in addition to his various illegal sources of profit to himself, appears to have had the use of $653,833 38 for two months. The money belonged to the sinking fund and was the proceeds of the sale of loans to pay the city's debts. Instead of at once paying the money into the treasury, Bardsley loaned it out at interest for the period mentioned.

ALL PLEAD GUILTY.

Philadelphia's Spring Garden Bank Officers to be Sentenced This Afternoon.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—Judge Butler will pass sentence upon Francis W. Kennedy, president, and Henry H. Kennedy, cashier of the defunct Spring Garden, this afternoon.

Both pleaded guilty to the bills of indictment found against them by the grand jury and both asked for a month's grace, Henry Kennedy's counsel pleading that his wife was about to become a mother and that he could assist the receiver in unravelling the accounts much better out of jail than if he were in it.

Charles Lawrence, assistant cashier of the Keystone Bank, pleaded guilty to charges of assisting to wreck the institution and also made an appeal for delay, but it was refused.

Many Cases of Yellow Fever in Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, Aug 18.—Late advices from Mexican ports and Havana say that yellow fever is prevalent to an alarming extent at Vera Cruz, and though the health authorities were striving to check the spread of the disease, their efforts were apparently unavailing. Many deaths have occurred during the last six weeks, and it is a common sight to see a string of funerals half a mile long, stretching from the gates of the city to the cemetery, each funeral party waiting patiently for a chance to bury its dead.

Escaped from a Brutal Father.

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Aug. 18.—Joseph Curtis is charged by his 17-year-old daughter with having chloroformed and assaulted her six weeks ago. He is said to have repeated the offence several times after that. Finally the girl made her escape and told her friends the story. Curtis has fled. His wife died two years ago.

Charged With the Larceny of $100,000.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 18.—A great sensation has been created here by the arrest of J. L. Bay on a warrant sworn out by State Treasurer Morrow charging him with the larceny of $100,000. Bay was a clerk employed by the bondsmen of ex-State Treasurer Woodruff to examine the books of the defaulting State treasurer.

Dinner to Secretary Tracy.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 18.—Mr. H. L. Slater of Webster, Mass., gave a dinner to Secretary Tracy last night at the Malvern, covers being laid for 16.

Chinatown Guarded.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Chinatown is being guarded by Custom House inspectors and revenue agents to prevent the transfer of opium.

Dainty Foods Demand it.

IN EVERY Receipt that calls for baking powder, use the "Royal." Better results will be obtained because it is the purest. It will make the food lighter, sweeter, of finer flavor, more digestible and wholesome. It is always reliable and uniform in its work.

I have found the Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

BENNINGTON CROWDED.

Every Train Arriving To-day Brought Excursionists from Distant Cities.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 18.—The little town of Bennington is already for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Vermont's Statehood and the dedication of the monument to commemorate the battle of Bennington. The Vermont State troops are camped at the Soldier's Home, where they have been joined by two batteries of Rhode Island artillery and several companies of New Hampshire infantry.

Gov. Page has his headquarters at the Soldier's Home. He has been busy all day with the members of the different committees preparing the programme in detail for the exercises to-morrow.

The President will reach North Bennington this evening, but will not come to Bennington until to-morrow forenoon. He will be entertained at North Bennington to-night by Gen. J. G. McCullough, who has tendered the hospitality of his home to the Presidential party.

North Bennington is only five miles from Bennington, and the President will drive over to-morrow morning in a four-horse carriage. The Governor will probably be his escort, although this point of etiquette has not been determined finally.

Every train that came into Bennington to-day brought many excursionists and the town is crowded.

THE PRESIDENT STARTS.

He Leaves Cape May This Morning on His Bennington Trip.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 18.—The President left on his Bennington trip this morning at 8:50 by special train in a Pullman car. Accompanying him were Private Secretary Halford, Russell B. Harrison, Howard Gale, of Indianapolis, a guest of the President; E. B. Tibbett, stenographer, and the President's valet.

Miss Sanger will remain at Cape May and take charge of the official mail, communicating with the head of the government if necessary.

The family of the President will stay at the Cape May summer capitol during his 10 days' absence.

THE MURDERER ARRESTED.

Young Bruner Captured by a Personal Friend in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—Elmer Bruner, who murdered old man Reese at Ebensburg last Thursday, was arrested here last evening by Stephen Acor, a member of Company A, 14th Regiment, N. G. P.

Acor was a personal friend of Bruner's since boyhood. They met on the street near Acor's home. Acor told Bruner it was his duty to arrest him, knowing Bruner was wanted for murder, which he did, and took him to the central station, where he was locked up.

Bruner claims that he went into old man Reese's house for a drink, when the old man pulled a gun on him, and he shot Reese in self-defense. There is no doubt, however, but Bruner's intention was to rob the house, and when Reese surprised him with his gun Bruner shot and killed the old man.

The Window Glass Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—There is no change in the window glass situation, and the prospects for another conference on the scale are no brighter than they were when the last one adjourned. The manufacturers seem indifferent as to when they come to an understanding, and the men are apparently enjoying their prolonged vacation. The workmen, however, say they have little fear as to the result. When the manufacturers are pushed for stock they say they will start regardless of the scale.

Speakers for Unemployed Labor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A meeting at Union square last night in the interest of the unemployed labor of the city was addressed by L. B. Heller, of Newark, N. J., who spoke in favor of co-operative labor, and Prof. Daniel De Leon, Socialistic candidate for Governor of New York. George Francis Train was in the audience, but did not make a speech. To a few intimate friends he solemnly stated that a revolution would occur within 30 days.

Jesse Pomeroy Tries to Escape.

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Jesse Pomeroy, who is serving a solitary life sentence for murder, attempted to escape from his solitary confinement yesterday. He had in his possession a case-knife which had been notched so as to make a rude saw. He was discovered at work on the bars of the windows of his cell. This is his second attempt to escape.

TIED TO THE TRACK

The Centralia Tragedy Creates Great Excitement.

OFFICERS HUNTING FOR BURNS.

He is Suspected of Placing Dougherty Under a Train.

Pieces of Rope Found Along the Track—The Dead Man's Head Was Cut from His Body—Citizens Working Hard to Solve the Mystery—The Coroner's Jury Fail to Agree on a Verdict.

CENTRALIA, Pa., Aug. 18.—As the Empire Freight of the Lehigh Valley Road came down the grade from Mount Carmel at 1 o'clock yesterday morning the engineer saw a man lying on the track in the main street of this village and another man standing near him. He signalled, but they paid no attention, and in another moment the man on the track was crushed to death. His head was severed from the body and rolled down upon the street.

The other man man made off, but was intercepted. He proved to be Michael Burns, a mine foreman and a trusted employe of the Riley Coal Company. He said that the dead man was Anthony Dougherty, a pioneer resident of Centralia, and that he was going to notify Dougherty's family of his death. He was released and did notify the family. Since then he has disappeared.

Burns' disappearance, contradictory statements made by him to his neighbors after the death of Dougherty, and the finding on the track where Dougherty was killed of pieces of rope with which Dougherty may have been bound have raised the suspicion that Burns may have deliberately placed Dougherty on the track to kill him. A coroner's jury has failed to agree, and an investigation is being made. Burns has been tracked to Shamokin, but there all trace of him has been lost.

KEYSTONE REPUBLICANS.

The State Convention Meets at Harrisburg To-morrow.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 18.—The Republican State convention, to assemble here to-morrow, has only to nominate candidates for two State offices—Treasurer and Adjutant-General—and yet it is attracting attention, and is given an importance greater in some respects than if its work were to be the nomination of a Gubernatorial ticket and the selection of delegates-at-large to attend the National convention.

Senator Quay reached here last evening with State Chairman Andrews, ex-Collector Martin and others. Charles Emory Smith, Minister to St. Petersburg, came up from Philadelphia on the same train. The latter said that it would be unwise for the convention at this time to express any Presidential preferences, and added that he thought the platform would strongly indorse the administration of President Harrison. Of course, some approving reference would be made to reciprocity as well.

There will be a pretty lively contest for the two offices to be filled. Gen. Greig will probably be named for Auditor-General, though Giles D. Price, of Erie, is giving him a close race. Whichever one fails to get the place will stand the best chance for the State Treasurership, though John W. Morrissey, of Allegheny, and ex-Speaker Thompson, of Warren, are now the only avowed candidates for that place.

An interesting phase of the proceedings will be over the selection of the chairman of the State Committee. Wm. H. Andrews cannot be re-elected, so the probabilities are that Senator Quay will seek to put the selection in the hands of the candidates, which will mean the choosing of one not unfriendly to him. A fight may develop over this, as the recent practice has been for the convention to make the selection.

Caused by Cigarette Smoking.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 18.—William Shackford, aged 16 years, went to the Thousand Islands yesterday morning on an excursion. On his way to his home in this city he went into convulsions and was held by several men to keep him quiet. He frothed at the mouth, and it is said that he tried to snap at and bite those attending him. The case was called hydrophobia at first, but now the two physicians attending him say that they are certain it is not. The boy is said to have been bitten by a dog some time ago, but the doctors say the trouble is not due to such a source. Young Shackford has been of a very nervous temperament and has smoked a good many cigarettes.

Attached the Hotel.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 18.—A judgment having been recovered in New York for about $9,000 against the estate of the late Mr. Slater, the Norwich millionaire, and the amount not having been paid because of a pending appeal, Samuel H. Leaman has attached the Warren House of Watertown. This hotel is owned by Samuel McLean, who was on the late Mr. Slater's bond, and who is himself a Brooklyn, N. Y., millionaire.

The Desert Lake is Permanent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—The latest report from Salton is that the water is the desert lake is slowly but surely rising at the rate of about three-fourths of an inch per day. This makes the amount of water now in the Salton basin 1,460,544,000 cubic feet. It is forty-eight days since the flood was first noticed. That the lake will be permanent, there is no longer any doubt.

Chloroform Ended His Life.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—L. W. Smith, aged about 23 years, last evening in a room in the Carleton House, committed suicide by taking chloroform. His remains are in charge of the coroner.

CLEAR CASE OF FRAUD.

The Onset Bay Association Serves Notice on Mrs. Roberts, the Spiritualist.

ONSET BAY, Mass., Aug. 18.—A formal written notice has been served upon Mrs. Etta Roberts, of Rochester, N. Y., by the Onset Bay Association requesting that she leave the grounds of the association.

Mrs. Roberts gave a seance at her cottage last Thursday to a party that included Mrs. Dr. Bland, of Washington; M. B. Little, Glens Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. Littlewood and Mrs. F. B. Baker, of Topeka, Kan.

Some of the ladies, becoming sceptical as to some part of the seance, made an examination and found a Miss Annie West, of Topeka, Kan., who had been posing as a spirit, secreted under a bed.

Other evidences of fraud were found and a report made to the officers of the association.

Canada's Rights in Spanish Markets.

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—Sir Charles Tupper cables from England that, notwithstanding the new treaty between the United States and Spain providing for the free admission into the Spanish West Indies of the natural products of the United States while placing heavy duties upon imports from all other countries, the Colonial Office is of the opinion that during the continuance of the treaty of 1886 between Spain and Great Britain, Canadian products must be admitted into Spanish West India markets upon precisely the same terms as are accorded to United States products.

Cincinnati's Franchise Sold.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—Milwaukee has secure Cincinnati's franchise. President Gillete is in the city, and the matter will be formally arranged at a meeting of the magnates this afternoon. The best players from the two teams will be retained, with the exception of Mike Kelly, who will go to the Boston Association team. This arrangement will make the Milwaukee team one of the most formidable in the country.

The Government Granted More Time.

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—In the United States Circuit Court, Judge Nelson has granted the United States until December 1 in which to introduce testimony before the examiners in the suit of the United States vs. the American Bell Telephone Company. This is the suit to repeal patents granted to Alexr. Graham Bell for inventions of the telephone, on the ground that he obtained them by fraud.

The Big Regatta at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The big regatta opens to-day, when some great contests are expected. The best amateur oarsmen in the country will compete and their struggles for the supremacy will be witnessed by thousands. Every large athletic club has its representatives, fit and trained to the minute.

Captain Bierbaur Disgusted.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—Louis Bierbaur, captain and second baseman of the Pittsburg League Club, asked for his release last night. Bierbaur says he is sick of the club's playing. He is probably the last man, however, that would be released by the officials.

An Australian Bank Fails.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 18.—The suspension of the British Bank of Australia is announced. The liabilities are $500,000, half of which is owing to creditors in England.

GREAT GRAIN SCARE

No Failures Reported from the Flurry in Wheat.

LARGE MARGINS CALLED FOR.

Light Trading the Rule To-day on all the Big Exchanges.

Immense Fortunes Made and Lost Yesterday—There Was Wild Excitement in Minneapolis—Prices Declare Wheat is Too High—Short Crops Reported from France.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The wheat market opened steady this morning, but all are watching Chicago and foreign quotations and there may be another spurt in prices before the day is over.

Yesterday's trading in wheat on the Produce Exchange was the largest in years. The transactions amounted to 80,500,000 bushels.

It was somewhat remarkable that no failures were announced. The absence of them showed that the traders were in good financial condition.

The wise speculators discovered that the foreigners thoroughly understood the crop situation on both sides of the water. The profits on the cable orders were heavy, and they came out of the pockets of the men who were so anxious to buy at the outset.

Wheat ought to sell lower on account of the excessive yield. In the hands of speculators entirely great, however, is may be advanced, which will be a good thing for the producers.

Rye, which has had the largest advance of any cereal, had an abrupt decline of 7 cents on the news that the German Government had given orders to accept wheat in lieu of rye on army contracts.

Not only is there a short crop of wheat in Europe, but also of rye, which is an important article of food with the peasantry. The wheat to make up the deficiency in rye will come from America.

NO FAILURES IN CHICAGO.

Brokers Refuse to Do Business Except on Large Margins.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Brokers refused to do business to-day except on extraordinary margins, and principals were not numerous in the pits. The result was a light business. Nobody was anxious to do anything. Everybody feared such a sensational turn in prices as would result in general ruin.

There is no talk of a corner now. The scarcity of breadstuffs in Europe, not manipulation, is held responsible for the phenomenal advance in prices.

The strain of the intense excitement was too severe to be borne for any protracted period. With transactions covering many million bushels per day, an advance of 24 cents per bushel in one week is enough to give pause even to the wildest plunger.

It was a rather remarkable instance of the solidity of this market that during the phenomenal fluctuations in prices the past three or four days, in which immense fortunes have been made and lost, there has thus far not been a single failure, and even rumor has not been busy with the name of any member of the Board as in financial trouble.

Wheat Too High in France.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Business on the Board of Trade here has been stimulated by the excitement prevailing in the Eastern markets for the past few days. Wheat quotations have been considerably higher. It is stated by dealers, however, that as far as this market is concerned the freight is against any further advance in wheat, and prices are considered too high now. The crops are large and between one and two million tons will be available for shipment.

Wild Market in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 18.—There was a lively scene on 'Change here when wheat started at $1.04, swung gradually up to $1.08 and then began a downward whirl that at noon landed at an even dollar. Speculators were greatly excited and bidding was without any basis as to value. It was a wild market.

Report on the French Wheat Crop.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The Consul at Paris cables that the wheat crop of France is estimated at 90,000,000 hectolitres, leaving a deficiency of 32,000,000 hectolitres. Owing to this fact the customs surtax on wheat will be suspended for one year.

Berlin's Grain Market Feverish.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—The corn market in this city continues excited. August rye opened at 209 marks; September and October 203 marks. August wheat was quoted at 254 marks, and September and October at 246.

FORCE MAY BE USED.

Reparation Must be Made by China for the Mob Outrages.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—A Shanghai dispatch says the foreign Ministers have notified the Chinese government that a joint naval demonstration of an effective nature, in which the French, American, British and German squadrons will take part, will be ordered in the near future unless speedy reparation is made for the injuries, outrages and abuses complained of by the Ministers by the powers.

The foreign residents have been much relieved by this action. The tension resulting from the Chinese government's refusal to offer any redress for the outrages upon the foreigners has caused great anxiety.

The Poet Whittier in Good Health.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 18.—John G. Whittier, the poet, is staying at Cartlands Garden. He is at present in better health than at any time during the past six months and is improving daily.

ANOTHER RAILWAY HORROR.

Twelve Persons Killed and Several Injured in Switzerland.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The people of Switzerland have hardly recovered from the scare caused by the accident at Moutchenstein, by which 180 persons on a railroad excursion lost their lives, when they are again startled by another disaster. A special train, which was conveying hundreds of villagers from the surrounding country to witness the fetes in connection with the seven hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the city of Berne, was stopped at a siding a short distance from its destination, in order to allow the regular Paris express to pass.

The engineer of the express, as nearly as can now be ascertained, had not been notified of the fact that the excursion train was on the track ahead of him, and a terrible collision resulted.

The rear coach happened to be an empty one, which was intended for passengers to be taken on at another station. The guards in charge of it were killed, but the presence of this car doubtless saved the lives of many occupants of the other coaches. As it was, the passengers in the second coach were nearly all killed or injured.

The trainmen, assisted by the passengers who had escaped injury, set to work immediately to rescue the unfortunates who were imprisoned in the wreck.

Heartrending cries of agony nerved them to almost superhuman efforts, but in spite of their exertions they were forced to witness the death before their eyes of several who had not been killed outright, but were crushed by broken timbers or exposed to the escaping steam from the locomotive. Twelve corpses were taken out of the debris, and the injured were finally extricated and cared for.

Most of the victims of the disaster were residents of towns in the vicinity of Berne, and the news of the calamity has caused excitement and mourning all through the region.

They Sustain Their Pastor.

ROCHESTER, Pa., Aug. 18.—The congregation of the Rev. J. H. Bauseman met last night and by a vote of 87 to 12 refused to accept his resignation. The resignation was tendered by Mr. Bauseman, who is traveling in Europe, at the request of the Board of Elders, who objected to declarations of Mr. Bauseman favorable to the stand taken by Prof. Briggs of New York. The congregation, in indorsing Dr. Bauseman, practically upholf Prof. Briggs.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—For New England: Generally fair; continued warm weather, southwesterly winds.

For Eastern New York and New Jersey: Generally fair, except light local showers probably in the evening; continued warm weather; southerly winds; warm weather and local showers are likely Wednesday.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Scattered showers; continued warm weather; southerly winds.

Another Challenge to Dixon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A special from Denver says the backer of Danny Daly, that city has issued a challenge in behalf of Daly for a fight with George Dixon for $2,500 a side and the featherweight championship of the world.

Mrs. Rachel L. Harford, sister of Mrs. S. A. Meader, station agent at Evona, died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the age of 58 years. She was taken ill at Asbury Park the day of the Trinity excursion, Tuesday, Aug. 4, and was obliged to remain there until the next day, when she was able to reach her home. She steadily grew worse, until her death, as above stated. Funeral services will be held at her late residence, Wednesday afternoon, at half-past two o'clock. Interment will be made at Middletown, N. Y. The deceased leaves three daughters, Seats, Lizzie, and Ella, the latter being Mrs. Nallin, of Brooklyn, N. Y. She was a member of Trinity Reformed church, and died as she had lived, a lover of her Saviour.

First Water.

Yesterday the Plainfield Water Supply company tapped its main along Netherwood Heights, and introduced its first supply of water into a private residence. The house to which the connection was made is that of N. P. T. Finch, at the corner of Belvidere avenue and Broadway. The plumbing was done by Carney Bros. A number of the officers of the company and others were present.

ZABEL HAMLIN'S PARTY.

A Charming Little Hostess of Fanwood Royally Entertains Her Friends on the Occasion of Her Birthday.

"WHAT a beautiful scene." Such was the expression of all fortunate enough to pass the villa of Lieutenant Hamlin, at Fanwood, yesterday. The remark was prompted by the sight of a congregation of children assembled on the lawn to celebrate the eighth birthday anniversary of Zabel Hamlin, who is destined some day to take a leading position among Fanwood's belles.

The little hostess entertained her guests right royally. Among the little ones present were the Misses Madeline Robinson, Grace McKee, Emma Force, Lillie Fancher, Isabel Lane, Bessie Brown, Ethel Kyte, Sister Downer and Mary Westcott, and Masters Harold Miller, Ned Quereau, Bertie Kyte, Lewis Beeken, John Downer, Victor Downer, Bertie Quereau, Edmund Robinson and James Moore, 2d.

ONE OF THE LITTLE GUESTS.

The principal games played were beanbag and bagatelle, for which prizes were given the winners. In the former game, John Downer was first, with Victor a close second. In the latter "Buddy" Miller was highest, with the irrepressible Victor Downer again second. Beside the games, dancing was engaged in by the nimble youngsters, while several couples were noticed in quiet little tete-a-tetes, in shady nooks.

The birthday cake, a marvel prepared by Mrs. Hamlin, was the admiration of all, and after the eight candles had burned completely down, it was cut by her deft hands and distributed to the children, who immediately investigated the several portions for the ring. Madeline Robinson was the fortunate one, and insists that she will wear it until she is a great lady. "Like mamma". Zabel was presented with many pretty gifts—a gold ring, fans, and rare bric-a-brac being particularly noticeable among them.

The guests commenced to take their leave about eight o'clock, after four hours of genuine pleasure, and many a little head was ready to seek the pillow and nature's sweet restorer. Little Bertie Quereau, upon being asked who was the belle of the day, replied: "I tell you, See-Kay, I talked to Lillie Fancher just as many times as Jimmie Moore did."

A YOUNG GIRL RESCUED.

She Was in a Plainfield Saloon When Her Brother Took Her Away.

An angry scene occurred at the Elkwood saloon on West Second street early yesterday morning.

Among the singers at the saloon, during the past week, has been a young woman named Daisy Delmore, from Brooklyn. Her brother, a New York business man, had been given to understand that she would return home last week Friday. As she did not appear, he grew alarmed, and at daylight yesterday came to this city and sought admission to the Elkwood. He was very excited, and his language evidenced such a dangerous condition of mind that at first he was denied entrance, but finally he went through the place, found his sister, and took her away. He was greatly distressed at the circumstances in which he found her, and quite an exciting scene occurred, during which he threatened to take legal proceedings against the proprietor. "Daisy is very young",—he said—"and she was a good girl. Neither she nor I ever dreamed, when her engagement to sing was made, that the place is the resort it is. If I take this matter into the courts, as I hope to be able to, interesting developments may be expected."

Washingtonville Visitors.

Charles Medows, of Yonkers, is visiting his friend, Robert Clark, of Washingtonville.

Miss Mamie Upson, of Brooklyn, is stopping with her cousins, the Wimens.

Robert S. Doyl, of Trenton, is spending a few days with his friends and former scholars in the Valley.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Neff, Biddeford, Me.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

LOTO AT THE NETHERWOOD.

Last Evening's Successful Event and Who the Subscribers and Prize Winners Were.

NETHERWOOD, N. J., Aug. 17.—The initial loto party of the season was held in the grand parlor of the hotel this evening. Precisely at 8:30 sixty subscribers seated themselves at the tables. Messrs. Crossman, Benary, Froment and Martin announced the numbers. Messrs. Benary and Martin purchased the prizes for the occasion and the general verdict was that the gentlemen deserved great credit for their excellent taste, and the unanimous verdict of the subscribers was that they were simply superb.

It is due to the following ladies to mention that suggestions were made by them to Messrs. Benary and Martin in relation to the prizes and faithfully carried out—Mrs. Benary, Mrs. Richardson, Miss Cullen and Mrs. Bridgman.

The following were the subscribers:

A. E. Benary, Mrs. M. Benary, Mrs. O. B. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Balch, Miss Cullen, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Crossman, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Cullen, Miss Hattie Cullen, Miss Conway, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Donald, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Froment, Miss Ella Fellman, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fellman, Master E. McK. Froment, Master L. V. Froment, C. D. Findley, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Findley, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hime, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hicks, J. Aug. Hinchman, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. F. Littlefield, Harry Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McCredy, Col. and Mrs. W. McMichael, Mr. and Mrs. F. Martin, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ogden, Mrs. Charles Poe, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Richardson, Miss Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Thornton, Mr. S. H. Tobey, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Van Zandt, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Whitney.

The prize winners were: Mrs. Benary, Miss Cullen, Mr. and Mrs. VanZandt, Mrs. Thos. H. Cullen, Miss Hattie Cullen, Mr. and Mrs. McCredy, Mrs. F. L. Froment, Mrs. F. H. Richardson, Miss Richardson, Mrs. Frank Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ogden, Mrs. E. G. Hime, Miss Ella Fielman, Mrs. H. Fielman, Mrs. O. B. Bridgman, Master Eugene Froment, Master Victor Froment, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Whitney, Mr. Balch, Mr. G. E. Thornton, Mr. S. H. Tobey, Mrs. Findley and Fred Martin, jr.

The affair was universally pronounced a grand success and another delightful event was placed to the credit of The Netherwood. Other charming events will be duly bulletined during the midsummer season. A large number of guests are sojourning here and others are booked for the present month.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crossman and family and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hime and family leave here to-morrow for the Long Beach Hotel. I am pleased to announce that they expect to return here early in the queen month of the year—September.

Your correspondent, with all due humility, is grateful to chronicle that his prediction at the commencement of the season that it would be a memorable and prosperous one, is fully verified, and the outlook for the fall season is excellent. The raison d'etre is that Netherwood is one of the most charming summer resorts in the country. J. A. H.

"AMERICAN DAY."

Jersey Junior Mechanics to Parade To-Morrow Afternoon.

The Junior American Mechanics of New Jersey are making extensive preparations for the parade at Asbury Park, to-morrow. There are over one hundred councils in the State, and nearly every lodge will send a delegation. Several of the councils have arranged excursions, and big crowds will attend from the large cities and towns. Trenton alone will send down over three hundred uniformed men, and they have engaged the famous Weccacoe Band, of Philadelphia. New Brunswick will also send a big contingent. Plainfield's and North Plainfield's delegations will number about seventy-five.

Fred. Gilkyson, of Enterprise Council, Trenton, will be the chief marshal of the parade. He has appointed the following aids: Milan Ross, Henry Ryno, W. J. Bodwell, George McClure, Frank DuBois, John French and F. A. Shultz. The line will be formed in two divisions, the first to be commanded by Milan Ross and the second by Henry Ryno, both of Asbury Park. The line will move at 1:45 p. m. over the following route: Down Main to Cookman, to Emory, to Asbury, to Kingsley, to Sunset, where they will be reviewed by the State Council officers, down Sunset to Ocean, to Asbury, countermarch on Ocean, to Sixth avenue, to Kingsley, to Fifth avenue, and dismiss.

BOROUGH COUNCIL DOINGS.

Hereafter North Plainfield Is to Have Two Election Districts.

The North Plainfield Borough Council examined the books of Assessor Cooley last evening, and after making changes in a few assessments accepted them as corrected. An ordinance was introduced dividing the borough into two election districts, in compliance with the law, which requires such division when more than 600 votes have been cast at an election. District No. 1 is to be that part of the borough lying northwest of Emily street, and No. 2 that lying southeast of that thoroughfare. The ordinance was adopted on its first and second readings, and was laid on the table till the next meeting.

Choked by Burglars.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 18.—The house of Frederick Grotwold, on the outskirts of the town, was entered by four men early in the morning who bound and almost choked Mrs. Grotwold to death. Neighbors came to her assistance and Michael Davis of Philadelphia, one of the assailants, was arrested. Mrs. Grotwold's condition is serious.

Exciting Ward Caucus.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—A ward caucus here last night resulted in a row between the Cleveland and Hill men, in which Chairman Halleran used abusive language toward Mayor Kehoe and was knocked down. The ballot box was kicked over and three men arrested for riot.

Virginia Farmers Meet To-day.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 18.—The State convention of the Farmers' Alliance is in session here to-day. The leaders say that no radical measures will be adopted. The Ocala platform will be indorsed and free coinage urged. Senator Daniels will be recommended for re-election.

The White House Ladies in London.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Russell Harrison have returned to England in excellent health. They will remain quietly here for a few days, resting from the fatigues of the round of social pleasures inaugurated in their honor at the French capital.

Chicago Secures Another Battery.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Pitcher Vick and Catcher Schriver, the crack battery of the Milwaukee Club, have been signed by the Chicago Club.

Senator Hendricks Out of Politics.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Senator Francis Hendricks has set at rest the rumors that he would be a candidate for Senator again. To a reporter he said that he was out of politics for good. "I am not a candidate for renomination," he said, "and I would not accept the office under any circumstances."

Founder Bradley's Raid.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 18.—Druggist Henry E. Williams was again arrested on the charge of selling liquor at an up-town store. The charge was preferred by Founder Bradley. Mr. Bradley says he will have every drug store proprietor who sells liquor arrested before the season closes.

Shot at by an Anarchist.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—While Deputy Laur was leaving a meeting at the Cirque Hiver last night, an anarchist discharged a revolver at him. The bullet grazed Laur's coachman. The anarchist was arrested.

The Brady Manslaughter Case.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Aug. 18.—The case of Christian H. Voight, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Maurice Brady, was continued until to-morrow in the police court here.

Two Young Women Drowned.

BATH, Me., Aug. 18.—Mary Keating and Maria Duffy, a couple of the servants employed by J. Manley of Augusta, Me., were drowned during the morning while bathing at Sea Wall Beach, Small Point.

Close on a Murderer's Trail.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 18.—The detectives here now have a positive clue to the murderer of Fresno, whose body was found on the Hope road on Aug. 9. Freeze was last seen alive near Danville. His home was near Port Murray. The officers are on the alert and will effect an arrest very soon.

An Old Man Commits Suicide.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Mathias Wagner, a tailor 72 years old, committed suicide at noon by severing an artery in his wrist and bleeding to death. Trouble with his wife was the cause of the act.

Nominated for Mayor of Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18.—Col. S. A. Handy has been nominated for mayor by the Democrats.

OUR "Y. S. F."

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. LATTER-DAY CHRONICLES—NO. 2.

Being the True Story of Joseph and His Brethren, and How King Alexander and His Wise Men Settled the Hash of the Daughters of Music.

Now in all the land of Nova Cæsarea there was no more comely spot to look upon than the plain of Pinchgut, and there dwelt many people. And among the tents pitched on the plain were those of Joseph and his brethren. And whereas others were traders in merchandise, or shearers of lambs in the city that was across the water, Joseph and his brethren were dealers in wine. And Joseph and his brethren dwelt in harmony together, and they greatly prospered.

But it came to pass in the reign of Alexander, in the first year of his reign, that Joseph departed from the camp of his brethren, and did pitch his tents apart from the camp, by the wayside, and there did build a palace like unto that of a prince. And much people did visit him, and he sold them wine. Yea: much wine sold he them; and the fame of his palace did spread abroad through the land.

Therefore the brethren of Joseph were sore perplexed, and were vexed at heart: for whereas great treasure of shekels filled the coffers of Joseph continually, their wine did lie in its casks, and no one came to buy.

And the fame of Joseph and his palace waxed yet greater, and even yet more great, throughout all Nova Cæsarea, and of the multitudes that came to his palace many could find no entrance, because of the press, and were turned away; and among all other wine sellers there was discontent.

And they said: "Who is this man, that he should have dominion over us; that his wine should flow like the water of running brooks and ours lie idle within its casks?" And they plotted among themselves.

And among the dealers of wine there was one who had laid away much riches. And he gathered up many shekels from out his store, and said to the famous musicians of the land: "Here is much gold. Take ye it, and fashion me an instrument of music. Stay not thine hand, but fashion it in exceeding splendour."

And a mighty instrument of wind was that which they wrought, and they stood it within his tents. And it gave forth sweet sounds, and multitudes came to hear, even from all the country roundabout, and from the palace of Joseph.

And when Joseph saw that the people did follow after the instrument of wind, he gathered his young men together and said unto them: "Get ye hence, and bring me maidens fair to look upon; maidens of comely countenance; whose teeth are as pearls, and whose prattle is as the murmur of babbling brooks. Let them be fair and shapely, and gay of heart, and light of foot. And bid them dance and sing within my courts and before the people." And it was so.

And the multitudes turned back from the mighty instrument of wind, and did make merry with the maidens in the courts of Joseph. And the noise of their frolic was great.

And the neighbors of Joseph were sore in spirit, when the noise of the merrymaking was heard, for quiet had hitherto been their portion, and their sleep had been the sleep of peace.

But now they were disturbed in heart, and could not rest, because of the many noises.

And from among the neighbors appeared one who spake unto Joseph and said: "Let thy people wax less turbulent; let the noise of their frolic be stilled: lest we be overwhelmed with confusion, and lest our wives and our children be made mad with the vanity and vexation."

But Joseph heeded not the words of his neighbor, and his neighbor hied him to his workmen and said: "Build me a wall between my tents and the tents of Joseph, that shall shut off from mine eye and mine ear the sights and the sounds that hitherto have annoyed me."

And they builded the wall; and behold it was to the people in the palace of Joseph as a black cloud against the light of the sun, and it shut off from them the light of the sun, and they were in darkness.

Then behold there was gnashing of teeth in the courts of Joseph, for the anger of the people was greatly stirred because of the building of the wall.

But the maidens in the palace danced and sang as never before, and they found favor in the eyes of the people, and the people forgot their anger, and made merry; and their frolic was greater even than hitherto.

And all the sellers of wine saw that the hearts of the people yearned for the song and the dance, and they each built a palace like unto the palace of Joseph, and they gathered together their young men who were musicians, and their maidens, and did make merry, and did call in all the people. And much wine flowed, and the maidens brought tambourines and castanets and sang and danced before the multitudes. And the sound of much music was abroad in the land—both of the harp, and of the sackbut, and of the cymbals, and of the lute, and of the dulcimer—yea: of all instruments of music, both of string and of brass.

Now this was in the reign of Alexander, in the first year of his reign.

And Alexander called together a council of his wise men, and said unto them: "What thing is this that the people do? See ye not that this is a wicked generation? See ye not that their works are the works of evil? The righteous men have cried against this thing. Let us heed the words of the righteous, and let the wicked cease their evil works, or perish."

So they made a law unto themselves and graved it upon their statute books, and they caused the frolic in the palaces of Joseph, and of his brethren, and of all other sellers of wine, to cease; and the noises were silenced in the land; and the voices of the daughters of music were hushed; and the feet of the dancers were stilled.

And in the plain of Pinchgut once more dwelt peace; and prosperity again did reign.

Howbeit, there were in the plain, and removed from the market-place, certain other palaces where strangers were lodged and where music was played, but which the statute of Alexander and his wise men touched not at all. For Alexander said: "Let us proceed only against the haunts of wickedness, and against those places where music and mirth are made an evil revelry. But in the tents where strangers are lodged music hath been a blessing. Against them let us raise not our hand."

And the hand of the law-givers was stayed against the palaces where music had not become a thing of evil; but on the houses where mirth and song had been turned to idols and became iniquitous they heavily laid their hand, and they ground the dwellings of wickedness under their heel.

But the dealers in wine still plotted among themselves, and they turned their wrath against the palaces where the sounds of music had not been stilled. But they prevailed not, for Alexander and his wise men made for themselves an interpretation of the statute, and that interpretation prevailed.

RYAN MAY PITCH.

The Norwich Team Will Play the Strongest Nine in Connecticut Against the Crescents, To-Morrow.

The batting order for to-morrow's game between the Connecticut League team of Norwich, and the Crescent League's team, to be played on the latter's grounds, is:

NORWICH.	PLAINFIELD.
Blansfield, 1b.	Jones, c. f.
Patchen, c.	Lufbery, 2b.
Murphy, l. f.	Tierney, r. f.
O'Connell, 3b.	Keeler, s. s.
Long, s. s.	McIndoe, l. f.
Pon Lee, r. f.	Hammill, p.
Moore, c. f.	Holley, 1b.
Finke, 2b.	Lee, 3b.
Sullivan, p.	Bonner, c.

In the first game between these teams at Norwich, Aug. 4, the score was a tie. The Crescents got 8 hits off Sullivan and the Norwichs got 7 hits off Taylor. In the second game, Aug. 6, the Crescents had 7 hits and the Norwichs 9. Costly errors by the former, however, lost the game. To-morrow on their own grounds the Crescents hope to win.

Pon Lee—the right fielder who plays in Tierney's place—is a Japanese student of the Norwich Academy. He is the star player of the Academy nine.

It is rumored that Ryan, the great pitcher, or some other stronger twirler than Sullivan, is to be brought along and put in the box for Norwich if necessary.

Everybody in Plainfield should go to this game. Not only to give the visitors a cordial welcome for their past entertainment of the Crescents, but to see one of the best professional league teams in the country play ball.

GREAT VICTORY FOR PLAINFIELD.

The St. George Cricketers Defeat Paterson's Invincible Players.

A fine game of cricket was played on the grounds of the St. George Cricket Club, of this city, Saturday, between the St. George and the Paterson Cricket Clubs, which resulted in a great victory for the home club. The Patersons have lost but one other game this season, and the score that the St. George held them down to Saturday is the lowest ever yet made. The home club showed up in great form at all points, and played without an error. The bowlers, Hendry, Lewis and Stansfield, did great work with the ball, while Gow, Ogden and Chamberlain took the honors at the bat. The features in the fielding were the catches of Wharton and Lewis and a difficult running catch in long field by Gow. A luncheon was provided for the visitors at the close of the game, and they left on the 7:58 train for New York, delighted with their trip to Plainfield. The score:

A WHEELMEN'S MEET.

Jersey Cyclers to Camp Out at the Seaside.

It has been decided by the governing board of the Asbury Park athletic association to have, on the 28th and 29th of the present month, at the athletic grounds, opposite the North Asbury Park station, a grand gathering of wheelmen from this and adjoining States.

The men will go into camp upon a semi-military plan, tents and cots being furnished by the athletic association. Meals will be furnished to the wheelmen on the grounds, the men marching to meals at regular hours, as if in military service.

The encampment will be ready for the reception of wheelman on the 27th, but will not be formally opened until the morning of the 28th, when a very attractive ceremony of opening will be gone through, including an address by Governor Abbett, firing of a salute, raising of the camp flag, review, etc.

Before the camp is formally opened the attending wheelmen will meet and select officers to have charge of the encampment, arrange hours for reveille, doctor's call, breakfast, dinner and supper calls, tattoo, taps, etc., and officers of the day and guards selected.

On the afternoons of the 28th and 29th an unusually attractive programme of races will be run, one of the principal contests being a team race for an elegant silver trophy to be presented by the citizens of Asbury Park, and to be contested for annually, as the encampment will be formed every succeeding year on the last Friday and Saturday of August. Gold medals will be given to individuals in the team and other races.

Friday night will witness a grand lantern parade and a "fantique", a new and novel feature among wheelmen. Prizes will be given to the best decorated wheel, the most unique caricature in the "fantisque" and to the club having the largest number of men in line.

The camp will not be broken up until the morning of the 31st.

The officers of the association have already received information from prominent wheelmen throughout the State, which warrants the belief that the event will be unusually successful, it being the first of the kind ever suggested in the East.

Circular letters giving all necessary information relating to the encampment and to the programme of races are now being sent out by the association. A small camp registration fee will be exacted, also an entrance fee for the races, both of which will be only nominal.

The athletic grounds are to be greatly enlarged, and a large force of workmen are already at work surveying and making a track, one-third of a mile in length, which will be the largest and widest of its kind in the United States.

Plainfield, the city of cyclers, will be largely represented in the camp.

A Physiological Item from Somerville.

For queer people and strange happenings Somerville takes the palm. The New York papers are telling that "A farm hand employed by W. H. Allen, near Somerville, shot himself three times in the knee, but inflicted only scalp wounds. A physician was summoned, but before he arrived the would-be suicide had packed up his belongings and left. It is thought he is insane." Such a singular physiological transformation could exist only in Harkinstown. In Plainfield there would be no doubt as to the sanity of a man who carried his scalp on his knee. The presumption here would be that such extraordinary displacements of anatomy naturally would affect the brain and the reason. Yet this man is only "thought" to be insane. That's the Somervillian of it.

—A private parlor car has been secured by the Plainfield Knights for their trip to Atlantic City, next week. A few seats are still left which can be secured by application to Asa Collier, Wm. H. Sebring, or Joseph G. Miller. The cost will be $1 50 extra.

They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

The Householder's Pride.

She had just moved into her own house on Forest avenue and a friend was calling on her.

"This is a very pleasant locality," said the visitor.

"Oh, yes; I like it very much. That's why we bought the house."

"What kind of neighbors have you?"

"Really, I don't know."

"Haven't you got acquainted with any of them?

"Oh, no," with some pride; "they all live in rented houses, you know."—Detroit Free Press.

Housetop Parties the Fad in New York Now.

How Gothamites Entertain Friends on Summer Nights—Roof Gardens for the Stay-at-Homes—The Best Flowers and How to Arrange Them.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

This season housetop parties are all the "go." Many and many a family are now taking tea on the roof for the first time. It is surprising how the idea has traveled. A lady or gentleman who has enjoyed the novel experience tells it "confidentially" to some friend who tries it, and the friend tells it to somebody else, and somebody else finds it delightful, and so each one "passes the secret" around. What was last season an innovation is likely this summer to become a "fad."

"Can you come up to the house tomorrow evening? We are going to have a housetop tea party." That was the gentle way my friend broke the news to me one day last summer.

"A housetop tea?" queried I.

"Yes."

"What kind of a tea is that?"

"Wait till you see one, and then you will know everything."

"All right."

"Remember, I shall expect you at eight o'clock sharp."

In fact, a few minutes ahead of time we pressed the electric button that brought the aproned maid to the door.

"You will find Mr. S. on the roof," replied the low-voiced girl to our interrogatory. "He told me to tell you to walk right upstairs."

Slightly wondering, we mounted one flight, then another, still a third, and tired at the knees and half out of breath we climbed the steep pair of stairs that led to the roof.

Once on the roof we had come upon a quiet scene of domestic felicity. There sat our genial host, lounging in neglige attire in a big arm-chair. Smoking the pipe of peace he looked the picture of comfort. By his side, swinging to and fro with the gentle breeze, his mate reclined in a hammock. Near at hand two children were playing and enjoying themselves to their heart's content. After the first greetings were exchanged the host said: "This is our summer tea room. What do you think of it?"

Then we took in the situation. The roof was the kitchen, dining and drawing-room. It was also a blooming flower garden. All along the edge of the roof was a double row of boxes, each one filled with plants of different colors. The air was heavily laden with a pleasant perfume. The nostrils were tickled by a stealing odor of geranium and by the delicate heliotrope. Altogether it was a desirable change and relief from the smells that rise from the dusty streets below.

One corner of the roof seemed to be a regular bower of vines and climbing plants. Morning glories, scarlet beans and asters overran an arbor made of heavy wire. Beneath all this mass of green and color a rustic chair was almost hid from view.

The other corner of the housetop had been arranged for solid comfort. The roof was covered with Spanish matting, and in convenient places lay several fine rugs. A pretty Japanese screen shut off the entrance to a tent, the inside of which contained kitchen utensils. Thus protected, the mistress of the household brewed tea on an alcohol stove. Two or three low-sized tables were decorated with bouquets and dainty pieces of china and cut glass.

After inspecting the roof—the summer tea room, as our friend liked to name it—we fell to discussing the housetop as a place to invite your friends on a summer night.

"Where," said he, in a tone of inquiry, "where can you find a cooler, more comfortable place on a hot night than on the roof? Here you can be fanned by every gentle breeze that blows, and here you can drink in the ozone that comes flying over the city from the ocean. New Yorkers who are 'left in town' in summer miss a great deal when they fail to utilize their housetops."

"Why," he continued, "only to-day I was reading a western correspondent's account of New York during the warm weather." And then he read aloud something in this style: "There is little comfort, little enjoyment in town when the mercury climbs up in the '90's. The pavement beneath your feet is like a hot coal. What shall we say of those days when the steaming air is like an invisible sponge, when walls and pavements emit waves of reflected heat? In grilling weather the metropolis is a good place to flee from."

"That may all be so, but the writer evidently left the roof out of his account. Those who are obliged to stay in town in July and August have a chance to enjoy summer night comfort. Here are no hot waves, no bad smells, no heat of gas, no gay and festive flies, and besides you can have the enjoyment of a flower garden."

And now a few guests began to arrive. The children were marched off to bed by the tyrannical maid. A tall piano lamp of polished brass was drawn up to where we sat and it shed a mellow light. Around the arbor and in front of the tent were the rainbow lights of Japanese lanterns, dancing for all the world like fireflies in the evening wind.

"If you will excuse me," said the hostess, "I can have tea in a few minutes." With a smile she disappeared behind the screen. The servant arranged chairs around the tables, and soon she announced that tea was ready to be served.

And a jolly little supper party it was. The novelty of the whole affair actually made the viands appetizing. What with cold tongue and chicken, a salad, warm biscuits, fruit, a glass of wine and a cup of tea, little need be added. Cigars were lit, and the conversation became animated. Later on, some one with malice aforethought brought out a banjo from its hiding place. The music was soon drowned by the voices of singers, which rang out clear and strong in the night air. The little gathering broke up about midnight, and "good night" was said reluctantly to host and hostess who had planned so pleasant an entertainment.

One clever dame decided to give a "costume tea party." Almost all of the contents of the sitting-room were removed to the roof. Tables, chairs, rugs, bric-a-brac, etc., were arranged on the housetop. It was to be a genuine Japanese tea. The guests were notified to appear in costume. Indeed, some of the ladies were resplendent in gorgeous dresses, and one or two went so far as to imitate the Japanese make up. The affair was a grand success and is likely to be repeated before the summer is over.

ONE CORNER WAS A BOWER OF VINES AND CLIMBING PLANTS.

It is not yet too late to have a roof garden this season, although the time to get plants ready is in June. Boxes should be made to fit the edge of the roof. The size of each box may be from twelve inches to fourteen inches in depth, twenty inches wide, and six feet in length. Boards should be placed underneath to protect the roof. Then the boxes need perforations at the bottom for drainage, and to be filled carefully with sand, fine loam and mold.

It is desirable to have plants that make a good show. Scarlet geraniums, verbenas and blossoming lobelias and heliotrope bring color and fragrance from the beginning. Seedlings well started and in good shape can be had of the florist, and will show pleasing results in a few weeks.

There are a number of flowers which are reasonably sure to produce an abundance of flowers. One of the best of its kind is Drummond's phlox. Petunias and merigolds are hardy, and flourish vigorously on the roof. Portulacas lend color, and they can be so arranged that the colors vary from pale yellow to deep bronze, or from royal purple to delicate pink. Roses are more difficult to cultivate, but a few Jacqueminots will add color, and fill the air with perfume.

Besides, it is desirable to have a secluded nook or corner which has the appearance of tropical luxuriance. To accomplish that, one can fix up an arbor overrun with scarlet beans, morning glories, etc., banked on either side by tall palms, dracaenas and other tropical plants.

Amid such surroundings many a cozy tea party can be enjoyed on the housetops during July and August. In truth, the roof is about as agreeable a resort as one can wish for, with its breezes, its flowers and its outlook. If the faintest zephyr is wafted from the ocean you are sure to get a whiff of it on the housetop. The situation is a most interesting one, the view by day or night picturesque in the extreme. Those who have never stood on the roof of an eight or ten-story flat, on a silvery moonlight night, have missed a sight worth going miles to see. Far out toward Sandy Hook, the lights of Staten Island twinkle and shimmer like stars; the blazing torch of the statue of Liberty is a powerful beacon light; two great cities are chained together by a dazzling necklace of rubies, pearls and diamonds strung along the Brooklyn bridge. The city housetop is a great place for those who are left in town in summer.

A TEA PARTY ON THE ROOF.

NATURALISTS' PORTFOLIO

A Blood-Sucking Plant of Central America.

Its Grasp Can Only be Torn Away With Loss of Skin and Flesh—Life-Like in Its Action When in Contact With Anything.

Special interest will be felt in the following stories about a carnivorous plant, found in the swamps of Central America—called by the natives la sagenas de diable (the devil's seine) or snare—the facts of which are in part corroborated by Mr. Dunstan, the eminent naturalist. The inhabitants of this region exhibit the greatest horror of this trailing plant and give terrible accounts of its death-dealing powers. One of these stories was of an Englishman residing in Managua, who, while hunting in the swamp a few years before, lay down beneath a tree where a large and powerful specimen of this singular plant was growing, and inadvertently falling asleep, awoke to find himself enveloped in its web, and, in spite of every effort made to extricate him, perished in its deadly embrace. Another story was of an escaped convict, who had hidden in the swamp, and whose bones had been found in the folds of the sagenas only a short time before Mr. Dunstan's visit. These stories, remarkable as they may seem, are firmly believed in by the people; but the only three specimens which Mr. Dunstan was able to find were all small ones though the meshes of the largest would probably, if extended in a straight line, measure nearly if not quite one hundred feet. He was able to discover but very little about the nature of the plant, owing to the difficulty of handling it, for its grasp can only be torn away with loss of skin, and even of flesh; but as near as Mr. Dunstan could ascertain, its power of suction is contained in a number of infinitesimal mouths, or little suckers, which, ordinarily closed, open for the reception of food. The gum exuded seems to serve the two-fold purpose of increasing its tenacity and of overcoming a victim by its sickening odor. The plant is found in low, wet, places, and usually beneath a large tree, and, while dormant, seems only a network of dry, dead vines, covering the black earth for several feet; but, coming in contact with anything, will instantly begin to twist and twine upward in a horrible life-like manner, breaking out with the gum-like substance spoken of before, and inwrap the object with a celerity that is almost incredible. Mr. Dunstan attempted to bring away a root, but it died during his return voyage, growing so foul with a strong odor of real animal corruption that he was obliged to get rid of it.

The Walking Leaf.

The walking and climbing leaves of Australia were for over half a century considered the greatest of natural wonders. A party of sailors wandered inland and sat down to rest under a tree. A great wind shook to earth several dead and brown leaves. These presently began to show signs of life and crawl towards the trunk, which they ascended and attached themselves to their respective twigs! Hence the sailors, who promptly ran away, said the place was bewitched. But the simple fact turned out that the so-called leaves were really leaf-shaped insects, having long pendulous legs, which could be folded out of sight, and possessing the chameleon-like power of varying their color to correspond with that of the foliage they are clinging to. Upon being shaken to the ground, instinct has taught them to seek the shelter of the friendly leaves again as soon as possible. These walking leaves are frequently found in the woods of Illinois. The farmers call them "animated twigs," as they exactly resemble a bit of the tree. They are green when the trees are green, but as soon as the foliage changes they become brown. The writer of this was sitting under a tree reading in the wood of Southern Illinois, when one of the "twigs," as it was supposed to be, dropped on the page. It moved and thus revealed its identity. Its nature seemed to be that of a worm and its vitality that of the very lowest. It died as soon as removed and served as a bookmark for many years.

The Musical Lizard.

When in Switzerland, two years ago, writes a correspondent, I made the acquaintance of some lizards living in the crevices of one of the sunny walls of our garden. As I had somewhere heard that lizards have a good ear for music, I resolved to prove the fact; so one afternoon, armed with a small musical box, I wended my steps to their tomato-covered home. Before I had finished the first tune a considerable audience had collected, an audience it was a pleasure to play to, for the lizards were far more attentive than most human beings. Out peered head after head, a little on one side, in a listening attitude. I gave my little friends a musical entertainment, (varied by whistling) nearly every day, and before long they got much bolder, and would venture right out of their holes and lie motionless on the broad ledge of the wall, their bright black eyes half closed as a rule, but opening now and then to give me a lazy wink of enjoyment."

A Wise Dog.

A speaker at a meeting said he knew a man who, not content with getting drunk himself, one day took it into his head he would make his dog drunk. He poured wine down the dog's throat, and fairly accomplished his purpose. Their way home lay near a wooden foot bridge, which crossed a stream, and, though the dog had two legs more than his master, yet he could not keep on the bridge, so he fell over and was near being drowned. Next day, when they were both sober, the man and his old companion started off together to the public house. When they got there, however, Pincher sat himself down at a very respectful distance from the entrance, and not all the whistling and coaxing of his master could induce him to try another drop.

He must be an obscure and commonplace person who has no enemy.

TEN PEOPLE KILLED

Two Railroad Trains Collide at Full Speed.

AWFUL SCENES AT THE WRECK.

Some of the Injured Burned to Death While Being Rescued.

Forty Persons Drowned by a Cloudburst—A Mountain Stream Converted Into a Torrent—Miles of Railway Destroyed—The Big Labor Congress at Brussels—An American Socialist Presides.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—A terrible collision occurred shortly after noon at a point between Ostrowo and Loswitz, in Prussian Poland. Two passenger trains collided at full speed.

The trains were terribly wrecked, and ten persons killed and many injured.

Coals from the locomotive set fire to the wreck, and some of the injured burned to death while men were striving to rescue them.

A TOWN DESTROYED.

Forty Persons Drowned by a Cloudburst in Austria.

VIENNA, Aug. 19.—A dispatch from Botzen, an Austrian town at the confluence of the Talfor and the Eleach, announces the partial destruction of the village of Kollman through a cloudburst. The cloud, it appears, burst over the mountains, near Botzen, which is protected against inundations by a strong dyke two miles in length.

The fall of water flooded the lowlands and converted a mountain stream into a torrent which swept through the village of Kollman, carrying away men and cattle and destroying half the houses of that place.

The cloudburst occurred at midnight. The water loosened an avalanche. Forty persons were drowned. The railway was destroyed for many miles.

THE LABOR CONGRESS.

An American Socialist Presides and Delivers an Address.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 19.—Lucien Saniel, a German-American Socialist, presided all day at the International Labor Congress and delivered an address.

He said that American workingmen insisted that the raising of a surplus by a high tariff should cease, and that the country was too much over-ridden by monopoly supported by the surplus raising system. Saniel was very advanced in his views.

Other Americans at the Congress say that at one period Saniel was a high tariff man and edited a newspaper in that interest, but that he has since become converted.

Herr Bebel delivered a long discourse on the wisdom of an alliance between small tradesmen and workingmen in their common interest. That the interests of the two classes were identical, and that both were equally downtrodden by monopoly, which they should join in attempting to abolish. Herr Bebel was greatly applauded throughout.

A number of other delegates, more or less prominent, spoke in the course of the day. The resolutions recommending workingmen to support for office candidates only who would pledge themselves to advocate measures in the interest of workingmen met with great favor, and delegates from all countries expressed their hearty endorsement.

Excitement in Utah Over Extensive Mineral Discoveries.

OGDEN, Utah, Aug. 19.—This whole region of country is ablaze with excitement over extensive mineral discoveries about 25 miles northeast of here at the head of Paradise Canyon.

An uninterrupted stream of prospectors and miners from all parts of the territory passed through here yesterday. The hills are covered with miners and the town of La Plata is already laid out. Experts report that the camp will be a second Leadville.

An Ex-Bank Cashier Arrested.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 19.—About a year ago the Merchants' bank, of this city, which had branches in Pleasantville, Elmer and Egg Harbor City, closed its doors with liabilities to the amount of $100,000. At that time Cashier Dunkle was charged with causing the bank's downfall by embezzling its funds. He disappeared but has just been arrested at Fort Payne, Ala., and Sheriff Charles S. Lacy of this county has gone to bring him back.

Prof. Mooney Talks Fight.

ST LOUIS, Aug. 19.—Prof. Mike Mooney of this city is ready to accept the offer of Andy Bowen of New Orleans for a match. Mooney says: "I will fight Bowen for $1,000 a side and the best purse that can be obtained, and I will fight him at his home in New Orleans, or anywhere else. I will not only meet Bowen, but will fight any man in the world for $1,000 a side and a purse at 133 pounds, give or take two pounds."

The Buffalo Suicide.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A brother of L. D. Smith, of Avoca, who committed suicide at the Carlton House yesterday, arrived here and identified the remains. He said his brother had started from home to go to a Western college, where a professorship awaited him. Mr. Smith assigns no reason for his brother's rash act. The deceased was unmarried and a graduate of Cornell University.

HORSEWHIPPED IN COURT.

Mrs. McMahon Wreaks Vengeance on Millionaire Smith.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Edward McMahon horsewhipped Millionaire Peter Smith and his lawyer, P. McHugh, during the forenoon and then fainted in her husband's arms.

The cause of the double assault was the reading of a deposition by a Canadian detective reflecting on the character of Mrs. McMahon, and the horsewhipping is the climax of a series of sensations growing out of a long stand ing family quarrel.

Edward McMahon's marriage some months ago to his second wife, who wielded the rawhide in court, was very displeasing to his mother and sister—the latter the wife of Millionaire Smith. McMahon's little son, Milton, had a fortune of $30,000, and it was asserted that the stepmother's chief motive in marrying McMahon was to obtain possession of this sum.

McMahon and wife on one side, and his mother, sister and Millionaire Smith on the other, have each charged the other with attempting little Milton's death by poison to prevent the opposing party from securing his custody.

The Canadian deposition read was in furtherance of the legal fight by the Smith faction. Mrs. McMahon, shortly after entering Judge Kohlsaat's court room, walked quickly to where Smith and McHugh were sitting, and with a black snake whip, before the astonished bailiffs or spectators could prevent her, slashed Smith and McHugh repeatedly across the face and neck.

Judge Kohlsaat took no action in the matter, and intimated that the child would not be given to either faction to the controversy.

QUAY AND MAGEE MEET.

Conference Between the Old-Time Enemies at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 19.—The city is filled with enthusiastic adherents of the various candidates who are to be nominated by the Republican State convention to-day. The offices for which candidates are to be nominated are: State Treasurer, Auditor-General and 18 delegates-at-large to the proposed constitutional convention.

There is much difference of opinion as to the outcome of to-day's convention, but this ticket has many adherents: For State Treasurer, Giles D. Price, of Erie; For Auditor-General, D. McM. Gregg, of Berks County. The former is also a candidate for Auditor-General, and his friends declare that his name shall not be used in connection with the Treasurership. Senator Mylin is also a candidate for Auditor-General, and declares himself as confident of securing the nomination.

The event of the day was a conference between Chris Magee and Senator Quay. These two men have not been on friendly terms since the campaign of 1883, but they met in the rooms of State Senator Mylin and discussed the latter's candidacy for Auditor-General.

ROW AT A CHRISTENING.

A Number of Hungarians Engage in a Terrible Fight.

ASHLAND, Pa., Aug. 19.—A number of Hungarians employed at the Good Spring Colliery had a terrible fight among themselves last night, in which four of their number were so badly injured that they will probably die.

The row occurred at a christening given by one of the Hungarians and lasted for fully two hours. Knives, clubs and stones were freely used. No one interfered, and they were left to fight it out, with the above result.

Funny Report About the Kaiser.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The absolute lack of reliable reports of the Kaiser's condition, besides those of the German government, has given rise to various funny explanations for his continued stay on board the Hohenzollern. The last, and perhaps the most ludicrous, is that the Emperor is keeping himself in seclusion on his yacht pending the slow process of growing a beard.

"Old Hutch" Made $600,000 on Wheat.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Among the men who have profited by the present rise in wheat is that eccentric gentleman, Benjamin Hutchinson, more generally known as "Old Hutch." He has been a bull on this cereal for some time. If rumor is to be believed, "Old Hutch's" profits during the week are over $600,000. He dealt principally through a New street broker firm.

The Lake Erie and Western Strike.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 19.—Not a freight train is moving on the Lake Erie & Western Railroad between Peoria and Lafayette. Only one train went out of the city last night. The crews say they will not go back to work unless their demands are conceded. They claim that the traffic is very heavy and that the company compels them to work too much extra time.

IS HE THE MURDERER

A Woman and Her Son Chased by a Man Resembling Almy.

HE FIRED TWO SHOTS AND FLED

Hiding in an Old Gypsy Camping Ground Near Medway, Mass.

The Third Woman Whom He Has Shot at Recently—Deputy Sheriffs and a Posse of Citizens Searching for Him—New York Police Discredit the Report that He Has Been in that City.

MILFORD, Mass., Aug. 19.—The deputy sheriffs, with a large posse of citizens, are searching for a man supposed to be Frank Almy. This man, who is thought to be insane, murderously assailed Mrs. Lizzie Corcoran, a stone-cutter's wife.

Mrs. Corcoran gave the following account of the attack:

"About 8 o'clock in the morning, accompanied by my son John, 12 years old, I went to gather elderberries. We went to the old Gypsy camping ground on the Medway road. We had been there scarcely half an hour when I was startled by the crackling of bushes close by me.

"I turned around and saw a man lying down and looking intently at me. I had read the account of the New Hampshire murder, and the man before me answered the description of Almy exactly.

"My boy was quite a distance from me when I first noticed the man. I pretended not to see him and tried to get towards my boy. He watched my movements like a cat.

"John shouted to me, asking where I was. I answered, telling him to run for the railroad track, which I attempted to do also.

"Then the man jumped from the ground, and muttering something started to cut me off from the railroad crossing. While trying to get on the track I caught my boy and clasped him in my arms.

"We looked out through the bushes and saw the man looking up and down the track. Not seeing any one, he returned to the spot where he was first observed. At last I thought he was far enough away for us to escape, and we ran to the track as fast as we could.

"I had scarcely got to the railroad when two shots were fired, but neither of them hit either of us. I cannot tell you how I got home, but, I thank God, I have not met the fate of the poor New Hampshire girl."

Mrs. Corcoran describes her assailant as tall, weight about 160 pounds, wore a black suit, soft hat and a white collar; had a light mustache and light brown, wavy hair.

Officer Moore found two empty cartridges on the path described by Mrs. Corcoran where the shots were fired.

This is the third woman in this locality who has been fired at recently and who says Almy is around.

Did Not Visit New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—A report that Frank Almy, the murderer of Christie C. Warden, of Hanover, N. H., was in New York recently, is discredited at Police Headquarters.

A MILLION LOST BY FIRE.

More Than Sixty Buildings Burned in Jacksonville, Fla.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 19.—A fire broke out in this city shortly after midnight. At 7 o'clock over 25 business houses are burned and over 40 dwellings. The loss is fully $1,000,000. The insurance is believed to cover about half the total loss.

Six blocks long, extending from Bay street to Beaver street and one block on each side, were destryed.

The fire caught in R. D. Knight & Co.'s grocery adjoining the large Hubbard building, and in a very short time the block was a mass of flames. Thence they were carried diagonally across to the Tremont Hotel, thence to Colonel Burbridge's large block, in which the Seminole Club is domiciled.

The fire spread on all sides, being fanned by a stiff breeze that rose. The firemen worked heroically throughout, but nothing could stay the flames until exhausted for want of material.

They were stopped at Beaver street on the north, at Laura street on the west and at Ocean street on the east.

Morley Refutes Parnell's Statement.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—John Morley has thought it necessary to answer the charges of Parnell. He has written a letter denying the ex-leader's statement of his double dealing. He says that far from knowing that the O'Shea divorce suit was sure to go against Mrs. O'Shea, he believed that the verdict would vindicate Parnell, and therefore there was no reason for him to implore Parnell not to give up the leadership as alleged.

Slavin and Mitchell Coming.

ASSOCIATION MEETING.

President Kramer Tenders His Resignation but it is Rejected.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19.—At the special meeting of the American Association, held at the Lindell Hotel, the deal admitting Milwaukee to permanent membership in the Association was ratified by a unanimous vote.

President Kramer tendered his resignation as president of the American Association, but by a unanimous vote it was rejected, and the Association absolutely refused to accept it. Strong pressure is being brought to bear to have him reconsider it.

F. H. Stucky of Louisville said his club had no thought of withdrawing from the Association, and would be in it for years to come.

The Milwaukee Club signed Catcher Vaughn, pitchers Mains and Dwyer, First Baseman Carney and Short-stop Canavan of the Cincinnati team. Pettit will captain the team and Cushman will continue as manager, Bancroft being merely business manager.

THREE DROWNED.

A Party of Artists Perish While Sketching on the Ohio River.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 19.—At 1 p. m. a boat containing a party of four artists sketching on the Ohio River opposite this city, capsized near the Kentucky shore and three were drowned.

Those who perished were: Clara Fechheimer, aged 18, daughter of a leading shoe manufacturer of this city; Miss Bamburger, of Chicago, visiting Miss Fechheimer; Joseph Bloch, cousin of the president of the Bloch Printing Company, of this city. Another young man, named Solomons, escaped drowning by swimming to the shore.

The party got into the boat at Fulton, a suburban town. It is supposed that they came direct from the Cincinnati Art Museum for a boating outing.

$200,000 Fire in Cambridge.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 19.—The Damon Safe Company's Works, on the banks of the Charles River, were destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss will reach $200,000, on which there is only a partial insurance. The structure adjoining, leased by E. Kendall & Co., machinists, was also destroyed, causing a loss of $80,000, on which there is an insurance of $50,000. The men employed in both places numbered about 280, the majority of whom owned their own tools and will suffer a loss in the vicinity of $10,000.

Knights of Pythias Elect Officers.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 19.—The following officers of the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias was elected here for the ensuing year: Grand Chancellor, George W. Buckman, Philadelphia; grand vice chancellor, John J. Davis, Pittsburg; grand prelate, John M. Stratton, Philadelphia; grand keeper of records and seal, George Hawkes, Philadelphia; grand master of exchequer, John Mountney, Philadelphia; grand minor guard, Charles G. Freed, Philadelphia.

The French Fleet in England.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The fleet of French war vessels which has recently been visiting Cronstadt, and whose officers have been received with such marked and significant enthusiasm at that port and at St. Petersburg, arrived in the Solent between the Isle of Wight and the mainland of England to-day.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—William M. Martine, a lawyer, of No. 11 Broadway, said to be a brother of Judge Randolph B. Martine, has been arrested, charged with passing bogus checks.

AN IMPOSING EVENT

Bennington Aglow With Patriotic Enthusiasm To-Day.

30,000 STRANGERS IN THE TOWN.

The President and a Host of Distinguished Men Present.

Great Parade of Soldiers and Citizens—The Stars and Stripes Flutter from Every House—General Stark's Victory Proudly Celebrated—Grand Day for the Plucky Little Green Mountain State.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 19.—If the little band of farmers who marched out of Bennington one day in August, 1777, to meet the vanguard of Gen. Burgoyne's army could come back in their shirt sleeves and cowhide boots to join the brilliant parade that moved this morning toward the monument erected on the scene of their heroism the contrast would be startling.

What would be the emotions of old John Stark, the brave leader of the heroic backwoodsmen, who gave the famous order, "Aim at their waistcoats, boys," if he could look upon the rotund figures of the Putnam Phalanx of Hartford and the Old Guard of New York? What would he think of the soldierly bearing of the West Point cadets? What would he say of the Grand Army, the Knights of Pythias, the Patriarchs Militant and the Sons of the Revolution?

Would the old General go into the fight again with the army gathered here to-day and put Burgoyne's to flight, or would he ask for the farmers, armed with their flintlock muskets, and say to them: "There they are boys. We beat them to-day or Molly Stark's a widow?"

A Day to be Remembered.

The celebration in this city to-day marks a double event in the history of the Green Mountain State—commemorating its admission into the Union, just 100 years ago, and the unveiling of the monument in honor of Stark's famous victory over the British forces under Col. Baum in 1777.

This achievement, like the battle of Bunker Hill, acquired celebrity because it dealt a death blow to a dangerous military movement at a critical juncture.

Stark, with an inferior force, completely routed the English troops, captured their cannon and seven hundred prisoners, and by his success added to the triumphs which made possible the independence of the colonies from British rule.

The monument is a plain shaft of magnesian limestone. It is 44 feet square at the base, and is 301 feet and 10 inches in height. The total cost of the shaft was $90,000, of which the federal government contributed $40,000.

There were fully 30,000 people in town to see to-day's proceedings.

The Great Parade.

The procession was very imposing. The procession formed on the grounds of the Soldiers' Home. At 9:30 a. m. a gun from Fuller's Battery was fired as the signal for the start. The column marched through North street to Gage, Gage to Safford, Safford to Main, down Main street, passing under the grand arch near the Putnam House. When the head of the column reached Dewey street a halt was made to enable the President and party to take their positions in the reviewing stand. The column then passed in review.

At the Monument.

The literary exercises at the monument were as follows: Introductory remarks by the president of the day, Judge Wheelock G. Veazey, United States Interstate Commerce Commissioner; prayer, the Rev. Charles Parkhurst, editor of Zion's Herald, Boston; address of welcome, Gov. Carroll S. Page of Vermont; address and formal transfer of the monument to the State of Vermont by ex-Gov. B. F. Prescott of New Hampshire, president of the association; acceptance on behalf of the State by Gov. Page; music; centennial oration by Edward J. Phelps, ex-Minister to England; remarks by President Harrison; music; benediction.

The Banquet.

At the conclusion of exercises at the monument the banquet took place on the Soldiers' Home grounds. The post-prandial exercises followed, with responses to toasts by President Harrison, members of the Cabinet, the Governors of the different States and other distinguished guests.

The State's invited guests number fully 700, including President Harrison, Vice-President Morton, members of the Cabinet, ex-Speaker Reed, the Governors of all the States and distinguished sons of Vermont residing in other States and those residing at home.

The President's Return Trip.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 19.—To-morrow morning President Harrison will leave Bennington for Mt. McGregor, N. Y., where he will be given a birthday dinner by W. J. Arkell. Friday afternoon, after having indulged in a fishing trip, he will leave for Saratoga, and remain at the Springs until Tuesday, when, under the escort of Secretary Proctor, he will start on a trip through Vermont. The tour will occupy four days, and at its conclusion the President will return to Cape May.

Germany's Corn Agitation.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—The government is doing all it can to minimise the corn agitation by claiming that the harvest will not be so deficient as apprehended, and that there will be no difficulty in making up from other crops any deficiency in wheat and rye. The soldiers do not object to the substitution of wheat for rye in their bread.

Starting on a Non-Union Basis.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 19.—J. H. Winchell & Co., the large shoe manufacturers, have started up their factory on a non-union basis.

LATE HONOLULU NEWS.

Annexation to the United States is Being Agitated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The steamer Zealandia, just arrived, brings the following advices:

Complete census returns show the population of the Hawaiian Islands to be 96,080.

The Queen is making a tour of the Capitol Island. She is being cordially received and royally entertained everywhere.

H. A. Widemann, Minister of Finance, has resigned owing to ill-health and has been succeeded by J. Mott Smith, an old resident, who was Minister of Finance in the regime of Kamehameha V., 1869, and Minister of the Interior in the late King's regime.

Annexation to the United States is being agitated.

The Queen Dowager has been stricken with paralysis.

AFTER THE MILLIONS.

Timothy Hopkins to Contest His Foster Mother's Will.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—A dispatch from San Francisco says that Mr. John A. Bolt, the attorney who will act in conjunction with Mr. Russell J. Wilson in contesting the will of the late Mrs. Hopkins-Searles, has left for the East.

The will will be presented for probate at Salem, Mass., Sept. 8. Just what action Mr. Timothy Hopkins may take regarding the will of his adopted mother is not definitely known.

It is reported that he will allow the will to be probated, and then enter his appeal, which of course means one of the most interesting will contests of recent years.

An Old Postmaster Dead.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 19.—B. K. Johnson, for 40 years postmaster at East Coldenham, died at his home there last night, aged 73.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Another uprising of Chinese fanatics is feared.

The excitement in the foreign grain markets has abated.

Mrs. Marie Reinhart, who sued Edward Malley, of New Haven, Conn., for breach of promise, has disappeared, and her friends fear that harm has befallen her.

William A. Brickill of New York has brought suit against the city of Baltimore for $100,000 damages for the alleged infringement of a patent for feed water heaters for steam fire engines invented by him.

William Turner, the English sailor, who killed little Barbara Waterhouse and left her mutilated body in a sack in the street, was hanged at Leeds, England, during the morning. He protested his innocence.

An association for mutual protection against tenants who try to evade rents is about to be formed by the owners of tenement houses in Boston. A meeting will be called about September 1, when it is expected 500 owners will join the association.

Patrick Finnerty was shot and killed during the night on a farm near Abington, Mass. He quarreled with Felix Stewart, by whom he was employed. The latter shot him in the neck and breast. Finnerty had fired twice at Stewart before the latter retaliated. Stewart surrendered himself.

Governor Tillman of South Carolina has commuted the death sentences of David Jacobs and Mrs. Mary Johnson, who poisoned the woman's husband, to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. He reprieved them last Saturday after they had been placed upon the scaffold and the ropes adjusted about their necks.

Miss Florence V. Hurlburt of North Plainfield has returned to her home after a three months' trip through the Adirondacks, Thousand Islands and Canada.

Mrs. A. B. Warner, of West Front street, is enjoying a ten days' visit with friends in Philadelphia. They will go from there to Atlantic City and also pay their respects to the President at Cape May.

As already told in these columns, Bishop John H. Vincent is so ill as to be compelled to cancel all his engagements. He will sail for Europe, Saturday, and the Rev. Dr. Hurlbut, school trustee of this city, will go with him.

Abner P. Downer was called out of bed last night by a merry trio of Fanwood people. The host and his guests partook so freely of lobster salad and other delicacies that they, together with others who were up late, missed their regular trains this morning.

Eliza Blackford died at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Blackford, of Samptown, Sunday morning, in the 87th year of her age. The funeral services were held at the house at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The Rev. Mr. Thompson, of South Plainfield, officiated. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery, Samptown.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

A MOMENTOUS MEETING.

The Council Will Consider the Mayor's Veto and Other Matters of Importance, Friday Evening.

A special meeting of the Council will be held Friday evening for the purpose of considering the water and sewerage ordinances; the contracts for water and sewerage; the Mayor's veto of the water ordinance; the appointment of election officers, and the introduction of ordinances concerning the use and the repair of the streets.

TAXES TAKE A TUMBLE.

Two Points Less Than Last Year Is the Rate.

The local tax rate for the coming year was fixed by the Plainfield Common Council last evening at $2.28 on each $100. This is a decrease of 2 cents on $100 less than the rate fixed last year. The school tax for next year had to be increased 5 cents, and the library 1 cent, which would have made an increase of 6 cents over the rate fixed for this year, but the Council succeeded in reducing the city tax 2 cents, the poor 1, and the fire 1, and as the State school and county taxes were each fixed at 2 cents lower, a total reduction was made of 8 cents, making a net reduction of 2 cents.

The tax rate fixed last year was $2.24 on each $100; the year before, $2.15; the year before that, $2.18.

The total assessment of Plainfield property made last year was $6,118,400; the year before, $5,712,115. This year it is $6,345,299.

The total valuation, the percentage, and the various amounts to be raised by taxation for the ensuing year, are as follows:

	Rate.
Total assessed valuation			$6,3452,99
County	.64	Raises	$40,609.91
State school	.30	"	19,035.90
Library	5	"	3,172.65
City	.42	"	26,650.26
Poor	7	"	4,441.71
Fire	.17	"	10,787.01
School	.45	"	28,553.85
Bonds	.12	"	7,614.36
Total	$2.22		$140,865.65

The following is a list of last year's assessments:

	Rate.
Total assessed valuation			$6,118,400
County	.66	Raises	$40,381.44
State school	.32	"	19,578.88

School	.40	"	24,473.60
Bonds	.12	"	7,342.08
Total	$2.24		$137,052.16

The Council spent considerable time examining Assessor Hubbard's books previous to acceptance, and it was nearly midnight before they concluded their labor of adjusting the great annual tax problem.

NORWICH DID N'T COME.

Even the People of Their Own City Say It is a "Disgraceful Act".

Last evening, too late to notify the public, T. H. Keller received a telegram from the Norwich base-ball club saying that they would not be here to-day. This most certainly shows bad management somewhere. Not only had the Norwich club a game here to-day, but one at Westfield to-morrow, and another for Friday that Mr. Keller had just arranged. They have forfeited over $200 in guarantees besides treating the people here very shabbily.

A newspaper man of their own city writes under date of Aug. 19:

The future of the Norwich nine is shrouded in obscurity, and whether or no they start for New Jersey to-night is as yet a problem. In case they decide in the negative, in view of the arrangements which New Jersey has made to receive them, it will be a disgraceful act. The general opinion here is that the team should at least have held together till the scheduled games with your nine had been played as your club is held in high esteem in this city and the cancelling of the engagement would no doubt cause you much trouble.

In Memoriam.

At a special meeting of Gazelle Engine Company, No. 1, held Tuesday evening, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from our midst our beloved friend and brother fireman, Clarkson R. Hope;

Resolved, That we deeply mourn the loss of our late companion, who was endeared to us by long and faithful connection;

Resolved, That we sincerely sympathize with the bereaved family in their hour of affliction, and trust that the Almighty Father to the fatherless will watch over, guide and protect them;

Resolved, That our engine-house be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of our late brother, and published in THE DAILY PRESS.

Hurt by a Foul Ball.

A very interesting game of ball was played at Dunellen Saturday afternoon between the Dunellen Athletics and the Somerville Juniors, which resulted in the score of 21 to 19 in favor of the former. As usual the small boys encroached on the diamond, and John Hubbard's ten-year-old son was struck by a foul ball and badly hurt.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

FIGHTING THE SALOONS.

The "Concert" Features Must Go, and So Must Sunday Selling.

The only business before the City Common Council last night, excepting tax matters, was the proposition to abolish the "concert" features of the local saloon and the plan for preventing the Sunday sale of liquor.

The ordinance which had been drafted concerning the matter had been amended, and the portion bearing on the "concert" feature read so as to prohibit objectionable entertainments, whether of music, dancing, or otherwise, in connection with bar-rooms. It had been threatened that if the saloons were prevented from giving "concerts" they in turn would seek to prevent the playing of music at the big hotels, where it is made an outside pleasure to the guests, and where no objectionable features are introduced. The ordinance was drawn with a view to permit the reputable entertainments usual in hotel parlors and piazzas, but aimed to suppress the things that have made some bar-rooms so notorious. Its anti-Sunday-selling section provided that every bar-room should be fully open to public view from 12 p. m. every Saturday to 6 a. m. the following Monday—that is, that the curtains and blinds should be arranged so that from the street passers-by might have an unobstructed view of the interior. This, it is thought, will aid materially in suppressing the Sunday-selling evil. The ordinance was unanimously adopted on its first and second readings and was ordered engrossed and advertised.

A GREAT ROAD RACE.

Handsome Prizes Now Ready for Plainfield Wheelmen to Win.

Arrangements are about completed for the grand road race open to all Plainfield to be given under the auspices of the Bicycle Club over the Plainfield-Springfield course, Saturday, Sept. 12.

The start will be made at 4 p. m., from the Scott Printing Machine works, thence through Fanwood and Scotch Plains to the hotel in Springfield, and return over the same course—a total distance of about 18 miles, over the best stretch of road in New Jersey.

Captain F. L. C. Martin of the Bicycle Club has offered the first medal, which is to be a handsome one of gold, to be known as the Martin medal. The second is to be a valuable design in gold and silver, and the third of solid silver, the two latter to be given by the club.

This is to be a scratch race, with no penalties attached to any particular style of wheel, and every one is to have an equal chance to show his muscle and staying powers.

It is hoped that every would-be racer in the town will at once get in training and enter.

An entrance fee of 50 cents will be charged, which must accompany every entry. The entries will be closed Sept. 9, and may be handed to any member of the committee, Messrs. Marsh, Martin and Lenox.

Did Reed Draw the Complaint?

After appealing without success to most of the reputable lawyers of the city, J. B. Miller, proprietor of the Elkwood saloon, found in Charles A. Reed, it is said, one who would draw up a complaint against the editors and publishers of this paper for printing in yesterday's issue an account of how one of the Elkwood concert hall singers had been taken home by her brother. There was absolutely nothing libelous in the story, and such conscientious lawyers as W. L. Hetfield, Jackson & Codington and others of their scrupulous kind, told Mr. Miller so.

A few weeks ago THE PRESS refused to admit an advertisement of the Elkwood concert hall into its columns at any price. That is undoubtedly the reason of the Miller bluff. He swore to the complaint before Justice Nash this morning, and Councilman Hetfield, Freeholder Vanderbeek and Col. Charles K. Moore gave bonds for the appearance of the several members of THE PRESS staff respectively, if ever wanted on the charge.

The article itself and the action taken before the Justice, are very insignificant matters. The people understand that the whole thing ends there; but they will wonder if it is possible that a lawyer whom they had considered reputable, really lent himself as a tool for Miller.

If Mr. Reed cannot make a denial or an explanation, he should feel very much ashamed of himself.

Play Was a Correct One.

There has been some unjust criticism of a play by Jones in center field, last Saturday. It is said that he could have reached an caught a fly hit by McLaughlin in the second inning, but that he stopped short within six feet of it.

The hit was a hard driven one and struck the ground at least ten feet from Jones. He could not have reached it on the fly, and had he come a foot nearer it would have bounded past him and two runs would have come in. As it was he threw it in to Hammill so quick that McLaughlin was put out at second.

The Burglar Said "Oh!" and Ran.

An unknown man, supposed to be a tramp, entered the house of Robert Hart, on South Second street, about 4 o'clock Sunday morning. He was not, however, able to carry anything away with him, for Mr. Hart heard him and jumped out of bed. On going to the door of his room, he saw the burglar on the stairway. The burglar said "Oh!" and Mr. Hart slipped on a pair of trousers and chased him along the railway track until he lost sight of him.

A Good Ten-Inning Game.

A game of base-ball was played on the Fourth street grounds yesterday afternoon between the Jersey Blues and the Fourth Ward Athletic Club. The Fourth Warders were defeated by the score of 11 to 10. In a former game they defeated the Jersey Blues by the score of 9 to 8. The ball yesterday was wet and was hard to pitch. P. Lawler struck out 8 men of the 9 in the 9-innings. Connors, who was the catcher for the Jersey Blues, caught a good game. The umpire was T. Flynn. The battery for the Fourth Warders was Kane and Coverly. Lyons did fine short-stop work, while Mack of the Fourth Warders made a fine running catch. The time of the game was 1:40. The score was tied in the ninth inning and ten innings had to be played.

Gov. Bulkeley Thrown from His Horse.

NIANTIC, Conn., Aug. 19.—Gov. Bulkeley, while inspecting troops at Camp Watson, was thrown from his horse, being tossed completely over the animal's head. He was not seriously injured, and said he was all right.

OUR "Y. S. F."

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

EDSALL'S,

20 WEST FRONT STREET.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2 00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

LATTER-DAY CHRONICLES—NO. 3.

Being an Account of How King Job Was Prospered, of How He Died, and of the Battle Over His Treasure.

There was a man in Nova Cæsarea whose name was Job; and that man was a perfect and upright man—as perfect and upright as any of the sons of men.

And his substance was very great, and when he had pitched his tents on the goodly plains of Pinchgut he straightway became honored and envied among all the men of the plain.

And his substance increased and multiplied, and he had much land, and he built him many tents around about the market-place, both for himself and for his people to dwell therein.

And the multitude set him up as a ruler over them, and he was a just ruler, and his deeds were the deeds of wisdom, howbeit he was an humble man, and one that despised not the poor.

And he builded among the tents, and for the people, a temple of learning, and here the people gathered and were taught much wisdom. And from out his treasure he took much gold and silver, and did strew it abroad with a lavish hand.

But he was a creature of humility, and what his left hand did his right hand did not know.

And he was an upright and a perfect man, and when he was old and full of years he died and went up to be gathered unto his fathers.

And when he was dead there was much lamentation in the plain and within the market-place: the multitude weeping for the good man gone, and mourning because he was not.

And they gathered themselves together upon the plain and within the market-place, and gave praise to his goodness, and tribute to his memory; and lamented over his death.

For they said: "He hath been a ruler over us, lo these many years, and he was like as a father unto us his children; and we obeyed and trusted him; and much love we bore him. For he had been good to us in our infirmities; and in the day of our adversity he had given us clothes to wear, and bread to eat, and had sheltered us from the burning sun and the bitter winds."

And they buried him with his fathers, and wore sackcloth and ashes many days.

Now after his burial the time drew nigh when his substance should be divided by the judges among his children. And the scribes brought forth a manuscript on which was written much language.

And they said: "Behold here that which he hath spoken. Yea: even the last words which he spake: behold ye them."

And the judges looked, and beheld that which he had said.

And according as it was written his treasure was not so much for his children, but more for the people which he had ruled and loved. For he had willed that for public benefits his substance should be given. Yet he remembered also his favorite and deserving kindred, and for them likewise he had set aside from his treasure.

Nevertheless it was not to be as he had spoken, for when they had heard that the good man Job was dead there came journeying from far-off lands yet other kinsmen, children of his brethren, and of his brethren's children, and they clamored each for a portion of the dead man's goods.

For they said: "Show us the writing wherein is written that which he hath spoken, and show us the seal with which he hath set his hand upon it."

And the judges looked, and behold there was no seal, and the people were confounded when they saw that the kinsmen from afar had triumphed.

And the kinsmen said: "The writing hath not the seal of Job, so what doth it count before our lords the judges?"

And the people were sore troubled, for they wist not what to say.

Howbeit there arose among the people a man of much understanding, whose lips were as a sealed book, whose tongue was as the fountain of knowledge.

And he unsealed the lips of his mouth, and he uttered wise sayings, and he interpreted the words which were contained in the writing, so that they were as open as the day. And all the people understood his teachings, and he satisfied them that the writing was that which the good man Job had spoken.

Nevertheless the kinsmen from distant lands clamored yet again to be shown the seal, and when the people could not show it them they laughed them to scorn.

And the judges were sore perplexed what to do with the good man's treasure. And they heard many doctrines touching of the matter, yet they withheld their judgment.

They considered among themselves the riddle, and they called in many wise men to interpret it unto them.

And when they could not agree, they said among themselves: "Let us put off this question for a time. And perchance years will have passed away and the people will have remembered it no more. Let us distress our minds no more with its perplexity, but rather cast it aside, and let our sons master it when we are gone."

And the judges restrained their voices, and withheld from the people and from the kinsmen their judgment in the matter. And the treasure of the good man Job remained untouched, both by the people who were told of in the writing, and by them which were his kinsmen from afar.

And time passed on, and moons waned and ceased, and the treasure lay idle and profitless, and did no man any good.

And the people marveled greatly at the silence of the judges, and the kinsmen returned them to their homes, and the people resumed their flocks. And the name of the good man Job was no more heard in the land, but was only a memory among his people. And strangers dwelt within his tents, and paid tithes therefor to that man which the judges had appointed, and which treasured up the substance against the day of reckoning between the people and the kinsmen, to be paid to them which the judges should decree.

But the judges decreed not at all, and hope died out in the breasts of the people and of the kinsmen. For they foresaw that the end would not be reached within their day.

For a prophet had spoken, and had said: "Cast ye not your eyes in covetousness upon these earthly riches of the good man which hath gone: ye have been deluded; ye shall never possess them. They shall remain an inheritance for the children's children of them which come after you; but tend ye your flocks and your herds, for I say unto you that not in this day and generation shall the judgment in this matter be made known; but after this day and generation have passed away, then, and then only, will judgment have been decreed."

And the people heard in silence the words of the prophet, for their hearts were heavy troubled.

DOINGS IN DUNELLEN.

Electric Lights Promised—Bicycle Fiends on the Sidewalks—Another Fool Falls in Getting off a Moving Train.

[From THE PRESS' Special Correspondent.]

We are promised the electric lights in another week.

The street commissioners have been trimming up main street and it looks very much better. No weeds should be allowed to grow on our principal streets.

George Taylor has just returned from a week's sojourn at the shore.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Covey, of Auburn, are visiting their sons, Frank and Edward Covey.

William Conley has been detained at home with an abcess on his knee. He is now improving and hopes to be out in a few days.

The Commissioners should look after the bicyclists and keep them from riding on the sidewalk. The latter seem to think they have an undisputed right to ride where they please, and in several instances an accident has been averted more by good luck than good management. Only last week a lady came near being run over by one of the machines which passed her so closely that the handles struck her, almost pushing her into the street. It being dark she could not discover who the cyclist was.

Last Saturday night an unknown man in attempting to jump from a passenger train before it had stopped, lost his balance and fell. He caught the handle of the car and was dragged some distance. Fortunately he succeeded in keeping his feet from under the car and probably saved his life.

Faithful Michael Donahue Has a New House.

The Central railroad company has completed the two-story switch house at the Prospect avenue crossing, and Michael Donahue, who has been a watchman at the crossing for three years in a cramped up little shanty, is now installed in more comfortable quarters. He asserts that the house is one of the finest on the road. Now he has only to sit inside near the crank and raise and lower the gates, where formerly he was obliged to go outside in sunshine or in rain to do the work.

Mr. Donahue has been with the Central thirty-five years and during that period has lost very little time by sickness. He has never been censured by the company for making a single mistake. He is a very careful man and under his eye the crossing is the safest on the road.

The Smith Family Picnic.

The sixteenth annual reunion of the Smith family and friends will be held in the grove on the farm of Peter Z. Smith, one mile east of Peapack, Somerset county, Wednesday, August 26, beginning at 10 a.m., and continuing all day. Addresses (beginning at 2 p. m.) will be delivered by Gov. Leon Abbett and others. Music will be furnished for the occasion by the Clinton cornet band. If stormy the reunion will be held the next fair day. All are invited.

Come, let's have a drink! Certainly, if it's Root Beer made with Knapp's Root Beer Extract.

Soldiers' Reunion.

The surviving members of the 30th Regt., N. J. Vols., will hold their first grand reunion in Vegnte's grove, near Somerville, Thursday, Sept. 3, where the boys will welcome their old commander, Col. A. S. TenEyck, who is determined to spare no pains or expense to make the reunion an enjoyable occasion. A mammoth clam bake will be one of the features of the day. The public are invited to be present and participate in the enjoyment.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street Plainfield, N. J.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.

Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

The Editor's Weak Point.

Future Greeley—Have you any vacancies on your editorial staff?

Busy Editor—No, sir; no, sir. Good da—

Future Greeley—I'm sorry you haven't, because it's my only chance to get a position in this town.

Editor (suspiciously)—Eh! Have you been working on the Daily Blower across the way? Did you come to me after being discharged from that miserable sheet?

"Oh, no, sir; I never worked on that paper."

"Oh, you didn't? Then, I suppose you applied for a position on its editorial staff, and—"

"Editorial staff?"

"Yes."

"Editorial staff! Bless you, no! I didn't suppose from the looks of the sheet that it had any."

"Young man, your hand! Sit down! Have a cigar! I'll see what I can do for you."—Good News.

A Sincere Well Wisher.

Clara—Tell me just what sort of a man your fiance is.

Laura—Oh, he is everything that is nice!

Clara—I'm so glad! You know I have always said that people should marry their opposites.—Munsey's Weekly.

Half a Man.

She—Do you ever see Mr. and Mrs. Chapley since their marriage?

He—Oh, yes; it is a case of two souls with but one single thought.

She—How lovely!

He—Yes, she married a dude.—Buffalo Evening News.

Social Aspirations.

Jinks—That fellow Winkers is trying to get into the Four Hundred, isn't he?

Binks—I don't know. Why do you think so?

Jinks—He has given up business, and is beginning to live on his wife's money.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Stay of Proceedings.

She (sweetly)—The moonlight is beautiful to-night, George.

He (desperately)—I know it is, Nellie, but I can't propose to-night—I forgot the ring. You will forgive me, won't you?—Munsey's Weekly.

The Indulgent Friend.

Bingham—Carson, you must excuse my tardiness—just as soon as I get hold of that hundred you borrowed I can pay you that fifty I owe you.

Carson—Tut! Tut! Don't mention it.—Life.

Decidedly Suggestive.

Cumso—That was a very suggestive thing that was done at Skinflint's funeral.

Fangle—What was that?

Cumso—They dressed him in a smoking jacket instead of a shroud.—Jury.

An Afflicted Female.

Judge Duffy (to female witness)—What is your age, madam?

Witness (hesitatingly)—I have seen sixteen summers.

Judge Duffy—How many years were you blind?—Texas Siftings.

A Philanthropist.

"My lad, brace up and do something. In plain United States language, you're lazy."

"It's not laziness, it's generosity. By keeping out of the field I give all the other fellows a chance to get rich."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Proof Positive.

Sister (in the privacy of her own room)—How do you know, Clara, that Mr. Nicefello has always associated with nice girls?

Clara—Because he doesn't make any noise when he kisses.—Jury.

Not Exactly the Same.

Blower—Barmaids are a great English institution, don't you know. Did you ever see one?

Power—Well, I have seen an iron bar made down at the rolling mills.—Munsey's Weekly.

Excusable.

Customer—Haven't you any larger towels?

Salesman—I'm afraid not (apologetically). You see, most of our business is with summer hotels.—Puck.

Good for young and old. We know of no better tonic for the system than Hires's Improved Root Beer. It is delicious, effervescent, sparkling, appetizing, and a helper of temperance. Satisfying the thirst, enriching the blood, and fortifying the system against the advance of disease. A 25 cent package makes five gallons. Sold everywhere.

A Comparison.

Jack—I have come to believe that there's a good deal of similarity between a Pullman car porter and Cupid's arrows.

Nellie—Gracious! How do you make that out?

Jack—Well, neither are effective unless tipped with gold or silver.—Pittsburgh Bulletin.

Spoiling the Effect.

Clara—(who has left the door open for a purpose—in a low voice)—Don't close the door, Dolph.

That Horrible Little Brother (in an extra loud voice)—Oh, I catch on, sis; you want to let Mr. Goodman see you washing the dishes. What a gag!—Once a Week.

Must Come to It.

Customer (with little boy)—Have you good thick sole leather that a boy can't wear through in a week?

Cobbler—The very best. Do you want me to make a pair of shoes for your boy?

Customer—No, I want you to make him a pair of pants.—Good News.

His Convert.

Prof. Indur (author of "Metempsychosis," etc.)—Don't you believe in the transmigration of souls, Miss Hayve?

Miss Bee Hayve—Yes, I believe I do; for, do you know, at times you have the same hunted look in your eyes that my poor Fido had when the dog catchers were after him.—Puck.

VERY IMPROBABLE.

Griggs—Horrible thing, that murder in this morning's paper. It will fairly raise your hair when you read it.

Baldy—It may, but I don't believe it will.—Munsey's Weekly.

In Partnership.

She—And do you really love me as much as you say, Harry?

He—Why, darling—

She—Well, then, don't borrow any more money from papa. He's charging it up against what he'll give me when we're married.—Judge.

The Resemblance Explained.

Eminent Personage—May I ask whether you are related to the Mr. Smith whom I met at Venice last year?

Mr. Smith—I am that Mr. Smith, sir.

Eminent Personage—Ah! that accounts for the remarkable resemblance.—London Globe.

The Mark of Time.

Husband—Who is that strange woman I saw in the dining-room?

Wife—That's our servant girl. She has just got back from a ten minutes' visit to the girl next door.—Judge.

His First Experience.

District Attorney—Were you ever called to serve on a jury before?

Talesman—No, sir; this is the first time I was ever taken for a fool in my life.—Puck.

A TREAT FOR THE DOMINIE.

Mrs. Nickerson—That's a sickly lookin' pullet you've got there—guess it's going to die.

Mrs. Burrage—Yes; I 'spect it is—I'm goin' to kill it, and take it to the donation party at the parsonage this evening.—Puck.

Wherein They Resembled.

He—That actress reminds me of the leaf of a wild rose.

She—For heaven's sake—why?

He—Because she is blown about so much.—Jury.

Identity Disclosed.

De Poker—That stranger is an English lord in disguise.

De Club—How do you know?

De Poker—I caught him cheating at cards.—N. Y. Weekly.

The Secret of Beauty.

Miss De Plain—Doctor, what is the secret of beauty?

Family Physician (confidentially)—Be born pretty.—Good News.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION

How She Is Dressing the Little Lord Fauntleroy's.

Dressmakers Are Trying to Make It as Easy to Dress a Boy as It Is to Dress a Girl—Perfumed Boudoirs—A Pretty Oriental Costume.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

It used to be a great deal easier to dress a boy than it was to dress a girl, but the ingenuity of dressmakers has been at work with such success that it is now possible to make the little Lord Fauntleroy of the family as pretty as the little Lady Gwendolen.

Instead of putting the little Lord Fauntleroy in a velvet coat, with an impossible collar, and knee breeches that would be sure to catch each floating speck of dust and be ruined beyond redemption, the most exclusive and fashionable little Fauntleroys are clad in something that will wash.

The smartest suits are made of no less common a stuff than plain brown Holland. But it is a brown Holland glorified and gotten up in such an exceptional style that it is pretty, almost beyond description, and must be seen to be fully appreciated.

Fancy a brown Holland blouse waist for a boy with a deep collar, a broad front hem and deep cuffs, all daintily edged with a frill of either the same brown Holland or ecru lace. Fancy, also, trousers of the same material, with three brown buttons decorating the side of each leg, and long brown stockings and tan shoes buttoning with a strap over the instep.

The beauty of these brown Holland suits is that they can be washed as often as the young chap who wears them sees fit to roll in the dirt, go crabbing or make mud pies. Two such suits a day will keep him looking quite respectable because the brown is of that lovely convenient shade which does not readily show dirt, and which, even when slightly soiled, appears quite clean.

For Sunday, white drill or white "duck" makes a very good material, and can be made up in the same way. When the white suit is worn, black stockings should accompany it, and black patent leather ties.

The advantage of dressing children, and especially boys, in something that can be readily washed is so patent to every woman who wishes to make her child comfortable and happy and pretty at the same time that at the most fashionable summer resort it is seldom that one sees, even on dress parade, a boy dressed in a velvet suit or any heavy material that must be worn out without enjoying the advantage of being occasionally renovated with good soap and water.

The old way of disfiguring boyish outlines with a great hampering sash, an immense lace collar, tarnishable steel buttons and useless decorations has almost passed away, and instead of having recourse to the severe and disagreeable simplicity of tweed and broadcloth we have chosen the happy medium of wash fabrics, tastefully made and provided in such large quantities that a boy can always look neat, stylish and pretty.

The woman of fashion is sweet with all the odors of Araby, for she has found so many convenient and tasteful ways of perfuming her wardrobe that she is bound to carry a lovely perfume with her wherever she goes.

A very large atomizer is obtained, and then by means of it about a pint of any favorite perfume is scattered over the dresses every day, and another pint is introduced into the woodwork of the wardrobe, where the gowns hang, and is also scattered into the air of the apartment. By long use everything becomes rife with the sweetness, and even long exposure to the air does not wholly dispel it.

The secret of perfuming one's possessions permanently and yet inexpensively is found in the fact that a very strong extract is not used. The perfume is diluted until it is rather weak and faint. This does not give the strong, disagreeable sense of perfumery which one occasionally finds, and at the same time it is less expensive than the stronger odor.

An awfully sweet, awfully pretty and awfully swell gown was a tea gown which was made only a week ago for one of the Newport aesthetes. It was decidedly Oriental. It was fashioned out of a piece of Chinese silk. It was made loose, seamless, and with a figured waistcoat in exact imitation of a jacket worn by the Chinese embassador. It was very singular and yet very pretty. The quaint, unique effect was heightened by the fact that the wearer was a piquant-faced brunette with long olive eyes and features that, while decidedly American, were yet a little bit suggestive of Orientalism. There was a languor about the eyes, an olive in the skin, a repose, a daintiness and a slenderness about the wearer that made you think of the lovely oriental women whom Sir Edwin Arnold described last winter in his glowing Eastern letters.

Right alongside of the Eastern costume there sat on one day at least, a pretty, light-haired lassie, all dressed in a Highland costume.

There was a short tabbed jacket, bright with silver buttons, and a skirt of plaid surah. The jacket was black and the surah was black and red. The hat worn with this was a Scotch cap, brimless with a little fez at the front and a bunch of dainty bows at the back.

It might have been a meeting of all nations, if one had been disposed to judge from the gathering of costumes that day in that Newport boudoir. But as it happened, it was only an informal little afternoon tea given by the Oriental miss in the Chinese tea gown to a few of her girl friends, who were invited to drop in for a few minutes' gossip over the teacups.

Inquiry told that all of the gowns had cunningly concealed little scent satchets, and that was the reason why the boudoir smelt like a lovely bunch of violets with a sprig of mignonette and a handful of sweet peas added with perhaps a cluster of lemon verbena and roses, for spice.

A very pretty little fad has arisen all of a sudden this month of August, for making the hats still smaller and daintier than they have been before.

This dainty little fad is no less pretty a one than the wearing of a wreath of natural roses upon the head—only this and nothing more. Rather small, close roses must be selected and they must be of the variety that grow many upon the stem. Hot house varieties are scarcely suitable because they do not often grow in this way, and so the genuine country article must be obtained.

The wreath is bent so as to lie prettily across the front hair or rather low over the forehead, and is carried around the side of the head to the back of the knot where it is confined with a huge fancy pin. Velvet strings to match the gown which is worn are then fastened where the wreath of roses is worn and are brought down and tied closely under the chin. Bonnets thus improvised are quickly perishable, and therefore they are suitable to be worn only upon occasions which are warranted not to last more than a few hours. A lawn party, from four to six, a dinner at some outdoor function, or an afternoon's call are as lengthy occasions as can be selected for the wearing of these perishable little bonnets.

Rather a daring thing was done by a summer belle in the way of odd chapeaux. The belle in question was awfully pretty, or she would not have dared to do just as she did. But being pretty, her little effusion in hats was greatly admired, and has since been copied more or less successfully by less gifted young women. And this is what that belle did: She rolled her hair into a Psyche knot and stuck pins into it in the most reckless and lavish fashion imaginable. Then on top of her head she pinned a bunch of yellow roses, with stems of varying lengths. Some of the roses dangled low over her dark bangs, and others stood up almost erect. It was almost a ragged bunch of roses, so carelessly was it arranged. Around the stems was tied a long, narrow strip of black velvet, which was brought down behind the wearer's pink ears and was tied under her chin in a bow knot. The girl was pretty and the hat was odd, and so the effect was pleasing; but oh! reader, do not try it, unless you are very, very pretty, and likewise very sure of your taste in arranging such a bunch of flowers on top of your head.

Appreciated Its Value.

A little Detroit girl was bidding her boy playmate good-by and on this occasion her mother told her to kiss him. She offered him a roguish cheek and when the salute was bravely given, began to rub it vigorously with her handkerchief.

"Why, Laura," said her mother, "you're not rubbing it off?"

"No, mamma," answered the little maiden demurely, "I'm rubbing it in."—Detroit Free Press.

Of Course.

Hicks—Oh, well, of course, all men can't think alike. If they did, they'd say this thing couldn't be done.

Wicks—Nonsense! If all men could think alike, they'd agree with me and say it could be done.

Hicks—All sensible men can think alike.

Wicks—Yes; think as I do.

Hicks—No, sir; think as I do.—Boston Transcript.

All a Boast.

"Men are not born free in this country," said Willie. "There ain't no worse bulldozed slave in creation than my baby brother."—Harper's Bazar.

The Latest Fad.

Mrs. Forundred—Marie, I see by the Society Weekly that the latest fad among fashionable people is to be domestic, and appear on the avenue in matronly garb, behind baby carriages.

Maid—Yes'm.

Mrs. Forundred—Go at once at Pinkferns and order me a costume suitable for that purpose. Then stop at Spokeshave's and order me the most expensive baby carriage they have. Next stop at Madame Makeuppe's and tell her to send me an appropriate complexion and suitable hair.

Maid—Yes'm, but the baby—

Mrs. Forundred—Order one.—N. Y. Weekly.

HE HAD HIS DOUBTS.

Farmer—Fishing?

Fair Fisher—Cannot you see that I am?

Farmer—I moight ef I seed enny fish.—N. Y. Herald.

His Appetite Unimpaired.

Boy (with basket)—Please, mum, give me some dinner for my poor, sick father.

Kind Lady—Look here, I've been giving you dinner for your sick father for two weeks, and I saw him yesterday in the street, and he is no more sick than I am.

Boy—Yes, mum, he isn't sick any more but he eats just the same as ever.—Texas Siftings.

A Vile Slander.

Two Texas ladies meet. Says number one: "Why, do you know what I heard about you?"

"I've no idea."

"I heard that when your husband was sick and not expected to live, you went to a picnic."

"It's a vile slander; it was only an excursion, and I didn't stay away more than a week or ten days after the funeral."—Texas Siftings.

Knew Their Traits.

Old Gentleman (in the park)—What are you doing, my little dear?

Little Girl (with doll)—I am giving Dolly a drink.

"Giving Dolly a drink, eh? But the water is running down all over her pretty dress."

"Yes, she slobbers a good deal. All babies do."—N. Y. Weekly.

Lofty Thoughts.

Mrs. Rondo—Ah, so you have stopped writing.

Mr. Rondo—My thoughts have run up a tree.

Mrs. Rondo—That's too bad. What will you do?

Mr. Rondo (filling his pipe)—I am going to smoke them out.—Puck.

Disinterested Advice.

"Now, waiter," said a new customer in an eating house where he was more than doubtful regarding the quality of the fare, "here's something for you in advance. Now," looking over the list of dishes, "what would advise?"

Waiter (confidentially)—Another restaurant.—Judge.

Getting Even with Him.

Brown—I see the Stuckups have a new coachman. I heard Miss Stuckup say that their other coachman was impudent, and she was going to punish him.

Robinson—Maybe she has eloped with him, poor fellow!—Texas Siftings.

He Recognized It.

First Stranger—Excuse me, sir, but I notice that you are looking at me closely. Is there anything about me that is familiar?

Second Ditto—Yes, there is. My umbrella!—Boston News.

Cool, But Not Cold.

Charlie—Don't you think that Mabel is a very cold girl?

Gus—Not at all. She is always telling me that she feels warm enough for some ice cream.—Munsey's Weekly.

Her Appearance.

Bingo—Things have gone so with me lately that I have had to compel my wife to make her own dresses.

Kingley—Too bad. How does she look?

Bingo—Daggers.—Cloak Review.

An Unexpected Peril.

Wool—I think it is time the eagle screamed.

Van Pelt—Why, what's the matter?

Wool—An English syndicate has just asked for an option on the Chicago divorce mills.—Lake Shore News.

Why He Was Anxious.

Marie—Why is Mr. Puffer in such a hurry to marry Maud?

Arthur—He promised her that he wouldn't smoke while they were engaged.—Jury.

Part of His Duties.

American—Do you know how to play baccarat?

Stranger—Of course I know all about it. I am an English judge.—Munsey's Weekly.

The Fag End of a Quarrel.

Barrows (hotly)—I tell you it is not so! I do not agree with you.

Ackerman—No, you don't agree with me. That's true. You nauseate me.—Jury.

Jinks' Son.

Winks—Your son is a mighty clever fellow, isn't he?

Jinks (proudly)—Who told you so?

Winks—He did.—Good News.

"HOW OLD I LOOK, AND NOT YET THIRTY!"

DOUBLE ELOPEMENT

Mother and Daughter Run Off With Two Brothers.

THE QUARTET HAVE GONE WEST

Both Men Have Left Their Wives in a Destitute Condition.

One Deserted Husband Had Fits—The Other Blames His Wife for All the Trouble, But Says He Will Take Her Back—The Affair Has Caused a Sensation on Long Island.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A double elopement is agitating Long Island. To complicate matters the women are a mother and her daughter, both having husbands, and the men with whom they have eloped are brothers. Nathan Freeman and Mrs. Ezra Williamson, of Port Jefferson, Charles Freeman and Mrs. Sylvester Skidmore, the daughter of Mrs. Williamson, are the central figures in this interesting drama. Nathan Freeman leaves a wife and two children, and Charles Freeman a wife and one child.

The husband of Mrs. Skidmore is a printer. Soon after their marriage he got out of work and they went to live with his wife's mother. Skidmore became afflicted with fits and his mother-in-law put him out. His wife remained. Then Charles Freeman appeared on the scene, and it was evident to all that Mrs. Skidmore was the attraction.

Mrs. Charles Freeman heard of this, and disguising herself in men's clothes knocked at the front door of the Skidmore house, and ran around to the back door, where through the open window she saw Mrs. Skidmore stowing away her erring Charlie into a closet.

There was a mosquito netting over the window and Mrs. Freeman jumped through it, landing in the room.

For a few minutes there was confusion and a small riot, then the enraged wife departed. Finally she concluded to cause her husband's arrest, but Charlie did not want to be arrested, so he went to Bridgeport, accompanied by Mrs. Williamson's son. The latter returned in a few days, and then Mrs. Williamson, accompanied by her children, Nathan Freeman and Mrs. Skidmore, also went to Bridgeport. There they were met by Charles Freeman. All trace of them ends at that point, though it is believed that they have gone West.

Both men have left their wives in destitute circumstances. Williamson tearfully said he had given his wife $150 on her departure for fear she would come to want. He blames her for all the trouble, though he says he will take her back whenever she returns. Following the elopement came a letter from Sylvester Skimore saying that he had secured work and got over his fits, but it arrived too late.

MYSTERIOUS TIN BOX.

Government Experts Make a Discovery in the Broken Keystone Bank Vaults.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—The government experts engaged in examining the assets of the suspended Keystone National Bank found a tin box in the bank vault during the day which is supposed to have been the private property of the fugitive president of the bank, Gideon W. Marsh.

A number of papers and documents were found in the box and also a Clearing House due bill issued by the Spring Garden National Bank for $25,000, and a draft of the Spring Garden Bank on the Chase National Bank of New York for $25,000. Both the due bill and draft are dated Feb. 16, 1888. They have never been cancelled.

The experts refuse to disclose what other papers or documents were found in the box, or say whether or not they were important.

GERMAN CABINET SPLIT.

Minister Miquel Wants the Emperor to Suspend the Corn Duties.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Dr. Miquel, Imperial Minister of Finance, has requested the Emperor to suspend the corn duties for four months. Chancellor Von Caprivi had previously declined to discuss the question with Dr. Miquel.

The latter's direct appeal to the Kaiser is expected to bring the differences between Caprivi and Miquel to a crisis, and may seriously affect the solidity of the Cabinet.

Guarding Against Trouble.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 20.—The Labor Congress proposes on Friday to take an excursion to the field of Waterloo, where orations are to be delivered in favor of peace. Notwithstanding these peaceable professions, the Belgian authorities are preparing to take extra precautions for the safety of the Waterloo memorial, as there is some fear of trouble at a gathering of French, English, Germans and others on such a historic spot.

Will Meet at Niagara Falls.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Aug. 20.—There was an exciting fight in the Firemen's convention for the next meeting place. Schenectady and Niagara Falls both made great efforts. Stirring speeches were made on both sides. The selection of Niagara Falls was argued on the score that Western New York has not had a convention in years. The vote resulted, Niagara Falls 158, Schenectady 147.

The Elberon Hotel Sold.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The Elberon Hotel at Elberon, N. J., including the Garfield cottage, where President Garfield died, was sold at auction for $62,000 to one of the trustees. The price at which the property was sold is said to be about half its actual value.

Rejects the 30 Per Cent. Offer.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—At a meeting of the creditors of John Ryan's Son, dry goods, Atlanta, Ga., it was unanimously voted to reject the offer of 30 per cent.

In Every Receipt

that calls for baking powder, use the "Royal." Better results will be obtained because it is the purest. It will make the food lighter, sweeter, of finer flavor, more digestible and wholesome. It is always reliable and uniform in its work.

LINGO'S LATEST TALK.

He Says Annie Leconey's Murderer Killed Mrs. Miller.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 20.—Francis Lingo, the convicted murderer of Mrs. Annie Miller, was drawn out yesterday to say something of the murder.

Deputy Sheriff Porter visited Lingo's cell and had quite a lengthy conversation with him. During the course of the conversation Lingo said:

"If the murderer of Annie Leconey had been hung, the Miller murder would never have occurred. If I had run away like Murray did, I wouldn't be here now."

This is the first statement that Lingo has made regarding the tragedy since his imprisonment. It is presumed that he meant to imply by the above language that the reason he had been arrested and convicted was because of the prejudice of the people around Merchantville, who had made up their minds that he must be guilty, evidence or no evidence, as the murderer of Annie Leconey had not been brought to justice. Lingo increases in weight, is in excellent spirits and confident of a new trial, which he is positive will result in his acquittal.

DARING ROBBERY.

A Masked Burglar in Albany Secures a Quantity of Jewelry.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The house of John G. Mills, on upper Hudson avenue, was entered by a masked burglar at an early hour in the morning, by means of a ladder through the bathroom window.

Mrs. Mills was awakened by the flash of the dark lantern in her face. Before the lady could make an outcry the burglar covered her with a pistol, at the same time commanding her to keep quiet.

The man then compelled Mr. Mills to take a diamond ring from his finger and hand it over to him. The burglar overlooked the diamond earrings worn by Mrs. Mills, as well as the greater part of the lady's diamonds on the bureau, securing only about $1,000 worth of jewelry.

There appears to have been but one man in the robbery. This is the most daring robbery that has occurred in this city in 30 years. There is no clue.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Double Tragedy Resulting in the Death of a Widow and Her Lover.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Amanda Estnier, a widow, aged 43, was shot was killed in the Franklin Hotel last evening by her lover, Lenon Ellsworth, aged 28. Ellsworth then committed suicide.

Both parties came here in the morning from Ephrata, this county, where they reside. No cause is known for the tragedy.

SENT THE CARS FLYING.

Two Unknown Men Cause a Frightful Accident at Kane, Pa.

KANE, Pa., Aug. 20.—Two unknown young men took blocks of wood from the front of the wheels of a freight car heavily loaded with bark on top of a steep grade on the Campbell Lumber Railroad here at noon.

The car started down the grade at a terrific speed and plunged into a locomotive standing on the track at the foot of the grade, wrecking the engine and car. A. T. Pratt, fireman, was crushed against the boiler and terribly mangled and he died in the wreck. Engineer Dan Carvey had his left leg crushed and was badly scalded by escaping steam. He was taken to the hospital, where his leg was amputated. He will die.

The Late James Russell Lowell's Will.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The will of James Russell Lowell, just filed in the Middlesex Probate Office, disposes substantially of the whole of his property for the benefit of his daughter and her children. He gives, however, to Harvard College such books from his library as the library of the college does not possess. He gives all his manuscripts to Charles Eliot Norton, making him his literary executor. George Putnam and Moorefield Storey are made the executors of the will. The amount of property left by Mr. Lowell was not large.

The Teutonic Breaks All Records.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The steamship Teutonic of the White Star line has smashed the ocean record by crossing to this side in 5 days 16 hours and 31 minutes. She had also made the record for a single day's performance, having covered 517 miles the day before she arrived here. The best previous record was made by the steamship Majestic, belonging to the same line, and was 5 days 18 hours and 8 minutes.

Attacked by His Workmen.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 20.—Because he failed to pay their wages promptly twenty-five excited Italians chased Contractor Henry Kinderman, of the Twenty-sixth Ward, for several blocks with clubs and stones. He escaped by whipping up his horse.

THEY WANT BLAINE

Keystone Republicans Cheer His Name.

THE STATE CONVENTION'S WORK

Gregg Nominated for Auditor-General and Morrison for Treasurer.

President Harrison's Administration Praised and Secretary Blaine's Services Commended—In Future State Conventions One Delegate for Every 2,000 Votes Cast in a Legislative District.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 20.—The Republican delegates to the State Republican convention virtually declared in favor of Blaine for the Presidency in 1892.

At the afternoon session of the convention John P. Elkin was elected permanent chairman. He paid a glowing tribute to the farmers, and expressed the belief that the convention would properly recognize them.

Chris Magee, Chairman of the Committe on Resolutions, submitted the platform.

The Administration was indorsed and Mr. Wanamaker's conduct of the Postoffice Department highly commended. The McKinley bill and bimetallism, meaning the free coinage of all the gold and silver of the mines in the United States, were supported. The Republican pension appropriations were approved and Governor Pattison was condemned for vetoes of apportionment bills passed. The Bardsley investigation was referred to as a prompt and worthy exercise of justice, and the repeal by the Legislature of all mercantile taxes was recommended. This plank was also presented:

"It has been with special gratification that the Republicans of this Commonwealth have observed the brilliant administration of the State Department by one of Pennsylvania's native sons, whose superb diplomacy has electrified the hearts of all Americans, exacted from foreign peoples a degree of respect and admiration for the United States flag hitherto unequaled, and opened wide to us in other lands commercial gates hitherto barred. In view of his magnificent achievements in diplomacy and statecraft, we earnestly express the hope that the Republican National Convention of 1892 may place in unanimous nomination for the Presidency—which nomination we feel assured will be followed by a triumphant election—the Hon. James G. Blaine of Pennsylvania and Maine."

This plank caused the wildest excitement. Blaine's name was cheered again and again. The leaders, however, doubting the expedience of the reference to Blaine as a candidate in 1892, the committee struck out that portion, leaving that part which extolled his many virtues.

The convention then proceeded to choose its candidates. General Gregg was nominated on the first ballot for Auditor-General, the vote standing: Gregg, 106; Mylin, 60; Price, 37. John W. Morrison was nominated for State Treasurer. The first ballot was: Morrison, 167; Thompson, 34; Price, 2. The nomination was made unanimous. Mr. Magee offered a resolution, which was adopted, that succeeding State conventions shall have one delegate from each Legislative district for every 2,000 votes cast in the preceding Presidential election and an additional delegate for every fraction of 1,000 or more.

GLASS WORKS TO START UP.

A Partial Resumption by the Trade Throughout the Country.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Aug. 20.—There was a partial resumption in the prescription branch of the flint glass trade through out the country to-day. Whital, Tatum & Co., Millville, put one large furnace in blast, another one starts up to-morrow and six more will shortly be running. The Carr Lowerey Company, Baltimore, put all their furnaces in blast to-day. Fox of Philadelphia starts up his works next Monday.

The outlook for a busy season is good. It is stated that Chairman Wallace, of the Eastern Window Glass Workers' Wage Committee, has called a meeting of that body to be held in Millville some day this week, when new developments in the window glass trade are expected. Some of the South Jersey window glass manufacturers are said to be willing to sign the scale and start up their works.

A Mexican Veteran Rewarded.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 20.—David Webber of Bailey's Island has just received a warrant of 100 acres of land from the government on account of services rendered in the Mexican war. The claim, with that of 15 others from this vicinity, was filed in 1856. It has been denied again and again, but has at length been granted.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

Newark Police Trying to Run Down An Unknown Wretch.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 20.—Rose Kuhnle, the 8-year-old daughter of respectable parents, living at 99 Magazine street, was infamously treated yesterday by some unknown brute.

Rose is a pretty girl and well developed for her years. She says she was met by a man who offered her several pennies to carry a small parcel to a house that he would lead her to.

The child followed the fellow until they had reached the woods, where he committed a serious assault upon her. Afterward he placed the child upon a car and sent her home. The girl gave a good description of her assailant, and the police are making every effort to hunt him down. Little Rose's condition is critical.

Short $110,000 in His Accounts.

DURANGO, Col., Aug. 20.—It is charged that Edward Lambert, Jr., bookkeeper of the San Juan Smelting and Mining Co., is short $110,000 in his accounts. Lambert has $30,000 worth of real estate here, and has for years been living extravagantly. Some months ago a detective was put in the office with Lambert, and when he reported it was shown that Lambert had appropriated $110,000 of the company's money. A warrant was sworn out for Lambert's arrest, but he got wind of it and left town. The sheriff is now close on his tracks. Lambert was also mayor of this city, having been elected last fall.

Killed on the Central Road.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The Central's Niagara Falls express, west bound, due at Herkimer at 2 a. m., struck a carriage while crossing the track near the station here. The occupants of the carriage were J. F. Hickey, of Troy, and H. C. Mulligan of, Greenbush, delegates to the Firemen's convention now being held here, with John Lawton of this village as driver. Mulligan and Lawton were instantly killed. Hickey was badly hurt and little hopes are entertained of his recovery. Hickey is captain of the Eddy Steamer Company of Troy. Lawton was formerly from Watertown.

Foreign Praise for New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A letter was received from Dr. William Ewing, who represents the health department of this city in the International Congress of Hygiene and Demagraphy, held in Saraden, in which he says that in the opinion of the congress the exhibits of the health department of New York city prove a perfection of discipline and system that is unsurpassed in any other city of the world.

Parnell Hits Back.

DUBLIN, Aug. 20.—The newspaper warfare which has been carried on between Parnell and Dillon almost since the day the latter was released from Galway jail, continues with vigor. The Freeman's Journal publishes a voluminous contradiction from Mr. Parnell, in which he resumes his attack on John Dillon and the rest of his opponents.

They Kissed and Made Up.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Captain Howland, Salvationist, who was accused by his wife of paying too much attention to Mrs. John L. Sullivan, returned to Providence yesterday. His wife found him, kissed and forgave, and the two have abandoned divorce proceedings.

Police Judge Killed.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 20.—Police Judge Andy Egbert was shot and killed last nigh at Crab Orchard by Town Marshal William Sanders.

EXPECTING A BATTLE

Ten Thousand Chilian Insurgents Leave Caldera.

THEY ARE ALL WELL ARMED.

Their War Ships to Attack the Forts at Valparaiso.

A Close Watch Kept on the Government's New War Vessels—Danger May Lurk for Them in the Islands of the Strait of Magellan—Bitter Feeling Against the United States.

LIMA, Peru, via Galveston, Aug. 20.—Advices just received from Antofagasta, Chili, say the authorities are trying to prevent any news getting on the outside.

Everything just now indicates a fierce fight soon. The Junta's transports and war ships, including the Huascar, Abtao, Esmeralda, Amazones, Bio Bio, Almirante, Cochrane and Magallanes have left Caldera with 10,000 well armed men.

Thir object is either to effect a landing in San Antonia Bay and march by land upon the Southern stronghold of Balmaceda or else attempt to engage the forts of Valparaiso.

In the event of the latter plan being carried out the insurgents would receive as good as they gave, for the forts are well defended and in a position to hold out for a long time.

Whatever course is taken by the Junta's fleet a fierce fight is expected within a few days.

The feeling in Antofagasta and in all the insurgent towns against the United States on account of the Itata continues to grow in bitterness.

The government forces in and around Santiago number 12,000.

Great interest is naturally manifested by the insurgents in the movements of Balmaceda's two new war ships, Pinto and Errazuriz. Every bit of news about them excites eager comment.

Danger may lurk for them in the islands of the Strait of Magellan.

SENATOR HOAR TALKS.

He Discusses the Gubernatorial Question in the Bay State.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 20.—Senator Hoar has returned here from Bar Harbor. When asked concerning Mr. Blaine, he said: "Mr. Blaine seemed about as he had for some years past in all respects."

Asked about the State election, he said: "I have not taken any part in the selection of a candidate for Governor this fall. While Massachusetts is undoubtedly a Republican State, the condition of the public mind is such that we must have a very satisfactory candidate indeed to bring out the full Republican strength.

"If our candidate for Governor should be defeated this year the effect on the national election in '92 will be very injurious.

"The choice seems now to be between two gentlemen, either of whom would make an admirable Governor. Both Mr. Crapo and Mr. Allen have served with distinction in the National House of Representatives. Mr. Crapo, however, has been longer in public life than Mr. Allen, and probably has the larger number of friends throughout the Commonwealth."

Ocean Grove's Camp Meeting.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 20.—The 21st annual camp meeting at Ocean Grove has opened. The opening service was a sacramental service, participated in by 100 ministers and 1,500 members. A consecration meeting was held at 5:45 a. m. by Rev. J. Andrews. There were 500 at family prayer at 9 o'clock. Three meetings were held with unusual large attendance. One thousand members were at the Helping Hand meeting for weak souls. The opening sermon was preached by Bishop Cyrus D. Foss of Philadelphia. His theme was "What think ye of Christ?"

Ex-Senator Warner Miller Recovering.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The reports current that ex-Senator Warner Miller was seriously ill are somewhat exaggerated. Mr. Miller has been confined to his room at Brown's Hotel in this city since Thursday last by an attack of muscular rheumatism. He went out for a drive this morning with his wife and daughter. The ex-Senator and his family start within a week for Windermere Lake, the finest of the English lakes, from which locality they will go to the Scotch lakes.

The Cape May Election.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 20.—At the Cape May Point borough election this ticket was chosen without opposition: George S. Fullerton, mayor; A. H. Hamilton, Ammon Wright, G. Eugene Corwin, Thomas B. Chester, Council; A. W. Springer, assessor; Edwin Marply, collector.

Horse Thief Captured After a Fight.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 20.—Frank Ellis, a professional horse thief, supposed to have come here from Vista, N. Y., stole ex-Representative John H. Ferris' handsome pacer last evening and drove away. He was captured after a hard fight just over the New York State line and locked up.

Ten Men Killed and Forty Injured.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—A horrible accident is reported from Nordenhamm, Oldenburg. A scaffold, on which a large number of men were working, collapsed, dragging with it in its fall a lower scaffold with more men. Ten men were killed and forty seriously injured.

Conference of Liberal Leaders.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Much interest is felt in the coming conference of Liberal leaders at Hawarden. It is expected some changes will be made in the programme of Liberal action, both before the people and in the next session of Parliament.

Flannel Cakes.

BY NELLIE CAMPBELL BEDFORD.

Four cups flour; one-half cup white corn meal; four eggs; one tablespoonful butter, melted; two cups milk; one teaspoonful salt; two level teaspoonfuls Cleveland's Baking Powder. Beat the yolks and whites of the eggs separately: Mix the flour, meal, salt and baking powder, add the milk, egg yolks and melted butter and beat hard. Stir in the stiffly beaten whites and bake on a hot griddle.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

If cake dries out, gets husky, crumbly, or tasteless like bakers' bread, it isn't bad luck but bad baking powder.

Cake keeps moist, keeps its natural flavor when made with Cleveland's Baking Powder. One special excellence of Cleveland's.

INSPECTED BY ROYALTY.

Queen Victoria Makes a Tour of the French Vessels To-day.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The cordial reception extended to the officers of the French fleet shows that England is going to steer clear of the Franco-German quarrel. To-day the Queen, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh and the Duke of Connaught, inspected the French vessels in Osborne Bay, and in the evening Admiral Gervais and a number of the officers of the squadron will dine with her Majesty at Osborne.

Portsmouth is thronged with visitors, and both the authorities and the people of the town, who have pleasant recollections of the last visit of the French fleet to the town, in 1865, are anxious to make the visitors happy. No effort is spared by the Mayor to show the thoroughness of his welcome, and many men are employed in preparations for the civic entertainment, the Town Council having voted a large sum to assist the Mayor in meeting the expenses.

While the reception of the French fleet is likely to be a cordial and hospitable one, there will be nothing like the almost frantic enthusiasm of the Russian visit, so that Admiral Gervais will, it is expected, have no embarrassing explanations to make for the benefit of the Czar. The Russian press has already declared that the visit will make no difference in the relations between France and Russia.

SUICIDES IN JAIL.

Two Women Use Their Clothing to Hang Themselves.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 20.—There was great excitement at the county jail in the morning when it was found that two women inmates had committed suicide.

Anna Gosoworska, who was committed to the jail on August 17, and supposed to be insane, w s found hanging by a rope made from her clothing, and was dead when removed.

Fifteen minutes afterward Mrs. Catherine Smith, committed on August 4, for attempting to murder her deformed son, was also found dead hanging by her skirt which she had twisted into a rope.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Louis Paulsen, the noted chess player of London, is dead.

President Harrison left Bennington, Vt., this morning for Mount McGregor.

The vessels of the White Squadron expect to sail for the naval station at Kittery, Me., to-day.

The Boston Board of Aldermen voted against making the fee for the theaters and other places of amusement $1,000 each.

Bella Nichol, aged 9, and Willie Nichol, aged 6, were drowned at Brockville, Ont., during the morning while bathing in the river.

The Jersey City Board of Finance has ordered Mayor Cleveland to account for the sinking fund. He intimates that he will not.

The wholesale furniture warehouse of R. Gray & Son at Hudson, N. Y., was damaged $15,000 by fire during the night. The drug store of Van Tassel & Tobey adjoining was damaged by water to a large amount. The total loss will probably reach $25,000, partly insured.

The foreman in the brick yard of Wiggin & Clark, at Exeter, N. H., had an altercation with four Italian laborers during the morning and they drew knives on him. Officer Thurston who was unarmed attempted to arrest one of the four when they attacked him with clubs and inflicted serious injuries, fracturing his skull. The Italians fled to a piece of woods which was quickly surrounded by citizens and police. After a desperate fight, several arrests were made.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—For New England: Warmer; fair weather; light variable winds; warmer and fair Friday.

For Eastern New York: Slightly warmer; fair weather; variable winds; fair and warm Friday.

For New Jersey: Continued warm and generally fair weather, except local showers on the coast line during the evening; winds mostly light and variable; continued warm, and probably showers Friday.

For Western New York: Warmer and fair; variable winds; warm and showery Friday.

Spurgeon Does Not Rally.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Charles Haddon Spurgeon, the famous preacher, is no better. He lies in the same condition as he has for some weeks past, and his family are much discouraged.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Captain Grant is better to-day.

—Comfort in summer wear at Peck's.

—The police station held one prisoner this morning. He was fined $3 for intoxication.

—F. O. Smith, who was so badly injured in a runaway recently, is steadily improving.

—Last night's issue of the Somerset street sheet was dated "Tuesday, August 18." Its versatility is something immense.

—The Somerville Messenger offers a "receipt for the swelled heads of the Plainfielders: The dose the West Ends will give them next Saturday between the hours of 3 and 6."

—Friday and Saturday will be great bargain days at Rogers Bros' for shoes. They have a few more ladies' $4 hand-sewed shoes to sell at $2.75, and a great many other bargains.

—The Harned Academy, 187 Park avenue, a popular boarding and day school, will reopen Monday, Sept. 14. Information may be obtained by calling on or addressing Edward N. Harned, principal.

—Passenger Agent Baldwin says he will order the train bearing the G. A. R. excursionists home from Rockaway Beach, to-morrow evening, to run to Grant avenue to accomodate those living in that vicinity.

—A second sitting at rotary whist was had at Elmwood, last night, with the following result: H. Kyte, 9; A. P. Downer, 7; W. Force, 6; Dr. Gardner, 6; Mr. Smith, 4. The latter took a pill at the close of the contest.

—The excursion of the G. A. R., to Rockaway Beach, to-morrow, promises to be an enjoyable one. The committee assure their patrons that they will positively go by the "General Slocum", the handsome new steamer.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck left to-day for two weeks at Saratoga.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Milliken, jr., returned to Temple Grove, Saratoga, to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Martin and family are home from Liberty, Sullivan county, N. Y.

William J. Roome and family are at the Rip VanWinkle House, Pine Hill, N. Y.

Miss Mabel Winn, of Millstone, is spending a few days with her friend, Miss Mabel Knight, of Arlington avenue.

Miss Sophie McGinnis, of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, has returned from a two weeks' sojourn at Long Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. H. Huntsman, of Bay street, left town this afternoon for a week's visit among relatives at Providence.

W. H. Whitehead, of this city, has been elected a representative to the Grand Lodge of New Jersey of the Sons of St. George.

Abram C. Harris, formerly of this city, died suddenly at Leadville, Aug. 6. He is the son of John Harris, who lived for many years on West Second street, opposite Pruden's Lane. His brother, William W. Harris, lives on East Front street.

Dan'l F. M. Furguson, clerk to the commissioner of jurors of Brooklyn, writes to Capt. Grant of the Plainfield police that he would like to arrange a ball game in this city. Labor Day, between the Court House nine of Brooklyn and a Plainfield team.

The death of Furman Campbell, of Rockview avenue, which was announced in these columns yesterday, removes one of Plainfield's oldest residents. In the days when Plainfield was a village he was one of its pioneer butchers, and for years did a thriving business. He was one of the first to open up and develop Washington Park, that aristocratic and beautiful section of the borough. He leaves, besides his wife, two sons, David, the Bound Brook and New Market schoolmaster, John who is in Europe, and a daughter, Mary, who lives with her mother at the home of the deceased.

A New Back Stop for Somerville's Team.

The fourth of the series of games between the Crescents and the West Ends will be played on the North Plainfield grounds Saturday. If the Crescents win—and there is every reason they should—the victories will stand two and two.

Kennedy, the West End catcher, is still laid up, but Manager Mack has secured Fritz of the Ridgewoods. The latter is one of the best back stops among the semi-professionals. In the three games he has played against the Crescents this season he got two singles, a two-bagger, and filed out to right field once and left field twice.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is two year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

A SERIOUS ASSAULT.

A Concert Saloon Performer Resents a Fancied Insult to His Wife.

The concert saloons that have sprung up in Plainfield were responsible for another exciting scene last night, when William A. Cross, of 4 Arlington avenue, was seriously assaulted by one of the performers in the "theatrical" annex to Wallace V. Miller's bar room, on West Front street.

Cross's story is that he was seated with James Conroy and Charles Hope at a table in the "concert" hall, watching a sort of panorama exhibited by a performer who was impersonating an Irishman.

A picture came to view that pleased Cross's fancy, and at sight of it he exclaimed "Oh, ain't that nice!"

It happened that just as he uttered the words a woman came out on the stage. She was subsequently said to be the wife of the performer. She evidently took the words of Cross to herself, and fancied that they were intended as an insult, for she said: "If I was a man I'd fix you."

At that her reputed husband jumped from the stage to where Cross was sitting, knocked him over, and jumped upon him. A result of the combined assault of the fists and heavily shod feet of the performer is that to-day Cross's right eye is closed up, his face is terribly cut and swollen, and on his body and legs are ugly bruises from the kicks received from the "actor". Cross's eye was almost kicked out of his head, and it is feared that his sight may be affected permanently. Had he not been rescued by his friends, it is said, his face would have been beaten to a pulp.

He was bleeding profusely, and coughing up blood when the performer was hauled off. He was promptly taken to No. 2's engine house, and Dr. Carman was summoned and attended him.

This morning Cross tried to have a warrant issued for his assailant's arrest, but Sergeant Lynch, on investigating the case, satisfied himself that the assault was in some respects a justifiable one.

The performer says, and others corroborate him, that Cross was intoxicated and that he repeatedly and deliberately did insult the man's wife, even after he had been told to cease his objectionable behavior. It is said that almost the entire saloon full of people commended the action of the man in avenging the insult, by shouting "You did right!" when they were asked by him if he had been wrong in the matter. It may be, therefore, that no arrest will be made.

A Still Alarm.

A well-dressed but rather rural looking old man raised a little dust on West Front street the other afternoon. Attention was first atttracted to him by the peculiar gyrations which he was executing before one of our new fire-alarm boxes. First he would tug wildly at the top of the box or pull ferociously at the door, poking a piece of paper against it; then he would lift his umbrella and try to pry the lid off, until finally, just as he was about to force a nickel into the keyhole, a policeman came up and interfered.

"Phwat are yer thryin' ter do here, eh?" demanded the majesty of the law. The stranger paid no attention but went bravely on with his gymnastics. Such lack of reverence was too much for the official and he laid violent hands upon the object of his solicitude and remarked:

"Aw, come away; cheese yer monkey bizness before I run yer in, or yer'll have de ingins out!"

Then the worm turned. "My friend," said he, "Perhaps you can assist me. I've been trying for half an hour to mail a letter, but the box seems to be out of order or else—"

"Well, days er mail box across't de street dere, look," observed the intelligent official. "Yer can't make er post-office outen er fire alarm box ef youse wuz ter thry all night, see?

And the stranger thanked the gentlemanly cop, and saw.

Special Excursion to Atlantic City.

At a meeting held last evening the Exempt Firemen decided to go to Atlantic City early in September, during the firemen's convention in that place, and to run an excursion train by which Plainfield people may enjoy all the pleasures and privileges of the trip at a greatly reduced rate. A committee, of which Auguste Saltzman is chairman, and H. H. Brokaw secretary, was appointed to make definite arrangements. Representatives were present from Bound Brook, Scotch Plains, and Westfield, and the exempts of those places will co-operate in the excursion. It is probable that the Elizabeth firemen will also participate. The tickets will be good to return on any train within six days. The trip will be a fine one. Particulars will be given later.

The Bicycle Record Broken.

W. F. Murphy, of the New York Athletic Club, made three new records on the Springfield, Mass., bicycle track, Monday. He rode a pneumatic, and beat all the American records for a mile. His times were as follows: Quarter-mile, 35 seconds, which equals the record previously made by him; half-mile, 1.09 3-5; three-quarters, 1.45½; mile, 2.23 2-5, beating the American record 2 4-5 seconds.

Good for young and old. We know of no better tonic for the system than Hires's Improved Root Beer. It is delicious, effervescent, sparkling, appetizing, and a helper of temperance. Satisfying the thirst, enriching the blood, and fortifying the system against the advance of disease. A 25-cent package makes five gallons. Sold everywhere.

A PLAINFIELD MYSTERY SOLVED.

Lillie Wooden Was a Siren That Lured Frederick Faltoute.

The mystery about "Lillie Wooden" that has recent puzzled her neighbors in this city, has been solved since her hurried departure from Plainfield a few weeks ago.

The man with whom she lived in this city, is now said to be Frederick B. Faltoute a well-known Newarker and one of the most prominent coal dealers of the State. He is a member of the North End Club and the Triton Boat Club. Faltoute spent one year at Princeton College where he was graduated with the Class of '85. His wife is well known in society, and is a daughter of Joseph S. Bayils, of Warren place, Newark, who has been associated in business with her husband.

A few days ago he disappeared from his home in Newark, under very mysterious circumstances, and now the entire north end of that city is discussing the scandal in which he is involved. Some months ago, Mrs. Faltoute heard stories of her husband's dissipation which she at first refused to believe, but when, a few weeks afterwards, he started ostensibly on a pleasure trip to California, her suspicions became aroused and an investigation was begun.

Faltoute was traced to this city, where his wife and her mother found him living with a woman known as Lillie Wooden. Faltoute had been spending money lavishly on the woman, and it was afterward learned that he had disposed of a number of valuable pieces of property in Newark in order to supply her with luxuries.

The recreant husband acknowledged his guilt, and upon his earnest pleadings and professions of repentance he was forgiven. He returned to Newark with his wife, and everything continued all right until his second disappearance about two weeks ago. It has now been learned beyond a doubt that he is again in company with the Wooden woman, in Oneida, New York, where he has ordered his horses and carriages to be sent to him.

JUDGE MARTINE'S BROTHER ARRESTED,

William H. Martine Charged by a New York Grocer with Passing Worthless Checks.

Wm. Martine, said to be a cousin of Hon. James Martine, of this city, and a brother of Judge Randolph B. Martine, of New York, was arrested Tuesday at his office, 11 Broadway, New York, by Detectives Burleigh and Hunt of the Charles street station on a charge of passing worthless checks.

Herman Reisen, a grocer at 284 West Twelfth street, appeared in court and said that Martine, who lived at 288 West Twelfth street, was a customer of his.

On July 20 a bill for groceries amounting to $9.25 was presented to Martine. The following day Martine gave a check for $13.63 drawn upon the Oneida National Bank of New York, signed "Ab Atkins," and received the change. On July 27, another check was presented in payment for groceries. This was for $12.75, drawn on the People's National Bank of Salem, N. Y., and on this Martine also received change. This check was signed "Charles Allen." Grocer Reisen deposited the checks and they were returned marked N. G.

Mr. Martine said he had got the checks from a client named Charles Allen, and believing them to be good had passed them.

Justice Hogan refused to take a complaint, as none of the officers of the bank was present. The detectives said they had affidavits from the banks, and didn't think they could get the bank officers into court.

They were willing that Martine should be discharged, but the Justice declined to assume the responsibility. He instructed the detectives to get the necessary evidence and produce it in court, as it was the right and privilege of the accused's counsel to question the witnesses.

The detectives then took Martine back to the police station.

[From The Harkinstown Messenger.]

Who would have supposed that the Crescents would win from the Westfields, and in the first inning, too! The way they fell upon Hammill and sent the ball out of the lot must have been discouraging indeed. They hit him for two two-baggers and three singles, which, with a base on balls and a couple of rocky errors by Diven and Howe, netted the Plainfielders seven runs. It all happened before the Westfields in reality got in the game, and I think that the whole team, headed by their twirler, got a case of dead rattles—the first, I am sure, they have had this season. But it is sure to come, and when it does the overthrow is awful.

There were only two runs between them at the finish, but the runs belonged to the Crescents. Consequently everyone in Plainfield was satisfied. I tell you, they are hard losers, and they fought to the last. But the Westfield batters might as well have tried to hit a fleeting will-o'-the-wisp, as the came-backed curves that came from Hammill's shop.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.

Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

All He Wants is $10,000.

At the instigation of one Joseph Brengle Miller, and his attorney, Charles A. Reed, the genial sheriff of Union county, Wm. H. Hicks, visited this office this afternoon and served papers on the proprietors and managing editor of THE PRESS in an alleged libel suit for $10,000 damages, "as is said".

The next thing for Joseph Brengle Miller to do is to prove that it is possible for his reputation to be damaged in this community.

Brigadier General of the K. of P.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 20.—The uniformed rank of the Knights of Pythias elected Col. C. E. Bentley, of Corry, Brigadier-General of the rank in Pennsylvania. The representatives of the Grand Lodge participated in the parade of the uniformed rank of the Order.

King Kelly Playing in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—An enthusiastic crowd greeted King Kelly when he appeared with the Association team on the Congress street grounds. He will captain the Boston "Reds" the remainder of the season and will assist Morgan Murphy in catching and Hardie Richardson in left field.

Knights of Pythias Drill.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The Knights of Pythias, who are holding an encampment here, had a street parade and contests in Guy Park. Poughkeepsie won the competitive drill, which was witnessed by 8,000 people.

The Lizard Gang Leader Dead.

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 20.—James Edmonson, the notorious criminal and leader of thieves in West Orange, known as the Lizard Gang, died at 10:30 a. m. in the Memorial Hospital from the effects of taking a dose of rat poison. He was arrested for a burglary, and while locked up on Sunday morning last swallowed the poison, which he had in his possession. He told his confederates that he would never serve another term in prison and would end his life first.

Big Meeting of Wheelmen.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 20.—It is estimated that there are 1,000 visiting wheelmen in the city in attendance at the ninth annual meet of the State Division of the L. A. W. The big parade had 750 men in line. The Syracuse and Buffalo clubs made a good showing. There were also good representations from Elmira, Utica, Tonawanda, Binghamton, Lockport and other towns. The track is in good condition, and some good time is looked for.

The Holy Coat of Treves.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Many Catholics join the Protestants in deprecating the exhibition of the Holy Coat of Treves. Pamphlets are widely circulated attacking the Bishop of Treves, and a wordy war is waged over the question raised by Father Williams, who holds that Christ's coat must have been shorter and of poorer quality than the one on exhibition.

Disastrous Hurricane at Martinique.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The State Department has received a cablegram from the United States Consul at Martinique, stating that a hurricane destroyed every sail in port. Houses were damaged and many lives were lost.

Selling Government Patronage.

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—In the House Mr. Cameron has made charges that Mr. Cochrane, M. P., for East Northumberland, is guilty of selling Government patronage to the highest bidder.

Row Over the Sub-Treasury Question.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 20.—Quite a bitter fight is being made on the Sub-Treasury question in the State Alliance, but a large majority of the delegates favor the scheme.

OUR "Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2 00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. A WARM WAVE COMING.

It Will be Here in Full Force By To-morrow.

Before the end of the week a warm wave will make an unwelcome visit to this vicinity; at least that's what the present indications point to. Local Forecast Official Dunn has discovered that the warm wave is coming eastward. He believes it will be in this vicinity to-day. Plainfielders wont be pleased to hear that the temperature of the warm wave is away above the normal, and that when it gets here it will be in full force.

BASE-BALL SLANG.

It Nearly Wrecks a Harmonious Boarding-House.

The trouble all arose over one breakfast. It may be that they knew he hated base-ball, or it may be that their talk resulted from the fact that every man, woman and child in the boarding-house, with the exception of the lank pessimist, had been to the game the day before.

At any rate, when the landlady took the coffee-pot in one hand and the cream pitcher in the other and began pouring from both at the same time, he was moved to ask, without a suspicion of danger, what she was doing.

"Making a double play unassisted"—was her prompt response.

He looked pained, but said nothing.

A moment later, when a codfish ball was gallantly declined by the dude, who insisted on passing it to his fair neighbor, the dry-goods clerk on the other side of the table called out:

"Passed ball!"

The pessimist fingered his knife nervously as he glared at the clerk, and had hardly recovered his composure when the waitress kicked the cat through the doorway, and the pretty type-writer lisped:

"Put out!"

And the young lawyer added:

"Safe hit!"

He hardly had time to shift his reproachful glance from the pretty type-writer to the young lawyer when the old maid began telling what a brute the man next door was, and the real estate agent sang out:

"Score one!"

For sympathy he turned to the landlady's pretty daughter, who sat next to him, and who had so far said nothing. But as he declined the last muffin on the plate and she took it, she looked him straight in the eye, and with her most captivating smile said:

"A sacrifice!"

Then he got up and stalked out, and now there is a room to rent in that boarding-house.

An Old-Timer's Recollections.

Fifty years ago—writes "Graybeard", in the Westfield Leader—communication between Plainfield and New York was had by the Elizabeth Town Point and Somerville Railroad, which ran two trains daily each way, and connected with the steamboats Water-witch and Cinderella at what is now Elizabethport. Time on the cars, one hour more or less, but generally more. Time on the boat, about the same, thus taking from two to two and one-half hours to reach the city. The trains stopped at towns along the line on signal: that is you stood at the side of the track, and held up your hand. The road consisted of four-by-six timbers, running lengthwise with flat iron rail spikes on top. Occasionally one of these rails would become loosened, and the end come up through the floor of the car. Strange to say, the fare was less then than now, notwithstanding the longer time. The original stockholders lost all, when it passed into the hands of a receiver, and was re-organized under the name of the C. R. R. of N. J.

Higgins's Creditors Clamorous.

Another execution has been served, by constable Moffett, on Michael A. Higgins. It seems that some time ago the firm of Loomis & Rice went on Higgins's note and subsequently had to pay. Then they sued to recover, and got judgment. They also had a claim against him for the lumber with which his barn was built, and on both debts the barn was attached, Tuesday, by the constable. The sale of Higgins's property in settlement of his debts will probably take place this afternoon. It was to have occurred Monday, but Higgins promised to settle. The creditors are clamorous, however, and the sale is to proceed.

Will Make It a Paying Institution.

[From The Newark News.]

F. W. Runyon, editor of the Central New Jersey Times, and James A. Demarest, editor of the Plainfield Press, were appointed managers of the Plainfield Opera House, and have taken hold with a purpose of making the theatre a paying institution. Nearly $3,000 will be spent in improvements. The theatre cost $50,000, exclusive of the land, but the stockholders have never received one cent in dividends.

The Mystery of the Stopped Watches.

There is a family in a certain New York suburb not a thousand miles from Plainfield who are endeavoring to preserve a calm philosophy over a rather startling occurrence. On Friday night a week ago, the gentleman was aroused from slumber by the persistent barking of his dog. He got up and reconnoitred from his window, saw nothing and heard nothing suspicious, and telling his dog to be quiet, returned to bed and to sleep. Before he slept, however, he replied to his wife's question as to the time of night with the remark that it was probably about 1:30.

On arising the next morning the husband was surprised to find his watch was not going—it had stopped at precisely twenty-six minutes after one. He owns two watches, a silver and a gold one, and he at once went to the gold one for the time. That had stopped, too—at precisely twenty-eight minutes past one. And then, with an odd sensation, the man recalled that the night before, in winding the two watches, he had noticed that the gold one was two minutes faster than the silver one. He decided he would not tell his wife about this remarkable performance of his timepieces and continued his dressing. She had preceded him below stairs, but before he was ready to leave his room she called to him. He went to the baluster to hear her.

"What time is it, please?"—she asked,—"The dining-room clock has stopped."

"At what hour?"—he almost gasped.

"Twenty-six minutes after 1 o'clock"—was the reply, which sent an uncanny chill over him.

That is all there is to it, however. A week has gone by and that commuter has not even missed his train, but will some society of psychology please explain, if it can, what set a dog to barking and stopped three well-regulated and heretofore continuous timepieces at precisely the same moment?—for this story is absolutely accurate in every detail. At least so says its narrator, and he is a gentleman whose reputation for veracity is above reproach.

Tribute to the Departed.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Rachel L. Harford were held yesterday afternoon at the residence of her sister, Mrs. S. A. Meader, at the Evona railway station. Her pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, came from Ocean Grove to officiate. In his sermon he spoke touchingly of her Christian resignation and obedience to God's will. She had no fear of death, but only regret at leaving her loved ones behind. She left them, she said, in God's care, whose mercies were boundless, and who was abundantly able to sustain and keep them.

The deceased was conscious to the last, and spoke lovingly and tenderly to the mourners gathered about her.

At the funeral her favorite hymns were sung, by a choir composed of Elmer Runyon, William Runyon and George Stevens.

The remains were taken to her former home, Middletown, N. Y., for interment, on the 6:59 train this morning. The stricken family and their friends are deeply grateful for the kind offices of Supt. Peddie of the Jersey Central railway, who granted many especial favors in the shape of arranging for the transportation of the remains and of the sorrowing family, who are also fully appreciative to Supt. Reckless of the Long Branch road for his kindness in seeing that she was safely and comfortably taken home from Ocean Grove when stricken ill.

PLAINFIELD, Aug. 19.—An enthusiastic New Jerseyman, Robert Huntsman, has just finished a compilation of high points in New Jersey that will interest every native of the State. Sussex county holds the honor of the State's highest peak. It is at High Point, in the Kittatinny Mountains, which rise to an elevation of 1,804 feet above sea level. The highest point in the Highlands, three miles south of Vernon, is 1,496. Lake Mercer, near High Point, is 1,570 feet.

Other points in the State are the summit of the Port Jervis turnpike, 1,391 feet; Round Pond, in the Kittatinny Mountains, 1,300 feet. Summit of the Allamuchy mountains, 1,229 feet. Lake Hopatcong's surface is only 925 feet above the sea level, while Greenwood Lake is but 635 feet. The summit of Bowling Green, Morris county, is 1,391 feet high, and the United States Survey Station, on Mount Olive, 1,151 feet. Bearfoot Mountain, in Passaic county, is 1,490 feet high, while the mountain on the New Jersey side of the Delaware Water Gap is 1,456 feet high and Mount Motepinoke is 1,140 feet.

"Only a nickel, sir. I haven't had a mouthful since yesterday."

"What's the use, my good fellow?" snapped out Jones, angered into speech. "You're sure to be hungry again to-morrow."—Judge.

A Prominent Personage.

Jawkins—Who is that man yonder who goes along with his nose in the air?

Hogg—Sh! He's a mighty important personage. His picture and biography are in all the papers.

Jawkins—What has he done?

Hogg—He's the man who was cured of catarrh.—Judge.

An Unsolicited Compliment.

Dr. Binks (the family physician)—I'm afraid your wife is in a very serious condition, Mr. Tangle.

Tangle—That's just what I've thought for some time, Dr. Binks, and I've been telling her all along that she ought to have a better doctor.—Munsey's Weekly.

A Dreary Prospect.

First Tramp (glancing over a bit of paper)—Say, Mike, here's a new society a-startin' up, ter furnish work fer th' idle.

Second Tramp—Things is gettin' so there ain't no comfort fer a gentleman nowhere.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Healthy Patient.

Young Moneybags—Doctor, I want you to prescribe me a trip to Newport.

Doctor—And for what disease will that be a cure?

Young Moneybags—Why, for a longing to go to Newport, of course.—Munsey's Weekly.

Pulled Both Ways.

"Barrows lacks decision. He never goes one way or the other."

"What could you expect? He has a porous plaster on his back and another on his chest."—N. Y. Sun.

A Poor Recommendation.

Salesman—Now this carpet, madam, can't be beat.

Mrs. Muldoon—Indade! an' how in the worruld would I get the dust out of it?—Munsey's Weekly.

The Leader of the Pair.

Grafton (to Baboony, with big dog)—I cawn't see why you go 'wound with that mohstwous beast.

Baboony—I don't, deah boy; he goes 'wound with me.—Judge.

A PRIVATE TOOTER.

—Harper's Bazar.

The Modern Way.

He—Will you be mine, dear?

She—No.

He—What?

She—I'll go you on an equal partnership, but I won't sell out.—Judge.

Getting Even.

"He is not a beau of yours, is he?"

"Yes."

"He calls on me oftener than on you."

"Yes; I told him the days you were not at home."—Life.

For the Best of Reasons.

"Keep your face towards the foe always, my son."

"Why, father?"

"Then you'll never be shot in the back."—Munsey's Weekly.

Great Luck.

Jones (just reached the fishing-grounds)—What kind of luck are you havin', Brown?

Brown—First-rate. Been here an hour and hain't fell in yet.—Judge.

Tenderer.

"I feel it just as much, my dear little boy," said papa after he had spanked Billykins.

"Y-yes," sobbed Billykins. "B-but n-not in the s-s-same p-p-place."—Life.

An Equivalent.

She—His marriage mercenary! Why, the girl had little or nothing!

He—Yes, but he owed her father.—Life.

What Did She Mean?

Cora—What would you do if you had a voice like mine?

Dora—I should be very careful not to overwork it.—Jury.

A Deep Scheme.

Tourist—That is an odd setting for a photograph gallery—a gaunt oak limb with a dangling noose and a background of a howling mob.

Oklahoma Photographer—That's a little invention of my own. Lots of newcomers from the east have their pictures taken with that noose around their necks, to send back where they came from. It is cheaper than paying their debts and easier than getting a divorce.—Jury.

Childish Logic.

Miss Birdie McGinnis complains of headache. Her little sister Mollie has toothache. Miss Birdie says:

"Molly, you must have that tooth pulled if it aches. It is hollow inside."

"Sister Birdie, don't your head ache?"

"Yes."

"Then you must have your head pulled. It's hollow inside."—Texas Siftings.

A Rival's Sarcasm.

Old Mr. Yallerby—Dar goes Mose Johnsing an' his gal like two souls wif but a single thought.

Pete Cooby (bitterly)—Yeah, dat's 'bout right. Half an idea in each of their heads jus' covers it.—Judge.

Fashion Note.

Miss Hightone—Are you going to the country this year? Everything is so green and lovely.

Miss Elite—No, I'm not going. Green is not becoming to me.—Texas Siftings.

Not to Be Daunted.

Jealous Husband—Before we go to De Twigg's dance I want to warn you that I do not like your flirting habits.

She (with feminine readiness)—Don't you? Tastes will differ. Some people do!—Judge.

Ridiculous.

Maude—Why don't you come down and bathe, Clara?

Clara—In the rain? I guess not. I might get my new bathing suit wet.—Jury.

Pity the Shop Keepers.

Boy—What does ma go shopping for?

Pa—Why, to buy clothes, ribbons, etc.

Boy—Ain't it funny she never brings them home?—Once a Week.

No Harm Done.

"I was talking to a boy this morning, when all of a sudden he shot up in the air out of sight."

"Man-hole?"

"Nope. Elevator."—Puck.

What He Missed.

Miss Gadsby—Can you keep a secret, Mr. Dumber?

Mr. Dumber—Oh, yes!

Miss Gadsby—Then I won't tell it to you.—Puck.

The Modest Man.

She—I love all that is grand, noble, majestic and beautiful.

He—Thank you very much, Miss Boston, but—er—really you embarrass me.—Munsey's Weekly.

Every Little Helps.

Brace—Your wife's mother helps her a great deal, doesn't she?

Bagley—Yes; she has gone to town now to buy a dress to match some buttons her mother gave her.—Puck.

Tragedy in Real Life.

He (in wild distress)—Dearest, why do you turn from me?

She—Harold, I—I have been eating onions.—Chicago Tribune.

Might Carve It With a Club.

"Carving a chicken," remarked the police captain, "is like raiding opium dens; the main thing is to locate the joints."—Puck.

The End of an Argument.

Jawkins—You must be crazy!

Dawkins—Perhaps I am. I've been talking with you for nearly an hour, you see.—Munsey's Weekly.

An Unhappy Truth.

"There is an aristocracy of letters in this country, you must admit."

"Perhaps—but little royalty."—Puck.

Like the Fireworks.

Bunting—What has become of that fireworks trust you were going to organize?

Larkin—It's exploded.—Judge.

A Reason.

Mrs. Chatterly—Why do you persist in calling Johnny a "shaver?"

Chatterly—Because he talks too much.—Puck.

Well-Founded Fears.

Burke—Do you think your uncle will die?

Smirke—I'm afraid so. It's the poor one.—Life.

His Work Is to Last.

Pennibs (proudly)—I write for immortality, sir.

Gazzam—Ah! what brand of indelible ink do you use?—Judge.

Thick.

Prof. Buggs—Chameleons live on air.

Luggs ('92)—Well, they should find New York air very nutritive.—Puck.

Delsarte as It Is Taught by Henriette Russell—Mrs. Astor and Mrs. Whitney Stand at the Head—Mrs. Russell's Extraordinary Rang.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

NEWPORT has gone wild over Delsarte. Henrietta Russell, that shrewdest of clever æsthetes, is here busily engaged in skimming the cream of cream. Mrs. W. C. Whitney is her backer. She became interested in Mrs. Russell and her theories last winter in New York, opened her drawing-room, and had in a dozen to hear her new doctrines of grace. The class grew. People began to ask, nay beg, for invitations. Then Mrs. Whitney conceived the idea of having a supplementary season of Delsarte at Newport, to accommodate those who were unable to hear Mrs. Russell in town.

Mrs. Russell presses her pupils into service at her classes. She calls up a married beauty to strike an effective pose or a famous belle to illustrate the difference between a good and bad position. Fancy ordering a Vanderbilt to come to the front or an Astor to stand up in meeting! Furthermore on one occasion when Mrs. Russell was illustrating the various telling ways a woman may look at a man, she suddenly declared she could do much better if she had a man to look at and called up Mr. Frank W. Andrews, who was attending the lecture, and asked him to be a target for the killing glances she had in store. Mr. Andrews, with the gallantry for which he is celebrated, assisted the lady to the best of his ability, and enjoyed his first lesson in Delsarte quite as much as his friends.

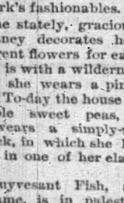
EDITH WHITMORE.

Let us take a peep in at the teacher and her class, this morning. Before Mrs. Whitney's door stand the smartest turnouts in Newport. In the ballroom there is the soft frou-frou of silken skirts, and the ripple of silvery laughter, and the murmur of well modulated voices. The great ballroom is separated from the drawing room by a high glass partition, before which stand three enormous vases filled with palms, which tower to the ceiling. On the three remaining sides of the room, broad windows open into balconies, dubbed "the modesty seats," where the shy people sit, and which are filled with gay cushions, easy-chairs and gorgeous draperies. The ceiling is decorated in robins' egg blue and gold, the floor and raised platform are covered with Oriental rugs, and in a semi-circle sit the fairest and most famous of New York's fashionables.

AMY BAND.

First, the stately, gracious hostess; Mrs. Whitney decorates her cottage with different flowers for each lecture. One day it is with a wilderness of pink roses, then she wears a pink gown in harmony. To-day the house is crowded with purple sweet peas, and Mrs. Whitney wears a simply-made lilac cotton frock, in which she looks as attractive as in one of her elaborate costumes.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, aristocratic grande dame, is in palest lavender, with a boa of lilac water feathers about her throat. Mrs. Astor—well, what do you fancy the great and only "Mrs. Astor" wears? The simplest blue gingham, barred with red, a little straw bonnet trimmed with daisies, a white, embroidered veil and diamonds as big as almonds. Mrs. Kernochan is stately in black brocade and diamond buttons, and Mrs. Justice Grey is also in black. Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt is stunning in pink crepe, ornamented with big white crescents. There is a wonderful girdle of black jets with bretelles and trimmings to match, and a tiny black lace bonnet crowns her dark hair. Ward McAllister's niece is in pink crepon, and Miss Leary, who gives the most famous musicals in Newport, is in black silk, with knots of white ribbon in her bonnet.



MRS. WHITNEY.

Perhaps the most attractive women in the room are beautiful Mrs. De Forrest and her sister, the famous Sallie Hargous, who is to be married on the 15th of September, and who is surrounded on that account by an additional atmosphere of interest. Mrs. De Forrest, who is a typical Spanish beauty, is in bronze green chiffon over silk. There is a bolero jacket of jet and a bonnet of black lace with gold and jet spangles. Pretty Sallie is in pale green crepe trimmed with dark-green velvet and white lace. Her bonnet is a mere wreath of white flowers and her tiny shoes are of patent leather and ark green suede.

One more beautiful gown is noticed of white India silk, sprinkled over with blue violets and trimmed with violet blue velvet with sleeves of white chiffon. The bonnet is of violets and lilies.

With the beautiful faces and gay costumes the scene is like nothing so much as a lovely flower garden. The hum of conversation ceases as Mrs. Russell comes in followed by her pupil and protege, Miss Florence Sears, of Buffalo, who is doing for the four hundred of that city what Mrs. Russell is for Newport.

What does this woman who has set Newport agog by her sayings and doings look like? She is not a big woman, though she has the gift of making herself look taller than she really is. She is well rounded, but in some mysterious fashion will make you swear she is slender. She is as lithe as a serpent, and as capable of vibrations as a violin string. Her eyes and mouth are her beauty. The eyes are blue gray, with long, dark lashes, and express all sorts of emotions in swiftly changing glances. Her flexible, curving lips, parting over glistening teeth, are quite as suggestive. She is not a handsome woman, but fascinating and magnetic. Her gown? Ah! Well, that is a riddle. One is conscious of some soft, crepe fabric of golden tan hue, falling in the most graceful lines and statuesque folds, and clasped and caught here and there with bizarre ornaments of carved ivory. The hair is cut in a pre-Raphaelite fashion and forms a nimbus over the low brow, and over it is set a tiny Venetian cap of bronze and copper embroidery. It is a curious medieval figure this, set among all these modern frills, flounces and fripperies. And it is a more curious sight to watch these women, bound in steel and whalebone, corsetted to the last notch, try to imitate the free, perfectly easy and subtle movements of their teacher, whose every joint is unfettered. There's no use—society will have to take off its corsets before it can be as graceful as Russell.

MRS. DE FORREST.

Mrs. Russell puts her class through first the relaxing motions, consisting of shaking fingers, rolling the head and hips, then the opposition of movement to get balance and poise, then the succession of movement, during which the arms make one motion while the hips are doing quite another. Then to finish the exercises every blessed swell save Mrs. Astor falls on her face. Of course one could not expect such a performance from the stately leader of the four hundred.

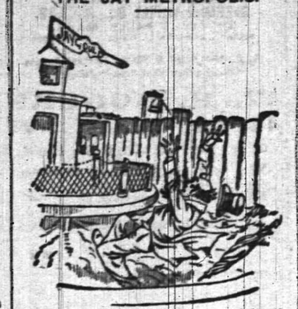
SPRIGGY POST.

And now the men are getting the Delsarte fever. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish gave a luncheon this week and Mrs. Russell was called upon to do some of her work for the men who were present. So the lady posed and bowed and fainted for their benefit and received a storm of applause. The result is that next season men are to be admitted to Mrs. Russell's classes. Several prominent social leaders have formed dinner clubs. Each takes her turn giving a dinner party, after which there is to be a Delsarte dance, when the men shall be put through their paces and the women shall laugh at their awkwardness.

Mrs. Russell does not hesitate to attack slang, boisterousness, bluntness and hauteur in most uncompromising fashion. She is not one bit awed or overwhelmed by the exalted character of her audience. She is a lady born and bred, is accustomed to the best London circles of society and can hold her own anywhere with perfect ease. She enjoys teaching these lovely and refined women, and says that she finds their intelligence far over the average mark. They acquire physical execution faster than other women, owing, she thinks, to the fact that the greater part of their summer lives is passed in outdoor exercise, driving, horseback riding and sea bathing. "It is the quiet, middle class women who mope in the house all day, who are most difficult to teach the principles of grace and beauty," says Henrietta. "I find, too, that money does not make a leader of society. It may be necessary, but personal charm and intellect are necessary also." Mrs. Russell further says that many of the older ladies learn faster than the younger ones. For illustration, she is teaching the bow of ceremony which shall express many things, well bred reserve, cordiality without effusiveness, manner and repose. She puts the ladies through this exercise and says that the bows of Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Astor are most expressive. Mrs. Whitney's bow from a carriage is dream, and Mrs. Astor with her stately courtesy expresses volumes with little movement.

PEGGY PENDENNIS.

THE JAY METROPOLIS.



Uncle Hayseed decides to visit the gay metropolis.

His freshness is a little salt after he is rescued from the North river, and as he proceeds he learns the remarkable effect of tobacco juice upon the human eye.

He casts sarcastic glances at the imps of Satan who infest the street.

His last reflection upon earth was to the effect that New York is a Jay town.

ALMY SURRENDERED

He Was Found Hiding in Mr. Warden's Barn.

HE MADE A DESPERATE FIGHT.

The Murderer Gave Up the Battle Only When Crippled and Wounded.

For a While He Kept 1,500 Men at Bay—Carried Under a Strong Guard to a Hotel in Hanover—He Never Left the Scene of the Crime—The Assassin's Story.

HANOVER, N. H., Aug. 21.—Frank Almy, the murderer of Christine Warden, is now under arrest. Twenty citizens, under the leadership of Sheriff Stevens, all armed with Winchester rifles, captured the criminal.

Almy was found concealed in Farmer Warden's hay mow. He fought desperately for his life, and when taken had two revolvers in his hands from which he had discharged 15 shots. The arresting party surrounded him and kept the angry mob of 1,500 people from lynching the murderer. He was locked up in the Wheelock House, and a band of citizens and police officers are guarding him with their rifles.

Mrs. Warden's Discovery.

It is a strange coincidence that Mrs. Warden, who was first accosted by Almy on the night of the murder, proved to be the first to discover his hiding place. While searching for some stray chickens Mrs. Warden noticed a hole under the barn which excited her curiosity. Peeping through the dim light, she saw a miscellaneous assortment of empty cans and bottles.

The cans and bottles were identified as having been stolen, with their contents, from the cellars of families in the village. All night Professor Whitcher and Sheriff Brown watched the premises. At 2 a. m. they saw Almy walking about the garden.

He was barefooted, ragged, pale and thin.

He filled a bag with apples from the trees, eating ravenously at the same time.

He then walked back to the barn, and walked around to the other side of it.

The watchers returned to the village and aroused about forty men, who soon surrounded the building and a search began.

Charles E. Stewart, a student of the State College, was the first to locate Almy. He was prodding the hay with a shovel handle when he struck the body of the concealed man.

Instantly Almy fired through the hay.

The bullet missed Stewart. Almy fired again and again, making his way upward through the hay at the same time.

He fired at least fifteen shots, and the barn was quickly deserted.

One of the shots struck and slightly wounded Azro Turner, of Norwich, Vt., a student there.

A council was then held by the men outside the barn, as to the best means of continuing the attack upon the outlaw.

By this time hundreds of men had arrived to recruit the force already on the spot. They were armed with old army guns, horse pistols, revolvers, pitchforks, shovel handles, etc.

The Murderer Surrenders.

Almy asked for a conference with County Solicitor Mitchell and promised to do him no harm, and Mr. Mitchell assured him that his escape was impossible and advised him to surrender peaceably.

Almy said he would think it over, and told Mr. Mitchell to retire. Even then he was sorely wounded.

Later he called up John Fuller and promised to surrender, but the desire for freedom was so strong that he repented at the last minute. After his capture he said that he was glad the suspense was over. He was followed to the town by a procession of about 100 carriages, which had the appearance of a country funeral.

Almy Was Well Armed.

Almy's revolvers were both Smith & Wessons six-shooters, 44 calibre, with four-inch barrels, and were bought in Palmer, Mass. He had on him when he surrendered a belt filled with cartridges. He had in his pockets a large knife, tooth brush and some matches. It is little short of a miracle that with all the shooting that occurred no one was hit, but Almy. Bullets whistled closely by the heads of the men who were guarding the side of the barn opposite the men who were using Winchester rifles.

The Murderer Shot Three Times.

An examination of the murderer's body showed that he had been shot three times, twice in the left leg below the knee, the lower shot breaking the large bone. The shot scooped a hole out of the top of his head, but did not touch the skull. This shot was fired by some one while Almy was talking with Dr. G. A. Hoffman about surrendering. These wounds were dressed by three physicians. None of the wounds are very serious.

Committed Another Crime.

After Almy had recovered from the excitement of being inspected by the crowd he consented to talk about his crime. He admitted that Almy was an assumed name, and confessed that he was hiding to escape arrest for a similar crime for which a price had been set upon his head. He refused absolutely to tell his real name or reveal the circumstances which led him to take an assumed name.

Almy will be arraigned as soon as his wounds will permit his appearance in court.

John M. Fuller, who Almy called up for the conference, says: "Almy said he had been here ever since June 14, and that he had been to her grave as often as twice a week. He expressed the deepest love for Christie.

The town is wildly excited and there are many threats of lynching.

O'MALLEY WANTS A TRIAL.

The Hennessy Murder Recalled by the Detectives' Action.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 21.—After a long rest the sensational scenes based upon the assassination of Chief Hennessy are about to be revived. On the day of the lynching of the Italian assassins the crowd also looked for Private Detective D. C. O'Malley, but failed to find him. The Committee of Safety promised to look after him. During O'Malley's concealment the grand jury found several indictments against him for old sins. The only charge in connection with the Hennessy matter was for aiding his lieutenant, T. J. McChrystal, in attempting to bribe a juror.

O'Malley surrendered and shrewdly called the committee leaders into court to testify upon the motion for a change of venue. They all swore that he could get a fair trial, and that the committee had decided to let justice take its course. Since McChrystal's confession, upon which the O'Malley indictment was based, has been ruled out by the court, O'Malley is now clamoring for a trial. He says the district attorney has refused either to set the case or nolle prosqui it, and he will go into court to-morrow and file a motion that the case be fixed for trial. The defence is confident of an acquittal, and interesting developments may follow.

SAVED JUST IN TIME.

Two Hundred Passengers Rescued from a Sinking Pleasure Boat.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 21.—The steamer Startled Fawn, a pleasure boat plying on the Merrimac above the dam, sank shortly after 6 o'clock last evening close by the falls above the city. The boat had about 200 passengers on board at the time, but they were all saved by boats which came to the rescue.

The vessel became unmanageable through the breaking of the tiller handle, but Captain Spates, with rare presence of mind, succeeded in steering her by means of wrenches when in the swift current near the falls and ran her upon an obstruction.

Intense excitement prevailed among the passengers, and but for several cool heads a panic would have occurred among the women and children which would probably have resulted in the loss of life.

A WANDERER FOUND.

Young Hattie Conrad in the Woods for Seven Weeks.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 21.—Hattie Conrad, a 12-year-old daughter of Albert Conrad, a well-to-do contractor for Mayer, Strous & Co., has been missing from home for seven weeks until she was found in West Haven yesterday by officers of the organized charities.

The girl had a mania for running away, and no fears were expressed for her safety until recently. A search was instituted for her and she was located in West Haven, where she had been frequently seen. During her seven weeks' wanderings the girl has slept in Orange Woods in a rudely constructed hut and subsisted on berries and such other food as was thrown to her from houses where she begged. Her clothing hardly concealed her person. She was sent to a reformatory in Middletown.

Will Not Meet in Baltimore.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Irish circles are surprised over the news that the convention of the National League of America will be held in Chicago next month, instead of in Baltimore, as the National Council of the organization agreed upon at its meeting in Cincinnati in April last. The change was decided upon owing to complaints of members of the League in the Northwest, they claiming they could not go so far away from home as Baltimore.

Peffer and Simpson Speak.

MT. GRETNA, Pa., Aug. 21.—It is estimated that at least 35,000 people visited the Farmers' Encampment to-day. The encampment was addressed by United States Senator William A. Peffer and Congressman Simpson of Kansas. The latter in the course of his remarks, referring to the question of whether or not he wore socks, said: "I beg to assure you that I am a member of Congress. I not only got the socks of the other fellow, but his shoes also."

Iron Works Shut Down.

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Aug. 21.—On Saturday last 20 men in the Gloucester Iron Works were notified that their wages would be reduced. The men refused to accept the reduction, and did not return to work. Thereupon they were informed that if they did not return to work the works would be closed. As the men did not return, the works were closed yesterday, throwing 200 men out of employment.

Water Supply Reduced.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 21.—The water supply of this place has become so alarmingly reduced of late that the commissioners have decided to reduce the present continuous water service of eight hours per day. Consumers are allowed to use water only for domestic purposes and factories will have to cart water from distant places in order to feed their boilers.

SIXTY LIVES LOST

Awful Work of the Hurricane at Martinique.

NOT A VESSEL THERE ESCAPED.

The Damage Done to Shipping and Property is Stupendous.

All Plantations About the Island Destroyed—Houses and Barns Crushed Out of Existence—Several Persons Went Mad from Fear—The Night Was One of Extreme Terror—Further Details Expected

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Later official advices just received state that the calamity which has visited Martinique is the most severe since the year 1817. The disaster is said to be equal to the famous cyclone which swept over the island of Antigua in 1871.

So far as can be learned there have been nearly 90 deaths as a result of the hurricane's visitation, but it will be some time before the full extent of the disaster is known.

At Port-de-France alone there have been 12 deaths. At St. Pierre five persons are known to have been killed; at Lamentes 10, Francois 16, Riviere Pilote 2 and at La Trinite 10.

At all the above places large numbers of persons were injured.

The damage done to shipping and property is stupendous. About two-fifths of the island was under cultivation and the mountain slopes were covered with forests; all the forests and all the cultivation in the path of the hurricane appear to be swept away and a number of lives lost in the country districts.

The numerous sugar, coffee, cotton and cocoa plantations which have felt the force of the tornado seem to have been utterly destroyed.

Houses and barns, stock houses and stables have been crushed out of existence, and a considerable period must elapse before the island recovers from its terrible visitation.

There was some warning of the approach of the terrible wind, and thus many of the sailors escaped with their lives. But even in this case the loss of life is no known. Some of the vessels appear to have been carried bodily up the beach by the fearful wind and waves; others foundered at their anchorage, and others still alongside their wharves.

GHASTLY HANGING SCENE.

The Victim's Head Was Practically Torn from His Body.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 21.—A sickening and altogether frightful occurrence marked the execution of John Conway, who was hanged here for the murder of the boy Nicholas Martin.

As Berry, the hangman, was drawing the black cap over Conway's head the latter shouted: "Hold on. I want to say something." Berry replied: "You can't speak now," and was about to proceed with the execution when the priest, who was in attendance upon the criminal upon the scaffold, hastily interposed, pushed the hangman one side, and held Conway's hand while the condemned man, in broken tones, asked forgiveness for his sins.

Only when the unfortunate wretch had done speaking and when the priest had replied to his plea for forgiveness did the latter permit the hangman to proceed.

The incident caused intense excitement among those present at the hanging, but it was as nothing compared to the horrible scene which was to follow.

In due course of time the drop fell and Conway disappeared from view. Almost immediately afterwards the priest began to read the confession of the hanging man.

In this confession Conway said that he was intoxicated when he murdered the boy, and that his reason for taking the boy's life was that he had a morbid curiosity to observe the process of dying.

While the priest was reading Conway's confession a streaming sound was heard from the scaffold, as if a quantity of water was falling.

A hurried investigation was made by the hangman and by the prison officials, and to their horror they found that the sound was caused by blood which was pouring upon the floor from Conway's neck.

The fall, it appears, had been so severe that the criminal's head had been practically torn from his body, in fact, the head was only held to the body by the muscles of the neck.

Berry, of course, came in for considerable abuse, the terrible bungling being placed to his account alone.

People believe that this horrible hanging will be freely used as an argument in favor of the abolition of hanging as a means of execution and the substitution of electricity for the rope.

SOCIALISTS FRIGHTENED.

Delegates to Brussels Afraid They Won't be Allowed to Return to America.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 21.—Considerable consternation was caused here to-day among some of the American delegates to the Labor Congress, most of whom are not Americans, by a report that the American government intended to take advantage of the absence of such a large number of socialists and anarchists by denying admission to the United States to all of them who are not citizens, on their return.

As most of them had been demonstrating what an unhappy country the United States was it was not thought that the rumor would affect them as much as it evidently did. Foreigners who had been running down America in their speeches turned pale at the idea of not being permitted to go back to America, and seemed suddenly to conceive an intense affection for that country.

British delegates seemed much amused at the situation, and one of them remarked that it might be a good idea for England to follow suit.

Arrested for Grand Larceny.

SING SING, N. Y., Aug. 21.—J. C. Morrison, who for the past two years had charge of the Brainerd Marble and Granite Company at Sing Sing Prison, was arrested last evening at the instance of Edward R. Brainerd, of Chicago, president of the company, on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree. Morrison is charged with embezzling at various times during the past two years sums of money amounting to $2,000. He was arraigned before Judge Reynolds, but waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury.

Boilermakers to Demand Eight Hours.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—A notice has been received by the Boilermakers' Union here from the national secretary of the Boilermakers' Union, stating that every employer in the United States had been notified that the union would demand that eight hours should constitute a day's work on and after May 1, 1892. A secret circular from the employers was also read, calling upon them to organize for mutual protection.

Dedication of a Seminary.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 21.—St. Bernard's Seminary, in process of construction on the boulevard between the city and the lake, was dedicated during the afternoon by Bishop McQuaid. Archbishop Williams, of Boston, was present. The seminary will open next year with six professors, four of whom are in Europe preparing for the work.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE

A Big Battle Will Soon be Fought in Chili.

INSURGENTS LAND AN ARMY.

Balmaceda Sends a Large Force to Meet the Enemy.

A Fierce Fight Imminent—On Its Results Will Probably End the War—The Rout of Balmaceda's Forces Will be Followed by the Capture of Valparaiso. The U. S. S. Baltimore in the Harbor.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via Galveston, Aug. 21.—The insurgent army effected a landing early in the morning in Quintero Bay, only twenty miles north of this city.

According to the lowest estimate it numbers 8,000 men. It would be nearer the exact figures to say 10,000.

They were brought down from Caldera on eight transports, three tugs and four war ships.

The point of landing is about fifty miles from Santiago, where Balmaceda's forces, to the number of 10,000, have been stationed.

The Balmacedists have for some time anticipated a movement south on the part of their foes, but they believed that Coquimbo would be the first place attacked.

It now appears that the hovering of the insurgent fleet in the neighborhood of Coquimbo Bay was only a scheme to deceive Balmaceda.

The landing at Quintero Bay was therefore a complete surprise to the President, but as soon as he learned the news he acted promptly. By his command a large force was sent north to meet the enemy.

Admiral Brown, from his flagship, the San Francisco, saw the landing of the insurgents. They are well armed and enthusiastic.

The United States war ship Baltimore is in this harbor.

The Esmeralda, commanded by Silva Palma, is just outside the harbor.

It is expected that she will be joined at once by the other insurgent war vessels from Quintero Bay. It looks as if, in conjunction with the advance of the land forces upon this city, the fleet will open fire upon the forts that defend this harbor.

It looks as if the most important engagement so far in the history of the present war is about to be fought.

Until the present time it has been nearly altogether a battle of words. Now a fierce fight is imminent.

McGREEVY HAS FLED.

One of the Canadian Boodlers Escapes When About to be Arrested.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 20.—Sir John Thompson has expressed to a number of political friends his intention, as Minister of Justice, to indict, in the name of the Queen, for public robbery and conspiracy, the whole of the members of the McGreevy boodle gang, and the public officials they bribed, providing he is assured by the local authorities that there is a reasonable prospect of finding here a jury above the influence of the boodlers.

It is considered that this prosecution will save the Government, and that thus the threatened political crisis at Ottawa will be averted.

QUEBEC, Aug. 21.—Col. Smith, deputy sergeant-at-arms of the House of Commons, arrived here, armed with a warrant for the arrest of Hon. Thomas McGreevy, but the latter had fled. It is said he has gone to Old Orchard Beach, Me.

SHE SCARED A BURGLAR.

Miss Williams' Cool Nerve With a Thief Standing Over Her.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 21.—A burglar entered the house of Mrs. E. A. Williams and daughter at 2 a. m. and took from a bureau draw $18 in money. A bank check was untouched. The mother and daughter were awakened by the burglar standing over them. He had partly pulled the bed clothes from the foot of the bed, with the apparent design of binding them. On seeing the burglar Miss Williams cried out: "Get out, you thief! Mother, hand me my pistol!" The thief ran off.

An hour later the house of Mrs. Trowbridge was entered by an open window, but in this case there was a man in the house and the thief made his escape without securing any booty.

$250,000 Fire in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Fire started last night in the grand stand of the athletic grounds of the Young Men's Christian Association on River avenue and quickly spread to the lumber yard and factory of L. H. Mace & Co., manufacturers of toys, which occupy one city block, extending from 150th to 151st street. This immense plant was totally destroyed, entailing a loss estimated at $250,000. The insurance is but small.

Mr. Foster's Secret Mission.

MT. MCGREGOR, Aug. 21.—Hon. John W. Foster came to Mt. McGregor last night on a special train to hold a consultation with the President. He said that he could not tell the nature of his business with the President. Mr. Foster telegraphed the President making the appointment. Private Secretary Halford went to Saratoga to meet him, and they came here on a special train, arriving at 9:40.

Mr. Gladstone Explains.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Mr. Gladstone has written for publication a letter denying that he ever knew of Mr. Parnell's secret whereabouts. He says he never communicated with him by letter except at his official address, the House of Commons. He was compelled last November to write to Mr. Justin McCarthy, as the only means of reaching Mr. Parnell before the caucus met in room 15.

THE HOLY COAT ON VIEW.

A Great Multitude in Attendance to Touch the Relic.

TREVES, Aug. 21.—The public exhibition of the holy coat, said to have been worn by the Saviour, has begun. The exhibition was inaugurated by a solemn pontifical service, conducted by the bishop. The coat is in a glass case on the high marble staircase behind the high altar. A large cross, illuminated by gas, has been erected over the place where the relic is shown.

A great multitude was in attendance to see the holy coat, and physicians are overrun with applications for certificates on the part of the pilgrims who wish to touch the garment with the hope of being cured of disease. Neither the diocesan authorities nor the great and increasing throng of pilgrims apparently pay any attention to the charges affecting the authenticity of the holy coat.

The railway officials expect an enormous passenger traffic Sunday, and have made preparations to carry 50,000 pilgrims. The burgomaster of Treves thinks that 800,000 pilgrims will visit the city during the exhibition of the coat. He thinks that most of them will bring their own food, so the problem of furnishing provisions for the throng will not be a serious one.

SHOT HIS WIFE DEAD.

The Burning Powder Set Fire to the Child in Her Arms.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 21.—A most brutal and deliberate murder occurred on Park street, Pawtucket.

Mrs. James Lyons was sitting in her little store with a baby in her arms when her husband entered, and pushing her into the street fired three times in quick succession at her, the burning powder setting fire to the child's clothes and killing the woman instantly. The murderer was arrested.

An Officer Beaten by a Drunken Man.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 21.—While endeavoring to arrest Cornelius O'Rourke, a drunken man, last night, Officer Miles was shot at by the man with a gun he had in his hands. The charge failed to take effect and the infuriated man used the gun as a club and beat Officer Miles over the head with it, inflicting several severe scalp wounds. O'Rourke was arrested.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Thomas Eddington & Co., iron founders of Glasgow, have failed for $250,000.

The Chief of Police of Jersey City, N. J., in answer to telegrams from the West states that the Mutual Land and Building Syndicate had no financial standing.

Benjamin Tappin, who was arrested at Nyack, N. Y., for assaulting his 13-year-old daughter, has been committed to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

A fair onion crop is assured in New England, Orange County, New York, and New Jersey, but the crop is short in Western New York, Ohio and Illinois, according to elaborate reports from the entire onion-growing regions of the country.

The following are the officers elected at the session of the Federation of Labor held at Lancaster, Pa.: President, Charles A. Miller, of Harrisburg; Vice-Presidents, John H. Driver, of Philadelphia; George H. Ulrich, of Philadelphia; W. A. Johnson, of Punxsutawney; Secretary and Treasurer, J. S. Johnson, of Allegheny. Chester was selected as the next meeting place. The Federation declared themselves opposed to affiliating with a political party as a body and decided not to recognize the Socialist's Labor party or the Farmer's Alliance.

Weather Indications.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Central Times of this week is dated Wednesday, Aug. 17.

—Put this down that you will get greater value at Peck's than anywhere else.

—Even the frequenters of Joe Miller's concert saloon acknowledge the truth about it.

—Big bargains still are offered at the store of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association.

—Sexton Johnson, of the Methodist church, has started the town clock again, and it is still going.

—What was your estimation of the character of Joseph Brengle Miller before he started his concert saloon? What is it now?

—When a man has deliberately thrown away the good will of a community he ought not to complain because he finds himself unpopular.

—Only six cars full of people went on the G. A. R. excursion to Rockaway to-day. The threatening weather spoiled the excursion's prospects.

—These bright and beautiful moonlight nights keep the wheelmen out very late. The county roads are gay with cycling parties from 8 o'clock till after 11.

—And so Joseph Brengle Miller has had his reputation damaged to the extent of $10,000! Who will now say that anything is impossible with the press?

—Michael Higgins says the amount due Loomis & Rice from him is only about $250, and that they merely levied on his barn to protect his and their interests.

—Joseph Brengle Miller has not even the decency to extinguish his glaring electric-light concert-saloon advertisement on the public street over Sunday.

—In a new advertisement to-day Stephenson, the caterer, makes an announcement concerning the refrigerator boxes for ice-cream of which THE PRESS has already spoken.

—The light of last night's big fire in Harlem was seen in this city, and a number of deluded bicyclists went as far as Elizabeth before giving up hope of seeing the blaze close by.

The Misses Sadie and Cassie Conway, who have been spending a very pleasant week with friends in this city, have returned to their New York home very much pleased with Plainfield.

—THE PRESS publishes to-day for the first time the full text of the new ordinance proposed to shut out the concert saloons, and to stop the sale of liquors on Sundays—in the bar rooms.

—The city park is being improved. More cartloads of earth are being spread out to fill in the uneven places. Who knows but that in time a smooth and level lawn will underlie those trees!

—Joseph Brengle Miller is seeking to be reimbursed for his vanished reputation. If he wishes to know where his good name was really lost, why doesn't he turn his eyes towards his concert saloon?

—It is anything but virtue that stalks abroad on the public highway in the neighborhood of that notorious concert saloon. And people very often—and sometimes with good reason judge of internal conditions by external indications.

—If any one has any doubt as to the character of Joe Miller's concert saloon, let him interview Theodore Kurzhals and learn from his own lips of the sights and sounds that were witnessed nightly by himself and family and which he could shut out only by erecting a high board fence against the windows.

—A very disgraceful disturbance occurred at Prescott place, "Pondville", last evening, between two colored families. A dispute arose over the alleged stealing of some money, and the language that came from the mouths of the disputants greatly shocked the passers-by. The neighbors living in that district complain frequently of the disorder of the house in question. One family have had to move away on account of their noise.

—John Morecraft and Albert Gallatin Cook were arrested on this side of the brook to-day for having been engaged in the disgraceful row which aroused Somerset people in the neighborhood of the Green brook a few night ago. Justice Nash and Justice Crosley combined their efforts to effect the arrests. Warrants are out for seven or eight other participants in the racket. Justice Crosley will give Cook and Morecraft a hearing tonight.

—The Plainfield police have long had knowledge that the unsavory notoriety that has attached itself to the concert saloon of Joseph Brengle Miller has extended out and seized hold of another building of the neighborhood. One of the officers acknowledged to a reporter of THE PRESS a few nights ago that evil doers gathered at the house, kept the "growler" "rushing" continually, and indulged in grossly disreputable doings. If the police ever hope to suppress disorderly houses in Plainfield, let them begin now.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

NOTES OF THE NETHERWOOD.

HOTEL NETHERWOOD, Aug. 21.—The Ladies' Cadet Drill bulletined for to-morrow evening will rank beyond question as one among the most delightful events of the season. The fact that Lieut. O. B. Bridgman is in command, assisted by his worthy aides, F. C. VanZandt, Fred. Martin, Jr., H. L. Balch and Harry Martin, surely warrants me in predicting unqualified success.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ogden and family of New York will visit friends at Lake George during the present month. A good friend of mine, George A. Jackson, sojourning here from far away Bradford, England, was led to remark, what a sense of real enjoyment there is in sitting on the broad piazza of the hotel, these delightful days and evenings and viewing the beautiful surroundings of Netherwood. It is quite like our home environments and it requires no prophet to state why so many families and others return here year after year. The following is a complete list of guests to date:

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fellman, Miss Clara Fellman, Miss Ella Fellman, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Froment and family, Paymaster and Mrs. G. E. Thornton, U. S. N., Mrs. M. Benary, A. E. Benary, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lewis, Col. and Mrs. Fred. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Martin, Jr., H. W. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Tobey, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ogden and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Donald, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McCredy, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Findley and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Richardson, Miss H. D. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Carson, Col. and Mrs. W. McMichael and family, F. H. Darling, Mrs. S. M. Diblee, H. J. Weber. C. Comstock, Major and Mrs. T. H. Cullen, Miss Adele Cullen, Miss Hattie Cullen, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lawton, Mrs. Chas. Poe and family, Miss Lizzie Conway, Mr. and Mrs. H. Birrell, Miss Searles, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ceballos and family, Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield, J. A. Hinchman, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Washington, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crossman and family, Mr. and Mrs E. G. Hime and family, from New York; Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Balch and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spencer, Miss E. I. Dauchy, B. Dauchy, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. VanZandt, E. P. Ellis, from Brooklyn; Mrs. C. A. Sherman, Miss Sherman, Mrs. C. K. Darling, from Boston; Mrs. Robert Anderson, the Misses Anderson, from Washington, D. C.; Counselor Frank Bergen, from Elizabeth; and G. A. Jackson, from Bradford, England.

Westfield's Point of View.

[From The Mc Laughlinville Leader.]

It was a bitter dose for Westfield to swallow—those seven horribly great big runs in the first inning, last Saturday, at Plainfield!

How do we account for it? Why, in this way: Those Crescent players had the most terrific streak of luck in batting at the start. Tom O'Rourke said to us after the game: "The Plainfielders reached out and pounded every thing, letting the good balls go and walloping the wild ones. No pitcher could be effective under such volleying." As Hammill shut out the Crescents after the first onset it looks as if O'Rourke was right.

Then to think of old reliable Diven a dropping a nice fly right in his paws!

Even the wonderful playing of our boys during the last eight innings when discouraged by uphill work, and with defeat staring them in the face—even those eight goose eggs can not make us smile.

We have had to break our promises, too. We said we would show them how to win a game, but we did n't!

It was too bad, too bad!

LATER Strange to say the town is surviving the awful calamity! The stores are all open, and the people are going about their ordinary business as if nothing very dreadful had occurred. Come to think about it, while the Plainfielders have the game, they don't have so very much to crow over after all. Wipe out that dreadful chance first inning, and the record tells a story which isn't so much to be ashamed of at all. The Westfields in fact played all around the Crescent lads. Hammill did splendidly, as also did Howe and Lever in their respective positions. O'Rourke, the new catcher, is a first-class man, and will be heard from later.

We firmly believe that a different story will be told when the Crescents play the return game with Westfield on the 29th inst. The boys now know the calibre of the Crescent youth, and will take care of that first inning business hereafter.

One Girl Appropriates Another's Wheel.

Up to yesterday a little girl living at 19 East Seventh street was the proud possessor of a tricycle. At 12:30 yesterday noon it was standing in her yard. Another little girl, who was passing by carrying her father's dinner, saw and coveted it. She entered the yard under pretense of getting a drink. When no one was looking she went out, and the tricycle disappeared also. If she wants to avoid trouble she would better return the tricycle to the yard from which she took it or to the police station.

Good for young and old. We know of no better tonic for the system than Hires's Improved Root Beer. It is delicious, effervescent, sparkling, appetizing, and a helper of temperance. Satisfying the thirst, enriching the blood, and fortifying the system against the advance of disease. A 25-cent package makes five gallons. Sold everywhere.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Philip Curtis, of Grant avenue, is at Penn Yan, N. Y.

Mrs. Julietta Chase, of East Front street, is at Bar Harbor with her sons.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Waldron have gone to Moscow, Pa., for a three weeks' vacation.

Miss Addie Weaver, of Orchard place, and Mrs. F. G. Neighbor, are spending a few days with friends in Newark.

Miss Annie O'Neil, of Aurora, Ill., is on a month's visit to her aunt, Mrs. James Whalan, of West Sixth street, this city.

William S. Campbell is a son of the late Furman Campbell. His name was unintentionally omitted in the list published yesterday.

As first announced exclusively in THE PRESS, Bishop Vincent and the Rev. Dr. Hurlbut sail for Europe to-morrow. They will be gone three months.

The Misses Olive and Ethel Blake, of Bangor, Pa., are visiting at the home of their cousins, the Misses Lena and Dottie Case, of Spooner avenue, this city.

The Misses Jennie and Nellie Voorhees, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are visiting their aunts, Mrs. Sarah Randolph and Miss T. Grace Johnson, of 103 Duer street.

Ernest D. Barrett, of South avenue, with his sisters, Mattie and Sadie, are visiting at the home of their uncle, the Barrett homestead, Milton on the Hudson.

Mr. J. D. Carr and Mrs. H. N. Carr are Plainfield people well known in the "Colorado of the East," who have come to the Berkeley for a short vacation.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

Mrs. Lewis Dunn, of 26 Central avenue, has in her possession interesting copies of the old Plainfield Union, of the years 1857 and '64, containing much matter that revives many old memories of local and national affairs.

What a Big Dog in the Fourth Ward Did.

A resident of the Fourth ward boasts of having the boss dog, and one which, he says, if placed on exhibition, would surely draw a prize. The animal is a very large one, and has been trained, or rather has trained itself, to a remarkable degree. It goes—so it's master says—to the bathroom, turns the water on, takes a drink, which must always be fresh, and then turns the water off. The dog has shown its sagacity in many other ways, and its owner is very proud of it. The event in the dog's history occurred not long ago when in some unexplained manner it made its way to the cellar and brought forth a huge piece of meat intended for the next day's dinner. The meat was taken into the middle of the parlor, and pretty well devoured, only the bones being left. Of course the fine carpet was somewhat spoiled, but the owner of the dog did n't mind that much. In future the animal will be kept from devouring any meat until the family has been fed.

Cut Flowers, Cut Cake and Cut Melon.

A watermelon party was held last evening at the residence of Mrs. L. Manning, corner of Grant avenue and Fourth street. A novel feature of the occasion was a cake walk in fantastic dress. Two young ladies were the winners.

After all this the visitors were led to the lawn where a large table was spread with cut flowers, cut watermelon and cut cake arranged with an exquisite taste that made it very inviting. The good things were thoroughly indulged in by all present.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Hicks: Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their daughters, Misses Lillie and Flora; friends from Pittsburg and Lebanon; Mr. and Mrs. Grannatt and daughters, Missss Mamie and Addie, and many others. The evening was ended with some musical selections by the young ladies. The affair was in every respect a most enjoyable one.

Good Work and No Confusion.

The Salvation Army is keeping up its work in this city without the noise in the streets that characterizes its efforts in some cities, but with greater persistence and greater practical results than in many other places. A reporter dropped in at a recent meeting in Reform Hall and had a talk with one of the captains, who said: "We have found that the masses of people in the big cities in this country are quite different from those in London, where the first great work of the Salvation Army was done. Over there the people would follow street parades, listen to street corner addresses, follow us to our headquarters and be benefited. Here they follow us more in derision and ridicule us on street corners, but when we engage halls or other headquarters, provide light and warmth and plenty of singing, they come and stay with us, and we do them good assuredly."

Sunday Night's Music at Netherwood Hotel.

The programme to be performed by Greenop's trio in the parlor of The Netherwood, Sunday evening next, is as follows:

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 19, 1891.
J. B. COWARD, City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to License Inns and Taverns and to regulate and prohibite the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors". Approved February 22, 1875, Readopted March 8, 1875, not withstanding the objections of the mayor. Amended by ordinance approved June 3, 1879, December 7, 1881, December 19, 1882, January 30, 1883, November 10, 1884, December 31, 1887, February 7, and two ordinances approved February 5, 1889.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That no person licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment, shall suffer or permit in his or her bar room, or room in which spirituous or fermented liquors are customarily sold, or in any room in the same building wherein spirituous or fermented liquors are dispensed or drunk, any musical performance of any kind, vocal or instrumental or both, or any mechanical music, or any acting, dancing, juggling, sleight of hand, boxing, wrestling or any similar performance, show or exhibition.

Section 2. Every person licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment, to sell spirituous or fermented liquors shall so arrange the doors, windows and partitions of his or her bar room or saloon, that a full and unobstructed view of the interior thereof, including the bar, may be had from the street through the doors or windows or both, between the hours of 12 p. m. each and every Saturday and 6 a. m. the following Monday. And no window, blind, screen, partition, curtain or other article shall be so left or placed as to prevent between the hours named the full and unobstructed view from the street of the interior of any saloon or bar room licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment.

Section 3. No person licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment, shall at any time sell or dispense spirituous or fermented liquors from any bar that cannot, between the hours named in Section 2, be plainly seen from the street.

Section 4. A violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding sixty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

(Fees—$6.30.)

OUR
"Y. S. F".
BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.
OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.
IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.
WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.
EDSALL'S,
20 WEST FRONT STREET.

We Struck a Bargain
And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2 00.
The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

New Brunswick Envies Union County's Roads.

The Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county are considering a plan to extend the macadamizing of roads into Dunellen and South Plainfield, and also into the suburban districts of that county. If this be done it will connect New Brunswick and its outlying towns, by fine driveways, with Plainfield and the Union county roads and greatly enlarge a system that now has no equal in these United States. With fine roads and drives connected together in one grand system extending through Essex, Morris, Union and Middlesex counties, the demand for suburban residences by those who keep horses and carriages will be greatly increased, and wealth will roll in these counties in more senses than one. In this connection the Elizabeth Journal remarks that it is sincerely hoped that Middlesex will adopt a system of macadamized roads, and connect not only with Dunellen but with the roads running to Rahway, if that is practicable. If it appreciates property in Middlesex as the county roads have done in Union, it will be the best investment that county ever made.

County Election Officers.

The Union County Board of Registration met at the Court house at Elizabeth yesterday morning and appointed election officers to serve throughout the various wards and townships during the coming election. Among those appointed were the following:

PLAINFIELD.

First Ward—John J. Kenney, George H. Carpenter.

Second Ward—Louis H. Brown, Charles A. Stover.

Third Ward—F. M. Bacon, William Wright.

Fourth Ward—First district—Vincent L. Frazee, William H. Warner. Second district—James H. Searing, M. R. Flynn.

Westfield—John W. R. Bennett, Frank R. Pennington.

Fanwood—William C. Stanbury, William E. Terry.

A Terror at the West End.

Mrs. Burns, of West Second street, was seated on the front steps of her home, Wednesday evening, when a man passed by and threw a package of pepper and lime into her face. She was nearly blinded by the decoction, and is still under medical treatment. The fellow who committed this dastardly deed was recognized as a twenty-five-year-old Swede who is known as "Lilacs", and who lives at Evona. Last night Mrs. Burns's husband and several others chased him, but he escaped. "Lilacs" is said to be a very dangerous character, always carrying a deadly knife, and always seeking to pick a quarrel among young men and boys. He ought to be suppressed.

A Frisky Colt in a Box.

A funny scene attracted the attention of a number of people on Front street yesterday afternoon. A countryman and his wife were driving along in an open wagon. Just as they turned from Front street into Somerset an innocent-looking box bounced out in the street. The fall of three or four feet was sufficient to break the box into pieces, whereupon the sidewalk loungers were astonished to see skip from the debris a frisky young colt. He was none the worse for his fall, but it took all the loungers twenty minutes to coax him back into the reconstructed box. Then the box was nailed up again, and the countryman and his wife resumed their journey.

Lawyer Martine Let Go.

William M. Martine, the lawyer, of 11 Broadway, New York, brother of Judge Martine of that city, who was arrested on Tuesday on a charge of passing worthless checks upon grocer Herman Reiser, of 284 West Twelfth street, was arraigned at Jefferson Market Wednesday. The detectives said they were unable to get any of the officers of the banks on which the checks were drawn to come to court as witnesses, and Justice Hogan discharged the prisoner.

Through Plainfield to Chicago.

It is said that the Royal Blue line service of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, Reading, and Baltimore and Ohio will be extended to Chicago, with as complete a train system as they now have between New York and Washington. The terminal facilities of the Baltimore and Ohio in Chicago are being enlarged with the idea of doing a big business during the World's Fair.

What Will He Do With It Next?

A Hungarian living in the rear of 25 Cottage place, who had been notified to clear away the garbage and other accumulated filth about his place, loaded it on a flat car standing on the track nearby, the other night. Officer Mattox notified Officer Morris of the Central railroad company, and the man has probably before this been ordered to take it back home again.

—The harvest is ripe for the Plainfield police. Let them begin at once and cut down the noxious weeds that have sprung up in certain parts of the city. How much longer is Plainfield to be disgraced with places that are considered an abomination even in larger cities?

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street Plainfield, N. J.

Jersey Farms and Farmers.

The conditions which are alleged to be the cause of the deterioration in the values of New Jersey farm lands, and which are claimed to impose burdens on the grangers of the State so oppressive as to impoverish the tillers of the soil, have been receiving the attention of the State Board of Agriculture recently in session at Trenton, where some reports and addresses were presented to show that the farmers are really suffering and to indicate the causes of their troubles.

In the minds of most of the men who took part in the proceedings, the opinion seems to have taken lodgment that legislation is the only remedy for the ills of the husbandmen. The philosophers and economists in the Legislature are looked upon by these men as the learned doctors who can name the ingredients of a legal tonic which will build up the languishing industry of the State, and round out and render vigorous the now puny and pining calling. By putting the screws on the railroads, and by fixing freight charges, and by a free issue of paper currency, and by building good roads through the counties, and by reducing taxation, and by a half score of other means these men would remove the canker and restore the agriculture of the State to vigor.

The fact that New Jersey lies smiling between the two greatest markets on the continent; that her remotest farms are not more than 100 miles distant from New York or Philadelphia; that the State is gridironed with the great railroads of the country, and that access to these superior markets and near seaports is easy and the advantages in transportation in time and cost are in favor of the Jersey farmer, do not appear to have weight in the consideration of the gentlemen who think that a languishing business is to be made prosperous by the simple process of passing laws. Such was the view of the statesmen who 400 years ago endeavored to make agriculture prosperous in England by the passage of the now famous Corn laws. The statute books of the realm were filled with such legislation, wise, unwise, conflicting and inexplicable, and in the face of this legal doctoring the people remained for two centuries as if under a spell of poverty, neither helping themselves nor expecting relief.

There are thing which can be done by the Legislature that may lighten the burden of the men who till the soil. There are some conditions which beset the farmers which all the laws that can be set down as the prime causes of the condition of which the Jersey farmers complain. They are, in the opinion of the Newark News, threefold: First, a soil that is not adapted to the cultivation of all-round crops, and a soil that in many sections is not rich; second, an over-tilled soil, which, from constant tillage, has fallen sterile; third, over regard for antiquated methods, and the use of antique instruments. When the Jersey farmer begins to give his land rest and nourishment, and when he brings into use the implements that make the farmer of the far West his dangerous competitor, he will begin to enjoy the prosperity which his special advantages of location and of traffic give to him.

Local Salvation Army Work.

A local Salvation Army officer told a reporter, a few days ago, something of the unpleasant surroundings of the Salvation Army work, saying: "There are black sheep in every flock, and some rough and unwelcome followers get into the army. We cannot well turn them adrift, although we do not give them full countenance. You see there is always the possibility of their reformation. Besides, we cannot turn off any one without offense to his feelings, and so we let them alone. The army is made up for the most part of sincere and law abiding persons and is winning its way, so that all the indignities that were heaped upon us when we first began operations in New York have long since ceased. We could not get police protection then, but now the police come to our meetings and if there are disturbers present caution them to let us alone. We never turn a disturber out or refuse one admission, because we do not know what moment the great truths will penetrate his soul and make him peaceful. Our greatest trial is with boys and girls from 12 to 16 years of age; children who should be at home at nights with their parents, but having unpleasant home relations or being wild roam the streets in search of adventure, or hang about the entrances to the concert saloons, getting into all sorts of evil."

The Fast Express Grazed by a Derailed Car.

A Bound Brook dispatch says: "The Royal Blue line express, due here at 12:18 p. m., had a narrow escape at Green Brook yesterday afternoon. Just as it was passing a coal train, one of the coal cars jumped the track. It plunged against the side of the express, but fortunately did no further injury than to tear completely off all the steps on that side of the coaches. None of the passenger cars were thrown from the track.

All Favor Flower for Governor.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Every Democratic caucus in this city last night named delegates favorable to R. P. Flower for Governor.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.

Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

Going to Stay in Canada

An inquisitive man on a train on the New York Central going out of New York was seated next to a fashionably-dressed young man, who looked as if he might be a bank clerk.

"Going to Poughkeepsie?" asked the inquisitive.

"Yes."

"Going to stay there?"

"No, I'm going on to Albany."

"Going to stay in Albany?"

"No, I'm going to Niagara Falls"

"Going to stay there?"

"No, I'm going on to Montreal."

The inquisitive man smiled, nodded his head, as much as to say: "Now I know all about you," and finally added:

"Well, I guess you are going to stay in Canada, ain't you?"—Texas Siftings.

Very Simple.

Tangle—I've struck an idea that will save millions of dollars to this country every year.

Brown—Indeed! What is it?

Tangle—You know the last two inches of a cigar have to be thrown away, because you can't smoke them. Well, I'm going to take out a patent on a cigar that won't have any last two inches, because I'll make it just two inches shorter than usual. Simple, isn't it?—Munsey's Weekly.

Under the Rose.

Wife—I see you are advertising a free excursion, with a lunch and a brass band, to your sale of lots at Paradiseville.

Husband (a real estate agent)—Yes, my dear, we'll have a big crowd, too.

"I should like to go. It will be a delightful trip, I am sure."

"The ride will be pleasant enough, my dear, but think how you will suffer from the heat and mosquitoes when you get there."—Good News.

An Effective Remedy.

Miss Prudence—I should be quite willing to be married if it weren't for having to hear the first year or two how "mother cooked things" and how "nice mother's biscuits and pies used to be." I could not stand that, I know.

Mrs. Happiwife—Oh! do as I did and you'll have no trouble.

Miss P.—How did you manage it?

Mrs. H.—I married an orphan.—Detroit Free Press.

The Wrong Measure.

Employment Agent—Those are fine recommendations that gurl has, mum. Shall I send for her to come and talk with you?

Mrs. Bronston—Is she tall or short?

"Rather tall, mum; but—"

"Is she fat or thin?"

"Rather stout, mum; a good, strong—"

"Is she stouter than I am?"

"Oh, yes, mum, a good deal."

"She won't do. She'd split the seams of every dress I have."—N. Y. Weekly.

That Would Fix Them.

Wife—I'm terribly afraid of that band of gypsies that came into the neighborhood yesterday.

Husband—Well, if any of them call here to-day get rid of them the best way you can.

Wife—But suppose they won't go?

Husband—Oh, well; if the worst comes to the worst just invite them in and give them some of that angel-cake.—Judge.

Force of Habit.

Summer Boarder—Why, Mr. Wheatley, what on earth is that gong doing on your plow?

Mr. Wheatley—Waal, ma'am, them air horses my son Zeke bought from a city railway comp'ny, and the tarnel critters won't budge an inch till they hears that signal, so I have ter humor 'em.—Harper's Bazar.

Irresistible.

He—Ethelinda, be mine. I am young, well born—

She—But, Mr. Samson, I do not—

He (refusing to be interrupted)—I would care for you tenderly—

She (hesitating)—But—but—

He—And I have unlimited credit at the principal dry goods stores.

She—Oh, Henry! I am yours!—Munsey's Weekly.

Railroad Cooking.

Traveler (in dining car, fast express)—Waiter, these eggs are too soft.

Waiter—S'prised to heah dat, sah.

Traveler—They were taken out of the hot water too soon.

Waiter—Well, sah, I'll put 'em back an' let 'em boil another mile, sah.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Fatal Objection.

"An actress should actually feel the sorrows she depicts. She should weep real tears."

"But think of the streaks they would wash on her cheeks."—Munsey's Weekly.

An Emendation.

Sawyer—The proof of the pudding is in the eating.

De Spep—No, it isn't. It's in the digesting.—Puck.

A Happy Father.

Mose Schaumburg, Jr., has gone into business for himself not far from the clothing emporium of his father.

A few days ago Col. Yerger was urged by Mose Schaumburg, Sr., to purchase a winter overcoat. He declined, saying:

"Your son, Mr. Schaumburg, offers me the same sort of a coat for a dollar less. Besides, he says your goods are not reliable."

"Ish dot so?" said Mose, clasping his hands with delight, as a gratified smile passed over his features.

"Yes, that's true."

"Vell! vell! vell! I believe mine son vas a fool, but now I see he has a fine head for business. Vot a proud fodder I vas."—Texas Siftings.

As Shown.

"Music," said the eminent pianist, as the reporter to whom he had kindly accorded an interview ran his pencil rapidly over the paper, "is the most elevating of sciences. It moves the deeps of one's nature, refines the sensibilities, and enlarges the heart. It—what were you about to ask?"

"I should like to know, sir, how you regard the distinguished virtuoso, Prof. von Bergstein, as a musician?"

"He is nothing, sir, but a cheap, vile imitator—a base counterfeit—a tenth-rate keyboard banger, sir!" exclaimed the eminent musician, scowling fiercely.—Chicago Tribune.

A Useless Expense.

Mr. Bliss—We must economize, my dear.

Mrs. Bliss—Then I know where to begin.

Mr. Bliss—Where?

Mrs. Bliss—There's one thing we can save. There's no sense in your paying two hundred and fifty dollars a year to keep fresh flowers on your first wife's grave down in Greenwood.—Jury.

A Fair Understanding.

He—It is understood that this is to be merely a summer flirtation?

She—Of course.

He—Everything is to be returned when we break?

She—Everything.

He—Good. I think we may with safety take a moonlight stroll. Will you take my arm?—Life.

A Sad Experience.

Holyoke Haverhill—How do you like country life, Essex?

Morrison Essex—Can't say. Never had any.

Holyoke Haverhill—But you've lived in the country for two years.

Morrison Essex—Yes; but there's no life in Lonelyville.—Puck.

One Turn of the Hand.

Bliffers—Who says women have no heads for business? There's a woman made $50,000 by simply turning her hand over.

Whiffers—Phew! How?

Bliffers—She turned it over to Mr. Bullion, and she's now Mrs. Bullion.—N. Y. Weekly.

Very Affecting.

"I hear Bronson sang 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep' at the concert."

"Yes."

"Did he do it well?"

"He did indeed. It was so vivid that five people left the hall overcome with seasickness."—Saturday Evening Herald.

"SHE NEVER TOLD HER LOVE."

—Life.

The Way of It.

"My wife is a lecturer, and I am an entertainer," said Hobbs.

"Indeed? I knew your wife appeared in public, but I did not know that you did."

"Oh, I don't. I stay home and entertain the baby."—Puck.

Louisa's Mistake.

Indignant Wife—Here you are coming home with a jag.

Inebriate Husband—Lowisha, you ish mishtaken. Jag bringsh me home. If I wash sober s'pose I'd come home? Not much, you bet, (sings) wouldn't go home till morning, till daylight dosh shappear.—Texas Siftings.

ERRATIC LEO TOLSTOI.

Authentic Reminiscences of the Great Russian Novelist.

The Whilom Private Secretary to His Brother Tells His Impressions of Him—Struggles of an Earnest Soul to Mitigate Existing Evils.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

We had dined, my reverend friend and I. Fond of our cigars we had seated ourselves for their enjoyment on the balcony of our hotel overlooking the Great South bay. It was the witching half-hour of after-glow, and the air was so soft and sedative that speech was irksome. Hence, long as the light lasted, we did not speak. Sight was then the only privileged sense, and we watched the rings of smoke lazily break as they rolled across the lawn, and beyond them—objects of our more conscious contemplation—we gazed upon the yachts with dreamy sails as they passed into the purple harbor of the twilight. There were gurglins on the shore, and hollow splashings beneath the anchored boats. The drowned past wanted to come back again. Each wash of the incoming tide brought it nearer to us, and at length we were hemmed in by it. My friend, who is a doctor of divinity, a graduate of Berne, and a pupil of Monod and D'Aubigne, had, like myself, become lost in reverie, and it was not till the amber light faded, leaving but mist and murk upon the surface of the sea, and dull russet bands around its western margin, that he broke the silence.

"I have been thinking," he said, "of queer people whom I have known. One by one they seem to lift their heads out of the water and go back again. Odd notion, isn't it?"

"Yes," I said, "there are eccentricities of fancy that verge on poetry, and that seems to be one of them. But pray tell me about some of your odd people. Who, may I ask, was the oddest of them all?"

"Leoff Tolstoi," he replied, "the great Russian writer about whom everyone talks more or less. He was the most eccentric and every way remarkable man I have ever met."

My friend, who, to be explicit, was Rev. Dr. Cornelius J. Calkoen, a clergyman of the Dutch Reformed denomination, had spent ten years in Russia, four as a pastor in Odessa, and the remaining six as the private secretary to and tutor of the sons of Gregorieff Tolstoi, the novelist's brother, who was exiled to Siberia by imperial ukase in 1874.

"Your opportunities of meeting Count Tolstoi were doubtless frequent," I said.

"Not so frequent as you would infer," was the answer; "but the incidents in which he figured during our casual acquaintance were significant. A strange, absent-minded, meteor-like character, he reminded me of the famous Dr. Melville who ran against a cow in the road and took off his hat to beg her pardon; regretting, at another time, when his own wife was spoken of in complimentary terms, that he had not the pleasure of her acquaintance. How far the count's peculiarities have been modified in the sixteen or seventeen years since I last saw him I cannot tell. But, judging from what I read of him from time to time, I should say he had undergone but little change. His character might be summed up in the phrase 'ex abrupto.' Sincere, good natured, impulsive, living for the comfort and happiness of others and the good he might do, he was, as I remember him, a rare jewel in an extraordinary setting.

"I first met him at Easter, 1871. We had just arrived the evening before at Arusa, the splendid country seat of his brother, Gregorieff, near the village of Prischib, in the Crimea. I sat in front of the mansion, listlessly gazing about, when I saw a tall, athletic man with long hair, bright, earnest eyes and frank, open countenance approaching me at a rapid gait. He was then, I should suppose, about fifty years of age, and was clad—just how, I cannot now recall; certainly without regard to modern taste. I arose to salute him, and he wished me good morning. Then, in accordance with the Easter custom, universally observed in Russia—

"'Christes voseres!' (Christ is risen) he exclaimed, accompanying the words with a kiss.

"'Voistino voseres!' (Verily, He is risen) I replied, kissing him responsively.

"He then took a seat near me, and, fixing his large eyes full upon my face, asked, in a voice that was imperative, but kind: 'Do you know me, sir?'

"I had already instinctively recognized him and replied: 'I presume I have the honor of being addressed by the Count Tolstoi.'

"'I am a lawyer,' he said. 'But,' he continued, evidently voicing reflections in which he had been engaged as he walked, 'I do not like the pandects at all. Are you acquainted with the pandects, sir?'

"'I know them to be a collection of Roman decisions,' I answered, 'digested into laws by the Emperor Justinian. But it has not fallen to my lot to study them.'

"'The law, the law!' continued Tolstoi, indifferent to, if not oblivious of, my reply. 'Christ is the law, and the Gospel ought to be the book of common and international law. Then the nations would observe justice and preserve peace. You are a clergyman, sir, are you not?'

"I replied affirmatively.

"'Then serve the poor and the unfortunate,' he continued, 'and you will live of the life of your Master. We may not do all the good we would, but we must try. I make shoes for the poor. I am a shoemaker and a cobbler.'

"I answered that the Divine law was undoubtedly paramount; and, as paralleling his predilections for shoemaking, instanced the case of Louis XVI., who became an excellent locksmith, and that of the son of the king of Prussia, who turned out to be a good printer.

"I HAD NO INTENTION TO STEAL."

"'Yes, yes,' was the abrupt rejoinder, 'but I must go, for I have still a great deal to do.'

"The next day he came to me and said: 'Good-by; I start for Simferopol, and shall not see you again.'

"'I greatly regret that you must leave,' I replied. 'Permit me to accompany you to the railway station.'

"'No, no, no. You must not!' he declared, emphatically. 'There are three things I do not like—onions, umbrellas and to be accompanied to the railway station. I am a pilgrim, and I wish to live as simply as possible during my pilgrimage.'

"In October of the same year, having returned with his brother's family from Spain, I met the count at Odessa. The evening of the day was stormy and I was engaged in studying in my own apartment when my manservant Alexis came to me, saying: 'Doctor, the Count Tolstoi has arrived, and as the family are not at home it will fall to you to receive him.'

"'Most willingly,' I said, and proceeding downstairs I addressed him cordially and respectfully and inquired concerning his health.

"'I am well, but I do not know you, sir,' he answered. 'I never met you. Who are you and what are you doing here?'

"I smiled and said: 'Count, do you not remember that we met at Prischib last Easter?' I recalled the incident in detail and the subject of our conversation as given above.

"'Well, well—possible, it is possible—lapsus memoria,' murmured the count. 'But where do you come from?' he asked, petulantly.

"I told him that we had just returned from Spain, where his brother and family had been for health and recreation.

"'Stuff and nonsense!' he exclaimed, impatiently. 'You ought not to have gone to Spain. Better, a great deal better, had you given the money to the poor. But,' he asked, with sudden irrelevance, 'have you here anything to eat?'

"'Certainly,' I replied. 'Let us step to the dining-room.'

"'Brown bread and a little milk, or even water,' said the count, 'is all I wish for.' I remonstrated and pointed to the table, on which were a dish with caviar, cold chicken, cold ham, with girkins and sundry edibles temptingly displayed.

"'Have the kindness to be seated and help yourself,' I said, as I poured out and proffered him a glass of alicante.

"'No, no!' he said, impatiently, 'I do not like those things. They are too rich for me. Break your bread with the poor and calm their griefs. That is better than all this vanity.'

"Then, impulsively seizing my hand, 'Spokoi ni notch gospodin!' (phrase

"I DO NOT KNOW YOU, SIR."

for 'Good night, sir!') he exclaimed, and was gone.

"I sat for a few minutes in mute astonishment, and then inquiring of my servant was informed that the count had asked to be shown to a room, and had gone to bed. Next morning, as I learned from Alexis, he arose early and set off for Nicholajew, a town situated on the Bug.

"I met him again in March of the following year, in the city of Elizabethgrad. He was in very low spirits, having been much occupied in contemplation of the miseries of mankind, which are nowhere more painfully manifest than in Russia.

"'Mankind is far from God; that I can see every day,' he said, sorrowfully, soon after our conversation began. 'Why this hopeless inequality? Why should the masters of society so greatly increase their wealth and the faces of the poor grow black with burden bearing? Oh, my dear sir, what riddles, what riddles! Tell me, have you any solution of them?'

"'Humanity and life are riddles,' I answered, 'but, from the Christian standpoint, we must not forget that "we now see through a glass darkly." After this life the children of God shall see "face to face." If we abide in God, we who now know but in part, shall "know even as also we are known."'

"'Yes,' the count rejoined, 'you speak as out of my own heart. But we do not find an acceptance of these things by the philosophers. Philosophy, indeed, has been making me quite unhappy. I have read Lessing, Leibnitz, Kant and the rest, but none of them answers to my aspirations. I am languishing.'

"'Count,' I replied, 'paper is patient. The philosophers are not philosophy. Like you, I find them unsatisfying. I rest in the declaration of Holy Scripture. You doubtless recall: "The world passeth away and the things thereof, but he that doeth the will of the Father abideth forever."'

"There was a long pause, during which he was meditative. 'May I take the liberty of asking if you have business in town?' I inquired.

"'Yes,' he answered, 'I have a coat to be made. We will go to the tailor's.' I accompanied him to the shop. The tailor's name was Brischnow. He was not at home, but his assistant took the count's measure for the garment and his instructions to make it as plain as possible.

"'I shall be in town but two days,' said the count, 'can it be ready the day after to-morrow?'

"The assistant assured him and we left. Next day I heard the noise of a heated controversy in the count's room, which was near my own, and, alarmed by an occurrence so unusual, went to see what it meant. I found Tolstoi soundly berating the tailor's clerk.

"'I do not know you, sir. You are quite mistaken. I did not order a coat. Take it away and begone!' ejaculated the count.

"But the tailor's assistant did not go. He saw me and at once appealed to me.

"'Is it not true, sir, that his excellency came yesterday to my master's shop, and that I measured him to have a coat made?' he asked.

"'Yes,' I replied, 'the count ordered a coat yesterday. You are quite right. Count Tolstoi,' I said, 'this worthy tailor has but acted on your instructions.'

"'Is it possible that I am thus mistaken?' he exclaimed. 'Then, sir,' he said to the tailor, 'I beg your pardon. Go finish the coat and I will pay for it now.'

"'Better not pay for it until it is finished,' I suggested, and it was so agreed and both parties were satisfied.

"This incident reminds me of another which took place a year previously, when, as I told you, I met the count in Odessa. Finding himself in need of that exceedingly important article of underwear, a flannel shirt, he invited me, as we walked, to accompany him into a store on Richelieu street. He there found what he sought and bought it at one ruble and twenty kopeks. He took the parcel with him, declining positively to have it sent; but in his habitual abstraction walked out of the shop without settling for it. The shopkeeper, who knew him, and would not ask for his money, on the following morning sent a bill. One of the servants brought it to the count as we were at breakfast.

"'Why,' he said, turning to me in indignation, 'here is a bill for the flannel shirt I bought yesterday, and for which I have already paid.'

"'I beg your pardon,' I replied, 'the people are quite right. You did not pay that bill.'

"'In that case you will please come with me,' he said.

"I begged to be excused till the afternoon, when I accompanied him to the merchant's.

"'Is it true,' he said to the shopman, in a tone of abrupt anxiety, 'is it true that I did not pay that bill?'

"Assured that he had not, he took from his purse a handful of gold coin, and throwing it down, exclaimed: 'There, take this as forfeit. I had no intention to steal! I had no intention to steal!'"

"Doctor," I said, "you almost persuade me that your illustrious acquaintance was a fit subject for a guardian. Have you any explanation of these singular aberrations?"

"None," smilingly replied the doctor. "Tolstoi must be classed with Cincinnatus, that Roman so celebrated for the simplicity of his manners and the austerity of his morals, that when they sought him to invest him with the purple, they found him behind the plow. Indeed it is the persuasion of his amiable simplicity that secures him immunity in Russia. He has been fined many times, and the government shut up his school. But he loves children so well that he and his daughter receive four each morning and the same number in the afternoon for instruction. He is unquestionably a sincere Christian, and, if eccentric, is but little more so than Christianity, literally obeyed, would make the rest of us, which," said the doctor in a tone of solemnity that harmonized well with the darkling sky and the sad song of the sea—"which may serve to show that its professors are yet a good distance from the realization of the New Testament ideal."

STILL UNDER GUARD

Murderer Almy Too Weak to be Taken to Jail.

HE TELLS A PATHETIC STORY.

Says That Christie Warden Caused the First Shot.

To Put Her Out of Misery He Fired Again and Again—He Intended to Kill Himself but Something Restrained Him—Mrs. Warden Will Probably Claim the Reward for His Capture.

HANOVER, N. H., Aug. 22.—Frank Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, is still very weak, and has been removed to an upper story of the hotel, where better and more commodious quarters have been secured. It is not likely that he will be removed to the jail in Grafton for some time, as the jail is not considered safe and lacks necessary accommodations for the wounded murderer.

There is probably no more interesting feature connected with the Almy capture than the statements made by the prisoner himself. His story of the affair, in his own words, is as follows:

Almy's Story of the Murder.

"In the beginning Christie Warden and I were the best of friends. I loved her, and, although she never told me she reciprocated the feeling, I have always felt that she did. After I had been on the Warden farm a month or six weeks we began to visit various places together, and, though she appeared shocked at some of the stories I told her of my past life, she, nevertheless, talked to me in a friendly manner regarding the future, and told me I could make of it what I chose.

"There was familiarity between us, the familiarity of accepted lovers, and I shall always stick to this part of my story. It is true that she never promised to be my wife, but she gave me occasion to believe that the day was not far distant when she would. Then her family interfered. I was practically rejected and went away to forget her, if I could, among other scenes. It was a hard thing to do, but the only thing that remained.

"I left the Warden farm and drifted about here and there, always thinking of her and longing to be near her. I could not rest unless I came back, and so I returned. When the night of the killing came I saw her mother and Fannie depart and I waited for them by the brook, guessing at the time they would return. When they came back from the grange meeting I was in readiness and when the party reached my hiding place I stepped out, announced who I was and told Mrs. Warden that I wanted to speak with Christie.

The Scene in the Road.

"Mrs. Warden at once flew at me, called me everything that she could think of, and Fannie and the lady with them joined in. Christie alone remained silent. Such a raking over as I got for a few moments from those two females was enough to make a man completely lose his head. I could stand it no longer, so pulled out my revolver and told them to move on. Then Christie began to get frightened and to struggle.

"In the excitement which followed my only thought was to keep Fanny away. Contrary to my expectations this had no effect on Christie and she struggled to free herself. The weapon was a self-cocking one, and the pressure was great enough to discharge it. The girl fell, and when I saw the blood pouring from her abdomen, an insane horror came over me and I believed that she was dead.

"Then the thought that perhaps she was not dead but mortally wounded, and rather than have her know in her moments of semi-consciousness that I had shot her, I fired at her again and then again. Then I thought I would end my own existence, but something, I know not what, restrained me, and so I hurried from the scene and secreted myself in the barn."

Mrs. Warden Will Claim the Reward.

Since Almy's arrest much discussion has been caused as to who will get the reward. Governor Tuttle on August 4 issued a proclamation calling for all citizens to assist in the capture of the murderer.

He also stated in the proclamation that he would recommend the passage of a bill at the next session of the Legislature, giving to the person making the arrest $2,500. The town of Hanover also offered $1,500 reward, making in all $4,000 for the arrest of the murderer.

Some people think that Prof. Witchell and H. C. Brown are entitled to it, for they watched him in the garden on the night before his capture.

It is stated on good authority now that Mrs. Warden herself will claim the reward, she being first to find trace of his presence in the barn. Others of the party who went into the barn and made the arrest are likely to claim the money.

Anxious to Prevent a War.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 22.—It is stated by El Tiempo that General Ezeta, President of Salvador, has telegraphed to Ignacio Mariscal, Secretary of Foreign Affairs of this Republic, asking him to use his good offices in preventing a new war between Salvador and Guatemala. The same paper also states that Mariscal has telegraphed to General Alatore, the Mexican Minister, to prevent a war if possible.

No Substitutes

For Royal Baking Powder. The "Royal" is shown by all tests, official, scientific, and practical, stronger, purer, and better in every way than all other Baking Powders. Its superiority is privately acknowledged by other manufacturers, and well known by all dealers.

If some grocers try to sell another baking powder in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit. This of itself is good evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

LOOK with suspicion upon every attempt to palm off upon you any baking powder in place of the "Royal." There is no substitute for the "Royal."

THE LIGHTWEIGHT MILL.

Austin Gibbons Spars Three Times a Week With Charley Norton.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 22.—Austin Gibbons, the young Paterson pugilist who is matched against Jack McAuliffe for the lightweight championship, in his training sets at naught all the dietary rules of the old-time trainers and eats and drinks with apparent impunity whatever he fancies for the time being. Though his principal meats are beefsteaks and chops, he doesn't hesitate to devour roast duck or even pork, if the desire for either seizes him. So with his drinking. He takes beer or any other liquor, in moderation, of course, whenever he wants it.

Though the date of his contest with McAuliffe is three weeks off, Gibbons is fit for the ring now. He is below weight (135 pounds), and he will be when he meets McAuliffe, as his intention is to enter the ring at about 129 pounds. He was just 31 years old on Wednesday, and as he hasn't got his growth yet, he would be fat at greater weight.

He takes the bulk of his bodily exercise in the afternoon. Yesterday Charley Norton, of Newark, one of the most skillful boxers in the world, sparred three long hours with him, as is his habit three times a week. Those who have not seen the Paterson boy perform with the gloves for some time will be surprised at the improvement he shows. He is as fine as silk, and his arms, breast and shoulders are wonderfully developed.

SHOT TO QUELL A MUTINY.

The Captain of the Steamer Obdam Killed a Coal Stoker.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The story was told in shipping circles to-day of how Capt. Bakker, of the steamship Obdam, which left this port on July 18 for Rotterdam, shot and killed one of the coal stokers two days later.

On his previous trip Capt. Bakker shipped about 20 coal stokers in Rotterdam. On the way over here there was some dissatisfaction among the stokers, but they were afraid to mutiny.

When the ship left this port, however, to return to Rotterdam, the men grew sullen and there was good grounds to fear a mutiny.

Capt. Bakker was told that such a move was rife, and the captain went down into the coal hole and warned the men.

One of the stokers picked up a fireman's comb, a heavy iron instrument, and made at the captain. The latter drew his revolver and shot the man dead.

The name of the man killed was Duzer.

In Rotterdam Capt. Bakker was placed under $10,000 bail. When he returns from his present trip to this port he will be tried.

TIRED OF LIVING.

A Mother Drowns Her Babe and Brains Another Child With a Hatchet.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22.—A special dispatch from Alexandria, W. Va., says: Mrs. Banhowser, wife of a prosperous resident of Helvitia, during a fit of temporary insanity, drowned her 13-months'-old baby in a spring near the house, then returned to the house and brained her 3-year-old boy with a hatchet, mutilating the body in a horrible manner. She then attempted to take her own life, but will recover.

The only reason given by the mother for the deed is that she is tired of living and did not want to leave her children behind her.

A Murderer's Sister Prostrated.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—The condition of Miss Laura Blair, sister to the murderer executed yesterday, is indeed sad. She has been in a comatose state ever since her removal from the penitentiary. At waking intervals she utters the most bewailing moans for the warden to permit her to see her brother again. It is feared that when she recovers consciousness and learns of the execution that her reason may be permanently dethroned.

WORK OF A FIEND

Three Children Smothered in a Tool Chest.

THE LID SECURELY FASTENED.

It is Believed That the Little Ones Were Forced Into the Box.

The Bodies Show That They Were Roughly Handled—Their Clothes Were Torn and Faces Bruised—First Discovered by Their Mother, Who is Almost Insane—Officers Making an Investigation.

IRONTON, O., Aug. 22.—There is great excitement here over the mysterious death of three children.

George Hamilton and his wife went out to make a business call, and when they returned could not find their little ones.

The parents supposed they were playing with their neighbors, and paid no attention to their absence. Hamilton grew uneasy after awhile and began to look for them. Hestie, the oldest, was only 8 years old, and the others, Edith and Emma, were 4 and 2 respectively.

Returning from the neighbors after a fruitless search, the parents began to look over the house.

A large tool chest stood in one corner of the outside shed. The mother threw back the lid, screamed and fainted away. Her three children lay dead in the chest.

The babe had died first, and was clutched tightly in the arms of the eldest. The faces of all were blackened and congested. The town was aroused at once, and officers hurried to make an investigation.

They found that after the children had been put into the chest a strong stick had been forced into the lock and staple, thus consigning them to certain death in a few minutes. The cries of the children, of course, had been smothered by the thick sides of the chest.

Mrs. Hamilton is almost insane, and it is the general belief that the children were deliberately smothered by some fiend. A search of the house revealed nothing disturbed and there was no evidence to point to murder but the telltale stick which had locked the children to their death.

A close examination of the dead bodies show that they had been roughly handled, as their clothes were torn and their faces bruised, either in very rough play or by being roughly shoved into the death chest. They had evidently suffered much and fought fiercely for a breath of air.

The father says that he is sure the children were playing in the yard when he and his wife left home.

The neighborhood has all been canvassed, but there is no discovery that other children were playing with Hamilton's little ones during their parents' absence.

WARLIKE PREPARATIONS.

Russia Massing Troops Along the Austrian Frontier and Building Forts.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Standard's correspondent at Braila reports an enormous increase of the Russian troops on the Austrian frontier.

He says that the Bessarabia Frontier Guards, formerly a mere gendarmery corps to prevent smuggling, have grown into a permanent advance guard ready to invade Austria on a few hours' notice. Large forts and observation towers are being rapidly built, and the Russian government has given a heavy subsidy to the Black Sea and Danube Shipping Company to erect a large dock yard at Reni and to forward troops to any part of the Black Sea.

The construction of pontoons is actively proceeding at Reni to be placed at various towns for the transportation of troops, and barracks are being built in the vicinity of Reni for 5,000 men.

Drowned While Bathing.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 22.—John D. McLean, of Utica, N. Y., while bathing at Scarboro got beyond his depth and was drowned. The body was recovered.

Farley National Bank Suspends.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 22.—The Farley National Bank suspended at noon.

WAGON MAKERS EXCITED.

The Failure of the American Wheel Works Creates Consternation.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The news of the appointment of a receiver for the American Wheelworkers spread among the company's customers, wagon and carriage manufacturers all over the country, and caused great excitement. All the morning inquiries have poured in as to the chances of the business being continued. The greatest anxiety is felt from the fact that the manufacturers of vehicles are dependent on the company for the wheels used in their business, which would be virtually paralyzed should the supply be cut off. The only other sources of supply are incapable of supplying one-quarter of the demand, so that the question of the continuance of the business becomes of the greatest importance.

Attorney Newman says that it has been arranged that various judges who had taken jurisdiction in the case appreciated the necessity and ordered the receiver to continue business as usual. It is claimed by the company's attorneys that the embarrassment will be but temporary, and that within a month the receiver will be discharged and the control of the business returned to the company's officers.

THE BASEBALL BATTLE.

A Compromise Meeting Between the League and Association Next Week.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The League and Association are tired of paying the present high salaries, and wish to form an agreement which will enable them to employ players at a much lower figure. A meeting to arrange the details for a compromise will be held next week. It will be held in the East.

The chances are that it will occur on Tuesday, and that Washington will be the place. Of course, this publication of the fact may lead the magnates to change their plans, and that another day and place will be selected, but the meeting will occur the coming week, or at least that is the present intention. Mr. Von Der Ahe will be one of the Association representatives at the conference. It is not expected that the final arrangements will be made for a compromise at the conference, but that a plan of compromise will be agreed upon.

Brush has been seeing the League people and Mr. Von der Ahe has discussed the matter with his confreres, so that each knows what the opposing organization will demand. The plan of compromise once settled there will be full meetings of both associations called to vote upon the matter. Brush and Von der Ahe agreed between themselves on a plan at their last talk here, but each had to get the approval of his associates, and next week, when the conference is held, it will be known what each organization will demand and what each will concede.

Think the Boy Was Murdered.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 22.—Many persons now believe that the young boy found dead hanging to a boat's painter on Sunday night was murdered. James Slocum, Albert Errickson, Addison Errickson and George Fordham say that the boy was in bathing with a dark, heavily built companion late on Sunday evening. The boy exhibited a large roll of bills about an hour and a half before the body was discovered. When found the money and valuables were missing. The boy's companion, who was a stranger here, has disapppeared.

Three Fires in Altoona.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 22.—This place was visited by three fires yesterday, the first of incendiary origin, destroying the residence and storehouse of M. B. McGrath, on Green avenue, and causing a loss of $10,000, on which there is $5,000 insurance. Two houses belonging to John Fay were damaged to the extent of $2,000, no insurance. The second fire destroyed the Goodwill engine house. A third fire destroyed the stable of Mrs. Kate Collins. Loss, $10,000; fully insured.

World's Fair Appointment.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—John Thorpe of New York has been nominated by Director-General Davis for chief of the Bureau of Floriculture, a division of the department of horticulture. Director-General Davis sent the nomination to President Baker, and will send a similar notice to the National Commission, which meets in September. Mr. Thorpe will undoubtedly be confirmed for the place.

CROWDS AT TREVES

The City Full of Pilgrims to See the Holy Coat.

AN ARMY OF INVALIDS PRESENT

Doctors Busy Furnishing Them With Medical Certificates.

Prussian Military Officers Refuse to Kneel When the Relic Was Exhibited. English Tourists Show All Deference to the Forms of the Church—The Sanctity of the Garment Questioned by Visitors.

TREVES, Aug. 22.—The crowd here is so great that that the ordinary accommodations of the city are more than taxed. The cathedral clergy are besieged with requests for permission to permit invalids to touch the Holy Coat, and the doctors of the city are overrun with applications for the medical certificates which the Bishop requires before permitting access to the relic.

All the pilgrims are evidently not devotees, and in some instances there has been a notable display of irreverence.

Much feeling has been caused by the conduct of the Prussian military officers, who refused to kneel when the relic was exhibited. The clergy say they should not have been present unless they were willing to comply with the outward forms of worship.

The English tourists, most of whom are Protestants, knelt down when others did and showed all deference to the forms of the church. The question of the authenticity of the relic continues to rage bitterly, and has done much to revive religious animosities, which of late have been dormant in Germany. Catholics generally uphold the sanctity of the garment, although not universally, while Protestants point to it as an object lesson in superstition.

It is probable that the courts will be called upon in some way to take cognizance of the matter, either in an action for slander or a prosecution for profaning religion.

ENGLISHMEN INSULTED.

The Chinese Did Not Treat the British Officers Well.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The British government has notified the government of China that from this time forth no British officers will be allowed to serve in the Chinese navy.

The British government has taken this step on account of the refusal of the Chinese authorities to furnish an explanation of the insult of a Chinese officer in hauling down the flag of Admiral Lang while that British officer was in command of the Chinese North Coast Squadron at Hong Kong.

Admiral Lang, in resigning his commission in the Chinese navy gave as his reason that the Chinese officers of the squadron were insubordinate. Later, as a result of Admiral Lang's resignation, the Chinese government declared that it would never again intrust real authority in the navy to any foreigners.

TARIFF INVESTIGATIONS.

Senator Carlisle Says the Committee Will Not Report This Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Senator Carlisle arrived here last night from the White Mountains, and is at the Arlington. He is here on business connected with the Senate Committee appointed to examine the workings of the tariff.

The Senator, in speaking of the work of the committee, said that it was a great undertaking, and that the report could not possibly be ready before late next summer.

"We propose to go into the subject thoroughly," he said, "tracing it back in all its relations to wages, labor, commerce and industrial development for the past 50 years. We haven't begun taking testimony yet, but have put 22 agents at work gathering necessary data. Hon. Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of Labor, will co-operate with us, and we look to him for a great deal of help in preparing our report."

THE VETO OF NO AVAIL.

In Spite of the Mayor's Objections, the Low Water-works Ordinance Becomes a Law.

At the special meeting of the Plainfield Common Council held last night, the revised specifications and form of contract for the proposed construction of water-works by J. M. Low and his associates, were presented and read.

Mr. Ackerman moved that consideration in the matter be postponed to October 5.

Mr. Hetfield insisted that there was no reason for postponement, and said that copies of the contract had been seen by all the councilmen for a considerable length of time.

Mr. Ackerman said that he had n't seen it since it was altered, and there were others who had n't. He and his associates wanted opportunity to look into the merits of the matter.

Mr. Ackerman's motion was lost by the vote of 4 to 6. Those voting in favor of it were Messrs. Ackerman, Johnston, Rushmore and See. Mr. Ginna was absent.

Mr. Hetfield presented a resolution that the bids and specifications be approved and that the Mayor and City Clerk be instructed to execute the contract for the city. This, after considerable discussion, was adopted, by the vote of 6 to 4.

Ayes—Messrs. Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith and Spangenberg.

Noes—Messrs. Ackerman, Johnston, Rushmore and See.

Before voting, Mr. Ackerman insisted that himself and fellow-councilmen be given an opportunity to examine the document carefully.

Mr. Hetfield said that it had been in the hands of the City Clerk a long time, and could have been examined there.

Mr. Ackerman made a speech in which he said that the Low company wanted more money for fire hydrants than was asked by the Water Supply Company.

Mr. Hetfield replied that the Water Supply Company had demanded an exorbitant rate of $60 per hydrant, for which they would furnish water for fire purposes and flush the sewers, while for the same service the Low company wanted only $25 per hydrant.

Mr. Ackerman held that the Water Supply figure for fire service was $15 per hydrant.

Mr. Hetfield said that the Water Supply people had never, to his knowledge, made but the one offer of $60. They had promised to meet with the councilmen and consult in the matter, but had never done so.

Mr. Ackerman replied that the members of the company were reputable and respectable men right here in town all the time, and the councilmen could have treated with them any time they desired.

"Yes;"—said Mr. Hetfield—"if we get down on our knees and crawl before them we might treat with them."

Mr. Rushmore said that this was the first time he had seen the new contract, and he did n't propose to vote for it without careful examination.

Mr. Hetfield said that everything had been done by counsel to make the contract a perfect one.

The Mayor's veto of the Low water-works ordinance was presented and read as follows:

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

GENTLEMEN:

I return herewith without my approval an ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the obtaining and furnishing of a supply of water to the City of Plainfield, for the purpose of extinguishing fires, and for other lawful uses and purposes".

The object of this ordinance is to give to Joseph M. Low and six unknown associates, the consent of the corporate authorities, to form a corporation, under the name of the Plainfield Aqueduct Company, for the purpose of supplying the city with water.

I cannot consistently sign this ordinance without first being made acquainted with the terms and conditions upon which you propose to grant the franchise referred to. Said terms and conditions are supposed to be embodied in a contract which was drafted more than a month ago, since which time it has been in the hands of special counsel under the control of that portion of your honorable body favorable to the passage of this ordinance. Five members of the Common Council have been kept in ignorance concerning the character of this contract, in its amended form, notwithstanding their right to the fullest information respecting all measures brought before the Council. The Corporation Counsel has kept informed of the changes and alterations that from time to time have been made in the contract as originally adopted, but I am informed and believe that it does not meet with his approval. Looking at the matter from a purely business standpoint, my own judgment is that this contract should have been submitted to the Common Council, and fully discussed and agreed to, before the final passage of this ordinance. In no other way is it possible to reach an intelligent conclusion as to the advisability of granting the proposed franchise.

Plainfield certainly has no need of two water companies; neither can two companies profitably exist here; and inasmuch as the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company is already approaching completion it seems to me unwise to have our streets torn up again and to subject ourselves to the annoyance and damage which we have already experienced, through the laying of pipes by the present company.

It is a well known fact that competing companies sooner or later combine, and the interests of the public are sacrificed thereby. In no event, therefore, should the existence of two companies be encouraged without making, by the most stringent provisions, such combination impossible.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company, as I understand, has proposed to supply to the city water for fire purposes at $15 a hydrant per annum. If this is true, and the proposition is still before you, my opinion is that the welfare of the city will be promoted by accepting the proposition before it is withdrawn.

Respectfully submitted,

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

On motion of Mr. Hetfield the water-works ordinance was passed on its third reading and final passage, by the vote of 6 to 4.

Ayes—Messrs. Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith and Spangenberg.

Noes—Messrs. Ackerman, Johnston, Rushmore and See.

In voting no, Mr. Ackerman read a lengthy speech in support of the Mayor's veto.

Mr. Rushmore also made a speech, in which he laid special stress on the rate demanded for fire hydrant service. The Water Supply Company wanted only $15 per hydrant, while the Low company demanded $25, claiming that the extra $10 was for "flushing sewers". Let Mr. Low clean his own sewers—he said. His patrons will pay him his price for filling them up. Let him furnish water to cleanse them at his own expense. Why should the city pay him this extra money? It is simply a bonus that in 25 years amounts to more than $80,000—the city virtually presents him with the money, under the guise of flushing the sewers. Why should the city give Mr. Low or anybody else a cent for flushing sewers which the city gets no adequate return from? Let him flush his own sewers from the profits that he gets from the users of his system. Mr. Rushmore further urged that the offer of the Water Supply Company be accepted, to give fire protection at $15 per hydrant. The Water Supply service would be ready within a fortnight, while Low's would not be ready within at least a year—probably two years; and to delay any longer getting an adequate water service might result in great loss to the city and great discredit to the council.

REED DOES N'T READ CLEARLY.

He Accuses THE PRESS of Saying a Lot of Things It Never Even Thought Of.

After some personal correspondence, THE PRESS has been able to learn just what it is that Charles A. Reed is mad about. He writes:

You publish your assertion that I am a disreputable, unconscientious and unscrupulous lawyer—one who is willing to lend himself as the tool of the person whom you have already stigmatized, in effect, as the keeper of a bawdy-house—one whose reputation cannot possibly be injured; and you spread that assertion among people who do not know either its object or its author, and who are therefore unable to properly judge as to its weight.

THE PRESS most emphatically did nothing of the kind. It never called Mr. Reed disreputable, nor unconscientious, nor unscrupulous. Nor did it ever say or imply that Joe Miller kept a bawdy-house. THE PRESS does not even think Mr. Reed is any of the things he mentions.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

Fifty People Buried and Burning in the Ruins.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 22.—At about noon to-day the boiler exploded in the restaurant on Park place adjoining the corner building at Greenwich street, and the entire front of the building was hurled into the street.

At least fifty people were in the restaurant, and these were buried in the debris.

The ruins immediately took fire, and the mangled victims of the disaster were burned to death before the eyes of the spectators, and in spite of the heroic efforts of the firemen.

On the second story of the restaurant building, and in the rear, was a printing shop. A number of the employes, mostly girls, were rescued, but it is feared that others in the shop perished.

The adjoining corner building was also burned.

The number of dead cannot be estimated.

OUR "Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

EDSALL'S,

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. A PLAINFIELD GIRL'S FEAT.

She Gets Refreshing Exercise by Swimming Out to Sea to See the Buoys.

(From The New York World.)

WATCH HILL, Aug. 21.—The hotels have their regular dances and hops every evening, and few changes comparatively have been made in the personnel of the guests this month. The bathing beach is the one spot where every one goes. The best swimmer among the young women here at present is Miss Emily Sandford, daughter of Mrs. Amelia L. Sandford, of 64 Washington avenue, North Plainfield, N. J. Miss Sandford is a powerfully built girl, and from the time she makes the first plunge she never puts her feet on the bottom until she is coming out, and she has been known to continue swimming for an hour and a half. A swim out to the channel buoys, three-quarters of a mile distant, is considered by her a refreshing bit of exercise.

A BIG DAY IN PLAINFIELD.

The First Regiment, Knights of Pythias, Will Parade—A Concert by the Seventh Regiment Band and a $1,000 Display of Fireworks.

The annual parade of the First Regiment, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, will take place in this city on Wednesday afternoon, September 16, 1891. Grand Chancellor Uirich has invited and urged every subordinate lodge in this State to participate in this parade. As there are 10,000 members in this State, the parade will undoubtedly be a very large one.

The Grand Chancellor has appointed D. N. Messler as Grand Marshal of the Uniformed Knights, who will issue his orders direct to the lodges.

In the evening they will give a grand concert by the Seventh Regiment band, and a $1,000 display of fireworks. An admission will be charged to the concert and fireworks, except to the members who take part in the parade. All those will be admitted free.

The Jersey Knight will run five special excursion trains to Plainfield that day. One from Newark, one from Jersey City, one from Manasquan along the Long Branch road, one from Trenton, and one from Phillipsburg, stopping at all stations along the routes where Knights of Pythias lodges are located. The fare will be at reduced rates, and a special train will return to each place at night after the close of the festivities.

This will undoubtedly be the largest gathering of Knights of Pythias ever held in this State.

The Crescents Knocked Their Ginger Out.

(From The Westfield Standard.)

Westfield lost last Saturday to Plainfield, but yet stands as good a chance as any of 'em for the championship of the State—for the record in this championship race is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Average
Somerville	3	3	.500
Westfield	2	2	.500
Plainfield	2	2	.500

We take courage in looking at this record.

It was a terrible disaster to lose to the Crescents. Especially, to lose by their great good luck rather than by their good playing.

But we're in it yet—and we mean to have that championship this year.

We'll take the next game from Plainfield, too. That is on August 29!

Our version of the game of last week is this:

We met with the disaster in the first inning, when the Crescents made six hits. Jones, after two strikes, reached up at one away over his head and scratched a two-bagger. Lufbery swiped at a wide one—the first ball—for the second hit. Tierney hit a high fly which Saxey Diven ought to have caught, but he did n't, so in ran Jones. By this time our Hammill hardly knew what to make of the Plainfielders' cracking away at all kinds of balls, consequently, he sent Keeler to base on balls—bases full. Then came McIndoe and hit another safe one—number three—on which Lufbery and Tierney scored. Hammill got another hit. Holly struck out, as some of the others would have done, had they tried to hit at balls over the plate instead of knocking 'em out of high trees, etc. Then came Lee with another wild hit and Bonner with a "two-sack", which gave the Crescents the seven runs, a lead from which, in spite of all we could do, they could not be routed.

Well, they'll never get seven runs from Westfield again—even in nine innings.

In spite of a plucky up-hill game our fellows could not make up the great seven runs. They did great work, shutting out the Crescents for eight straight innings—but the ginger was knocked out of 'em, that's all.

The Same Old Rowdy Methods.

The West Ends are to meet the Crescents at Plainfield, this week Saturday, and as the Crescents have won two games, one each from the best teams in the State, they will try and defeat the West Ends again, but they will only try. They say the large rattle which caused all the trouble last year and year before, will be there to make the same discordant noises as of yore, and to get the same old rounders of the Crescent League in a rage. This instrument of torture succeeded in rattling Doran last year, and it is reasonable to suppose that Hammill is not as invincible as Doran.—Somerville Democrat.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

Knocked the Bottom Out of All Friendship.

(From The Norwich Record, Aug. 19)

The failure of the Norwich nine to meet its engagement in Plainfield, N. J., to-day will occasion very bitter feeling in that city, it is feared. Manager Keller of the Plainfields has been to considerable expense and trouble to advertise the game in Plainfield and vicinity, and it was the intention to give the Norwich nine a big reception. In fact the day was to be made a general holiday in Plainfield, and an immense crowd would have witnessed the game. It is understood that the Norwich club was guaranteed a sum much above their expenses, and would have come home with a snug little amount of money as the result of their trip. Heretofore the feeling between Plainfield and Norwich has been of the kindliest nature, but to-day's failure on the part of our local club to meet its engagement is liable to knock the bottom out of all friendship now existing. Some of our leading merchants regret the turn affairs have taken and freely express their minds on the situation.

A Fault that Needs Correction.

A great many people are severely criticising the tardiness with which the City Council gets to work meeting nights. The members have got into the habit of sitting in caucus long after the hour set for the opening of the session. The result of the long delay in settling down to business is that the citizens present get tired and go home in disgust, while hardship is worked on the reporters, who have to waste a great deal of time in idle waiting and write up their notes after the late-hour adjournments. Last night it was 9:45 before the meeting called for 8 o'clock was begun. The session ended at 11:25. All of the councilmen were present except Mr. Ginna.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Brief notices will be inserted under this head free of expense, but must be delivered at this office not later than eleven o'clock on Saturday morning to insure publication.

William J. Ladd will speak at the Memorial chapel, at Washingtonville, to-morrow evening.

The services in St. Mary's church to-morrow will be held as follows: Masses will be celebrated at 7:30, 8:30, 9:45 and 10:45 a. m. Vespers at four o'clock p. m.

At the Warren union mission chapel, to-morrow, Sunday-school service will be held at 2:30. No evening service is held during the month of August.

The Rev. C. H. Pool, of Somerville, will occupy the pulpit of the Trinity Reformed church, to-morrow, morning and evening. Visitors are always welcome.

First Unitarian church, Second place, to-morrow, the Rev. Hobart Clark, pastor, will preach. Services at 10:30 a. m. only. The seats are all free and the public are cordially invited.

To-morrow's services at the Methodist church will be: Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., by the Rev. A. H. Tuttle, D. D. Sunday-school at 10 a. m., and Epworth League at 7 p. m.

German Lutheran services will be held to-morrow at the W. C. T. U. rooms, 73 West Front street, at 10:45 a. m. A sermon will be preached by the Rev. E. Moldenke, D. D., of New York.

At the Park Avenue Baptist church to-morrow, the Rev. Thos. Marice, of St. Paul, Minn., will preach at 10:30 a. m. The Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 p. m. All are very welcome to these services.

Gospel services will be held at the Wilson Memorial chapel at Washingtonville, to-morrow evening at 7:45. W. J. Ladd will address the meeting. Sunday-school will meet at 3 p. m. All are welcome.

E. C. Pease will speak at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow at 4:15 p. m. Music by a quartette composed of B. T. Barnes, Geo. O. Stevens, William Runyon and Elmer E. Runyon may be expected.

The Gospel service at the Mt. Pleasant school-house to-morrow evening will be very interesting. A special feature will be the singing. Mr. Frazee will accompany the organ with the cornet.

Service will be held in the German Reformed church, Craig place, North Plainfield, to-morrow, at 10:30 a. m. only. No service in the evening. The Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 p. m. There will be no service during the week.

At the First Baptist church, corner of Front and Grove streets, to-morrow, Sunday-school will be held at 9:30 a. m.; and at 10:45 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., the Carter Helm Jones, formerly of the Elizabeth First Baptist church, and now pastor of the Knoxville church, Tenn., will preach.

Were the principles taught by John the Baptist specially for his time, and to the Jews, or are they Christian? The claims of prohibitionists and total abstainers as to John the Baptist, as being a champion of reform and necessarily Christian. These topics are to be discussed at the meeting of the First Church of Christ, 4:15 p. m., Grove street, to-morrow.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, the Rev. Wm. R. Richards, pastor, services will be held to-morrow at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. The Rev. Richard S. Holmes, D. D., of Pittsburgh, Pa., will occupy the pulpit. The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Rejection of Saul"; the subject in the evening, "The Book Found". All the seats are free at the evening service.

At the Church of Our Saviour, Netherwood, the Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector, will conduct services, to-morrow, as follows: Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m.; morning prayer, litany, and sermon at 11 a. m.; evening prayer at 4:30. Two free stages will leave the railway station on North avenue, every Sunday morning at 10:30, for the church. The route of one is up Broadway, the route of the other up Putnam ave. The stages will return to Plainfield at the conclusion of the services.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

How People Salute.

It is interesting to trace the evolution of words and expressions. Cultivated people say: "How do you do?"

Those who are less precise say "Howdydo."

In the back woods of Pennsylvania they say "Howdy."

The noble red man of the west says: "How," while the cat on the fence says, "Oo."—Jury.

Unnecessary.

They had been talking about their neighbors all the evening, and, there being a lull in the conversation, one of the party said:

"Suppose we talk about ourselves and rip up each other's character a little?"

"That's unnecessary," replied a thin-faced, thin-lipped lady; "our neighbors are probably doing that for us."—N. Y. Press.

Easily Supplied.

Mrs. Suburbs (at employment agent's)—I presume there will be no difficulty in finding girls willing to leave the city this scorching weather.

Agent—No, mum. If y'r going to Saratogy an' wants a waitin' maid to he'p break in y'r new shoes, I kin git you one.—N. Y. Weekly.

A New Form of Proposal.

Miss Simper—Aren't things much cheaper than they were last year?

Calloway—Yes, indeed. I only pay one-half as much for my neckties. The difference is so great now (smiling) I could easily afford to get married.

Miss Simper—Oh, Mr. Calloway, this is so sudden!—Clothier and Furnisher.

A Good Little Boy.

Woman—Bobby, you never tied a tin can to a dog's tail, did you?

Bobby—No, ma'am.

Woman—I knew that a little boy with as good a look as you have would never do such a thing.

Bobby—No, ma'am; I jes gits the can and the string for the boys.—Judge.

A Revelation.

Primus—Did you read Moss' open letter in the Firmament?

Secundus—I didn't see his signature to anything.

Primus—Oh! he's too modest for that. He always signs his press letters as "Vox Dei."—Judge.

Couldn't Get Out of It.

"They say there is poison in ice cream, Ethel," he said, as they passed by the ice cream saloon.

"Well," she said, "I would like to see whether there is or not. Let us try it."—N. Y. Press.

Only a Little Spark.

The mistress of a mansion looked over the handrail of the stairway which led to her kitchen and asked her servant if she didn't have a fire there, contrary to the mistress' orders. And the domestic replied: "No ma'am; only a spark." And Patrick was not disturbed any more that evening.—Chicago Tribune.

A Natural Consequence.

Tom Barry—Sorry, old man, but I learned to-day that her mother objects to you!

Jack Dashing—Good! From what I know of human nature, that will prejudice both the girl and her father in my favor. I'm a lucky dog.—Life.

A MILK SHAKE.

Easy Work.

"Well, of all the ways of makin' a livin'," said Binks, "I think literature is the easiest."

"The easiest?"

"Yes. I've watched the fellers that do it. All a man's got to do is to sit down and slide his pen over the paper."—Jury.

The Sorrows of the Poor

"Don't you find your son's violin practice rather annoying?"

"Oh, no," answered the pampered capitalist. "I am boarding him at a poor cousin's of mine until he shall have learned to play."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Bad Case of Stage Fright.

Sock—Did you ever have the sensation of stage fright?

Buskin—Yes—once.

Sock—When was that?

Buskin—Once when I was on the Deadwood coach and it was held up.—Boston Courier.

She Hit It.

Mrs. Bloobumper (indicating a passer-by)—That man is dressed to kill.

Bloobumper (admiringly)—What discernment you have, my dear! That is Dr. Paresis, out making professional calls.—Harper's Bazar.

Just as Well.

"As to-day is your birthday, my life," remarked the sporting husband, "I'll go and shoot a pheasant for you."

"No, no," she remonstrated; "a hare will satisfy me. They come cheaper, you know."—Fliegende Blatter.

A False Accusation.

She—The price of the berries is as high as the bottom of the box.

Vender (earnestly)—'Deed they ain't, lady, 'deed they ain't.—Life.

Did Not Commit Suicide.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The result of the coroner's inquest on the body of Clark Woodman, one of Omaha's most prominent citizens, who was found dead in his room at the Grand Pacific Hotel Thursday afternoon, dispels the mystery surrounding the capitalist's death and does away with the theory of self-destruction. The jury found that the deceased died of heart failure some time during the night of the 19th inst.

The Montauk Has Gone to Pieces.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—S. Hogan & Co., whose steamer, the Montauk, went ashore Wednesday on Cape Race, have received information that the vessel has gone to pieces. Capt. Jenkins and her crew are now in St. Johns, N. F. The Montauk was built in England four years ago. This was her first voyage under the American flag.

Erie Switchmen Return to Work.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug 22.—The Erie switchmen, after a week of stubborn refusal to return to work, have at last gone back to their old places. The company has agreed to consider their demands, and all trouble is now over. The road has received much praise for holding the strikers' positions open to them, when it is generally understood that the men were decidedly in the wrong.

A Behring Sea Episode.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The sealing schooner "Mattie Flyer," which had been warned to leave Behring Sea, has just arrived here. She reports that the cod-fishing schooner Arago, was hailed by the U. S. S. Marien, which fired a blank shot across her bows. The Arago refused to stop and a solid shot was fired at her, with the effect of making her heave to. As the Arago was not a sealer she was allowed to proceed.

Horrors of the Kollmann Floods.

WIEN, Aug. 22.—It is stated that by the Kollmann floods 6,000 cubic metres of stone have been hurled down the mountains, a distance of 700 meters. Three hundred men are employed in diverting the water. Sixty bodies have been recovered, all horribly disfigured, and have been buried in rugs, sacks, etc., owing to the lack of coffins.

Chinese Forger Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Yyong Gee Ong, a Christianized Chinaman, was arrested during the morning charged with forging the signature of Internal Revenue Agent Thomas on thousands of the labels placed on manufactured opium. Ong confessed his guilt.

Pennsylvania League Reorganized.

OLEAN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Bradford, Meadville and Jamestown have been dropped from the New York and Pennsylvania League and the association reorganized with four clubs. Olean, Elmira, Erie and Jamestown now compose the league. A new schedule was adopted.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. Good Advice of as Little Use in the Country as Elsewhere.

How Uncle Lem Was Informed That He Had Won a Big Prize in a Lottery, and How He Didn't Get It.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

I have been obliged to say one or two unpleasant things about my neighbor, Uncle Lem Drew, but if anybody has taken the notion therefrom that he is a bad man, I am glad to be able to correct that impression here. Uncle Lem is a man who prides himself on his unscrupulous integrity, and on that thrift which enables him to wear one suit of clothes every week day for four years and not look ill dressed for those who know him.

One day Uncle Lem produced a worn and greasy envelope, and took from it a letter which had evidently been read many times.

"There ain't none o' your folks in hearin', is there?" he asked as he spread the letter out on the top of the fence. "Of course I have to be a little careful about this matter, because people round here think lotteries are sinful; though I don't see why, if it's for charitable work. And it seems I've won a prize, too."

HE PRODUCED A WORN AND GREASY ENVELOPE.

"What's it worth?"

"Ten thousand dollars," he replied in a voice full of reverence. "It's mostly in jewels, diamonds and such stuff—there's a list of them here. I'd rather have cash, but probably I wouldn't have much difficulty in sellin' out at a fair profit, considerin' that it didn't cost me nothin' at all."

"When did you buy the ticket?" I asked, although of course, I knew what his answer would be.

"Wal, ye see, that is," he hesitated, evidently trying to decide whether he should lie about it, "the fact is, I didn't buy no ticket. I calc'late somebody must have bought for me, as a Christmas present, or something. The letter says that this is done often by people who want to help the good work along and haven't got confidence in their own luck so that they never expect to win anything on the ticket. I dunno who could a-done it. I ain't got none too many friends, and I don't know scarcely anybody down in York. There was a nephew o' Cousin Sam Drew who went down there in '75 or thereabouts. He might a-bought it, though we ain't none of us heard from him in ten years."

How the old sinner tried to argue himself into the belief that this prize was his. I realized that he was addressing his battered wreck of a conscience more than me. I knew what he really believed, and the temptation to put the question squarely before the corrupt tribunal of his soul was more than I could resist.

"There may be some mistake about this," said I. "Perhaps this prize belongs to somebody else."

"Well, I can't see as that's any lookout o' mine," he exclaimed, with an asperity which showed that he was fortifying himself for argument. "If these men are running a business, it's for them to see that their prizes are sent to the right people. I ain't responsible. They say I've won the stuff, and I'm goin' to take 'em at their word."

UNCLE LEM MAKES FOR THE HOUSE.

"It might be inconvenient, though," said I, "if the rightful owner should show up later and claim his property."

"That's what I wanted to ask you about," he said, and in his impatience and anxiety he gnawed his ragged whiskers. "Would they have any claim? Suppose somebody else should come round and say that the jewels wa'n't mine, could I get into any trouble? I wouldn't mind bein' sued. I could beat 'em at that game, you bet. But what I'm afraid of is that they'd come up to this town and make a fuss, and let folks know that I'd been playin' a lottery. They're dead set agin it in this town, as I've told ye, though why they should be I don't see. They have raffles at all their church fairs, and they've a good deal worse. When you buy a ticket for a raffle you pay ten cents, and you never get nothin' back. Here I pay five dollars, or would have if I'd bought the ticket, which I would have done if I'd know'd where they was sold and felt sure o' winnin' a prize—here, as I say, I pay nothin' an' win $10,000. That looks fair an' honest to me."

"Yes," said I, "if the Charitable Missionary Lottery Company can stand that method of doing business I should think you could."

"Now, what I want to ask you," said Uncle Lem, ignoring my last remark and growing impressive as he neared the important point, "is, how shall I claim this property so as to be safe from any trouble? I forgot to say that there was sixty-nine dollars due for storage charges. It seems that they had some trouble about getting my address. It's the rule in such cases to wait ten days and then turn the prize into the missionary fund, but it seems that the president of the concern thought it was a little tough to do it in this case, where the winner was a poor man and a farmer, so he put the goods in storage and extended the time to three months. He urged me to send the money right on and not risk anything by delay. I wrote back for them to sell a few loose diamonds and pay themselves out of the proceeds, but the president replies here—"

Uncle Lem ran through his pockets anxiously for this second communication from the kind-hearted lottery company, but couldn't find it. He got nervous and turned all his pockets inside out, but it didn't appear.

"By Jimmy Neddy!" he exclaimed, "could I have left that in my Sunday vest; and mother's going to sew a button on it to-day. Great Peter, suppose she should find it. Say, wait a minute while I run into the house and save my reputation."

He came back in a few minutes breathless.

"Just in time," said he; "she had the vest, and was all ready to begin on it, but she hadn't been through the pockets. Narrow escape, but I got the letter. The president says that its against the rule for them to take anything out of the prizes and I must send the cash. He says that sixty-nine dollars ain't much, in comparison with ten thousand dollars, and by Jimminy, it ain't, now you come to think of it. I'll send it on to-morrow. I'm glad to hear that you know about the concern, and think they're all right. I'm much obliged for your advice, and if the stuff comes, and is up to what they claim for it, I don't mind lettin' you have a gew gaw of some sort for Mrs. Fieldin'. I suppose she wouldn't want anything very gorgeous — not to cost much money."

He looked at me apprehensively with his little greedy eyes, as if he feared I should claim a share of his imaginary jewels.

"Mr. Drew," said I, "it's very painful to me to have this duty to perform. I realize that if you get this wealth you would use it for philanthropic and worthy purposes, that you would give largely to the poor—"

"LOOK OUT FOR UNCLE LEM," HE SAID.

"Wal, I dunno," said Uncle Lem, as if he feared I was exacting a pledge. "Nobody never gave me nothin', an' I don't feel called upon to be extravagant in the matter o' charity. It never does people any good. No, sir; I'm set agin it. I've worked for what I've got an' anybody who gets a cent of it away from me has got to work harder'n I did, you bet. He's got to have a good grip."

"Mr. Drew," said I, "this whole thing is a fraud. There isn't any lottery—"

"No lottery, hey?" he cried. "Why you see the letter yourself!"

"I've seen a hundred like it before," I replied. "It's an attempt to cheat you of sixty-nine dollars. New York has a large population which lives off the rural districts. Some of them do it by means of railroads which they steal, and others by means of buying and selling crops which they never see. There are others who scorn to disguise robbery in the garb of business. They go at it straight out from the shoulder as your correspondent has done—for I cannot believe that anybody could suppose such a proposition as his to be honest. Don't send your money; you'll lose it, and you'll never see the jewels for they exist only in the lottery man's imagination."

Uncle Lem seemed staggered at first by this statement. Then he looked distrustful; and finally he muttered something about my being jealous of a neighbor's good fortune.

I have watched Uncle Lem with interest during the weeks which have followed this interview. I have seen him growing thinner, and more nervous. He has looked at me with an evil eye, and he evidently regards me as the author of his misfortune. He has consulted the squire (whom I have referred to in a previous communication) and there is something in the wind. Indeed the squire confided as much to me the other night over a game of forty-five.

"Look out for Uncle Lem," said he, as he raked in the stakes; "he's after you. He says you cheated him out of $10,000, and he'll get it back if there's any law in the land."

Miss Withers—He has a passion for antiques.

Miss Fresh—Ah!—yes. He's engaged to you, is he not?—Jury.

A New Description.

Hunker—Mine is a tailor-made watch.

Spatts—How is that?

Hunker—It was a premium with a suit of clothes.—Judge.

Driven By a Lady.

Irate Purchaser—See here! You said that horse you sold me had been driven by a lady for two years. He ran away the first time my wife tried to drive him.

Dealer—That there hoss was driven by er lady fer two years, just as I said, and no one kin contradict it, nuther.

"Humph! That's very strange. Who was the lady?"

"Madame Ludowoski."

"Who is she?"

"She's the female cannon ball thrower in Fourtent's circus." — Good News.

His Duty Well Done.

Mr. Stalate—So your sister keeps you well supplied with pocket money, does she?

Tommy—Yes.

Stalate—I presume you have to render some little equivalent.

Tommy (yawning)—Oh, yes. I have to come in and yawn when visitors are staying too late.—Yankee Blade.

AS SEEN BY UNACCUSTOMED EYES.

Pat (politely accosting lady with fashionable trailing skirt)—Mum, I beg pardon, but hadn't yez betther give yure suspenders a hitch?—Judge.

For Future Reference.

He—Is your father wealthy?
She—Yes.
He—Is he old?
She—Very.
He—Mother dead?
She—Yes.
He—Is your temper good?
She—They say so.
He—Well, I'll make a memorandum and perhaps I may see you again before the close of the season.—Life.

Could Not Be.

The simplest and most elementary truths may be stated in such a way as to possess something of the charm of novelty.

"Why," said Mrs. Bronson, as the clock struck, "it is only one o'clock. I thought it was two."

"No, mum," said Bridget, "it's niver later than one at this toime of day."—Harper's Bazar.

The Height of Exclusiveness.

Mrs. Hayseed—Talkin' 'bout airs, the most airish, exclusive, stuck up thing I ever saw is that Mrs. Hayfork, on the next farm.

City Geest—Proud, is she?

Mrs. Hayseed—Haughty as a princess. Why, she's so stuck up she won't take a summer boarder 'til July.—Good News.

An Anti-Revolutionist.

Jawkins (in the menagerie) — It's jolly odd, this wastefulness of nature.

Hogg—What now, Mr. Crank?

Jawkins—Why, here's the kangaroo with a pocket, and nothing to put in it, and the girl who's looking at the beast has her handkerchief, gloves, purse and umbrella in hand, and no available pocket.—Texas Siftings.

Time to Stop Fooling.

Dr. Gruff (to fashionable patient)—It's merely the same old ailment, my dear madam.

Mrs. Style—Oh, no, doctor; I really am ill now.

Dr. Gruff—H'm! If that is really so I'll have to change the whole course of treatment!—Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.

A Short-Sighted Man.

She—What do you mean, sir, by speaking to me in the street? I want you to understand that I am a respectable married lady.

He—Excuse me, but I'm so short-sighted that at first glance I cannot distinguish a married lady from any other lady.—Texas Siftings.

After the Tiff.

He—Well, we won't quarrel about it any more, but just let it go as it is, eh?

She—Yes. But, George, dear, for the sake of the future—and a harmonious future—I think you would better acknowledge before we drop it altogether that you were wrong! Don't you, dear? —Puck.

A Natural Mistake.

Hyde—I saw Charlie Fanshawe on Michigan avenue this afternoon.

Parker—That's impossible, for Charlie started for Europe yesterday.

Hyde—Well, then it must have been some dude with a dog and cane just like his.—Chicago Saturday Evening Herald.

Playing on His Pride

Outvit—I suppose that when you talk French to Waite you are telling him something you want the rest of us to know nothing about?

Ontwit—Not at all, my dear fellow. I am telling him something I want him to know nothing about.—Puck.

Not Worth Consideration.

Sappy—Miss Clara, do me a favor. Tell me honestly just what you think of me.

Clara Candid—I would, Mr. Sappy, but the fact is I really never think of you at all.—Chicago Saturday Evening Herald.

Called Back.

St. Peter (to spirit)—How is this? I've got it down that you left the earth two days ago. Where have you been since then?

Spirit—My wife called me back to build a fire in the kitchen stove.—Judge.

Unpopular Science.

Mrs. Von Gabb—What persons, doctor, as a class, are generally color blind?

Dr. De Gabb—Those who boast of having blue blood in their veins.—Puck.

ONE HUNDRED DEAD

Charred Bodies Taken from the Ruins in New York.

OVER EIGHTY STILL MISSING.

Men Work All Night Trying to Clear Up the Wreck.

Derricks Will Have to be Used to Remove the Machinery—Crowds Visit the Scene of the Disaster—Sad Sights at the Hospital and Morgue—Trying to Identify the Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—When the bodies of all the unfortunate men and women hurled into eternity by the collapse of the buildings Nos. 68, 70, 72 and 74 Park place on Saturday have been recovered, it will be found that the fearful list will contain 110 names.

But sixteen of the mangled and burnt bodies were taken out up to last midnight. Eight were taken out up to Saturday midnight and eight more were recovered in the next twenty-four hours.

At 11:30 o'clock last night the Italians were put to work again at removing the debris, and half an hour later two bodies were found near a mass of machinery.

The bodies were lying at about the foot of the stairway of No. 72 Park place. Both were bodies of men, and one of them wore a blue jumper and jean overalls. The other wore striped trousers.

Both bodies were terribly crushed and burned. Deputy Coroner Collin, who viewed them, said that he believed there were fifteen more bodies within a few feet of them.

These two discovered could not be removed, as the whole mass would come down upon the workmen and crush them.

The missing list now numbers eighty. There is little hope that any of these escaped, as they would have notified the anxious relatives who gave their names to the police.

Anxious Watchers.

Around the scene of the disaster anxious persons stood watching the men at work, peering into the ruins on the lookout for missing friends. The cordon of police detailed to guard the fire lines were kept busy throughout the night and day keeping the people back.

Among the anxious watchers all last night were three young women and a young man. They were looking for some missing friend, but they did not say who it was. Finally the escort of the ladies told a policeman that one of them was the fiance of A. B. Peterson, son of the proprietor of the restaurant, who is among the missing. Peterson was 21 years of age. In the morning a body was found answering his description and it was immediately recognized by his friends when brought outside the lines. The body was badly burned, but the identification was made positive by jewelry found on the body.

The firemen and laborers worked diligently this forenoon, but they made poor progress owing to the heavy machinery being in the ruins. It will probably be necessary for the men to use derricks to get the machinery and iron girders out of the way.

Identifying the Bodies.

John Low, of Brooklyn, called at the morgue, and after carefully examining the bodies identified one as that of his son George, 15 years old. The old man's grief at sight of the charred remains of his boy was unspeakable.

Two other bodies were recognized later on as Gustave Zickler, of 310 Washington street, Hoboken, and Leonard Cole, of Bedford avenue, Brooklyn.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

Women With Tear-Stained Faces Keep Their Eyes on the Rescuers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—By 8 o'clock at least 2,000 people were assembled at the ends of the block at Cottage place and Greenwich street, and as the day wore on their number increased rapidly. Finally the pressure became so great that the police found themselves unable to keep the throng in check, and by order of Inspector Williams ropes were stretched across the street. Even this expedient failed in its purpose, for one of the ropes was cut, and after awhile they were replaced by stout telegraph wires, against which the crowds surged in vain. It was noticeable that the throng was composed of in the main of morbidly curious persons. They could see literally nothing except the great gap on the south side of the street and an occasional figure of a fireman looming up through the smoke, yet hour after hour they stood patiently in the boiling sunlight, bound by a fearful fascination.

Here and there in the front ranks might be picked out an anxious face that gazed fixedly at the wreck, knowing full well that some loved one lay beneath it, but these were few. A number of vendors of lemonade, fruit and ice water took advantage of the opportunity to erect stands on the shady side of Park place, above College place, and they were liberally patronized.

Within the police lines a still more singular crowd was assembled. All who were fortunate enough to own an establishment or be employed upon the block were there to see the fearful show. Many of them brought their sister and wives and provided them with seats beneath awnings and at windows where they could have the best possible view of the scene of death and not fail to witness every horrible detail attendant upon the removal of the bodies.

There were other women there, too—women with tear-stained faces and quivering lips, who kept their eyes fixed on the rescuers and burst into frantic weeping as body after body was brought out in the awful dread that it might be that of some dearly loved one. Mothers watched thus for sons and wives for husbands, and side by side with them there smiled women who were drawn to the spot by no more worthy motive than that of curiosity.

What Caused the Accident.

The Fire Marshal is making a rigid examination in the matter and it is not at all unlikely that some one may be called to a strict account for the awful calamity. The fire chief is of the opinion that there was an explosion of gas or chemicals and this together with heavy machinery in the building pulled the structure down.

It is really a miracle that any one in the building escaped alive, for within ten minutes from the time of the collapse the whole ruin was a roaring mass of flames, the fire in itself being fierce and stubborn, and the firemen were kept busy in their effort to keep the flames from spreading to adjoining property.

IN TERRIBLE SUSPENSE.

Eager Inquiries Made All Day in Chambers Street Hospital.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Sad and inexpressibly pitiful were the scenes around Chambers Street Hospital all day.

From early morning people began calling at the hospital and asking piteously for news of missing dear ones. Little consolation could be given them, for of all the people in the building only ten lived to be carried to the hospital to make up the mournful injured list.

So little but pity could be extended to the agonized friends of missing people employed in the building. All that could be said was that there were only two people tossing in the pain and delirium of ghastly injuries in narrow little cots in the institution. The other eight had been claimed by their friends.

HANGED BY A MOB

Desperado Hawkins Dragged from Jail by 500 Men.

NOT ALLOWED TIME TO PRAY.

His Body Soon Dangling from a Tree Near the Prison.

Several Shots Fired into His Breast and the Deed Was Over—The Mob Immediately Dispersed—The Earnest Brothers Arrested After a Long Chase—Enraged People Want to Lynch Them.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Aug. 24.—Charles Hawkins, a noted desperado, shot and fatally wounded City Marshal Dan Bruce, yesterday afternoon, and at midnight a mob took Hawkins from the jail and hanged him.

Hawkins had been drinking and was having a quarrel on South Harrison street with a man named Chambers, when Bruce came upon the scene and requested them to cease their disturbance, whereupon Hawkins retorted that he would do as he pleased. Bruce was then about six foot away and, stepping a pace toward Hawkins, told him he must be quiet or he would be compelled to arrest him.

Hawkins then fired three shots in succession at Bruce, each bullet taking effect in the right breast. Hawkins was soon afterwards placed under arrest. At midnight, when Bruce was reported to be dying, 500 armed men marched to the jail, and after having bound and gagged the sheriff, began the search for the murderer. He was in a rear cell, and when the mob reached that portion of the jail, Hawkins was seen cowering in the rear of the cell. The door was quickly opened, and despite the terrified wretch's appeal for mercy, or for time to pray, he was tied hand and foot, a rope placed around his neck, and in a moment the men were tearing out of the jail with their howling victim trailing after them on the ground.

The Victim Tried to Pray.

About twenty feet from the jail door a tree was found, and a rope was thrown over a limb. Fifty men seized hold of the end, while the prisoner fell on his knees and tried to pray.

"Are you ready?" asked a leader of the mob. The answer was a yell.

"Up with him then," and with another yell of rage the fifty men gave a rush and Hawkins' body was twenty feet from the ground. No sooner had he been pulled up than a volley of shots from rifles and revolvers rang out on the night air and the murderer's struggles were over. The mob then quietly dispersed.

It is said that Hawkins' deed was premeditated. A week ago the marshal arrested Hawkins' 12-year-old son, who had been throwing stones through some plate glass windows, and Hawkins told Redin Dorin that he came to the city prepared to get even with Bruce. He had sought trouble with several persons, but all were afraid of him and avoided him.

TROUBLE WITH A CIRCUS.

An Angry Crowd Tear Down the Tent and Arrest the Manager.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Aug. 24.—The performers engaged with Harper Bros.' circus struck Saturday night after the audience had filled the tent here, where the circus was exhibiting, claiming that the managers owed them from three to seven weeks pay.

It was then announced that there would be no performance and money would be refunded. The crowd became excited, however, cut the guy ropes, smashed seats and set the tent on fire, doing in all about $2,500 damage. Thereupon Manager Harper refused to refund the money and went to Springfield, Mass., where he was arrested for obtaining money under false pretences. He will have a hearing at Thompsonville this afternoon.

TERRIBLE STORM.

The Lower Stories of Residences in Pottsville Pa., Flooded.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 24.—The worst thunder storm ever known in this section occurred last evening and caused damage to property estimated at $100,000. Cellars in the business portion of the city were flooded and many of the lower stories of residences were filled with water and slimy mud, causing the inmates to take to the upper stories.

Reports from Minersville, St. Clair, Port Carbon, Schuylkill Haven, Girardville and Mahanoy Plane say that the storm at those places also caused great damage.

A BOY BIGAMIST.

Although Only 16 Has Three Wives and Has Been Divorced Once.

BUFFALO, Aug. 24.—Harry J. Thorner, the 16-year-old son of a wealthy Buffalo merchant, is locked up in jail here on a charge of having three living wives. The police have been looking for him for some weeks.

About a year ago he represented himself as Harry Hamlin, the Delaware avenue millionaire, and married a pretty dry goods clerk. The girl found she had been deceived on her wedding trip, and three weeks later she secured a divorce. Since then Thorner is said to have married three times.

Over 250 Killed.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The full extent of last week's calamity at Martinique, cannot yet be determined. No place on the island so far heard from has escaped without serious damage. It is impossible as yet to give any estimate of the money value of the damage to crops, forests, houses and shipping. Neither can it yet be told how many people perished. Friday the death roll at 218 and now it is known that 250 met instant doom. It is not at all improbable that more accurate reports will add still more names to the list of the dead. No attempt has been made to ascertain the number of those who were injured by falling walls and flying debris, but the probability is that thousands received injuries more or less serious.

Suicide of a Professional Nurse.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Julius Rosenthal's, a professional nurse, aged 47 years, committed suicide at his home in this city by injecting poison into his blood by means of a hypodermic syringe. In a letter left by the suicide for the coroner, he states that sickness and suffering and the neglect of former friends have caused him to take his life. Rosenthal rendered effective service in Memphis during the yellow fever epidemic of 1878.

Wanda Won the Match.

NAPA, Cal., Aug. 24.—In a match race between Silas Skinner and Wanda for $5,000 a side and a purse of $500, Wanda won. Time, 2:19 1-2, 2:20 and 2:17 1-4.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

He Leaves Saratoga This Morning for Vermont.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The President left Saratoga this morning at 9 o'clock, and went by way of Whitehall to some point on the western shore of Lake Champlain, where he will meet the yacht of Seward Webb, which will convey him across the lake to Burlington.

He will lunch with Senator Edmonds, and will then proceed to St. Albans and there spend the night as the guest of ex-Governor Smith. Wednesday he will go to Montpelier, where a public reception will be given him by the Legislature. Thence he will go to St. Johnsbury, spending the night with Governor Fairbanks.

On Thursday he will go to Windsor and be the guest of Senator Evarts. In the afternoon he will go to Proctor and be the guest of Secretary Proctor from Thursday evening until Saturday morning, when he will start for Cape May over the Hudson River Railroad.

MURDER AT A CHRISTENING.

A Woman Killed by Her Brother During a Drunken Brawl.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—A drunken brawl at a christening party last night resulted in the murder of Mrs. Amelia Darwald by her brother, Albert Kinki, a laborer.

The evening was spent in card playing, singing, and beer drinking, and at midnight the beer began to effect the crowd. An hour later a number of the party were greatly intoxicated, and a dispute arose between Kinki and one of the guests named Pralich. Words led to blows, and Kinki drew a revolver, which he flourished in the air.

Mrs. Darwald attempted to wrest the revolver from her brother. He pulled the trigger twice and sent two bullets into his sister's breast, killing her almost instantly.

An officer was called and arrested the murderer, who was stupidly drunk.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

A White Woman Brutally Murdered by Her Jealous Paramour.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 24.—Mary Lyons, a white woman belonging to Bristol, Pa., was beaten to death in the morning by her colored paramour, William Scruby.

Scruby and the woman had recently separated. Late last night he heard that she was here in company with a colored man named Frayne. He went to the Wagner House and beat Frayne and another man named Bayard until they ran away. He then struck the woman with a chair and continued to beat her until her head was crushed in. Scruby was found on the farm where he was employed and arrested.

MURDER SUSPECTED.

A Farmer's Son Dies from the Effects of an Overdose of Morphine.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Charles Buck, the son of a well-to-do farmer, died here last night from the effects of a dose of morphine.

He had been living with a woman named Ella Risley, who said that Buck committed suicide because of jealousy. Buck had been on a spree for a week and both he and his mistress were drunk last evening.

The woman has been arrested. Her statements are contradictory and it is suspected that it is she who administered the drug. There is another woman in the case, of whom Mrs. Risley is believed to have been jealous.

Shot and Killed Her Husband.

NICOLLET, Minn., Aug. 24.—Mrs. John D. Miller shot and instantly killed her husband yesterday. They had been divorced for some weeks, but Mrs. Miller had continued to live in her husband's home. She was jealous of his attentions to a young woman named Schee, and on meeting them together, drew a revolver and killed her husband. Upon seeing Mrs. Miller with a revolver, Miss Schee ran for the door. Mrs. Miller fired at her twice, one ball making a flesh wound in the shoulder and another cutting away a part of her hair. Both women were arrested.

Value of Argentine Crops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The Bureau of American Republics has information indicating that the estimated value of Argentine crops this season will be $60,000,000, of which $30,000,000 will be available for export. The probable yield of wheat will be 900,000 tons, of which 390,000 will be available for export, and the yield of maize will be 1,000,000 tons, of which one-half can be sent abroad.

A Fraudulent Concern Assigns.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 24.—The Fraternity Financial Co-operation made an assignment to C. H. Edmunds, of Philadelphia. The victims numbered 14,000 and lived mostly in New England, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio. The gang of operators are believed to have obtained upwards of $300,000 from members before they were compelled to close up.

Two Killed by Lightning.

PETERSBURG, Va., Aug. 24.—James Wells, a well-known citizen of Nottaway County, and his son sought shelter in a barn during a thunderstorm yesterday afternoon. They had been there but a short time before lightning struck the barn and both were killed.

Good Outlook for Crops in Ireland.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The County Down, Ireland, which usually exports in considerable quantities to Great Britain, reports crops this season above the average, and the crop of flax the best in many years. The returns from various parts of England, on the other hand, are not favorable.

Two Illicit Distillers Killed.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—A special from Shubula, Miss., says that during a fight between a United States Marshal and his deputies and a gang of illicit distillers at Balden Springs, James and Bailey Sims, brothers, were killed and two of the officers wounded.

ENGAGED IN BATTLE

The Chilian Armies Fighting To-Day Near Valparaiso.

THE TELEGRAPH WIRES ARE CUT.

A Report That 3,000 Men Were Killed and Wounded Yesterday.

President Balmaceda Commanding His Troops—The Roar of Artillery Heard in Valparaiso—Women Volunteer as Nurses—The American Fleet Protecting the Property of Foreign Citizens.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via Galveston, Aug. 24.—President Balmaceda and the Junta de Gobierno are clinched in the final desperate struggle for the mastery of the Republic of Chili.

The chosen battle ground is in full view of the city of Valparaiso, and thousands of anxious eyes are watching from every point of vantage the battle which is to decide the fate of the country.

The battle has been raging practically for three days. The first engagement was at the mouth of the Aconcagua on Friday and resulted in a reverse to the government. The final test of strength is now being made at Vina del Mar beach, directly across Valparaiso Bay, and less than five miles away.

All day long yesterday the insurgent forces pushed their way steadily forward, driving the comparatively small government force before them. It was a constant skirmish for fifteen miles, over broken country. At every point of vantage the Balmacedists made a stand, and while they certainly were forced to give way before superior numbers they retarded the advance and gave the main army at Vina del Mar a chance to prepare itself for the decisive fight.

It was not until late in the evening the attacking party arrived in front of Balmaceda's main line of defence. It was then to late to give battle.

Balmaceda in Command.

In the meantime President Balmaceda, with every available man in this department, with himself in command, went to the front. He had over 13,000 available fighting men, while the insurgent forces had been reduced to lers than 7,000.

The most intense excitement prevails in this city. The roar of heavy artillery and the sharp rattle of small arms resound through the streets and are reechoed back from the high hills surrounding the city.

Everybody who is left here has sought some place overlooking the battle ground, and thousands of people are watching the desperate struggle which is being fought under their very eyes.

Bringing in the Wounded.

There is a constant stream of wounded being brought into the city from the front, and temporary hospitals are being fitted up wherever possible. Nearly all of the women who had not left the city have volunteered their services as nurses, and they and the full medical force of the city have their hands full.

From the wounded and their attendants only the most fragmentary information as to the progress of the fight can be obtained, and it is utterly impossible at this writing to form any judgment as to which side is getting the better of it.

A report has just reached here that 3,000 men were killed and wounded in yesterday's fight.

Admiral Brown, commanding the American fleet here, and the commanding officers of the other foreign naval forces have combined to protect the lives and property of the foreign citizens, and in case of an attack on the city.

CROWDS VISIT ALMY.

An Uncle of the Murderer Says He Is George Abbott.

HANOVER, N. H., Aug. 24.—A large number of acquaintances of George W. Abbott, alias Frank C. Almy, visited Hanover during the day to see the noted prisoner.

Since Almy's identity has been established there are some, of course, who claim that Almy is not Abbott. They say it is preposterous to suppose that a man with a reward hanging over his head would remain in the vicinity so long as Almy has, but on the other hand it is pointed out to these unbelievers that Almy pursued the same tactics after his crime that Abbott did. While officers were hunting all over the country for him he was in hiding within a short distance of where his crime was committed.

Further proof of his identity was furnished by E. E. Wilmott, of Olcott, Vt., a brother of Abbott's own mother. He visited the prisoner, and when questioned said: "I have not seen George Abbott since he was in Windsor prison, but the man on the cot upstairs is he."

The Kaiser Returns to Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The Kaiser has never been greeted with such enthusiasm on his return to Berlin as this time. The people who lined the streets sent up cheer after cheer, and the Kaiser showed himself deeply gratified with the evidence of loyalty. An impression prevails in Berlin that the Kaiser will take the side of Miquel in the dispute regarding the corn duties, and that relief will shortly follow the sovereign's return.

Made as Long as a Lead Pencil.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 24.—A babe born here last week weighs less than two pounds. When born it weighed one pound and two ounces. Its length is that of an ordinary lead pencil. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Warner, of Locust street. The child is in perfect health.

Gov. Campbell's Condition.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24.—Gov. Campbell's condition is unchanged to-day. He complains of extreme weakness. It has not yet been decided when he will go to the seashore, but it will be probably early this week.

BIG GRANT TO CAPITALISTS.

A Kansas Company Given 2,000,000 Acres of Land in Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The Bureau of American Republics has just been informed that the Nicaraguan government has signed a concession of 2,000,000 acres of land in the departments of Matagalpa and Segovia to a company of Kansas capitalists.

The consideration for this grant is that the capitalists shall colonize 3,000 families in the departments named and build a railroad from Monotombo, on the northwestern extremity of Lake Managua, to some point on the Rio Grande which empties into the Gulf of Mexico.

The company also agrees at any time after twenty years from the completion of the railroad to sell it to the government at the original cost price, assuming that it will take five years to build it. The Grande River is said to be navigable for 100 miles from the coast, but it will be necessary to dredge the bar at the mouth. The company has also been granted wharfage facilities at Corinto on the Pacific coast, and it will build a telegraph line.

The departments of Matagalpa and Segovia are regarded as the most fertile in Nicaragua, and there are already under cultivation 2,000,000 coffee plants, which will yield in about a year and a half. In a short time it is predicted that it will become the coffee centre of the republic. Many of the settlers are citizens of the United States, some of whom have been in the country twenty-five years.

The Switchmen's Strike Broken.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 24.—The backbone of the big switchmen's strike, which has utterly demoralized business in Peoria for a week, was broken yesterday. The Red express, due here from St. Louis at 3 o'clock, carried two extra cars with men who came here to take the strikers' places. They are all brawny, stalwart men, who have the appearance of fighters, and as the officials armed each one of them with a revolver and deputy sheriffs' powers the strikers did not molest them. At noon fourteen switch engines were moving, and the work of cleaning up the badly blocked yards will go on rapidly.

Grangers' Annual Exhibition.

CARLISLE, Pa., Aug. 24.—The annual exhibition of the Grangers opened for a week at Williams' Grove to-day. A large number of distinguished Grangers from all parts of the United States are already on the grounds. The meetings will be addressed by Gov. Pattison, the Hon. M. Mohler of Kansas, the Hon. Mortimer Whitehead of New Jersey and Master Grangers from New York, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia. Gen. Gobin, Gen. Hastings and Candidate Gregg will also be present. It is expected that 200,000 people will be present during the week.

On the Beach Without Food.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Aug. 24.—The Brainard party from New York had their steam yacht Cruiser driven ashore at Pictured Rock, fortunately striking Chapel Beach. A man got through the woods to Munising yesterday and reported the whole party, consisting of three ladies and four men, on the beach without food since the wreck. A heavy sea makes it impossible for boats to venture along that shore, and provisions have been sent by guides through the woods.

Salvationists Attacked.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Salvation Army continues its demonstrations at Eastborne, where the people have generally declared the army a common nuisance, and are determined to suppress it. Yesterday a mob of several thousand attacked the Salvationists as they marched through Eastborne, broke their drums, and attempted to storm the Salvation barracks. The police protected the army, and succeeded in dispersing the crowd.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Herbert Mapes, the Columbia College athlete, was drowned at Fire Island, N. Y., while his mother looked on.

It is intimated that the German government will be forced to purchase 1,000,000 tons of corn from the United States and India.

An outbreak at Grenada, Nicaragua, resulted in the killing of the chief of police and six other persons during a battle in the streets.

The steamship Auranis reports at Queenstown that she sighted the Elder on Friday with her machinery broken down, but she refused assistance.

Premier Rudini wants to get rid of the the Italians who have returned to Italy since the New Orleans massacre, and is making inquiries about Australia as a home for them.

The Navy Department has ordered the United States steamer Ranger out of commission. The Ranger will be placed in dock at the Mare Island Navy Yard and her boilers placed in her.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. has completed negotiations for the purchase of 65 acres of land in Cumberland, Md., for the erection of its mills, shops and freight yards. Within a few weeks ground will be broken, and when the improvements are completed the B. & O. will move its shops from Keyser Piedmont and Martinsburg to Cumberland.

THE DAILY PRESS.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Hot weather and dull trade do not go together at Peck's.

—James Emmons was fined $10 for drunkenness Saturday.

—John Hoagland, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $10 this morning.

—Patrick Donovan was intoxicated yesterday. It cost him $5 the this morning.

—Sebring, the clothier, is offering this week a large line of trouserings at special reduced prices.

—Peter Curry was sent to jail for 10 days, by Judge Codington, this morning, for stealing a ride on a coal train.

—Neuman Bros., grocers, Broadway and Fifth street, have a select line of peaches, bartlett pears and other choice fruits, for canning. Prices low.

—John Tier, jr., ran a long piece of fine wire from a screen door on North avenue into his hand Saturday evening. Dr. Hancock extracted it at Reynolds's pharmacy.

—G. J., P. J. McGuire will be present at the regular meeting of Local Union, No. 155, Carpenters and Joiners, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. All members are expected to be present.

—In the advertising columns of THE PRESS to-day a reward is offered for knowledge of the whereabouts of Ellen Brown and daughter, who left their home in this city June 17. Mrs. Brown's husband, a hard working man, is distracted over their absence.

—The committee having in charge the arrangements for the excursion to Atlantic City, between the latter part of this month and October 4, on the occasion of the Firemen's Tournament, promise a very low rate of fare for the event, and tickets are to be good for a week. A full announcement will soon be made.

—The First Baptist church was crowded yesterday morning with those eager to hear the Rev. Carter Helm Jones, who preached a powerful sermon from the text "I am the Life". A large number were present from Elizabeth and Westfield. This popular preacher will also occupy the same pulpit next Sabbath, Aug. 30, both morning and evening.

—New Jersey will begin to think it's Venice on a large scale, if the carnival craze keeps on spreading. Cranford has just got over the cold it caught a carnivaling, and Rahway is suffering from premonitory sneezes, while Bound Brook announces that she, too, contemplates an orgy with boats, Japanese lanterns and red fire. Carnival in New Jersey suburban towns means night, the river, thin clothing and doctors' bills.—New York World.

PARADE, BANQUET AND BALL.

New Jersey Volunteers to Have a Big Day Here This Week.

The reunion of the survivors of the 28th N. J. Vols., in this city, this week Thursday, will bring together about 200 of the veterans. In company with the local G. A. R. Posts and a band they will parade over the following route, starting from North avenue at 10:30 a. m.:

North avenue, to Park, to Front, to Somerset, to Emily, to Grove, to Liberty, to Fifth, to Central, to Seventh, to Park, to Crescent, to Broadway, to Front, to the rooms of Post No. 73, where a business meeting will be held. At 2 p. m. a dinner will be given in the Crescent rink. The Mayor and Council will there welcome the visitors. There will be singing by the Misses Manning and others, and speaking by officers of the regiment. John H. Tyrell, of Perth Amboy, President of the survivors' association, will be grand marshal of the day. A ball will be given in the evening.

Lesser Lights in Base-ball.

The Merits defeated the Cuban Giants Saturday afternoon by the score of 20 to 19. The battery for the Merits was Firstbrook, Mack and Scott; for the Cuban Giants, Coverly and Carter. Coverly, the star pitcher, pitched good ball until the eighth and ninth innings, when he got rattled and the Merits batted him all over the field. Umpire—Littell. Scorer—Martin.

The Unions of Grant avenue defeated the Richmonds Saturday afternoon by the score of 18 to 5. The battery for the Unions was Firstbrook, Littell and Wyckoff; for the Richmonds, Sheridan and Conway. Umpires—Finnegan and Kane. Scorer—Dennis Kilbride.

The Unions would like to play the Metropolitans and Little Blues and any other club whose members are under 17 years of age. Games may be arranged by addressing James Penny, captain, 12 Manson place, Plainfield, N. J.

On account of the Bound Brook baseball team not showing up, Saturday afternoon, the Juniors of the Bond Machine Tool Works were unable to play them. Instead they contested a very interesting game against the clerks of the company, defeating them by the score of 7 to 5. The feature of the game was that the clerks had to put three different pitchers in the box, and still the Juniors batted them all over the field. The Juniors would like to say through THE PRESS that the clerks are trying to take the name of the Juniors away from them and call themselves the Juniors. "But"—say the Juniors—"they can't do it, you know".

A SORE DEFEAT FOR HARKINS.

The Crescents All But Knock Him Out of the Box. Present Five Runs to Somerville, and Bat Out a Victory for Themselves.

The West Ends brought to Plainfield, Saturday, a team considerably strengthened by new players, but they went away badly beaten, nevertheless.

It was rare sport for the Plainfield crowd to see the redoubtable Harkins banged all over the field by the Crescent batsmen. Every man on the Plainfield team hit the ball safely at least once apiece during the game, and altogether made 18 hits, for a total of 25 bases. Such wholesale slaughter of Harkins's pitching was never before seen in Plainfield, but it showed what the Crescents can do with the stick if they only step to the plate with confidence in themselves and bereft of the old idea that Harkins is a bugaboo against whom they can avail nothing.

It cannot be said that Harkins did not try to win. He would prefer any other disgrace to that of having his pitching knocked to pieces in the presence of such a big crowd of Plainfielders, Somervillians and New Brunswickers as was present at Saturday's game, and he tried all his arts to befool the Crescent batsmen. But it made no difference how he curved and twisted the ball, or with what speed he hurled it in: the batter almost invariably found it, and usually banged it away out to the most distant side of the lot. In this way the Crescents batted out 6 earned runs, and with the assistance of bases on balls, errors, passed balls, and similar misplays, made 7 more, or a total of 13.

Perfect playing by the Crescents would have shut out the West Ends without a single run. The 5 that they are credited with were every one presented to them by combinations of errors, bases on balls, a wild pitch, and passed balls. When the Crescents make errors, they are usually of the most wretched and costly kind. In the third inning, Saturday, they made four, and Hammill gave two men their base on balls. It did look as though the Crescents were going all to pieces. Lufbery made a stupid and utterly unpardonable fumble of an easy ball that Roberts batted, Holly and Lee seemed to have hands of putty, and Jones made his old admirers gnash their teeth and kick holes through the grand stand by getting under a nice pop-up fly and then deliberately sticking out one paw and missing it. "Here's where we go all to pieces"—Plainfield groaned inwardly. But after that inning the errors were few, and the bases on balls less numerous, so that only 1 more run was scored by the visitors, making 5 in all.

The score:

SCORE BY INNINGS.

Plainfield	4	0	0	0	5	2	0	1	0	—12
Base hits	4	0	0	1	6	4	1	2	0

Earned runs—Crescents, 6; West Ends, 0. Two-base hits—McIndoe, Hammill, Jones. Three-base hits—McIndoe, Bonner. Base on balls—Crescents, 3; West Ends, 6. First base on hit by ball—Crescents, 1; West Ends, 2. First base on errors—Crescents, 3; West Ends, 5. Flies caught—By Crescents, 6; by West Ends, 8. Foul flies caught—By Crescents, 3; by West Ends, 2. Double play—Keeler, to Holly. Passed balls—Bonner, 3; Fritz, 2. Wild pitch—Hammill. Umpires—Berriman and Faas. Time of game—2:10.

Hammill deserves some credit—but not too much. He kept the Plainfielders on pins and needles all through the game, for from the erratic way he was pitching—now splendidly, then miserably—they expected every minute to see the life hammered out of his curves. It was a great relief when the game was over, for the nervous strain of watching and fearing over Hammill's work was very great. Though he held the West Ends down to 3 hits, he gave 6 their base on balls, and there was nothing certain about him.

It did the people's hearts good to see John Harkins, the pride of Harkinstown, humbled, and the Somerville crowd were very low-spirited and disheartened. They tried one cheer when Ridley made a hit, but it was so weak and faint that they never tried again.

All through the game, however, the West End players kept yelling coarse jests across the diamond and at the spectators, and sought to "rattle" the Crescents by blackguardism and ruffianly conduct. The rowdyism was worthy of the fellows who started it, and to any other team would have been a discredit. A nine which can be guilty of such rank discourtesy, such gross violation of both base-ball etiquette and common manners, deserves to be given such a drubbing as they got last Saturday every time they play.

Ever since Plainfield put Keeler at shortstop, Somerville has been comparing his work with that of Moorehead's, greatly to Moorehead's advantage. Let them sneer at Keeler no more. In Saturday's game he proved himself capable of work far superior to that of Somerville's flippant-tongued dancer, and his superb plays brought forth great plaudits from the people. Tierney again showed himself to be a most valuable acquisition. McIndoe made a brilliant running catch, and Lee made a beautiful one-hand stop of a whizzing grounder. Jones tried to get to another base on a caught fly when he thought the umpire was n't looking, and was put out, as he deserved to be. Such methods may do for Somerville, but they are not wanted here.

Taking the game as a whole, it was not by any means the finest exhibition of ball playing ever seen here, but it was a highly interesting contest, and in some respects a great one. Let the Crescents keep up such terrific batting, and make fewer errors in the field, and they need never fear defeat from any club in the State.

THE "BI." BOYS STILL WINNING.

They Bat Out Seven Earned Runs in the Ninth Inning and Defeat the Bergen Points.

The base-ball team of the Plainfield Bicycle Club played their return game with the Bayonne Outing Team, Saturday afternoon, at Bergen Point. The Bicycle Club team played an almost errorless game, and batted the difficult curves of McFarlan, of the West Ends of Somerville, hard all through, scoring nine earned runs.

Burt proved too much for Bayonne's hard hitters, holding them down to five scattered hits, and striking them out twelve times.

Walker, although playing short, was all over the field, making four put outs and three assists, without an error.

The team work of the Bicycle Club was the best they have shown this season, and they are still hitting hard.

The "Bicycle" boys went to the bat in the ninth inning with the score 7 to 6 against them. They took a brace and batted out 7 earned runs and won the game by the score of 13 to 7.

Bayonne is to play here September 19.

Belgian Block Pavement for North Avenue.

Through the efforts of street commissioner Meeker the city has been presented by the railway company with Belgian paving blocks sufficient to lay a solid stone pavement on North avenue in front of the station where the hacks stand. The city is excavating the roadway and making ready to receive the blocks. Last night's rain filled up the excavation and made a lake which had to be pumped out.

They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

How Harkins and Hammill Pitched.

Here is an analysis of the pitching in Saturday's game:

Harkins pitched a total of 139 balls. Of these 39 were hit fair, 18 of them safely; 41 were called balls; 28 were called strikes; 30 were hit foul; and 1 one hit the batsman.

Hammill pitched a total of 142 balls. Of these 25 were hit fair, 3 of them safely; 55 were called balls; 34 were called strikes; 26 were hit foul; and 2 hit the batsman.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 19, 1891.

J. B. COWARD, City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to License Inns and Taverns and to regulate and prohibite the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors". Approved February 22, 1858. Readopted March 8, 1858, not withstanding the objections of the mayor. Amended by ordinance approved June 3, 1879, May 7, 1881, December 19, 1882, January 30, 1883, Nov. mber 10, 1884, December 31, 1887, February 7. And two ordinances approved February 5, 1891.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That no person licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment, shall suffer or permit in his or her bar room, or room in which spirituous or fermented liquors are customarily sold, or in any room in the same building wherein spirituous or fermented liquors are dispensed or drunk, any musical performance of any kind, vocal or instrumental or both, or any mechanical music, or any acting, dancing, juggling, sleight of hand, boxing, wrestling or any similar performance, show or exhibition.

Section 2. Every person licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment, to sell spirituous or fermented liquors shall so arrange the doors, windows and partitions of the bar, or bar room or saloon, that a full and unobstructed view of the interior thereof, including the bar, may be had from the street through the doors or windows or both, between the hours of 12 p. m. each and every Saturday and 6 a m. the following Monday. And no window, blind, screen, partition, curtain or other article shall be left or placed so as to prevent between the hours named the full and unobstructed view from the street of the interior of any saloon or bar room licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment.

Section 3. No person licensed under the ordinance to which this is an amendment, shall at any time sell or dispense spirituous or fermented liquors from any bar that cannot, between the hours named in Section 2, be plainly seen from the street.

Section 4. A violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding sixty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

(Fees—$6.30.)

A JERSEYMAN AT CORONADO.

While the East Is Scorched, This Plainfield Man Is Cool With the Thermometer at 76—Fishing by Electric Light—The Coast Defences and the New Military Post—A Second Fortress Monroe in Prospect—The Grand Army Encampment on North Island—The New Iron and Steel Plant—Work on the Peninsular Railway Begun—A Renewal of Activity in Real Estate Transactions, But No "Boom"—A Healthy Growth—A Brilliant Season for the Hotel Del Coronado Looked Forward To.

HOTEL DEL CORONADO,
CORONADO BEACH, CAL., Aug. 15, 1891.

I am convinced that Coronado is destined to become as famous for its summer climate as for the delicious mildness which is the charm of the winter months in the San Diego Bay region. It seems to me that the time can not be far distant when such climatic contrasts as that of which we have recently been given an example shall become widely known throughout the East, and a potent factor in the selection of a spot in which to spend the summer by that great army of eastern pleasure-seekers which now goes either to the mountains of New York, New Hampshire, or Vermont, or to the seashore at Newport, Long Branch, Bar Barbor, or Narragansett.

It is probably true that the resorts of the East will continue to be the summer homes for those who are either too incredulous to believe that there is any coolness in a Southern Californian summer, or whose business or innate abhorrence of anything resembling effort prevents them from making an experiment which, once made, would be very likely to be repeated; but I think that within a comparatively few years Coronado will have become the summer abode of many "easterners" who, from a casual visit during the summer or the testimony of friends who spend the entire year here, may have obtained something like en accurate knowledge of Coronando's wonderful climate—a climate which Mr. Warner may well doubt if it have its equal elsewhere in the world. This reminds me that Mr. Warner has another "good word" for Coronado in Harper's for August. The people here are hoping that he will prove the truth of the newspapers' assertion that it is his intention to spend his winters in Southern California—the land which he has done so much to make known.

Last week, when the mercury throughout the East was bounding skyward—when to breathe the stifling air of New York's sun-baked streets was the next thing to suffocation, and when the thermometer at not a few of the eastern resorts and even at dear old Plainfield recorded a temperature of from 83 to 93 degrees—we sat on the veranda of the Hotel del Coronado "as cool as cucumbers", in the salty sea-breezes which, regularly each morning, just before sunrise, begin to blow from off the ocean, which stretches out its great greenish-blue expanse before me until sky and water become one in the dim, uncertain line of the horizon against which, in the west, I can discern at this moment the vague outline of a sail, while afar to the southward there begins to float above the waters a thin, grayish cloud, which we know is smoke from the little steamer which plies between San Diego and Ensenada, that quaint little Spanish town forty or fifty miles below the border and which just at this time seems intent upon cornering the breadstuff markets of the world. I went down to Ensenada with Charles Nordhoff, once upon a time, and about the first thing which struck me as remarkable was that every male inhabitant seemed to be a "government official", and that about the sole business of the community was to shake hands. I do not think I ever saw quite so much hand-shaking in so short a time. Although I spoke not a word of Spanish and not one of the inhabitants addressed a word to me, I felt that I was in a land of friendliness. This climate must make men genial, I think.

But, to return to Coronado: A few of us sat about the veranda, reading the telegraphic reports of the "hot wave" in the East, or half dozing in the arms of the seductive zephyrs which rustled our newspapers, when one of the young women of the party remarked:

"I think father will wish that he had stayed here. I see the record for New York was uncomfortably near 100 in the shade—and no breeze! Think of it! I tried to persuade the other members of our party to spend this month here, but father was so full of business and mother thought she must be back for a fortnight at Saratoga before the close of the season, so my argument that it were better to be comfortable than rich or fashionable, was unavailing. I have just copied yesterday's record of the thermometer here on the plaza and I am going to send it to mother."

"What are the figures?"—asked the young man opposite—an extremely sailor-like youth in a white flannel suit, who seems never to lose an opportunity to say something to this fair-faced daughter of the Empire State.

"68 at 5 a. m.; 75 at noon; with a maximum for the day of 76, which point was reached early in the afternoon."

"Rather a striking contrast to the record in New York"—sagely replied the young man.

"Well, a slight one, I think. It must have been unendurably hot at the Grand Union garden party, but"—

"You would have liked to be there"—I interrupted.

"Yes: if I could have been spirited back to Coronado after it was all over"—was the response. Turning to one of the other young women of our quiet little coterie, she said:

"What do you say to an hour's fishing from the pier?"

There was no more lounging about the veranda. What this young woman says generally "goes". In fifteen minutes from the time the suggestion had been made, four persons, two young men and two young women, were sitting on the farthest end of the pier, intently feeling for nibbles. I presume the idea of fishing from the pier had been suggested by the catching of the big jew-fish in the bay a morning or so ago. However that may be, our morning on the pier was attended by such excellent results that the ladies have decided that a "day among the barracuda" must be an amusement of the near future.

The barracuda has been called the blue-fish of the Pacific, and is one of the gamiest fish afloat. Having had some experience with him, I am prone to think that my fair vis a vis of the iron pier will find the less muscular mackerel which disport themselves about the pier, much more docile than the huge barracuda which disdain to linger in the shallow waters in the society of such weaklings as the mackerel and his companions.

Writing of fishing reminds me of the experiment which is soon to be made, and in which my Plainfield fellow-disciples of Isaak Walton will be interested, of enticing his finship by means of an electric light let down into the water. This fishing, or netting, rather, is to be done at night, of course, and from a small yacht or sloop. The theory is that his barracudan majesty is not devoid of interest in terrestrial inventions and that he will not be averse to a somewhat close inspection of the glowing glass bulb which he will soon discover illuminating the hitherto dark caverns of his kingdom. While thus engaged and followed by a court as curious as himself he will suddenly find that he is rapidly rising to the surface. His immediate followers will find themselves in the same predicament, and in spite of their efforts to escape, they will soon be laid, with their leader, high and dry (?) upon the deck of the sloop. I can not hope that such ambush methods may prove successful, for the barracuda is entirely too brave a fish to be entrapped in this way.

The capture of fish suggests the preparations which it is believed soon will begin here, for the capture of the ships of any thoughtless foreign country which may hang about the harbor with an idea of capturing Coronado. There seems to be little doubt in the minds of those who are best informed on the subject that the government will, at a day not very far in the future, begin the construction of a series of fortifications in the San Diego Bay region, which shall render impossible a repetition of the Itata affair. Both Generals McCook and Schofield are said to be in favor of strongly fortifying the approaches to the harbor—the only harbor of any account south of San Francisco; and that their views will be the views of Congress, no one with a knowledge of the strategic importance of San Diego can doubt. Apropos of those prospective coast defences, the San Diego Sun says:

"The news conveyed by the Sun to-day, regarding the plans of the government for the defence of this harbor, is a cheerful piece of intelligence. Instead of one, and of the most, two batteries, we are to have two forts, a water battery and a nest of mortars. Subsidiary to these will be a torpedo system and a military post, the whole serving to give San Diego an impregnable front to all hostile approaches by sea. The fort on Point Loma alone, according to the view expressed by General Schofield some weeks age, could be made into a Gibraltar. Given a series of supplementary batteries along shore, another fort for cross firing, at Coronado Heights, and a torpedo station; and San Diego, without relying at all upon the help of iron-clads, could stand off any fleet that a foreign power could put on these waters."

The site for the military post has not yet been decided on, but it is thought that the government will select North Island, on Coronado Beach, which would seem to be the best location. Already the establishment of the post is immediately looked forward to by those young women for whom brass buttons and epaulets possess singular attractions—mysterious to him whose civic charms seem to fade away like mist before a rising sun whenever one of Uncle Sam's natty officers appears on the scene.

"Why, sir,"—exclaimed a pretty debutante from San Francisco the other evening, as we were walking along the corridors during the concert—"do you know that we shall be a second Fortress Monroe when we get the military post? Think of it! The corridors, the verandas, and the great ball room glittering with brass! The days of you poor civilians are passing rapidly—the end is not far off. We will try to endure you until the post is built, but afterwards,—we shall make no promises!" There is something queer about this magnetism of the "military". A man may be as ugly as a whole row of scare-crows, but if he wear a blue coat with brass buttons and a pair of trousers to match, and happen to draw pay from the government for consenting to wear a dress parade costume of this description; his pathway to feminine favor is lined with roses on both sides. Sometimes I wish I were a corporal or a captain—but more times I don't. If I must fight for a young woman's smiles, I would rather have her frowns. This may not be an heroic state of mind, but it is the way I feel just now.

To-day the vanguard of the G. A. R. encampment is arriving, and by to-morrow or next day Coronado will have an aspect decidedly martial, and the bugle will be heard often and long in the land—a sort of prelude, perhaps, to the "music of the future" on North Island. Already tents are beginning to dot the island, and as I write the big G. A. R. pavilion tent, one hundred by sixty feet, is laboriously towering upward. Each incoming train brings its quota from the Grand Old Ranks", as some one interpreted the G. A. R. at the ferry this morning. I wish I could recognize some of the familar faces of the boys from Jersey's "crescent city", but none of them has yet made the long journey.

The old soldiers are coming to Coronado to pitch their tents on peaceful fields—to bivouac not at Petersburgh or before Richmond, but upon the murmuring beaches of North Island. I wonder if, when the sun sinks beneath its fiery trenches, and the breakers boom along the shore to the southward, there will come to these old soldiers, as they sit before their tents—visions of those terrible days whose suns went down upon a sea of blood.

The $200,000 subsidy for the iron and steel plant has been raised, and as soon as Dr. Eames can select a suitable site the work of construction will begin. The plant which Dr. Eames is to build has attracted other iron and steel workers to San Diego. A short time ago, President Stone, of the Chamber of Commerce, entered into correspondence with Mr. Abiam Reese, of Pittsburgh, who had made inquiries as to the advantages San Diego had to offer for the establishment of a steel plant and rail mill, and it is now probable that Mr. Reese will visit San Diego for the purpose of looking over the ground.

Dr. Eames's plant, the building of the peninsular railway, and the prospective work by the Government, have imparted a much better feeling to the real estate market, the transactions thus far reported being far in excess of those for a like period for years. The various irrigation projects now on foot likewise tend to impart a firmer tone to values. The impression is general that the coming fall and winter are to witness an industrial activity such as the San Diego Bay region has never known—a healthy growth beside which the "boom" of 1887 shall appear like a ghastly fever.

San Diego is nothing if not hopeful, but she has now good ground to look forward to a near future of more than ordinary prosperity, and when the great canal shall have connected the two oceans, this city in "our Italy" will become the distributing point for the immense transcontinental traffic which will be the result of the completion of this vast undertaking.

This is the largest resort hotel in the world, but it seems that I have almost lost sight of it in writing of those things which are now uppermost in people's minds here. I may say, however, that the indications are that this hotel, as big as it is, will be full to overflowing next winter. In conversation with one of the officers a few mornings ago, I was told that if one-third of the people come who have written that they intend to come, the house will be full by the first of February. I myself do not see how it will be possible to tear myself away from its charms, and the coming winter will doubtless find me still here enjoying the serenity and delights of life in this blissful region. I hope to see some familiar faces of Plainfield friends here before next spring.

POISON IN THE WELL.

The Irrepressible Pfeiffer Does a State Prison Job This Time.

John Pfeiffer of Westfield was taken to the county jail at Elizabeth yesterday charged with attempting to poison the family of Lawrence Clark, a Westfield farmer, because Clark had him arrested some weeks ago for stealing $2 worth of blackberries from Clark's farm. After spending a few days in the county jail, Pfeiffer pleaded guilty to the theft and was let off with a sentence of one day's additional imprisonment. He swore, however, to be revenged. Saturday night he threw poison into the well, and then took to the woods. Sunday morning the cattle drank some of the water, and became sick. The well was examined, and an alarm was raised. Constable Marsh gathered a number of citizens and started in search of Pfeiffer, who had been seen making for the woods. He was found in a hollow tree, and was taken to the village, where some of the angry inhabitants wanted to inflict summary justice. Pfeiffer was committed to the county jail.

Pfeiffer has an unsavory reputation. A year ago he stole the halyards of State Senator Miller's new flagstaff after being hired for a day by the Senator to place them in position. He sold the rope and when arrested said he stole in order to get another job rigging new halyards.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyen question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

The Chief Won the Bottle.

Some time ago councilman Spangenberg wagered chief engineer Doane a bottle of wine that the first time a fire alarm was sent in from box 28, at Netherwood, the department would occupy at least 10 minutes in responding. The opportunity for a test occurred at 9 o'clock Saturday evening, when a bright blaze seen from the hotel grounds resulted in an alarm being sounded. The engines were on hand in just 6 minutes. They were not needed, however, for the fire was nothing but the burning of a big heap of straw and other rubbish piled up in a field beyond Leland avenue.

The Storm in the Rural Districts.

The storm of last night was very severe among the farming districts in this vicinity, especially through Washington Valley and the hills beyond. The wind that accompanied the storm at one time blew a hurricane, and in many places blew bushels of the ripening peaches from the heavily laden trees and leveled the tall growing corn just as it is earing out, which will be quite a loss.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

The Last Chance.

The seats for the parlor car of Trinity Commandery, who accompany Damascus Commandery, No. 5, on their pilgrimage to Atlantic City, Thursday, Aug. 27, are nearly all taken. Those who do not want to get left should secure their tickets at once. They may be had of William H. Sebring or Asa Collier, or at Joseph G. Miller's drug store.

"Drink, pretty creature, drink!" Drink Root Beer made from Knapp's Root Beer Extract. Five minutes makes it.

Seventeen Baptists Braved a Wetting.

The terrific and long continued thunder storm which visited this city last night effectually closed the churches for the evening. So far as reported, only the First Baptist church had any meeting, and that was attended by only 17 people.

Grain Damaged by Storms.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 24.—Dispatches from several points in Missouri indicate that the storm which did such damage at Atchison, Kas., and Kansas City, Mo., played havoc with the grain in stacks and standing corn, as well as doing immense damage to houses, barns and outhouses. At Steelville the rain fell in sheets and the streets were submerged in places deep enough to swim a horse. Not a bridge remains standing.

Labor Delegates Leaving Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 24.—Most of the Brussels Labor Congress delegates have left for home, many Americans and English expressing themselves much dissatisfied with the selection of the 1st of May for the eight hour agitation. The next congress is to be held at Berne. Chicago was objectionable to many for obvious reasons.

Death of a Clergyman.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Rev. John Patrick Byrne, pastor of St. Joachim Roman Catholic Church, Frankford, Philadelphia, died last night of heart failure. Father Byrne was born in Ireland in 1846.

When you have that tired feeling of exhaustion, and you have little ambition, your blood is thin and poor. There is nothing that will enrich your blood, bring back life and activity, like Hires's Root Beer. Nothing so nutritious and strengthening. Ask your druggist or grocer for a package. Makes five gallons, sparkling and delicious. Sold everywhere.

SKIRMISH FOR POSITION

The Coming Political Canvass in New York State.

Beer May be an Issue — The Stocking Show — Young Hearst's Yacht — Thomas B. Clarke's Enterprise— Soda Water and Whiskey.

The campaign in New York this fall is a skirmish for position. The Presidential campaign of 1892 may likely be settled in that State, and neither party will leave any effort untried to elect a Governor. In any case, the struggle is one of considerably more than local importance, for upon the result and upon the degree of wisdom or unwisdom the successful party may show at Albany much will certainly depend.

R. P. Flower is the leading Democrat. Governor Hill himself is said by some to desire a renomination, yielding the Senatorship to some one whom he can trust, but that is only matter of speculation. Whatever Gov. Hill's will may prove to be, it will be carried out. There was a time, at the beginning of the Legislative session a year or so ago, when it seemed as if the Democratic party had taken the bit in its teeth, the Senators in particular, rejecting his advice in selecting a caucus nominee for President pro tem. But the session's warfare had not far proceeded when the rebels were glad to seek and follow again the advice of the shrewd man in the Executive mansion. At present he is supreme in his party's councils.

Brooklyn furnishes a possible candidate for either party. Mayor Chapin, with the prestige of a good record of successes behind him, keen, cool, ambitious, master of the wisdom of silence, wants the nomination. Of his success there seems very little possibility, but politics is an uncertain game.

A more interesting personality is that of Frederick A. Schroeder of the same city, prominently mentioned on the Republican side. Schroeder is a bluff and kindly old gentleman, with a white mustache and goatee, and a frank and cordial bearing. He has been Mayor of Brooklyn and has represented the city at Albany. Probably no one could poll a larger vote for his party than he in the city where he is best known.

It will be funny if Schroeder is nominated. In the disastrous campaign when Warner Miller fell outside the breastworks Mr. Schroeder openly criticized the Republican high license platform. He believes in beer. For that very reason many regard him as the strongest candidate possible, while others assert that he would not do at all.

But Mr. Platt has said that Schroeder would be a strong candidate. This may, and may not, mean something.

For my part, I expect to congratulate the beaten party, if it is not too badly beaten. Success this year will make those upon whom it smiles over-confident in 1892. Besides the initiative of action will be thrust upon them, the responsibility of mistakes, the certainty of displeasing many; while the beaten ones will hustle all the better next year for the beating.

Soda Water and Whiskey.

In every big newspaper building in New York where any spare room is available for rental on the ground floor is a soda water fountain. At each of these two or three or four white jacketed young men are kept remarkably busy drawing "sweetened wind" all day and half the night. In each case the fountain has an insignificant drug store annex, but it's the soda water that pays the bulk of the thousands and thousands of dollars rent. The newspaper buildings are not exceptional. The whole town and almost exclusively masculine district is full of soda shops.

A liquor saloon was started not long ago in one of the newspaper buildings and its projector could not make it pay.

Isn't there something suggestive about these facts? The truth is, the hard drinking habits of a generation ago are being considerably modified for the better. There may be no more total abstainers, possibly not so many in proportion, and statutory prohibition hasn't yet throttled the "demon rum" to any great extent, but drinking to excess is certainly on the decrease. You can't argue that it isn't from the still ghastly number of saloons on nearly every block. It's a sight disheartening enough at best, but a great deal more beer than whisky is sold in them. No saloons are now without a full assortment of bottled mineral waters for those who "aren't taking anything stronger to-day, thank you." Perhaps the wisdom of swallowing so much ice-cold liquid may be doubted, but at least it don't make a man drunk.

In New York, where the liquor dealers are at present in open revolt against the continued exactions of Tammany Hall and their organ, the "Wine and Spirits Gazette," breathes out fire and slaughtering, the number of saloons is by no means increasing as rapidly as the population. Yet high license and other measures to restrict the number never looked more remote.

There are plenty of flies in the ointment yet, but a worse state of affairs might easily be imagined—or remembered.

The Great Stocking Show.

All the men who go to the races nowadays—I haven't been and speak from hearsay—are enthusiastic. About the horses? No; no more than usual, but about the women's stockings, which are a whole show by themselves.

It is getting to be as much the thing now for women to wear stunning costumes at the track as it is at the Ascot or the Grand Prix. Only there is this difference: The respectable element of femininity hasn't quite adopted racing as in England or France. The soiled sisters do not quite have things their own way, but nearly so. Hence the dressing loud, particularly the stockings.

One wouldn't suppose, in this season of long dresses, that stockings would be visible, but my informant assures me that when one leg is carelessly crossed, man fashion, above the other, a considerable length is revealed between the dainty low slipper and the skirt's discreet hem. The slipper itself is often embroidered. The stockings are in any shade that fancy may suggest, embroidered with the most gorgeous flowers. A common design may be—so it has been described to me; I haven't been there to see and wouldn't so take an ungentlemanly advantage of a lady's inadvertance as to look if I were—a vine running up to the ankle, branching out above where there is more room and bearing gorgeous flowers, roses red and lilies yellow and other things. Seems to me that stockings are the last place to lavish ornamentation.

Tobacco Must Go.

Whenever I hear a nice looking young woman avowing herself a smoker of cigarettes or possibly cigars, I remember how I once happened to pass through a farm kitchen away in the back woods late at night after the family had gone to bed and to be startled by the pungent odor of tobacco, and by a figure at the stove that rustled and retreated at my approach. It was the wife and mother of the household, an old woman with neat dress and tidy gray hair, who had stolen there for the secret solace of a pipe. It would be hard to say whether she or I was the most embarrassed at my discovery of the habit she wished to remain hidden.

In that section of the country a considerable number of elderly women smoked their clay or corncob pipes; but not a single young woman or girl. It was a practice long ago considered unladylike. Now it seems as if the practice were in danger of revival by young women and girls, not in the backwoods, but in New York, and even in Boston, where I have come to know of a public school teacher who smokes big black cigars. That makes two of my personal acquaintances—both nice young women and one rather priggish even—who have got to cigars, while several are still in the cigarette stage. A cigar dealer names a certain brand the "beau sexe" to catch women's patronage. It is queer that this should happen just at the time when so many young men are giving up the habit because it is inconsistent with athletic feats. On the whole, in spite of the perverse young women, the outlook is very favorable for the abandonment of the tobacco habit.

Too optimistic? Not a bit of it. Who takes snuff now? Fifty years ago nearly every one did. Don't you keep your grandmother's mother's snuff box as a sacred relic? Fifty years ago three men chewed tobacco where one does now. Why cannot smoking, too, be banished, if athleticism and æstheticism, with moral and sanitary agencies of one sort and another, join hands against it? Tobacco hasn't for 100 years had so weak a hold as now.

Anyhow if men think it right to smoke and chew tobacco, why shouldn't women? I hope they won't, but is there any valid distinction?

Thomas B. Clarke's Venture.

Why in the world should anyone find, or affect to find, anything undignified or out of the way in Thomas B. Clarke's reported determination to enter into business as a picture dealer? Have we snobs in the country? Is there any difference between buying pictures for a "sale," as Seney has twice done, and dealing in them directly?

Mr. Clarke has been hitherto only a buyer for his own galleries. He has spent thousands of dollars for good pictures—good American pictures. He has done more with his comparatively modest fortune to encourage native art than Seney, Vanderbilt, Hilton and all the rest of them, who want nothing that does not cost thousands for the French name in the corner. Clarke has bought pictures, not names; if he continues the practice as a dealer and so encourages American talent, artists will be profoundly grateful and no one will have cause to grumble except the dealers who make big commissions on foreign pictures.

More power to the elbow of him who will give the American painters the material encouragement which alone they need. The best of them paint as well as the Frenchmen. Benjamin-Constant found that to be true in Inness' case, and there are others as good as Inness.

The Increase of Yachting.

I have been forcibly reminded this summer of the growth of the holiday spirit in busy New York by the enormous increase in the number of yachts. They fairly swarm about the harbor and rivers on pleasant days. Little and big, every one of them represents a deal of fresh air to the owners and an impetus to domestic shipbuilding industry. The increase is most rapid in steam and naphtha launches and yachts. The wonderful speed which has been developed by young Hearst's Herreshoff boat has set everybody marveling. Thirty miles an hour is a speed that makes one giddy to watch. If a poor newspaper cuss like Hearst can't have a floating palace like Jay Gould's Atalanta, W. K. Vanderbilt's Alva or Bennet's Namouna, he can at least beat them in speed. More than that, he could go round and round the City of Paris or the Majestic going at full speed.

It is pretty safe to look for a still further growth of the yachting habit, which can be gratified at an initial expense of from $300 up and which beats horse racing for the exhilaration of speed.

The Motor of the Future.

It would seem that few people in New York have much faith in electricity furnishing the surface motive power of the future, upon crowded streets, at least. Broadway and Third avenue are both in a terrible state of all-torn-upness, owing to the laying of the cable tubes, and traffic, always difficult, has become almost impossible.

The man who invents a cheap and practical storage battery system of electrical motive power will be a benefactor to his kind. OWEN LANGDON.

Learning is only so far valuable as it serves to enlarge and enlighten the bounds of conscience.

Contempt is the proper punishment of affectation.

SON. "Mother, do you never weary with all your correspondence?"
LYDIA PINKHAM. "No, my son, these letters of confidence bring to me the joy that a mother feels, whose daughter throws her arms around her neck and cries, 'Oh, mother, help me!' The women of the world are my daughters, dear."
SON. "Yes, mother, and they love you."

Lydia Pinkham's private letters from ladies in all parts of the world average one hundred per day, and truly has she been a mother to the race. Suffering women ever seek her in their extremity, and find both a helper and a friend. Correspondents will receive prompt and conscientious answers, and the sympathy of a mother.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

Small Boy—You're in love with my sister, aren't you?

Sappy—How do you know that?

Small Boy—Because you're always sending her presents, just like Mr. Brown, who's going to marry her.—Munsey's Weekly.

Wouldn't Improve Things.

Mrs. Jumpuppe—He has stayed out so late that I have a notion to fix an electric current to the keyhole so as to give him a shock when he comes.

Bridget—That won't be no use, mum! He won't be able to find the keyhole.—Jury.

Only Three.

Friend—The gossips have formulated a regular indictment against your character. They say you were a terrible flirt while abroad. Do you plead guilty?

American Girl—Y-e-s; to three counts.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Noble Woman.

First Woman's Rights Advocate—Has Mrs. Armstrong ever done anything to distinguish herself?

Second Ditto—Certainly she has. Didn't you know she was once arrested for beating her husband?—Munsey's Weekly.

Discouraging Genius.

"I put my new farce on the Jersey opera house the other night. The audience fairly shook."

"Yes. The malaria's pretty bad down there these summer days."—Munsey's Weekly.

Back from Washington.

Smith—Well, did you persuade the president to give you the appointment you expected?

Orpheus C. Kerr—No; the only one I got was a disappointment.—Munsey's Weekly.

When the Real Strain Comes.

Miss Flutterby—Your life on the sea must be full of care and hard work?

Capt. Quarterdeck, U. S. N.—On the sea, no. But when we come into port there are our social obligations!—Puck.

He Knew It.

Mr. Wobbash—So this is planked shad, is it?

Waiter—Yes, sir.

Mr. Wobbash—I knew it. I could tell it from the splinters.—Judge.

Why Not?

"What a social lion everybody makes of Col. Finbury!"

"Yes; and what a perfect social lioness Mrs. Finbury is!"—Puck.

NEW YORK'S HORROR

The Park Place Ruins Giving Up Their Dead.

NEARLY 50 BODIES RECOVERED.

The Total Loss of Life Now Estimated at 120.

Anxious Relatives Watch the Men at Work—Crowds at the Morgue at All Hours—Pushing the Work of Digging Out the Dead—Fearful Smell from the Decomposing Bodies.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Another weary day's search of the ruins has brought forth its ghastly results. It was a sickening task to the men engaged in it, a mournful vigil for those who looked on and saw the slow procession of workmen from time to time carry out a mangled burden that sometimes had the faintest resemblance to the outline of a human being. But worse than all, it was a fearful suspense for the afflicted relatives of the missing ones, who watched and waited near the ruins, eagerly scanning each misshapen corpse, fearing lest it silently told the tale they had along dreaded to hear.

The awful heartrending scream of agony that pierced the air when the mangled body of Maggie Quinn was recognized by her sister made everybody tremble. The agony of a father and the grief of a mother as the body of a loved one was carried from the reeking ruins moved the spectators to tears. Policemen and firemen, who are used to harrowing scenes, were deeply affected, and no word of hope, of cheer, could be said.

A Fearful Stench from the Ruins.

The worst part of the tragedy is yet to come, as evidenced by the fearful stench which indicates unknown horrors and an almost inestimable number of bodies buried underneath the weight of rubbish and machinery.

This morning a terrible stench came from that part of the ruins occupied by the restaurant. It is probable that this spot will add a fearful tale even to the present estimate of the horror.

James Mitchell, a lawyer, detected an Italian workman, giving his name as Joseph Lusson, in the act of rifling the pockets of a victim of the disaster. He was at once locked up, but not a minute too soon to escape the vengeance of the angry citizens who were in the vicinity. The coroner was given possession of the stolen articles.

SCENES AT THE MORGUE.

A Repetition of the Horrors of the Past Three Days.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Within the walls of the morgue, which sheltered the poor mangled and disfigured bodies of the victims of the Park place disaster, the scene to-day was but a repetition of the horrors of the days before, augmented and made more terrible as time went on, which naturally tended to make the condition of the bodies more revolting than ever.

If ever woe and horror ran amuck, hand in hand, it was at the morgue to-day.

The odor was indescribable. Strong men who faced that row of pine coffins with their contents of burned and distorted humanity for several minutes were often obliged to stagger away weak from an overpowering sense of nausea.

Death and such scenes were not intended for the tender eyes of women, yet many a mother, wife, daughter and sister endured the unspeakable horror of the morgue in their search for loved ones believed to have been swallowed up in the ruin.

Many of these women trembled and sobbed hysterically during the awful ordeal. Others would take one glance as the coffins were uncovered, and then, with a pitiful gasp, they would turn away with white faces and fall fainting into the arms of a morgue attendant.

May Be Indictments.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Acting District Attorney Bedford assigned Assistant District Attorney Townsend to act as legal adviser to Coroner Hanley during the inquest upon the bodies of the victims of the Park place disaster. It is not unlikely that some one may be indicted for manslaughter in connection with the collapse of the building.

The Awful Roll.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—At 1 o'clock 48 bodies had been recovered, of which 35 had been identified. There are over 60 still in the ruins.

Anderson Bros. Fail for $50,000.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 25.—A dispatch from Steubenville, O., says: News has reached here of the failure of Anderson Bros., sewer pipes, at Anderson's Landing, W. Va. The exact amount of liabilities cannot be ascertained, as judgment was confessed in Hancock County, W. Va., but they are estimated at $50,000, of which a large amount is due employes in sums ranging from $100 to $1,000. The law makes them preferred creditors. The assets are not known, but will not cover half the liabilities. Fifty men will be thrown out of work.

Compositors Strike in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The compositors employed by the Recorder struck last night because of the discharge of the union foreman and the employment of a non-union man in his place. The strike only lasted two hours, the business manager of the paper adjusting the matter by employing a union man as foreman and signing an agreement to employ none but union men hereafter.

Typhoid Epidemic in Allegheny City.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 25.—Allegheny City has a typhoid epidemic. Fifty-six cases have been taken to one hospital in two weeks from East street.

IT COSTS MORE to make Royal Baking Powder than any other, because its ingredients are more highly refined and expensive. But the Royal is correspondingly purer and higher in leavening strength, and of greater money value to the consumer. Attempts may be made to substitute other powders for the Royal by the grocer, because of the greater profit in them to him. Send them back.

The chemist of the department of Health of Brooklyn, after examining the various powders, said: "The Royal is superior to all baking powders with regard to leavening power, economy in use, and healthfulness."

SONS OF VETERANS.

The National Order in Session To-day in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 25.—It is estimated that there are fully 25,000 members and visitors in the city to-day attending the tenth annual encampment of the National Order of the Sons of Veterans.

The city is gaily decorated, the hotels have reduced their rates and many private citizens have thrown open their homes to distinguished members of the order.

Among the features of the week will be a military ball at Masonic Temple and camp fire at Harmonia Hall, a street parade and a competitive drill. Among the camps expected to enter the latter contest are those of Franklin, Mass.; Winchester, Ind.; the Gresham Zouaves, of Indianapolis; Tacoma, Wash.; St. Paul, and the Peoria, Decatur and Springfield, Ill. The prizes aggregate nearly $2,000.

The Order of the Sons of Veterans was brought into existence in 1881, and the present is consequently its "wooden" anniversary. In 1883 there was a secession of about thirty camps from the original society, which joined the Sons of Veterans of the United States of America, which was organized by Major A. P. Davis of Pittsburg, Pa. The two national organizations were consolidated in 1886. From that time until the present the growth of the order has been very rapid. There are now 4,000 camps and 150,000 members.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLANS.

He Will Return to Cape May Point Saturday to Remain Three Weeks.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—It is not likely that the President will return here before the middle of September. His plan when he left Cape May looked to a return to that point on Saturday next.

There he will remain certainly for three weeks. He expects Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison to return home about the 4th of September, and they will spend a few days with the Presidential family. Mrs. Russell Harrison and perhaps Mrs. Harrison may then go to Omaha for a short period to visit Senator Saunders, Mrs. Russell Harrison's father, while Mrs. McKee will join her husband in Boston.

President Harrison hopes to get a chance at some sport, as he has been told that there is fine snipe shooting in Jersey. The White House is hardly in condition to warrant a return for some weeks.

BAY STATE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

The State Committee Decide to Nominate a State Ticket This Fall.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—The State Central Committee of the People's Party met here and a thorough State organization was effected. George F. Washburn, of Boston, was elected permanent chairman and F. Gerry Brown permanent secretary. It was voted to put a State ticket in the field this fall.

The platform endorses the action of the conference held at Cincinnati; demands that Treasury notes be issued in sufficient volume to transact the business of the country on a cash basis; favors the establishment of postal savings banks; demands the enactment of laws which will prevent tax dodging, and favors a graduated tax upon inheritances; favors government ownership of all means of communication; advocates municipal coal yards; demands that the importation, manufacture and sale of all spirituous liquors be conducted by the government or State; declares in favor of the eight-hour day, and demands restrictive immigration.

NO LONGER A MYSTERY.

The Three Ohio Children Were Put in the Chest While Playing Jail.

IRONTON, O., Aug. 25.—The mystery surrounding the tragedy, in which three children of Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton were found smothered to death in a chest in which they had been fastened, has been cleared up.

Wilber Warnick, a playmate of the Hamilton children, admitted to his mother that Kirke Burliche and a boy named Pemberton, together with himself, while playing "jail" locked the unfortunate children in the chest, and, being called to supper shortly after, neglected to let them out. When told that Warpick had confessed, the other boys told the same story.

The mothers of the children are crazed with grief, but it is hardly likely that anything will be done in the matter, as all the boys are under eight years of age.

Three Prominent Citizens Dead.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Oswego has just lost three prominent citizens by death. Treasurer C. Gilchrist, for many years a successful merchant; John B. Fayette, a manufacturer here for more than fifty years, and L. W. Peckham, an undertaker, who died at Salamanca while visiting there.

Chautauqua's Successful Season.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—To-day closed the most successful season of the Chautauqua Association. The receipts are estimated at 25 per cent. more than any preceding year. Before the next year the Auditorium will be enlarged and many new cottages built.

PUGILIST HALL IN A ROW.

He Gets a Terrible Gash in the Throat from Parson Davies.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 25.—Jim Hall, the middle-weight pugilist of Australia, and "Parson" Davies, of Chicago, who are stopping at the Avery House here, got into a quarrel in the bar-room at 11 o'clock last night.

After a word or two Hall struck viciously at Davies with a bottle. His arm was caught by a bystander when he repeated the blow, and the "Parson" grabbed a lemon knife which was lying on the bar, dodged Hall's blow and lunged at him with the knife, striking Hall in the throat and cutting a terrible gash from the chin to the ear on the right side of his face and narrowly missing the jugular vein. The two men were then separated.

"You've done me, Charlie," but stay by me," said Hall when struck.

The room after the fracas looked like a slaughter house, everything in it being covered with blood.

Hall will recover. He is considered to blame in the matter, Davies having acted in self-defense.

Postmaster-General Raikes Dead.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Mr. H. C. Raikes, the Postmaster-General, is dead. Mr. Raikes, who was just recovering from an indisposition, went out walking during the morning when he received a severe electric shock during a thunder storm. He was immediately taken to his home and medical treatment promptly summoned. Illness had, however, so exhausted the Postmaster-General, that his strength was insufficient to enable him to meet the sudden and terribly exacting demand thus made upon it. Mr. Raikes was born in 1838.

The Pennsylvania Storm.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 25.—Late reports show that the recent storm in Lancaster County was the heaviest in sixty years. A number of buildings, sheds, fences and seven bridges were washed away. Much live stock was drowned. In Millway an immense iron oil tank was carried 100 feet, and at Denver over half a mile of the tracks of the Reading & Columbia Railroad was washed away.

Gave Notice that He Would Kill Himself.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 25.—The body of the man who was found on the outskirts of this city has been identified as J. B. Williams of Chicago. Henry Williams arrived here from that city last evening looking for his brother, whom he had not seen for three years, but who had written a letter last week to Henry saying he was going to kill himself at Wilmington.

"Babe" Harkins Looking for Revenge.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Aug. 25.—It is now thought that City Marshal Bruce, who was shot by Chas. Harkins, will recover. "Babe" Harkins is said to be in town seeking vengeance on the slayers of his brother. He is a more desperate character than Charles was and a small offense at the present time will procure him a taking off similar to that of his brother.

Almy's Identity Established.

HANOVER, N. H., Aug. 25.—The identity of Frank Almy as George H. Abbott is finally and satisfactorily established. The murderer's broken leg, which compelled him to lie in a certain position, has hitherto prevented an examination of his back, but the position was changed during the morning, when the scars of the buckshot on his back were plainly visible.

Damage by a Cloudburst.

CARLISLE, Pa., Aug. 25.—A cloudburst occurred near Dillsburg last evening, doing considerable damage to property and crops. It is reported that several washouts have occurred on the Dillsburg & Mechanicsburg Railroad, blocking travel.

BOTH SIDES FOUGHT BRAVELY.

Time After Time the Rebels Dashed Against the Government Lines.

When Morning Broke a Flag of Truce Was Sent Out—Both Armies Resting for the Final Struggle—Scouting Parties Scouring the Country for Supplies—The Rebel General's New Scheme.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via Galveston, Tex., Aug. 24.—Darkness stopped the battle at Vina del Mar Beach, opposite this city, which raged hotly all day yesterday, before any decisive result was reached, and, like tired gladiators, the contesting armies got themselves in the best possible condition for the final bout which must soon decide the mastery of Chili.

Balmaceda's line of defence was strongly fortified, and was under the range of the guns from Fort Callao. While many of his troops were raw recruits, there was a good leaven of veterans among them.

Time after time the rebels dashed against the lines of the government troops, only to be repulsed with great bloodshed. They were not the only sufferers, however, for their artillery played with telling effect on the enemy, and their rifles were not useless in their hands.

Attack and repulse were repeated time after time, with no decided advantage to either side. The most desperate valor was displayed by veteran and recruit, Balmacedist and revolutionist.

There was little regret on either side when darkness came down and stopped the bloody work.

Under the cover of a flag of truce the ambulance and hospital corps of the opposing armies were busy during the night searching the field for the wounded and caring for them.

When morning broke it was expected the fight would be resumed. Both armies had suffered, severely, however, and neither appeared to be in a position to assume the offensive, and practical truce with no fighting has been the result.

Neither side has been idle, however, during the day. Scouting parties from the insurgent armies have been scouring the country for supplies, and one of them cut the railroad to Santiago at Salto.

It is generally believed that General Canto, the general commanding the rebels, will attempt a flank movement when he resumes operations, and this the Balmacedists are doing everything in their power to frustrate.

Englishmen Side With the Insurgents.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Great interest is felt here in the pending struggle in Chili, as it is believed that the encounter between the two contending parties near Valparaiso must lead to a speedy end of the contest. The English interests in nitrate, of which Col. North is the chief representative, are and have been all along friendly to the insurgents, and it is believed that it was through their agency that the insurgents received their arms which enabled them to make their present attack upon the centre of Chilian territory. English sympathy with the insurgent cause is general and outspoken, and Balmaceda is denounced as a despot and a usurper.

THE KAISER ALARMED.

He is Strengthening the Garrison in Alsace-Lorraine.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Orders have been issued to strengthen the garrison in Alsace-Loraine and all along the eastern frontier. The Kaiser is said, on semi-official authority, to be of the opinion that France is in a frame of mind that might lead at any moment to war; that the people of France have been so stirred up by the evidence of Russian sympathy and friendship that they are likely at any moment to insult Germany in a way that would of necessity be followed by war.

The French sentinels on the Alsace frontier have of late become very arrogant in their treatment of Germans who cross the line, and refuse sometimes even to look at passports, driving the Germans back at the point of the bayonet. A similar disposition has displayed itself recently among the French customs officers, and all the conduct of the French points to a willingness to provoke a crisis by the maltreatment of German subjects. As for the Kaiser, it is said he would sooner fight while Lord Salisbury is in power in England, as he feels he has nothing to hope for from a Liberal Cabinet.

The Koln Gazette's correspondent at St. Petersburg has just sent word that the Czarina has influenced the Czar in the direction of establishing friendly relations with the government of France, and that the Russian ambassador at Paris, Baron von Morenheim, has obtained from that government an assurance that should Germany be defeated in war by France and Russia, Schleswig will be returned to Denmark.

Poisoned His Wife.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Howard D. Earle attempted to kill his wife during the day by giving her a dose of laudanum. The woman relieved herself of the dose, whereupon the husband forced her to take a larger dose and left her to die. Neighbors discovered her condition and physicians who were summoned resuscitated her and sent her to the hospital. Earle was arrested.

An English Church Schism.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Rumor has it that the Bishop of Lincoln, who was tried by the Privy Council for ritualistic practices, intends to start a new church should the verdict go against him.

Real Estate Dealer Arrested for Forgery.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 25.—W. E. Dechild, a prominent dealer in real estate, has been arrested on a charge of forging notes for $1,700 on J. L. Ludwig, of Pittsburg, Pa.

Graham Muffins

BY MARIA PARLOA.

For twelve muffins there will be required half a pint of graham, half a pint of flour, one generous tablespoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful and a half of Cleveland's Baking Powder, one egg, and two gills and a half of milk. Mix the dry ingredients and rub through a sieve. Turn the bran from the sieve into the mixture. Beat the egg till light and add the milk to it. Stir this into the dry mixture. Add the butter, melted, and beat well for half a minute. Bake in buttered muffin pans for half an hour in a moderately hot oven.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

Cleveland's Baking Powder is the anti-dyspeptic leavening agent. The leaven comes from cream of tartar and soda, nothing else; no ammonia or alum.

DUEL WITH A DESPERADO.

United States Marshal Short and a Train Robber Killed.

CALDWELL, Kan., Aug. 25.—Charles Bryant, one of the noted Dalton gang of train robbers, who was captured yesterday in the Cherokee Strip by United States Marshal Ed Short, was shot and killed by his captor after he had fatally wounded the latter.

The duel occurred on a Rock Island train, on which Short had placed his prisoner, intending to take him to Wichita. He placed the prisoner in the baggage car, going outside to guard against any attempt at rescue. He left a revolver with the baggageman for protection, and the baggageman's carelessness is responsible for the subsequent tragedy. He laid the revolver down and Bryant soon secured it.

As the train was slowing up at a station he opened the door of the car and immediately began firing at Short, who was on the platform, a bullet going through Short's body. Short returned the fire and gave Bryant a death wound. Short was also mortally wounded, but both men kept on firing until their weapons were emptied. Bryant was the first man to drop, and he fell head foremost down the steps. Short caught him by the leg and held him with his head almost touching the ground.

He called to the conductor, and when he got to him he said: "I have got him, Jim, and he has got me." The prisoner was dead when picked up and Short died in ten minutes.

COL. MOSBY IN A FIGHT.

The Old Guerilla Chief Has a Lively Time in 'Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—Col. John S. Mosby, the old guerilla chieftain, yesterday arose from his seat in a combination car to make room for a lady, and seeing vacant seats in the grip-car went out. The conductor refused to allow him to pass over to the dummy and hot words followed.

The Colonel knocked the conductor down and hammered him. Then the gripman, who was large and powerful, attacked Mosby. Three lady passengers assisted Mosby by pulling the gripman's hair. The gripman got up and bolted, so did Col. Mosby, and so did the conductor, who sought the police.

Mosby's knees are peeled and his thumb is scratched, but the conductor's face is badly damaged.

340 Lives Lost.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—A dispatch has been received by the Colonial Department, which says that the loss of life by the cyclone at Martinique amounted to 340 individuals, irrespective of the sailors who were drowned from the French ships.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Many vessels have been wrecked by the recent gales and hurricanes along the Spanish coast.

Eagle Star, the Sioux chief with Buffalo Bill's show, died from lockjaw at Sheffield, England.

There is trouble in the People's [Party of Ohio. The chairman of the Executive Committee is charged with treachery.

George W. Vedder, of Hoosac Falls, N. Y., who was knocked down and run over by a wagon in Boston, died at the Massachusetts General Hospital last evening.

Owing to the scarcity of weavers at Fall River, Mass., the production of cloth has been curtailed 20,000 pieces during the past two weeks. A number of the operatives who have been doing very well in the matter of wages during the past two years, are leaving off and help to fill their places cannot be obtained at present. Although the price of cloth is one-eighth of a cent lower than ever known previous to the present depression, there is little demand for spots at any figure.

Another Chinese Outbreak Expected.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 25.—According to advices by the steamer City of Rio de Janeiro, which has just arrived from Hong Kong, via Yokohama, the war spirit is still rampant in China. While very few actual outrages have occurred since the arrival of the last China steamer, the foreign population of Shanghai expect an outbreak daily.

Horribly Mangled by a Train.

PERRY, N. Y., Aug. 25.—J. C. Herrick, a jeweler of Nunda, N. Y., aged 35 years, while walking on the track between Silver Lake and Perry during the morning was struck by a freight train and instantly killed. He was horribly mutilated. He was spending the summer with his family at Silver Lake.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. Force, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. Demarest, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Make haste slowly when you start to trade elsewhere than at Peck's.

—There will be a meeting of the Plainfield Camera club, this evening at 8 o'clock.

—Carpenters are hard at work upon the reconstruction of the interior of Music Hall.

—Work began this morning upon the enlargement of the Holy Cross Sunday-school building.

—The official list of Plainfield's delinquent tax-payers will be published in THE PRESS some day next week.

—Every Dunellenite should read THE PRESS, and see what it is doing for the good of the borough. Read to-morrow's issue.

—Park avenue at the head of North avenue, has been blocked all day by workmen engaged in connecting the Second street concert saloon with the North avenue sewer.

—The Park Avenue Baptist church claim the banner for Sunday evening's attendance. The Rev. Thomas Marice, of St. Paul, preached, and fifty were present in spite of the storm.

—Patrick Uretl, for drunkenness, disorderly conduct, and begging on the streets, was sent to jail for 10 days by Judge Codington this morning. Elizabeth Melvin, for intoxication and fighting, got 20 days.

—A truck of S. M. Clark & Co., Newark, on which were heaped up scores of empty barrels, smashed the street lamp at Reynolds's pharmacy corner, in turning from Park avenue into North avenue this morning.

—A race meet of the Elizabeth wheelmen will take place Sept. 26, on the race track at North Elizabeth, which is likely to be the largest ever seen in the State of New Jersey. Special trains will be run from New York over the Central Railway of New Jersey. All the officers of the League of American Wheelmen will attend, and over $2,000 will be expended in prizes.

—A pitiable scene was witnessed on West Third street, last evening, when a drunken woman, with two small children clinging to her skirts, made the air fairly blue with her curses and indecent language, abusing everyone within hearing by applying foul names. The neighbors are only kept from making a complaint on account of three small children which she has, and on account of her hard-working, respectable husband. Every Monday, which is wash-day, with her, she is in the habit of getting intoxicated and then becomes a regular terror.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A. D. Cook and family have returned from Saratoga.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baynon are home again from Sheffield, Mass.

Mrs. Charles Sandford and daughters have returned from Watch Hill, R. I.

Mrs. H. M. Clark, of Grandview avenue, is slowly convalescing from her recent illness.

The Rev. V. E. Honeyman has returned from his visit to Dover, Morris county.

P. Minturn Smith and family, of Madison avenue, have gone to Southold, Long Island, for a few weeks.

Abraham Hoffman, of Califon, Hunterdon county, is visiting his son, Henry, of 198 West Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkins and daughter will leave to-morrow for their home in Orange, after a month's visit in this city.

Miss Kitty Mack, of Califon, Hunterdon county, is spending a week's vacation with her cousin, Miss Carrie Huffman, of West Front street.

The Misses Jennie and Nellie Voorhees, of Brooklyn, are visiting their friends, the Misses Minnie and Mabel Force, at No. 5 North avenue.

Frank H. Wolff, of Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, received yesterday the sad intelligence of the death of his father, Jacob Heinrich Wolff, which occurred at his native home, Ehrenbreitstein, Germany, on the 6th instant. The elder Wolff was for fifty-one years in the employ of the German Government, and served it with credit to his country and himself. He was 74 years of age. His death resulted from pneumonia. Frank H., who is the youngest son in this country, had not seen his father for the past fourteen years. The funeral took place on August 9.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

NOT HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY.

The Papers in the Miller Suit Against THE PRESS Returned, and Justice Nash Will Try It.

Prosecutor Marsh has sent back to Justice Nash the papers in the case of Concert-saloon Joe against THE PRESS. He says an examination can be had before the justice, and that it is so simple a case that it is not necessary for him to be present. He also returned the bonds that held those complained of to await the action of the grand jury.

The editors and publishers of THE PRESS have now demanded an immediate examination.

TROUBLE OVER A SEWER.

A Bad Precedent Established Which May Result in Great Inconvenience.

The granting of permission to the owner of the building at 8 and 10 West Second street to connect with the North avenue sewer has established a bad precedent which may result in the abolishment of the sewer altogether.

The sewer was originally built by the railroad company to take off the surface water accumulated under their bridges, but it has since been used by property owners along North avenue who had no room on their land for cess-pools. It empties into Green Brook. Even with nothing but North avenue sewerage emptying into it there has been complaint of offense given to people residing along the stream where the sewer emptied. It was, however, tolerated as a necessity, but only on the strict condition that no unnecessary connection be made.

In times past Park avenue applicants for connection have been refused, but now that the West Second street building is to be connected several Park avenue applications are to be renewed and insisted on. The result cannot but be a wholesale emptying into the sewer, a choking up of its capacity, and condemnation and abolishment by the State Board of Health. That will be a very serious inconvenience for North avenue property holders, notably for Roberts's livery stable, which necessarily has much sewerage to dispose of. The authority to make the sewerage connection in this instance was granted by the Street Committee of the Council when Charles Hand owned the building.

Firemen's Tournament at Atlantic City.

The Firemen's tournament to be held at Atlantic City on Sept. 29, 30, Oct. 1 and 2, promises to be one of the most interesting events of its kind ever held in this country. Invitations have been sent to Plainfield and all the prominent fire companies of the east to be present and enter the lists, and the number of entries already registered assures a brilliant success. The programme of events is a most elaborate one and includes everything that pertains to the firemen's art. Hose races, team races, steamer trials, prize drills, and other firemen contests, together with concerts, torchlight processions, and a grand parade. Beside this, the arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors are very elaborate.

For the better accommodation of visitors and contestants the Pennsylvania railway company will sell excursion tickets to Atlantic City from all principal stations on its system at a single fare for the round trip. The tickets will be sold Sept. 25 to Oct. 2, valid for return until Oct. 6. The facilities presented by the Pennsylvania railway for reaching Atlantic City quickly and comfortably, are too well known to need comment.

Bowery Happenings in Plainfield.

[From The New York World.]

It is to be hoped that Plainfield's water when it comes will so quench public thirst as to reduce below profit the receipts of the numerous concert saloons which now thrive there. It is a singular freak of public virtue that the sort of places tolerated only under special license and strictly regulated in New York are freely permitted without question in so austerely moral a town as Plainfield.

A few days ago the story was printed of how a performer in one of these Plainfield saloons had jumped from the stage and kicked the eye out of a gentleman who had made a remark considered derogatory to one of the ladies on the stage. The police, it was added, made no arrests because they thought the gentleman only got what he deserved! Imagine that on the Bowery!

Ball-player Cadmus Shot.

The Mt. Tabor Record records the following accident to a well-known North Plainfielder who lives at 78 Duer street:

"A young man named Will. Cadmus, on Mt. Tabor, accidently shot himself in the arm while hunting, Wednesday, Aug. 19. The ball entered the arm near the elbow, and was successfully extracted by Dr. Colt. The bullet was a 32-rifle caliber. Dr. Colt extracted the ball from the shoulder. Mr. Cadmus is doing very nicely.

Hang Out the Bunting.

The last time that the 28th Reg't veterans ever assemble in this city, will be on Thursday. Let everybody who has a flag honor the old soldiers by spreading the bunting to the breeze. There will be probably 200 of the visitors. It was a large regiment, and after the first Fredericksburg and the Chancellorville battles there was no great loss of life.

—The boat carnival that was to have taken place at Bound Brook to-night has been postponed until to-morrow evening, on account of high water.

A MILITIA-MAN'S MISADVENTURES.

Showing How a Fanwood Resident Started This Week With All Sorts of Bad Luck.

SUNDAY last a prominent resident of Fanwood and a popular officer of the 23rd Regt., of Brooklyn, accompanied by his wife and child started for an afternoon's drive toward Summit. When within a mile of Springfield the terrific storm overtook them, and the vehicle having no top, the result was a very wet group. They were therefore very thankful when the lights of that magnificent and spacious hostelry at Springfield appeared, and more so upon reaching it. The storm continuing they remained over night leaving at 6:30 Monday morning as the gentleman was obliged to catch the 8:38 train from Fanwood.

The roads being heavy he caught the 9:37. Upon reaching his New York office a letter from a debtor announced his non-intention of paying a certain sum then due. "Well this is a good starter for the week", quoth the military man. "What next? Ah! an invitation from old to spend the night on his yacht. Take boat leaving South Ferry 5:10. That's better; I'll go." Promptly at 5 o'clock the Fanwood man was at the dock. No friend appeared and a boat was leaving the dock for Bay Ridge." "No more boats for Bay Ridge till 5:30, announced the gateman. Supposing his friend would meet him at the Hamilton Ferry, he rushed there to find the next boat left at 5:15. He then thought that there might be another line to Bay Ridge and upon inquiring found there was with a boat sailing at 5:10. Hurrying to that dock he saw the boat moving out with his friend presumably aboard. "More bad luck, now I'll go home," and suiting the action to the word started for the ferry.

Remembering having seen a time-table in a resort on Liberty street, well known to Jerseymen, he dropped in to consult it and found the next train left at 6 p. m. Feeling hungry he ate a sandwich there, and not feeling satisfied another further on, leaving New York on the 6 o'clock boat. At Jersey City the usual call of trains was heard, and he confidently stepped on one, thinking it was all for the best and he would soon be home. Much to his surprise, however, after leaving Roselle station, a sudden stop was made and he found himself overlooking a swamp in West Roselle with no engine attached, and the only passenger. "Well," said he to a brakeman, "if you were going to kick a fellow off at Roselle, why did n't you do it at the station?" "That's all right," replied the trainman, "a train goes west at 6:53." Thinking any train stopping at a little place like Roselle must certainly stop at Fanwood, he regained confidence and boarded it. Sure enough stops were made at Cranford and Westfield and he grasped his grip certain he was all right now and prepared to alight. But there was not even a slow-down, and whiz! Fanwood was left in the distance.

Arriving at Plainfield he consulted the time-table and found the next train back was 8:31, then demanding a solemn vow of truthfulness from each and every railway official in sight, made them confirm it and betaking himself to a cafe, with watch in hand, partook of a few more sandwiches. The 8:31 was seven minutes late—he caught it, and stood ready to grasp the bell rope in case there were any indications of not stopping. He got off at Fanwood at last and meeting a friend button-holed him and walking under a station light said: "Say! look at me! Do I look as though I am an idiot, or had been drinking, or am anything out of the natural?" Upon being assured that he appeared in his normal condition, he related the above. To console him his friend invited him to his residence to help empty a small bottle. "Oh, no, you don't!" he said. "You know I am not a drinking man, and I am going home and make a fresh start in the morning." Which he did.

Maryland Peach Growers Complaining.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—Reports received from Easton, Md., say the peach business this year is a bigger failure than last year, when there was very little crop. The trouble this year is that the crop is too big and prices are away down. Many growers have become disgusted with the business and are digging up their orchards and carting away the trees. The local canning houses are buying peaches as low down as five cents a basket, and have had to refuse offered invoices at that price because of the lack of labor to handle them.

Trouble Over Newly-Arrived Hebrews.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 25.—The great number of Russian Jews who have arrived at this port of late has caused considerable agitation among the labor organizations, and bids fair to become of national importance. It is claimed that manufacturers are withholding work from their sewing women and giving it to the newly-arrived Hebrews at less wages. A meeting of the different labor organizations will soon be held to discuss the matter.

The Alleged Robber Afraid of Lynching.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 25.—The authorities are not now sure that James Roberts, the man arrested for the murder and robbery at Columbus Grove, is the guilty man. He appears very nervous and says he fears lynching before he can bring evidence to convince the people that they have arrested the wrong man. The prisoner's father says that he will prove an alibi for his son.

Struck With a Baseball Bat.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Aug. 25.—Felix Wasniski was struck over the head with a baseball bat last evening by Otto Schultz during a quarrel and fatally injured. Schultz is in jail.

Boston Defeats Halifax.

HALIFAX, Aug. 25.—The international cricket match between the Longwoods of Boston and the Halifax Wanderers was won by the Longwoods by a score of 82 to 58.

OUR

"Y. S. F."

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

EDSALL'S,

20 West Front Street.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

DUNELLEN'S NEWS BUDGET.

Interesting Items from a Thriving Borough, by Our Own Correspondent.

Mrs. William Lowrie, of Clinton, Mass., is visiting her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lowrie.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Roe have returned from a month's sojourn at the shore and will take up their residence in Plainfield.

The Misses Bennett are entertaining their cousins, the Misses Emma and May Bennett, of Brooklyn, and Miss Lulu Turner, of Rahway.

Last Tuesday evening a frolicsome watermelon party was held at the residence of G. Elston Lowrie. Among those present from out of town were Miss Alice Klinge, of Brooklyn, Mrs. William Lowrie and Mr. James Lowrie, of Clinton, Mass., and Mr. Lindaur, of Sing Sing. The young people passed a very enjoyable evening. Dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

Mrs. George Staples was taken to the Trenton Asylum last week suffering from acute insanity. She has been ailing some time past, and it is feared that the depression of mind caused by suffering has permanently affected her reason.

The Rev. Mr. Kinsay has returned from his summer vacation, and resumed his usual pastoral duties Sunday.

The Bound Brook base-ball club promised to play the Dunellen Athletics Saturday at the grounds of the latter, but they did n't show up. The Dunellen team think that the Bound Brooks were afraid to play them.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tinsman, of Jersey City, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Giles.

Mr. and Mrs. Priscil Drake, formerly of Dunellen, are visiting their mother, Mrs. Hannah Drake.

Mrs. Enoch Giles has just returned from a week's visit with friends in the country.

The electric lamps were burning in full force last night. THE PRESS correspondent had an interview with Mr. Sebring, the manager of the plant. He says the lights have come to stay. The company have put in another water wheel which will furnish more power than they really need for the present number of lights. The experiment of running the dynamo by water power having been a success, Dunellen's streets will now be lighted by electricity for at least one year.

A number of young people met at the residence of Samuel Giles, last Thursday evening, and had an enjoyable time. One of the young lads dressed in female apparel and caused himself to be introduced to a certain young man as Miss Blank. The young man in question was much smitten with his new acquaintance, and, anxious to display his gallantry, begged to be allowed to be the escort of his fair friend homeward. His company was bashfully accepted, causing his heart to leap for joy. The pair started for the supposed young lady's home, but when a block away he was informed that his affections had been wasted on one of his own sex. Just what followed, the writer cannot say; but the escort did not return for another girl.

A MOTHER'S DOWNFALL.

Strong Drink Invades Home Happiness, and Wife and Daughter Are Missing.

Ellen Brunn, who disappeared from her home in this city five weeks ago, was an Irish woman, the wife of a Swede, who is gardener for Charles W. McCutchen of North Plainfield. Some time ago she took to drinking, and one evening while intoxicated she turned her husband and family out of doors. When she became sober again she was reproved by her husband, and became very sullen. That night she took the prettiest of her seven children, golden-haired Ellen, nine years old, and went away. No clue has been reached as to her whereabouts. It was at first thought that she was in hiding in this city, but now it is believed that she has entered service in New York. Mr. Brunn is very anxious to get his little daughter back, as since Mrs. Brunn's downfall through strong drink she is not considered a fit person to have the custody of the child. Mrs. Brunn is easily identified by the two distinct thumbs that she has on her right hand. A reward for information of the missing ones was offered in these columns yesterday. Brunn is a faithful, hard-working man, very much esteemed as a gardener among Washington Park families, and his little Ellen of the golden tresses was quite a pet in the Park.

The Stages Stop To-day.

Michael Higgins, proprietor of Higgins's stage line, desires to state that inasmuch as certain stories have been started reflecting upon his credit, he has now decided to let his few creditors dispose of his personal property, in order to satisfy their claims. He stands ready, he says, to meet all just claims against him provided his creditors are lenient with him. At noon to-day he withdrew his stages and they will not run again until further notice. Private calls will be attended to as usual.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.

Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

ANOTHER CASE OF HERESY HUNTING.

The Novel Pursuit of a College Professor Who Loses His Chair on Account of His Religious Opinions.

The secular newspapers have had much to say about the ferment in religious circles over the alleged heresies of such men as Dr. Briggs, the Rev. Heber Newton, and others, but that class of journals in this part of the country has said little or nothing about the stir produced in another quarter by the recent dismissal of a teacher from the State University of South Carolina because of his religious views.

The readers of THE PRESS will no doubt be interested in the following statement of the case, which is compiled in part from an article that appeared in a Charleston newspaper, The State, and in part from other reliable sources.

The dismissed teacher is Prof. W. J. Alexander, who occupied the chair of Logic and Rhetoric. His ability and his character are not questioned. But, as the result of independent study, he exercised his right as a man to change his religious belief. The change led him from the Baptist church to become a Unitarian. He is not charged with teaching Unitarianism in the University. Indeed, it is admitted that he has neither taught it in his classes nor even tried to influence the opinion of his pupils in his private or personal relations with them. He has only exercised the right of private judgment in adopting his Unitarian opinions.

The University in which he was an efficient teacher is not a denominational school in any sense of the word. It is a State institution to whose support every taxpayer in South Carolina contributes, be he Christian, of whatever name, Israelite or Pagan. The pupils of it when they study logic and rhetoric are not supposed to be affected by the fact that the teacher of those branches is a Baptist, a Unitarian or a Jew. So here is a man who is driven out of his professional place in this land of religious freedom on account of his religion.

This is a new phase of the controversy just now raging over so-called heresies and their advocates. The South Carolina question is not one of denominational right; it is a question of the rights of man. To take away a man's business because of his religious opinion or to destroy his reputation and standing in his community, this is essentially persecution.

Professor Alexander submitted to an examination of his opinions by the trustees of the University, among whom is the Governor of South Carolina. The Charleston newspaper referred to, published some interesting memoranda of the inquisition, as it has been called. A portion of the conversation with the Governor will suffice to give an illustration of the inquiry, and it is here reproduced:

Gov. Tillman.—You spoke of Unitarians as Christians. What do they believe about Christ? Do they believe that he is the Son of God?

Prof. A.—All good men are called in the New Testament "children of God" or "sons of God." That does not imply that they are God. Christ is not only a son of God, but he is the Son of God in the sense that he towers above other men in moral and spiritual genius, in his love for truth and righteousness, and in his hatred of all shams and hypocrisy. It is this unique elevation of his spiritual nature that makes him the Son of God.

Gov. Tillman.—I should like for you to tell me something about Unitarians.

Prof. A.—Unitarians are not a numerous body; but, in proportion to their numbers, they have more brains, character, and culture than any other religious sect in this country. They are the glory of American literature. In poetry, Longfellow, Bryant, James Russell Lowell, and Oliver Wendell Holmes are Unitarians; in history, Bancroft, Motley, Prescott, Hildreth, Parkman, and Jared Sparks; in general literature, Emerson, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Bayard Taylor, George Ticknor, Edward Everett Hale, and others; among statesmen, James and John Quincy Adams, Millard Fillmore, John Marshall, and the late Judge Miller, of the United States Supreme Court, Daniel Webster, Edward Everett, Hannibal Hamlin, and, almost certainly, John C. Calhoun. The last seven presidents of Harvard College, and many of its leading professors, were, and are, Unitarians. As to their views, they differ widely among themselves; for Unitarianism is not so much a system of beliefs as a way of thinking. They agree in denying the deity of Christ, but they encourage the utmost freedom of thought and speech. Unitarianism has stepped to the front of all the denominations as the boldest and sincerest champion of the cause of full religious liberty. Orthodoxy seems to be afraid of light; of free investigation and fearless discussion of religious subjects. Unitarianism welcomes and encourages these. It is, therefore, peculiarly suited to the genius of free institution. Some of the saintliest characters have been Unitarians. William Ellery Channing, one of the devoutest, purest men that ever trod this continent, was a Unitarian.

The report adds that the Professor facetiously said of the examination: "As there was a pause in the inquiry, I intimated to the Governor that I was subject to his orders, whereupon I was permitted to retire to—the guillotine."

Higher Water in Lake Hopatcong.

New Jersey's favorite lake has risen five inches since the recent heavy rains. During the last two weeks it fell one foot or more. It has been reported that the canal people were anxious to have the water in the lake run low so as to drive the pleasure boats out. This, however, is emphatically denied. A canal official said that they had been much worried about the low water and they feared that a continued falling would necessitate shutting off canal traffic, for the low water in the Lake Hopatcong feeder necessitated the drawing of water from other sources of supply. It is now thought that there is no danger of a scarcity of water.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

FOOD ADULTERATION IN JERSEY.

Plenty of Bogus Butter, Clay "Coffee", and Watered Milk, Discovered.

Dairy Commissioner McGuire states that the report of his deputies shows that oleomargarine was universally used at Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, Atlantic City and Long Branch. The most interesting feature of the crusade was the character of the packages in which the goods were shipped to these places, particularly to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park. Trunks and wash-hampers were frequently laden with the bogus butter. There was no end to the cracker barrels, soap boxes and hat boxes used. Some of the larger hotels used it, but where it was found and a promise given to use no more, unless purchased regularly, the prosecution was suspended. It is estimated that one-half the cottages in these watering places served up bogus butter. The supply was from New York and Philadelphia.

The commissioner announces that New Jersey grocery stores are flooded with bogus or clay coffee. The moulded beans of clay and flour paste which were discovered about a year ago were successfully driven from the market. The publicity given to the market made it dangerous to sell it, because people were informed that clay coffee could not be ground. Now a new trick has been discovered, and it works well. It is called "cracked coffee", or "broken coffee", and is prepared to sell at twenty-five cents a pound. The impression is given out that it is the sweepings of a first-class roaster and the stock is good. The dealer can grind it in the presence of the buyer. It is nothing more or less than burnt bits of corn, beans, rye, oats and chicory, with some good coffee mixed with it. It contains less than twenty per cent of good coffee. Forty-eight samples have been secured in different cities in the State, principally in Newark, Jersey City and Paterson. Some few have promised to send the article back to the jobbers, but others who persisted in selling it are to be prosecuted.

The recent warm weather has caused a big demand for milk, and the temptation to water the milk was too much. Deputy inspector Vandegrift has gathered in enough suspicious samples to keep the State analysist busy for a month. Discovery of adulterations will lead to many arrests.

A Bathing Beach at Hopatcong.

It has been the intention of the Central Railway of New Jersey for some time past to increase the depth of water on the shore of the picnic grounds at Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong. The water in the lake has never until the present time receded sufficiently to justify the undertaking without making an expensive job of it. The company now has a large force of men at work. As a result an exceptionally fine beach is being made. The next move the railway company will make will be to build bathing-houses and convert the place into a swimming resort.

Corbett's Challenge to Slavin.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 25.—Pugilist Jim Corbett, who is now in this city, says that his challenge to Slavin was made in good faith. He was, however, anxious to meet Mitchell, so as to take some of the conceit out of that individual. He said he was confident that he could defeat Mitchell, and he also fully believes that he can defeat Slavin.

Found Dead in the Water.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The body of an unknown man was found in Hutchinson's place, near East Chester Creek. It was badly decomposed and had been in the water a long time. The man was about 40 years of age apparently. Coroner Drews will hold an inquest Thursday.

Congressman Hoar's Wife Dies Suddenly.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Caroline Prescott Wood, wife of Congressman-elect Sherman Hoar, of Waltham, died suddenly yesterday of heart trouble. She had been seriously ill for a week or more, but immediate danger was not considered possible. Her age was 30 years. She leaves two children.

A Saloon-Keeper Sues for Libel.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 25.—Thomas Ready, a saloon-keeper here, has sued the Globe for libel, placing damages at $5,000. Ready claims that the paper on December 6, 1890, published an article stating that he (Ready) was interested in a "grave yard" business.

Death of Hon. John Page.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Aug. 25.—Hon. John Page died here last evening. Mr. Page was State Treasurer from 1866 to 1882, and had been for thirty-five years president of the Vermont Bible Society and president of the First National Bank for twenty-five years.

The Encouragement of Culture.

"May I venture to hope, Miss Beaconwealth?" asked Mr. Wabash, with a world of western wistfulness in his voice.

"Hope!" replied Miss Beaconwealth, "is a happy attribute of the human race, and—"

"Then I may hope," the youth repeated eagerly.

THE DOG DOCTORS.

A New York Woman's Terrible Trials with Them.

First Fido Took Cold, and the Doctor Wouldn't Prescribe, and Then Algie Fought with a Cur and the Hairless Put His Foot in Hot Soup.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

"It seems to me," said I, on seeing her at Asbury Park for the first time since she left New York several weeks ago, "that you are looking becomingly pale instead of distractingly rosy. What's the matter? Have you been ill?" I had run down to the park on a flying trip to investigate the bathing gown question and was surprised to find her here.

"Oh, no, not exactly ill," said Mrs. Brown—which isn't her name—with a sigh of weariness, "but you don't know what worry, what trouble and anxiety I've endured all on account of these precious pets of mine. I think it must be the weather, don't you know, it's so changeable, and it's been so cool this year. I would have been down sick myself if I hadn't been too busy. Really I couldn't. It all began with Fido taking cold in Newport because I was too careless and left the window open. He's only just beginning to get over it. Here, Fido; come and see the gentleman, oo 'ittle pet."

At the familiar call a melancholy figure crept slowly across the floor. It was primarily canine, for a hirsute tail told its own story, but in its peaked invalid's cap, its huge knotted muffler and its four-sleeved coat it had a ridiculously human look.

"See," said my hostess, "he's convalescent, now; or at least I hope he is, and he's just been out for a walk. It was sunny and warm, and I sent him with his maid. I suppose I ought to have gone myself, but really, now, I think Fidele—that isn't her name, but I call her that, after Fido—is just as good and kind as she can be. She ought to be, for I pay her big wages and she came very, very highly recommended. Dear me, what was I going to say?"

"I think you were going to tell me why you are so tired," I replied, somewhat amused at the dear, fussy little woman, who is as good as gold if only she wouldn't worry about trifles.

"Oh, yes. Well, when Fido began to be ill I sent right away for the family doctor. My Newport doctor, of course, hadn't time to send to New York. He's a very, very skillful man, but just a little bit gruff, don't you know, and when he came and I took him to Fido's bed, you ought to have seen him. I could hardly help laughing, though I was so anxious I could scarcely stand. He was so angry.

"'Madam,' said he, 'I am not a veterinarian.'

"'I know that,' said I, 'but won't you look at Fido just this once? Every minute is precious and you have always doctored our family here.' I was too much worried to get angry with him, you know.

"'That is true, madam,' he said, 'but I stop at dogs. However, without special reference to this case, I don't mind giving you a little general advice. Your pets suffer from too much kindness. A dog is essentially a wild beast, only a little removed from the fox, the wolf and the jackal. Yours are overcivilized, over-fed, over-petted and kept too warm. If you want them to be healthy, energetic and affectionate, I'll tell you what you must do. Strip off their blankets and let 'em run out of doors. Give 'em bones to gnaw for the sake of their teeth. Let 'em go hungry once in awhile and kick each one once a day till he howls. Good day, madam.' And away he went.

"Now, do you know, I can stand a good deal when one of my pets is in danger, but I couldn't stand that. I was so angry that I could hardly keep from crying. The old brute! He shall never darken my door again!"

"HE WAS FIGHTING WITH A REGARLY CUR."

"He may have been more than half right in spite of the offensive manner of his speech," said I soothingly. "There is a good deal of the brute about even the most refined dog. He wouldn't be worth much if there wasn't."

"Don't I know that?" vivaciously responded Mrs. Brown. "The very day that Fido was taken ill I went out to give Algie an airing. His name is really Algernon, but I don't have time to call him that, I'm so busy. I was so taken aback by the doctor's rudeness that I thought a little fresh air would do me good, and besides I wasn't going to trust Algie to a hireling, with Fido already sick on my hands. I had a long embroidered leash—tan leather, you know, with black applique work to match Algie—fastened to his collar, because he's so energetic; so different from Fido; and just as I turned the street corner in a gust of wind I had to put up one hand to my hat to keep it from blowing off, and Algie jerked the leash right away from me and off he went, and before I knew it almost he was fighting with a great big ugly cur twice his size and the cur had him by the ear, and a lot of dirty men and boys got 'round them and yelled and shouted and never once tried to take them apart, and I didn't dare touch the cur, and I was in a perfect agony. I don't know what I should have done if the policeman on our beat—he knows me—hadn't come up and driven off the other dog with his club. I got Algie home somehow and, dear me, what a state he was in! He was covered with blood and his ear was torn half way up and a great scratch over his eye.

"I got him home somehow, and when I reached the door I was as white as a ghost. What in the world was I to do? I had just quarreled with the doctor, and I didn't know anyone else near by, and, of course, I couldn't trust Algie to any Tom, Dick or Harry. While I was trying to think in came James the coachman. I think Fidele had told him.

"'I can fix 'im up, mum,' said he.

"'But do you know how?' said I. 'It's a very critical case.'

"'Ho, yes, mam,' said he, 'dogs and 'osses is much the same,' and he got some liniment and a needle and thread and he actually sewed up the poor creature's ear. It was so pitiful to see him and to hear Nero whine that I had to run up to the top story and lock myself into the cook's room and stop my ears with a pillow till it was all over. I must say that James did it very nicely, though, and bandaged up Algie's eye, and he's been getting well just as nicely as can be. I was so glad I gave James ten dollars.

"Dear! Dear! Such a time as that was! I'm glad it's all over. Algie was in great pain, of course, but then, a pug is so plucky that he behaved real well. But, of course, he needed extra attention while his wounds were healing, and yet there was Fido, who actually hadn't had a mite of medical care yet, and it was a good six hours since that brute of a doctor had gone away. His case hadn't even been diagnosed, and his look of suffering seemed full of silent reproach whenever I came near his pillow. Yet I knew he didn't mean to distress me, poor thing; for he loves me and he is brave. It was my conscience that reproved me. And just then, of all the times in the world for inconvenience, just as I was putting on my wraps once more to go out and try to look up a physician, what should my Mexican hairless do—I haven't given him a name yet. Don't you think Arthur would be a pretty one?—that poor thing put his foot into a boiling hot kettle of soup stock that cook had set down to cool, somewhere or other where he could get at it. She is so careless, and I've spoken to her again and again about it. Of course I had to discharge her immediately, and there was a terrible scene about it, and then I was without a cook, and Fido threatened with congestion of the lungs, Algie with a torn ear and Arthur's foot scalded. Oh! I am so glad those dark days are over."

"But how did you happen down here?" I asked in some perplexity. "I never knew you came to Asbury Park."

"I never did before," said Mrs. Brown, vivaciously. "It was an inspiration. I reasoned that what Fido needed was a warmer climate—you know that the nights are getting cool now—and that Algie wants only rest and change of air, while I could attend to them all the better if I were somewhere where I didn't know a soul and so wouldn't be disturbed by any social calls or duties whatever. On the way down we stopped in New York to consult Dr. Briggs, and he reassured me so much, and then we came here four days ago. I think all my pets are really better."

"Asbury Park is quite a pleasant place, isn't it?" I asked, rising to go.

"Really I can't say," replied Mrs. Brown. "I have scarcely looked around at all; I've been so busy."

OWEN LANGDON.

Her Majesty Engaged.

Mrs. Struckle—Did ye see th' queen when ye was in England?

Mrs. Gaswell—No; I called on 'er, but they tole me she was engaged. It never occurred to me till then that it was washday.—N. Y. Weekly.

No Brain Trouble.

Anxious Parent—Doctor, he doesn't do a thing except mope around, smoke cigarettes and chew gum. Is it his brain that's affected?

Doctor—No, madam. The trouble is in his head.—Chicago Tribune.

Expressing Their Opinion.

Miss Beacon-Street (of Boston)—I think Mr. Simcoe is sui generis, don't you?

Miss Bleecker—No, I don't. I think he's a freak.—Puck.

Power of Habit.

Blushing Girl—Yes, Dick. My heart is in your keeping.

Young Baggageman—My own darling! Er—want a check for it?—Chicago Tribune.

Asserting His Rights.

"That's exactly what I came here for this evening, Miss Mildred."

The young man laid aside his hat, cane and gloves.

"That's exactly what I came for," he repeated, possessing himself of her hand. "I want you for my wife."

"You might have saved yourself the trouble, Mr. Fairball," exclaimed the girl, taking her hand away. "I shall never marry you."

"Another word of back-talk like that," said the young baseball umpire, quietly but firmly pressing his arm about her waist and pulling her head down on his shoulder, "will cost you twenty-five dollars."—Chicago Tribune.

His Rash Act.

Fangle—What! Swayback committed suicide, did you say?

Cumso—Yes.

"Tell me about it."

"Well, he asked Bloobumper if it was hot enough for him. You know Bloobumper."—Jury.

A Secret of Authorship.

"Here is one of George Smith's charming love-poems in the paper."

"I don't see how a man as busy as he is can find time to write poetry."

"Oh, he doesn't; he dictates to his typewriter."—Harper's Bazar.

How They Got Rich.

She—I could have married either Whipper or Snapper if I'd wanted to, and both those men, whom I refused, have since got rich, while you are still as poor as a churchmouse.—Jury.

AN EXAMPLE TO AGE.

Deacon Hardfacts (President Anti-Tobacco Society)—Young man, I am seventy-nine years old, and I never smoked a puff of tobacco in my life.

Young America (puffing cheroot)—Well, you're not too old to learn yet. Cato learned Greek at eighty, you know.—Puck.

The Majesty of the Law.

The prisoner had just been sentenced to death.

"Your honor is a blanked old fool," he said.

"Officer!" cried the insulted judge, "arrest that man. Your contempt, sir, must be punished. Sixty days in jail, sir, is the sentence of the court. Not a word. I'll hear no defense."—Judge.

A True Friend.

Bronson—Do you ever read your work to anyone before you send it out?

Funniman—No, not now. I used to read it all to my friend Banks, but he is dead.

Bronson—Poor fellow! No wonder.—Life.

A Valued Officer.

Jinks—I can't see why that red-nosed, blear-eyed tough should have such a high official position on a great railroad. What does he know about railroading?

Winks—You just ought to see him railroading a bill through the legislature.—Good News.

Evidently Poverty Stricken.

Mrs. Hayfork—I think we'd better make that there young city feller pay his board in advance.

Mr. Hayfork—Ain't he got no money?

Mrs. H.—He can't have much. He's been goin' around all day in a coat made out of an old flag.—Good News.

The Force of Habit.

"Chollie can't get over his old dry goods habit now that he's in real estate."

"What has he done now?"

"Sold a man a house the other day, and asked him if he wanted it sent."—Toronto Mail.

Taking the Conceit Out of Him.

"How do you like my new suit, Maria. All wool and a yard wide, eh?" said old Binks.

"Yes, that's the trouble," returned Mrs. B. "It's a yard wide, and you ain't more than twenty-four inches across."—Harper's Bazar.

Chappie Wins Five Dollars.

"I'll bet you $5 you can't read my mind," said Chappie.

"Done," said the mind-reader. "Turn your eyes this way. My dear sir, you've won your bet. No man can read what does not exist."—N. Y. Truth.

Strange Liberality.

Paterfamilias—My daughter is one of my treasures, young man. You ask a great deal; and what will you give me in return, eh?

Suitor (from the west)—Oh, I'll give you time on her dowry.—Life.

Lost and Found.

She (on the piazza at evening)—What an awfully large chair! I really feel lost in it.

He—H'm! Well, if you'll let me have the other half of it, I guess I can find you.—Texas Siftings.

A Unique Opinion.

Stopaclock (looking in mirror)—I should call myself quite a handsome man, but do you think my opinion is valuable?

Smith—H'm—it's certainly unique.—Munsey's Weekly.

How He Lost It.

Wallace—You've been losing flesh lately, haven't you?

Willis—Yes I've been shaving myself.—Jury.

DIGGING FOR BODIES

The Ghastly Work in New York Still Continues.

OVER 60 VICTIMS THUS FAR.

A Large Force of Men at Work on the Ruins To-day.

How Many More Bodies Lie Buried Time Will Tell—Many of Those Recovered Are Torn Asunder—Preparing the Unidentified at the Morgue for Burial. More Heartrending Scenes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The Park place ruins are yielding up their dead. Stubbornly they cling to the bodies, making the rescuers fight for every inch of vantage. This is the fourth day since the collapse of the building, and no one yet knows how many are buried there.

In a hundred homes are wailings of women mourning for their lost ones. Many have not even the melancholy comfort of having their dead with them. So all day long they haunt the morgue or the scene of the disaster.

Up to 1 o'clock the bruised and burned bodies of sixty victims of the Park place fire had been taken from the ruins. How many more blackened corpses are still under the mass of bricks, broken timber and twisted iron is yet only a matter of conjecture, but there will probably be forty more unearthed before the debris has been cleared away.

Crowds Surround the Ruins.

The crowds of people with morbid curiosity continue in the streets adjacent to the scene of the disaster. They fight and push and maul each other for places near the police line, where they may see at least the boxes that contain the mangled and burned bodies of the victims as they are lifted out. They can see nothing else, yet they stand and fight for hours. The roofs, the fire escapes, the windows of the adjoining buildings are all crowded, and in these crowds are women, dozens, hundreds of women, all anxious to see a burned human being.

Many Ghastly Scenes.

From midnight until daylight the scenes witnessed by the watchers confirm the belief that the greater number of the victims will be found under the center of the debris where the full weight of the building fell.

From hour to hour the scenes around the ruins differ but little. It is the same ceaseless round of digging at the wreck, broken by the occasional finding of another body. If there is any change at all it is that the fact is brought more and more strongly to the mind of the great extent of the tragedy. Every now and then during the day the Italians unearthed parts of human beings all in a very decomposed state, legs, arms, feet, and in one or two instances heads were found and placed carefully away with any parts of clothing that may have been found near them for the purpose of identification if possible.

At 7:15 a fearfully mangled body was recovered from the east side of the ruins. One-half of the head was completely crushed, and nothing was found which might lead to identification.

At 8:50 another bruised form was found. As the coroner stepped up to view it as it was being raised by the firemen, the head dropped off and disappeared in the black depths below. The body was that of a young girl about 17 years old. At this time three mangled forms were in sight. These three, and also another one, were taken out by 10 o'clock. The last four bodies recovered were those of men.

The Dead Wagon in Demand.

The police on duty have made of a muddy plank from the wreck a sort of counter, upon which the papers and valuables taken from each body as it is dug out are ranged for official registration and examination by the friends present. Alongside of the officer who does this stands the coffin containing the charred corpse that is being searched. It is usually the top of a pile three or four high. Periodically the dead wagon comes for its load, and the pile is removed or dwindles down to one. But ere long it has grown again to its former height. The dead wagon has many a weary journey ahead before it shall have made its last trip down Park Place. It will not be to-day, and mayhap neither to-morrow, nor the day after.

THE UNKNOWN DEAD.

To be Taken from the Morgue and Buried To-day.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The scenes at the morgue to-day were, if it were possible, more pathetic and touching than on any other day since the dreadful calamity.

The "body" room is lined with pine boxes each containing its grim corpse, some of which are becoming so far advanced in decomposition that the odors within the building are most offensive. Some women looking for the remains of missing husband, son or brother, fainted, and had to be carried out of the building.

The clothing, what remains of it, and anything else that might possibly lead to identification, will be preserved and separately marked with the number of the box in which the body was, and the bodies will each be buried separately in marked graves, so that they can be identified and readily exhumed in case they are claimed by the friends or relatives.

Crushed to Death.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 26.—James Barry was crushed to death last evening by the caving of a ditch on Liberty street. Several other men were partially buried and received serious injury. Those of John Hiland will probably prove fatal.

The Western Strike Ended.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 26.—The switchmen's strike is at an end. The strikers made an unconditional surrender.

ALMY BEHIND THE BARS.

Christie Warden's Murderer Placed in Manchester Jail.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 26.—George S. Abbott, alias Frank S. Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, is now in jail here. While on his way to this city a number of people boarded the train and tried to get a glimpse of the prisoner as he lay in his cot in the special car. In the car besides the murderer were Sheriff Brighorn and deputies and several newspaper men.

At Canaan, Hon. George W. Murray, who defended Abbott at his trial for the burglaries in Vermont, passed through the car and immediately recognized the prisoner as his former client.

On the arrival of the train at Concord the crowd was so great that Abbott's car had to be run into the yard to await the making up of the train for Manchester. Warden Phillsbury, of the State prison, came into the car here, and taking the prisoner by the hand said: "How do you do, Abbott?" The prisoner replied: "I do not know you." He appeared to be afraid of the crowd, and drew a sheet over his face to prevent recognition.

Officer Foster, who lives near the Warden farm, on leaving Abbott, grasped his hand, when the latter said "good-bye" and burst into tears.

Almy denies that he is Abbott. He says he wants to be tried for the murder of Christie Warden, but not branded as a horse thief.

HE SAVED HER LIFE.

Ex-Bank President James D. Fish Rescues a Woman at a Fire.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 26.—About 2 a. m. the residence of John J. Butler here was discovered to be on fire by Mrs. J. B. Brown, who was the only occupant of the house. Almost overcome by smoke, Mrs. Brown made her way to a balcony and cried for help.

An old man occupying the next house heard her call, and crossing from the adjoining balcony saved the woman from the flames, which were fast approaching her.

The old man proved to be James D. Fish, ex-president of the Marine Bank of New York, who was sent to State Prison for wrecking the bank in connection with the failure of Grant & Ward, and pardoned by President Cleveland.

The building and contents were damaged to the extent of $16,000.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

One Killed and Many Wounded in a New Jersey Quarry.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 26.—Information has reached here that a fatal explosion occurred in Shandley's quarry on the outskirts of New Brunswick.

Daniel Haggerty was killed, and two boys named Young and Sweeney, as well as several Italians, were wounded. Physicians from Princeton attended the injured, none of whom are supposed to be seriously hurt.

This is the third fatal explosion which has occured in the quarries at that place in the last two years.

Murdered a Wealthy Farmer.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 26.—Frank Hughes, a wealthy Kentucky farmer at Wood Lake, Ky., was murdered in a brutal manner by one of his farm hands, named John Dudley, last night. The latter suspected Hughes of being too intimate with his wife. Thinking that the latter was in Hughes' room he broke open the door and, without waiting to verify his suspicions, emptied a shotgun into his victim's body, killing him instantly. Finding that he had made a fatal mistake he surrendered to the authorities and coolly pleaded self-defense. The murderer will probably be lynched.

Funeral of a Centenarian.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 26.—The funeral of Jacob Steel took place to-day. Mr. Steel was born October 19, 1783, in Springhill township, Fayette county, and resided near Masontown nearly all his life. He never used tobacco, but used whiskey in a moderate degree. He was an early riser, and was noted for the evenness of his temper. On the day of Washington's second election, Steel remembered that he was gathering hickory nuts. When Jefferson resigned from Washington's Cabinet to lead the new Democratic party Jacob was a boy of 10.

Canada's Boodle Scandal.

QUEBEC, Aug. 26.—It is reported that Lieutenant-Governor Angers has positively decided to dismiss his Ministers and will call upon the leader of the opposition, at an early day, to form a new Cabinet. This is a step that has only once been taken before in the history of our Legislature and is on account of the exposures that have been made of boodling by Premier Mercier and his colleagues.

State Convention Delegates.

WEEDSPORT, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The Republican Convention here selected the following delegates to the State Convention: Thomas Hunter, A. Hallett, C. W. Dickinson, T. J. Bell, O. Lewis and A. H. Clark.

Hobart Defeats Hovey.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—Hobart defeated Hovey in the All-Comers tennis match.

PROCTOR APPOINTED

The Secretary of War Will Succeed Senator Edmunds.

A LETTER FROM GOVERNOR PAGE.

The Choice Gives General Satisfaction in Vermont.

Mr. Edmunds' Resignation Takes Effect November 1—Washington Speculating on the Cabinet Vacancy—A Belief that the President Will Select Another Vermonter—Gen. Veazey May be Chosen.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Aug. 26.—Secretary Proctor has received a letter from Gov. Page stating that he will be appointed to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the resignation of the Hon. George F. Edmunds.

The choice gives general satisfaction here, as it undoubtedly does throughout the State.

Secretary Proctor's Successor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The opinion prevails here that the appointment of Mr. Proctor to be the successor of Mr. Edmunds in the Senate was timed so as to add to the pleasure of the President's visit to Vermont as Mr. Proctor's guest. The President is very fond of Mr. Proctor, and thinks him a man of great merit.

There is, of course, a good deal of speculation as to the filling of the Cabinet vacancy. The situation is such, however, that the President is not to be hurried in choosing the new man. Mr. Edmunds' resignation from the Senate does not take effect until November, and consequently there will be nothing to prevent Mr. Proctor remaining in the Cabinet until his term as Senator begins. This, of course, he will do if the President should desire it.

It is generally believed that the President will call on the East to fill the vacancy occasioned by the transfer of Mr. Proctor from the Cabinet to the Senate, and that Vermont may yet get the place.

Gen. Veazey's name has for some time been mentioned in connection with it. His relations with the President are cordial and his executive capacity is rated well here. His prominence in Grand Army circles adds to his strength with the President.

It is recalled, too, that in his speech last week at the Bennington monument celebration the President took occasion to speak highly of Gen. Veazey, and testified thus publicly to his admiration for him.

The appointment of Gen. Veazey to the Secretaryship of War would create another vacancy in the Board of Interstate Commerce Commissioners, but that would only give the President an opportunity to reorganize that board, something that he has for some time desired to do.

HURRICANE IN ENGLAND.

Fear Felt for the Safety of the British and French Fleets.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A fearful hurricane is raging along the south coast of England, and much fear is felt for the safety of the British and French fleets, there being at present no communication between the vessels and the shore.

The French sailors on shore were obliged to remain all night, and 60 British officers were detained on board the Marengo, the flagship of Admiral Gervais.

It has rained in sheets since 8 o'clock.

Mother and Two Children Killed.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 26.—A special train on the Richmond and Beattyville railroad, just after rounding a curve near Nicholasville, came upon a bridge upon which Mrs. Mary Richardson and her three children were walking. Instead of trying to jump, the mother huddled her children around her and faced her certain doom. The engine struck them and the mother and two of the children were killed, while the third escaped unhurt.

Dying from a Clubbing.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Aug. 26.—John Brothers, a Camden policeman, has been committed to the county jail at this place without bail for assaulting Lewis M. Leeds, a prominent Philadelphian, in a hotel at Atlantic City some weeks ago. Leeds was taken to Philadelphia and is lying in a dying condition at a hospital, and is not expected to recover.

Colossal Pumping Station for the Fair.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The World's Fair management have accepted the proposition of the Henry R. Worthington Company of New York to put in a pumping plant, with a capacity of 40,000,000 gallons per day, free of charge. The plant will furnish all the water required for the grounds and buildings, and will cost about $150,000.

The Italian Thief Sentenced.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Rossi Savarini, the Italian who picked the pocket of a waistcoat which he found in the ruins of the Park place fire, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for six months.

SIX PERSONS HURT.

Serious Accident on the Switchback Road at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 26.—A serious accident occurred at 9 o'clock last night on the switchback railroad at this place. The brakes of one of the cars, which was loaded with passengers, gave out, and the car dashed down the incline at a high rate of speed.

Six persons who were in the car were badly hurt. Miss Bessie, daughter of William Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, and niece of the Postmaster-General, had her leg broken. Mrs. E. J. Drippen, wife of a Philadelphia merchant, was badly injured about the face and internally. These two persons were the most seriously hurt.

The accident caused much excitement, and it was at first reported that the Postmaster-General's niece had been killed.

BAD RECORD FOR A SHERIFF.

Six Specific Charges Presented to Gov. Hill by a Drummer.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Six specific charges have been presented to Gov. Hill by Martin O'Melia of Oswego, against Thomas Wheeler, sheriff of Oneida County, setting forth that Wheeler is a disreputable person and unfit to hold office; that he associates with crooks; keeps a keno gambling place in Utica; employs a convicted jury fixer as deputy; is himself an ex-convict; presented fraudulent claims to the supervisors, etc.

O'Melia is a commercial traveler. He has brought a separate civil action for damages against Burke and McElwaine, Wheeler's deputies, for false imprisonment.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

He Was the Guest of Gov. Page in Montpelier This Morning.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Aug. 26.—The President arrived here at 11 a. m. and was the guest of Gov. Page for a short time. Leaving Montpelier at 1:30, stops were made at Plainfield, Wells River, MacIndo's, Barnet and St. Johnsbury.

The latter place will be reached at 4:30 p. m., and here the President will be the guest of Franklin Fairbanks.

On Thursday the President will stop at Bradford and White River Junction and will lunch with ex-Senator Evarts at Windsor.

Farmers for the Legislature.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The Republican primaries held in this county indicate that Harrison Fuller of Adams will be the candidate for Assembly in the first district and Edward Spicer in the second. Both are farmers. Fuller, who is a relative of Hon. R. P. Flower, has defeated the renomination of H. J. Lane. Joseph Mullin of Watertown is the choice of the delegates for Senator, and Watson M. Rogers of Watertown for Supreme Court Judge.

Connecticut's Gubernatorial Muddle.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 26.—H. E. Benton, chairman of the Republican State Committee, says the prospects are bright for a submission of the Gubernatorial controversy to the Supreme Court at the October term. Arrangements are to be made with the Democratic counsel to have the pleadings presented in their simplest form so that the issue could be more speedily disposed of.

An Appeal to Colored Voters.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—An appeal to the colored voters of Massachusetts was issued to-day by the Colored National League and the Massachusetts Equal Rights Association asking them to support William C. Armstrong, a colored man, for State Auditor. If no regular party will nominate him the appeal threatens to run Mr. Armstrong as an independent candidate.

Gettysburg Battlefield Directors Meet.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—The directors of the Battlefield Memorial Association met in yearly session to-day. The treasurer's report shows a balance of $2,000 and the executive committee reported the result of the year's work, which included the opening of two new avenues. Officers for the ensuing year will be chosen this afternoon.

Refuses to Surrender Valuable Papers.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Attorney H. R. Catlin of Terre Haute, Ind., who last Saturday called on J. W. Phillips, agent in this city of Keeler & Jennings, carriage manufacturers of Rochester, N. Y., and after distracting Mr. Phillips' attention took papers which Mr. Phillips values at $50,000, still refuses to surrender the papers under $2,000 bonds to appear for a hearing on the 31st instant.

Good Templars in Convention.

THOUSAND ISLAND PARK, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The annual State convention of the Independent Order of Good Templars opened with nearly 1,500 delegates and members in attendance, and the convention promises to be the most successful they ever held. The convention lasts three days.

Death of Judge Schwartz.

READING, Pa., Aug. 26.—Judge Hiram H. Schwartz, of the Orphans' Court of Berks County, died last evening, after a long illness, at his home in Kutstown, aged 60 years. Mr. Schwartz had been a member of the bar for more than thirty years, and served a term in the State Legislature.

Bob Sims to be Hunted Down.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Solicitor-General Taft has authorized United States Marshal Walker of Alabama to procure a posse and, if possible, capture "Bob" Sims, known as the "Prophet," who is now in Choctaw County, Ala., a fugitive from justice.

Big Dry Goods Store Burned.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The dry goods store of Burke & Ryan, on Atlantic avenue, was burned last night. Loss, $100,000; insured. The fire was caused by the ignition of some light fabrics by a gas jet in the window.

KING KELLY'S SLIDE

He Signs to Play With the Boston League Club.

BASEBALL CIRCLES SURPRISED.

To Receive the Biggest Salary Ever Given to a Player.

He Will be Paid $25,000 from Now Until the Close of the Season of '92—To Captain the Team—He Starts This Morning for Cleveland in a Special Car—The Association Very Bitter.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Mike Kelly, of the Boston Reds, has signed a contract to play with the Boston League club.

The news that Kelly had left the Association created the biggest baseball sensation of the season. The financial consideration which he received was enough to stagger almost any baseball player.

His salary for the present time to the close of the season of 1892, including the bonus which he received for signing, will be the unprecedented sum of $25,000. This is the top notch in the way of salaries to ball players, and is even more than Mike himself ever dreamed of getting.

In addition to receiving this fat salary he has been appointed captain of the nine, Bill Nash having resigned that position a week ago.

Kelly left for Cleveland this morning in a special car chartered for the triumphal tour.

The cause of Kelly's slide is attributed in general to the fact that he felt himself to be too big a man to be ruled by the Association authorities, and in particular to a little row that he had with Manager Irwin just before one of the games with the Baltimores last week. Irwin wanted Kelly to lay off. Kelly wanted to play. Irwin carried his point, and Kelly has been sulking in his tent ever since, and all attempts at pacification have failed.

Whatever the cause, Kelly has lost in popular favor by his latest move. The big mass of the Association followers are very bitter over his departure.

Lynchers in Pursuit.

ELIZABETH, Col., Aug. 26.—Fred C. Mason, manager of the Merino Stock Farm near this place, was shot and killed last night by L. W. Berry, one of his herders. The shooting was the outcome of a quarrel over wages. After shooting, Berry mounted a horse and rode rapidly away. This morning a posse of citizens set out in search of the fugitive, but as yet his capture has not been effected. If Berry is caught he will be lynched on the spot, as Mason was very popular and the shooting was without cause.

Iron Mills Resuming Work.

LEBANON, Pa., Aug. 26.—The strike of the iron mill hands here, which was caused by the refusal of the owners to sign the Amalgamated scale, is practically ended, and the mills are starting up with most of the old hands. The strike begun on July 1 and has resulted in the failure of the men to gain their point.

DYING OF STARVATION.

Peasants in Russia Compelled to Eat Grass and Leaves.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A clergyman living in the province of Kazan, Russia, sends a letter here giving a harrowing description of the sufferings of the unfortunate peasants of that province, brought on by the failure of the crops.

Many of them, he says, are actually starving, while a great number have been unable to obtain bread for weeks, and in their efforts to sustain life have been compelled to eat grass and leaves.

In one of the villages of the province, consisting of fourteen houses, the clergyman found sixteen persons in a terribly emaciated condition, dying from starvation. Only twenty persons were found eating ordinary food in a quantity sufficient to keep them alive.

In a number of other villages a similar state of destitution prevailed, and in all of them many persons were found either dead or dying from starvation.

Great excitement prevails, and an outbreak of the poorer classes of the people of the province may occur at any time.

BITTER RELIGIOUS FIGHT.

A Decision in a Long Contested Suit Between Church Factions.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—A decision has been rendered in the long contested equity suit between the liberal and radical factions of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ.

This contest grew out of the adoption of a new constitution at the general conference in 1889, a portion of the Church objecting to the clause permitting members to unite with secret societies. They withdrew from the conference and organized another and termed themselves the radicals.

The contest for the church property at once began, and has been long and bitter. The suit just decided was, by agreement, a test case. Judge Stewart decides that all the actions of the general conference regarding the adoption of the new constitution were regular, and decrees are entered restraining the radicals from in any way interfering with the church property. The case will be appealed.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Half of Charleston, Ark., was burned out last night.

The Russian government is about to place a partial embargo on the export of oats.

William H. Danley has died at Williamsport, Pa., from the sting of a honey bee, which caused paralysis.

The Attorney-General of Texas has decided that nuns may teach in the public schools of the State.

The National Convention of the Daughters of Liberty is in session at Watertown, Conn. The annual report shows a gain of over 3,000 members since the last annual meeting. L. H. Stevens of Marlboro, Mass., was elected National Councillor.

Mrs. Fannie J. Lahne, of Lowell, Mass., who has just attached the property of Mrs. Ida Clark for $15,000 damages in an action of tort, alleges as the reason that Mrs. Clark alienated her husband's affections. Mrs. Lahne is the wife of a well-known inventor.

Cuba, N. Y., is crowded with veterans who are attending the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic of Western New York. Asa W. Tenny of New York, the orator of the day, referred especially in his remarks to the dangers of unrestricted immigration.

John F. Arnold, a well-known citizen of North Adams, Mass., who was formerly in the print cloth business, died during the morning, aged 76. He was a candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket in 1872 and for Lieutenant-Governor on the ticket with General Butler.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Do not miss the chance to go on the last excursion of the season from Plainfield to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, with the Warren Union Mission, on Friday of this week.

—The Scotch Plains patriarch of seventy who took unto himself a wife of fifteen exhibits a youthfulness of appreciation of the good things of this life that a legal inquiry into his sanity could not fail to establish.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

—Mahlon Titus, of Scotch Plains, while under the influence of liquor, fell out of his wagon in this city at noon to-day. He was picked up unconscious and taken to Muhlenberg Hospital. Dr. Tomlinson was not able to tell at once the extent of his injuries.

—Ed Hoover, well known as "Smoke Stack", who has painted the largest smoke stacks in this country, is in town to-day, painting a stack for Mr. Coddington in North Plainfield. Among the stacks he has recently painted is one at Penn Argyl, Pa., 185 feet tall.

—The special palace car which will convey the members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, and their friends to Atlantic City, to-morrow, will leave Plainfield at 7:30 a. m., and connect with the excursion train bearing Damascus Commandery, No. 7, of Newark, at Elizabethport.

—The interior of the Congregational church is being handsomely decorated by Thomas R. Clarkson and James Clarkson. The wood-work is being varnished, and the plastering frescoed, adding much to the finish of the pretty little church. The Clarksons are to paint the parsonage also.

—"Smokestack", otherwise Ed Hoover, is alive yet and in Plainfield again. If anybody has a steeple, stack or chimney to paint, he would better secure Hoover before he leaves. He uses neither ladder nor scaffold, and goes to the top of a stack or of the highest church steeple with the agility of a cat.

—When the band at the Asbury Park pavilion plays "The Star-Spangled Banner", the applause is furious. Strangers are surprised until they learn that it was this band which was on the United States ship Trenton when she was driven ashore in the cyclone at Samoa, and which struck up the national anthem in the moment of danger, eliciting cheers from a British frigate that was drifting by.

—The Rev. E. H. Stewart, pastor of the Baptist church at Portland, Pa., will speak in Reform Hall to-morrow evening, on the subject, "Duty, the Line of Action." The many friends of Mr. Stewart who remember his glowing account of the temperance crusade in Kansas City, where he resided for a number of years, and where he was closely identified with the temperance movement, will be glad to hear him once more in this city. All will be welcome.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Nettie Randall is visiting friends in Lebanon, Hunterdon county.

Frank D. Randolph, of Madison avenue, has returned from Lake Hopatcong.

Miss Annie Blazier, of Newark, is visiting Mrs. Wm. Demler, of Washingtonville.

Miss Clara Ward and Miss Mary Brooks are enjoying the rural breezes at High Bridge.

Councilman J. F. Buckle and the two Misses Buckle, of North Plainfield, are visiting relatives in South Jersey.

Mrs. S. O. Doane, of East Fourth street, mother of chief engineer T. O. Doane, is very much better of her recent illness.

W. D. Murray will lead the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4:15, and the Rev. Carter Helm Jones will speak.

L. J. Briggs, jr., lately residing on Arlington avenue, this city, takes possession of his new residence on Quality Hill, Fanwood, to-day.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Corey, sister of Mrs. T. O. Doane, of this city, will take place at Scotch Plains to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

Stewart Johnson, who was for many years a carpenter in this city, and who served through the late war, died at Basking Ridge yesterday. He leaves two children.

The Front Street Boys Won

A nine composed of boys under sixteen years of age, living on Front street, defeated a nine chosen from Second street, in a hotly contested game on the Sixth street grounds, yesterday afternoon, by the score of 25 to 16. The batteries were; For the Front streets, R. E. Sebring, pitcher, J. W. Voehl, catcher; for the Second streets, M. Sutphen, pitcher, C. Sutphen, catcher. The feature of the game was the batting of W. Kreitling of the Front streets.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

AT IT AGAIN.

Big-Mouthed Carey Once More Accused of Oppression and Wrong.

Among the tenants of Tunis J. Carey, the past 18 months, has been Joseph S. Levy, a Hebrew merchant. Levy is an honest, industrious man, with a large family. His expenses are so heavy that his income from his store hardly meets it, and he told his landlord a month or two ago that he would seek another field about Sept. 1.

Levy always paid his rent in advance. He still has in his possession receipts from Carey showing the payments. A receipt bearing date of May 4 is "for rent from May 1 to June 1". A receipt dated June 3 is "for rent from June 1 to July 1". A receipt dated July 6 is "for rent for the month of July". Levy did not pay his rent again till Aug. 12, when Carey gave him, in his own handwriting a receipt. That rent was of course for the month of August, but as Levy reads English only imperfectly he did not notice that in the body of the document Carey wrote "one month's rent —for July"—a month for which he already had made payment and held a receipt.

Yesterday Levy was away in New York. His goods, which he values at $1,200, were packed up in his store ready for shipment. During his absence Carey was very busy trying to squeeze more money out of his departing tenant. He went to Charles A. Reed and got papers issued to compel Levy to pay his August rent! Then he asked constable Amos Moffett to serve them. Mr. Moffett looked into the case and refused to take the papers. "I don't want to burn my fingers"—he said. The name of constable Rockfellow was suggested, but Carey, with language characteristic of his foul mouth, said he did n't want Rockfellow, because that worthy had once taken a case against him.

Carey finally found in G. R. Musgrave a man who agreed to act as bailiff, and he went to Mrs. Levy and demanded the August rent. Mrs. Levy insisted that it was paid, and Musgrave so reported to Carey. Then Carey's man Krewson, acting for Carey, broke into Levy's store, seized his goods, and transferred them into Carey's auction and storage rooms in the same building—all this in spite of Mrs. Levy's plea to wait an hour until her husband should return from New York, when he would pay any honest debt that was due.

While the place was being smashed in and the goods were being carried away a big crowd gathered in front of the place, and considerable excitement prevailed. Carey's man was very rough, and pushed things around so that Mrs. Levy, with a baby in her arms, was knocked to the floor, where she lay for some time in a fainting fit. She is now under the attendance of Dr. Long, the result of illness brought on by the shock.

Levy says he will demand an instant trial of the case between himself and Carey, and will make things hot for his unjust landlord.

Some time ago Justice Nodyne issued an attachment for debt on some of the goods at Carey's place, and constable Rockfellow executed it. Then Carey went up to judge Nodyne's office and abused him for having done his duty. At that time he said: "I don't give a ——— for the law. Hereafter I'm going to take it into my own hands." This is the way this model ex-policeman does it. Such lawlessness must be suppressed.

THE PHYSICIAN'S CERTIFICATE.

This is to certify that I am now attending Mrs. A. Levy for alleged injuries received yesterday, and for nervous prostration resulting therefrom.

A bruise appears upon each arm and one upon the left side, besides scratches upon the right arm and face. M. B. LONG, M. D.

The following is a list of the goods Carey seized for the alleged debt of $40:

40 Children's cloaks	$160.00
12 Ladies' cloaks	90.00
30 Boys' overcoats	150.00
20 Men's "	160.00
36 Cardigan jackets	54.00
50 Men's underwear	50.00
50 " "	25.00
Lot ladies' dress goods	300.00
12 dozen shirts	86.40
12 pair blankets	50.00
6 quilts	10.00
1 show case	4.50
Lot ribbon	30.00
Lot furnishing goods	20.00
Lot kid gloves	10.00
1 mirror	20.00
	$1,225.90

Justice Wadsworth issued a search warrant this morning and it was given to Constable Mattox to serve. It requires that the goods, wherever found, and also Carey, Krewson and Musgrave, be brought before the Justice.

Crushed Between Cars.

A Jersey Central railway detective has been investigating an accident which occurred to a young son of Mrs. Edwena Moore, of East Fifth street, a week ago. The lad was crossing the tracks between two rows of cars standing on a siding when drill locomotive 30 bumped into the cars and caught the boy between them. He was badly bruised, and nearly had the life crushed out of him, but is now recovering nicely. The detective exculpates the crew of No. 30, against whom complaint of carelessness had been made, from all blame in the matter.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.

Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

ABUSED HIS BENEFACTOR.

John Eder Threatens to Murder Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maier With a Pair of Car-Couplings.

Yesterday afternoon about four o'clock, John Eder entered the Park hotel, Dunellen, and after taking, it is said, a few drinks became abusive. He was ordered out but refused to go. So proprietor Maier with the help of his wife, put the man out in a way more forcible than stylish.

Eder thereupon proceeded to the railway track where he secured a pair of car-couplings and started back to the hotel threatening to kill the family. Mrs. Maier ran out and cried murder which seemed to frighten him, and he did not enter. In the meantime an officer had been summoned, and Eder was arrested.

Before Judge Coles, Eder was charged by Joseph Maier, with being drunk and disorderly. When asked if he had any defence to make, Eder confessed the charge was correct, but that the hotel people had used him "bad." On the other hand, Mr. Maier said that he had given the accused a home for months, hoping he would get work, but when he saw he would not even try he ordered him to keep away from the place. The prisoner promised to leave town if released, and the judge allowed him to go on that condition.

Eder is said to be a good engineer and to have held responsible positions in the past with the Baltimore and Ohio Railway Company. He took the train for Philadelphia, last evening.

A LOCK-UP FOR DUNELLEN.

Subscriptions for That and Town Rooms, Are Solicited and Will be Acknowledged in THE PRESS.

The many Dunelleners who read THE PRESS's article on "Dunellen's Opportunity," have discussed the possibilities and advantages of organizing a fire department and building a lock-up. THE PRESS correspondent upon interviewing the leading citizens, finds that where there is one in favor of a fire department, there are many against it, but all seem to favor erecting a suitable building for a lock-up and town offices. So THE PRESS, ready to do anything to help the thriving borough along, will commence work, canvassing for the lock-up first, and look into the matter of a fire department afterwards.

A Subscribers' Blank has been drawn up and THE PRESS correspondent is now around receiving the names of those willing to give towards the good purpose. The growing need of the improvement proposed is proven every day. Yesterday there was a case, reported elsewhere, that threatened to be desperate. No one can tell at what moment such things will happen, and the time to take precaution, is before the thing occurs.

From time to time THE PRESS will publish the list of names showing the total amount subscribed. Read THE PRESS and see what is being done.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

President Moffatt Resigns.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 26.—President D. H. Moffatt, of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, has tendered his resignation to the board of directors. Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 24, 1891.

J. B. COWARD, City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

Concerning the use and repairs of streets.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That in case the surface of any of the streets or sidewalks of said city shall have been disturbed or shall be disturbed by any person or persons or corporation, it shall be the duty of such person or persons or corporation respectively within ten days after such disturbance, or in case the same shall have already been made before the date on which this ordinance shall go into effect, then within ten days from the date last referred to, to cause said streets or sidewalks to be put as nearly as practicable in as good condition as the same were in before being disturbed as aforesaid, so that the same shall be hard, smooth and even on the surface and of the same grade and level as before said disturbance was begun.

And it shall further be the duty of any such person or persons or corporation in case any such disturbance as aforesaid or any work done in connection therewith by such person or persons or corporation has caused or shall at any time or times cause any depression or elevation in any street or sidewalk so disturbed, to remedy said defect within ten days after being notified by the street commissioner in writing so to do.

Any person or persons who, or any corporation which shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each and every offence.

Fees—$4.50.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the obtaining and furnishing of a supply of water to the City of Plainfield for the purpose of extinguishing fires and other lawful uses and purposes.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That upon the approval or final adoption of this ordinance, the consent of the corporate authorities of the City of Plainfield be and the same is hereby given to Joseph M. Low and six others, his associates, four of whom shall be residents of the State of New Jersey, to associate themselves as a body politic and corporate under the name of the Plainfield Aqueduct Company, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating water-works for the purpose of supplying the City of Plainfield and its inhabitants with water. And that the Mayor and City Clerk be authorized and instructed to sign the assent of the corporate authorities of the city to the certificate of the incorporation of said company.

Section 2. That after said company shall have been duly incorporated, and shall have entered into contract with the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield for the supplying of the city and the inhabitants thereof with pure and wholesome water, said contract to be agreed upon by the Common Council and the company, and said contract shall have been duly executed under the seals respectively of said company and said city and not before, said company be given authority to lay pipes beneath such public roads, streets, avenues and alleys as they may deem necessary for the purposes aforesaid.

That said grant is made upon the conditions aforesaid, and not otherwise, and in case the said company does not comply with all the conditions of this ordinance, including the due execution of said contract and the bond to be therein mentioned, within a period of thirty days after personal notice to said Joseph M. Low, or notice given by publication in the official papers of the City of Plainfield, then all the provisions of this ordinance shall cease, determinate and become void without further notice.

Adopted by the Common Council July 27, 1891.

Re-adopted August 21, 1891, notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor.

Attest—J. B. COWARD, City Clerk.

Fees—$8.40.

OUR "Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from A A to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Dr. Zeglio Almost Lost His Life, and Great Damage to Property Was Done.

THE PRESS is indebted to Dr. Zeglio, of Warrenville, for a graphic description of a genuine cyclone, which passed over a portion of the country near where the Doctor resides, on Sunday evening last, about half-past five o'clock. The Doctor states he was returning to his home in a buggy, from a professional visit. When near Gillette, a small village near the Passaic River, he was startled by a most unearthly noise, resembling, he said, the rumbling of a hundred railway trains. Looking about him he saw a funnel-shaped cloud of immense proportions—reaching from the earth to the sky—approaching him, tearing up everything in its way. He instantly put the whip to his horse and ran the animal beyond the confines of the cyclone, making ready as he did so for a jump for life, by unloosening the blankets about his person. He says the cloud, or cyclone, was making progress in a zig-zag fashion, and he never felt himself in so much danger of sudden death as at the time.

Later reports prove that this wind cloud created considerable havoc in its course. It cut a swath through heavy timber at least 200 feet in width, uprooting and twisting off trees of over twelve inches in diameter. At the farm of Robert Cornish, at Gillette, it struck a farm wagon and completely demolished it into kindling wood—catching up another heavily-loaded wagon and carrying it a long distance. The barn of his neighbor, Chris Castle, was moved from its foundation. Reports are that other buildings in the vicinity were unroofed and great damage done. Dr. Zeglio is a reliable man. He says that he is very thankful the cyclone did not hit him or his outfit.

OTHER DETAILS.

A correspondent furnishes the following additional particulars of the damage wrought by the storm:

The tornado that swept through Passaic Valley, Sunday afternoon, uprooted many trees, and in one instance moved a barn belonging to Charles Castle, of Gillette, off its foundations. A well of Castle's also was wrecked.

A large family carriage belonging to Robert Cornish that had just been used by the family coming home from Sunday-school was left outside of the wagon house. A large black cloud came swiftly down the valley from the direction of Millington, following a direct line. It struck the wagon house, tearing part of the roof off. The wagon was lifted off the ground and hurled among some trees over a hundred feet away. It was a complete wreck.

The storm next struck George Nicksdops's house, tearing the roof completely off, and deluging the inmates with a flood of rain.

Two large stacks of hay that had been stacked on high ground were carried completely away. The peach orchard of John Fredericks, of about 1,000 trees was utterly ruined, many of the trees being twisted out of their place. The ground was completely covered with peaches, which will prove a total loss.

The storm cloud was watched by many from the hills as it swept along the valley. The noise resembled the roaring of heavy trains of cars. The Passaic river is full of limbs of trees which were torn off.

Robert Cornish had a mowing machine carried half a mile across a field by the wind.

The cyclone swept a clean path two hundred feet wide through the woods, leveling all before it.

It was the worst storm that visited that section in years.

Highwaymen Hiding in Plainfield's Mountains.

The notorious Scott brothers—John and Howard—who have terrorized the farmers of Middlesex county for years, were run down by Detectives Oliver and Housell, of New Brunswick, a few nights ago, and are now in jail at New Brunswick awaiting trial. The Scotts recently held up the station agent at Plainsboro, and with pistols pointed at his head demanded the cash he had taken in during the day. They were driven off by the appearance of some farmers. Since that time they have been living in the mountains near Plainfield, and were captured while planning a raid upon a farmhouse near New Brooklyn. They have plundered many farmers at Cranbury and other places, and will probably be sentenced for long terms of imprisonment.

Captain Hubbard Better.

J. Frank Hubbard, of this city, Director of the county board of freeholders, has been dangerously ill at Westerly, R. I., but he is reported as slightly better this morning. He is one of a large gathering of delegates to a conference of the Seventh-Day Baptists. Half of these delegates have been sick but Mr. Hubbard's case was the worst. He was seized with a congestive chill about two o'clock the other morning when alone in his room. It was not until five o'clock that he was discovered and then he was delirious. Dysentery set in and his condition was so alarming that his wife and his daughter, Mrs. I. Newton VanSickle, were sent for.

A New Hose Cart for Fanwood.

At a meeting of the Fanwood fire department, last night, a resolution to purchase a hose cart was unanimously carried, and Messrs. Pentz, Gibbs, Stevens and Anderson were appointed a committee to make the selection.

"THE WATCHFUL SIX."

Here's a Correspondent Who Asks a Question and Then Answers it Fully and Truly.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Why does the New York Tribune keep up its everlasting howl about the "Democratic Big Six" of the Plainfield Common Council? The correspondent from this city must know that there is no politics in the so-called "combine". A majority of the Council, four Democrats and two Republicans, have simply resolved that an ancient ring shall not control them to the detriment of the people, and because said ring are baffled, they are attempting to prejudice the voters against these faithful six gentlemen, to their own aggrandizement. But happily the voters of Plainfield are not fools, and you will see that the people will sustain the watchful six in all that they have done. M.

The Sensitive Saloon Keeper on the Increase.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I find a despatch from Fall River, Mass., in THE PRESS of this evening which states that a libel suit has been brought against the proprietor of the Globe of that city by a saloon keeper, because the paper had spoken of him as one who is engaged in the "graveyard" business.

I have learned from your columns that THE PRESS also has been sued for libel by a saloon keeper of Plainfield, and that, too, for simply publishing some details of a little performance in his saloon that was not provided for in the regular programme of the "concert".

It is gratifying to know that THE PRESS will not be so lonesome as it otherwise might have been, when it thinks of its Fall River contemporary. But, really, these rare cases in libel litigation indicate a preternatural sensitiveness on the part of some saloon keepers that is astonishing (not to say, amusing), to every VETERAN OBSERVER.

Michael Higgins's Mortgage Methods.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

George Gordon of this city has had a lively experience in a horse case. He recently sold seven horses to liveryman Higgins, of Plainfield, and was given a chattel mortgage on the horses. Higgins, it was discovered lately, had issued about fifteen chattel mortgages on his stock of horses and carriages. There were seven on the horses alone, and of course trouble ensued.

Four of the mortgagees, Messrs. Thompson, Clark, Woodruff and Nash, of Plainfield, combined, and advertised the horses for sale, but Mr. Gordon had a first mortgage, and he stepped in before them and sold the horses himself on Saturday last. Liveryman Dunham, of Rahway, took the same course with the wagons, etc., getting in ahead of the numerous mortgages which had been given on them.

False News From New Brunswick.

The following fool items are entirely untrue. They are both from New Brunswick papers of yesterday. The first emanates from a street rumor; the second is received by telephone from the sheet on Somerset street that is now buying its bread with money received for advertising "Daisy Dellmores."

(From the Fredonian.)

The Plainfields were to contest a game with the New Brunswicks this week, but it was whispered around on the grounds Saturday that Plainfield had "squealed."

(From the Home News.)

PLAINFIELD, Aug. 25.—Miss Daisy Dellmore a singer in a concert hall here, has brought suit against the Daily Press for $10,000 damages for an article published last week which she claims is untrue and detrimental to her character.

Another One Sided Game.

The Crescent League's ball team goes to Westfield, next Saturday. The batting order will be: Jones, center field; Lufbery, second base; Tierney, right field; Keeler, short stop; McIndoe, right field; Hammill, pitcher; Holly, first base; Lee, third base; Bonner, catcher.

As THE PRESS has before remarked, the Westfield nine is entirely outclassed by the Crescents. The former are not the same kind of players as the latter. Westfield cannot possibly win Saturday unless the Plainfield players give the game away.

NEWS OF THE THEATER.

Something About Plays and Players Who Will Some Day Visit Plainfield's New Music Hall.

[From THE PRESS' Special Correspondent.]

There is no mistaking the fact that the opening of the regular theatrical season is imminent. The very air we breathe is burdened with the throbbing notes of preparation. A melodrama with some kind of an explosive "effect", a farce comedy, a comic opera, and a double quartette of "selected voices" are all rehearsing within earshot of me as I write. I leave it to the readers of THE PRESS to imagine what soul-soothing harmonies this combination produces. And it is the same wherever you go within a mile of the new Rialto. From two to six companies are rehearsing daily in every theatre, hall, and—I was going to say—dry goods box, but I will be truthful, even at the expense of euphony. As a simile, however, the term would not be very far-fetched. In some instances three or four companies are rehearsing at the same time in the larger theaters, and I was told last evening of a farce comedy organization that was put to the straits of renting a vacant store on Sixth avenue and pasting newspapers over the glass front to shut out the vulgar gaze or passers-by. The agony will soon be over, though, for next week a large majority of these will sink in the treacherous sea of public favor in various parts of the country.

Last Thursday night Rose Coghlan was seen in Leopold Jordan's new comedy, "Dorothy's Dilemma", at the Park. There was an overflowing house upon that occasion, for, in addition to the natural interest always excited by the appearance of Miss Coghlan in a new play, everybody was anxious to see her don that promised disguise of an English dragoon, mount her spirited charger and ride away at full speed. Some envious rival had intimated that the horse used by Miss Coghlan was purchased the other day from one of the street car companies, but Manager Geo. Wotherspoon denies this with much indignant emphasis.

DeWolf Hopper tells a good story that is worth printing whether it has any solid foundation or not. It seems, according to his version, that just before the matinee last Saturday, there was a timid knock on his dressing-room door and in toddled little 4-year-old Lillie Klein, the smallest of the tots who sing the doll song in the last act of "Wang." Lillie did n't wait to be questioned but said very bluntly and earnestly, "we've struck". In other words, she and her little companions would not play any more in "Wang." Their grievance was that they had been overlooked in the distribution of elephant souvenirs at the 100th performance. Their dignity had been assailed and they chose this emphatic manner of resenting it. Hopper nearly had a fit, but managed to preserve a serious countenance long enough to abuse Manager Stevens roundly for his neglect and present a souvenir himself to each of the children. They at once changed their minds about striking and went their way rejoicing. Thus was a disaster averted by diplomacy. "Wang" is still drawing largely at the Broadway and seems likely to do so for the rest of its run there.

Henry E. Dixey was the center of much attention on Broadway the other day. Some of the young actor's sinister friends suggest the possibility that his wonderful summer suit had more to do with this attention than his own personality. This is cruel, but—well, the suit was certainly worth a second look, anyway. Mr. Dixey was as blandly imperturbable as usual. "If 'The Solicitor' is n't a success" he said, "I can always return to burlesque, but—well I think 'The Solicitor' will be a success. The reason for my move? Well, I can see no future for burlesque—not at all. I knew I was eventually doomed to comedy, so, Charles Frohman made me such a handsome offer, I thought I had better accept it. I shall play my part just as it is written—perfectly straight, as we say. I like it very much. If 'The Solicitor' does not please, I have something else, and if the something else, does not go—well, I can still draw upon my resources."

"Jane", another of Mr. Frohman's attractions, seems to have caught the popular fancy and is nightly playing to large audiences at the Madison Square. Apropos of this comedy, its recent successful production in Australia and its present run here has prompted Mr. Frohman to assign to it the second place on the list of pres entations to be undertaken by his new Boston Stock Company.

Mme. Marazzi Diligenti, a distinguished Italian actress of the emotional school, arrived here a few days ago. She will make her debut at a local theater next month under the management of the well-known impresario, Signor De Vivo. The madame will play in English, which she speaks with great purity, and she will be supported by a strong American Company.

It is worthy of record, that with a single exception, Frederick Paulding will retain for the season the full company engaged for the New York production of "The Struggle of Life". This is rather unusual and should be appreciated by the audiences of other cities, as managers and stars are often apt to curtail expenses by engaging inferior artists for the "road", thus doing injustice to their play and the public, which certainly has a right to the best, if it pays for it. George W. Denham, the well-known comedian, will create an important character in Mr. Paulding's play, but owing to a previous contract with Messrs. Jefferson and Florence, he will be obliged to relinquish it after the New York season. Murray Woods, so long and favorably connected with the "Casino", will take Mr. Denham's place when that gentleman retires from the cast.

The new play which Richard Mansfield announces for production at the Garden theater next month will probably be "Nero". His recent revival of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" was most successful.

Daniel Frohman has a sign on the door of his Lyceum theater office which bears the significant legend: "No engagements can be considered". There is a sort of all-hope-abandon-ye-who-enter-here frankness about this kind of treatment. Henry Arthur Jones's new play "The Dancing Girl" will be produced at the Lyceum very soon by E. H. Sothern and company.

Petite, plump and pretty Annie Meyers has left the "Tar and Tartar" Company to prepare for her forthcoming appearance at the Casino in October. Marie Tempest will then be the prima-donna at the Casino and it is likely that Miss Meyers will lose some of her erstwhile sweet tranquility. Miss Tempest is very, very charming, but she likes to rule the roost. Little Annie will probably get all that the Tempest does n't want.

Miss Bessie Marbury has become a full-fledged manager and will represent Charles Frohman at Proctor's theater. She will be responsible for the production of "Thermidor".

"Jack" Haverly is falling rapidly into his old habit of changing his mind. Last week he said he was done with minstrely. To-day he announces his intention of managing the New Emerson Minstrels. Vale Jack.

PLAINFIELD FOR CHEAPER DRUGS.

The State Laboratory in New Jersey Already an Assured Success.

The New Jersey Pharmaceutical association will, during this week, send out their prospectus for the establishment of a State Laboratory. This is a new enterprise, and the first of the kind in the United States. It is planned in the interest of cheap drugs for the people, and on that account its success or failure will be carefully watched. The drug-trade papers are already attacking the new venture in the interest of the wholesale houses, and predict for it a short career.

At the last meeting of the Association, which represents 700 of the druggists in the State, W. Scott Taylor of Trenton brought to the notice of the Board a plan for manufacturing drugs on the co-operative plan, and securing standard preparations at first cost. A special committee was appointed, consisting of W. Scott Taylor, W. C. Alpers, A. M. Linnett, A. L. Avery, and Charles Holzhauer, to devise a plan for the establishment of a State Laboratory, and they have just prepared the circular which will be sent to the 1,600 druggists in New Jersey. The circular seeks mainly an expression of the views of the druggist as to the feasibility of the venture. It states that "the aim of the laboratory would be to manufacture for sale to stockholders at cost (and to others at market rates) all galenical and such pharmaceutical preparations as are supplied by manufacturing pharmacists, thus creating a demand for a line of goods which would bear the approval and be under the supervision of the State Association." The cost to the manufacturer and the net price of his list are conceded to be very far apart. As an instance it cites "deodorized tincture of opium as quoted by Scheffelin & Co.'s latest list at $1.75 a pound, the actual cost of which at the present price of ether, alcohol, and opium is 61 cents per pound, not counting the reclaimed ether."

It is impossible to say at this date where the laboratory will be located, but it will most likely be in Newark, as the most ready capital is in that place. There are about a dozen men in Jersey City ready to go into the scheme, and in Newark quite a large sum is pledged. The Paterson druggists are also becoming interested. The State Association will be called together early in September to take definite action on the plan proposed by the Special Committee. In Plainfield H. P. Reynolds and R. J. Shaw are greatly interested in the scheme, and since men of such energy and enterprise have taken hold of the matter it is bound to be a great success.

JOHN'S APPRENTICESHIP.

When he was twenty-five years old, John Bowers graduated,
And men of commonplace ideas pronounced him educated;
But he took three years for travel to learn Russian pessimism,
To study old Italian art, and German mysticism.

Then came a hard postgraduate course which took him three years longer;
Then, though his health was very poor, his intellect was stronger.
His physical condition now approached emaciation,
The doctor ordered two years' rest for his recuperation.

He studied law—it took three years its mysteries to unravel,
And then to study foreign law three more long years for travel,
When he returned his big mustache with long gray hairs was threaded,
He'd lost his eyesight long before, and now was quite bald-headed.

When he was thirty-nine years old our intellectual giant
Hung out his legal shingle, and then waited for his client.
The girl he loved in youthful days had long since wed another,
And had grown a portly matron and an excellent grandmother.

The boys he knew in grammar school seemed ancient as progenitors,
And one was governor of the state, and two of them were senators,
But he sat in his office, in retired sequestration,
And waited long for clients with their tales of litigation.

One day when he was forty-five, came in his earliest client.
John tried to be as quiet as the poetry of Bryant,
But the shock it came so sudden, with such overwhelming power,
That he fell with apoplexy, and he died within an hour.

—S. W. Foss, in Yankee Blade.

A DEADLY HATE.

John Martin's Terrible Revenge on the Savage Apaches.

IN THE cool of the morning John Martin kissed his wife and two little ones bye-bye at the door of their humble home, half frame, half dugout, took his team and went over the roll of the prairie to work at his plowing, about half a mile from the house. As he paused on the top of the roll before going from sight, he called back to his wife: "Mary, let Georgie come to me at noon with a lunch and fresh drink of buttermilk. It's so far that I don't think I'll come up for dinner. Give the little coltie a drink and some grass, too."

His wife called back: "All right, dear," and waved her apron. He turned to his team and started them on. As he said "get up," the near side animal, whose little coltie was left behind in the rough corral, turned her head, and, looking back, whinnied long and loud.

"Come, come, Fan, go on; what's the matter with you? My babies are back there, too, and they will see that your baby doesn't get hungry or thirsty. Come, go along, old girl; we must go and work for our babies."

The team started, and chatting cheerfully to them for company's sake, they went on to their work.

The sun climbed higher, and furrow after furrow was turned. John kept the team going steadily, but Fan was restive and would throw her head up and look around and then throw herself into the collar and forge ahead as though suddenly anxious to get the work finished.

"What does ail you, Fan? you seem daft," said John, finally; "does your harness hurt you, old girl?" And then he went over the harness, carefully examining each strap and piece where it touched her sleek coat. "Old girl, your harness is all right, and you are just fussing for nothing. Now, if you don't go steady you'll get whipped." He went back between the handles of the plow, and Fan threw her nose up over her mate's neck, looking in the direction of the house and whinnied so shrill and mournful that John involuntarily looked in the same direction. He started. Were his eyes deceiving him! Was that a thin column of smoke rising in the clear air from over the roll of the prairie? His heart almost stopped beating. It is smoke! Fast as his fingers could move he undid the harness fastenings from the team, threw the harness to the ground, released one horse and sprang upon Fan's back. She needed no urging or directing, but leaped like an arrow from the bow. As they gained the summit of the rise of ground John looked, and had to clutch the horse's mane to keep from falling. A thin blue column of smoke was rising from the ground where his home had stood, and as he cast an agonized look over the plain for some sign of life he saw away off on the distant horizon a few rapidly-diminishing specks and a little cloud of dust.

"Oh, Fan, hurry, hurry!" No use to urge the creature; she seemed to share his fear, and was doing the best that flesh and blood could do. At the little bed of hot ashes she stopped and he rolled from her back. For a few seconds he could not see and his limbs trembled so that he could not walk. He knew what sight would meet him. All at once he steadied up and the dimness left his eyes; he braced himself to meet the worst. A few steps from him lay the body of his little boy Georgie, the one that was to bring him his lunch and drink at noon. He bent over and tenderly kissed the little dead face. "Two more," he whispered to himself; "two more; where are they?" They were not far away—the little girl, three years old, with long brown hair, and the wife—dead, and the scalping knife had done its work. He did not cry; he did not even groan, but the look of life had gone out of his face.

Side by side he laid the three, around whom all his hopes, all his ambitions, his love, was centered, now gone from him in a moment it seemed. Silently he gazed at them for a time and then turned away. His must be the hand to fashion their last resting place. As he turned away to look about again he heard a light whinny come from the cattle yard and he walked that way. There stood Fan over the body of her colt whinnying pitifully and nudging it with her nose to induce it to get up.

"Your baby, too, hey, Fan. Poor Fan! poor me!"

He staid by his dead all day and all night; then he laid them gently in the grave he made them, pressing a last kiss upon the unresponsive lips of each. His task finished, he mounted Fan, and drawing rein beside the mounds for a last look, raised his hand toward heaven and took oath: "I swear before God, beside the graves of my dead, that so long as I have life I shall hunt Apaches. They have robbed me of all, and my hate shall never be satisfied."

A couple of officers were enjoying their after-dinner smoke sitting in chairs tilted back against the shady side of the quartermaster's building.

"Say, captain, have you noticed anything strange about these Apaches since we brought them back to the reservation?"

"Nothing special that I can think of. They're a grisly lot anyway. Why do you ask?"

"Because I've noticed now that they keep close to headquarters and don't go out in bands of two or three; and again, they're holding lots of powwows, and every day or so they bring in a dead buck."

"Oh, have you just found that out? Why, that's old to everybody but the reds, and with them it isn't allowed to get old. Ever since the Sandy Fork raid, that the Apaches made, they have had a nemesis after them. Who it is or how many no one knows, but if a buck gets away from the crowd it's ten to one he doesn't come back, and when they start out to find him, which they usually do, he has become a good Indian; and from the way in which they're being picked off the whole band will be wiped out by and by."

Just then a tall, gray-haired man, dressed as a scout, came past and changed the current of their conversation.

"Who is that chap?" asked the lieutenant of his brother officer, scanning the scout closely.

"I don't know," was the reply; "he comes to the post once in awhile; gets a lot of stuff, mostly ammunition; never stays or stops to talk; always rides that same big mare."

The stranger dismounted at the door of the store and entered. He had scarcely passed out of sight when an Indian sneaked up cautiously and began to examine the horse, paying particular attention to her feet and her tracks.

"What do you suppose that buck's up to?" queried the captain.

"He's getting points so that he can trail the animal," was the reply.

"Look out! By gracious, that was neat."

This exclamation was called forth by the action of the horse. The Indian, in his investigations, stooped and picked up her foot, presumably to examine the shoe. There was a quick move, a thud, and an Indian rolled over on the grass with a crushed skull. The animal stood as quiet as before. Two or three white men ran up and the owner of the horse came out of the store. When he saw the dead brave a smile lighted up his set face as he patted his horse's neck. "Another one, eh? Fan, that's right; keep up the work, old girl. One more scratch on the rifle breech makes a hundred and eighty-one." As the horse and rider passed out of sight the lieutenant asked:

"What was it he muttered to the horse?"

"I did not exactly catch it," replied the captain. "I think it was something about a hundred and eighty-one, and from the way that old chap brightened up when he saw that dead buck leads me to believe that he knows more about who is knocking off the stray Apaches than he's telling."—Edwin Ralph Collins, in Texas Siftings.

SON. "Mother, do you never weary with all your correspondence?"

LYDIA PINKHAM. "No, my son, these letters of confidence bring to me the joy that a mother feels, whose daughter throws her arms around her neck and cries, 'Oh, mother, help me!' The women of the world are my daughters, dear."

SON. "Yes, mother, and they love you."

Lydia Pinkham's private letters from ladies in all parts of the world average one hundred per day, and truly has she been a mother to the race. Suffering women ever seek her in their extremity, and find both a helper and a friend. Correspondents will receive prompt and conscientious answers, and the sympathy of a mother.

A Case for Sympathy.

"The hardened-looking wretch in this cell, I presume," said the fair caller, with a shudder, "is some low thief."

"No, miss," answered the turnkey, "he's the desperate villain that killed his grandmother."

"Why, he is the one I'm looking for! Poor, dear man!" exclaimed the impulsive young woman, "I've brought you some nice roast turkey and a basket of fruits."—Chicago Tribune.

He Was a Bad Writer.

Mrs. Green (to young physician, whom she had called in haste)—Oh, doctor! doctor! I fear you have made a terrible mistake! My daughter had that prescription which you sent her last night filled, and took a dose of the medicine. Now she exhibits every symptom of poisoning. Oh—

Young Physician — Prescription, madam? Why, that was an offer of marriage!—Puck.

Good Grounds for Hope.

"Do you think you will be acquitted?" asked a New York gentleman of a prominent man who was indicted for bribery.

"Yes, I think so."

"Has your lawyer given you grounds to think so?"

"No," responded the hopeful client; "but I have given him grounds to think so. I've deeded him all my real estate as his fee."—Texas Siftings.

The Baggage Smasher's Fate.

First Baggage Smasher—Say, Jake, I'm thinkin' it 'ud be money in our pockets if we'd begin handlin' trunks more kearful.

Jake—Why wud it?

"Because the more we smash 'em the bigger and stronger and heavier they make 'em. I've struck three this mornin' made out o' reg'lar boiler iron. Me back's 'most broke."—Good News.

A Practical Suggestion.

Edwin (as they reach the summit of the mountain after a long climb)—Ah! we are here at last! What a magnificent view! At such a time and place I feel strange sensations—an undefinable longing, a soul craving, as it were, which—

"And so you're married, Jack?"

"Yes, I have succumbed, like many another before me. Love match, pure and simple. Come around and see us some time."

"Yes, I will, with pleasure. Where are you living?"

"Well, I expect we will be at her father's for some time to come."—Judge.

True Love in Boston.

Emersonia—Charles has gone to Europe, and I shall not hear from him until his return.

Julia—Why, how is that? Won't he write to you?

Emersonia—No. His epistolary style is so defective that I told him not to do so. His letters would alienate my affections.—Munsey's Weekly.

Crowded Out.

"I like this dress very much," said Ethel. "It is just too delightfully tight. But where are the pockets?"

"Here they are," said the dressmaker, handing her two small silken bags. "You'll have to carry them in your hands. There's not room in the dress for them."—Harper's Bazar.

His Suspicions Excited.

ALL THE DEAD FOUND

Sixty-one Bodies Taken from the Park Place Ruins.

17 PERSONS STILL MISSING.

Those Unaccounted For May Have Been Burned to Dust.

A Searching Investigation to be Made to Place the Blame for the Calamity—An Inquest to be Held on Tuesday—List of the Identified Dead—Aid for Destitute Families.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The mournful tale is complete. The ghastly task is finished, and 61 human beings, who on Saturday were filled with life and hope and buoyant spirits, have been taken out of the wreck of the Park place buildings.

During the last 24 hours the most loathsome remnants of the collapse were carefully and laboriously searched, and the list of the half hundred victims already exhumed was added to by the discovery of yet another 11.

The verified list of the missing shows thirty-five persons unaccounted for. The number of unidentified dead taken from the ruins is eighteen. Allowing that eighteen of the missing persons are represented by the unknown dead, it will be seen that there are still 17 unaccounted for. They are not in the ruins. And if not, comes the natural query from every side, where are they? The theory is advanced that owing to the fierceness of the flames, which raged several hours, some of the bodies were entirely consumed.

List of the Identified Dead.

The list of the dead identified up to the present time is as follows:

Charles Breitner,	A. Dershopki,

MAYOR GRANT'S ACTION.

Decisive Steps Taken With Regard to the Great Calamity.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—When Mayor Grant returned to the city from Coopers-town he immediately went to the scene of the accident. He criticised the Fire Department severely for not removing the debris at once. The Mayor said it should have been removed within 24 hours. Later in the day he sent for Fire Commissioner Robbins and held a conference with him.

The mayor ordered that an investigation be made at once. Chief Cashman told him that he was on the scene within two minutes after the accident occurred, and the building was then in flames. He reasons, therefore, that there must have been an explosion of some sort after the building collapsed. He cannot yet tell whether it was from the igniting of gas by the lamps in the restaurant or the explosion of chemicals in the drug store. The chief, however, will make a full report.

Coroner Hanley empanelled a jury today to hold an inquest in the case of the victims of the collapsed building. He intends to holds the inquest next Tuesday.

Burying the Unidentified Bodies.

Mayor Grant has authorized the Commissioners of Charities to procure a plot in some cemetery to decently inter all the unidentified bodies of the disaster. There are now twenty-three of them at the Morgue that must be buried by Friday owing to their advanced stage of decomposition.

The theory is now advanced that an explosion of several barrels of benzine in the drug cellar caused the wreck. The fire that immediately followed the collapse burned very much like an oil fire.

Relief for the Sufferers.

At noon Mayor Grant appointed a relief committee to look after the sufferers from the disaster. It is composed of prominent citizens.

The subscriptions already reach $3,436. Mrs. D. Jones Crain, owner of the collapsed building, subscribed $1,000 of this amount.

A Newport, R. I., dispatch says that Mrs. Astor, Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Townsend Borden, Mrs. Richard Irwin, Mrs. William Jay and other well-known ladies have expressed a willingness to contribute for the relief of the families suffering from the Park Place disaster. It is expected that Mrs. Astor and her associates will form an auxiliary relief fund at once.

Hiding Behind Death's Shadow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The fact has been established that George A. Barth, of Newark, who was supposed to have been lost in the Park place disaster, sent the notice of his death to the Newark newspapers himself, in order that he might desert his wife and family and throw the police of that city off the scent in an action against him for robbing an express wagon of $16.

Accused of Murder.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 27.—A negro named Alfred Johnson has been arrested at Stanhope. He is believed to be one of the men who murdered Theodore Frese at Hope a month ago.

BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

Baltimore "Sweat-Pits" Call Forth Protests Against Assisted Immigrants.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—There is every indication that a crisis is arising in the matter of the present flood of assisted Jewish immigration from Russia. It has been the belief of the Treasury Department, as well as of the new Bureau of Immigration, that ere long would arise complications resulting from this sudden influx of people, men and women, who are willing to work at almost any price. A formal complaint was received at the Treasury Department from a labor organization in Baltimore, which is composed of tailors who work for the many ready-made clothing houses in that city.

In the protest it is stated that large numbers of these Russian immigrants remain in Baltimore, and that they make up ready-made clothing at such very low rates that American workmen cannot compete with them; and an instance is given of the results of this competition in the statement that, whereas one year ago the Baltimore workmen were paid $2.75 a dozen for finishing vests, the steady increase of immigrants has made labor so cheap that now only $1.45 per dozen is paid for the same work, a price, it is added, which it is impossible for Americans to accept.

It is stated, unofficially, it is true, but from excellent authority, that there have grown up in Baltimore recently "sweat-pits" which rival the most horrible tenements in New York, Rochester and Chicago. Just what steps the Treasury will take it is as yet impossible to say.

BATTLE WITH A TRAMP.

A Connecticut Woman Makes a Bold Fight—The Ruffian Captured.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Catherine Strohacker, of Bunker Hill, yesterday was met at her door by a burly tramp, who tried to assault her. He asked for a drink of water, which was given him. He returned within half an hour and attacked the woman. Though alone in the house with a little daughter she made a bold fight, and the fellow finally gave up and fled.

A posse, headed by D. W. Stoddard and his son, followed the fellow into the woods and caught him hiding in a clump of bushes. He was brought to the police station here, where he gave the name of Patrick Galvin.

AFRAID OF THE MAFIA.

Brooklyn Italians Claim That They Are Receiving Threatening Letters.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 27.—A number of Italians in South Brooklyn have complained to the police that they have received threatening letters from the Mafia demanding money, but it is difficult to secure the names of the selected victims, as some refuse to give them.

One was Robert Castelano, a confectioner, of 17 President street. He gave the money, and was frightened into silence for a time.

Sons of Veterans' Encampment.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 27.—The Commander-in-Chief of the Sons of Veterans has adopted a plan for the organization of its military rank into a body to be known as the Sons of Veterans' Guard. It provides for the regular organization of companies, regiments, and brigades, uniformed and governed so far as possible as the United States Army is. Washington, Ia., Helena and Omaha are fishing for the next encampment.

Novel Suit for Damages.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Lawyer F. D. H. Cobb, of this city, has brought action against the New York Central Railroad for $15,000. On July 9 he, with a lady friend, tendered a conductor on the Charlotte train a coupon ticket for one fare both ways in payment for his ride and the conductor refused to take it, demanding an additional fare for the lady. He refused to pay and was arrested, for which Cobb brings the suit.

No Use for King Kelly.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—The directors of the Boston ball club of the American Association say that nothing will be done about the jumping of Kelly. They sent a telegram to President Kramer asking that the Kelly matter be not considered in the conference at Washington. They do not need him, and would have no use for him even if he did return. The club is just as strong without him.

The McAuliffe-Gibbons Fight.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The report that Jack McAuliffe had malaria and would not make a final deposit in his match with Austin Gibbons was disproved at noon by the depositing of the money, $500, at the Police Gazette office. The men are to be in the ring at 9 p. m. on September 11, the Granite Club giving a purse of $4,000. Gibbons' money was also deposited.

Iron Workers' Strike Ended.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 27.—The Pottsville Iron and Steel Company have started their twelve-inch finishing mill. All of the mills of the company are now working and the puddling furnaces will start up next week. The officials of the company say the strike is ended so far as the company is concerned.

MURDEROUS ATTACK

Shot His Mother-in-Law, His Wife and Himself.

NONE OF THE INJURED ARE DEAD

A Deliberately Planned Triple Tragedy Near New York.

Desperate Struggle With an Infuriated Husband—He Fired Four Shots at His Wife, Knocked Her Down and Kicked Her—Reloading His Revolver He Tried to Commit Suicide, But Failed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Henry Miller is dying at Great Neck, L. I.; his wife is in a critical condition, with four bullets in her head, and his mother-in-law is suffering from a dangerous scalp wound inflicted by a bullet. This is the result of a desperate attempt at double murder and suicide, made by Miller.

Miller married Christine Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Lillie Nelson, four years ago. They did not live happily, and the wife went to live with her mother.

Yesterday afternoon Miller bought a 38-caliber revolver and went to see his wife. It was after 10 o'clock at night when he arrived at the Nelson house. He pounded on the door. Mrs. Miller came to an upper window. Miller asked her to come down. She refused and closed the window. Miller found an axe and battered down the door. He then rushed up to the second floor and demanded that his wife should return to his home. She refused and Miller seized her by the arm and dragged her toward the stairway.

Mrs. Nelson came to the rescue and Miller drew his revolver and fired. The bullet took effect in her head, inflicting a painful but not necessarily fatal wound, and rendering her unconscious.

Miller seized his wife by the throat with his left hand, while with his right he leveled the revolver at his head and fired four shots. All of the bullets took effect. The woman fell to the landing and staggered into the hall. Her husband overtook her, knocked her down and kicked her until she fainted.

Believing her dead, Miller left the house. After walking about a mile, he reloaded his revolver and fired four shots, two in his temple and two in his mouth. He remained unconscious, according to his statement, for about four hours.

On recovering consciousness he got up and walked four miles to the house of his mother at Great Neck.

In the meantime Mrs. Miller had revived and started to a neighbor's some distance away. She fainted twice on the road, but finally reached the house and gave the alarm. Mrs. Nelson was found just returning to consciousness.

MALLEY'S CASE SETTLED.

Mrs. Reinhart Withdraws Her Charges of Breach of Promise.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27.—It is announced that the suit brought by Mrs. Marie Reinhart, of New York, against Edward Malley of this city for breach of promise of marriage, laying damages at $25,000, has been settled. The terms are kept a strict secret.

It is also alleged that Mrs. Reinhart was within reach of her most intimate friends at the time of her alleged mysterious disappearance from New York, and that her legal adviser was aware of her whereabouts.

Mr. Hamilton, counsel for Mrs. Reinhart, is now absent on his vacation in Nova Scotia. He will not return for two or three weeks. It is hinted by some who know the parties in the case that Mrs. Reinhart has accepted a sum considerably less than one-fifth of her original claim.

It will be remembered that she was employed as a governess in the family of Mr. Malley for about two years. She alleges that Malley betrayed her under promise of marriage. Her child, a boy, was named Edward Malley. It died in February of this year.

The Williams' Grove Gathering.

WILLIAMS' GROVE, Pa., Aug. 27.—The attendance at the third day's assembly of the Parons of Husbandry is estimated at 16,000. Ex-Lieutenant-Governor Black spoke in favor of a constitutional convention, Pennsylvania not having had, he asserted, an honest election in twenty-five years. Congressman Beltshoover opposed silver coinage. In the afternoon the new Grange Hall was dedicated, on which occasion Generals Gregg and Gobin and Mr. Southworth spoke, the latter advocating silver coinage.

Odd Fellows to Erect a Grand Temple.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—The Odd Fellows' Temple, to be erected soon in this city, will not only be the tallest structure in the world, but it will also be the biggest in other respects. It is to be a building that will eclipse anything ever before attempted in either the classical or modern age in the architectural line. It is said that over $4,000,000 will be expended in the undertaking for the purchase of real estate and the construction.

DENVER'S SENSATION.

The Arrest of Mme. Astle Threatens to Shake Capitol Hill.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 27.—Mme. Astle, who has been posing here as a chiropodist, was arrested during the morning charged with malpractice on Gertie Harris, aged 16 years, whose parents live at Lincoln, Neb., and Clara Levick of this city.

It is said that the the trial will bring to light things that will shake Capitol Hill, Denver's aristocratic residence, to the very foundations, and that several physicians are implicated and will be arrested.

It is alleged that the madame was doing a very extensive business among "high society" people, and the mention of whose names will create a great sensation.

A Rich Farmer Has Three Wives.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 27.—A dispatch from Napoleon, O., says that Michael Cramer, a rich farmer near that place, has three wives. They all live on a $50,000 farm, and three houses are used by the three families with one head. Cramer brought his second wife to the farm in 1879 and placed her in a cosy house he had erected for her. Wife No. 1 did not object. He was arrested at the time, however, and tried for bigamy, but escaped on a technicality. In 1881 he brought his third wife to the farm. For some cause no action was taken until yesterday, when the county prosecuting attorney completed an investigation and prepared evidence to lay before the Grand Jury.

New Hampshire Veterans' Reunion.

LACONIA, N. H., Aug. 27.—Ten thousand people attended the New Hampshire Veterans' reunion at Weirs during the day. The exercises were under the auspices of the G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps and the Sons of Veterans. Speeches were made by Corporal Tanner, Col. H. Kyd Douglas, Capt. L. O'Brien of Connecticut, Judge-Advocate Prince, Post Commander Evans of Massachusetts and others.

Three More Delegates for Flower.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The Democratic Convention for the First Assembly District, held at Ogdensburg, elected James D. Carpenter, James Wells and Martin O'Brien delegates to the State Convention. Resolutions were passed endorsing the administration of Governor Hill and the candidacy of Roswell P. Flower for Governor.

Lumber Shovers on Strike.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 27.—One hundred and seventy-five of the 300 lumber shovers at this port are on strike against the stevedore system. They held a meeting last night and formed an organization. The men claim that the stevedores gets the cream of their labor, while they take what is left.

Twelve-Year-Old Horse Thief.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Aug. 27.—The youngest horse thief ever known in this county was arrested at Hammonton and brought to the county jail here. He is but 12 years of age, and gives his name as Charles Pettit and his home as Atlantic City.

Ex-Gov. Cheney for Secretary of War.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—It is believed here that ex-Gov. Cheney will be Secretary Proctor's successor in the Cabinet.

WAR TALK IN BERLIN

The Kaiser in a Great Rage Against France.

ITALY ON THE WATCH AT PARIS

Hostilities May Break Out on the Frontier at Any Moment.

Another Battle Expected Soon in Chili. President Balmaceda to Move on the Enemy—He Has 25,000 Men Under His Command—A Big Effort to be Made to End the War.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—The subject of war between France and Germany almost over-rides the question of famine and miserable crops.

The warlike tone of the Kaiser since his return from his cruise has made a deep impression, and the belief is prevalent that hostilities may break out at any moment on the frontier.

The Kaiser is said to be even more provoked against France than when his mother visited Paris. The stories of his bodily infirmities and of his alleged excesses have angered him very much, although he has given no public expression to his feelings.

The same sentiment, according to a Rome dispatch, prevails in Italy. That country has instructed its legations in Paris and St. Petersburg to supply the home government with constant reports of military and naval development.

CHILIAN WAR NEWS.

Balmaceda Ready to Attack the Revolutionist Army.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via Galveston, Tex., Aug. 27.—In all probability President Balmaceda will attack the insurgent forces now threatening this city to-morrow, and government officials and sympathizers are confident that he will crush them out of existence.

It is impossible to learn of the position and movements of the insurgent army, though naturally there are many rumors afloat in connection with them.

The report that they had taken up a strong position on the hills above the race course at Vina del Mar is probable. It is not improbable also that they had received some accession of strength since they fought their way down the coast from Quintero Bay, as there is no question that the revolution has many sympathizers in the Province of Valparaiso.

While the movement of the rebels is a good deal a matter of conjecture, there is no doubt that President Balmaceda has lost no time in strengthening his position. Reinforcements have been constantly arriving until now he has within reach fully 20,000 men.

He has established a long line of defence, reaching from Vina del Mar to Placilla, and it would be almost impossible for the forces at the command of Gen. Canto to break through.

From the condition of affairs here and the movements of the troops it is generally believed to-day that President Balmaceda has almost prepared himself for a decisive move, and that possibly to-morrow, and almost certainly within two days, he will attack the revolutionist army in force and endeavor to end the war so far as it can be done by a victory or defeat in front of Valparaiso.

Chilian Consul Removed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The State Department is informed that President Balmaceda, of Chili, has removed F. A. Beclan as Chilian Consul-General at New York, and appointed Charles R. Flint to fill the vacancy. Mr. Beclan has represented Chili at New York for twenty years. Sympathy with the revolution is given as the reason for the removal.

Struck by a Train.

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 27.—W. H. Campbell, a well-known paper box manufacturer, while riding in a wagon with his wife and daughter across the track of the Boston & Maine Railroad was struck by a train shortly before noon. Mrs. Campbell was terribly bruised and is fatally injured. Miss Campbell was injured internally and her limbs badly bruised. Mr. Campbell sustained severe scalp wounds. The carriage was demolished and the horse and a dog killed.

Secretary Noble to Stay.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—All question regarding the alleged intention of Secretary Noble to resign may be set at rest by a letter just received from him by an intimate friend. In this he says: "I have returned to Washington full of strength for the winter's work, and will endeavor to give part of it to getting ready for the Chicago Exposition."

Accidentally Shot and Killed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Joseph O'Brien, son of the late John J. O'Brien, the well-known New York politician, was accidentally shot and killed at Coney Island by Joseph Cropsey, a fellow member of the Atlantic Rod and Gun Club. The full charge of a shotgun entered the side of young O'Brien's face, causing instant death.

Penn Elected to Parliament.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Mr. John Penn, Conservative, was elected at Lewisham to the seat in Parliament vacated by Viscount Lewisham, on the promotion of the latter to the House of Lords, owing to the death of his father, the Earl of Dartmouth. Mr. Penn had 4,585 votes and Mr. Warmington, Liberal, had 2,892.

Another Royal Scandal.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—British society is scandalized by a statement made by the Edinburgh Scotsman that a daughter of the Prince of Wales was recently seen lounging outside the pavilion of the Naval Exhibition, smoking a cigarette. In full view of the crowd. The report is denied.

Lemon Cake.

BY MARIA PARLOA.

For one loaf of cake use half a cupful of butter, one cupful of fine granulated sugar, half a cupful of milk, two cupfuls of flour, two eggs, one teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder, the grated rind of a lemon, and one table-spoonful of the juice.

Beat the butter to a cream, and gradually beat into it the sugar and then the lemon rind and juice. After beating the eggs, add them to the sugar and butter, and beat with a spoon for five minutes; then add the milk, and finally the flour, in which the baking powder should first be mixed. Beat vigorously for half a minute, and, turning into a buttered pan, bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. The batter should be about three inches deep in the pan. The measuring cup holds half a pint.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

The leavening power of Cleveland's Baking Powder comes from cream of tartar with soda, nothing else; that is why Cleveland's is perfectly wholesome, leavens most, and leavens best.

CHOLERA AMONG CHINESE.

Sixty Bodies Thrown Into the Sea by the Crew of a Steamer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The Customs Collector at San Francisco telegraphs that news has been received that the steamer Namchow sailed from Singapore with 800 Chinese coolies for the Penang market. The officers were Chinese with the exception of half a dozen Europeans. While at sea cholera broke out among the Chinese. The sick crowded in the cabins, where a Presbyterian minister and one lady passenger had taken refuge. After a terrible hurricane the cholera continued to spread, and deaths became very numerous. At first each victim was cast into the sea with a bar of pig iron in the sack. Soon, however, the dead were mostly thrown overboard without ceremony.

The death roll grew alarming, and no less than sixty bodies were thrown into the sea. The supercargo had supreme control and insisted upon heaving overboard all effects of the dead. Under threats, the captain, upon arrival at Singapore, reported only six deaths to the harbor master—three from influenza and three from "want of opium and general debility."

Many passengers were landed, and no quarantine being declared, proceeded to Penang with the rest of the infected cargo and crew. In four days nine cases of cholera developed in Singapore, all traced to the steamer Namchow.

When the Namchow arrived at Singapore the health officer was on the lookout and sent the vessel into quarantine. When the vessel is released the captain and supercargo will be arrested and placed on trial in Singapore.

MRS. HOTCHKISS'S GIFT.

She Gives $275,000 and 75 Acres of Land for a Yale School.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27.—Mrs. M. H. Hotchkiss of Lakeville, Conn., has presented to the trustees of the new Yale preparatory school, of which she is the founder, $275,000 in cash.

Of this $75,000 will be expended on the building to be erected, and $200,000 will be used as an endowment fund for the support of professors and for current expenses. She has also given the preparatory school 75 acres from her estate in Lakeville.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Minneapolis Exposition has been opened.

The Davis will case has gone to the jury at Butte, Mont.

The French fleet has left Portsmouth, England, for Cherbourg.

Nearly 200 members are in attendance at the fourteenth annual meeting of the American Bar Association in Boston. One hundred and sixty new members have been admitted.

The White Squadron will leave Bar Harbor and go to Belfast, Me., on Monday and remain there until Wednesday morning, when they will sail for Bath. They will leave Bath for Portland, September 4.

The body of Herbert Mapes, the college athlete, who was drowned at Fire Island, N. Y., on Sunday last, while bathing, has just been found at Water Island, eight miles east of the Surf Hotel at Fire Island.

Alfred H. Hildick, a well-known importer of New York, committed suicide some time during the morning. Two letters from a woman named C. Allynson in Middletown, Conn., dated July 26 and Aug. 18, were laying open on his desk.

J. Newton Baker, private secretary to Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, who was shot at Croton Landing, N. Y., by Orville E. Anderson, has recovered sufficiently to be taken to the Catskill Mountains. When leaving for the mountains he said he felt as well as ever, but that the bullet wound in his arm was somewhat painful.

Prize Fighter Hall Recovering.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 27.—Hall, the prize fighter slashed by Parson Davies, is rapidly improving and expects to be out by Saturday. Blood poisoning alone can give him a relapse.

Favor the Sub-Treasury Scheme.

PEARLE SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 27.—In the vote in the Alliance Convention the Sub-Treasury people carried the day by a vote of 90 to 29. Leverett Leonard was elected president.

Canada's Census Returns.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—The census returns, which were submitted to-day, indicate a population of 4,000,000 for the entire Dominion.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Is Peck selling goods at a lower price than others? Well, go and see if he is not.

—A special meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will be held to-morrow evening. A full attendance is requested.

—The Rev. E. H. Stewart, pastor of the Baptist church at Portland, Pa., will speak at Reform Hall to-night on "Duty, the Line of Action." He is an able speaker and should be heard by all interested in the temperance cause.

—Captain of Police Grant is still very low. He can retain nothing on his stomach, and for two weeks has had naught to sustain life. Mayor Gilbert called last evening, to inquire about his condition and offer his assistance in any way.

—L. A. Rheaume, of 40 Broadway, has just perfected at his coal yard a steam-heated drying kiln which turns out the driest possible kindling wood at all seasons of the year. Notwithstanding the superiority of this to all other kindling wood, the price remains the same.

—The excursion train of the Warren Mission chapel of North Plainfield and the Dunellen Presbyterian church, to Asbury Park, to-morrow, will leave as follows: Dunellen, 7:51; Evona, 7:54; Grant avenue, 7:57; North avenue, 8:01. Returning, will leave Asbury Park at 6 p. m. A good time awaits all who go. This is the last excursion of the season from Plainfield to the Park.

—If it shall be proved that poison was actually put into a well in Westfield, with the intent to cause sickness and death to animals and to the people accustomed to use the water from that well, the fullest punishment the law can inflict is none too severe to be meeted out to the villain who is guilty of the act. It was a dastardly, murderous piece of work, against which the innocent had no protection and the results of which might have been death to many. A man who will put poison in a well is utterly unfit to be at liberty for the rest of his natural life.—Elizabeth Journal.

—However much else the people were interested in and pleased with the sight of the veterans' parade to-day, they were simply disgusted with the vulgar advertisement which had been tacked on to the rear. The presence of the advertising wagon was a disgrace, and the antics of the persons in it were an insult to the veterans in line. A number of Grand Army men who learned of the disreputable feature at the rear of the procession dropped out of line and refused to parade while the disgusting annex was following it about. The exhibition received strong public condemnation, and the insult to the soldiers will be warmly and effectually resented. The exhibition was only what might have been expected from the fellow who originated it.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Foster Milliken is very sick at Lake Minnewaska.

Charles Tisch, of Newark, is spending his vacation with friends in Plainfield.

Miss Florence Titsworth has gone to Belmar to join a party of young people from this city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Baxter and family, of 107 Richmond street, arrived home today from Unionville, Orange county, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Oliver, of East Fifth street, are spending a week among the mountains in the western part of Pennsylvania.

The following engagements are announced: Dr. E. W. Hedges and Miss Belle Butler; the Rev. Charles L. Goodrich and Miss Minnie Wood; Robert Rushmore and Miss May Ackerman.

William R. Mattox of this city has been given power of attorney to settle the business affairs of Alexander Snow, a well-known hotel proprietor at Point Pleasant. The wife of one of Mr. Mattox's sons is a daughter of Mr. Snow.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Squires, of Birmingham, Alabama, were guests at Force's Hotel, North avenue, yesterday. Mrs. Squires was Miss Ida Lee, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lee, formerly of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Squires are making a visit among their numerous relatives and friends in the North, who are heartily glad to see them. Mr. Squires holds the responsible position of Dispatcher of the A. G. S. R. R. at Birmingham, Ala., where he is familiarly known as "Doc". Their two sweet children, Lee and Edna, accompany them. Mrs. John T. Lee, who came North with them, will visit Plainfield friends next Saturday and Sunday. They hope to see John T. himself here in the near future.

His Nose Broken by a Horse's Kick.

Vincent L. Frazee was kicked in the face by one of W. E. Stewart's team of horses, yesterday. Mr. Frazee's nose was broken, and he bled profusely for some time, but Dr. Long has the case in charge and he promises that there will be no disfigurement of the face except a very black eye that will disappear in time.

Some peaches had rolled off the sidewalk in front of Mr. Frazee's store, down into the gutter behind the horse's heels. He stooped and was picking up the fruit, when the horse turned its head and supposing the man was intending some mischief kicked him in the face.

SINGING A DIFFERENT TUNE, NOW.

Councilman Hetfield Tells How the Water Supply Company Tried to Impose on the City When They Thought They Had the Monopoly.

THE PRESS and its readers are under obligation to some unknown stenographer for his labors at the last Council meeting. Thereby it is possible to give in full today all that was said that was unbiased and of importance at that meeting. Only Councilmen Rushmore and Ackerman spoke of the minority, and what they said was merely in line with what the Mayor said in his veto of the water ordinance. The three boomed the Water Supply company and begged the majority to order the city's water from that selfish, domineering corporation.

The Mayor said two companies "could not profitably exist here", and Messrs. Rushmore and Ackerman said so, too. Well, who cares? The Mayor gave as another reason for his veto that "the two companies would sooner or later combine and the interests of the public would be sacrificed thereby". Messrs. Rushmore and Ackerman thought so, too. Well, which is worse: to have competition in the beginning that will fix low prices to consumers at the start, even though eventually the two companies combine, or to prevent any competition at all and leave the whole monopoly in the hands of the one company that has already refused to recognize or respect any of the city's rights or the people's privileges?

That was the gist of the remarks of the "gentlemen on the other side of the house"—a clever advertisement all the way through for the Plainfield Water Supply company. What was said that deserves attention is the following:

Mr. Hetfield (before voting)—Mr. President, I desire to say a few words in reference to the remarks of Mr. Ackerman. Now, the gentleman has referred to the proposition of the Plainfield Water Supply Company. I desire to state, and also to be placed on record with regard to that, that our Committee met with a Committee of the Water Supply Company. We were ready and willing and wished to negotiate with them for putting in water for the City, but we also wanted put in a system of sewerage. They agreed with us that they would investigate it and let us know and call a meeting. They never have called a meeting and never have notified us. But outside of any meeting they have told us that, if they were obliged to put in sewers, we could not have the hydrants and flush them for less than sixty dollars a hydrant. That is what they told us; and taking that into consideration we could not negotiate with them. For a long time before Mr. Low or anybody else was talked to about this water system or the sewerage, they have been given every opportunity and every chance, but they did not negotiate and did not seem to want to. And as I said, if we had given them the contract according to their statement we would be obliged to pay them sixty dollars a hydrant for their water and for flushing the sewers, instead of twenty-five dollars under this contract. That is all I desire to state, Mr. President.

Mr. Ackerman—Mr. President, I would like to say just one word. I would like to ask Mr. Hetfield if he has had any communication with the Plainfield Water Supply Company since the first of August.

Mr. Hetfield — Mr. President, why should I? When we met with them and talked to them they were to notify us of another meeting. We waited a long time, and then after we had considered the proposition of Mr. Low, and had met night after night and day after day, why should we go again to the Plainfield Water Supply Company and beg them to give us something at a higher price than another company would charge? No, I did not go to them, and do not think the other members of the Committee have gone to them. There is no reason why we should.

Mr. Ackerman—I should think the Plainfield Water Supply Company already being here, being composed of reputable and good men of whom we have full knowledge—that they would treat with this body at any time.

Mr. Hetfield—Mr. President, they might treat with us if we would get down on our knees and crawl to them: but we never did. We made an appointment and had this meeting, as I stated, in their office; we were perhaps two or three hours; talked the matter over before we had ever seen Mr. Low or Mr. or any one else. We were ready and willing to negotiate with them then, but, as I stated, when the sewerage question was brought up they would have nothing to do with it but excluded it, and to have made a contract with them it would cost us sixty dollars a hydrant. There was no reason why we should go to them after that. We never did.

Mr. Hetfield—We think we have been very careful, Mr. President. This matter has been under consideration for a long, long time by our committee and contracts have been prepared. Counsel has been retained as good as there is in the State. Conferences have been held; the thing has been talked over; the committee have spent their time and spent their money; they have met together themselves and talked it over, and any good feature that they could think of they recommended and insisted upon it, and went to counsel and talked it over; had the Corporation Counsel consult with the special counsel; and everything has been done, Mr. President, to make this a perfect contract, as near as could be. Now if the gentleman has any confidence in the Water Committee he can vote for this contract; if he has not he can vote against it. For all the labor they have spent and all the time, and I might say money, too, in traveling, and time that they have lost, which of course means money, it does to me when I go away from my office—I say for all that they have accomplished something, and that is the result, Mr. President, after long hours of labor. Now, the gentleman objects to the penalty clause in the contract of $2,000, no, $5,000. The gentleman says that Mr. Low can furnish unwholesome water and pay $5,000. Now, I wish to say that if we throw over this contract—for Heaven's sake! suppose the Plainfield Water Supply Company was to furnish the City of Plainfield with unwholesome water, what do they pay? Is not he in the same position that they would be. The consequence would be that the people would not take the water; and there is not any company that is coming here to furnish the people with unwholesome water, put in a plant here at an expense anywhere from three to five hundred thousand dollars and then give them something that is good for nothing. And I might say the same with reference to the other penalties the gentleman has referred to. They seem to stick to the Plainfield Water Supply Company. Why did n't we go back to them as late as the first of August? We are asked why we did n't go to them again. After these contracts were considered, and all the consultations had, and special counsel hired to go over this thing—after all that we are told we ought to go back and consult with them. We did n't do it; we did n't think it our duty to do so.

OLD COMRADES MEET AGAIN.

Survivors of the 28th Revive Old Memories of Days of Battle.

The two hundred survivors of the Twenty-eighth Regiment, N. J. Vols., are holding a reunion in this city to-day. This morning, accompanied by the local G. A. R. Posts and a band of music, they paraded through the principal streets. The buildings all along the line were decorated with flags and bunting in honor of the old soldiers. After the parade a business meeting was held in the rooms of Post No. 73. At two o'clock Mayor Gilbert and the Common Council welcomed the visitors at the Crescent rink, and dinner was served. Speeches were made by the various officers, and there was singing by the Misses Manning and others. This evening a ball at the rink will conclude the events of the day.

At the business session this noon Henry C. Drake of this city was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. Secretary Appleby of Old Bridge was reelected. A vice-president was elected from each company in the regiment.

The Twenty-eighth Regiment was recruited in Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean, Camden and Gloucester counties, and was mustered into service at Freehold, Sept. 22, 1862. It left Freehold, Oct. 4, with 940 men, and reached Washington the following day. It marched into Virginia, Oct. 13, and engaged in its first battle at Fredericsburg, Dec. 13. Here nearly 200 of the men were killed or wounded. The regiment then remained in camp until April 28, when it was detailed for picket service at the United States Ford. On April 30 it led the advance in crossing the river and pushed forward to the Chancellor House. It was engaged in battle on May 3, and lost thirty men, killed, wounded and missing. The regiment then remained in camp near Falmouth until June 14. Shortly after, its term of service having expired, it proceeded to Washington, and thence to Freehold, where it was mustered out July 6, 1863.

VICTORY FOR RIPLEY HILL.

But Had the Acmes All Done As Well as Jones, or All Westfield as Poorly as McLaughlin, Westfield Would Not Have Won.

There was as many Plainfielders as Westfielders present at yesterday's game at Westfield, where the Acmes of Brooklyn were defeated by the score of 10 to 3. Freddy Jones of the Crescents covered first base for the Acmes in a very capable manner. He accepted all chances without an error, making nine put-outs and one assist. One of his put-outs was a very neat running catch of a difficult fly. At the bat Jones had four chances. He made two single-base hits and one two-bagger. The fourth time he hit the ball third baseman captured it in time to put him out. Hammill was banged around the field with impunity, and the Crescents ought to bat him out of the box Saturday. McLaughlin of the Westfields made only one hit. He struck out three times. In the field, however, he made a superb long running catch of a fly the capture of which seemed impossible. Sharrott, pitcher for the Acmes, is credited with nine strike-outs. The Westfields got ten hits off him, three of them two-baggers. Howe, McCabe and O'Rourke did the heavy hitting. The Acmes got ten hits off Hammill. Only four of their regular team showed up, so they had to fill out with such material as was at hand. Most of the substitutes were very ordinary. Carter, the six-foot catcher, played an excellent game. The umpire who is to officiate at the Crescent's game at Westfield Saturday was given a trial. Opinion was divided among the Plainfielders as to his efficiency. Some thought his decisions were bad; others thought them good.

A GUEST FROM THE SOUTH.

Mrs. Craft of Georgia Handsomely Entertained by Plainfield Friends.

A charming luncheon was given at the residence of Mrs. William Mayhew, 32 Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, in honor of her guest, Mrs. Sarah Craft, of Macon, Ga. Mrs. Craft is a very wealthy woman, and one of the most distinguished and cultured of her race. She was attired yesterday in full-dress costume of lavender. Her jewels were a profusion of diamonds, which she wore very becomingly. Mrs. Mayhew was assisted in receiving by Mrs. E. Walker and Mrs. A. Peterson. Twenty-five guests were present, and seven notes of regret, accompanied by handsome bouquets, were received. The table was very tastefully decorated. Among the dishes were arranged eighteen bouquets, two of which were composed entirely of white lilies. The menu included choice salads, mixed pickles, pears, peaches, bananas, mixed cakes, ice-cream, mixed nuts, French candies, motto candies, coffee, tea, and chocolate. During the afternoon Mrs. White of New York sang a solo, "Marguerite", very beautifully; she was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Mayhew. Miss Gillam sang "Far Away", accompanied by Mrs. White. Miss Helen Doyle favored the company with "Comrades". Mrs. Alexander, wife of the Reverend, sang her husband's favorite, Home Sweet Home". The costumes of the ladies were all very handsome, Mrs. Craft's strikingly so. Miss Gillam wore pink silk and black lace. Miss Martin wore heliotrope. Miss Pettifort was attired in a beautiful gown of dove color. Mrs. Maynard wore gray, trimmed with black passementerie. Mrs. Brown's dress was of black lace and silk. Mrs. Wahle and Miss M. Atkins wore black silk. Mrs. Wyckoff wore black henrietta cloth. Miss Anna Field wore black satin. Mrs. Artis wore silk. The luncheon was a very delightful and memorable event to all present. Mrs. Craft had the best wishes of her friends for continued happiness through her northern trip and through life. From Plainfield she will go to Chicago.

CAREY'S FOOT IN IT THIS TIME.

He Has Taken the Law Into His Own Hands Once Too Often.

Constable Mattox was able yesterday to find the goods seized by Carey when he broke in the premises of Joseph Levy, on West Front street, Tuesday. Carey, however, had left town. Krewson, Carey's man who is accused of knocking Mrs. Levy down, was arrested and released by Justice Wadsworth in care of the officer until Carey can be captured.

The ex-policeman has got himself in a tight box this time. He has taken the law into his own hands once too often. Levy has engaged Counselor Hetfield and Judge Codington to handle his case. Carey's lawyer, it is supposed, will be Reed, as it is said that he drew up the papers under which Carey acted. These papers name "Ames Moffett" as the bailiff, yet the latter had nothing to do with their service. Then, again, even if Levy had not paid the $40 rent (which he holds Carey's receipt for) the seizure of the goods was entirely contrary to the law, which explicitly states that in such cases there must be no exorbitant levy. The goods taken are valued at $1,225.90.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commending the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

A Protest Inspired by Monopolists.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A dispatch from Madrid says the Chamber of Commerce at Barcelona has determined to send a formal protest to the Government and Cortes against the new treaty with the United States. The Chamber holds that the treaty inflicts serious injury on the trade of Spain with the Spanish West Indies. The Catalonian monopolists mainly inspired the protest.

Color Line Sharply Drawn.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—The question of admitting colored persons into the Patriotic Order Sons of America was again brought up at the National Camp. The debate was very fierce and resulted in the defeat of the resolution to strike out the word "white" as qualifying persons eligible to membership in the order.

Judge Hatch Not a Candidate.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Judge Edward W. Hatch, of the Superior Court, has decided to retire from the contest for the Republican nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court in the Eighth Judicial District. This leaves the field to M. C. Green and Tracy Becker.

When you have that tired feeling of exhaustion, and you have little ambition, your blood is thin and poor. There is nothing that will enrich your blood, bring back life and activity, like Hires's Root Beer. Nothing so nutritious and strengthening. Ask your druggist or grocer for a package. Makes five gallons, sparkling and delicious. Sold everywhere.

Several Collieries Flooded.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—The collieries of the Reading Coal Company, in Schuylkill Valley, are flooded as a result of the recent severe storms, and mining has been seriously interfered with. Several collieries have entirely suspended work.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.

Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so.—WALTER C. STODDARD.

OUR

"Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. AN ANGEL IN THE BOULEVARD.

The Good Spirit That Visited a West End Tenement, and the Token She Left Behind Her.

A rather unusual thing happened the other night in a boulevard saloon. The boulevard is not the first place in the world you would go to look for an angel or seek for a sermon text, and yet—well, here is the story:

Half a dozen men whose names the police could tell you were lounging about the bar room and talking inelegantly. It was pretty late, and they had been drinking all the evening, and their funds were exhausted. Finally one or two went to sleep, and the others seemed inclined to follow suit. The bartender fell to wishing it was time to put them out.

"Well, gents,"—said he at last—"won't none of yer hev another fer luck?"

The "gents" ransacked their dilapidated pockets, but between them all the "price" was not to be found. One of them, less dreamy than the rest, replied:

"We'd like to, cap'n; we'd like to, but we ain't got it."

"That sounds purty from you, Jonce, seein' what you could raise if you'd just hock that"—put in a man behind the table, as he pointed to a little silver cross that hung by a bedraggled purple ribbon from the only available buttonhole in Jonce's vest.

"No, sir:"—returned the party addressed—"that there trinket stays right where it is, and I'll be kicked to death before I hocks it fer rum: see?"

"What is dere about it?"—inquired the bartender, coming around to inspect the little cross.

"Well, I don't mind tellin' yer"—said Jonce—"It allus does me good to tell de story."

"Yes, gin us de story"—urged the bartender, waxing interested—"What is dese letters, 'I. H. N.', eh?"

"I dunno"—replied Jonce.—"Anyway, one rainy day about t'ree months ago, I come home crazy, howlin' drunk. I got it into my no-account head that my old woman was goin' to leave me an' take der kids wid her, an' I made a dead set fer her. She was n't in de front room when I come in, but I heard de kids bawlin' outside an' I grabbed a chair an' kicked in de kitchen door. I was blind drunk, an' I did n't look what I was doin'. I seen de old gal cowerin' in de corner wid de kids hangin' onto her skirts. I just histed e chair and went fer 'em. I brought de hair down hard but somethin' got in ront of it before it hit my woman. I did n't know what it was then, but I must have hurted it wid that blow. It held on like death, too, an' I broke de back clean off de chair tryin' ter lift it over my head. I threw down de broken chair and started fer der kids, but somethin' got in front of me agin. I grabbed it an' pushed it up agin de wall, an' it was all I wanted ter do ter hold it. But I banged its head on de bricks until, somehow, it stopped fightin' and fell quiet-like into dese arms. I let it drop on de floor and turned aroun', but de old woman had sneaked out wid de young uns an' left me. I went into de front room an' slep' off de drunk. When I woke up I sorter remembered a leetle of what had happened an' I went into de kitchen an' found my woman an' der kids was back. I told her I was sorry fer de row I'd raised, an' she said it was all right; I allus apologizes an' she allus knocks under. Then I remembered somethin' more an' says I:

"'Sal, was n't there no one else here 'sides you an' der kids?'

"'Yes, John'—says she.—'There was a angel here—you'd hev killed me but fer her.'

"'A angel?'—says I.—'Where is she now?'

"'She's went away'—says Sal.—'When I come back I foun' her lyin' there on de floor in a dead faint. I brought her to an' she give Jimmy a note to de drug store an' de man there talked ter his telephone an' purty soon a carriage come here an' took her away. I axed her would she put de police onto you an' she said no, for my sake, she would n't. Then I axed why she'd been so kind an' saved me an' de kids an' got hurted herself, but she only smiled sweetlike and says it was "I. H. N."'

"Next day my Jimmy was playin' on de floor an' he foun' this bit of a cross an' de ribbon. I would n't hock it if I was ter die fer it. It belonged ter a angel, boys, as saved me from bein' a murderer."

"Pshaw, you 've been drinking to heavy"—observed the man behind the table.—"You do n't believe in angels; do you?"

"Yes, I do"—returned Jonce.—"I 've held one of 'em—one of God's good angels, right in dese hands, and her name was 'I. H. N.' I 've had enough liquor fer one night, I guess. Good-night, boys."

And when the bar room door closed behind him there was silence for a time as if for an instant the dirty hole was sanctified by the whisper of an angel's wings.

SOMERVILLE SKEPTICAL.

It Does n't Think the Crescents Can Hit John Harkins Once Again in a Century.

[From The Somerset Messenger.]

Saturday evening, when the news of losing the game in Plainfield by the overwhelming score of 12 to 5 preceded the faithful, a darkness like unto that of death apparently settled down upon this town like a pall. By knocking out seven runs off Hammill's delivery in the ninth inning we could have tied the score, and at least saved ourselves from the disgrace which is now heaped upon us. But no; our heavy hitters could not touch the big, long-geared Hammill. They certainly had an off day; and this man Hammill certainly gave one the idea that the West End batsmen could n't hit a watermelon with a spoon oar. He fooled them until they felt like kicking themselves.

It was rather embarrassing, and especially so, after all we had promised our friends and rooters. To go down there and on their grounds have them beat us by the awful score of 12 to 5! And that was not the worst, either. They hit Harkins hard; from his delivery they secured 16 big, beautiful hits.

The most noticeable features of Saturday's game were the pronounced and vigorous manner in which the Crescents clubbed the pitching of John Harkins, and the deceiving way in which the curves of Mister Hammill eluded the sticks of the West Ends. Harking passed them up with his best speed, and the local hitters rapped them on the nose; he handed in slow, inviting ones, and the batsmen disfigured them; he pitched high, low, wide, close and diagonally, but the Crescents hit without interruption. It was their day to hit. They were scheduled to pound the ball, and why? Because they couldn't help it. Harkins had no speed. He said, before the game, that, while he felt tip-top, still he was in no condition to pitch, as his speed was not with him. So, you see, that is the reason we lost. They ought to have hit. Any 10-year-old boy could have hit Harkins just as hard as the Crescents did on Saturday. Only look at the score and see who has hits. Everyone of their men has from one to three hits credited to him. Does anyone suppose, for an instant, if John Harkins had been in good form, that Holly, Lee and McIndoe could have touched the ball? It was just one of those unfortunate times which come to every club sooner or later, and which was brought on by a little too much exercise of the said John Harkins' arm, on last Wednesday, when he pitched what you might call two ordinary games. Therefore, we can credit the losing of this game to but one thing, and that the strong (but on Saturday last the weak) right arm of John Harkins.

But, while I am giving the credit where credit is due, I do not forget the many royal battles John has won for us in the past, and the many which he will win in the future. And although it is all foolishness for anyone to think the thing was made up for each team to win two games, still I will say it is better so. We have each won two games, and the excitement is now at fever heat. And I presume the week before the next game, which will be played in Somerville, the Plainfield people will, by their talk and actions, only bring forcibly back that old war cry, "We are coming up to Somerville three hundred thousand strong". Not quite as many as that, but certainly enough to fill our grounds to overflowing.

I have not said a word about the game; and what is there to say? We were beaten, and because the Crescents hit the ball. To tell you how many points the Crescent batsmen dropped, in the estimation of the West Enders, would be useless; but that they did drop is an assured fact. But they do say that "it is an ill wind that blows nobody any good", and while the Crescents were lowered, in the estimation of the Somerville people, still they were greatly elevated in the eyes of their own constituents.

There are two games to play yet, and the West Ends have every reason to believe they can win them. They have been handicapped by the loss not only of Kennedy, but Carby as well. When they meet again it will be on the West End grounds, and with their old team; and under those favorable circumstances there is no doubt that the next two games can be set down to the credit of the West End team.

Col. Sargent Absent on Account of Ill Health.

At a meeting in London, Tuesday, of the creditors of Col. Harry Sargent, of this city, lately the manager of a music hall in London, and known in the United States as the introducer to the American public of Mme. Modjeska and Mrs. Churchill-Jodrell, it was shown that he had unsecured debts to the amount of $10,000, $7,500 of which is due to Mrs. Churchill-Jodrell. The Chairman of the meeting of creditors expressed great indignation at finding that Col. Sargent had gone to Monte Carlo on account of "alleged ill health."

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

THE SUPREME OF SUMMER RESORTS.

Manager Wright is Guiding Normandie-by-the-Sea Through the Most Successful of its Seasons.

Hotel Normandie-by-the-Sea, that most gloriously situated of all Summer resorts in the World, is just now passing through the most successful season of its existence; all of which is due to the tact, taste, judgment, and affability of the youngest of all hotel managers, that Plainfield-bred boy and self-made man, Peter B. Wright. His hosts of friends in this city will be glad to hear of this, and his scores of admirers here will declare that they prophesied just such an accomplishment for him long ago.

When Gen'l Ferdinand P. Earle, owner of Earle's Hotel, Canal street, proprietor of The Normandie, Broadway, and projector of La Grande Normandie, at 59th street and 5th avenue, New York, opened his beautiful resort at Normandie-by-the-Sea, in June, he placed Mr. Wright in charge. The latter had been a clerk in Mr. Earle's Broadway hotel ever since his retirement from The Netherwood, and that shrewd and experienced Prince of bonifaces had seen young Wright grow in knowledge, capacity and ability under his eye, and was sure of his fitness and efficiency. The General made no mistake. Normandie-by-the-Sea is this season more successful in every way and more popular with its own guests than ever before, and all are re-engaging their rooms for next year.

The hotel is situated in the most attractive spot in the world. It has—you might say—a double front, one on the Shrewsbury river and the other on the sea—thus affording a water view from every room in the hotel. Ample porticoes being on both sides of the house—visitors are sure of a shady porch and a charming view all day long. So admirable is the position, and so beautiful the back country, that it is very difficult to decide whether the river view or the sea view is the more delightful. The visitors to the lovely place have the charms of Long Branch and Lake George united in one, and, in adddition, drives over the finest of roads through scenes that one moment seem like the Adirondacks and at another like Saratoga.

The hotel is also the most exclusive imaginable. It has its own station on the New Jersey Southern railroad, its own gas and electric light plants, makes its own ice and draws its drinking water from its own artesian wells drilled hundreds of feet down into the rock. Its guests are representatives of the more select families of New York, as well as the wealthiest, for not a person who would be objectionable because of race or character can pass by Manager Wright, and only the rich can pay the rates.

The sea-bathing is excellent and perfectly safe. A large level plateau of hard bottom extends along the ocean in front of the hotel, making a bathing beach, which does not change, and which is unexcelled in this country. There is no large inlet near by and there is no deep channel nor dangerous current. Nobody bathes there but the guests of the hotel.

Gen'l Earle's private cottage, where Gov. Hill spends week after week each Summer, adjoins the hotel. His steam yacht anchors near the river dock, and Mrs. Earle almost daily entertains a party of hotel guests of the gentler sex, with a delightful sailing trip. A fleet of steam launches, sail and row boats, are attached to the hotel and the best of livery is to be had at Seabright, near by. These are a few of the pleasures of Normandie-by-the-Sea—bathing in the surf or swimming in the still water; sailing or rowing; fishing and crabbing; lawn tennis, bowling and billiards; dancing and instrumental concerts daily, and drives along the shore or through the hills.

A COOL-HEADED ENGINEER.

His Driving Rod Went to Pieces, But He Was Equal to the Emergency.

The peach train on the Jersey Central met with an accident at Westfield Monday night.

The train had rounded the curve in the Fanwood cut and taken the down grade for Elizabeth.

It was one o'clock, and engineer George Denny was anxious to make time. He coaxed his engine up to twenty miles an hour, when the left-hand driving-rod broke. Ticket-agent Brewer Rittenhouse, of Flemington, engineer Denny, and fireman Wm. Bodine were in the cab of the engine. Rittenhouse sat on the left-hand side. The broken rod drove through the sheathing of the boiler and struck him in the calf of the leg, cutting an ugly gash.

Engineer Denny blew for brakes, but the train ran a quarter of a mile before it was stopped at the Broad street crossing at Westfield.

Rittenhouse was carried to the caboose, where his wounded leg was dressed by Dr. F. A. Kinch. The fires were drawn from the engine and the train was sidetracked until another engine was sent up.

Rittenhouse had a very narrow escape, and the prompt and intelligent action of engineer Denny prevented a much more serious accident. He stood by his engine, holding the throttle with one hand and grasping Rittenhouse with the other.

Denny is the engineer who in a former accident climbed out over his engine and hammered the sand-pipe to make the sand, which had become choked, fall on the track.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

Jersey Railways Consolidate.

The Directors of the Roselle and South Plainfield, Newark and Roselle, Newark, Jersey city, Newark and Western, Newark and Passaic, Jersey City Terminal, and Edgewater Railway Companies met in Collins & Corbin's office, Jersey City, yesterday, and discussed a proposed agreement for the consolidation of those roads. A decision was arrived at, and the actual merger or consolidation will be effected to-day. The move is one of the most important that has transpired in railway circles about New York for many years.

Ever since the Lehigh Valley built its line from its then eastern terminal at Easton, Penn., to Bound Brook, it has been seeking an outlet to the Hudson River and a slice of the heavy passenger traffic monopolized by the Pennsylvania and Jersey Central Railways. By a traffic arrangement with the Pennsylvania Railway, after the Bound Brook line had been extended to Perth Amboy, the Lehigh's passengers and freight were handled over the Pennsylvania Railway tracks to Jersey City.

The Lehigh a few years ago acquired a footing on the Hudson, and built a magnificent freight terminal alongside the Central's yard at Communipaw. Since then its agents have been at work buying up rights of way and building short lines of track under the corporate names of the companies to be consolidated today under the title of the Lehigh Valley Terminal Railway Company. The officers of the minor roads were in each instance the officials or agents of the Lehigh, and the merger will have the effect of placing all the patchwork roads in a direct line through Roselle, Plainfield, Elizabeth, Newark, and Bayonne to Jersey City, paralleling the Central Railway all that distance.

The Standard Oil Company's road, the National Docks Railway, and the Bergen Neck Railway Company were also consolidated in Jersey City, yesterday, by consent of the stockholders.

IT IS NOT

A LIE.

A. R. TUDOR's Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:

HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. TUDOR Co. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. TUDOR Co.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. Government stamps on the barrels thereof have, in no instance, borne date later than the year 1881.

DOWN BY THE CREEK.

In summer time I love to go
  Away down by the creek,
Along the spearmint-bordered path,
To where the redbreast takes his bath,
  And trout play hide-and-seek;

To lie down on the grass beside
  The willow-shaded stream;
To look straight up into the sky,
Where birds and clouds float softly by—
  To just lie there and dream.

I love to be there, all alone,
  On lazy summer days,
Away from all the cares of life;
Forgetful of its cruel strife
  And mankind's selfish ways.

To throw a stick into the stream
  And play that it's a boat
Which sails off proudly all alone;
A bark that seems so like my own—
  Now stranded—now afloat.

To revel in that peacefulness
  Of quiet summer days,
Someway, makes me forget my fears,
And all the sorrow-laden years—
  I tell you, sir, it pays.
—Charles Newton Hood, in Puck.

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER.

Another One of Their Many Housekeeping Trials.

He Put Down the Carpet—What "Comes from Having a Wife Who Doesn't Know Anything About Managing a House."

THEY finally brought up that bedstead this afternoon," said Mrs. Bowser after dinner the other evening.

"Did, eh? Just a week since you picked it out, isn't it?"

"Only four days."

"Curious how everybody takes advantage of you. They wouldn't have dared fool with me that way!"

"That—that carpet isn't down yet."

"There's another specimen of your style of running things! The infernal falsifers agreed to be here two months ago!"

"O, no, dear. They said some time this week."

"And they'll fool around till September! Mrs. Bowser, I don't want to find fault with you, but I do wish you knew more about business. You let everybody walk on you as if you were a worm of the earth."

"But can I bring the men up here?" she protested.

"How is it that everything I order gets here on the minute? Because, Mrs. Bowser, I do business in a business way. If I should let you have full swing here where do you suppose we'll land at the end of six months? However, I will show those carpet men that they can't fool with Jonas J. Bowser, no matter what excuses they can palm off on his wife. I'll slip up and put that carpet down in seven minutes."

"You—you don't mean it!" she gasped.

"Certainly I do. I don't care about saving a dollar or two, but I propose to assert my independence. Where's the hammer?"

"I wish you wouldn't. A carpet has got to be nicely put down."

"Exactly. I have seen one or two carpets in my life! Where's the tacks?"

"But I know how it will end," she persisted. "You'll get tired out, get mad, and then—"

"And then, what?"

"But remember it is against my wishes. If anything happens don't blame me."

"When did I ever blame you? When did anything ever happen?"

She gave it up, and he removed his coat, vest, necktie and collar and disappeared upstairs. The carpet lay in a heap on the floor, and he unrolled it, pushed up his sleeves, and was about to begin work when Mrs. Bowser opened the door and observed:

"I don't see how you are to get it down without a stretcher."

"Perhaps not. There are a great many things in this world for you and every other wife to learn, Mrs. Bowser."

She retired and two minutes later heard the sound of the tack hammer. She stood it for five or six minutes and then went up and looked in on him again. He had got the carpet tacked along one side, but she called out:

"WHY, YOU'RE TACKING THAT CARPET ON THE BARE FLOOR!"

"Why, you are tacking that carpet on the bare floor. There's the lining on the window sill! You'd have made a nice job of it, wouldn't you?"

He couldn't crawl out of it, and he contented himself with rising up and pointing sternly toward the door. She went out, but listened and heard the rip! rip! rip! as he pulled up his work. It was a quarter of an hour before she dared enter again, and then it was in response to a yell which made the cook drop seven plates and the dog howl mournfully.

"W—what is it?" she gasped, as she rushed in to find Mr. Bowser standing on one leg against the wall.

"What is what?"

"Why, you whooped like an Indian. Your face is as red as fire, and something's happened."

"Mrs. Bowser, I am not in the habit of whooping," he sternly replied, "and nothing has happened. When I want your valuable services I'll call to you. The exclamation you heard probably came from some one in a balloon passing over the house."

He had hammered away for about ten minutes when she looked in on him again. He had three sides of the carpet down and was tacking the fourth. Just as she reached the head of the stairs he rolled backward out of the bedroom door with a suppressed yell and a great crash.

"What on earth are you trying to do, Mr. Bowser?" she asked.

"You up here again?" he shouted in reply. "Didn't I tell you to go downstairs and stay there? Does it take forty million people to put down one confounded old carpet?"

"But can't I help?"

"No, you can't help! I'll put the thing down alone or pull the side of the house down! No wonder the carpet men dasn't come up here to lay it. They cut it a foot too short on this side and a foot too long on the other! Lemme catch 'em around the house and I'll!— What's the matter now?"

"It's got to be turned around! You are trying to fit it the wrong way!"

"No, I ain't!"

"Why, of course you are! It's exactly a fit the other way! I told you not to do it. I knew you'd—"

"Mrs. Bowser," he began, as he crossed his hands behind his back and gazed at her with a benign expression, "do I run this house or do you?"

"Well, I suppose you do."

"Very well. When man was created the idea was that he should run the house. That's how he came to know so much more than a woman. If I am not competent, however—if you have put down fifteen or twenty million carpets, and I never saw one in my life, why, you'd better finish this job and ask the court to appoint a guardian over me!"

"Hadn't you better wait till morning to finish it?"

"Not by a jugful! I'll put'er down if it kills me stone dead."

He banged the door after her as she went out, and when he grabbed hold of the carpet and ripped it up it seemed as if the house lifted up a foot or more.

MR. BOWSER PUTS THE CARPET DOWN.

"Darn ye, I'll wallop ye to rags to pay for this!" she heard him growl as she listened at the door.

He whirled the carpet around the right way, upset his saucer of tacks, and bunched the lining all up in a heap; and as he moved about he suddenly uttered another whoop and hobbled about on one leg. She knew this was the last straw and she fled. On her way downstairs she heard the window go up and next moment something scraped alongside the house and fell with a "ker whop" on the iron fence. It wasn't Mr. Bowser. He came downstairs with his eyes as big as onions and his face as red as paint, and as soon as he could get his breath he shouted:

"Your old carpet is down, Mrs. Bowser, down out of the window."

"Didn't I tell you before you begun, that—?"

"No! You wanted it down!"

"Didn't I say you'd get mad and blame—?"

"Never! Mrs. Bowser, this is the last time I ever lift my hand to do anything around this house! I've rubbed more'n a yard of hide off my knees, skinned both elbows, and driven 13,000 tacks into my feet, besides getting a crick in my back which will lay me up the rest of my life!"

"But I told you in the very beginning that—"

"That you wanted the carpet down! It is down! I am down! That ends it! I'll nail the old room up with sidewalk spikes, and if you even ask me in the future to sharpen a lead pencil I won't be responsible for my actions. Mrs. Bowser, good night!"

And as he limped upstairs and threw himself on the bed with a jar which shook the house and stopped the kitchen clock she heard him groan:

"And this comes from having a wife who doesn't know anything about managing a house."—M. Quad, in N. World.

The First Shave.

Which of us does not recall with a gentle flutter of emotion the unutterable delight we experienced when we gravely set about that delicate operation, "the first shave"—an innocent subterfuge to which a youth resorts by way of proving to his own satisfaction that he has reached the stage of full manhood? He has a beard! Everybody knows that little joke of a barber at the expense of a young "Lyceen," who, glowing with pride at the discovery, fancied or real, of the first appearance of tender down on his chin, hurried off to the hairdresser's to get shaved. The wily Figaro offered him a chair, placed a napkin around his neck, covered his face with the fragrant lather and then walked away to attend to other business, apparently quite oblivious of his new customer. Growing impatient, the latter at length exclaimed: "Well, what are you waiting for?" "For the beard to grow," was the barber's reply.—Le Petit Parisien.

OVER FORTY KILLED

A Passenger Train Falls Eighty Feet Into a Creek.

CAUSED BY SPREADING RAILS.

It Was the New York Limited Express Bound for Ashville, N. C.

Very Few Northern People on the Train. The Wrecked Cars Partly Submerged in a Stream—Most of the Passengers Were Asleep When the Disaster Occurred. The Dead and Injured Quickly Removed.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 28.—Later news of the railway disaster near Statesville yesterday shows it to have been the most disastrous that ever occurred on any railroad in North Carolina.

A west-bound passenger train on the Western North Carolina Railroad jumped a trestle near Statesville about 2 a. m. The train plunged in the darkness into a ravine 60 feet in depth, dashing the cars into splinters.

The train was filled with people, many of them Tennesseans returning from coast resorts.

Forty-two passengers were killed and ten injured, according to the latest accounts. Eighty-five passengers were on board the train.

The rails at the entrance to the viaduct had been misplaced, and the entire train went down eighty feet to the small creek below. There had been no washout, as has been reported, and the bridge was not broken down. Three Pullman sleepers and two private cars of railway officials are in the wreck.

Up to 11 o'clock thirty-six bodies had been taken out of the wreck, and later the number was stated to be forty-two. Five were seriously injured and five others slightly hurt.

The disaster came without warning, and escape by jumping was impossible, consequently the engineer, the fireman, the baggage-master, the conductor and the porter of the sleeping car were killed.

Seen at the Wreck.

An eye witness to the disaster says that after the fearful crash, when the train went over, all was quiet for several moments; then from the dark abyss below shriek after shriek arose.

He ran down to the river bank and could see the cars partly lying on one side, and from the windows of the two coaches one or two persons were crawling. He did all in his power to rescue a woman who was caught under a side of a car, but before he could do much the relief summoned from Statesville had arrived.

When they came a dozen men and women were seated on the upper sides of the cars. Some were screaming while others were laughing—it was the laughter of insanity.

The night was dark, and to add to the horror of the situation the water in the creek was up. It was only through the most heroic efforts of those who hurried to the scene of the wreck that the injured were not drowned.

Mr. and Mrs. Link of Lexington, who were among the injured, were married only the previous night and had just begun their wedding trip.

The wrecked train left the Jersey City depot of the Pennsylvania Railroad at 12:30 Wednesday morning with six sleepers.

HELPING THE DISTRESSED.

Relief for the Families Who Lost Relatives in the Park Place Disaster.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—There is a general movement throughout the city to help the living relatives of those who perished in the terrible disaster in Park place. It is known that there are many who are totally unfitted to bear the responsibilities which the position of breadwinner makes it necessary for them to assume.

At such times ready money is the only thing that will, in a small degree, tend to lighten the burden of grief.

Already the sum realized from the generosity of the many who invariably come forward at such times has reached a considerable amount, and the several committees which have been appointed to look after the interests of those who need help report that the subscription lists are swelling hourly.

The Relief Committee appointed by Mayor Grant reported at noon $5,042 on hand. It was decided to allow each family $50 at once. The Lithographers' Union has already raised a good sum for the families of those lithographers who lost their lives.

No more bodies have been found in the Park place ruins. The search for them has practically been abandoned.

All interest in the disaster now centers in the placing of the responsibility. The coroner's jury was empanelled and viewed the ruins. The inquest proper will be begun on Tuesday.

WILL FIGHT CORBETT.

Charlie Mitchell Takes Up the Challenge for $25,000 a Side.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Charlie Mitchell formally takes up Corbett's challenge to fight for $25,000 a side. He is ready to deposit the money—furnished by his father-in-law "Pony" Moore—as soon as Corbett by cable announces his acceptance.

In addition, Mitchell says he has an English friend willing to back him for $100,000 against Corbett. It must be a fight to a finish. Corbett can decide whether the fight is to be in America or in England. If in America Mitchell wants to name the exact location; if in England Corbett can name the location.

Appeals to the Spaish Minister.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 28.—Secretary Monue Seone of the Spanish Legation has appealed to the Spanish Minister from a fine of $4.20 imposed for fast driving. The mayor says the arrest was illegal and that the alderman who issued the warrant is liable to State prison.

LEAVING VERMONT.

The President Starts To-night for Cape May Point.

PROCTOR, Vt., Aug. 28.—President Harrison spent all the morning at Secretary Proctor's residence. At noon he went to Rutland by special train and held a public reception. After taking lunch with President Clements of the Rutland road he returned to Proctor.

This evening there will be a reception of a semi-public character at Secretary Proctor's.

The President has made a change in his itinerary. It was arranged originally that he was to remain at Proctor until to-morrow morning. As he is anxious to get back to Cape May Point, however, he has decided that it would be better to spend to-night on the cars.

Accordingly, he has arranged to leave Proctor at 11 o'clock to-night, arriving in New York at 6:45 to-morrow morning. A message was sent to George W. Boyd of the Pennsylvania Railroad, asking him to arrange the transportation of the party from Jersey City to Cape May Point to-morrow morning.

CRUELTY AT DANNEMORA.

A Committee Appointed to Investigate the Charges of Inhuman Treatment.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 28.—With reference to certain newspaper articles making charges of cruel and inhuman treatment of prisoners confined in the New York State prison at Dannemora by the agent and warden, keepers and other persons entrusted with care and management of such prisoners, the Superintendent of State Prisons has authorized an investigation and has appointed a committee to conduct it.

The committee is composed of the following gentlemen: Oscar Craig, of Rochester, N. Y., the chairman of the State Board of Charities; W. M. F. Round, of New York city, the secretary of the Prison Association of the State of New York, and Lewis Balch, M. D., of Albany, secretary of the State Board of Health.

This committee is authorized to examine all persons, and will report to the superintendent. The first hearing will be held at Dannemora Prison on September 3 at 10 a. m.

TERRIBLE DEED.

A Woman Poisons Herself and Her Illegitimate Child.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Lizzie Wilson, 32 years of age, living at 1507 North Front street, poisoned herself and her illegitimate child early in the morning. The babe was dead when the couple were found, but the mother lingered for several hours before death ensued.

The woman before death made a statement, in which she said a man named Kantz was the father of the child, and his persistent refusal to marry her caused her to commit the terrible deed.

The wrongs of the woman had so preyed on her mind as to cause her to become insane. While in this condition she gave her babe arsenic and then took a dose herself. Kantz has been arrested.

LIVELY PRIMARIES.

Cleveland Delegates Successful in Auburn, N. Y., in Eight Out of Ten Wards.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 28.—The hottest Democratic caucuses ever seen in this city were held last night and resulted in an overwhelming defeat for Warden Durston, the Hill leader. Cleveland delegates were elected in 8 out of 10 wards and the other two are contested. The Clevelands have a majority of the delegates in both districts, but contests are expected which may result in rows at the convention.

In the 4th Ward caucus a riot occurred and the front of the store in which the caucus was held was broken out, the chairman having been thrown bodily through it.

Watching American Cattle.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 28.—Premier Abbott, in a speech in the Senate, assured that body that the utmost precautions would be taken in regard to the importation of American cattle in bond for slaughter in Canada and shipment to Great Britain, adding that if it was found that the privilege endangered Canada's cattle trade with Great Britain the Government would, if necessary, cancel it.

Window Glass Deadlock.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—Sub-committees of the window glass manufacturers and workers conferred last evening. The manufacturers withdrew the demand previously made for an all around reduction of 10 per cent. in the wages. The men would make no concessions. The result is a deadlock, and it is impossible to say how long the fires may be deferred.

A SECRET NO LONGER

Ex-Cashier Lawrence Makes a Confession in Prison.

EXPOSING THE BANK FRAUDS.

He Tells How Easily it Was to Deceive the Examiner.

Unfolds the Methods Pursued by Officials to Rob the Keystone Bank of Philadelphia—The Operations Carried on for Twelve Years—Almost Impossible to Detect the Fraudulent Transactions.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Charles Lawrence, the assistant cashier of the Keystone National Bank, who is undergoing a sentence of seven years imposed by Judge Butler, more than a week ago in the United States District Court, has made a full confession.

Since his confinement in the Eastern penitentiary the disgraced official has been doing some thinking, and has come to the conclusion that it was his duty to tell all he knew, and how the frauds were perpetrated in the Keystone Bank.

Lawrence, it seems, placed the confession in the hands of his counsel, who, by the request of the prisoner, turned it over to ex-Bank Examiner Drew. The confession is represented as being a most remarkable document, inasmuch as it fully unfolds the method pursued by the bank officials to deceive the examiner and all others having anything to with the government and the institution.

It sets forth that from 1880 down to about the time of the closing of the bank in March, 1891, methods were adopted to deceive the keenest official.

From what is said of the document, a state of affairs existed that was marvelous, and that the means employed for deception could only be suggested and the fraudulent transactions carried on only by shrewd men. The confession fully describes everything, and when made known will be read with interest by every bank official.

Nothing has been held back, and the revelations, while astounding, were of such a character that it was possible for the guilty parties to continue their operations for a series of years without being detected.

MARYLAND REPUBLICANS.

They Nominate a State Ticket—Text of the Platform.

OCEAN CITY, Md., Aug. 28.—The Republican State Convention nominated the following ticket:

Governor—William J. Van Nort, of Kent County.
Attorney-General—George M. Sharp, of Baltimore.
Clerk of Court of Appeals—E. F. Abell, of Leonardtown.
Comptroller—John McDonald, of Montgomery County.

The platform adopted by the convention reaffirms adhesion to the Republican platform of 1888, and endorses the 51st Congress; commends the administration of President Harrison; denounces the Democracy of Maryland for its meaningless silver platform; arraigns the Democratic party of the State for its wilful and persistent violation of its most solemn pledges; condemns the methods by which the Democratic majority of the last Legislature disregarded its pledges; demands the repeal of the registration law; recommends a law providing for taxation of mortgages where the property mortgaged may be, and charges the deplorable condition of the oyster industry to the neglect of duty and opportunities of the Democratic party.

THE DAM OVERFLOWED.

Hotel Guests Forced to Go to the Top Floor for Safety.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 28.—A special from Glass Lake House, a resort 12 miles east of Troy, tells of the overflow of a new dam at 2 p. m.

The heavy rains caused the water to rise rapidly and the strain was so great that it broke, the water rushing down the valley.

The guests of the hotel were forced to go to the top floor, the water reaching up to the second story.

A barn and the hotel stables were carried away, being lodged one mile away. Six horses and several cows were drowned.

There is no report of loss of life, but much alarm is felt.

Gas Well Fire Extinguished.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—The fire at the Cook well at McDonald, Pa., which has been burning steadily since last Thursday night, was extinguished to-day. The well was the property of the Wheeling Gas Company, who have suffered a loss of about $25,000 by the blaze.

WENT DOWN WITH THE BRIDGE.

The Workmen Ran for their Lives, But Two Were Caught.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 28.—Shortly after noon while workmen were engaged in repairing the Cumberland street bridge, which spans the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at that point, the bridge began to sway.

All the workmen ran for their lives, but two, Tolbert Minnick, aged 20 years, and Walter Miller, aged 24. They were unable to get off in time, and as it fell with a crash the men went with it and were buried in the debris.

When their companions recovered from their fright and hurried to them, they found that Minnick had been instantly killed and Miller seriously injured. The latter was with great difficulty gotten out from under the wreck.

The bridge was a wooden structure, 150 feet long, and was built in 1872. It had been condemned, and was closed for some time past.

FLEEING FROM JUSTICE.

A Massachusetts Justice of the Peace in Trouble.

FOXBORO, Mass., Aug. 28.—A criminal process has been issued against Robert W. Carpenter, a trial justice, law practitioner and Chief of the Fire Department, who is wanted for misappropriating $300 of the town's money. He is also charged with embezzlement. He has left town and his hiding place is not known.

He is one of the Commissioners of Insolvency for Norfolk County. He is said to have made preparations to locate in the South. A wife and son remain here.

News from the Bowdoin Expedition.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 28.—The latest advices received from the Bowdoin Expedition to Labrador, state that the exploring party had started to ascend Grand River to discover the falls. A rival party from Philadelphia was found at the mouth of the river, but the Bowdoin men got six days' start of them. At last accounts the vessel of the expedition was crusing in Lake Melville, engaged in scientific searches and awaiting the return of the explorers. They are expected back Sept. 10. All are well.

Refugees Ordered Out of Germany.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—In consequence of the great scarcity of food in Eastern Germany, the Russian Jewish refugees who have been staying temporarily in that region most of them for lack of means to go farther, have been ordered to go elsewhere, either back to Russia or to the seaports, where they can take passage for other countries. Most of them are being aided to go to Hamburg by the Hebrew relief committees.

Several Ball Players Signed.

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—Contracts have been signed by Hugh Duffy, Morgan Murphy, John Fitzgerald, Hardy Richardson, John Stricker, Paul Radford, Thomas T. Brown and John O'Brien to play with the Boston Association club for the season of 1892. It is said that Brown will receive an increase over this season's salary.

No Tidings of Mr. and Mrs. Marsh.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 28.—The fate of Mr. and Mrs. Guy G. Marsh, who left Salisbury in a small boat Sunday afternoon, is still a mystery. There is a bare possibility that they may have been picked up by some outward bound vessel.

NO DECISIVE BATTLE

Contradictory Reports About the Chilian War.

BOTH ARMIES READY TO FIGHT.

A Rumor Current that the Insurgent Troops Are Completely Surrounded.

Still Another Dispatch that the Rebels Have Surrendered—The Chilian Minister at Washington Thinks the War is Over—Nothing Official About a Final Struggle Received from the Seat of War.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via Galveston, Tex., Aug. 28.—Another day has passed and still there has been no decisive battle about Valparaiso.

The active operations, so far as fighting is concerned, have been confined to sharp but unimportant skirmishes between scouting parties of the insurrectionists and Balmaceda's cavalry.

While neither army has as yet seen fit to make an attack, the tension is too great to last many hours.

General Canto, commanding the Congressional army, with Colonels Holley and Kornner as his chiefs of staff, has devoted much time in strengthing his position on the hills above the race track at Vina del Mar.

The rebel cruisers Esmeralda and O'Higgins have been steaming about off the entrance to the bay all day, but they have shown no disposition to come inside and risk an attack from the torpedo boats Condell and Lynch, or the fire of the big guns in the forts.

President Balmaceda still has command of the forces about Valparaiso in person. He has as his chiefs of staff Generals Alzerreca and Barbosa, both able and experienced soldiers.

There is a rumor current that the troops from Coquimbo and Santiago are marching toward Valparaiso with the idea of completely surrounding General Canto and compelling his surrender. It is only a rumor, however, and has no official source.

REPORT OF A BATTLE.

A Dispatch from Buenos Ayres Says the Insurgent Army Has Surrendered.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—A dispatch has been received at the Chilian Legation in this city, from Buenos Ayres stating that the troops of the Chilian government have had another engagement with the insurgent forces, near Valparaiso, and were completely victorious.

The dispatch also says that it is reported in Buenos Ayres that the insurgent forces had surrendered to the victorious Balmacedan army.

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

Chili's Minister Enthusiastic Over the Insurgents' Defeat.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Senor Lazcano, the Chilian Minister, is elated over the news of Balmaceda's victory in Chili. The war began more than six months ago, Senor Lazcano explained, and the insurgents were led by Col. Canto who had been dismissed from the Chilian army. He had succeeded in securing the Chilian navy, and on this account had been able until now to maintain his army.

The Chilian government had no navy, and because of this disadvantage, had been unable to hem in the insurgents.

"Had we had ships," tracing positions of the government and insurgent forces on a rough map he had drawn so as to explain himself, "we would have succeeded long ago."

The despatch received here by the Chilian Minister, was shown to Mr. Foster, one of the Insurgent representatives, and that gentleman was asked if he had heard anything from his party. He replied that he had received the following cablegram from their agent, dated the 26th:

IQUIQUE, Chili, Aug. 28.—The Constitutional forces continue advancing. We have confidence in the defeat of Balmaceda. Contradict the news given by the Dictator's agents.
(Signed) ERRAZURIZ.

WHAT BLAINE SAYS.

Should His Friends Nominate Him He Could Not Decline.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 28.—The latest version of Mr. Blaine's attitude respecting the nomination for President, is contained in this fragment of a recent conversation between the Secretary and Postmaster Manley of Augusta.

"I was a candidate for the nomination once, and was beaten. I shall never be a candidate again before the convention. Should my friends nominate me I could not decline, but I shall not in any way announce my candidacy beforehand, nor shall I authorize my friends to speak for me."

Every politician and newspaper editor in Maine, of whatever party, regards Blaine's nomination as a foregone conclusion.

Judge Daniels' Position.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Judge Daniels during the morning stated his position with reference to the nomination for the Supreme Court judgeship, Eighth District. He said that if the nomination was tendered to him he would accept it, but he preferred to lose the position rather than dishonor the bench by putting forth one foot in an undignified manner to secure a renomination.

An Old Insurance Man Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Samuel B. Raymond, the pioneer fire insurance man of this city, died last night aged 68 years. He leaves a widow and one son, and a brother, Henry J. Raymond, of the New York Times.

Parnell Loses the Freeman's Journal.

DUBLIN, Aug. 28.—The Freeman's Journal of this city will come out to-day as an anti-Parnellite journal. The office is protected by the police.

ON BOARD THE CONQUEROR.

Custom House Officers in Charge of Vanderbilt's Foreign Yacht.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Custom House officers were placed on board of Mr. Frederick W. Vanderbilt's steam yacht Conqueror to-day. Mr. Vanderbilt has owned the yacht but a few months, having bought it in England for about $75,000. It is very likely that the vessel will cost him considerably more than this sum by the time the Custom House authorities have done with him.

As soon as the Conqueror was reported to have reached this country, the Custom House prepared to collect port duties, amounting to $750 at each port touched. The Solicitor-General, however, stepped in and said that the Conqueror must be treated as manufactured iron, on which the tax would be 45 per cent. This would compel Mr. Vanderbilt to pay the tidy sum of $30,000 for the privilege of establishing his floating palace in these waters.

Protest was entered by Mr. Vanderbilt's lawyer, and there the matter stands at present.

INTERNATIONAL BANQUET.

President Harrison and Governor-General Stanley May Meet.

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 28.—The Grand Trunk Railroad tunnel under the St. Clair River, at Sarnia, will be formally opened on Saturday, September 19.

The opening ceremonies will be brilliant. Sarnia, on the Canadian side, and Port Huron, on the American side, will give up the whole day to the celebration.

Arrangements are now being made for an opening, which will include a banquet in the tunnel, at which President Harrison, many of the American State Governors, the Governor-General of Canada, Sir Henry Tyler, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, and other Grand Trunk officials will be invited to be present.

The tables will be laid across the boundary line, and during the banquet the Thirteenth Batallion band, of Hamilton, will play. On the Canadian side the band will play "God Save the Queen," and on the American side "The Star Spangled Banner."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brokaw and son, of East Fifth street, will go to Saratoga to morrow, for several weeks.

Mrs. C. V. Shaddle, a society lady of Netherwood, N. J., is at the Lenox, accompanied by her attractive daughter.—Asbury Park Journal.

George F. Oglyke and family returned from Asbury Park, yesterday, and will go to Sharon Springs, Saturday, for the remainder of the season.

Miss Christie Smalley and Miss Sadie Lyons, of Plainfield, are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Simeon W. Lambert of Willow Grove.—Westfield Leader.

S. J. Moore, of Poughkeepsie, made a flying trip to Plainfield last evening, and registered at Force's Hotel. He is on his way home from a trip to the coast of Maine.

Mrs. Ann E. Hudson, aged 75 years, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held from the residence of her son-in-law, J. T. Vegiard, 252 West Third street, to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

W. F. Fulper, the wholesale grocer of Plainfield, who was once in the same business in Cook's Building, Asbury Park, is on a brief vacation and puts up at the Tremont.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

A number of young people met at the residence of Moses Brown, at Green Brook, Wednesday evening, the occasion being a spider-web party. A very enjoyable evening was spent. Several out-of town people were present.

Master Fred Freeman of East Fifth street, who, with his parents, is summering at Coleman Cottage between Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsburg, has broken the record of even the oldest fisherman, by catching the largest fish that has ever been caught in the lovely lakes that abound in that neighborhood, it being a pickerel, weighing fully three pounds, and measuring twenty inches.

A. L. C. Marsh, the architect, of this city, has completed a thorough examination, for the New York Herald, of the ruined Park place building which crushed so many people to death, and he entirely agrees with another architect who accompanied him that the awful accident was caused entirely by the vibration of the presses on the front wall, which was unavoidably the weakest of the four on account of having one side facing the street.

DOUGLASS GREEN RETURNS.

He Visits Wall Street and They Gossip About His Future.

A great many stories were told in Wall street yesterday and as many guesses made about the future movements of Douglass Green, who was for many years a resident of this city and until nearly two years ago a member of the firm of Green & Bateman of New York, and a well-known stock broker.

The cause of these stories being set afloat was the presence in Wall street of Mr. Green himself. He appeared there Tuesday for the first time since he ran away with Alice Snell McCrea. He was apparently in the best of health and spirits, and many of his former friends said they were glad to see him.

Mr. Green had little to say of his future intentions. He had been in San Francisco and intended to readjust his business affairs in New York as speedily as possible.

It was said by those who gossiped about his return that several offers had been made for his services by concerns which regarded him as a good broker and a skillful operator in the stock market. One story was to the effect that Mr. Green would establish himself as the New York representative of P. D. Armour of Chicago, with whom he is said to be on the best of terms. Another story was that he would not be content to operate as an agent, but would begin business on his own hook.

Of his career since he left New York Mr. Green said little that was news, even to his most intimate friends. Some who had talks of a more or less confidential nature with him said that he had not been idle while in Europe or in San Francisco, but had been doing considerable speculating all the time he had been away from Wall street.

It was said that he would not make application for reinstatement as a member of the Stock Exchange.

They Had a Good Time.

Thirty-five of Plainfield's citizens, members of Trinity Commandery, K. T., No. 17, and friends, accompanied by their wives, went to Atlantic City yesterday to participate in the annual field-day pleasures of the Knights Templar of New Jersey, and came home well pleased with the enjoyments of the day. Trinity Commandery, although the infant of the organization in the State, showed that she was thoroughly alive, by securing the parlor car Rumson for its journey to and from Atlantic City. It left Plainfield at 7:30 a. m. and was attached to the excursion train of Damascus Commandery, No. 7, of Newark, at Elizabethport. Sir Knight H. P. Baldwin, General Passenger Agent of the Central railway, was in attendance at the above station and personally saw that the Sir Knights were safely and properly started on their journey, and also gave the Plainfield car a special locomotive to convey it and its passengers to their homes on the return trip from Elizabethport. Every one was loud in praise of the efficient management of the Central railway, and the courteous and kind attention given on the trip by the employes of the road. The Central never does things half way, and its popular agent, Mr. Baldwin, received the thanks of the passengers on the Rumson for his personal endeavors in their behalf yesterday. The day at Atlantic City was a most enjoyable one, a large number of Sir Knights being in attendance. The parade was grand, and only marred by a shower at the close of the parade, which dampened the uniforms and ardor of the participants. At the Mansion House, where Trinity and guests were domiciled, every care and attention was given to them through the kindness of Clerk Thomas F. Kirk, in whom the establishment has a treasure. He is genial and attentive. The excursionists all express their appreciation of the services and attention paid them on their trip by conductor Isaac Munn, brakemen Frank H. Crane and James VanMiddlesworth, and porter John P. Hurndon, the latter looking after the wants of all. The "Rumson" was conveyed to Plainfield from Elizabethport by special engine No. 131, Joseph Tate, engineer, Richard Ten-Broeck, conductor, who by the way, is likely to secure a prize offered by the New York Recorder for the most popular conductor on the Central railway. All hands arrived at their destination in Plainfield at 11:55 p. m. Those of the party who dined at table No. 2 of the Mansion House desire to express their appreciation of the attentiveness of waiter Andrew W. Hopkins. During the trip a fine collection of sandwiches, cake and ice-cream, such as only caterer John H Tier can provide, was served to the occupants of the parlor car. In fact the whole affair was a grand success, and all are now looking forward to the tri-ennial reunion at Denver, Col., in 1892.

On the return trip, through the kindness of leader Voss, that celebrated band from Newark, which headed Damascus Commandery, entered the parlor car and tendered Trinity a serenade, which was highly appreciated by all. There was no finer music rendered in the parade than that rendered by Voss's Band.

THE proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a remedy for catarrh, colds in the head and hay fever. It is not a liquid or a snuff, is easily applied into the nostrils. It gives relief at once. 50c.

I HAD catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm, and from the first application I was relieved. The sense of smell, which had been lost, was restored after using one bottle. I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for catarrh, and it has effected a cure in my case.—H. L. Meyer, Waverly, N. Y.

CAREY WAIVES EXAMINATION.

But Mr. Levy Has Other Rods in Pickle for Him.

Ex-policeman Carey being wired for, returned to Plainfield yesterday and surrendered himself to answer for his recent acts as first told of exclusively in THE PRESS. He waived examination and gave bonds to the amount of $300 to await the action of the grand jury.

He denies that there was any assault on Mrs. Levy. He says he thought the rent was owing him, and he was told that the tenant was packing up to leave. So he hurried home to look after his own, and in the bustle of moving the goods Mrs. Levy may have been pushed over.

Carey says his son keeps the books and there is no credit on them of the $40 for August rent which Levy holds a receipt for. He sold Levy "a horse and wagon or something" about the same time, and maybe the receipt should have been for that.

But Mr. Levy does n't propose to let the case rest as it is. Other proceedings will be begun against the ex-policeman, at once.

Trouble Over Children.

Mrs. Webber and Mrs. O'Harra are next-door neighbors, and have lived very peaceably until a few days ago, at Dunellen, when little Johnny O'Harra went home crying and told his mother that he had been whipped by the Webber boy. Mr. O'Harra then took a hand and whipped the Webber boy, and after a warm dispute the case was carried before Judge Coles.

Mrs. Webber had prepared for a strong fight, and secured the services of counselor Hetfield, of Plainfield, but when Mr. Hetfield saw that the outcome of all the disturbance was from two little innocent boys he advised the pair of angry neighbors to "go whacks" in paying the expenses, and drop the case. After some coaxing they decided to do so.

Whist Winners at Fanwood.

The Rotary Whist Tournament, for August, at Fanwood, was closed Wednesday evening, resulting in Walter Force winning first prize. Messrs. Smith and Gardner tied for "the booby". On playing off, Mr. Gardner was declared winner of the booby, amounting to forty cents. The latter prize is made up from the fines collected, as upon assembling each evening, the member or members behind time chipped in ten cents each.

The straight whist tournament of 500 points, 100 each evening, now stands: Kempshall & Bates, 200; Quereau & Fancher, 192. Large stakes are on this, and the final result is watched for with intense interest by all Fanwood, many outside wagers having been made.

—Have you seen those great bargains at the store of the Tea and Coffee Growers' association? Their advertisement tells about some of them.

—A large audience assembled at Reform Hall last evening to hear the address of the Rev. E. H. Stewart, which was appropriate and to the point. At the conclusion, a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker, at the suggestion of President Spencer. Mr. Stewart made an urgent appeal for signers of the pledge, which was responded to by a number of the audience.

—The veterans had a big day of it yesterday over the reunion of 28th N. J. Vols. At the rink in the afternoon Mayor Alexander Gilbert addressed the veterans, making a most stirring speech upon the distinguished and enviable record which they had made in the late war. Howard MacSherry, of New Brunswick, delivered a characteristic speech. The Rev. Edward H. Stewart, of Portland, Pa., also made an address. There was singing by a glee club of male voices, and altogether the old soldiers had a tip-top time.

Suit for $1,000,000 Damages.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—James E. Lynn has brought an action in the Supreme Court against Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada for $1,000,000 damages. The suit grows out of complications over mines, among them being the Emma of Utah. Lynn claims that Stewart, while acting as his attorney, conspired with Trenor W. Park and others to deprive him of his mining rights.

Strike for Fresh Air.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 28.—Two hundred boot makers have struck work in the big rubber factory of L. Candee & Co. because the superintendent ordered the windows closed, claiming that the air damaged the material. The atmosphere in the shop was suffocating. The strike is virtually one for fresh air.

Gladstone Denounces Gambling.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Mr. Gladstone has written a letter denouncing gambling as a formidable and growing national evil. Mr. Gladstone adds that he is ready to give his aid to any efforts aiming at the extinction or mitigation of gambling.

Appointed Cattle Inspector.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Secretary Rusk has appointed Dr. C. L. Morin inspector of cattle at the quarantine stations of Richford and Newport, Vt., with residence at the former place.

No Change in Anthracite Prices.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The meeting of the anthracite coal agents was largely attended. After a brief discussion it was decided not to make any change in the present rates.

Killed His Brother With a Shovel.

GEORGETOWN, Del., Aug. 28.—William and George Walker, brothers, who lived at Reynolds Mills, a few miles from here, quarrelled about some horse feed, when George picked up a shovel and struck William on the head with it, killing him on the spot.

A QUEER TRADE.

Visit to the Office of a Professional Taxidermist in New York.

Pushing my way into a rather forbidding little shop on the Bowery, in New York, past one or two screens which shut off view from the street, I saw a very curious group. In the middle was a man whose naked arms were covered with tatooed birds, beasts, flags, women and other things. He was the sample. By his side, persuasive, the artist stood exhibiting a fat book of designs to half a dozen young fellows who looked like dock laborers or teamsters; certainly not sailors. The book was a very attractive one, apparently. The men eyed its hundred or more crudely drawn and colored pictures with evident admiration. One of them was chaffering with the artist.

"That air one'll cost you $5," said the man of needles, pointing to a picture of a fat woman, "decollete at both ends," as the saying is.

"I kin git dat done beautiful for two cases," said the young chap.

"Huh! Ye kin, kin ye? Do you know how much the tools cost?"

"No, I don't; but I kin get it done for——"

"Dat's all right, youse tell me where, dat's all. Look at de colorin'! And de tools cost just five dollars and fifty cents. Youse make me tired!" And the artist turned away in disgust. He knew his audience.

The young man rolled up his sleeve and the artist set to work with red and blue and black ink, pricking in an elaborate pattern. Soon big drops of perspiration were standing on the victim's forehead, but he wouldn't flinch in the presence of the little group who watched him.

"Doesn't it hurt?" one of them inquired.

"Hurt? Na-ah!" said the victim; but the artist said briefly: "You bet."

An "Old Fashioned Man."

There is in New York a business man who does not send out letters typewritten by the clicking machine worked by the young woman with bangs. Every letter he sends is neatly written out with pen by his private secretary, and when it comes in its unusual delicacy of script with the business man's heavy signature scrawled boldly across the bottom of the sheet the man who receives it feels as if he had been personally and delicately complimented.

I sat in this man's office recently, idly watching the pale young secretary write letter after letter until a big heap lay before him. When the last one was finished he threw his notes into the waste basket with a sigh of relief, put away the fine gold pen he had been using, took up a heavy steel "stub" and after a few preliminary flourishes, began forging his employer's bold and somewhat peculiar signature with some rapidity and considerable skill. At about the sixth repetition of the name he picked up the sheet and held it out to me.

"There," he said, "I was a little rocky at first on these signatures, but I flatter myself that's a pretty fair one. Oh, yes, I commit authorized forgery like this every day. The boss is always off somewhere or other and when he's here he's too busy to sign his letters. But the country dealers wouldn't like to get letters signed with a stamp. They like to see the pen signature; shows that a—D'n a stub pen, anyway!—shows that a man's attending to his business. You bet I'm glad to get through with this mess."

I will never again put trust in an impressive signature. But what about the ethical bearings of such a practice?

An Archbishop's Little Joke.

At a meeting held in Philadelphia to found a Catholic Historical Library, addressed by Cardinal Gibbons, his Eminence caused laughter by saying that the eloquent and beloved Archbishop of Philadelphia, when a small, red-haired lad in Ireland, delighted in repeating the language of Daniel O'Connell, but now the stream of genuine eloquence flowed so freely from the Archbishop's own breast that nobody would accuse him of palming off anybody else's oration as his own.

But Archbishop Ryan managed to get square with his Eminence. "I forgive the Cardinal for his witticisms," he said; "what nature did for me in my early days the Pope did for his Eminence later on, by sending him a red cap."

Matrimonial Red Tape.

"Florry, dear," faltered the youth, "I couldn't summon courage to tell you what is in my heart, and I wrote it. You got my letter, didn't you?"

"Yes, George, I got it."

"And you read it, didn't you?"

"Yes, I read it. In fact I—I read it over twice."

"And now, Florry, he said, growing bolder, "I have come to learn my fate."

"The best I can promise you, George," said the blushing daughter of a distinguished statesman, withdrawing her hand from the ardent clasp of the infatuated young man, "is that I will advance your letter to a third reading to-morrow."

Cross Words Not in Vain.

Loving Wife.—Now that you are ruined, Henry, I will disclose my secret. For years I have been saving up, and now (pouring a shower of gold pieces into his hat) this may tide you over.

Husband.—Oh, my darling, how did you manage to do it?

Wife.—Easily enough. Every time you said a cross word to me I put a nickel in the box.

General Longstreet Did Not Attend.

LACONIA, N. H., Aug. 27.—Gen. James Longstreet, who was expected to attend the encampment of the New Hampshire veterans at Wiers, this week, has not yet appeared, owing, it is said, to certain newspaper articles tending to arouse prejudice against the Confederate general. Resolutions were adopted by the veterans condemning the tendency to revive unpleasant memories, and cordially inviting General Longstreet to visit the encampment of 1892.

Arrested for Poisoning Cattle.

NEWARK, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Fred C. Willer and wife and their son Charles were arrested here charged with the poisoning of the herd of Holstein cattle belonging to C. W. Stuart some weeks since, 15 of which died. They were held in bail to appear for examination. The arrest caused much excitement in the village. There was a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the guilty parties.

Crops Damaged by Frosts.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 28.—The much feared frost came last night in rather formidable shape. The thermometer was from 2 to 5 degrees below freezing all over the province, and there can be no doubt that much damage was done.

OUR

"Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

EDSALL'S,

20 WEST FRONT STREET.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

BESIEGED BY REPORTERS.

Charlie Dodd Has a Queer Experience Concerning a Prisoner Who Wasn't Lynched.

Charles W. Dodd, formerly police captain in this city, and now jail warden at Elizabeth, was kept busy yesterday denying the reported lynching of the irrepressible John Pfeiffer. The Elizabeth Journal tells the story:

This morning one of the out-of-town papers received by telegraph a very startling story of a lynching alleged to have taken place in this city. John Pfeiffer, the Westfield man who is in jail awaiting a hearing on a charge of having thrown poison into the well of Farmer Clark, was the reported victim.

The thrilling story described the incensed villagers of Westfield marching under cover of night to this city, where, after demanding warden Dodd to surrender the prisoner and being refused, they battered in an end wall of the county prison, found the terrified Pfeiffer crouching in his cell, and, dragging him into the yard, hung him to a tree, where his lifeless body was cut down by the sheriff's posse. All of the metropolitan dailies, learning of the matter, sent out reporters to get the facts, and warden Dodd was interviewed by wholesale, as never before in his life.

No one here could believe any such stuff as the alleged lynching, but it was thought that possibly Pfeiffer had returned to Westfield under bail and there fallen a victim of the excited feelings of some one.

Warden Dodd was interviewed in his office and by telephone. He was not a little amused, especially as he had the moment before been conversing with Pfeiffer, who is still in the jail, and hopeful that the examination to-morrow will clear him of all guilt.

There has been considerable exaggeration about the case since the start, and the truth of the matter is as the complaint shows. Pfeiffer is only charged with disorderly conduct and threatening to poison Mr. Clark's family.

On Sunday some of the cattle of Mr. Clark's were made sick from drinking water from the well, and it was believed that poison had been used. Suspicion fell on Pfeiffer, because of some threats he had made. He was accordingly arrested. Pfeiffer has lived for some time on a little piece of ground not far from Mr. Clark's place, and has been looked upon as a harmless fellow, whose chief faults were drinking and laziness. He was recently sent to jail for stealing some blackberries from Mr. Clark, and it is because of a threat to be revenged on the farmer that he is now suspected of this graver crime.

Some of the New York papers have said that the neighbors of Clark have threatened to lynch Pfeiffer, but there has been no such feeling manifest among those law-abiding people.

Another Somerville View of It.

(From The Harkinstown Unionist-Gazette.)

The Crescents won an easy victory, Saturday, from the West Ends. But it can't be expected that victory will always perch upon the banners of the Somerville players. Ever since the early part of May our players have been playing a model game. There had to be a break made sooner or later. True it is unfortunate that it should have happened in the Plainfield game, but then a series of unforseen accidents all conspired to bring about the climax. With Carbonell and Kennedy off the team there is a big sized hole to be filled, and add to this the great sixteen-inning game played but two days before, a game which tried and tired every one of the players, and it is almost wonderful that the score was not even more. That Harkins was hit hard and often, no one denies, but all the talk about his speed and curves having forsaken him, is pure and unadulterated bosh. Forced to pitch practically two games on Wednesday, it is really remarkable that he was able to go into the box at all on Saturday. A score of 12 to 5 is a bitter pill to swallow, for in fact of the few games won by the Crescents from our team in the last four years, not a single one was won by more than one run.

Both teams played a good fielding game, and the pitchers were saved many a base hit by some clever catch or stop. The errors made on both sides were extremely costly.

Here's to your health and your family's. May you live long and prosper; if you drink Root Beer made from Knapp's Root Beer Extract.

CARROLL EMERSON'S BRAVE ACT.

He Plunges Into the Ocean With All His Clothes and Shoes on, and Saves David Chittick's Life.

Asbury Park has been "ringing" all the week with praises of Carroll Emerson of this city. He was walking along the promenade Monday morning when he saw in the midst of the heavy breakers a man struggling to reach the land, but being carried out by the strong current.

Mr. Emerson saw that the swimmer was almost exhausted, and without an instant's hesitation he jumped down on the sand and plunged into the surf. Although hampered by his clothing he reached the nearly exhausted man and brought him to shore.

The rescued bather was insensible, but vigorous rubbing brought him round and he was assisted to his bath house. He gave his name as David Chittick, of South Brooklyn, and was stopping at the Halcyon cottage in the Park. His rescuer hurried home to change his dripping garments.

Mr. Chittick had started from the Fourth avenue pavilion to swim north along the shore and was out of reach of the bathing masters when he became exhausted, so that their services would have been of no avail.

Mr. Chittick afterwards called on Mr. Emerson at The Brunswick where he was stopping with his mother, Mrs. Kate Emerson of Central avenue, his brothers Howard and Harry, and his sister. Mr. Chittick said that he had given up all hope of reaching the shore, before he lost consciousness. The papers and the people of Asbury Park and Ocean Grove are still talking of nothing else than Mr. Emerson's bravery.

Atlantic Highlands to be the Terminus Hereafter.

The directors of the Central railroad of New Jersey have decided to make the Atlantic Highlands the northern terminus of the New Jersey southern branch, at which point the Sandy Hook boats will connect for Seabright and Long Branch. This will be the only landing place of the boats next season. The United States Government needs the whole of Sandy Hook for ordnance purposes and the railroad has received notice to leave in October next. The Central has surveyed several routes for the new line from the Atlantic Highlands to Seabright. One route is along the shore of the Highlands within the Hook, and crossing the Shrewsbury River at the Neversink Highlands. This will probably be chosen.

A despatch from the Neversink Highlands says that the officers of the railroad met the Board of Freeholders of Monmouth county to discuss the bridging of the Shrewsbury River. They decided to build a joint bridge, the railroad to keep the draw in order and maintain the proper signal service.

The Lehigh Consolidation.

The consolidation scheme of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, merging the Roselle and South Plainfield Railroad company, the Newark and Roselle Railway company, the Newark Railway company, the Jersey City, Newark and Western, the Newark and Passaic, the Jersey City Terminal, and the Edgewater Railroad companies, into one corporation under the name of the Lehigh Valley Terminal Railroad company, was carried out in Jersey City yesterday.

These companies were organized by the Lehigh's officers and were backed by that company's capital, to conduct a series of short lines in the vicinity of Jersey City, Bayonne, and Plainfield. These, now connected, will give the Lehigh a direct route from Bound Brook to the Hudson. The stockholders of the branch companies were nearly all represented at the meeting by proxies.

The Potters Are Building the Press.

The Passaic Daily News has just completed a new five-story stone building, at a cost of $35,000, which, after September 12, will be the future home of the News. The growing business of this paper has made it necessary for increased press facilities, and the Potter Press Company, of Plainfield, are now building a new Potter flat-bed perfecting press for the News Company that will turn out some 2,000 sheets an hour, both sides printed.—Orange Evening Mail.

Camera Club Outing.

It is proposed to go by rail to High Bridge, thence by wagons several miles through a picturesque region. The committee in charge is: J. E. Stewart, Harold Serrell and J. B. Platt.

Somerville Sued for Her Sewers.

William M. Small and Gerald Berry, contractors, trading as Small & Berry, filed a declaration Thursday in the United States Circuit Court to recover $30,000, alleged to be due them from the Board of Commissioners of Somerville. The summons to the commissioners is made returnable September 20. The suit is for the payment of the balance of a sewer contract.

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890.

Having suffered from Dyspepsia for several years, and having tried many eminent doctors without success, I was reluctantly induced to try Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I obtained speedy relief, and after a few months' use am cured. After such an experience, how can I praise them too highly? They ought to become famous, and gratitude prompts me to do all that is in my power to make them so. WALTER C. STODDARD.

LUXURIOUS TRAVELING.

The Pullman Palace Car Company's Latest Production for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

With the marvelous improvements of late days in interior architecture and elaborate finish of Pullman cars it requires the exceptional to attract more than passing notice and the extraordinary to draw forth comment. Some months ago the Pennsylvania Railroad Company ordered from the Pullman works, for the equipment of the New York and Washington and Congressional Limited express trains, the very best representative work the Pullman Company was capable of creating regardless of expense, and the result is now seen in the new cars running this last week on these two magnificent solid vestibule trains, which connect in a few hours the nation's metropolis with her seat of government. What is surely of much more importance than the handsome exterior finish of these cars, over which even experienced travelers are enthusiastic, is the improved and heavy trucks on which the palaces are built. They have been, with the wheels and axles, subjected to the very highest test, even beyond the standard, which on the Pennsylvania Railroad is highest known, and at the end of their active journey came to a halt as cool almost as at the start. The designer here has also made a marked advance, and one promoting untold comfort, by arranging the connection of car body and truck so as to reduce to a minimum the swaying motion ordinarily felt when under full speed. The entire trains are connected by vestibules, fitted for steam heat and equipped with improved air-brake appliances, which practically stop the cars almost in their own length. The former equipment of these trains seemed impossible to be improved upon, yet their perfection of design and finish demonstrates the capacity of this modern age for wonderful and radical changes. The exterior appearance, aside from the drawing-room angled bay-windows, is identical with the regulation Pullman in color and design, and it is not until advancing through the vestibule that the revelation of what Americans have grown to expect in taking their few hundred miles jaunts is made manifest, as illustrated by these luxuriously finished palaces on wheels. The upholstery of the comfortable, revolving easy chairs and sofas, affording seating accomodation for thirty-four persons in each car, is of a white, imported mohair cloth, worked with figured silk embossing. The flooring is covered with a rich, heavy Turkish carpeting, whose color blends harmoniously with the furnishings, even to the adjustable ottoman, ready for foot service at the front of each chair. Upon entering the aisleway it is noticeably wider than in other Pullman cars, and the wood-work is polished ash, stained. A perfect effect is produced in the hand-carved entrances from the drawing-rooms into the main car body, as it arches to a centre in a miniature dome, where scroll-work, leaded glass, brass designs, and heavy plate mirrors lend an exceptionally rich finish. At the windows hang a dual set of curtains, one a light cream to neutralize the light and shade the eyes, and back a heavy set of some rich brown stuff, embroidered and tasseled. The ceilings are hand decorations, not elaborate nor overworked, but very artistic, while every cornice or where one might expect the sharp edge is some dainty bit of relief wood-carving. The receptacle racks as well as the chandelier lamps are made of oxidized silver, the latter being of very unique pattern and shedding the softest silvery light on the interior decorations.

The drawing-rooms are perhaps the latest innovation in car construction; one is closed to the top of the ceiling, above the average standing height, with heavy plate-glass, beveled and paneled, while the other is open, and its occupants screened from the passengers in the body of the car by rich sliding curtains suspended on brass rods, running possibly two feet higher than the frame wood-work, and supported at the carved corners by thin newel posts of curiously twisted brass.

These compartments, accommodating six each, have a direct connection by door with the lavatory and toilet rooms, two spacious apartments well ventilated and lighted. The lavatory basin is made of heavy nickel, and every appointment in the way of necessary toilet articles is in its respective rack of twisted brass.

The wood-work above each chair in the main car is carved with laurel wreaths, suspended by the gracefully flowing strings, all most exquisitely carved by hand.

The entire arrangement suggests more a salon of Louis XIV's time than a regular passenger express train of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

These cars, added to the deservedly popular dining car service of the Washington Limited and Congressional Limited Express trains, render these trains absolutely peerless for day use.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

—Remember the importance of good goods and patronize Peck's store.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY is WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD. 6 9 tf

A Harvest Festival and the Costumes That Appeared.

Handling Cakes in French Shepherdess Costumes—Garden Party Dresses and Gowns for Yachting Wear—The Summer Girl.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

All yesterday afternoon I sat under woodbine leaves at Newport and watched a fete that was interesting. I say I sat under the leaves because it is already late summer, and in the still air leaf after leaf detached itself from its ripe stem and slowly floated down to lodge upon the piazza steps or upon my shoulder. A locust in the tangle of vines overhead never ceased from his long monotonous hum, and whenever I lifted my eyes I could see golden rod and girls.

The girls were about a business that in Newport is novel. Ward McAllister has familiarized the summer capital in past seasons with æsthetic picnics and supremely correct barn dances, but never so far as I knew until yesterday have young men and young women gone out harvesting. It was oats, I believe, that they supposed themselves to be getting in, but the crop doesn't matter; they did handle rakes and they did load the hay wagon, but these pretenses of labor were excuses and nothing more for the harvest supper and the clothes.

Since it is to the clothes I must address myself, it may be said that if Maud Muller had sent to Paris for her haying outfit she might have spoiled a poem. In the group nearest my piazza corner was a girl with a glow on her cheeks that came, anyone but a lazy cynic like myself would say, from honest exercise. Her brown hair was plaited in two long braids and tied with red ribbons. It hung down over her shoulders and upon a dress of cream-colored gingham dotted with great red spots. The dress came only to her ankles, and as she sat in the shade of a gnarly pear tree—for the field was well arranged for amateur harvesting operations with a striped refreshment tent and plenty of benches—one caught, as one was meant to catch, a glimpse of red stockings and low shoes.

I won't rake, but I will smile upon your labors, said this fin de siecle Maud Muller, whose red spotted frock was low at the throat, showing a neck of just the creamy brownness thought appropriate at this season. The dress turned back in a heart shaped collar of guipure lace, and the trim little casaque bodice, with its narrow edgings of red velvet, opened upon a full chemisette of fine cream colored linen, which was gathered under a broad belt of deep cream colored leather, laced with red cords. It is not so appropriate, as any woman knows, in such a dress to rake as to smile. In her hand the smiling one swung by its long ribbons a flat hat of yellow openwork straw, with wheat, poppies and a scarf of yellow chiffon for its trimmings.

Mrs. Adolph Ladenburg was another who found it more to her taste to smile upon the harvesters than to harvest smiling. She held her court under a walnut tree which lorded it quite in the middle of the field, and there gathered about her young men in tennis suits, warm, flushed, leaning on rake handles and clad in striped caps and long, striped stockings. Her own costume was picturesque enough for the picturesque occasion. It was a gray sateen printed with a feathery design in pink, brought out by touches of black velvet. Her wide-brimmed hat was gay with garlands of pink roses.

The pretense of working seemed to afford the pretenders pleasure, though why it did it would be hard saying, for everybody fully understood there was no work done. There could be, indeed, nothing accomplished in French dresses, be they ever so rustic and worn by damsels ever so rural. It is the proper thing to talk about Miss Sallie Hargous in this month before her marriage when, if ever, a young woman ought to be interesting. She did not present herself in the thick of the raking and the wagon loading, but at the harvest supper, which came afterward.

She wore a pale green foulard with large pink flowers setting off admirably her clear dark skin. The skirt of her frock had a deep lace flounce about it arranged in festoons and headed with a ruche of pale green silk. A sash of the same color was tied in long wide ends at one side. The bodice was slightly open and edged at the neck with a lace frill caught here and there with little bows of green ribbon.

The hat this much mentioned bride-elect wore with this toilet was a cream-colored straw with a rose wreath tied with green ribbons. A broad ribbon was thrown over the top, braiding it down at the side. Her green gloves were so pale as to be very nearly white.

At the garden fetes which follow one another in rapid succession the mousseline gowns are very dainty. One worn a few days ago showed flaming meadow lilies strewn over a white ground. The skirt, which rested a few inches on the ground at the back, was bordered with three narrow ruffles. A vest of white chiffon was let into the bodice, and was edged with full ruches. The hat that completed this bright toilet was of fine white straw with a whisp of reddish brown plaited through it. The brim turned up at the back, and was held in place by upright loops of reddish-brown velvet ribbon. Resting on the straight front brim were two or three long stems of spotted lilies.

A second dress which walked up and down among the bush hollyhocks and the hedges of sweet peas is shown in the first illustration. It was of pale blue India silk flecked with purple violets, following the novel combination of colors now beginning to be so much in vogue. Broad bands of purple velvet laid about the skirt in zigzags accentuated the contrast. The bodice opened in a V at the throat, with velvet folds to border it, and across the front there spread itself a handkerchief-shaped fichu of the palest and most delicate shade of blue. The white hat worn by the slim pale blonde who did this deed of color daring was trimmed with clusters of violets peeping out from folds of pale blue chiffon.

Almost equally striking was the other dress shown in the same sketch; it was of the palest shade of violet you see in the little garden periwinkle. A brilliant blonde rather tall and with the rose pink complexion so common with English girls and so uncommon here had adorned herself and the merry gathering with its straight, simple folds. At the waist it lay in narrow plaits and on the hips it was caught up in small paniers; it was made to look as if it were pleased to fit her by gold brocaded galons that crossed on the bosom and curled about the hips in a fashion that was caressing, though perhaps a thought snaky.

For the most part she went about with her yellow curls bare to the sunlight, but when she lifted her hat it was of white straw with a gauze bow and two sprigs of periwinkle. Her parasol had a wreath of the same flowers to edge its canopy.

Yachting fetes are pretty to tell about and the one on Thursday afternoon brought out many pretty gowns. The artist has sketched two of them, because they were in several particulars different from the yachting attire as usually worn. One of them is of rough sea-going serge, though its wearer is essentially a land-loving maiden. In spite of the large, loose blouse and sleeves and the fuller skirt than dressmakers have been cutting, she will never let the jolly boat take her aboard unless the day gives signed, sealed and delivered pledges of continuing fine. The small vest, the belt and the band about the skirt are of white serge braided with blue. The revers of the turnover collar are braided in white, and the small blue sailor hat has a straight band of white ribbon with a tie bow at the side.

The other dress is of fine blue summer serge cut very gracefully. It has a cutaway coat bodice with loose fronts faced with red silk. The waistcoat is of red livery cloth braided with black. The sleeves are turned up to the elbows and faced with red and the undersleeves are of red braided with black. The regulation serge cap is very small and natty.

One of the best times for observing the summer girl as she exists at Newport is in her hammock or piazza chair in morning deshabille. The pale greens, the shades of pink and of maize color, the loose folds, the long sashes and wide sleeves make summer neglige wear fascinating. Under the blossoming trumpet creeper you may see, if you look, as I did this morning, a pink foulard spotted with white sweet peas. The vest—it has been drawn for you in the third picture—opened on a chemisette with lace flounce. The little "basques" were of red surah and the sleeves had deep cuffs and high lace jockeys. There was a plaited Medici collar and a sash of red foulard.

ELLEN OSBORN.

A Possible Explanation.

Clara—Well, another man got down on his knees to me last night.

Maude—What did you do? Drop another hat pin?—Puck.

An Inadequate Term.

Dorinda—Don't you think Jack has a few faults?

Lucinda—No; I don't think he has a few.—Judge.

SON. "Mother, do you never weary with all your correspondence?"

LYDIA PINKHAM. "No, my son, these letters of confidence bring to me the joy that a mother feels, whose daughter throws her arms around her neck and cries, 'Oh, mother, help me!' The women of the world are my daughters, dear."

SON. "Yes, mother, and they love you."

Lydia Pinkham's private letters from ladies in all parts of the world average one hundred per day, and truly has she been a mother to the race. Suffering women ever seek her in their extremity, and find both a helper and a friend. Correspondents will receive prompt and conscientious answers, and the sympathy of a mother.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women.

It cures the worst forms of Female Complaints, that Bearing-down Feeling, Weak Back, Falling and Displacement of the Womb, Inflammation, Ovarian Troubles, and all Organic Diseases of the Uterus or Womb, and is invaluable to the Change of Life. Dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus at an early stage, and checks any tendency to Cancerous Humor. Subdues Faintness, Excitability, Nervous Prostration, Exhaustion, and strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, etc., and invigorates the whole system. For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex, the Compound has no rival.

All Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

BIG BANKING DEAL

A Scheme to Circulate Five Million Dollars.

THE MONEY TO BE SENT WEST.

New Plan to Help the Movement of Crops to the Seaboard.

A Big Block of Government Bonds to be Deposited for New Bank Circulation—No Large Profit in the Transaction—It is Said that it Will Stimulate Trade in a Wholesome Way.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Financiers in Wall street are much interested in a movement, which is just assuming definite shape, to take about $5,500,000 of Government bonds for the purpose of depositing with the United States Treasury for new bank circulation. The larger banks in this city are in the movement, and the proposition is to take this large block of 4 1-2s, extended at 2 per cent., under Secretary Foster's recent plan.

Of course it is not the small profit of one-half of 1 per cent. on the transaction which induces the banks to go into the undertaking, but more particularly to provide for the issue of a large amount of new circulating notes to meet the enormous demand for money in the West. So much currency is needed to move the crops during the coming fall that the banks in this movement are endeavoring to supply the demand.

The interested banks will deposit the bonds with the Treasury against new circulation, under the provisions of the National Banking act, and if the proposition is carried out, the new bank notes will be sent West on September 5, or perhaps a latter later, to help the movement of the crops to the seaboard.

From the most reliable sources it is learned that the consummation of the big transaction will depend largely upon the action of the National Bank of Commerce, American Exchange National Bank, Fourth National, Merchants' National, Western National and one or two others which have large capital and therefore are able to take each a big share of the whole.

Money is comparatively plenty and cheap in this market, while the Western country is congested by the enormous crops, which are difficult to move without ready cash in very large sums. There can hardly be any very large profit in this transaction by New York banks, but they will get the credit of doing the right thing at the right time. If the arrangement can be carried through, Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston and other cities may follow the excellent example set them by New York bankers, and the general movement cannot but add to the prosperity of the country. Trade will be stimulated in a wholesome way and the pulse of industry quickened.

HOPE FOR HALLINGER.

By a Peculiar Jersey Law He May Yet Escape the Gallows.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—It is more than likely now that Edward W. Hallinger, the negro who pleaded guilty to the murder of Mary Paterson, and who was sentenced by Judge Knapp to be hanged, will escape the gallows altogether.

It is due to the efforts of his lawyer, Charles J. Peshall, that his hanging, which was set down for a day last June, was prevented by a stay of execution. Mr. Peshall does not deny that Hallinger is guilty.

He is making the fight on a peculiar point of Jersey law which has been in force there since April, 1886, and which provides that if a person who has committed a murder (no matter how deliberate or cold-blooded) confesses to the crime in open court, he pleads guilty to the lower degree of the crime, and by that confession saves his life. Hallinger, Lawyer Peshall claims, will escape hanging by means of this statute.

Hallinger is now in the county jail in Jersey City awaiting the result of an application for a writ of habeas corpus made to the United States Supreme Court. As the day fixed for the execution is now past, and as there is nothing in the statutes providing for the resentencing of a criminal, Hallinger's chances for escape are largely in the majority.

Her Body Cut to Pieces.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 29.—A dispatch from Grafton, N. D., says that a train going north to Cavalier frightened a yoke of oxen near Canton, and they ran away. They were attached to a binder and were led by a woman, the man who operated the machine being perched on the seat. The woman was literally cut to pieces by the binder, her legs being cut off, also her arms and head. The man escaped uninjured.

Wants the City to Pay $25,000.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 29.—H. H. Bruns has sued the city for $25,000 damages. The suit is based upon the fact that last winter he contracted smallpox, from the effects of which he is nearly blind. He charges that the city is responsible, in that the quarantine regulations were not established and that citizens did not have proper notice of the existence of the disease.

Rain Stricken Ireland.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Telegrams from all parts of England and Ireland say that the result of the continuous heavy rains is distressing. The crops are all under water and will certainly be spoiled unless saved by sunshine very soon. In several sections the potato disease has appeared.

General Revolt of Peasantry.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 29.—Details of the rioting at Vitebsk in protest against the exportation of rye, show that the disturbance was of a serious nature. The Governor reports that there was evidence that a general revolt of the peasantry had been planned.

Housekeepers

Will Find great care necessary to prevent danger to the family food through the introduction of the low grade baking powders that contain lime and alum.

All baking powders that are offered the public under misrepresentation as to their ingredients are to be avoided.

Baking powders now advertised as having published upon their labels all the ingredients used in them are shown by the Government investigation to have in their composition four different substances not upon their label, amounting to a large per cent. of their entire weight, two of which substances are lime and sulphuric acid! Most of the alum powders are sold by falsely representing them as pure and wholesome cream of tartar powders.

Protection from alum baking powders can be had only by declining to accept any substitute for the Royal. All official tests prove it to be a cream of tartar baking powder superior to all others in purity, strength and wholesomeness.

See that no baking powder is received into your kitchen in place of the Royal.

TYPHOID FEVER RAGING.

Newark's Health Board Withholding All Information About the Disease.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 29.—The spread of typhoid fever in this city has become so alarming that the Health Board have decided to withhold all information concerning cases reported to the department from newspapers. Health Officer Titus preserves a non-committal style and will vouchsafe no answers to questions bearing upon the subject.

The health officer virtually admits, however, that the disease has taken a strong hold, and that a number of deaths have followed. Already 43 cases have been reported, a large portion of which have been removed to the three hospitals of the city.

The pollution of the Passaic River, which at present supplies Newark with drinking water, is considered the real cause of the trouble, and the public has been cautioned to drink of it sparingly, if at all. The contractors upon the new $6,000,000 water supply, to come from the Pequannock Valley, are pushing rapidly forward with the work, and have announced, to the intense satisfaction of residents, that the new supply will probably be ready for consumption within three months.

CUBAN GIANTS IN A RIOT.

A Disturbance at Trenton Which Caused Many Arrests.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 29.—The Gorhams, better known as the Cuban Giants, were arrested here for rioting. They came to this city, their old home, to play the Trentons, whom they defeated by a score of 8 to 4.

After the game a riot broke out, caused by Thomas the catcher of the visitors cutting a ball belonging to the Trentons.

Selden, Thomas and C. Williams were the ringleaders in the row which followed. Some desperate head pounding occurred before the disturbance was quelled. The special officers arrested the members of the colored club and took them to jail, but no one appearing against them to make charges they were released.

Later warrants were issued for Selden, Thomas and C. Williams, and officers are now looking for them.

Suit to Recover $50,000.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A suit has been begun in the United States Circuit Court by Irving A. Evans, Nathaniel S. Simkins, George E. Armstrong, Bayard Thayer, Edwin Morey and Charles B. Lancaster, all of the State of Massachusetts, against Nathan H. Hand of White Plains, N. Y. The suit is for the purpose of recovering $50,000 paid to Hand under an agreement, the conditions of which he failed to carry out, in connection with some gold mining property in Lumpkin County, Georgia.

Smuggling on the Irish Coast.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The authorities are much concerned by the increase of smuggling on the Irish coast. A considerable quantity of smuggled tobacco and liquors has lately been seized from shopkeepers at Cape Clear and other places near the sea. The old spirit of smuggling, once rampant in extensive districts of Ireland, is again attracting people, who find it an easy mode of living.

Refused to Arbitrate.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 29.—A committee of the locked-out lasters of Chick Brothers' shoe factory waited on the firm yesterday and requested that the proposed increase question be submitted to the State Board of Arbitration. The Messrs. Chick replied that they would not give the advance nor submit the matter to outside parties.

Distress in England from Rain.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The news from all parts of England and Ireland is to the effect that the result of the long sustained heavy rains is distressing. The crops are all under water, and will be spoiled unless sunshine comes speedily. In some sections the potato disease has made its appearance.

THE WAR PORTFOLIO

Gen. Wells of Vermont May Succeed Proctor.

HE HAS A GOOD ARMY RECORD.

It is Not Believed in Washington that He Will be Appointed.

The Impression Still Prevails that Ex-Governor Cheney is the Man—A Movement Started in Behalf of Stephen B. Elkins—His West Virginia Friends Will Present His Name.

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 29.—Gen. William Wells, of Burlington, Vt., will be the successor of Hon. Redfield Proctor as Secretary of War. The news that the President intends to make this appointment comes from a source whose reliability cannot be questioned.

General Wells was formerly Collector of the port of Burlington, and is the head of the firm of Wells & Richardson, of that city, the largest wholesale manufacturing drug house in Northern New England. He was a young man in the war for the Union, and was brevetted brigadier general for bravery on the field, and Gen. Philip Sheridan always spoke of him as one of the very best of his cavalry officers. He is a man of education and refinement.

Not Believed in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Very little credence is given by members of the administration here to the reported selection of Gen. William Wells, of Burlington, Vt., as Secretary of War to succeed Mr. Proctor. The impression still prevails that ex-Governor Cheney is the man the President is thinking about the most seriously at the present time, but the officials of the War Department having close relations with Secretary Proctor do not believe that any one has yet been actually slated or the position.

Stephen B. Elkins in the Field.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 29.—News comes from Washington, from a source close to the administration, that a movement has been started in favor of Stephen B. Elkins of this State, as the successor to Secretary of War Proctor. It will be urged upon the President that if makes a selection with special reference to strengthening the party West Virginia must be considered.

DR. HOLMES' BIRTHDAY.

The Genial Autocrat of the Breakfast Table Troubled With Poor Eyesight.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—This is Dr. Wendell Holmes' 82d birthday. No quotation could be made that would more thoroughly show forth Dr. Holmes' chief characteristic—that of unfailing good humor and cheerfulness—than the piquant one of his own, "It is better to be 70 years young than 40 years old."

Dr. Holmes' health is excellent. "I am very well and very happy," he said. "My eyesight troubles me somewhat, so that I am very glad to avail myself of the services of a secretary, and I am a little troubled at times to recognize my friends and acquaintances on the street. Perhaps some of them may have thought that I have intended to cut them, but it is only a little trouble with my eyes which causes me to pass them. Other than that I have no physical trouble."

Patti Sang for Charity.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Patti sang during the afternoon at Swansea, Wales, for the sake of charity, in behalf of the Swansea Hospital. The mayor and the corporation, in their official robes, met the singer at the railway station and conducted her in state to the hall, while the church bells rang out a welcome. The leading society of Swansea and South Wales was assembled, and the sum of $4,000 was realized for the hospital.

MME. ASTLE IN JAIL.

She Answers to the Charge of Murder, But is Not Ready for Trial.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 29.—Madame Astle was taken into Justice Hang's court during the morning to answer to the charge of murder. She was followed by Mr. and Mrs. Mayne, Gertie Harris and Clara Levy.

Mamame Astle was without an attorney, and it took some time before one was secured. Finally Judge Felker was called upon to take charge of the case. After a short conversation with his client the Judge announced that he was not ready for trial, and asked for a continuance, which was granted, and the woman's bond was placed at $10,000, and she being unable to furnish it was taken to the county jail.

Attorney George Smith represented Mayne and wife. Their bond was placed at $5,000 each and was promptly given.

Officer Hugh Smith, who has been unraveling this case, says that there are a number of others, both in this city and surrounding towns, who will be arrested before next Tuesday, the day set for trial, for their connection with this case.

CORBETT IS WILLING.

He Says it is the Desire of His Heart to Meet Mitchell.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Jim Corbett telegraphed from Baltimore in answer to the cablegram of Charley Mitchell in reference to a match being made for him.

Corbett says he has $1,000 posted with the New York Herald, and is prepared to meet Mitchell at once and arrange a match with him for a fight to a finish with gloves for $10,000 a side. He adds that it is the desire of his heart to meet Mitchell and hope that the match will be speedily arranged.

A Bold Burglar Captured.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 29.—A bold attempt at burglary was made in the residence of William H. Fuller, night baggageman of the New York Central, at 102 North Division street, early in the morning. A burglar entered the house, chloroformed Mrs. Fuller and thoroughly ransacked the place. As he was leaving the premises he encountered Mr. Fuller, who was returning home. A rough and tumble struggle ensued, in which the burglar got the worst of it and was captured and locked up. He gave his name as Frank Baker, 50 years of age. Mrs. Fuller has recovered from the effects of the drug.

A Lunatic Captured.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Assistant Paymaster George W. Long, of the United States Navy, who was declared insane by the Government Medical Board, and who escaped from St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday, was arrested last night in Kirk's saloon and taken to the insane pavillion at Bellevue Hospital. The Navy Yard authorities at Brooklyn were notified, and Mr. Long will be taken to the Government Insane Asylum at Washington in a few days.

Searching for Capt. Kidd's Treasure.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 29.—A syndicate of men from Colchester County have leased the late Anthony Grove's property on Oak Island, Chester, and have begun a search for Captain Kidd's treasure which, tradition says, is hid somewhere on the island. They are said to have considerable capital behind them and intend to prosecute the search vigorously. This is the same spot where several companies spent thousands of dollars in a fruitless search for the same treasure.

American Pork Abroad.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Secretary Rusk is in this city. In an interview he said: "We will have our pork on the European markets in a very short time. Everything is favorable for our packers to place their products before the Europeans, and the prices pork will bring will be highly satisfactory to the exporters. This conclusion I have not arrived at hastily nor without due consideration. I have devoted much of my time to it."

Charged With Stealing $5,000.

PUEBLO, Col., Aug. 29.—Paul B. Tait, of Omaha, Neb., was arrested in this city last night charged with stealing a package containing $5,000 in gold from the Merchants' National Bank of that city on July 2. Tait was located in this city by accident by H. B. Wood, cashier of the bank, who happened to be stopping at the Grand Hotel, and who recognized in a guest at the same hotel the man he wanted.

Receiver Butler Gives Bonds.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The American Surety Company of New York has furnished bonds for Noble C. Butler, receiver of the American Wheel Company, in the United State Circuit Courts for the northern and southern districts of Ohio, eastern and western districts of Michigan, southern district of Illinois, district of Kentucky and district of Massachusets. The total aggregates $380,000.

Quarrel Over a Housekeeper.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 29.—A serious stabbing affray took place here last night, the participants being two Hollanders named Joseph Stracifsky and Stanislaus Pelosk, who quarreled over a woman who was their housekeeper. In the fight Pelosk received three ugly wounds, which will prove fatal, and Stracifsky two bad wounds. All are in jail.

Cumberland is Not Delinquent.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 29.—The Auditor General desires to have it stated that a mistake was made by the department in placing Cumberland County among the list of delinquent county treasurers. The treasurer of that county is not delinquent.

Waterways Convention.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 29.—Hon. D. D. Wood, chairman of the Executive Committee on the Improvement of Western Waterways, has issued a call for a convention to be held in Evansville, Ind., October 14 and 15.

BALMACEDA BEATEN

The Chilian Insurgents Capture Valparaiso.

FIVE HOURS OF HARD FIGHTING.

Fully Five Thousand Men Were Killed and Wounded.

President-Elect Vicuna Seeks Refuge on Board a German War Ship—Balmaceda Has Fled—A Belief That He Is Making His Way Out of the Country—The News in Washington.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via Galveston, Aug. 29.—Balmaceda's power in Chili is broken.

His army has been crushed after five hours' hard fighting, and is scattered beyond all hope of reorganization. The revolutionists have taken possession of Valparaiso.

The future of Chili for the time has been settled, and settled conclusively on the hills to the east of this city by the grim arbitrament of war.

With Balmaceda practically a fugitive without resources in men or money; with the principal seaports of the country in the hands of the Congressionalists, and a consequent shutting off of all income from customs receipts; with President-elect Vicuna a refugee on board a German war ship, and the country flocking en masse to the standard of the invaders, it is a matter of only a few days when the capital will fall into the hands of the revolutionary party.

A New Government.

A new government, with possibly Judge Belisario Prats, head of the last Parliamentary Cabinet of Balmaceda, or Manuel Jose Irarrazaval, head of the Congress Cabinet, at its head, will be formed and things will go along in about the same way in Chili as they did before January 7, when hostilities were formally begun.

General Canto and his army won the battle by superior generalship, good hard fighting, assisted by good fortue in the killing of Balmaceda's generals and the consequent demoralization of the army and the desertion of entire regiments.

Five Hours of Battle.

The fighting lasted a little less than five hours, and its desperate character may be judged by the fact that fully five thousand men were killed and wounded. The country for miles around is filled with men, many of them wounded, who were in the morning the dependence of Balmaceda.

Balmaceda Runs Away.

Nobody here has any knowledge of the whereabouts of President Balmaceda. The insurgent leaders are exceedingly anxious to find out where he is, and if they succeded in finding him it would go hard with him.

The general belief here is that he is making his way out of the country, perhaps overland to Buenos Ayres.

THE NEWS CONFIRMED.

Consul McCreary's Report to the State Department—The Bogus Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The official news of the insurgent victory in Chili, cabled to the State Department by the United States Consul at Valparaiso, settles beyond doubt the conflicting reports of the past few days concerning the condition of affairs at the seat of war.

The receipt of dispatches from Valparaiso telling of a victory for the Balmacedists is explained by State and navy officials as resulting from Balmaceda's control of the cable line from that city.

Doubt as to the absolute authenticity of these dispatches was expressed in official circles to-day for the reason that it is a custom in vogue, a part of diplomatic etiquette in fact, that when a Minister receives an important dispatch from his home government that is given out for publication, it is sent at once to the State Department for the information of this government. This was not done, and, as a result, the department officials and the members of diplomatic corps now in town discredited the stories and inclined to the belief that there was nothing more than some skirmishing. From Consul McCreary's dispatch it would seem that this belief is correct.

Fishing Sloop Wrecked.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 29.—The fishing sloop Four Brothers from Harwich, Mass., was run down by the three-masted schooner Jennie Willing of Thomaston, Me., two miles southeast of Brenton's Reef Lightship during the morning. The Four Brothers was badly wrecked.

No Fears for the Old Dominion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The officers of the Old Dominion steamship company have no fears for the safety of the Old Dominion, which is reported as drifting off Abscom light with her shaft broken. Two tugs have been sent to the disabled steamship's aid.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A cyclone has done a great deal of damage in Bermuda.

The railway employes of Minnesota are organizing to take a hand in politics.

T. Thomas Fortune of New York may succeed Fred Douglass as Minister to Hayti.

English capitalists have lost on their Baltimore brewing syndicate investments.

It is stated in Paris that Victoria will invite President Carnot to London in February, and that he will go in May, 1892.

The German Kaiser, after a conference, fails to agree with Minister of Finance Miquel as to the advisability of reducing the duties on corn.

The North Carolina Disaster.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 29.—There seems to be no room for doubt that all the bodies have been recovered from the Third Creek wreck. There is no evidence that any bodies have been overlooked.

Armour Has His Say.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Phil Armour emphatically denies he is to be a silent partner in Douglas Green's return to Wall street, and says he doesn't know Green. He pronounces the report as ridiculous.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A Christian Endeavor meeting will be held at Warren Mission chapel Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

—V. L. Frazee, 25 West Front street, has a corner on creamery butter, and 25 cents buys a pound of the finest quality.

—The Newark Camera Club is "doing" the Delaware and Raritan Canal in a steam launch, taking views of the scenery en route.

—The thirty-second annual convention of the Somerset county Sunday-schools will be held at Warren chapel, North Plainfield, Tuesday, September 8.

—No preaching service or Sabbath-school session will be held at the Trinity Reformed church to-morrow. The church is closed for cleaning and repairs.

—At Hope chapel Monday evening, there will be a meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, at 8 o'clock. A gospel temperance meeting will be held Friday at 8 o'clock. All will be welcome.

—A North Plainfielder and his wife almost had a bad fall over heaps of dirt that had been carelessly left by the diggers of post holes on the sidewalk on Craig place last evening. The obstructions ought to be removed.

—Complaints are once more frequent against the hackmen at the North avenue station. They are accused of carelessness in turning around their cabs and in backing them up. A woman had a narrow escape from being knocked down and run over by one of them last night.

—The large number of people who were prevented last Sunday evening, on account of the severe storm, from hearing the Rev. Carter Helm Jones, in this city, will no doubt avail themselves of the opportunity when he will again preach at the First Baptist church, to-morrow, morning and evening.

—The excursion of Warren Mission chapel and the Dunellen Presbyterian church, to Asbury Park, yesterday, filled 16 passenger cars, and paid expenses. Everybody had a fine day. Only one brief shower interfered with the pleasures at the Park. That the mission and the church had many friends was evidenced by the fact that the heavy shower at starting did n't interfere with a big crowd going.

—The committee appointed by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., to entertain the survivors of the 28th N. J., Vols., wish to say to the public who contributed so liberally and so cheerfully that the veterans went away the happiest lot of men that ever visited Plainfield. Many of them shed tears of thankfulness at the warm reception, and were overcome by the Mayor's address of welcome. They were delighted with the singing by the Misses Manning and the Runyon quartette. All united in saying that it was the best reunion they ever had.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Ethel Bowers of this city is among those recently registered at the West End Hotel, Asbury Park.

The engagement is announced of Miss Carrie Streuli, of Hillside avenue, to Evarts Tracy, of West Eighth street.

The wedding of Charles D. Wheeler and Miss S. Lena Squier, of North Plainfield, is announced for Tuesday evening, Sept. 8.

Recent arrivals at the Rahway House, Rahway, include the following from this city: A. P. Hetfield, V. L. Frazee, John L. Force and lady, Jas. E Stickler, M. V. Dixon, J. A. Smith and wife.

The steamship Umbria, among whose passengers were Bishop J. H. Vincent, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, and A. J. Leader of North Plainfield, arrived safely at Brow Head at 9 35 last evening.

Miss Kent, formerly contralto at Dr Ketcham's church, will sing Snedeker's "Come Unto Me!" at the First Baptist church, to-morrow morning. B T. Barnes will sing Hiller's "Be Thou With Me!"

Walter A. Hudson (basso of the Church of the Pilgrim, Brooklyn,) with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Hoyt, and her daughter, are at the residence of their brother-in-law, J. T. Vegiard, 252 West Third street, to attend the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Ann E. Hudson.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, to-morrow, services will be held at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. The Rev. R. S. Holmes, D. D., of Pittsburgh, Pa., will occupy the pulpit, and will preach in the morning on "The Rejection of Saul". The subject of the evening sermon will be "Smooth Stones." All the seats are free at the evening service.

A letter from M. M. Thorn, from Santa Barbara, Cal., to THE PRESS, states that his health is very poor, and he feels unable to stand the eastern winters. Consequently, his hoped for visit to Plainfield must be indefinitely postponed. He writes of meeting George F Opdyke while that gentleman was in California, and says that Mr. Opdyke will return west in the fall, to look after his orange groves at Ontario.

Important to Bathers.

Now that the out-of-door bathing season is nearing its close, watering-place patrons and others fond of the allurements of a bath will be gratified to know that they are cordially invited to bathe in the effulgence of the new stock of jewelry and silverware now on exhibition at Collier's, 3 Park avenue.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE AT NETHERWOOD.

The Prizes and the Hotel Guests Who Won Them.

(SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.)

HANDSOME women and their escorts gathered in the parlors of The Netherwood, last evening, upon the occasion of the progressive euchre party announced in THE PRESS. Precisely at 9 o'clock Harry Martin gave the signal for beginning the contest and stated the rules of the game; whereupon the players seated themselves at the tables provided for the event. It was a brilliant and joyous throng, and at the conclusion of the game a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Martin and Miss Cullen for the exquisite taste displayed by them in the purchase of the elegant prizes for the occasion. Again your chronicler has the pleasure of announcing that one more charming fete is placed to the credit of the season of '91. The following names composed the list of subscribers:

Miss Cullen, H. W. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. Balch, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Richardson, Miss Richardson, Mrs. M. Benary, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whitney, Mrs. Arthur Peterson, G. W. Swain, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Swain, E.C. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Miller, Mrs. W. M. Hicks, Mrs. G. E. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. T. Alton, J. M. Ceballos, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Cullen, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. W. McMichael, A. C. Washington, A. E. Benary.

The prize winners were: Mrs. M. Benary, cut glass rose-jar; Mrs. H. C Swain, gold bon-bon spoon; Miss Richardson, silver scissors and case; Mrs. J. M. Donald, consolation prize, silver mounted book mark; Harry Martin, silver mounted whisk broom and case; D. J. Whitney, opera glasses; J. E. Spencer, silver match box; M. C. Ogden, consolation prize, silver mounted blotter.

The midsummer season at The Netherwood shows a large number of guests sojourning here, and other families booked for the present month. From present indications the fall season will fully rank with former years.

The Netherwood will remain open until about the 25th of September. The excellent system of steam heaters throughout the hotel gives ample warmth when required.

The Saturday night hops at The Netherwood are ranked among the delightful events of the season, and our Plainfield friends will always receive a cordial welcome from proprietor and guests. Our Sunday evening concerts are also warmly commended and really are very enjoyable. J. A. H.

A CHANCE FOR ALERTS.

They Can Take the Basket With Their New Uniforms and Silver Carriage.

Among the prizes to be awarded at the coming annual parade and tournament of the Elizabeth fire department, Thursday, October 8, will be a silver basket for the handsomest hose carriage in line. There's a chance for Alert company of this city to turn out with their new uniforms and silver carriage, and win a prize.

Other of Plainfield's companies are also offered opportunities in the following: For the best equipped company in line, a silver trumpet; for the largest number of men in line, a silver bucket; for the steamer throwing a stream the greatest distance, a silver water pitcher.

The Elizabeth department shows remarkable liberality not only in offering these prizes, but in barring her own companies from competing for them.

Already Finding Excuses for Defeat.

Several annoying accidents have happened to the Westfield players within the past few days. "shorty" Howe was hit in the hand at Plainfield, and it is thought one of the small bones of his right hand is broken. Diven has a serious injury to one of his fingers and has not yet recovered from the injury to his leg, and is quite lame. Mullen was seriously hurt in the game with the Acmes on Wednesday, when he was twice hit by a swift pitched ball. It is hoped that these men will all be able to play on Saturday against Plainfield. If any one of them should be unable to play it would seriously impair Westfield's chances, as these men are all "stars".—McLaughlinville Standard.

A Plainfield Man Interested.

The improvements at Lorraine are in full blast and several broad avenues have been graded. Twenty-two lots have been disposed of in the last three days. A number of contracts have been awarded for the erection of neat cottages. Among the number A. D. Thompson, of Plainfield, will at once build four houses. A depot will be erected the coming week at the foot of Sheridan avenue, and trains will stop for the accommodation of the traffic of this growing town. An offer of $35,000 was made and refused last evening for thirty-four acres of land in the immediate neighborhood of Lorraine.—Elizabeth Journal.

THE proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a remedy for catarrh; colds in the head and hay fever. It is not a liquid or a snuff, is easily applied into the nostrils. It gives relief at once. 50c.

THE MUCH MALIGNED MOTHER-IN-LAW.

In Fanwood She Finds a Haven of Rest and Respectful Consideration.

In one respect, if in no other, Fanwood stands alone as an example for all to endeavor to imitate. It has long been the practice of the paragrapher in need of a joke to fall back upon the mother of the wife of the head of the house, as a being with whom it is utterly impossible to exist under the same roof.

Now, however, the professional joker must cease his malicious insendoes, for behold, immediately at our door is a small community comprising twenty-six progressive families in which dwell peaceably and harmoniously, twelve mothers-in-law!

No need for professional supervision of the children there—these mothers-in-law who have watched with careful eye and tenderest solicitude the vagaries of their immediate offsprings, now overlook the affairs of the households of the husbands or wives, as the case may be, of said offsprings with even more perceptibility and economy than when they were themselves at the helm.

The fact of the preponderance of the ladies designated may account for the remarkable healthfulness of the children in Fanwood, for certainly there has been for years less sickness among the youngsters than the elders. It also may be the reason that Dr. Westcott, in whom all have confidence and whom the children love, has selected this time for a much needed rest among the Pennsylvania hills. Just before his departure he was asked: "Who will attend to your patients?" He replied, "Good nursing will bring them all through and I have the utmost confidence in the mothers-in-law."

The senior of them all is Mrs. Ewing, mother-in-law of Judge Geo. Bates, a hale-and-hearty lady with whom it is a treat to be permitted to enjoy her bright and witty conversation. Each Sunday afternoon the judge's veranda is always filled with the younger generation, listening to the delightful reminiscences told by this genial lady, who though now in her seventy-fourth year, bids fair to remain as we now know her for years to come.

The question often asked is: "There now being 12 mothers-in-law, who will provide the lucky thirteenth"? This is answered by the well authenticated rumor that "The Baron" is about to take unto himself a wife and will insist that his bride's mother assist her in the management of the elaborate establishment he intends setting up. Another gentleman, not to be entirely left out, has despatched his wife for her mother with instructions not to return without her on the pain of being socially ostracised.

Who after reading the above can cast the slightest slur upon the delightful ladies comprising the class know as mothers-in-law? Certainly he will be given the cold shoulder in Fanwood.

THE RAILROAD RECORD BROKEN.

Running a Mile in 39 4-5 Seconds and Ten Miles in 7 Minutes 12 Seconds.

A mile in 39 4-5 seconds, or at the rate of over 90 miles an hour, is the fastest run ever made by a railroad train.

This unparalleled feat was accomplished Thursday on the Bound Brook Railroad, between Neshaminy Falls and Langhorne, by Engine No. 206, drawing two ordinary coaches and President McLeod's private car "Reading", which is equal to two coaches in weight.

Other miles were reeled off with speed as astonishing as this crack mile, and at the end of the "fly" the world's record was broken. The fast mile was scored in 39 4-5 seconds, the fastest five miles in 3 minutes 26 4-5 second, and the fastest ten miles in 7 minutes 12 seconds, averaging 43 seconds per mile.

The occasion for this race against time grew out of some good natured chaffing that took place at Judge Green's dinner to the Farmers' Club on Thursday, Aug. 20, at the Judge's residence in Easton. Wm. M. Singerly was telling Mr. McLeod, the President of the Reading road that for thirteen years he had been making it a diversion to time fast railway trains, and that he had rarely travelled faster than 50 seconds.

The result of the conversation was that President McLeod made preparations for to-day's speed trial and invited Mr. Singerly and a number of friends to ride on the train, consisting of an engine and three cars.

The engine was No. 206, of the Wootten pattern, burning anthracite coal. It has 5 feet 8 inch driving wheels, and is one of the ordinary pattern of fast engines in use on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad.

It was built at Reading, Pa., and stands to-day as a triumph of the skill of American mechanics. The locomotive was handled by engineer John Hogan, and the fires were looked after by Oscar Feshner.

Cricket To-day.

This afternoon the Pioneer Cricket Club of Elizabeth will play their first match out of town. They will come to Plainfield for the return game with the St. George Cricket Club. The Plainfield club will use their best endeavors to get even with the Pioneers over their bad defeat in the first game. The Pioneer eleven will be as follows:

R. Anderson, Joseph Jones, C. Clark, W. MacNicoll, T. Jones, T. Benton, T. Lavelle, A. Dunbar, T. R. Millin, H. Benton, T. Pace. Reserves, H. Burke, John Jones. Umpire, Mr. Bedlington. Scorer, E. Fleming. The team will take the 1:32 train from Elizabeth for Plainfield.

His Condition Critical.

Mahlon Titus who fell out of his wagon while intoxicated in this city, Wednesday, as told exclusively in THE PRESS, lies in a semi-conscious, semi-rational state at Muhlenberg Hospital. Dr. J. B. Probasco has the case in charge, but there is not much hope of recovery. One side of Titus is paralysed, and symptoms point to a fracture at the base of the brain.

A Strange Man's Body.

The report reaches THE PRESS at the hour of printing, this afternoon, that the dead body of an unknown man was found by John I. Holly this noon lying on the shore of a pond on his farm.

As the place where the corpse was found is in Middlesex county the authorities at New Brunswick will have charge of the investigation.

Dunellen Will Have a Lock-up.

THE PRESS's subscription list for funds to provide Dunellen with a lock-up and a town-room, has reached $300 and is still growing.

The names of the subscribers and amounts will be published next week. Read THE PRESS regularly and see what is happening in Dunellen.

—Charles Williams was taken to jail today for stealing a suit of clothes from his friend, Charles S. Cook, and selling them for 52 cents. Williams pleaded guilty, and said that he wanted the money for rum.

—The subscriptions for the Dunellen borough lock-up fund which THE PRESS has undertaken to procure have already reached more than $300. The list will be published in a few days. Let all Dunellen citizens join in and help swell the fund. The lock-up is greatly needed as a potent aid in preserving the peace and the law.

—A PRESS reporter was of the opinion that the reason the new pavement in front of the station looked so like a second-rate job, was because of poor laying. But Street Commissioner Meeker says that it is the best that can be done with the material furnished by the railroad company as their share of the "improvement". The belgian blocks are a lot of old ones that have been used for years in some other city's streets.

When you have that tired feeling of exhaustion, and you have little ambition, your blood is thin and poor. There is nothing that will enrich your blood, bring back life and activity, like Hires's Root Beer. Nothing so nutritious and strengthening. Ask your druggist or grocer for a package. Makes five gallons, sparkling and delicious. Sold everywhere.

Investigating the West Shore Disaster.

Found Dead in Bed.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 29.—William Deford, a wealthy citizen of Baltimore, was found dead in bed at the Appledore House, Isle of Shoals, yesterday. Apoplexy was the cause of death.

Business Failures for the Week.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Bradstreet's reports 186 failures in the United States during the past week, against 181 in the preceding week.

Hanlan and Gaudaur to Row.

TORONTO, ONT., Aug. 29.—Hanlan and Gaudaur have agreed upon a three-mile race for $500 or $1,000 a side, to be rowed at Burlington Beach. As Hanlan is going to New Westminster, the race cannot be rowed until about the middle of October.

Carmen Sylva in Danger.

VENICE, Aug. 29.—The condition of Carmen Sylva, Queen of Roumania, has become so critical that Dr. Charcot, the celebrated Parisian physician, has been telegraphed for. King Charles is reported on his way to this city from Roumania.

Anarchists Sentenced.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The trial of the May Day anarchists has just concluded. Descamps has been sentenced to five years and Dardare to three years for firing at the police. Leveille was acquitted.

OUR "Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap.

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

WE offer special inducements now to any who wish to furnish with Carpets, Mattings, Oil-cloths, Lace and Chenille Curtains, Shades, etc.

EDSALL'S, 20 WEST FRONT STREET

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

SPILT MILK AND SOUR GRAPES.

Somerville Has a Bilious Attack, Praises West End Rowdyism, and Pitches Into Umpire Berriman.

(From The Harkinstown Democrat.)

In last Saturday's game Hammill fooled the West Ends until they felt like kicking themselves. At no stage in the game could they size up Mister Hammill. Every time they hit the ball it seemed to go straight for the fielders' hands, and it was only on errors that they scored at all. During eight long innings Hammill twirled a wonderful game, only one little hit being secured off his delivery, and that by Andy Ridley in the fourth.

That Hammill tired himself all out in pitching the game last Saturday is shown by the fact that the next day he pitched against the Acmes, and they pounded him all over the lot, securing seventeen hits in the nine innings.

There were 1,200 people at the Plainfield game, Saturday, and a more beautiful day has seldom been known. Cooling breezes tempered the warm rays of the sun, and everybody was comfortable. The grass had been freshly dyed an attractive green, and the foul lines had been newly chalked. The grounds presented an air of gaiety and cheerfulness that was refreshing. The Crescents had won three straight games, and the majority of those present entertained bright anticipations of a victory, and they were not disappointed either, as the Crescents won hands down.

Jones, who dropped Harkins's long fly to centre field after a hard run, is not deserving all the censure he gets. Jones has always acted in the capacity of a backstop, and therefore can scarcely be expected to play the field as well as if he had been there for a long time, and while censuring Freddy for his errors, it would be wise to remember he is a run getter, and although he is young, still when a hit is needed Freddy can most generally supply the demand.

All through the game, however, the West End players kept yelling coarse jests across the diamond and at the spectators, and sought to "rattle" the Crescents by blackguardism and ruffianly conduct. The rowdyism was worthy of the fellows who started it, and to any other team would have been a discredit. A nine which can be guilty of such rank discourtesy, such gross violation of both baseball etiquette and common manners, deserves to be given such a drubbing as they got last Saturday every time they play.

The above is copied from the Press of last Monday, and we are of the opinion that the writer of the above article should look home, or in other words take notice of the coaching of some of the Crescent players before calling the West End coaching blackguardism. "What's sauce for the gooseis sauce for the gander", and as the Crescents went to bat first from positive knowledge we can say that Bonner violated the rule on coaching, which says "only words of necessary direction to the runner shall be used on the coaching lines", when he ran down toward third base, before a ball had been pitched to Jones, the first batsman, and let loose with, "Well! well! well! here's where we make seven runs, just as we did last Saturday. We can win it right in the first inning." If the Press calls this words of necessary direction to the runner, why of course the West Ends acted like a set of rowdies. But we leave it to people of common sense, whether or not Plainfield should stop like conduct on the part of their own men before complaining of the visitors. They say charity begins at home, likewise good behavior.

The claim which the people of the Crescent city always have made that the West Ends play dirty ball should now cease, as they have shown by their actions in last Saturday's game, that they are more than capable of doing anything which may prove advantageous to the home club. Four balls were used during the game, two for the Crescents, and two for the West Ends. The old soiled balls were put in play when the Crescents were in the field, and the new lively ones when the Crescents were at the bat. It was an easy matter to hide the new ball until they were needed, and it was done, and all the kicking of Harkins, when the new ball was thrown to him, was unavailable. The only answer he received was to "play ball", from Berriman, and in speaking of the umpire let us say right here that some of Mr. Berriman's decisions would turn a blind man green with envy, and at one time he even went so far as to completely take the authority out of Mr. Fass's hands, and declare a man out on third.

The Plainfield people are a queer lot. As long as their ball tossers are having a winning streak, they will go to the games, cheer their favorites and vote every member of the team, "the biggest toad in the puddle", but let them lose a game or two—be unfortunate for two or three weeks—then see how the people of Plainfield act. Base-ball is a dead letter; they forsake the grounds; they call every player a blackleg; revile him for not putting up a perfect game; curse the management, and in various other ways fail to support what everyone knows is a first-class team.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No: 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

A LAKE STEAMER'S OBSEQUIES.

Novel Ceremonies Over the Bones of an Old Hopatcong Boat.

The bones of the Frank J. Griffith, the first steamer that ever plowed the waters of Lake Hopatcong, were buried in the lake last night with imposing ceremonies. Crowds of visitors came up from Newark and Elizabeth, and sixteen steamers full of guests from the lake hotels surrounded the object of the evening's celebration.

The old steamer was carried to a point in the middle of the lake a mile and a half off Salvation Point, at the mouth of the River Styx. At 9 o'clock twenty tar barrels were fired, and fifty pounds of red light illumined the heavens. The scene was a brilliant one. All the steamers were dressed in flags and bunting, and hundreds of small boats with lanterns at their bows danced about the spot where the cremation took place.

When the last timber of the old Griffith sank beneath the waves a corner-stone was laid. This consisted of a huge iron chest, hermetically sealed, containing the names and portraits of the original builders and owners of the steamer, with copies of the daily newspapers. This monument was dropped into sixty feet of water, where, though lost to sight, it will remain dear in the memories of the Hopatcong pioneers. The last gurgle had scarce sounded over it when all the steamers blew prolonged whistles, while the crews of the steamers gave rousing cheers. The historic old hills never saw so novel a sight.

The steamer Griffith was built on the lake shore and launched many years ago. For years it was the only means of transportation from point to point, and it did much to encourage the popularity of the place as a summer resort. As a financial venture, however, the Griffith did not succeed.

Plainfield Tourists and the Man from Jersey.

This is told about a man, a party from Plainfield, who with his wife and some friends are doing "the continent" this summer. One of the ladies of the party, who is a graduate of a well-known school in Heightstown, was deputed as the best French scholar to do the talking in the shops and in the hotels. It was in Switzerland, at the hotel Yung-Frau, at Interlaken, where Miss T——— was deputed to arrange for rooms and accommodations. Seeing a man about the hotel office (if the cubbyhole in a European hotel is worthy of that name), she addressed him in her choicest French, but the stranger could not understand her. Finally in desperation she said very slowly and with awful distinctness, "Do—you—speak—English?" "Wall now I guess I just do that there"—came the unexpected answer.—"I wur raised down ter Freehold in old Jersey, and I guess we know how to speak English thar".—Rahway Democrat.

Reedy Held for the Grand Jury.

John Reedy, who recently returned to Bound Brook from Muhlenberg Hospital, this city, had a hearing before Justice Brampton last week Friday afternoon, on the charge of having, on July 31, frustrated the arrest of Timothy Dorn by officer Anderson. The case was conducted by counselor Suydam for the State and by William A. Coddington for the defendant. Marshal Wm. Sharp Anderson and Nicholas Teeter were sworn and examined, both testifying that the escape of Dorn after he had been arrested was due to the interference of Reedy. The latter, by advice of counsel, declined to make any statement, and the justice bound him in the Sum of $300 to await the action of the grand jury on the fourth Tuesday in September, James S. Cawley becoming his surety. The statutory penalty for interference with an officer in the performance of his duty, resisting arrest or assisting a prisoner to escape, is $800 fine or 2 years in State prison, or both.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

A number of Dunellen's elite will attend a sociable this evening on Mr. Paddock's lawn at Greenbrook.

The Charge Could Not be Proved.

John Pfeiffer of Westfield, accused of poisoning the well of Lawrence Clark, a neighbor of his, had a hearing there last night before justice Collins. The charge against Pfeiffer was made by John Hill, a farmer. It appeared that Pfeiffer had made threats against Hill, who lives near him, because Hill would not go his bail in a pet it larceny case for which he was arrested and punished. There was no evidence to prove that Pfeiffer had poisoned the well, and he was released. Hill said he suspected Pfeiffer, but the bad feeling between the men, it was thought, prejudiced him against the prisoner.

I HAD catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm, and from the first application I was relieved. The sense of smell, which had been lost, was restored after using one bottle. I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for catarrh, and it has effected a cure in my case.—R. L. GAY CARRIE CARELESS Tells of a Little Adventure at Staid Ocean Grove.

An Incident of a Place that Shall be Called Tar Barber—Sketching as It May be Done by Two People—Bouquets for Remembrance.

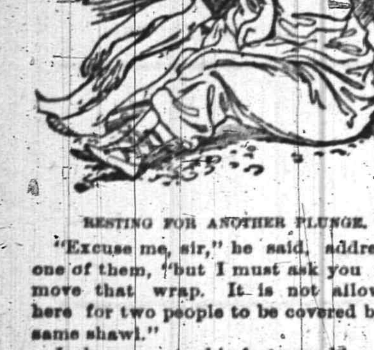
(COPYRIGHT, 1891, BY JAMES W. JOHNSON.)

This happened at Ocean Grove—that conscience of Asbury Park, you know.

It was evening, a lovely moonlight evening, when the ocean was shiny and the sand looked white, in the lovely light which was shed by Luna and her rays. They were seated upon the sand, Margery and Jack, and they were talking over old times. Perhaps they were talking over new times, and times which were to come, but that doesn't count now, because it has nothing to do with the story.

It was a rather cool evening and the wrap which Margery had taken with her was thrown over both herself and Jack as they reclined upon the sand. It was a generous wrap and enveloped them from Jack's big tan-colored shoes almost up to the tip of Margery's saucy chin. All round them upon the beach there were similar couples, and behind them upon the broad walk people were patroling in groups of twos, threes and fours, singing and talking and laughing in the merriest fashion.

So it was by no means a lonesome scene nor a secluded one, and that is what made Jack and Margery all the madder when the thing happened. As they were resting lazily there upon the sand, with Jack kicking the sea shells about and leaning his head upon one hand, and Margery poking holes down into the cool sandy depths with her pretty fingers, there suddenly appeared before them a tall, burly, blue-coated guardian of the peace.



RESTING FOR ANOTHER PLUNGE.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, addressing one of them, "but I must ask you to remove that wrap. It is not allowable here for two people to be covered by the same shawl."

Jack sprang to his feet, madder than any hatter, and Margery's face grew as red as the sunset that only a few hours before had bathed the sand with its ruddy glow.

"What do you mean," demanded Jack, "Would you insult me?"

"Oh no-no-no," spluttered the policeman, "No insult intended—nothing of the kind, only it's our rule, you see, not to let two people be covered by the same shawl, and we can't break it even in your case."

And on he went.

Margery wasn't so mad as she was amused. But Jack was huffy all the way through.

And then he vowed vengeance, and it was such a pleasant sort of vengeance, that it is worth telling. He insisted upon kissing Margery then and there, and though she took the naughty boy home at once, by the shortest route which she knew, he kissed her at intervals of every ten steps all the way, declaring that he was doing it to try to spoil the reputation of Ocean Grove. He said he hoped every one in the place would see him do it, and that all the summer people would go away telling what fearfully immoral things took place at Ocean Grove, and how much worse it was than at Asbury.

Margery said she would have liked it well enough if they had been all alone, but to have Jack acting so in the street is fearfully embarrassing, and her only comfort was that the next day she expected to leave for Narragansett, and so she didn't care so very much what people did think. She also said that during the past three years, she and Jack had taken many a buggy ride, covered by the same lap robe, had driven in the same cutter covered by the same fur skin, and had sat upon the front seat of many a dear little road cart with the same lap robe carelessly tucked about them.

A BOQUET FOR REMEMBRANCE.

Composite pictures are the newest creations of art which are being achieved by the seashore girls. Making them is lots of fun, and if the result is not always entirely successful, let no one be blamed, because it is such lots of fun to get them up that one can pardon the possible uncertainties in outline which may result.

This mode of procedure: The young woman seats herself on a rock with a sketch-book in hand. With a far-away look in her eyes and a drawing pencil in her hand she makes a wavy line.

"That is the horizon," she says, "the place where the sky and sea seem to meet. A lovely place it must be to go on a trip, don't you know?"

"Yes, a lovely place—a charming place."

Then the young man who is seated just behind the fair young artist, takes the same pencil in his hand and makes a few lines with it. And then he speaks.

"And this you see, is a ship, and it is sailing toward that line where the sky and the sea seem to meet. How charming it would be if we were in that ship, you and I, and were sailing away on it—away off somewhere."

And then she—the young woman—makes a few tiny marks right upon the deck of the ship.

"This is a picture of you and me," she says, sailing upon that ship, and we are going away—away off somewhere—some place that we will both like—"

HOW THEY SKETCH.

And so the work of sketching goes on. Can any one be blamed if there are a few irregularities in the outline of a picture which is produced under such charming circumstances as this?

As the season, that is, the seashore season, begins to draw to a close, goodbye scenes and farewell greetings are becoming every-day affairs. As usual, flowers are the things for remembrance, and the seashore girl tries her very best to secure a few to give to those in whose memory she wishes to be cherished after the season and the flowers have become things of the past. Very few seashore places rejoice in flower gardens, and so a long walk must be taken back into the country, and then permission must be obtained from the farmer's wife to go into her little garden and pick a nosegay. Sweet peas are the passing fancy of the hour, and if the young woman can find these she may consider herself very fortunate for they keep a long, long time, and are so dainty that the young man to whom she gave them must think sweet thoughts of the girl as often as his eye falls upon the lapel of his coat. He may take off the coat, throw it down, wear a tennis blazer for an hour or two and forget that there is such a thing in the world as sweet peas and farewell words, and yet, when he goes back to that particular coat, even if it is twenty-four hours later, he will find those dear little blossoms still sweet, bright, pretty and fragrant. Long may the sweet peas bloom!

There is a naughty story told of a certain Bohemian girl who is somewhat on the order of a Bohemian bachelor. She had gone away for the summer, and for some reason that she could not really explain to herself, has permitted the attentions of a certain young dude in the neighborhood. In a little while she grew tired of him, and so she played a trick on him. She secured a certain brand of cigarettes which had in them just a touch of opium. Of course there was not enough opium in them to put any one to sleep nor yet enough to make one hilarious. But to anyone unaccustomed to an opium cigarette it was sure to have disagreeable results.

One afternoon this naughty, naughty girl took her dude young man out for a walk and offered him a cigarette. He gleefully accepted it, and all the afternoon long that wicked girl led him around the country walks and lanes dealing him opium cigarettes and even puffing at them herself when no one was looking. After he had smoked half a dozen, he began to get sick, and in a few moments he grew wretchedly, wretchedly sick, and then tenderly helping him back to the hotel she left him, hoping she had not tired him out with the long walk, and expressing the regret that she should have given him cigarettes too strong for him.

Being not altogether a Miss Nancy, he was terribly ashamed of his downfall and left that girl beautifully alone ever after.

There was another story, though of a different nature, which comes all the way from a place which shall be called Tar Barber. It is about an artist who was sent up by one of the leading New York papers to make sketches for a series of articles. Like all artists, he improved the passing hours, and ere he had been there more than thirty minutes had succeeded in catching the eye of several young women in the place. A few days later the artist was taking a walk with one of the newly found friends, when to his surprise and, perhaps chagrin, he saw coming for him in the most effusive manner, a New York woman who was well acquainted with him when he was at home.

CARRIE CARELESS.

Was Ist Los Mit Coogan.

Coogan, the New York Bowery furniture dealer who added piquancy to one mayoralty campaign by running on the labor ticket, paying enormously for the privilege of defeat, has dropped completely out of sight politically. He has let half his big store to another business, which prompts the inquiry whether the kind of advertising he got paid after all. Politics and business don't mix well.

A BRUTE AT WORK

Horrible Atrocity and Vandalism in a Village.

ANIMALS MADE TO SUFFER.

Their Eyes Left Hanging Out by the Miscreant.

A Raid on a Farmers' Property--All Goods on His Lawn Destroyed--Fences Torn Down and Chicken Coops Depopulated--The Cause of the Attrocious Acts a Mystery.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Aug. 31.—For some time past the residents of Springside, a suburban village, have been subjected to brutal atrocities and vandalism, and their most strenuous efforts to discover the identity of the perpetrators have been futile.

A few mornings ago J. Frank Antrim, a prominent farmer went to his stable and found blood dripping from the head of his favorite horse. He found that one eyelid had been almost severed and hung only by a tiny fibre. Dr. Fenimore sewed the severed flesh in place and the horse began to recover.

On going to the stable, as usual, yesterday morning, Mr. Antrim was astounded to find that the other eyelid of the injured horse had been cut in a manner precisely similar to the first. Dr. Fenimore sewed on the other eyelid.

This morning Mr. Antrim found the hammocks on his lawn cut into pieces and other evidence of vandalism that he is unable to account for. Antrim is a quiet, gentlemanly and good natured farmer and friendly with all, and the cause for the atrocious acts is to him and all others inapplicable.

George Rigg, Jr., another prominent farmer and a neighbor to Antrim, has suffered much from probably the same vandals. His fences have been torn down, trees destroyed and chicken coops depopulated. These are only two instances of the many that have occurred, and at present there is no apparent preventive.

ECUADOR TREATY.

Official Notice Received of a Proposition to Change Present Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The Department of State has received official notice from the Government of Ecuador of its intention to terminate the treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation, concluded with the United States on June 13th, 1839, and the treaty of naturalization, concluded May 6th, 1862.

In each treaty, however, there is a provison that it shall remain in force a year after the reception of the notice to terminate it, and consequently they have each a year to run.

The reason given by Ecuador for this action is her desire to conclude new treaties more in conformity with those which she has recently made with other powers.

The Venezuelan Treaty.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—It is stated on good authority that the reported rejection by the Government of Venezuela of the reciprocity treaty with the United States was a mistake. The treaty has not been rejected, but the Government of Venezuela sends it back, asking that certain modifications be made, for the reason that the concessions contemplated will decrease the national revenues at least 33 per cent., which is more than the government can afford. They are willing to concede about one-half the reduction asked for and the negotiations will be renewed.

Salt Works Damaged by Fire.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 31.—Early in the morning the Pennsylvania Salt Works, located at Natrona Station, on the West Pennsylvania Railroad, 25 miles from this city, caught fire and were badly damaged. The company is capitalized at $1,000,000. The works at Natrona are valued at $500,000, and contained over $100,100 worth of crude and finished stock. The loss will exceed $100,000. The insurance was placed by a Philadelphia agency and cannot now be ascertained. The company are the largest manufacturers of chemicals in the United States.

Pugilist Hall's Condition.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 31.—Pugilist Jim Hall of Australia is still confined to his bed in the Avery House here, as the result of a cutting received at the hands of "Parson" Charles Davies of Chicago, and could not be seen yesterday to secure a statement, which he had promised to make in connection with the affray. He is still very sick, and his physician was heard to express the opinion that the pugilist's condition was still critical. "The Parson" thinks that Hall will make no statement.

Big Blaze in Allentown.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 31.—Fire broke out at 1 o'clock in the basement of Odd Fellows' building, owned by Mrs. M. J. Kramer. Haire & Morrissey's dry goods store was damaged to the extent of $40,000; insurance, $46,000. Joseph Solomon's was damaged $1,000; insurance, $3,000. The loss on the building amounts to about $1,000; insured. The fire was caused by an overheated stove.

A German Syndicate at Work.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 31.—It was definitely learned yesterday that a German syndicate which is made up of several bankers, one or two members of the Reichstag, and at least two German noblemen have purchased a large body of land in Washington County, Alabama, and will establish an extensive colony.

Big Furnace to Resume Work.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 31.—The Cambria Iron Company has announced that its No. 2 furnace at Hollidaysburg wil not be again blown in. The furnace has been idle for some time.

ALL RIGHT AGAIN.

The Choctaw Railroad Settles With Its Creditors.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31. — The announcement is made that the creditors of the Choctaw Railway Company have reached an understanding and that the affairs of the company are now in a very satisfactory condition.

The Choctaw Company got into trouble some time ago and two receivers were appointed—Francis I. Cowan, representing the Philadelphia creditors, and Edwin D. Chadwick of Indian Territory, representing the creditors in that section. Mr. Chadwick was the active receiver, and his management of the property was not satisfactory to the Philadelphia creditors, who a short time ago began proceedings looking to his removal from office.

Mr. Chadwick's friends insisted that his management was in every way satisfactory and for the best interests of all the creditors, but the Philadelphia people insisted upon a change, and a few weeks ago they held a meeting, the result of which was the appointment of a committee of two with instructions to adjust, if possible, the affairs of the Company.

A dispatch has been received from Effingham Morris, president of the Girard Life Insurance, Annuity and Trust company, who is now in Indian Territory, stating that a satisfactory agreement between the contending parties has been made and that the Choctaw company will soon be restored to its former standing. It is learned that Mr. Chadwick's removal will not be insisted upon, but that the two receivers will hereafter work in harmony.

PROVED A FAILURE.

Letter Boxes on Street Cars Will be Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. — It is now likely that the Postoffice Department will abandon Postmaster-General Wanamaker's plan of putting letter boxes on street cars in the large cities. The plan was tried in several cities, and was opposed by the labor people and those who are running street cars on Sunday.

The labor people opposed the scheme because they thought it would reduce the number of letter carriers, and those opposed to Sunday railroad traffic made it an issue to prohibit the running of street cars, claiming that the charters of street railways give them the right to carry passengers only.

The matter has not been entirely abandoned by the Department, but in view of the opposition it has met with it is thought that it will soon be dropped.

QUIET AT CAPE MAY.

The President Very Fatigued After His Vermont Trip.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 31.—President Harrison spent a very quiet Sunday, as he was considerably fatigued after his Vermont trip. A big bundle of official mail, the accumulation of the past ten days, will be attended to at once.

The regular executive business of the President's office will be resumed and kept up till the middle of September, when, it is stated, it will be moved to Washington.

Alderman Ware has made an explanation of the Spanish Legation affair, which is satisfactory to all concerned.

Ex-Congressman Scott Rapidly Sinking.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 31.—Ex-Congressman William L. Scott is rapidly sinking. Dr. William Pepper, of Philadelphia, arsived at Erie, and after a consultation with other physicians, decided that it would be advisable to take Mr. Scott to Newport if his life was to be saved. He will be removed this afternoon in the private car of President Newell of the Lake Shore Railroad. For the past two weeks Mr. Scott has been growing steadily worse and seems to have given up all hope of recovery.

Died from Thirst.

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., Aug. 31.—The case of Orrin Talmadge and his wife, who were found in their house in Huntington township almost dead from thirst, is indeed a pitiable one. They had been seven days without food or water. Mrs. Talmadge is an invalid. The well ran dry and her husband was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism. The nearest water was half a mile distant and they were unable to move. No one knew of their condition and they could get no water. They were discovered only by accident. It is found that they cannot recover.

The Glovers Were Loaded.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 31.—When the passengers by the Guion steamer Alaska were searched last night a five-chambered revolver was found on Mrs. Glover, the possession of which she denied, and fifty rounds of ammunition were found on her husband. She was arrested and will be taken before a magistrate on Monday.

Queen Victoria is Careful.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Reports from the royal residence are to the effect that the many fatal railroad accidents of late have greatly increased the Queen's lifelong terror of railroads, and that during her intended tour to Scotland she will travel by relays of coaches, in the good old style; or that she may go by sea in a yacht to Glasgow.

INVADED A CONVENT

Midnight Assault of a Scoundrel on Nuns.

THEY SHRIEKED FOR HELP.

The Women Were Asleep When He Broke Into the House.

All the Sisters Attacked in Turn and Ruthlessly Insulted--Help Came After the Miscreant Escaped--The Police Unable to Obtain a Clew to the Marauder--Excitement Over the Affair.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—"Help! Help! save me!" screamed one of the sisters in the little convent building on Harrison place, Williamsburg, early this morning. The shrieks of the nineteen-year-old nun aroused the other five sisters and the Mother Superior, who, with eight orphans, were the occupants of the convent building.

At once all was confusion and terror. In the darkness no one could tell what the matter was, until the Mother Superior struck a match and lighted the hall gas, where by that time all the nuns had assembled.

Then it was seen that an intruder was attacking all the sisters in turn, smothering them with forced caresses. All shrieked and as fast as they could escaped from the clutches of the monster and ran down to the lower floor, where the eight little waifs slept.

The children added their screams to those of the affrightened nuns who had been so ruthlessly insulted, but the attacks of the brute did not cease, and he followed the seven women to the lower floor.

The Mother Superior flung open one of the windows looking toward the rectory occupied by Rev. Father John Fentgraf, the pastor of the parish, and shouted for help. There was no response, and the unprotected sisters were at the mercy of the insatiate fiend in human shape.

The Mother Superior was in despair, but catching up some missals threw them with all her strength at the fence which separated the lawn from the clergyman's house. In a few moments that seemed like hours, the Rev. Father Fentgraf appeared at the window of his bedroom on the second floor of the parochial residence. He got a revolver and fired a shot in the air, which in a few minutes afterwards brought to the scene many of the neighboring residents.

The miscreant meantime inside the convent had continued his attacks, but disappeared at the sound of the pistol as suddenly as he had come, and by the same means, by jumping through a kitchen window and scaling two fences at the back of the convent building, getting into Ingraham street, which has but few residences.

The man escaped, and although the police were at once notified, no clew so far has been obtained to the marauder.

The convent is a branch of the Convent of the Dominican Sisters, corner of Graham and Montrose avenues, and is attached to the Church of Our Mother of Sorrows, which stands directly on the corner of Morgan avenue and Harrison place. The convent is on Harrison place, and the rectory stands on Morgan avenue, the church intervening between the convent and the parochial residence.

STORM ON THE COAST.

The Surf Is Fifteen Feet High at Long Branch.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 31.—There is a severe northeast storm raging along the New Jersey coast. Much damage is being dong. The surf is running twelve and fifteen feet high. Several bad cuts have been made in the beach at Ocean Grove.

At Long Branch the bath houses of E. L. Reynolds are undermined and toppling over into the water; a large force of men are at work saving what they can of the bath houses. The fish house of William Vandyke, at the foot of North Bath avenue, Long Branch, is entirely undermined. The bluff is washed out about four feet.

The Yacht Club Disbands.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 31.—The Eastern Yacht Club Fleet disbanded to-day. They reached here after a splendid run from Camden. Cinderella, Sayonara and Gossoon, of the sloops, had a race on the way, the former winning. Sayonara second. Cinderella also won the $250 prize for the yacht having the least number of points scored against her during the cruise. Sayonara took second prize and Gossoon third. In schooners Volunteer won the first prize with three points, Mayflower second with seven and Oenone third with eleven.

Marries Her Uncle.

MERIDAN, Conn., Aug. 31.—Samuel Johnson of Swan avenue, asserts that a year ago his daughter Emma married her uncle, Henry Stanley. The parties have since been living together and one child was born, which has since died. The marriage is a crime against the Connecticut law.

JUDGE SCOFIELD DEAD.

As a Member of Congress He Took Part in Reconstruction Measures.

WARREN, Pa., Aug. 31.—Judge Glenni W. Scofield, who recently retired from the United States Court of Claims, died at his home here yesterday of heart disease. He had been in impaired health for several years. On Thursday a paralytic stroke affected his speech and right side. The funeral will take place on Tuesday.

Judge Scofield was born in Chautauqua County, N. Y., March 11, 1817. After graduation at Hamilton College in 1840, he removed to Pennsylvania, studied law and was admitted to the Bar in 1843. He was a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly in 1850–1851, and of the State Senate in 1857–1859, and in 1861 was appointed Presiding Judge of the Eighteenth Judicial District. He was then elected to Congress as a Republican and served from 1863 to 1875. He took an active part in the reconstruction measures and was chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs. On March 28, 1878, he was appointed Register of the Treasury and served until 1881, when he was appointed an Associate Justice of the United States Court of Claims.

CARLISLE EXPLAINS.

The Senator from Kentucky Tells About the Investigating Committee.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Senators Carlisle and Aldrich have been hearing testimony at the Hotel Vendome from leading manufacturers regarding the cost of producing the various commodities with which they are identified.

Senator Carlisle said to a reporter:

"There appears to be a belief that we are attempting to gather material simply to show what effect the McKinley bill has had to values and wages since it went into operation. Now this is entirely erroneous. Our work comprehends the whole range of tariff legislation both in this and foreign countries, and we go as far back in our researches as practicable, gathering all the facts that manufacture, transportation, wages, etc., comprehend and applying them to the final determination in a way that still shows to us what influence they have had in increasing the value of necessary commodities. We have had before us many eminent economists and have obtained an enormous amount of statistical matter that will have its proper place in our final report."

THE RUSH TO NEVADA.

Governor Colcord Says There is no Indication of a Rich Mineral Strike.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Governor Colcord, of Nevada, who is in this city, desires to warn the public against rushing into Nevada to work the Pine Nut mines. He says that while Senator Haines is undoubtedly honest in his opinion of the miue, he is not a practical miner and is too enthusiastic.

Governor Colcord says he has been over the Pine Nut region and saw no indication of rich mineral strikes. The claims at Pine Nut are all taken up, and it is useless for people to go there now. Governor Colcord will leave at once for Pine Nut, and after investigating will announce definitely whether or not the report of rich fines is correct.

An Accident Caused by a Cow.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 31.—An accident occurred to an excursion train on the Brierfield, Brocton and Birmingham branch of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad yesterday while returning from a barbacue at Motevallo by which Engineer Tom Acreas lost his life and Fireman Andrew Vest was badly injured. The engine struck a cow which was on the track and was thrown over on its side. One of the cars was also thrown from the track, but beyond a severe jolting the passengers escaped all injury.

Union Pacific Affairs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Charles H. Coster, of the firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co., says he knows nothing about a majority of the securities of the Union Pacific Railroad being placed in the hands of his firm. He further said that he knew nothing about the rumor that Jay Gould had relinquished control of the road and that Pierrepont Morgan was to be the leading spirit in the management.

Five Dwelling Houses Burned.

ELKTON, Md., Aug. 31.—Fire yesterday burned five dwelling houses and badly damaged two others. Loss $15,000; partially insured. The flames at one time threatened the business portion of the town and Wilmington, Del., was telegraphed to for aid. This was sent and the fire speedily controlled.

Charged With Murder.

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 31.—Michael Drut, who was arrested here Saturday, is thought surely to be the murderer of Thomas Dervin, who was murdered here Friday. Dervin was literally slashed to pieces. Drut is an Italian, 35 years, and when arrested had blood on his hands and a bloody knife in his pocket.

Senator Blackburn Recovering.

NEWCASTLE, Ky., Aug. 31.—Senator J. C. S. Blackburn, who suffered a stroke of paralysis at the house of friends here Friday night, has rallied, and is now able to sit up. His recovery will be rapid unless he has a relapse.

The Apology Accepted.

CAPE MAY, Aug. 31.—The apology tendered the Spanish Legation by Alderman Ware for having arrested one of the diplomatic corps has been accepted. The matter in dispute has been satisfactorily settled to all parties concerned.

Courtesies to Chilian Officials.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The Treasury Department has directed that the usual courtesies be extended to Jorie Asto Sarnago and Jorje Middleton, Secretaries of the Chilian Legation, expected shortly to arrive in the United States.

TROUBLE IN CHILI

Santiago's Streets Filled With Raging Mobs.

DWELLINGS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Over Two Million Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

Balmaceda's House the First Destroyed--The City Panic-Stricken--Business Suspended and the People Keep Close to Their Homes--The Police and Fire Departments Thoroughly Demoralized.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 31.—The Chanaral regiment of the Congressional army took formal possession of Santiago last night, and practically the last act in the bloody drama of revolution which has torn Chili to pieces for the past seven months is closed.

As soon as the news reached Santiago of the overwhelming defeat of the government troops on the heights of Placilla and the fall of Valparaiso, and the people knew that Balmaceda's power was gone, and they had nothing to fear from his wrath, their enmity to his government broke forth.

The cry was raised that the President should be killed, and a mob started for his house.

It grew in numbers and fury as it went through the streets, and by the time it reached the executive mansion was ripe for any bloody deed. Short shrift would have been allowed to the President had he been caught.

He knew that he would have little chance for his life if he remained at Santiago, and at the first receipt of the news of his overwhelming defeat he hid himself, and the bloodthirsty fury of the mob was balked.

Then the mob's desire for revenge found vent in the application of the torch. Soon Balmaceda's house was a mass of flames. Before it had been destroyed the mob marched off to the house of Senor Goday, the ex-Minister of the Interior, and an ardent Balmacedist, and set on fire his house.

Incendiaries at Work.

Then the residence of Balmaceda's mother; General Barbosa, who was killed at the battle of Placilla; Senors McKenna and Eastman, the government newspaper offices and the houses of several prominent officials were burned to the ground.

The city was panic stricken, business was suspended, and people, outside of the mob, kept close to their houses. The sky was lurid with the light from burning buildings.

The police, the fire department, and the army was demoralized and made not the semblance of an attempt to maintain order.

Balmaceda, when he heard of the fall of Valparaiso, sent for General Baquedano, commander of the government troops in Santiago, to meet him at three o'clock yesterday afternoon at Moneda. This Baquedano declined to do, but suggested that the meeting be held in the house of General Valasquez.

Decided to Surrender.

A council of war was held at Valasquez's house, at which President Balmaceda the generals and other leading Balmacedists were present. The situation was thoroughly canvassed, and it was decided that a further continuation of the struggle was hopeless and that the surrender of the capital was the only proper course.

Baquedano was given charge of the city and was authorized to arrange the terms of the surrender with the Congressionalists. Word was at once sent to General Canto that all the troops in Santiago had declared their adhesion to the Congressional party and that Santiago was at his disposal.

This despatch was supplemented today by a letter from Baquedano, which came by special train, and in care of a committee of leading citizens of Santiago.

Vanderbilt Will Pay.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—F. W. Vanderbilt will pay the 45 per cent. duty which amounts to $34,000, on his foreign built yacht Conqueror, under protest, and the case will be carried to the courts to make a test of the constitutionality of the law. As soon as the papers are made out and signed the custom inspectors now in possession of the yacht at Stapleton, L. I., will be withdrawn and the boat again become the property of Mr. Vanderbilt.

The general opinion of the most experienced customs officials of this port is hat the courts will sustain Mr. Vanderbilt.

To Meet in Joint Debate.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 31.—A special from Cincinnati says that Major McKinley and Governor Campbell are to meet in joint debate at Ada on some Saturday in September. Prof. H. S. Lehr, of the Northwestern Ohio Normal University, has been the chief mover in the matter, and has promises from both the leaders to meet on the same platform. Excursion trains will be run from all sections of the country about Ada. Twelve hundred students of the University will be part of the audience.

Military Affairs in France.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Captain Borrup, military attache of the United States Government here, has been assigned to represent America at the great military manœuvres on the eastern frontier of France this autumn. France mobilizes more than 150,000 men for these manœuvres, which the Germans will watch with jealous interest.

The Dispute Settled.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Both of the holy coats have been pronounced genuine. The Congregation of Rites has decided that the holy coat of Treves was the one worn by Christ at the crucifixion, while the holy coat of Argenteuil in France, belonged to the Saviour when he was a boy. Thus the dispute is settled, and now there are two holy coats.

SALVATIONISTS FAINTED.

Warriors Beaten by a Liverpool Mob and Their Barracks Wrecked.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A riot occurred during the day at Eastbourne, where a crowd assailed the Salvation Army contingent there. Despite threats of violence, the Salvationists had determined to parade as usual, and came to the meeting place from different directions, the members of the band bringing their instruments concealed in a sack.

They were waylaid by the roughs, however, and all the instruments were seized and smashed. They then gathered without music and started for headquarters, but were again attacked. By this time the police appeared and attempted to protect the paraders, but before the barracks were reached the crowd had grown too large. A free fight ensued. Hundreds of heads were broken, and some of the injuries by clubs and stones were serious.

The police rallied and drove the mob back, and escorted the Salvationists nearly to the barracks, when the attack was renewed, with the mob largely reenforced. The Army standards were captured and broken, and the uniforms of many of the men were torn to pieces. Many of the lasses fainted and had to be taken away on stretchers. Scores of persons were injured. The crowd finally broke into the barracks and wrecked everything. Later in the day the police drove the roughs out of the barracks and restored order.

THE CREW FRIGHTENED.

An Awful Wave Strikes the Etruria on the Way to New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Captain Haine of the steamship Etruria, reports meeting with an extraordinary wave off the Southern Banks. At 6:30 a. m. on Tuesday a dense fog came up and the engineer was signalled to slow up. Soon after entering the edge of the fog there came a terrible thud of a huge wave, striking the vessel on the forward part and straining every fiber in her.

The crew became terror stricken and it took fully an hour to quiet them. Fortunately all the passengers were asleep in their berths and a panic was thus averted. The force of the waves dashed a boatswain violently against the cathead and crushed his skull, causing death soon afterward.

Three other members of the crew were dangerously hurt.

When the wave struck the vessel the sea was calm and the temperature mild.

Captain Hains says in all his experience, extending over forty years, he never before encountered anything like it.

Financial Depression.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 31.—Financial depression is given as the cause of the failure of the firm of F. A. Steavens & Co., who have failed. No statement of assets and liabilities have yet been made.

The Factions Will Fight.

CENTRAL SQUARE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—The Second Oswego Assembly District will be well represented at the Democratic Convention at Saratoga, as two sets of delegates will present themselves for recognition as a result of the split Saturday. Both the Hill and Cleveland men selected delegates. Flower was endorsed for governor by both factions.

Two Sets of Delegates.

WEEDSPORT, N. Y., Aug. 31.—As the result of the split here two sets of delegates will go to the Democratic State Convention at Saratoga. At the convention two chairmen were elected, and in the endeavor of each to control the meeting a general row occurred. Several hot-headed delegates indulged in fisticuffs.

Picked Up at Sea.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The Treasury Department is in receipt of a letter from Captain Coulson of the Rush, stating that on July 11th he picked up a boat of the whaling bark Harrison containing the following persons: Mate Gardner, Boat-steerer Lopez, Seamen Thompson, Montero, George and Luiz. They were landed at St. Paul Island and secured employment with the North American Commercial Company. They had become separated from their vessel.

Fearful Railroad Accident.

CRESTON, Ia., Aug. 31.—A fearful accident happened on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy yards yesterday afternoon. Mrs. I. I. Langdate, of Creston, and Mrs. Lizzie Ludwick, a widow lady, of Freeport, Ill., attempted to cross the track as an engine was backing down and were run over. Mrs. Ludwick's head was severed from her body and Mrs. Langdate was literally cut to pieces.

Trial Trip of the Air Ship.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 31.—The report of the successful trial trip of Pennington's air-ship at the fair grounds proves to be unfounded. No trial trip of the air-ship was made, but it is probable that one will be made either to-day or Tuesday.

The Connell Murder Mystery.

ROANOKE, Va., Aug. 31.—Detective Baldwin, of the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company, believes that he will soon be able to unravel the mystery which has surrounded the recent murder of Mr. D. T. Connell in a Pullman sleeping car near Basic City. The detective says the case is progressing very satisfactorily.

Stakeholders Should Settle.

The Fanwood contingent which backed the Crescents against the Westfields, Saturday, have all received the amounts due them on wagers where the bets were verbal.

A certain militia man, however, placed his money in the hands of Fanwood's cucumber horticulturalist as stakeholder, and it has not yet been paid over. For the sake of the peputation of Quality Hill it is hoped that a settlement will be immediately made, and before the amount, which is understood to be large, is risked in the "Wheat Pit". It is hardly the province of a stakeholder to say that as he was not present at the game he has no absolute proof of its result.

LOOKS LIKE A MURDER.

WHO HID THE UNKNOWN BODY AT THE HOLLY FARM?

A Possible Clue to the Indentity of the Corpse Is Found in a Scrap of Paper Bearing the Names of Michael Hoffman and Francis Engel—Mr. Holly's Foul-Play Theory—People Who Are Missing—Progress of the Investigation by the Authorities.

The finding of a dead body in the waters of Spring Lake, at the Holly farm, which was recorded exclusively in these columns Saturday, has developed into what promises to be a highly sensational murder mystery. The farm on which the lake is situated is the country-seat of John I. Holly, president of the Commercial Alliance Insurance company of New York, and a prominent Standard Oil man. The fine old farm-house, roomy and hospitable, stands back from the public highway, in the midst of broad green acres. The veranda at the rear of the house looks down on a pretty little sheet of water, whose ripples lap the edge of the sloping lawn. A private driveway extends straight past the front of the house out to Park avenue, which it joins directly opposite the road house at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, familiarly known as Campbell's. This private driveway turns at the corner of the house and extends out through the middle of the lake to the public road that leads from South Plainfield to Rahway. The road crossing the lake is mainly built of an embankment of earth, but midway across there is a small wooden bridge.

About a week ago Mr. Holly's daughters were out rowing with a party of friends on the lake when they noticed a disagreeable odor in the neighborhood of the bridge. Supposing that the stench came from the carcass of a dog, they paid no further attention to it. Since then the weather has been very cloudy and rainy, and the lake has been unfrequented.

Saturday morning Mr. Holly stayed at home to put his boats in order for a day of pleasure on the water. A number of boys from Plainfield were fishing at the bridge. The fishing line of one of them floated under the bridge and got caught. He clambered down to release it.

"Oh, fellows,"—he said—"there's a pair of shoes in there."

One of the boys said: "Pull 'em out, and we'll use 'em as a floating target to peg stones at."

The next instant a very white faced lad scrambled up over the railing.

"Gee whiz!"—he panted—"there's a man's legs in 'em."

The boys peeped over, saw not only the legs but a man's entire body, ran from the spot in great affright, and breathlessly told Mr. Holly of what they had seen.

Mr. Holly took a boat and investigated. What he found hidden away in the shadow of the planks of the roadway was indeed a corpse. He immediately gave orders that the body should not be touched until the arrival of the proper authorities, and then he set off in seach of a coroner. During his absence, however, a number of people gathered at the bridge, and one of them, W. C. Kelly, pulled the corpse down stream about a foot. Later Edward Thorn pulled it out from under the bridge altogether, and it was left lying in full view in the deep water below the bridge.

To a PRESS reporter Saturday evening Mr. Holly said:

"I was greatly annoyed to find that my orders had been disobeyed and that the body had been moved. It was disagreeable enough to have the corpse so near the house without having it hauled out into broad view. It ought to have lain where it was till the coming of the proper official. I wanted the coroner to see it just as it lay there.

"The position of the body was very peculiar, and, to my mind, significant. It lay face downwards, with its feet pointed down stream, and its head bent down into the water as if pulled under by a heavy weight. The corpse was well up under the bridge. The distance from the feet to the edge of the flooring was about thirty inches. It was perfectly concealed and the indications all pointed strongly to the theory that the dead man had been the victim of foul play—that he was murdered and his body then hidden there.

"It looked to me as though some one thoroughly familiar with the place and with my habits had put the body there. The place of concealment was excellently chosen. The bridge is too low for boats to pass under, and the water underneath is so choked up with moss and roots of trees that serpents have made it an abiding place, and it is shunned and avoided as a 'snake hole' by parties on the water. Detection from above of the presence of the body—save by smell—was also unlikely, for the planks fit tightly together, and all underneath is darkness. The beams of the bridge are but a few inches above the water, and unless one was searching for something of the kind he would be a long time discovering a corpse stowed away under there.

"Every surmise that can be made when followed up only adds strength to the theory of foul play. Suppose the man to have jumped with suicidal intent into the water, and drowned. The lake is fed by springs at the end nearest Park avenue, and flows over a dam at the end toward South Plainfield, so what current there is is towards the dam. The current, therefore, could never have carried him up from the lower half of the sheet; and had he been drowned in the upper half he would have floated, like all dead bodies, head first. But he was found head up stream. Again, the current alone could never have hidden him entirely from view under the bridge. The weeping willows which bend their boughs from the roadside down into the lake have choked the passage up with their roots. I tried to clear the roots out last spring, and found the growth such a tangled mass that I am sure a hardy swimmer would have hard work to push his way into them out of sight. So if the man either committed suicide or accidently fell into the water the body would never have concealed itself so effectually.

"Another significant thing is the absence of the man's hat. None has been found, though careful search for one has been made all over. The body could not have been carried in under the bridge by the rise of water due to rains, as the height of the water in the lake never varies half an inch."

Mr. Holly's efforts to get a coroner were fruitless, though he telegraphed repeatedly, and did a great deal of riding on horseback, in search of one. As was stated in these columns Saturday, the place where the body was found is in Middlesex county, so the Plainfield authorities had no jurisdiction. Messages to Metuchen and New Brunswick at first brought no response, but at length it was learned that the coroner of the district was away on a vacation, up in New York State. The body as covered over with an old piece of bagging and tied to a stake out in the lake, and left there over night.

Yesterday, in spite of the damp drizzling atmosphere, knots of country people actuated by morbid curiosity gathered at the bridge and gazed at the body and speculated on the mystery of the man's death, and developed all sorts of theories. After much searching, a public official was found competent under the law to take charge of the case, in the person of Theodore A. Wood, justice of the peace, of Metuchen. Under his direction the body was rolled over upon a rude sort of raft and was towed by Percy Ohl, Edward Thorn, and W. C. Kelly, down the lake to beyond the ice house, near the dam. There it was hauled ashore, and there, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, twenty-eight hours after the finding of the body, the examination was begun.

The flesh of the corpse was greatly decomposed, and had disappeared entirely from the head and hands. The body was evidently that of a solidly-built, middle-aged man. It had been very neatly clad.

The coat was a black cutaway. The vest and trousers were of similar material, but the trousers were blueish in color. The shoes were congress gaiters. The foot was small. The shirt was of white linen. The undershirt and drawers were of light summer weight. The suspenders had a dull red ornamentation something like a letter S above the buckles. The collar was of the turn-down kind. The necktie was a ready-made one, to imitate a four-in-hand, and was black.

In the pockets were found a pipe with a briar-wood bowl, a paper of tobacco, a watch, chain and locket charm, some money, handkerchiefs, and two scraps of paper. The chain was not passed through a button-hole, but watch, chain and charm were all tucked away together in a vest pocket. The chain was gold-plated. The watch was of the open-face variety, made by Tobias of Liverpool, with a fancy back. It was full of water, and had stopped at 10 o'clock. The number inside the case was 142574. It had four jewels. The watch key was missing. The handkerchiefs were: A hem-stitched linen one, a colored silk one, mostly red, and a red bandanna. The money was scattered around in the different pockets, and the total amount was $18.85. The eighty-five cents in small coins. There was a $5 gold piece, and $13 in bills. The two scraps of paper were in a vest pocket together. One was a fragment of manilla wrapping paper bearing the printed name of Edward Ridley & Son, New York. The other contained these words: "Michael Hoffman worked for Francis Engel six years. Behavior very good." All the bystanders agreed on having no knowledge of either of the two men mentioned.

Mahlon Soper, constable, from Metuchen, consulted among the men crowding around the body and at last succeeded in getting twelve who had no objection to serve on the coroner's jury to hold an inquest over the corpse. He impaneled the jury as follows: David L. Randolph, Charles Brower, Percy Ohl, John Teeple, Bethune Dunham, Lebbeus Ayres, Chas. Compton, Robert Kyle, Manley Giles, John Munson, James Sears, Cornelius Teeple.

The jurymen viewed the body, and searched for marks of violence. It was thought that a bullet hole had been found in the base of the skull, but Dr. F. C. Herbert, a veterinary surgeon who has given considerable study to the anatomy of the human frame, and who has gained familiarity with such matters in the dissecting and lecture rooms of the Bellevue Hospital and the New York Medical University, examined the supposed wound, and decided it to be a natural depression in the bone. Percy Ohl braved the horrible stench of the corpse and the horrid grin of the ghastly skull and bent down over the mass of decaying flesh and ripped open the clothing to examine the chest. The flesh was greatly discolored, and there seemed to be a terrible bruise just above the heart, but Dr. Herbert said that the action of the water and the pressure of the clothing on the swelling body might have caused all that. There were stains of a dull red color on the shirt front, but the nature of the stains was not determined.

A more minute examination was postponed until Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the jury will begin their inquest, meeting for convenience at Campbell's club-house. The body was conveyed to an outhouse near there by an undertaker, and the articles from the dead man's pockets were taken charge of by the acting coroner, justice Wood.

As a part of the inquest there will probably be a post mortem examination by competent medical men, to determine, by the presence or absence of water in the air cells of the lungs, whether the man met his death by drowning or was placed in the water after death. Careful examination will also be made for marks indicating foul play. The age of the man will also be determined with some exactness; and the color of his hair may be decided on, if there be found a stray lock of it on the shreds of scalp at the base of the skull that have escaped the fishes' teeth. The dead man's head was quite large and round. His lower jaw projected forward prominently. His teeth were in two even rows, and though coarse were very sound. Not one was missing, though the water had loosened them and made them ready to drop out. The finger bones barely hung together. Even the strong ligaments of the joints had been considerably decayed. The body must have been in the water about four weeks.

Since the finding of the body a crop of missing persons has sprung up. Some of the people of the neighborhood think that the corpse may be that of James Hampshire, a blacksmith by trade, who worked on the big coal storage plant at South Plainfield, and who disappeared, after being paid off, two weeks ago. Hampshire, however, is believed to have gone to Pennsylvania to join his wife and children. J. Bergen, of Brooklyn, a summer boarder at George Smith's house, South Plainfield, says that a week ago Wednesday a stranger who walked as though he had the rheumatism stopped and asked him for something to do. Bergen told him he could get work with some of the farmers, but he said he was n't able to do farming labor. When Bergen last saw the stranger he was headed towards the Holly place. The dead man looked as though it might be the same. The stranger had been of about the same build, and the clothing was similar.

Aaron Wellberg, of No. 457 Grove street, went to superintendent Smith, of the Jersey City police, last evening, and said he believed that the body found drowned at Plainfield was that of Jacob Lipsker, his son-in-law, who was a jeweler at No. 44½ Maiden lane, New York city, and lived at No. 515 Eighth street. Lipsker left home Friday, August 21, and has not returned or written to his wife. He had $2,500 worth of jewelry with him.

He was the man whose partners, D. Munk and M. Crohn, advertised last Wednesday, notifying all persons not to give him credit, and saying he had misappropriated several thousand dollars belonging to the firm.

The identity of the dead man, however, is still a mystery, and how and why he met his death are matters yet to be solved. The indications are that a deep and dark secret remains to be revealed. If the man was murdered, as seems most likely, what was the motive, and who did the deed? Whether or not the scrap of paper bearing the names of Michael Hoffman and Francis Engel will help to enlighten the matter remains to be seen. The presence of money in the pockets may indicate much or little. If robbery was the motive of the greater crime, the dead man must have had much more than $19 on his person. But there are often many reasons why it is found desirable to put a man out of the way. Robbery of the person is only one of them—and oftentimes the least. It is believed that money has been left on the person to divert suspicion and make the death seem suicidal or accidental. The place where the body was found is a lonesome one, and on a dark night the body could have been conveyed to the bridge without fear of detection.

Those who have not a clear idea as to just where Spring Lake is will perhaps recognize the locality on being informed that it is the sheet of water formerly known as the ice-pond of ex councilman John Ross.

It may be said of the scrap of paper purporting to be a recommendation of Michael Hoffman that the handwriting seemed to be very hastily executed on a scrap torn from the end of a sheet of common white paper. The paper was not frayed at the edges, nor worn at the creases, and seemed to have been very hastily rolled up and thrust into the vest pocket, just as the watch, chain and locket were thrust into another. If it was really a recommendation for the dead man it was a very queerly written one, and was carried in a careless manner, far different from the way that recommendations are usually preserved. The dead man's clothes fitted him very well. There was every evidence that he was in comfortable circumstances, and that he cared well for the appearance of his dress. His shoes were but little worn. There was no knife, or pocket-book—articles ordinarily found in a man's clothes—in his pockets. The money, like the written scrap of paper, had a suspicious air of newness about it. The bones of the front of the face seemed to have been crushed in, as though by a heavy blow across the bridge of the nose. Today the lake is being dragged for further evidence in the neighborhood of the bridge, and the county physician is making an examination. A number of parties are still seeking to identify the corpse.

Juryman Cornelius Teeple has laid the body out in a box on the fair grounds, and justice Wood issued a burial permit, which he gave to constable Soper, to have the body buried. It came very nearly being interred this morning, but some of the jurors very sensibly protested, and insisted on having an autopsy performed before burial. Such an examination will be made probably to-morrow.

—The 3d of September will be a great day at Veghte's Grove, near Somerville, where there will be held the first reunion of the 30th Reg't, N. J. Vols. A mammoth clam-bake will be one of the features of the occasion. The 30th's Commander, Col. J. TenEyck, is sparing no pains to make this reunion a most enjoyable one.

OUR "Y. S. F".

BLACK Hosiery is undoubtably the best and cheapest sold anywhere. They wear better and keep their color longer than any other. This is the experience of many ladies who have tried all the different makes. If you will give them one trial you will surely be convinced that every word of the above is true.

OUR 25c grade is as good as those sold for 30c elsewhere. And all the other grades are likewise as cheap

IF you are not using them it will pay you to look into the matter.

We Struck a Bargain

And we are going to give you the benefit of it. We bought 240 pairs of Ladies' Hand-turned Kid Shoes, in all sizes and widths, from AA to D., that were made to sell at $4, and a very cheap shoe at that price. We also bought 120 pairs of Ladies' Hand-Sewed Oxford Ties that were made to sell at $3. We will put the shoes on sale to-day at $2.75, and the Oxford Ties at $2.00.

The above goods were made for Corkery & Co., Springfield, Ohio, and through some misunderstanding they did not take them; and as we deal quite largely with this house, they wrote us what we could have the whole lot for, and we jumped at the chance; and when you see the shoe you will do the same. Come and look at it.

A GOOD SOUND DRUBBING.

That's What the Plainfield Crescents Gave to Westfield's Base-ball Team.

The base-ball nine of the Plainfield Crescent League gave the players of the Westfield Athletic Club, Saturday, just exactly the good sound drubbing that might have been expected. The Westfield team were very plucky, and played hard to win, but the Crescents toyed with them as though they were pigmies and defeated them by the score of 9 to 3. Seven of Plainfield's runs were earned, but all of Westfield's were presented to them.

The Crescents batted Hammill of the Westfields all over the lot, getting 13 hits off him, for a total of 17 bases. Then, in the middle of the sixth inning, the Westfield manager took him out of the box. That action on the part of the manager was greatly criticised. It was, by far too late in the game to save Westfield from defeat, and there was no necessity for disgracing Hammill before that big crowd of spectators. It wasn't Hammill's fault that he was being batted so freely. The Crescents were treating him just as they had treated the invincible John Harkins the week before. Hammill was doing his best. But then the manager had at least $145 wagered on the game—so they say—and he had to vent on some one his anger over his loss.

Diven, who had been playing first base, was put in Hammill's place, McManus was brought in from right field and put at first, and Mullen was taken from the bench to cover right field. Diven succeeded in getting McIndoe called out on strikes, which retired the side. One of the strikes—the second—was also called a dead ball, but in reality it was a passed ball, and Tiernay ran in and touched the plate. The umpire sent him back to third, where he was left, on the dead-ball claim. So in reality the Crescents were robbed of a run in that inning, since the pitched ball could not have been both dead and a strike, and since it was a strike it was a passed ball.

As THE PRESS has repeatedly said, when the Crescents make errors they are costly ones. All three of Westfield's runs were let in on errors. The nine ought to have been shut out without a single run. One of Keeler's errors spoiled a fine chance for a double play.

At the bat Keeler made another great record of five single hits and a two bagger—a hit for every time he went to the bat. Hammill did n't get a single strike on him. Despite his two errors, he did excellent work at shortstop, and made some very difficult stops.

McIndoe made one of his great holiday hits at just the right time. He had a new bat—an "Irish" one, with a ring of green paint at the end. He picked out the third ball pitched, and sent it sailing far away over the fence. It was lost to sight in the clouds, and probably fell, if it is n't still sailing through the air, somewhere near South Amboy. Tiernay and Keeler were on the bases ahead of McIndoe, on hits of their own, so all three of these runs were earned. The Crescents earned four others by just such strong and steady batting all through the game.

Seven of the hits that were made were executed with the old war-time bat that has been Lufbery's pet so long. The stick was brought over by Lufbery in the Mayflower, and was a most disreputable looking thing. It was flat enough on one side to steer a canal boat with. The seventh hit, made by Lufbery himself, shattered it. If anyone else had broken that bat, Lufbery must have slaughtered him.

After the game the ridiculous story was circulated that a syndicate of Plainfielders who had bet heavily had been trying all the week to buy Westfield's Hammill, and that he had agreed to sell out the game for $300. The bare idea is nonsensical. There was never any necessity of buying anybody on the whole Westfield team. There was never any likelihood that Plainfield would lose the game. Hammill of Westfield could n't win. He tried with all his might.

One especially pretty exhibition of good judgment was made by Plainfield's Hammill. A runner was on second, and one on third. A ball was batted to Hammill. He turned as though to throw it to first. The man on third started for home on the feint, and Hammill wheeled about in time to throw him out.

Diven's pitching in the seventh and eighth innings was far inferior to what the discarded Hammill had done. He gave four men their base on balls—three of them in succession—made a wild pitch, and was batted for two safe hits. He was assisted by the umpire in being responsible for two of the Crescents' five strike-outs.

Before the game, posters were conspicuous everywhere in the village, saying that this was to be a "meeting of the bitter rivals in our exciting and desperate struggle for the championship of the State". It was indeed a struggle for Westfield—a great struggle, and an utterly vain one.

The poster went on to say:

"This is the game for which every base-ball enthusiast in this region has eagerly waited. Former games and scores are forgotten, and the merits of these two teams are constantly discussed. Plainfield won the game at Plainfield by the close score of 7 to 5. Was that game won by sheer luck in hitting, or is the Plainfield team superior to the Westfield. You can see these two teams playing the 'game of their lives', and decide all these questions for yourself, at Drake Park, Saturday. You should come very early in order to secure a seat."

Well, the people went early. Some of them secured seats, and some did n't. But they all "saw for themselves" that the reason of Plainfield's victories was not "sheer luck", but instead superior playing.

The score:

A GREAT RECORD.

The Bicycle Club Adds Another to Its List of Base-ball Victories.

The base-ball team of the Plainfield Bicycle Club had as their opponents, Saturday afternoon, on the Park avenue grounds, the Alerts of the Pond Machine Tool Works.

The game opened with the Alerts at the bat, and by loose fielding on the part of the Bicycle Club they took the lead by scoring 3 runs, only to lose the lead in the last half of the inning. Singles by Tilney and W. Murray and a three-base hit by R. Murray, assisted by two bases on balls, yielded 5 runs for the Bicycle Club.

The Bicycle Club did some hard hitting in the second inning, scoring 5 more runs.

Both teams did good fielding in the third inning, neither side scoring.

The Alerts again failed to score in the fourth, and weak fielding on their part gave the Bicycle Club 1 more run.

In the fifth inning both clubs scored 2 runs on good base running.

In the sixth inning the Alerts could not get on to Lowrie's curves. The 3 men to the bat fanned the air for 3 strikes. Dudley's failing to connect with R. Murray's long fly, and Sheppard's and Lowrie's singles, gave the Bicycle Club two more runs.

In the seventh inning the Bicycle Club got rattled and let in 4 unearned runs and were only saved from being shut out by Dawe, who made a single hit, stole second and third, and scored on a passed ball.

The Alerts' clever base running in the eighth gave them 3 runs, and by sharp fielding and good throwing by Ellis they shut the Bicycle Club out.

The Bicycle Club made short work of the ninth inning, throwing all three of the Alerts out at first base and winning the game by the score of 16 to 12. For the Bicycle Club the best work was done by Dawe, Lowrie, McMurray and Tilney. For the Alerts, Walker, Ellis and Taylor did the best work.

The teams were made up as follows:

Bicycle Club—Dawe, catcher; Lowrie, pitcher; McMurray, first base; Tilney, second base; R. Murray, third base; Major, shortstop; Gilbert, left field; Sheppard, centre field; W. Murray, right field.

Alerts—Ellis, catcher; Walker, pitcher; Taylor, first base; Kiernan, second base; Pierson, third base; O'Neil, shortstop; Young, left field; Burk, centre field; Dudley, right field.

I HAD catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm, and from the first application I was relieved. The sense of smell, which had been lost, was restored after using one bottle. I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for catarrh, and it has effected a cure in my case.—H. L. Meyer, Waverly, N. Y.

THE proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a remedy for catarrh, colds in the head and hay fever. It is not a liquid or a snuff, is easily applied into the nostrils. It gives relief at once. 50c. [illegible]

A MAN WHO'LL SUCCEED HIMSELF

No One Would Stand Against Alexander Gilbert, Should He Run Again.

Plainfield people have discovered that in their Mayor, Alexander Gilbert, the city has probably its most gifted orator. On several occasions recently he has been called upon to make addresses, and they seem more like the productions of a scholar and orator than of a business man. And yet Mayor Gilbert has heretofore gained his reputation as a business man among business men. For twenty-eight years he has been cashier of the Fulton and Market National Bank, New York. He entered the institution as a mere lad. He sat at its chief money counter when only twenty-four years old, and there he has sat ever since, in spite of several most tempting offers to take the presidential chair in other banking houses.

Notwithstanding his close association with business men, Mr. Gilbert has preserved his interest in every sort of enterprise that makes the life of a city man in the country worth living. He was made Mayor last fall. In his public documents he has shown the keenest grasp of things. Although a popular man when elected, he has steadily grown in popular favor, until to day it is doubtful if there is anyone courageous enough to stand against him, should he be willing to accept another term; and it is not altogether out of the question that the Plainfield Republicans may insist upon his taking some higher office in the gift of the people.—New York World.

Trotting at the Park.

The track at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday, was very heavy, and good time could not be made. Three races, however, were held, resulting as follows:

First race—Brower's "Reputation" won both heats, the first in 2:42½, the second in 2:45. Osborne's "Atone" and Hayes's "Andy" were second and third respectively, in both heats.

Second race—First heat won by Brower's "Shamrock", 2:34½. Second heat won by Morris's "Lammermoor", in 2:34½.

Third race, to road wagon, driven by owner—Johnson's "Colonel" won both heats. Time—3:02½ and 3:05½. Robbins's "Doctor" was second in both cases.

Mr. Waring trotted "Copeland" a half in 1:18½.

A Chance for Clever Detective Work.

(From The New York World.)

New Jersey detectives have had to invent most of their own mysteries lately, but yesterday furnished raw material for work for a number of them. The case in Plainfield of the body of a young, good-looking and well-dressed man found in a pond with the head wedged in between rocks seems to contain a chance for considerable clever investigation. The coroner will naturally call it suicide, because that's the easiest way out of it, but it is somewhat unusual for a suicide, after he has drowned himself, to take his own head and jam it in between rocks in the bottom of the pond.

—The public schools will be re-opened Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

A MOTHER'S SONG.

A mother sat rocking her little babe,
"Bye, little baby, bye."
And this is the song she sang as she rocked:
"Hush, little dear, don't cry.
Father has gone to market-town,
To buy the baby a velvet gown.
Brother has gone to fish in the brook
To catch a fish with his little hook,
Sister will fry it for baby to eat,
Never was fish one-half so sweet.
Bye, little baby, bye.

"Bye, little baby, bye.
Angels are watching my baby dear,
Their fluttering wings are hovering near,
They bring him dreams of Heaven above,
They whisper to him of mother's love.
Bye little baby, bye.

"Bye, little baby, bye.
Sleep, sweetly sleep, on mother's breast,
In mother's arms you dream and rest,
Sleep, little baby, sleep.
The waxen eyelids flutter down,
Baby is off to dreamland town,
Bye, baby, bye.

"Bye, darling, bye.
Baby has gone to the land of Nod,
Where everything is queer and odd,
Where cherries bob on twigs of gold,
And little children ne'er grow old;
Where pansies turn into butterflies,
And out of the hearts of the flowers rise
Beautiful fairies we never see,
And the reason of this must surely be
That we never visit the land of Nod
Where everything grows so strange and odd
Or we would see these funny sights
That baby sees with his eyes shut tight.
By, baby, bye."

—May Phillips Tatro, in Western Rural.

HER PRACTICAL JOKE.

Anna Sophia's Way of Getting Even With Miss Tyrell.

I WISH mother would not have Keziah Briggs here every Monday and Tuesday to wash and iron. I know we could find some one else who would do just as well.

Mother says Keziah suits her exactly, and she is attached to her; but how anyone can be attached to Keziah, I don't see. She is always giving her opinion on matters that don't concern her at all; and never makes excuses for anyone.

Yesterday, in church, when the minister spoke of the fresh air society, and asked for the names of those willing to take charge of one or more children for a fortnight, Keziah looked across at me and smiled.

The reason she did so was because of what happened last summer. I believe she has told everbody in town about it, though she declared she hasn't.

Lulu Fenwick looked at me, too, and I hated her for it; but I tried to seem unconcerned. But, when old Miss Tyrell turned square around in her pew and stared me in the face, I couldn't help coloring a little.

I heard ever so long ago that she said I was a very forward little girl, and she wished she could have charge of me for a few weeks; and that was the reason I tried to get even with her last summer.

It was the last Sunday in June a year ago that Mr. Patten spoke just before the sermon about the fresh air society.

He said there were many pleasant and comfortable homes in Bondville, where the little children who needed fresh air and good food so much could be taken care of without great inconvenience; and he asked that all those who were willing to assume charge of one or more children should send in their names to him on Monday, that he might know how many children he could send for.

Miss Tyrell wasn't at church that day, and, as I walked home, it popped into my head that here was my chance to get even with her at last.

I had heard she fairly hated children, and she lives all alone in a big white house at the end of Pine street, and hardly ever has even the minister and his wife to tea. People say she is very rich, but she never spends any more than she can help.

Well, on Monday, I took a sheet of notepaper, and wrote on it, in my best hand: "Will take three of the youngest," and signed it with Miss Tyrell's name in full. Then I put it in an envelope, directed it to Mr. Patten, and the next time I had to go to the store I stopped at his house and dropped the note in the letter-box on his front door.

I couldn't help laughing all the way to the store and back, thinking of how horrified Miss Tyrell would be when,

I WROTE IN MY BEST HAND.

on Thursday, three of those fresh air children were sent out to her. But she would have to take them; she wouldn't be able to get out of it then.

I thought it a very good joke, and I think so still, but it didn't turn out just as I expected. Things seldom do in this world.

On Wednesday, when I was out in the front yard with mother and the baby and Lulu Fenwick, Mr. Patten stopped at the gate and began to talk with mother about the children who were to come the next day.

"I am very glad Miss Tyrell is to take three," he said. "She has a large house and plenty of room for them. That old orchard will be a delightful place for the little ones to play in."

"I am surprised, however, that Miss Tyrell sent her name," said mother, "for I know she doesn't like children."

"I was surprised, also," said Mr. Patten. "I saw your little girl drop the letter in my box, and I went out at once to get it, thinking it was from you. I was pleased and astonished to see it was from Miss Tyrell."

I asked Lulu if she didn't want a drink, and we went around to the well, and I kept out of mother's way until bedtime. I was afraid she would ask me how Miss Tyrell happened to give me that note. But the baby choked himself on a button about eight o'clock, and mother was so upset about him that she forgot all about what the minister had said. She told me so afterward.

I went down to the station the next day to see the children come in. Everybody was there—except Miss Tyrell.

I was wondering who would take the children out there, and wishing I could see Miss Tyrell's face, when Mr. Patten called to me.

"Anna Sophia," he said, "Miss Tyrell isn't here. Can't you take these three little ones out to her house?"

Of course I had to say I would with pleasure.

They were a boy and two girls. The boy was six years old and the girls four and five. They were forlorn, pale little creatures, but looked clean, and were neatly dressed.

I went off with them, and all the way along Pine street I was wondering what Miss Tyrell would say.

I intended to tell her that the minister had sent them. I felt sure she would think she must keep them, no matter how vexed she was, and I knew she'd have her hands full for the next two weeks.

But when we reached the house I saw it was closed. Every shutter was pulled to, and nothing was stirring about the place. I went up the path, however, and was pulling the bell, when old lame Peter came along. He takes care of Miss Tyrell's cow and hens.

"Miss Tyrell's gone away visiting," he said. "She won't be back for two or three weeks. There isn't any use jerking that bell."

I was so dismayed that I sat right down on the doorstep.

What could I do with those children?

I wished now that I had never thought of getting even with Miss Tyrell. I was sorry enough that I had written that note.

I started back toward the station with them, wondering what I was going to tell Mr. Patten.

I couldn't say anything except that Miss Tyrell had gone away, unless I told him that I had written that note; and I felt as if I couldn't do that.

I SAW KEZIAH BRIGGS.

All of a sudden, I heard some one say:

"Well, what under the canopy is Anna Sophia doing now?"

And looking up I saw Keziah Briggs; and just behind her was my mother.

Well, everybody knows what mothers are. In three minutes my mother knew all about the note I had written and what trouble I had got myself into by it.

She stood staring at me a minute and then said there was nothing for me to do but to take the children home and take care of them myself. She said it would be a lesson to me to let practical jokes alone.

What an awful two weeks I spent! Mother did not help me with the children at all. I had to do everything. The two little girls slept with me and kicked me all night long, and the boy dug up all my pansies and lilies of the valley, broke my garden rake and let my mocking bird out of the cage.

Not once did I go outside our yard during those two weeks. I had to stay with those children all the time; and often when I was out under the cherry tree in the back yard with them I would hear Keziah chuckling to herself.

The children were fat and hearty by the time they had to go back to the city, but I felt worn out. The day they went away I actually cried, I was so glad.

The worst of it was that mother had to explain the matter to Mr. Patten. She said it wouldn't do to let him think Miss Tyrell had written that note and then run off in a fit of repentance.

And he came to see me and talked to me a long time, and I cried again; this time because I was sorry.

And that was the reason Miss Tyrell stared at me yesterday and Keziah Briggs pursed up her lips. If Keziah ever wants to provoke me all she has to do is to ask me what I think of the fresh air society.—Florence B. Hallowell, in Golden Days.

A Conductor's Poser.

A Chinaman boarded a Market street car one day and handed the conductor a five-cent piece. That official rang up a fare on the register and while making change for another passenger put the Chinaman's nickel in his mouth. In going around the curve by the public buildings the car gave a lurch and the conductor swallowed the coin. The fact of what the result might be to his digestion didn't seem to trouble him so much as being short in his cash. His first move was to put the Celestial off the car but the fare had already been registered and he spent the remainder of the trip in trying to figure whether he was five cents out or five cents in, or both.—Philadelphia Record.
